Mrs. Allistel:

Here is the copy that I find in our files.

Wish I could have it copied for you, but our office force is depleted, and I am afraid that you will need it right away. Use this as is if you care to, but if there is a way of getting it again I would like to keep it in the files.

If you go to New York (and I hope you will) bring back your script, it would be fun to study it from a producers point of view.

Please let me know if you go as I would surely be an interested listener and would write you fam mail.

Good Luck and Congratulations.

What date in August do you think would be convenient for our "Tent Colony" broadcast?
Camp Gallisteo
The University Fruit Colony
I’m just in time, for I’ve been interested in that camp ever since we came to Madison twenty years ago just when it started.

Eleanor.

No, Mrs. Vanje, you’re not quite right. Twenty-six years ago, Scott # Goodnight, kind and thoughtful dean of the University summer school, got the idea of having a camp for the benefit of school men who might want to but could not afford the expense of attending the summer session and at the same time maintain their families.
As long ago as that—in 1912—Eleanor yes he chose a certain beautiful strip of wooded slope on the shore of Lake Mendota, had a study hall and platforms built.

The platforms interest me because living on the ground is hard enough even for a week let alone for a six or nine weeks session. But how did you happen to become part of the Tent Colony?

There is a cottage on the land where they always let some one live who would look after the camp.
1918 my husband took charge of the Department of Buildings and Grounds but the house we were to live in wasn't ready so we got permission to use the cottage at the Tent Colony.

It was mild and lonely and most wholesome for my two little children.

Ann. Oh! nature lovers. But weren't you lonesome so far from town? Daniel not at all. Because the campers were polite and pleasant. 16 of our 18 platforms were occupied.

Ann. I imagine conditions were quite different in those early days. There were no cars then!
Eleanor,
you are right. They all rode bicycles or walked the 2 miles to the campus, or went in on the old launch that came when the weather permitted and brought our mail and groceries.

Ann, how do you get your mail by auto and it gets there every day.

Eleanor: Always! It never falls into the lake as in the early days when it was too rough for the boat to make the trip, the man would throw the handle, sometimes the mind took it out of reach or the cord broke and we all ran into the water - clothes and all - to rescue the precious letters!
Anne

I can see you had your thrills even then. But why all the responsibility. Was that Dean Goodnights idea too?

El

No, but living in the cottage meant looking after camp but no one ever told me what the duties were so I just did any thing that seemed to promise any general good. Such as—

Oh, I cleaned and filled the lamps in the study hall every day, met the boot sorter the mail and delivered it. If a storm blew up I went around closing tent flaps and things safe because everybody was at class.
I am afraid the first year would have discouraged me. How did the second year go—were all the platforms filled?

Yes, indeed, and we had three women, all of them bare souls with delicate children who would be the better for an outdoor summer. Their doctors said and so they were.

Then there are only 18 platforms?

Well, dear me. The third year and every year after that we had to build more platforms until there were 26 and all the spaces in the woods were used.

Couldn't you have more land to take care of the increasing demand?

Yes, the dry field came in and we built 24 platforms there but even this was insufficient and camp expanded still farther west into The Walnut Grove.
accommodating 10 more. So now we have 60 families - about 200 people. With such a large group you must have had to add many modern improvements.

Very few. It is a beautiful place, swimming, boating and fishing are excellent but conditions are purposely primitive so the fee can be kept at a minimum. What does it cost to live there all summer?

The University charges $5 residence fee and the individual relates he cares to on his equipment. The sole purpose of the colony is to provide an opportunity for families to live cheaply while one or more members attend the summer session.
The university provides 2 screened electric lighted study halls, 2 deep mills, a swimming pool and life guard, a fishing pier, boat docks, 12' x 20' garbage collection and comfort stations.

That is very generous but how about their supplies, meat, milk and ice?

They are delivered every day. Also baking, laundry and two newspapers.

Summer is certainly your busy time but you can forget it the rest of the year.

I don't because the care and supervision of camp is an all year hobby with me, for the letters come and go always.

I am so glad you get next year reservations?

By some of these. But always toward the end of summer school we send out blanks for tentative reservations for the next year, present occupants having preference. So the platforms are all reserved a year ahead. But there are always some cancellations, vacancies being filled from the waiting list, which begins to grow early in the summer. Already I have two on this list for 1939.

aren't there many problems of discipline and rules with so many people?

el. oh. they take care of themselves. When they have all come, put up their tents, registered and arranged for their classes and find they have time to take a long breath, a meeting is called. Everyone goes to vote for the camp officers.
a regular village setup. Besides a mayor, clerk and treasurer what others do you have?

El: Street commissioner, constable, conservator, commissioner, sports director, postmistress, census taker, editor of newsletter.

