The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

A Boy and An Owl

They say there was a boy playing in the woods and he noticed an owl sitting angrily. So the boy went around and around as the owl is watching the boy. It must have been several times that the boy went around. Then he was quite surprised that the owl didn't have a head on. The boy must have gone around too many times.
