SUMMER SESSION EDITION

The Daily Cardinal

VOL. XXXV. NO. 188

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN, MADISON, TUESDAY, JUNE 29, 1926

PRICE 10 CENTS

ENROLLMENT IS MORE THAN THAT OF LAST SESSION

Exact Figures Will Not be Known Until After Tomorrow

At the end of the second day of official registration, figures secured from the office of Dean Scott H. Goodnight, director of summer session, revealed that this year's enrollment will probably exceed that of any previous year.

Last year on the second day of registration, the total reached was exactly 4,005. Saturday night the total for this year's session was 4,099.

Figures tomorrow from late comers will reveal more definitely the real registration figures. Throughout the week many will sign up for the six weeks course, and another group, finishing work toward the Ph. D. degree will enter after three weeks to take exams.

Exact figures on the total registration will not be made up until that time, according to Margaret Ellingson, secretary to the dean.

The total reached last night was 4,862, a slight increase over that of last year's.

Included in the registration figure are 34 girls who are enrolled in the industrial course, 91 in the coaching course, '91 in the Law School, 5 in the Rocky Mountains geology course, and 70 specialized engineering courses working away from the campus.

This lecture will be given at 3:30 o'clock in 212 Bascom hall.

At 4:30 o'clock in 112 Bascom hall, Eric Miller, meteorologist of the university, will talk on the subject, "Is Our Climate Changing?" Mr. Miller is a familiar figure on the campus and is considered in terms of "The Man Who Knows" when one considers the weather.

The Deutscher Verein will hold its first meeting of the session at 7:30 o'clock at Lathrop parlors. Prof. E. C. Roedder of the German department will address the meeting, speaking of "Rotenburg O. T." He will illustrate his lecture which will be given in German. The meeting is open to the public.

400 GUESTS HERE FOR CONVENTION

Special Train Arrived Yesterday for Sigma Kappa National Meet

With the arrival of the special train at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, almost 400 guests and delegates to the Sigma Kappa national convention registered last night at the Loraine hotel, according to Frances Warren, national chairman and Helen Gibson, registrar.

The business program of the convention delegates will center at the Loraine, but all the large business meetings will be held at the Congregational church. The entire convention party will have their meals in the Crystal ball room of the Loraine.

The forty-fifth national convention of the sorority opened officially at 8 o'clock last evening with a party in the Crystal ball room. Greetings were read from Gov. John J. Blaine in behalf of the state. Mayor Schmedeman spoke for the city. Dean Scott H. Goodnight and Miss Blanche Trilling expressed the welcome of the university.

Miss Lora Monroe, grand president, and Miss Ruth Litchen, grand secretary, delivered short addresses on behalf of the National council. Mrs. Ida Fuller Pierce, one of the five charter members of the sorority, was an honored guest.

This afternoon the Sigma Kappas will be entertained by various women's clubs throughout the city, and will be taken for an automobile tour about the city and the campus. At 8 o'clock this evening an inter chapter star contest with silver trophies will be held in the concert room of Lathrop hall.

275 Attend First Community Sing; Winkler Directs

Approximately 275 people, largely summer session students, spent a most enjoyable hour in the Auditorium of Music hall at 7 o'clock last evening. The occasion was the first of a series of informal music entertainments which will be continued each Monday evening throughout the summer session.

Community singing under the direction of Prof. Theodore Winkler proved to those present that an hour can go very quickly when every one enters into the spirit of song. Some of the men present realized for the first time that they could sing, and Prof. Winkler accomplished the results.

Special numbers were played on the organ by Paul G. Jones '27, who also accompanied at the piano for the community singing, and who was appointed to the teaching staff of the School of Music yesterday. His two numbers, "Dubois-Toccata" and "Lemare's Andante" were well received. At 8 o'clock he broadcast an organ program from Music hall.

Speaks Today

Glenn Frank

President Glenn Frank will address all summer session students and members of the faculty at a convocation to be held at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Men's gym. Since coming to the university, "Prexy" has become very popular with students, and the talk this afternoon will afford a good chance to hear the man about whom educators throughout the country are talking.