Breezes and 4 aldermen, who with the mayor, clerk and treasurer meet weekly as council and settle all local concerns.

Aun: Do your campers come from far away?

El: They come from all parts of the country, including Alaska and Hawaii. This year we have members from 15 states, Georgia, Illinois, Ind., Iowa, Kan., Mich., Mo., New York, Ohio, Okla., Wash., and Wisconsin.

Aun: You sound like a train caller. But tell me what they do when they are at home.
High school teachers, school superintendents, university teachers, working for higher degrees. It takes 4 summers to earn a degree so most of them return at least that often.

The cottage is very interesting. Did the University build it?

No, it is very old. It was there when the University fought the land. There are no modern conveniences, except electricity, lights, and a telephone. Both of these we have had for about 10 years.

The phone could be a cause of lots of running for you. How is that taken care of?

Well, the phone did create a rather overwhelming problem because each of our students is listed in the summer school directory with this...
The number. I am glad to take the calls but could not possibly get the messages to the people—especially if they live at the other end of Camp 1 or 5 blocks away. You needed a messenger service. What did you do?

I asked one of the older boys to organize all of the children who were willing to be messengers. Could he get any to help him?

With no trouble at all. The idea was carried out by the children. They worked out a schedule where by a messenger came to me twice a day, delegated a child near by for emergency calls and telegrams. Arranged with the telegraph company for me to take inires and have regular telegraph blanks to write them on. The system has and does work perfectly.
So far our visit has been a little on the get-and-take. Can't you end on a lofty tone? Sort of sum up in style? Just what is Camp Gallistela? All right. How is this. Camp Gallistela is truly a cosmopolitan city—the small, and yet our citizens are wonderfully united by common ties of interest, purpose and activity. The university located on the lake, offers unusual opportunities for intense work and wholesome play and at no other point are these possibilities so concentrated as at the tent colony. A summer's study and relaxation here can be what you care to make it. Imagine a city where there is no judge nor court, no jail nor preacher...
wealth nor poverty, where all are friendly and helpful. A city where the main concern of the officers is to arrange a fine pic-nic and other forms of simple enjoyment. Sir Thomas More might call this city Utopia but I call it Camp Gallistel.

FAMILIES who desire to combine outing life with summer session work will be given opportunity to tent upon University property on Lake Mendota about two miles from the University (between the drive and the lake, just north of the Raymer farm house). The spot is a beautiful one and the fishing, boating, and bathing are excellent. A regular launch service on the lake furnishes transportation facilities.
A mail-boat plies regularly each day, and city grocers supply campers with provisions which are delivered by boat or wagon.

The University will provide a well, pier, and public conveniences. Campers will furnish their own equipment, such as tents, cots, bed clothing, chairs, boats, cooking utensils, dishes, etc.

For those who desire to rent, The John Gallagher Tent and Awning Company, 9–13 S. Bedford St., Madison, an old and reliable firm, agrees to provide first-class, water-proof tents and good cots, hammocks, and camp stools at the following rates. Those who desire to make use of this service should correspond directly with the firm after having complied with rule 3 below.

If desired, the Gallagher Company will pitch the tent upon the grounds and remove the same at the close of the session, furnishing transportation both ways, for $5 in addition to the rental of the tent. They will also provide a platform floor for each tent—a desirable precaution in case of heavy rain—at a figure covering the labor and rental value of the lumber. Tents pitched by the company will be ready for occupancy on Saturday, June 21, and be removed Saturday, August 1. Special arrangements should be made with the company for such service at other times. Mr. Gallagher is prepared to furnish transportation of passengers and baggage from city to camp for those who wish to bring part or all of their own equipment.

The University imposes the following rules:

1. The privilege of camping in the colony is restricted to families, i.e., married couples, or children accompanied by one or both parents. The head of each family will be held responsible for the conduct of its members.
2. One or more members of each family must be regularly enrolled in the Summer Session.

3. An advance deposit of $15 per family is required, which will be regarded as payment of one Summer Session fee. This deposit must reach the Director before June 15th. In case of withdrawal it will be refunded after the opening of the session. The Gallagher Tent and Awning Company will fill no orders until advance deposit has been made and authorization has been given by the Director.

4. The University reserves the right to withdraw at any time the privilege of remaining in the colony from families whose presence there shall for any reason prove undesirable.

5. Campers are entirely responsible for their own business arrangements. The University assumes no liability for the care or custody of camp goods, and campers may not call upon university employees for service or assistance.
Families who desire to enjoy camp life while one or more members do summer session work will be permitted to tent upon University property on Lake Mendota two to two and a half miles from the campus (between the drive and the lake, just north of the University farm house.) The spot is a beautiful one, and boating, bathing, and fishing are excellent.

