14 CINDER MEN ENTER ILLINOIS RELAY CLASSIC

All Big Ten Colleges and Many Others Run Today

Fourteen Wisconsin track men are entered in the annual University of Illinois Relay carnival at Urbana tonight. The Illinois carnival, which has come to be recognized as the western indoor relay classic, has received the entries of every Big Ten college besides Notre Dame, Nebraska, Missouri, and minor colleges, and a University of Pennsylvania quartet of relay runners.

The Quakers are sending a record-breaking squad of runners, with Earl Eby as anchor man. Eby won a place in the 1920 Olympic games at Antwerp, Belgium, and his middle distance running has been the sensation of the east.

High Jumpers Are Good

Probably the best of the special events listed will be the high jump in which there are six men entered, all of whom have made better than six feet. These men are: Murphy, Notre Dame; Bradley, Kansas; Armstrong, Wisconsin; Evans, Earlham college; Osborne, Alberts, Illinois.

Murphy and Osborne have the best jumps of this coterie of jumpers, but Armstrong, Badger high jumper, has been showing rare form in recent trials and he may cop the event.

In the high hurdles, Knollin, Armstrong and Stolley will enter. Knollin took a third place in the 1920 Conference track meet, and he is slated to count for Wisconsin in the hurdles tonight.

Sundi to Jump

Guy Sundt, who won the broad jump against Illinois last year and coached the meet for Wisconsin, is again entered in this event, as well as in the shot put. Sundt won more points last year than any other Big Ten track and field man except Carl Johnson, Michigan.

Wisconsin entries follow: M. H. Wall '22, H. C. Dennis '21, W. Brothers '21, G. H. Finkle '23 in the four mile relay; Captain C. L. Nash '21, P. A. Kayser '21, L. P. King '21, W. E. Johnson '22 in the one mile relay; A. J. Knollin '22, G. R. Stolley '22, G. M. Sundt '22, L. L. Wilder '21, D. Merrick '22, H. W. Armstrong '23 in the special events.

PICK STAFF FOR ATHLETIC REVIEW

11 Men Aid in Publication of Revived Sport Magazine

The editorial and business staffs of the Wisconsin Athletic Review, the revived student publication that will appear on the campus next Tuesday, were announced yesterday by Allard Frogner '22, editor-in-chief, and Wesley Travers '21, business manager.

Assisting the editor-in-chief is a staff of editors composed of John N. Williams '22, in charge of the football section; Worth E. Shultz '23, baseball and athletic board editor; Leslie R. Gage '23, who is editing articles on swimming and news of the coaches, and Carson F. Lyman

EDDY SPEAKS ON SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Outlines World Needs in First Conference Talk Discusses Socialism and Unrest at Night Meeting

"The world needs bread, the world needs peace, and the world needs God. Shall we meet the needs?" That is the message that Sherwood Eddy brought to students of Wisconsin in the first meeting of the campus religious conference in Lathrop gymnasium yesterday at 3 p. m.

Mr. Eddy sketched conditions in the 18 countries through which he has been travelling for the past year and described in vivid detail the industrial, social, economic, and moral unrest that obtains throughout the world.

"Every country that I have visited during the past year I have found in the midst of national crises—strikes, and industrial unrest," he declared, "Hunger, famine, rebellion, and war are shaking the world."

Not Pessimistic

"It is a dark day," said Mr. Eddy, "but I was never less pessimistic about the outcome of the situation. It was a dark day after the French

HIGH LIGHTS IN EDDY SPEECH

Bread, Peace, and God are the three immediate needs of the world.

This is the greatest decade of stress, adjustment, transition, and evolution that the world has ever known.

Congestion of wealth with a few, wide-spread poverty among the many is America's greatest evil at the present time.

One and three-quarter million children who should be in school are not.

Evolution or Revolution—two ways of settling the world problem. Which shall it be?

Democracy is coming.

A student in Austria earned $26 a year—his entire means of sustenance—by tutoring.

Revolution, but when the darkness of the storm was disseminated, lasting gains emerged. When the great ends of liberty, democracy and right emerge, it will be found that the Great War has not been useless. The world is struggling, blindly perhaps, but struggling, nevertheless, toward

CARDINAL TO ISSUE STYLE SUPPLEMENT

Tomorrow morning The Daily Cardinal will issue in addition to the regular Sunday edition a special section of eight pages devoted entirely to fashions and in particular Spring styles.

The style supplement is an entirely new venture in the annals of Cardinal publication, and is as unique as any special edition ever attempted by a college daily paper. Madison merchants are in large measure responsible for the supplement, proving by their response with special Spring advertisements that student trade is appealed to and appreciated.

That the working principles which will ensure the future welfare of the world can be summed up in the teachings of Christianity was the statement made by Sherwood Eddy in his talk on "The Challenge of a Social and Industrial Problem," to the large audience which crowded Lathrop gymnasium last night.

"Vast changes, whether for good or ill, are taking place today. The world, I'm afraid, is drifting toward another war, which would be much more terrible than the last, because of new and powerful inventions," he began.