"OVER THE HILL" SHOWS TOMORROW

First of Series of Movies to be Given Without Charge

The first of a series of moving pictures secured through the director of the summer session and open without charge to all university students will be shown at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening in the Auditorium of Music hall. The film to be shown is a re-issue of the famous "Over the Hill," starring Mary Carr.

The program, which is to last from 7 until 9 o'clock, is the first of the regular Wednesday night programs of moving pictures open to summer session students to be run throughout the six weeks terms.

"Over the Hill" is the film version of two of the most popular poems in Will Carleton's collection of "Farm Ballads."

The story is that of the family "black sheep" who, finding that his father is a thief, takes the blame on his shoulders and goes to jail for it. The older brother, Isaac, a cad and hypocrite, takes his mother's money for his own use, sending the old lady to the poor house. John is released from jail, finds his brother and drags him through the streets to apologize to their mother. The faithful sweetheart is present to give the love element and, as usual, all's well that ends well.

The University of Washington crew took first place yesterday afternoon in the 28th annual regatta at Poughkeepsie, Wisconsin, handicapped by a late spring, but fighting to the finish, took seventh place.

The eight representatives of the Navy took second place, having nosed out by a quarter of a length by Washington. Syracuse, dark horse of the race, followed the Navy across the finish line taking third place.

Order at Finish

The other five shells finished in the following order:

Pennsylvania, fourth; Columbia, fifth; California, Sixth; Wisconsin, seventh; and Cornell, eighth.

While no records were broken, the time was considered exceptionally fast for the day. Washington was clocked at 19:28 3-4. Wisconsin's time was 20:07.

Earlier Events

In the events earlier in the afternoon, Columbia's yearling crew took first place, leading California five lengths at the finish.

The junior varsity race was won by the University of Washington eight. Coming from behind in the last half mile, they succeeded in beating Pennsylvania by a length.

Washington got away with a scant lead. Columbia was second and Pennsylvania third. The others were bunched.

Feeble minded on increase

Gillen Pleads for Measures to Check Their Too Rapid Advancement

"It is only a question of time when the feeble minded will swamp the others on this earth unless some measures are taken to prevent their too rapid increase," Prof. J. C. Gillen told his audience at an illustrated lecture on "The Menace of the Feeble Minded," in Bascom hall yesterday afternoon.

Prof. Gillen pointed out that although the death rate of the feeble minded is high, the birth rate is on the increase and very much in excess of the average birth rate.

There are over 2,000,000 feeble minded persons in the United States, with a large number in institutions.

The existence of the feeble minded individual in olden times was brought out by Mr. Gillen by several examples from literature of the Elizabethan times as well as in the Roman and Greek civilizations. The swineherd in Ivanhoe was pointed out as being one of the best examples of feeble minded persons in existence at that time.

The new thing that has been discovered in the last 30 years in regard to the feeble minded person is discrimination between various states and kinds of mental disorders, Prof. Gillen stated. Since every increase of knowledge entails specific treatment, modern methods of treating this class of society were shown by illustrations explained by Mr. Gillen.

Contrary to modern belief the feeble minded are not naturally vicious if right circumstances are provided for them and throughout the United States various institutions have been established to study and care for these individuals of all ages.

One interesting case pointed out by Prof. Gillen was that of a feeble minded person who was a so-called "fire bug" in the state of Indiana. After being transferred from various institutions he was placed in one where he was allowed to wa (Continued on Page Ten)

TEXTBOOK DRAWS GREAT ATTENTION

Printed in Germany in 1524;
Now at the University of Texas

A volume which attracts particular attention from the many visitors to the Garcia collection in the University of Texas is a geography text printed in Germany in 1524. This book, more properly called a "Cosmography," written by Peter Apianus in Latin, is in an excellent state of preservation after 400 years.

The book contains several moveable diagrams which are intended to facilitate the understanding of the movement of the earth and other planets. Many of the diagrams, made from woodcut, are hand colored. The index makes use of both black and red ink, which is regarded as unusual in such an early book.

