Foundation Day

Samuel Fallows, who in appearance, as well as in thought, word, and deed belongs to the present rather than to the past, graduated before the Civil War, in which he served as a chaplain. It was a great opportunity for students to get first hand history of our institution from a man who has been in close touch with the University of Wisconsin for more than sixty years. The special convocation held to commemorate Foundation Day was attended by over 2,000 students. The students were so impressed with the first celebration of this event that they expressed hopes of making Foundation Day an annual function. Credit for the inauguration of the event is due Harold Groves, president of the senior class, Lulu Saul, '19, and M. C. Bormann, '21. The Dean of Men and the chairman of the Committee on Public Functions gave their powerful influence and assistance to this inauguration of the custom of celebrating Foundation Day on or about the first Monday of February.

"The University began instruction in February, 1849. It bore the name of a University, but had in operation only a preparatory school of twenty pupils, under the tuition of John W. Sterling, a graduate of Princeton, who bore the title of Professor of Mathematics. Professor Sterling gave a life of sacrificial devotion to the institution as it added to its academy a little college, and as the little college carried on its struggling and painful life. He was happy enough to live until the University began to assume proportions worthy of its ambitious name. The chancellor, John H. Lathrop, a graduate of Yale, called from the presidency of the University of Missouri, entered upon his duties in the autumn of 1849."

Many alumni clubs have been observing Foundation Day for the past three years. This year President Birge met with members of the twin-city clubs at St. Paul and with members of the La Crosse Club and neighboring communities at La Crosse. Professor J. H. Mathews, who has returned to the University after serving as a Major in overseas service, delivered an instructive talk on gas warfare before the U. W. Club of Chicago. Professor Hugh A. Smith told the Chicago alumnae about the French House. Under the department of the MAGAZINE given to Local Clubs will be found such write-ups as have been furnished by local club secretaries.

The custom of celebrating the University's birthday should now become a permanent function both at the University and among University of Wisconsin local organizations.

The Class of Ninety-Seven under the presidency of Judge Evan A. Evans is making an experiment this year which will be watched with interest by other alumni groups. A letter and brief questionnaire have been recently sent out to all members and ex-members whose addresses were on record in the hope of obtaining brief biographies and up-to-date information as to occupation, address, etc. If a sufficient number respond a class directory is to be published by June for distribution at commencement time. It is particularly hoped that by this means interest in the twenty-fifth reunion may be stimulated. One alumnus, Kenneth J. Urquhart of Medford, has already declared in a letter to the class secretary that "If I am on earth in 1922 I will be on hand if I have to walk the entire distance." Class directories have been frequently compiled in other colleges but Ninety-Seven's attempt is the first at Wisconsin.* Since their twenty-fifth reunion is still three years ahead the class should be able to organize a record breaker.—Contributed.

The University editor has been authorized to publish a directory of graduates of the University including all members of the General Alumni Association. This directory will be sold by the University. Arrangements enabling the Alumni Association to supply its members at a greatly reduced price have been made. Up-to-date information regarding addresses and occupations is desired.

Honor to Wisconsin men like Carl Beck who succeeded in recording that powerful force known as Wisconsin spirit in the stirring words of "On Wisconsin." Honor to men like Wm. Purdy who was able to record Wisconsin's spirit in the powerful battle tune of "On Wisconsin." Honor to men like Alfred Haake who recently demonstrated his ability to impart Wisconsin spirit in a single brief talk to an audience composed of many hundreds of new students, many of whom had not been at Wisconsin before this year. Haake's appeal to students' generosity in behalf of Purdy who was battling against tuberculosis has not been surpassed at Wisconsin. To date several hundred dollars have come in in reply to Haake's appeal. Credit to all who helped! Most credit, however, is due to Haake for successfully putting the matter over in the big, generous, hearty way. We shall be pleased to have permission and opportunity to publish Haake's speech in a later issue. Meanwhile Purdy's family will have the benefit of a generous contribution, subscribed by many new Wisconsin friends who have been benefited by the giving. Scores of these friends have, thanks to Haake, had the good fortune to catch Wisconsin spirit early in their college careers and as the years go on their gratitude to him for this early inspiration will increase.

Wisconsin spirit is worldwide and undying. In the arctics, in the tropics, on the frontiers of civilization, and in foreign lands—wherever loyal Badgers meet—there you will find the true old Wisconsin spirit. Neither polar cold nor equatorial heat can quench it.

On the shores of the White Sea a handful of Wisconsin grads got together in a real Wisconsin "Homecoming" celebration, held at Archangel. All the men were soldiers, the outpost of law and order against the anarchist and the Bolshevik. Here they sang again the old Wisconsin songs, gave the Badger cheers, and enjoyed once more the congenial fellowship which they had in Madison. The feature of the convention was a miniature edition of the Daily Cardinal, written in traditional Cardinal style and mimeographed on type-writing paper.