"Every nation is showing signs of a social and industrial unrest, and in many this has already culminated in revolutions and disturbances of all

Discusses Socialism

Mr. Eddy discussed the relative values of state socialism, syndicalism, and the guild system, which is a compromise of the two others, as solutions of the present unrest, and showed what the result of the adoption of each would be.

"But no mere paper solution can do away with the problem," he continued. "What we need here is new relationships, a new attitude toward each other, which will enable all to live in harmony."

"This new relationship is practically summed up in the teachings of Christianity. The three main principles to be considered are: the infinite worth of the individual man,

BASKET TEAM IS READY FOR GOPHER GAME

Badger Title Chances Hang on Game at 7:15 Tonight

PROBABLE LINEUP

Wisconsin	Minnesota
Taylor	R. F. Oss
Ceaser	L. F. Arntson
McIntosh	O. Hultquist
R. Williams	R. G. Kierney
Frogner	L. G. Enke

The Badger basketball team is in fine shape for the biggest home game in several years, the game against Minnesota on the armory floor at 7:15 o'clock tonight. The game will be early on account of the religious conference meeting later.

The battle promises to be a hard fought one, as two more evenly matched teams never played for a conference championship. The winner of this game will probably be involved in a triple tie for conference honors, as the Illini are almost sure to lose one of their remaining games.

Wisconsin is a match for Minnesota, as the Gophers defeated them by only two points at Minneapolis; and the Badger defense will be taxed to the limit but it will have the famous Oss-Arntson combination to contend with. Oss is one of the best, if not the best, forwards in the conference, and he has an able running mate in Arntson.

Four Important Games

The Wisconsin-Minnesota game is the only one of four championship games to be played tonight. The most important of these is the Illinois-Chicago game. Dopesters have predicted that either Chicago or Michigan will beat the Suckers, and the Maroons bid fare to be the team that will turn the trick.

While Wisconsin, Purdue, Michigan, and Minnesota are placing their confidence in Chicago, they all meet tonight in important elimination games to determine which team will divide honors with Illinois, once the Suckers are beaten.

BETAS AND PHI SIGS WIN IN SEMI-FINAL BASKETBALL GAMES

Will Meet Monday Night to Decide Inter-fraternity Championship

Coming from behind in the last half of a hectic contest, the Beta Theta Pi basketball team defeated the Kappa Sigma quintet by a 21 to 13 score last night in the first of the semi-finals in the inter-fraternity basketball tournament. The Phi Sigma Kappa squad won an easy victory over Alpha Sigma Phi in the second game by the count of 24 to 8.

Finals Are Monday

The finals of the tournament will be played Monday night when the Beta Theta Pi team is slated to meet the Phi Sigma Kappas for first and second places, and Alpha Sigma Phi will stack up against Kappa Sigma for third and fourth

But it is now five hundred miles
From where it's used to here.

Soon we'll infest the lake shore

The fussers' steeple-chase;
One needs must walk out several miles
Before one gets a place.

Spring is not here, of course, but when one must choose a subject and choose it quick, one cannot be too particular of what one chooses. As for substituting milk for beer it is an outrage, but buttermilk than nothing. * * *

HONOR COMMITTEE AT CORNELL EXPELS CHEATING STUDENTS

Four men were expelled from Cornell by the Honor committee of the College of Civil Engineering as a result of cheating in exams. The men were all civil engineering students. The trials were entirely conducted by students, no faculty being present.

The Honor committee which tried the cases is composed of nine students from this college: a chairman, three seniors, two juniors, two sophomores and one freshman, the latter having no vote. In each case tried by the committee, the offenders were reported by fellow students. The honor system has been in operation in this college for several years with remarkable success.

DEGREES GRANTED AT REGENTS' MEET

The following degrees were granted, upon certification of the registrar, by the Regents of the University of Wisconsin at their regular meeting Wednesday: The degree of bachelor of laws was granted to John Wattawa, B. Michigan should win from Ohio State easily. Then, if the Wolverines can defeat Illinois, Wisconsin will have a clear claim to the title having twice defeated the team which in turn twice defeated the Suckers. In other words, if Wisconsin wins tonight, and if Michigan wins both tonight and Monday night, the Badgers will virtually be the conference champions.

Purdue and Indiana can hardly be considered among the contenders; Indiana because of a short schedule, and Purdue because Iowa is quite apt to defeat them tonight.

places. The first game will start at 8 o'clock.

Kappa Sigma took the lead in the first period of play, and maintained a narrow margin of one point until the end of the half, the score being 8 to 7.

The Betas came back strong in the second half, and held Kappa Sigma to two field goals, while they dropped seven baskets in the net.

Phi Sigma Kappa was never in danger from the first whistle to the end of the game. The first half ended with the Phi Sigs leading 15 to 6. In the second period, Alpha Sigma Phi was held to one field goal because of the close guarding game played by the Phi Sigs. The winners played a five-man defense, with the entire team going down the court on the attack.