Maps in the "Cosmography" show how little was known of the earth in that time. The continent of North America resembles a small island more closely than the large body of land it is. At that time, however, discoverers had reached only the Florida coast, and were unaware how far the continent extended northward, as was shown by the many attempts to reach the East by finding the passage through the northern waters.

A great deal more was known of the continent of South America, and consequently it is given more space on the early maps. Material in the book is more concerned with navigation than what is included in later geographies.

450 At Morningside Heights Sunday Picnic

Approximately 450 picnickers enjoyed the outing at Morningside Heights yesterday. All enjoyed the barbecue lunch given by the owners, Joseph E. Davies and Mrs. Paul Reinch, through Laurence M. Rowley. Many lots were sold during the day.

Wampum and tobacco were common units of exchange in the colonies before the Revolution.

"Once Upon a Time"

When a Woman's Knees Were a Dark Secret

BY TOM SIMS.

There was a time, and not so long ago either, when the ladies marched out on the tennis court in shock absorbing two-way skirts and striped blazers that would have made a barber pole turn pale with envy.

They wore them, it seems, not because they were comfortable but because they were Regulation Equipment. They never forgot they were Gentlewomen, and they blushed when they said, "Thirty-love."

In those days a man could attract a crowd by wearing knickers.

The girls didn't get around the courts very fast, but they did preserve their Dignity and Decorum.

This was not back in the Mid-Victorian days when the parlor was upstairs and the most prized possession in the household was the what-not. It was only 10 years ago, and the young lady pictured above is none other than Mary K. Browne, who lost the other day to Suzanne Lenglen. She lost a great deal more gracefully than she would have had she been wearing the outrage upon civilization shown here.

Nowadays the tennis girls are short on skirts but long on playing. When they go on the courts they are prepared to give the cash customers an eyeful of white stocking, but they throw in a little tennis with it.

Philadelphia

The cinder track in the Municipal stadium of the Sesqui-Centennial International exposition in Philadelphia will be one of the fastest in the country when the national A. A. U. track and field championships are held there July 2, 3 and 6, according to Lawson Robertson, coach of the University of Pennsylvania trackmen and business manager of the 1928 Olympic team.

The Municipal stadium track has been built within the last three months, yet now is about as fast as any in the East. In its first test—when the Philadelphia high schools staged their annual championship games—the track responded in wonderful fashion.

In the last event of the day—the 220 yards dash—the winner broke the record of 22.5 seconds, made four years ago on the Franklin field track by a fifth of a second. This was made despite the pounding the track had received from the Shriners' and Industrial parades a few days previous.

"Right now," declared Robertson while ~~working~~ a corps of skilled workers improve the track, "the stadium track is one of the fastest in the East. From my experience with others, I know that it can be improved about 25 per cent, thus making it the fastest in the country.

WOMEN TO HOLD TENNIS CONTEST

Miss Hastie Asks Students to Sign Up for Ladder Tournament

Women who are interested in tennis are asked to sign up for the summer ladder tennis tournament to be conducted by the physical education department, according to Miss E. H. Hastie, instructor who is in charge of the contests.

The summer tournament is open to any woman student who is interested. The first ones to register will be placed at the top of the ladder and any contestant has the right to challenge either of the two girls preceding on the card board ladder on the bulletin board in Lathrop hall.

The tournament will end on August 2 and the woman whose name is at the top at that time, will be declared the winner.

"It is not necessary that a woman contestant be an expert," said Miss Hastie. "We want everyone that is at all interested to sign up on the ladder on the bulletin board or with me at the office, 404 Lathrop hall. The more that sign up, the more interesting the contests will become."

Mr. Peabody declared that sketches for the structure will no be completed for some time in the future.

Designs for the first units of the Memorial Union building are being rushed along by the architect's office. Contract figures will probably be accepted for construction of the units about Aug. 1. Mr. Peabody predicted.

Construction will begin on the $390,000 chemistry building addition as soon as the type of ventilation for the wing is agreed upon.

These building projects and matters relative to the summer session will be considered at a meeting of the executive committee of the board of regents at a meeting to be held here on Friday, July 30.