Similar gatherings have been held in hundreds of other out of the way corners of the earth. Wisconsin students are not Badgers for a brief four years only, the title, and the spirit which goes with it endure throughout a lifetime. It is this spirit of intense loyalty and devotion which we at the University must foster.—Cardinal, 1-8-19.

“It has been frequently asserted in the past that we have had more lawyers than we need, but no one has suggested that we had four times too many.”

The quotation is from the report by the Carnegie Foundation for Lawyers the Advancement of Teaching. The investigation shows an alarming decrease in the number of students pursuing legal education during the period of the war. Absolute figures show the tendency better than do complete averages and percentages. The loss of students has been greatest among schools of high entrance requirements. The seven day law schools with the highest entrance requirements opened in 1916 with 2,340 students, and in 1918 with 291. Wisconsin opened in 1916 with 190 students, and in 1918 with 16.

The war record of our Law School is one that we may well review with pride, no matter how much regret we may feel over the temporary loss of students. In the fall of 1918, not a single one of the sixteen students registered in the University Law School was eligible for military service as a Class 1A man. Four were women, some were physically incapacitated, and two were married. The faculty of the Law School generously did their part by combining courses, and by teaching some courses heretofore offered by the College of Letters and Science, and by instructing S. A. T. C. men in constitutional law. Three members of the law faculty entered the service of the Government, and one member still remains in Government service. In the annual report of Dean Richards occurred the following statement: “With the end of the war will come great prosperity for the law schools. The return of men whose studies have been interrupted, the entry of men whose study has been postponed will swell the attendance to abnormal proportions.”

“Carry on” and “Stickit” are war-time generalizations of “On Wisconsin” and “There are no quitters at Wisconsin.” We owe a large debt to the leaders who wisely determined to put the powerful force of our “Stickit” State University back of the winning of the war, and we must also heartily approve of their breadth of vision which pointed out that all useful activities at the University must be carried on to the best of the ability of those who remained at the University. Those who were entrusted with the carrying out of this policy often had a most difficult time. The easier course would have been to quit temporarily. No Daily Cardinal during the time the S. A. T. C. was here, no Badger during the year when so many men were in service, no WISCONSIN ALUMNI MAGAZINE when prices on paper, postage and labor had doubled and when half of the members of the Association had changed addresses, no Law School when but sixteen students registered. On such a suggested program a negative would have been much easier than was the positive program which was carried out in all instances. For Regents, Faculty and alumni to “carry on” was commendable, but for students to “carry on” is worthy of still higher praise. We congratulate the War Badger Board on the excellent results their labors promise to accomplish.

We admire the plucky spirit that kept the Cardinal running. The cases cited are but two examples of which there are many others found at Wisconsin. May our acts ever demonstrate the "On Wisconsin" and "There are no quitters" spirit. "Carry On!" "Stickit!"

Registrar Hiestand met with registrars from Michigan, Illinois, Chicago, Penn. State, Northwestern and Indiana at Evanston, in November to informally consider special difficulties of registration growing out of the organization of the S. A. T. C. Some of these problems, such as the valuation of purely theoretical military courses in terms of academic studies, are now obsolete. But other problems such as credits for supervised studies as compared with credit for non-supervised studies, credit for military service in terms of academic credit units, college credits for educational courses organized for American soldiers who continue in service abroad together with a satisfactory system of specific records of credits earned in this connection and authentic certification of the same to colleges and universities of America, the quarter system vs. the semester system, the growing need of a central agency of standardized credits to deal with the large number of foreign students for continuation in their education both as to proper valuation of credits presented and as to the proper guidance and protection of the foreign students—are ones the consideration of which may prove of value in times of peace and also the better settlement of which will doubtlessly result from further consideration by the association of college and university registrars.

A big All-University Convocation welcomed our new President, E. A. Birge, at the gymnasium on January 8. In addition to rendering honor to that eminent educator and to giving the students the privilege of receiving his experienced advice and counsel, those in charge of the convocation took the opportunity to introduce Miss Louise Nardin, the new Dean of Women, who has come to us from Missouri. Popular Dean Goodnight introduced Miss Nardin with a good-natured, but what must have been a somewhat embarrassing speech, referring to the recent example that the deanship of women stood in danger of being disturbed by matrimony. Miss Nardin's poise and ease in the face of this introduction made a most favorable impression on the gathering. That distinguished gentleman, Vice-President Parkinson, was good enough to appear before the students. Enthusiastic Larry Hall, oratorical Harold Groves and efficient Helen Smith were the student "pep leaders" who expounded the necessity that the students show real interest in the problems and responsibilities of Student Self-Government.