The grounds are not provided, however, with the conveniences of a summer park or chautauqua camp, such as electricity, gas, water-mains, sewers, telephone and street car service. Conditions are primitive, and prospective campers should reckon in advance with the inconveniences incident thereto. For example, transportation facilities are not available at all hours. In this connection it might be said that a bicycle is very useful. The distance is not great and the road, which is a beautiful lake shore drive, is well paved. Launches touch at the pier on round-the-lake trips three or four times each day. The fare for a round-the-lake trip is 40c; from the tenting colony to the University pier or vice versa, direct, 25c. A mail boat plies regularly each day (address: University Tenting Colony, Marine Service, Madison, Wis.,) and city grocers supply campers with provisions which are delivered by boat or wagon.

The University provides a screened study hall, a deep well, a pier, board floors for tents, and comfort stations. Campers furnish their own equipment, such as tents, cots, bed-clothing, chairs, boats, stoves, cooking utensils, dishes, fuel, etc.

For those who desire to rent, the Madison Tent and Awning Company, 319 E. Wilson St., Madison, agrees to provide water-proof tents, cots, hammocks, and camp stools. Those who desire to make use of this service should correspond directly with the firm after having complied with rule 3 below.

If desired the company will pitch the tent upon the grounds and remove the same at the close of the session, furnishing transportation both ways. For this service, the Madison Tent and Awning Company charges $8 for a single tent or $5 each when more than one tent is taken at one trip. Special arrangements should be made for such service at all times. The company is prepared to furnish transportation of passengers and baggage from city to camp for those who wish to bring a part or all of their own equipment.

LOW COST  SCENIC  FRIENDLY  "CLOSE TO NATURE"
MADISON--An affection held in common--for the University of Wisconsin Tent Colony--brought together some 60 persons for a reunion picnic at Olin Park on Monday evening (Aug. 26).

The picnickers--including many 1957 student campers, alumni of the lakeshore summer colony, their families, and honored guests--was the climax of a three-day get-together. Alumni came from as far away as New York for the sentimental event.

The UW Tent Colony, a woodland summer camp under canvas, spread along the shores of Lake Mendota, has long offered married students a rare opportunity for study while their wives and children enjoyed an out-of-doors vacation. Begun in 1912 and continuing through the years, it numbered 35 families as residents this year.

Most honored of the honored guests at the picnic-dinner were Albert F. Gallistel, the University's director of physical plant planning, and Mrs. Gallistel. Year after year the Gallistels have occupied a summer cottage at the camp and served as its guardian angels. It was in their honor that the lakeshore village was formally named Camp Callistella. Highlight of the picnic was the presentation of a moving picture on the Tent Colony to the couple. The movie was made by a UW class in audio-visual education.

Other honored guests included Mrs. Ira Baldwin, wife of UW Vice Pres. Baldwin; Atty. Fred Risser and Mrs. Risser; Lowell Gerretson, secretary of the State Builders Assn., and Mrs. Gerretson; and Delmar Anderson, engineer with the UW department of buildings and grounds, and Mrs. Anderson.

Old timers from Tent Colony summers who spoke briefly of their experiences and showed their growing or grown families included: UW Commerce Prof. and Mrs. Charles Center; Malcolm Salinger, director of the UW Veterans Administration Guidance Center, and Mrs. Salinger; Harvey Waffle, teacher in industrial arts, Sterling, Ill., and Mrs. Waffle; Robert McCain, management consultant, Milwaukee, and Mrs. McCain; Roscoe Hastings, art supervisor, Freeport and Winslow, Ill., and Mrs. Hastings; Dale Durnford, school principal, Beloit, and Mrs. Durnford; Prof. Virgil Betts, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and Mrs. Betts; Prof. Alfred Johnson, Akron University, Ohio, and Mrs. Johnson; Duke Elkow, UW visiting lecturer in education, and Mrs. Elkow; and Arthur Willett, science teacher at Markesan, and Mrs. Willett.

Willett served as mayor for the tent village this summer.

After the supper and speaking, Tent Colony children performed some close-harmony numbers. The group sang old favorites, then cleared the assembly hall floor for square dancing.

TRAILERS

The tent colony of the University of Wisconsin is not well adapted for trailers. The lake shore slopes at such an angle that there is difficulty in bringing trailers in and out of the camp. Further, the Department of Grounds and Buildings is unwilling to assume the responsibility of making electrical connections for trailers or of safeguarding property against prowlers. Trailer owners can probably find more suitable accommodations at city tourist camps by addressing inquiries to the Association of Commerce, Power and Light Building, Madison. If they desire, however, to live in the Tent Colony, because of its associations, they should call in person and interview Superintendent Gallistel before making final arrangements.