WISCONSIN SEVENTH

Washington first—Wisconsin seventh!

So ran the headlines last night when the boys rushed through the streets last evening with their extras. "Wisconsin came in seventh"—no story in explanation of what happened, nothing but the bare statement of the order at the finish line.

What did it mean? Was Wisconsin defeated? Wasn't this year's crew of the stamina of previous years? So countless questions will be raised today as to what happened on the Hudson. This is no attempt at an alibi. The news reports give us no ground for such draw-fish attitude.

Wisconsin went down to Poughkeepsie handicapped as every sportsman and newswriter recognized, under the great setback of a late start on the lake. "Dad" Vail, who is one of the most revered men at Wisconsin, refused to make any promises other than that the crew would fight every inch of the way. Whether Wisconsin came in first, seventh or last, that crew, every man of them, was fighting as hard as he could to bring glory to Wisconsin.

For those of the summer session students who have never experienced the thrill of singing "Varsity" after taking the short end of a football score; for those who have not stood there beside 40,000 others with bared heads and sung that song till the roots of your hair tingled; for those of you who have not felt this something that is Wisconsin, there may not be that feeling of pride in a crew which fights down the Hudson, even though taking seventh place.

Victory is not always for the conquerors. The best team does not always pile up the greatest scores. Wisconsin does not claim to have the most championships, the greatest number of trophies. What she does have is teams that fight, teams that struggle to the gun, teams that don't know the word quit.

The athletic field is not alone in this spirit. It is the ambition of the university to turn men and women out into the world who have learned to tackle problems, to face the facts, to fight for right and truth, and to fight to the end.

We are just as proud of our crew as if they had taken first place. "Dad" Vail, Capt. Coulter, and the eight members of the crew, we take our hats off to you as real Wisconsin fighters.

HEAR FRANK TODAY

This afternoon summer session students are to be given the opportunity to meet and hear President Glenn Frank. The talk will be given at the convocation being held at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Men's gymnasium, the big red armory on Langdon street.

It is almost needless to urge that students attend the convocation, for word of President Frank, reports of his work at the university has been broadcast throughout the nation. Since coming to the university Dr. Frank has caught the spirit of Wisconsin and has already added his interpretation of educational theory in more clearly defining university policy. He is started on a program which is expected to rank Wisconsin once again as one of the greatest universities in the country. Progressive theories are to be given a working chance, and with the advent of Prof. Alexander Meiklejohn, an actual working plan of the latter's educational theories is to be tried out in the fall.

STUDENTS ACQUIRE FALSE BELIEFS, BUT NOT FROM THEIR TEXTBOOKS

High school students have a surprisingly large number of false concepts of American history and contemporary politics.

They acquire them from conversation with their families, the newspapers, teachers, campaign speeches and the "so-called patriotic education of the public" and not from their textbooks.

This conclusion is reached in a thesis prepared at the university for the degree of master of arts by R. W. Keahey, and N. D. Conners, working under the direction of Prof. A. B. Hall, of the political science department, and Prof. John Guy Fowlkes, of the School of Education. The thesis is based upon the answers made in 6,128 questionnaires submitted to seniors and to freshmen in high schools in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Minnesota.

Accept Textbooks

A list of 50 questions was prepared and submitted to 32 leading political scientists who agreed as to whether they represented truth or error. Results of the questionnaires showed that 52.5 per cent of the high school students subscribed to the "nineteen inaccurate concepts most inaccurately held".

A study of the textbooks used in the history and civics classes in the schools in which questionnaires were answered showed that the textbooks could not be blamed.

19 Conceptions

The false conceptions which more than half the students accepted as being true are the best remedies for all evils is to pass laws prohibiting them, the United States has the most democratic government in the world, political bosses and political machines should be abolished, one function of the United States government is to guarantee every man a living, a good republican administration means prosperity, the republican party should not be held responsible for the conduct of Fall and Daugherty, since crime is personal, the voice of the people is the voice of God, and any person criticizing a decision of the supreme court of the United States is not patriotic.