Barracks built for the vocational branch of the S. A. T. C. were offered for sale cheap. They were recommended as being first-class tobacco sheds, etc. That may be the best disposition to make of these frame structures. But whether with the withdrawal of military demands there is also a withdrawal of the needs, responsibilities and obligations of vocational and industrial training at state universities along those lines preliminary to training expert artisans and skilled mechanics, is a bigger question. Without attempting to outline the pros and cons we submit the question—Should a state university in times of peace offer resident courses for auto mechanics and skilled industrial workers? Some extension centers already offer some vocational training. The College of Agriculture has for years offered a popular and profitable short course. Might the College of Engineering have charge of a somewhat similar line of work? Would such courses prove profitable to industry and beneficial to workers, particularly to those workers who may have neither inclination nor leisure to pursue regular four year engineering and scientific courses? Is this innovation necessary? Is it opportune? Is the University the place for it? A careful consideration may well be given to such a problem by a university that believes in Service. An interesting debate could easily be held—"Resolved: (1) It would be well to make permanent provision for vocational training or industrial education at the University; (2) That the present is the proper and best time to make such innovation in the work of the University." A beginning has already been made in this direction by continuing the auto mechanics course. This course is open not only to men in the College of Engineering, but also to students from other colleges, and to men over eighteen years of age who have, for good reasons, not completed high school.

The latest charge against college education in America seems to be that it is run on a business basis. The presidents are administrators. Sometimes they are men of scholarship, but when they take over the management of a college or a university they are usually "lost to learning," and sink themselves in the conduct of their institution.

This is a serious charge. Russia alone, at the present time, is a demonstration of the fact that an institution, if properly abandoned to its own devices, can manage itself admirably. We visualize a university in which students conduct themselves at their own sweet will; instructors offer instruction or not, as the spirit moves them; scientists and classicists lie down together in perfect amity, alternating as lambs and lions.

Pay checks are issued or not, depending on whether or not there happen to be funds in the treasury; if not, the butcher, the baker and the gasman whistle in agreeable chorus, "We'll wait till the clouds roll by."

The buildings clean themselves by acclamation; equipment for investigation is provided if somebody happens to think of it; and occasionally a committee of the faculty meets and passes a resolution thanking God they are free from supervision and system.

Yes, we visualize it; but when we pinch ourselves awake we are grateful to discover that it is only a nightmare.—Herald-Examiner, 1-14-19.

Major Lyman Case Ward, '16, has been killed in action. His fraternity brother, Lt. Theodore Robert Hoyer, '12, has been killed in action. Death notices appeared in an earlier issue. Theodore Hoyer will be remembered as Assistant Secretary of the Alumni Association (1912-1913). He afterwards went to China for the Y. M. C. A. Later he returned to the University for graduate work. When war was declared he immediately went to an officers' training camp where he secured a commission and went overseas where he made the supreme sacrifice. May his memory be ever honored.

Lyman Ward will be remembered by a host of self-supporting students as the kindly, courteous, well-poised gentlemen in charge of the Student Employment Bureau conducted at the Alumni Headquarters. Mr. Ward is entitled not only to highest praise for the way he conducted this Employment Bureau, but to him, also, is due credit for the organization of the Bureau which was pronounced by a Government official as the best organized Student Employment Bureau in the United States. Not all these students who had the privilege of meeting him know, however, that Ward himself was not only a self-supporting University student, but that he had been self-supporting since the time he was a mere boy. In all ways he was a remarkable man. On the declaration of war he, too, went to an officers' training camp. While at the University he had taken military training during the entire four years. Prior to coming to Madison he had had military training elsewhere during four years. This thorough preparation enabled him to secure a captaincy, and combined with his ability, soon secured for him a majority. To know Mr. Ward was to love him. Working students, employers of students, faculty members, classmates, men and women in all lines of University activities had the highest respect and regard for him. His death is a great loss. May his sorrowing relatives, and particularly his young wife, have a heritage of lasting pride and growing comfort in the knowledge of his supreme courage and his unselfish loyalty.

Both Ward and Hoyer were active members of the General Alumni Association. May we ever appreciate their services, cherish their memory and honor their patriotism.

The share borne by Wisconsin in the war for democracy is a source of pride to every citizen of Badgerdom. Already in many communities plans are being laid to give concrete expression to this pride and gratitude by erecting a suitable memorial to their wartime heroes. This is as it should be, but the State of Wisconsin should not omit to testify in like fashion its sense of obligation to those who served it in the Great War. No more appropriate method of expressing this feeling can be found than the preparation of a memorial history which shall record for the benefit both of the present and of the future generations the splendid deeds of our men and women during the last two years. The State Historical Society and the State and County War History Commissions have already collected much of the material for the writer of such a history. The logical outcome of this work of preparation is the publication of a comprehensive history which shall set forth the war record of every Wisconsin soldier and every community. Now is the best time for doing this work. If it is to be done the coming legislature must make suitable provision for it. It will do so if the people make it clear that they really desire a memorial history of Wisconsin in the war.—W. H. B.

Last fall the Board of Regents appointed a special committee consisting of W. J. Kohler, C. P. Bardeen, S. H. Goodnight, J. D. Phillips and H. J. Thorkelson to consider the problem of ways and means for aiding worthy and needy students during the present college year. This committee on reporting to the Regents early in December recommended that immediate efforts be directed toward securing gifts totaling $500,000 for the construction of a memorial building as a permanent testimonial to the 3,000 students who left the University to enter army and navy service, and in remembrance of those who paid the supreme sacrifice in the successful struggle to establish democracy on a more permanent foundation. The committee further recommended the appointment of a regent committee, a faculty committee, an alumni committee, and a member of the student council, with full authority to initiate plans for the purpose above indicated.

After a conference in Madison with Regent Kohler, President Birge, Business Manager Thorkelson, and Edward Duess, student representative, President F. H. Clausen called a meeting of the Alumni Board in Milwaukee on January 17, to discuss the proposition. Faculty, student, administrative, and regent representatives were also present. Following the informal discussion it was felt desirable by President Clausen to appoint an alumni committee similar to a committee which President Vilas had already appointed from the Board of Regents. (The regents' committee consists of W. J. Kohler, Frances Perkins, and T. H. Hammond.) On January 20, President Clausen appointed J. S. Lord, R. W. McMynn, C. N. Brown, Richard Lloyd Jones, and J. E. McConnell members of the alumni committee.

A joint meeting of the regents' committee and the alumni committee was held January 24, in Milwaukee, President Birge, Business Manager Thorkelson, and Edward Duess also attending on invitation. These representatives decided that the matter would be best handled through a separate and distinct organization known as the Wisconsin Memorial Association and agreed that the undertaking be entrusted to an executive committee to consist of president, vice-president, treasurer, a representative from the student body, one regent, one faculty member, two alumni, and three representatives from the State at large, said executive committee being given power to increase its own numbers, to nominate a Board of Trustees, county committees, and representatives from Wisconsin Clubs and local alumni organizations. It was further agreed that W. J. Kohler, F. H. Clausen and Richard Lloyd Jones be chosen as members of said committee and delegated with power to select and appoint the other members of said Executive Committee. Messrs. Kohler, Jones and Clausen met in Milwaukee for such purpose on February 4.

As soon as further information is available it will appear in THE WISCONSIN ALUMNI MAGAZINE.

THE UNIVERSITY BUDGET

By H. J. THORKELSON, '98

RECEIPTS of the University of all kinds are deposited with the State Treasurer. The annual receipts total approximately three million dollars. Of this sum the State of Wisconsin contributes about 62%. The income from land grants, which may be referred to as the endowment of the University, represents less than 1% of the total annual income. About 4% comes from the federal government for various agricultural purposes, about 13% from students and miscellaneous sources, about 20% from various laboratory fees and such business activities as the operation of our dormitories and dining halls, the sale of agricultural produce, receipts from lectures, concerts, athletic games, etc.

All receipts may be divided into three classes. Revolving funds represent such sources of income as agricultural sales, dormitories and dining halls, grants from the federal government and laboratory fees. The actual receipts of these funds are available for use. The second class of receipts form the largest part of the University Fund Income; these are made up principally from the three-eighths mill tax, together with receipts from students for tuition, incidental fees and receipts from miscellaneous sources. The third class, or Transfers from the General Fund of the State, represents appropriations from the General Fund (receipts from railroad taxes, etc.) which are intended to cover permanent additions to University property, such as new buildings and also to take care of University activities not directly associated with instruction at Madison, such as University Extension, County Agricultural Representatives, etc.

Legislative appropriations are made as of date July 1, but as a matter of fact the receipts of the three-eighths mill tax are not received until the following March, and for many years it has been necessary for the University to borrow money in order to operate between the time when the money is appropriated and when it is actually received. For years the Regents have been endeavoring to build up the cash balance at the end of the fiscal year so that this would be sufficient to run the University until the actual receipt of taxes without the necessity of borrowing. In 1916-17 this point was apparently reached. In 1917-18 it was necessary to borrow, but not because of a shortage in the University Fund Income. This particular loan was due to the condition of the General Fund of the State, which was unable to finance activities carried by this fund, and as a result money was loaned from the University Fund Income to take care of University Extension and other General Fund activities pending the return of this money from the General Fund.

As the University is authorized to expend the actual receipts of Revolving Funds, it is not necessary to go into detail with these. The sum of the University Fund Income and General Fund appropriations represent the so-called Specified Funds.

The 1917 appropriations were made after war was declared, and although the State Board of Education had recommended appropriations of $5,011,487 from Specified Funds for the biennium 1917-19, the actual appropriations were cut because of the declaration of war to $4,326,682.

The requests of the Board of Regents for appropriations from Specified Funds for the biennium 1919-21 total $4,768,148, and the State Board of Education has recommended $4,400,000 for the coming biennium, with a full recognition of the fact that it will be necessary to utilize existing balances in order to meet necessary financial burdens of the biennium.