Others were those who oppose the initiative and referendum are undemocratic, a protective tariff always means a full dinner pail for the American workman, the inheritance tax is designed to reach the property of the rich, the men who talk against war, when war is near at hand, as in 1917, are unpatriotic, America has always dealt squarely with all nations, when a man has become a good official but has served two terms it is best that he retire and let someone else have the office a while, every citizen of the United States has the inherent right to vote, America has no selfish interest in securing the protection of Germany and France, all socialist principles in American government should be abolished, the United States constitution provides the collection of export duties and the U. S. congress and high officials have always taken the most progressive action for the betterment of the U. S. at home and abroad.

Coolidge Is Favorite

The students were also asked to name "the three greatest living Americans". President Coolidge was named by 93 per cent, Henry Ford by 87 per cent, and Thomas A. Edison by 60 per cent.

Comment by the investigators deplored the fact that more than half the students in the high schools will go through life without ever knowing the truth about American history and politics, inasmuch as only 10 per cent of them ever study in college.

Public Refuses Truth

Examination of some of the textbooks revealed that the authors failed to state the truth about these concepts. The investigators asserted that the American people do not want their children taught the truth and that many history and civics textbooks are being written for the purpose of getting them generally adopted rather than for the dissemination of truth.

Most of the textbooks, say the investigators, dodge the issue, whereas a few actually give false impressions. All civics books used in the high schools in which students answered the questionnaires "damned all political bosses" and all referred to the Tweed ring, the investigators declared.

INTERESTING MUSICAL RECITAL GIVEN

A conflicting note was struck in an impromptu musical recital given between the Fiddledee house and the Varsity apartments last Sunday afternoon which resulted in a veritable battle of harmony—harmony as produced by the playing of the chromatic scale with variations and alterations.

It seems that an ardent clarinetist who had taken residence for the summer in the Fiddledee house had been practicing on his unique instrument for a number of days, causing so much approbation in the apartment building that approval finally culminated in a return of the favors by some unknown concertist who lived in the tenements.

The unusual contest was quite one-sided, however, the cornetist's wind and lip seeming to have expired so that he played for only a short time, leaving his more enduring competitor in possession of the field of honor.

As has been said, "The Scale," by Chromo, was the most popular air with both the musicians. The audience also favored that melody, applauding vociferously after each rendering. Other pieces were played, but were strange to the ear of the critic, so we are unable to give a complete listing of the selections in the program at this time.

It is hoped by the adherents of both sides that the two artists will collaborate again in the near future. The owner of the apartments, however, is said to be opposed to another voluntary. Somewhere in Pope's poems he read, "Chromatic torture shall soon drive them hence." Which exodus would be very unprofitable to him.

WE'RE STILL LOOKING FOR CONTRIBS TO THIS COLUMN. We thought we had one yesterday. Chased the cute little thing all the way from Bascom hall out to Camp Randall, but it skooted down its hole out there and escaped us.

The mole on its nose had dug the hole.

COMING

Within the next few days or so a brand new love story, hitherto unpublished will begin in this column. It was never published for very good reasons. We haven't decided on the title or the plot yet, but will do so before Thursday's edition and will make the grand announcement at that time. WATCH FOR THURSDAY'S CARDINAL!

IN THE MEANTIME WE MUST HAVE INSPIRATIONS. BRING THEM TO THE OFFICE.

Southern Co-eds are more popular than at any summer session in history. At least—Art Dahl says so!

Teaching school must be an appetizing profession. Yelseth works at a place where some of the educators eat.

People who swim in the lake should be warned about the sharks that infest that body of water. We have seen all kinds of sharks displaying themselves in the lake—math sharks, English sharks, economics sharks—all kinds of sharks.

But not of the Roman empire, thank goodness. Harvard is the Roman empire in the realms of education. Oi, Yoi.

CAMPUS PROVES TO BE A SURPRISE TO MANY HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS

"Say, is that the Wisconsin Union building? It doesn't look like so much, for all I've heard of it."

From the lips of one rather surprised high school teacher issued these plaintive words, as she gazed closely at the old home of three former Wisconsin presidents.