It is difficult to anticipate future needs accurately, and with the extreme cost of living it is readily apparent that considerable inroads will have to be made into existing balances before the biennium 1919-21 will be finished.

Of the recommended appropriations $151,500 will be available for permanent improvements. It is planned to expend $40,500 in addition to a $22,000 appropriation of the 1917 legislature for new shops, to expend $41,000 in addition to a $14,000 appropriation of the 1917 legislature for the construction of a chemistry store building; and an addition to the service building; to expend about $20,000 in improvements for the heating station, $35,000 is intended for remodeling music hall auditorium, $5,000 for minor improvements in the College of Agriculture, and $10,000 for improvements at Camp Randall.

The Regents of the University of Wisconsin have the full support of the State Board of Education in the consideration of the problems of the future. At the time the University requests were presented to the State Board last November, they passed the following resolution:

"Whereas: The declaration of the armistice, together with the demobilization of troops and the abandonment of the S. A. T. C. has complicated the problem of anticipating the educational and financial needs of the University for the biennium 1919-21, and

"Whereas, the appropriations of the 1917 legislature from 'specified funds' (total appropriations less revolving funds) for the University for the biennium 1917-19, totaled $4,326,882, and

"Whereas, the estimates of the Regents of the University for the biennium 1919-21, total $4,768,148 and it is further evident that the actual financial needs of the University for the biennium 1917-19, will be considerably below the appropriations for that biennium.

"Now, therefore, be it Resolved: That the State Board of Education recommend to the 1919 Legislature a total appropriation from 'specified funds' of $4,400,000 for the University for the biennium 1919-21 in addition to existing balances, and

"Further Resolved: That in case it should become apparent before the close of the 1919 Legislature that the above amount will be insufficient to meet the reasonable demands upon the University, then and in that event the State Board of Education will submit a modified budget of appropriations to meet the existing situation.

"Further be it Resolved: That the detail of the distribution of the total $4,400,000 of specified appropriations be referred to a committee consisting of the Secretary of the State Board of Education, the Secretary of the State Board of Public Affairs and the Business Manager of the University with full authority to compile the necessary details."

BOOK NOTES

Brief reviews of writings by Wisconsin students, alumni, and faculty.

"The Colonial Citizen of New York City" by Robt. F. Seybolt of the Department of Education of the University, is a recent number in the series of Wisconsin Studies in History and the Social Sciences. It is a source-study of the essential characteristics of citizenship-practice in colonial New York City, indicating by documentary evidence the medieval English ancestry of the citizen of today.

"Classical Studies," a volume of scholarly articles dedicated to Emeritus Prof. C. F. Smith, who was professor of Latin from 1894 to 1917, will be published soon by the Latin Department of the University, as the third book in the series of Wisconsin Studies.

"The A B C of Exhibit Planning" by Mary Swain Routzahn, '02, was recently published by the Russell Sage Foundation.

WISCONSIN ALUMNI CLUBS

"Sit together, listen together, sing together, eat together, and talk together, and you'll work together"

CHICAGO ALUMNAE

By ALICE P. KASSON, '11, Secretary

THE Chicago Association of Wisconsin Alumnae held a luncheon at the Chicago College Club on Feb. 8, in honor of Foundation Day. The guests of the Association were Prof. Hugh Smith, head of the Department of Romance Languages at Wisconsin, and Geo. I. Haight, '99, president of the U. W. Club of Chicago.

Professor Smith gave an interesting history of the growth of his department in the last thirteen years. He also spoke of the inspiration that the French House and its native French occupants have been to the department and its students. Mr. Haight urged upon the alumni the necessity of standing back of the University in these days when it is one of the potent means of Americanizing this melting pot of ours.

Short toasts were given by Mrs. E. D. Sewall (Ida M. Hoyt), '79, who paid a fitting tribute to the character and ability of our new president, and by Mrs. Mehlig, who spoke of the necessity of a cultural back ground in social service work as well as in other lines of work. The very successful meeting was then adjourned.

MINNEAPOLIS

By F. H. KURTZ, '99, President

The U. W. Club of Minneapolis, was honored at its monthly luncheon at Dayton's Tea Room, Friday, Feb. 7, by having as its guest, Dr. E. A. Birge, President of the University. Dr. Birge delivered a very interesting address, touching upon the part taken by Wisconsin in the war, the S. A. T. C. and its problems and humorous incidents, the administration of the late President Van Hise, and the exceeding importance of the many forward movements initiated by President Van Hise during his administration, and also touched upon the outlook for the future, appealing to the alumni for their active interest and support of their Alma Mater.

Sixty-seven alumni, alumnae and their friends were present on this happy occasion.

CHICAGO

The U. W. Club of Chicago gave $100 to the Purdy Fund in addition to individual subscription from members.