Taking pity on her state of ignorance of Badger geography, a hastening man, a regular student for three years and who loves Wisconsin so well that he intends to repeat one of his courses in summer session, chimed in:

"That's what they have to use now, just for the offices of the Daily Cardinal, Haresfoot, Glee club and other outside activities. But look down at the next lot. There's going to be a Union!"

Big Hole To Become Home

But this is only one of the many questions and remarks that the regular students have to endure, some with a snicker and others with tolerance and understanding.

South hall, that little rectangular building which houses the offices of the director of the summer session and which in the early days of the university was a men's dormitory, seems to be particularly elusive from the number of questions heard as to its location.

Size Dismays Texan

Many of the newcomers, anxious for a first view of Wisconsin's notable spectacles, are surprised that the famous Camp Randall, with its massive stadium and far-stretched athletic fields, is not right across the street from the library or from Lathrop, "or somewhere" within reason."

Indeed, the distances from point to point on the Badger campus are a thing of awe and dismay to many of the newly matriculated seekers of knowledge. One excited and breathless youth was heard to exclaim:

"Why, it's almost a mile from Sterling hall to the Armory, and they expect us to make it in 10 minutes. Down in Texas, where I come from, we have a big state and lots of land, but we don't waste as much of it putting it between the buildings of our university."

Thongs Flee Earthquake in Italy Island

Thousands Of Homes Destroyed On Rhodes;
Only One Dead

ROME — The village of Arkhangelo was wiped out and several other towns on the Island of Rhodes were seriously damaged in Saturday's earthquake which was felt throughout the Mediterranean Basin between Asia Minor, Southern Italy and North Africa.

As far as is known only one person was killed, several were injured. Greater loss of life was prevented by the flight of the panic-stricken population as soon as the first intimation of the approach of the dreaded earth tremor was felt.

The quake lasted only from 50 seconds to two minutes in various places and repeated itself three times.

The severest damage was wrought on the Island of Rhodes where several thousand houses were destroyed. Not a single important building was left standing at Arkhangelo, while 600 structures tumbled down at Rhodes.

Dedicate New Circuit Court Quarters Here

County Bar Association Takes Part In Ceremonies

The new courtroom on the fourth floor of the Dane county courthouse was dedicated this morning. The new quarters are now occupied by Circuit Judge Hoppmann and his staff.

The courtroom previously occupied by Judge Hoppmann has been taken over by Circuit Judge Sachtjen. The rooms occupied by Judge Sachtjen will be turned over to Superior Judge Stolen when minor repairs have been made.

Members of the Dane County Bar association gathered in the new courtroom for the formal opening.

Judges Hoppmann and Sachtjen were ushered into the room by two attorneys, C. E. Buell and T. M. Priestly, after Deputy Sheriff E. E. McKernan had issued the call for court to convene.

Mr. Buell, speaking on behalf of the members of the county association, cited the beauties of the new courtroom and promised to Judge Hoppmann the support of the association.

Judge Hoppmann responded with his thanks.

Jenner, who examined Quast, wrote on the record the notation "Broken neck." Quast admitted he stumbled and fell the day before coming to Milwaukee.

Eschweiler Disagrees On Compensation Law Ruling

Justice Franz C. Eschweiler disagrees with his associates of the state supreme court on the liability of a municipality in workmen's compensation cases resulting from injury to a person unlawfully employed.

The court recently held that the town of New Holstein is liable for treble damages for the injury of a 16-year old boy who was employed by it without a permit, as required by the workmen's compensation act.

Justice Eschweiler, in a dissenting opinion, expressed the belief that a city or town should not be made to pay treble compensation.

Endeavorers Elect Racine Man New Head

Prof. Kahlenberg Tells Meet We Must Learn To Be Alone

Frank Nelson, Racine, was elected president of Wisconsin Christian Endeavor Union at the close of its state convention here. Gerhard Strauss, Lake Mills, was named vice president; Miss Allie Kastein, Waukon, secretary; and Charles Bierman, Milwaukee, treasurer.

The greatest lesson that Americans must learn is to be alone, Prof. L. A. Kahlenberg of the University of Wisconsin told the 200 delegates which attended the last meeting Sunday afternoon. He pointed out that the great things are accomplished most often when the inventor, the scientist, or the artist is part from the rest of the world.

"Applied mechanics have taken away the drudgery from the farm, from the factory, from almost every occupation. The problem of what to do with the increasing leisure of our life may be solved by using those hours for creative thinking."

"Some of the greatest inventors and scientists never attended a university. If they had, they might never have been great."

"The university is necessarily a conservator of knowledge, passing down the stored up knowledge of the past. It leaves the student with too little loneliness and leisure for creative thought."

He declared that the rejuvenation of the church was accomplished not "by the high priests but by a carpenter," and that today its rejuvenation must come from the common people.

GILLEN ASKS CHECK FOR FEEBLE MINDED

der around, but always under supervision.

On one occasion the superintendent found him standing fascinated by the fire in the boiler room of the heating plant. Asking him how he would like to work there feeding the fire, and receiving an overjoyed response, the superintendent put him to work "feeding his God—Fire" and never had any more difficulty with the "fire bug" for he had found his right environment.

Such is one of the many ways in which feeble minded persons are kept from being a menace to so-cietry, as well as preventing their increase and modern students of sociology are discovering more and more in the increasing complexity of our society, ways and means to prevent their rapid increase.

Open Your Checking Account at "The Branch" Today

Take advantage of the specialized student banking service with which the Branch Bank of Wisconsin Serves 95% of the student body.

Now that you've registered and started attending classes, you're probably beginning to realize what an advantage a checking account in a local bank will be. 95% of the student body during regular sessions realize this and "bank at the branch." Follow their example.

IT'S CONVENIENT TO BANK HERE

Situated right in the heart of the student district, the Branch is ideally located to serve you. You pass us many times daily, and it's easy to drop in and check up on your account or make a deposit.

IT'S EASIER TO CASH BRANCH CHECKS

Madison merchants are naturally wary about cashing out-of-city checks. But there's no difficulty in cashing Branch checks, because it is so easy for the merchant to call us and ascertain whether or not you have an account.

WE WILL GLADLY ADVISE YOU

Years of contract with students and student activities have acquainted us with the financial problems of university people. We will gladly give you the benefit of this experience. Feel free to consult with any of our officials about your financial affairs.

ASK ANY REGULAR SESSION STUDENT

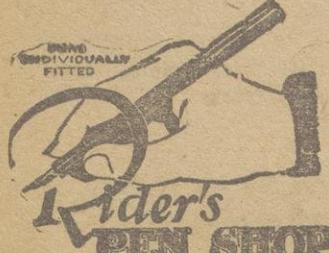

All Wisconsin students know the Branch and the service it performs. Ask any one of them about it. They will tell you that it is much easier, much more convenient, than banking at a hometown bank. What the student body thinks of this institution is reflected in the fact that 95 per cent of them do business here.

Good Parkway Bill Has It's Setting in the Lower Regions

A number of good acts combine at the Parkway for the first part of this week to make one of the best all around bills we have seen in Madison for some time.

"The Skull Orchard," an eerie mystery skit which treats of the fears of a negro bold face who has accepted a short-time job in an undertaking parlor, is good, although the audience seemed to miss some of it.

Baby Dorothy Johnson, the child musician who is back at the Parkway on her second return engagement, pleases her auditors as much as ever. Her personality is pleasing on the stage, as is her juvenile voice and saxophone playing.

Fran Steele's orchestra, playing in an effective "hell setting", plays hot enough music to match its costumes and scenery. "We have been told to go to hell," says the leader, "and here we are."

Hazel Green, in a singing and Charlestoming act, puts enough pep into her act to vie with the devil syncopators. Miss Green seemed to be the favorite of the audience, receiving many encores.