MADISON

By AMY COMSTOCK, '09, Secretary

After a two years lapse the U. W. Club of Madison, renewed activities with its annual business meeting in the capitol on the evening of Feb. 6, 1919. The particular business on hand was to elect new officers who would as speedily as possible arrange for the usual feed and song-fest and dance.

Dr. Charles Vilas, '65, already president of the Board of Regents of the University and chairman of the committee to secure a President of the University two years hence when President Birge has signified his intention to resign, accepted the presidency. Mrs. C. R. Carpenter, '87, was made vice-president, Amy Comstock, '09, secretary, Lillian Taylor, '05, treasurer; L. L. Oeland, '08, Ernest Warner, '89, and F. W. Huels, '03, executive committee.

This being the first meeting of the club since the death of Dr. Van Hise, Justice Winslow read a beautiful and strong tribute to our late President and moved the adoption of this resolution memorializing President Van Hise. It was passed unanimously.

It was decided that in the future the annual business and social meetings of the club would be combined, thereby enlisting a larger number in the activities of the organization. Consequently this meeting was adjourned to such time and place as the new officers would designate as the scene of the usual yearly festivity.

LA CROSSE

By CATHARINE E. HAYES, '08,
Secretary

The fifth annual dinner of the U. W. Club of La Crosse was held at the Chamber of Commerce, Feb. 8, at 6:30. About 150, including members from Sparta, Westby, Viroqua, and Coon Valley were present to celebrate the seventieth anniversary of the founding of the University.

A. H. Sanford, '91, president of the club, acted as toastmaster. Dr. Edw. Evans, a former Regent, paid a glowing tribute to the late President Van Hise.

President Birge honored us with his presence and was given a rousing welcome. In his address he emphasized the opportunity that the alumni of the present day have to serve their Alma Mater.

Alice Green, '05, took as her theme, "Big Guns and Little Ones." Few of those present escaped classification.

A Glee Club trained by Mrs. Harry Curtis furnished music for the evening. This Glee Club included members of former University Clubs and others—mostly others. It was composed of Geo. W. Bunge, '95, Chas. Schweizer, '87, Claude Spencer Beebe, '01, Webber Russell, '06, F. H. Hartwell, '99, Thad Brindley, '06, B. E. McCormick, '04, Harry Hirshheimer, '91, Jess Higbee, '05, Andrew Lees, '95, Bob Smith, Hal Hirshheimer, Leroy Yerly and Sylvester Muldowney.

Dr. C. S. Beebe, '01, and Geo. Bunge, '95, made the hit of the evening when they sang "Romeo and Juliet." The Mendota Crew Song was rendered with Hal Hirshheimer taking the solo part. Dr. Beebe and Sylvester Muldowney appeared as soloists.

The meeting of La Crosse alumni would not be complete without some of Judge Brindley's stories and he did not fail us on this occasion. Brief remarks were made by Misses Myra Kimball, '99, Helen Dorset, ex '99, and Marion Neprud, '14.

The following officers were elected: Helen Dorset, ex '99, president; Geo. W. Bunge, '95, vice-president; Catharine E. Hayes, '08, secretary-treasurer; Alice E. Green, '05, and Robert B. Lowry, '99, members of the Executive Board.

U. W. CHRISTMAS DINNER IN PARIS

By VICTOR BARNETT, '14

ALUMNI, former students and faculty members of the University of Wisconsin foregathered in Paris for Christmas dinner, Thursday night, Dec. 26.

Close to a hundred were seated in the gay banquet room of the American University Union when Major R. H. Hess, '08, Q. M. C., toastmaster, called the company to attention. A score of units in the A. E. F. were represented, several old Wisconsin men forsaking the vigil along the Rhine to attend while others came from the south of France, from the areas where Uncle Sam has established a vast chain of military schools.

In the words of Major Hess, the dinner was "a fine joke on the Huns."

"There were those who aspired to eat Christmas dinner in Paris," he declared. "We came over here to prevent that and tonight's celebration is proof conclusive of a victory in which Wisconsin men have taken a proud part."

There were days when food was hard to procure in the world's capital. But the Wisconsin dinner left nothing to be desired. In the words of a Badger grad who has eaten from Lathrop to the St.

Nicholas and back again, "the population of Paris could have lived for a month on the banquet dishes, the names of which I cannot pronounce."

Those who responded to the call of the toastmaster ranged half a hundred topics. Prof. W. L. Westerman, now with the Peace Commission, told of the part Wisconsin men played in the war, both "over here" and "over there." He brought the gathering many little intimate stories of the campus. Capt. Arnold Dresden of the American Red Cross and a former faculty member; Capt. Stanley Hornbeck, '11, of the Peace Commission; Lt. Harry Bullis, '17, Finance Bureau, A. E. F.; Lt.-Col. Nelson Black, M. C.; Capt. Wm. S. Middleton, M. C., the European war veteran of the dinner, and Aspirant Redward Lyman Bill of the French army were others who spoke.