"Born to the West" is the feature photoplay of the program—a western story from the pen of Zane Grey. Jack Holt stars as "Colorado Dare", the dare-devil who returns from his cowpunching activities just in time to rescue his schoolgirl sweetheart from the unscrupulous villain who has claims on her. Jack Holt makes a good looking hero; Margaret Morris makes a beautiful heroine; and Raymond Hatton makes an excellent humorous character, so why say more. "Born to the West" is built along the lines of the usual western story, but is above the average in quality.

An "Our Gang" comedy, Aesop's fables, and the usual newsreel complete the bill.

Riot Squad Kills Negro Who Shot 3 Officers

BALTIMORE, Md.—(P)—Riot squads were called out today when a crazed negro shot three policemen, and probably two other persons before being killed by a wounded patrolman in northwest Baltimore.

The negro levelled a shotgun and fired pointblank as a police car containing three patrolmen passed along the street. The patrolmen all were wounded. As the negro started to run, a woman and girl crossed his path, and he fired at them. They dropped to the sidewalk. Patrolman Schuman, himself suffering from gunshot wounds, then shot the negro to death.

AILEEN PRINGLE GOOD IN STRAND PHOTOPLAY

By E. M. H.

Extremely attractive in a wild way, Aileen Pringle succeeds in giving a vivid impersonation of the wilderness woman in the play of that name at the Strand theater this week.

The production deals with a woman and her father who made fabulous sums of money in a breathtaking way. Determined to give his daughter all possible advantages, the father took the girl to New York and then the complications set in. Some of them are quite funny, others border on the tragic.

Of course there are the city lover, the scheming villain and the pet bear in the play, all of which adds to the excitement of the plot.

As the heroine, Miss Pringle gives a fairly realistic representation of a woman, unspoiled by an artificial, civilized environment. She at times, tends to become almost too cultured and too finished to be entirely true to the wilds, during the greater part of the performance she presents a sufficiently rough appearance to suit the idealized conception of the Wilderness Woman.

Chester Conklin makes as lovable a father here as ever. It is always left to him to introduce the touches of comedy but he also adds those indescribably deft touches of pathos which give the artistic finish to any production.

In the role of the lover, Lowell Sherman deserves some mention. Suffice it to say that he is as good as he always is.

St. Louis Populace Interested In Art

ST. LOUIS—That increasing interest is being shown in art is illustrated by the fact that more than 30,000 persons have viewed the exhibition of contemporaneous European paintings at the City Art Museum in Forest Park since it opened May 1. The exhibition, which comprises 362 canvases by artists of twelve countries, will remain at the museum through June.

"Whispering Smith" Detective Play of a Western Railway

BY W. P.

"Whispering Smith" is another western story in town this week. It is more than a western story, revolving about the activities and final apprehension of a band of railway thieves—therefore a detective tale.

The screen version was adapted from Frank H. Spearman's novel of the same name and is dubbed the season's big super-western. There is little that is particularly super about it, however, it seeming to be quite the usual western thriller, replete with desperadoes, bandits, fearless cowpunchers, and the like.

"Whispering Smith," played by H. B. Warner, is employed by a large railway line to go west and round up a gang that has been spoiling the trains sent through a certain district. This "Ace of Railway Detective" does as he is commanded and finds enemies on every hand—necessar yto the plot, of course. He discovers that the bandits are led by a man in the employ of the railway company itself and that he has so completely pulled the wool over the eyes of the community that everyone believes him to be an upright man. The friend of the detective is in love with one of the "fair sex" who has been fooled by the crafty villain, thus introducing the love element.

The strong silent man is, of course, victorious in the end, overcoming the crooks and disclosing their leader. Smith's boy friend, an engineer just out of college, wins the girl, and Smith himself—but see the show yourself. It's well done and entertaining if that's the type of show that appeals to you.

Baldwin Proposes an 8-Hr. Day for Miners

LONDON—The Baldwin government has introduced a bill in Commons to increase the working hours in the coal mining industry from seven hours to eight hours a day. This bill is Premier Baldwin's proposal for solving the coal strike. The premier purposes that while the length of the working day shall be increased there shall be no decrease in the present scale of wages. The miners are bitterly opposed to the measure and a protracted fight against it is foreshadowed.