Bill was one of the youngest Wisconsin men present. At America's entrance into the war he tried repeatedly to enlist in the states. Rejected by every hard-hearted recruiting officer he met he came to France, enlisted as a private in General Foch's army and, at the conclusion of hostilities was an "aspirant," a rank which corresponds to that of "candidate" in the United States Army.

And from the ranks of American soldiers other "candidates" were present, men who have struggled up through the non-commissioned grades by sheer force of will and an abundance of Wisconsin spirit.

Lt. John Culnan, Marine Corps, modestly refrained from a part in the discussion of battles fought and won. But from the banquet he went to his company on the Rhine and the newspapers a few days later told of his decoration with the Distinguished Service Cross by an American general and of his decoration with the Croix de Guerre, with palm, by a French general for extraordinary heroism in battle. Culnan was commissioned in the trenches. He came from one of Prof. W. G. Bleyer's journalism classes.

Private and colonel sat side by side at the long table. Rank was wiped out in the exchange of a thousand reminiscences.

Resolutions expressing the sorrow with which Wisconsin men in the A. E. F. heard the news of the recent demise of President Charles R. Van Hise of the University were sent the educator's widow and children.

Those present were:

Maj. R. H. Hess, Q. M. C., '08; Prof. W. L. Westerman, Peace Commission; Capt. Arnold Dresden, A. R. C.; Sgt. Wm. D. Carpenter, Med. Dept.; Lt. Geo. Noble, Inf., graduate student; Capt. Stanley Hornbeck, Peace Commission, '11; Capt. David Klein, San. C., '10; Lt. John Newman, San. C., '18; Lt. John Culnan, Marines, ex '16; Sgt. Arthur McCaffery, '20, Med. Dept.; Lt. Victor Barnett, Inf., ex '14; Lt. Fred Hall, Inf., '16; Pvt. Marshall Brown, '18, Q. M. C.; Lewis Lilly, '11, Comptroller A. R. C.; Lt. F. F. H'Doubler, M. C., '07; Capt. E. R. Schmidt, M. C., '13; Lt. A. R. Tormey, M. C., '14; Lt. Harold Lampert, San. C., '13; Lt. Frank Benedict, Research Div., '16; Pvt. Joseph Machotka, Ord., '15; Lt. John Child, Inf., '17; Sgt. Wm. A. Olson, Research and Inspection Division, S. C., '16; Lt. F. P. McGinty, Q. M. C.; Ray Niquette, M. E. Jr., Gr. Engrs.; Lt. F., '17; Cand. F. E. Davies, Inf., '10; Lt. Col. Nelson M. Black, M. C.; Capt. Wm. S. Middleton, M. C.

VICTORY PROM

By J. W. McPHERREN

Sounding a "come back" call to old grads and enlisted men, the 1919 Victory Prom is pushing plans for the biggest homecoming jubilee of the year.

With hundreds of men being released from Service here and overseas, Prom as a homecoming affair takes on added significance. Committees are working hard to make the occasion one of glad reunion of Varsity men and women and grads who have been out of touch with the University because of activity in war service.

Special effort will be made to bring enlisted men together for the event. Chairman Loring T. Hammond of the Homecoming Committee is reaching these men through letters to the various fraternities urging them to return. The committee is also working in cooperation with the Alumni Association to bring back a big representation of old grads. Letters are also being sent to the Alumni Associations in other cities.

Besides the cooperation of the Alumni Associations, the fraternities at Wisconsin are being used as a means to help get the old men back. Letters have been written to all of the fraternities, urging them to impress upon the minds of their old men, not back at school, the importance of returning for such an unusual occasion.

Overseas men are to be the guests of honor, and special functions are being arranged for their benefit. Already, many of the overseas men have expressed their desire to be back at this year's Prom, and many letters of acceptance have been received by the committee.

Prom reception will be held on Friday afternoon, March 28, as a formal welcome to returning alumni and enlisted men. The complete homecoming program contemplates including Saturday as Homecoming Day, but definite plans for the celebration have not yet been fully drawn up.

ATHLETICS

By T. E. JONES

THE Third Annual Ice Carnival held on Saturday, Feb. 8, may be counted a success in every way and its popularity assures it of a regular place on our winter schedules. Three years ago this event was started in a small way with a few afternoon races, but this year our plans were enlarged to include an evening program, with the skating rink lighted by the arc lights which were formerly used for evening football practice, with a huge bonfire, and with the music of the band to add to the festivity. There were exhibitions of fancy skating under the "spot" and the good looking coeds were busy in the boat-house feeding the hungry—"hot dogs" not going bad at all after brisk work in the snappy air.

Our basketball team came into its own with a win over Iowa of 28 to 19 and, even more cheering than the score, was the improved appearance of the Badger squad. The combination was the strongest that has been seen this year and the hopes of the team's supporters are high for a strong "come back" and a place one or two stories above the cellar in the final conference rating.

The spring weather has done much toward making the young men's fancies lightly turn to thoughts of baseball and Coach Kent is busy every day in the Annex searching out the embryo Ty Cobbs. If the weather man continues kind the squad will be working on the lower campus before many days.

Intramural schedules are arousing unusual interest, the strong freshman teams in track and swimming giving us rosy visions of another year. In the annual Frosh-Varsity Swimming Meet the Frosh put a victory across and the Frosh Track team gave the Varsity an uneasy feeling until the final score was chalked up.

Our bulletin board is again decorated with catchy cartoons and those of the students who might not know from this that "Joe" was back, would soon find out from the enthusiasm that Coach Steinauer is getting into his wrestling squad. He is preparing his men at this time for a meet with the Iowa State at Ames on March 15. Mr. Steinauer is also handling the work that was formerly taken care of by Dr. Elsom and is being kept busy so that he may feel no regrets over leaving the U. S. Navy to come back to Wisconsin.

The interesting dates on our athletic calendar for the coming month are, Saturday evening, March 1, when we meet Minnesota in basketball and which promises to be a "thriller"; Saturday afternoon, March 8, when the Notre Dame Track team comes to try out the strength of the Cardinals. A brisk intramural program in all sports is being carried on and one can witness an interesting contest in some sport in inter-fraternity, inter-class or inter-college games on any evening or Saturday afternoon.

Twenty-fifth Anniversary Reunion

By W. L. Woodward, W. O. Richtmann, Hobart S. Johnson, Anna Strong Parkinson, May Clawson Sumner, H. L. Ekern, Samuel Weidman—Committee

The Class of '94 will have its 25th anniversary reunion at the coming June commencement.

Our class, be it remembered, originated the writing of theses as a pleasant pastime to the usual work of graduating from the University. Writing theses worked out so well with us that other classes adopted our plan, and to it the great success and advancement of the University in the past 25 years is mainly attributed.

Our reunion ought to be the best class reunion ever held in the history of the Alumni Association. All you members of '94 have to do is to come to Madison on June 22 and our local committee of Madison members will have ready for you a fine picnic and a pleasant joy-ride about our beautiful drives, with such refreshments provided as the law will allow. (Milwaukee and Chicago members please remember that Madison is dry.)

At a recent meeting of our local members, it was decided to send out a letter to each member, urging as prompt a reply as possible, in order that plans may be perfected for taking care of the large attendance that we shall expect to have on hand. We shall certainly be glad to see you at this reunion and would like to have you write to W. L. Woodward, Marston Blk., Madison, or to any one of us, that you will surely come.

The Directory of the Class of 1908 appears in this issue so arranged that, if desired, it can be removed from the MAGA- ZINE. Particular attention is called to the fact that we now want to publish a Class History. Information relative to this proposed volume appears in the following paragraphs and upon the inside cover of the Directory.

"Over the top" stuff is in style, and now the 1908 Class History is going over. To do it we need the cooperation of every member of the class. This means that every one of us is going to supply his or her history from 1908 to the present minute. Every other member wants to know all about you and yours—where have you been these eleven years? What have you been doing? Who did you marry, and, of course, how many enfants? If you have been in the service of Uncle Sam, tell us your experience, and don't be too modest. After you have sent in your history, poke up every '08er to do the same.

Your history is to be sent to the class historian, Charles L. Byron, 1604 First National Bank Building, Chicago, on or before tomorrow morning, or not later than March 15, due allowance thereby being made for members overseas.

Incidentally, with your history send $1.00 to help defray expenses. No quitters in the Sure-As-Fate '08 Class.

Five-Year Reunion

CLASSMATES:

There never was a time when every American should feel more like celebrating than this year. There never was a time when every "college-ed" and co-ed should feel more like getting back to Alma Mater to take on a new stock of that wonderful rah-rah spirit that keeps the heart so young. After two years of sacrifice of personal opportunities, of dogged thrift, of resigned breaking of family ties and of friendships, of suppressed longing for good times, what a sigh of relief, what a shout of joy at the cessation of hostilities in November.

Nineteen fourteeners can't possibly get all the jubilation out of their systems for months to come. Let them save a goodly share of it till June and get it working in fine fettle for this first reunion. Get together with old classmates and swap with them your tales of experience, on the field of battle, in gay Paree, in training camp abroad, on convoyed transport, in camp and cantonment, in numerous branches of war work, in munition plant, in factory or on the farm. Let's talk it over while the memory is fresh and keen.

I'm here already. Dozens have written they are coming. Plans are under way to reach every last member of the class. The MAGAZINE will print the names of every fourteener who signifies his intention to come. Get the ball rolling. Tell your friends through the columns that you will be here. Tell the classmate who doesn't get the MAGAZINE about it.

Let us have not only the largest reunion of the Class of 1914, but the largest reunion of any class in U. W. history.—Jos. A. Becker, Secretary.