TRUTH

That Something New

On a recent visit to New York City our buyers noticed that the high class shops on the avenue are making special displays of hand-made lingerie blouses. An inquiry showed that the leading blouse styles for the spring season are mostly of the hand-made variety, and that individuality and character are more satisfactorily expressed in this type of blouse than in any of the high class machine-made models.

A complete selection was purchased and we offer them tomorrow in a variety of designs at very moderate prices.

New shipments of millinery will be shown for the first time tomorrow.

WOODROW WILSON

TODAY Woodrow Wilson is a private citizen. Political conditions no longer afford excuse for the vindictive curses of his opponents or the rhapsodic praise of his supporters. Yet the mind of the nation instinctively turns to reflection on the career of this remarkable man as he passes from the stormy field of public office.

The career of Woodrow Wilson as president may be divided into three stages—before the war, in the war, and after the war. In the first stage he devoted himself to translating into action the principles of "the new freedom" which he had enunciated. His admirers believe that he succeeded and point to the tariff revision, the Federal reserve act, and the farm loan act.

But these acts were quickly overshadowed by our dramatic entry into the war. Surely the historian of the future will acclaim the momentous years 1917 and 1918 to be the high tide of American history, when racial, sectional, and partisan lines were wiped out and the whole nation united to "check and nullify the pretensions and power" of a system that threatened destruction to civilization. With all the alleged extravagance, waste, and inefficiency America did her part to win the war. And Woodrow Wilson was the commander-in-chief of the army and navy.

Then came the peace. The warring nations laid down their arms in response to the offer of a peace founded on justice laid down by the President of the United States. The Conference met and a treaty was formed. All the enemies of Wilson and many of his friends said this treaty was a nullification of the ideals set forth by him. Other friends and a few opponents said it was the best the conditions would permit.

Now Woodrow Wilson steps down, broken in body and wounded in spirit.

Statesmen and political scientists will differ as to his policies. But the sober second thought of the nation will pay honor to his principles and ideals, to his leadership in war, and to his efforts (fruitless though they may have been) to bring to pass the age of the poet's dream when

"—the war drum throbbed no longer and the battle flags were furled

canically as it has in Russia or peaceably as it has in Great Britain? America Has Problem

In the greatest concentration of wealth in the hands of a few that the world has ever known, America is, according to Mr. Eddy, piling up a problem that is vastly more dangerous than the European situation. Industrial accident, preventable disease, and unemployment have become appalling factors in our American life. The present crisis is the third greatest in the history of the country. It is comparable to the days of 1776 and the Civil War epoch.

"America is entering this period blindly, unprepared," stated Mr. Eddy. "Students in England are thinking. How about students here?"

Mr. Eddy's final appeal to his audience was that they withhold judgment upon the conference and upon matters placed before it until the "evidence is all in." The conference as a whole will take up in succession the social challenge, the industrial challenge, and the religious challenge of the world situation.

Today's program will be given to institutes or "round-table" discussions of vital religious subjects and to the meetings in the evening for men and women separately. The institutes are open to all who are interested in the work. They will be held in Bascom hall at 10:00 and 2:30.

Sherwood Eddy will talk to the men's meeting in Music hall to-night immediately after the basket ball game upon the subject of the "Challenge of the Moral Situation." Mrs. Eddy will speak to a similar meeting for women in Lathrop hall at the same time.

Champion Fighters Will Be Picked in Contest on March 19

The champion boxers of the university will be determined at the annual all-university boxing tournament to be held Saturday, March 19. The battlers are to compete in six weight classifications, and gold medals will be awarded to the final victors.

All men in the university are eligible to compete in the tourney, and may enter the preliminaries by reporting to Coach Edward Borgelt in the boxing room on the third floor of the gym any afternoon after 3 o'clock.

Last year's tournament was characterized by exceptionally fast and hard-fought bouts, and the finals this year are expected to be even more closely contested. Elimination matches will be staged the week previous to the tournament.

Good Condition Required

No men may enter the preliminaries who are not in good condition, and men entering the finals will be required to take an examination at the clinic before they fight, according to Coach Borgelt. The coach urges all men who are planning to enter the tourney to report at once and begin work.

Seventy men are working out for their matches now, and Coach Borgelt expects 150 to enter the preliminaries. Fifty entered last year's tourney, and 52 competed in the inter-class matches this year.

The winners of the inter-class matches were: heavy-weight, G. Richie '24, 165 lbs.; middle-weight, Freddie Johns '24, 160 lbs.; welter-weight, G. A. Martin '22, 142 lbs.; light-weight, George Dawson '22, 135; feather, M. Sutton '22, 125; bantam, J. J. Klack '23, 120.

A meet between the Milwaukee A. C. boxing team and a varsity team composed of the university champions and the best men in each class will take place at Milwaukee late this semester. The men who are interested in making this team are urged by Coach Borgelt to take advantage of the opportunity offered by the university tournament to get in condition.

ten women from each sorority must attend the games played there.

There are 21,653 teachers in the colleges and universities of the United States, with 13,103 teachers in professional schools.

EDDY DISCUSSES SOCIALISM AND INDUSTRIAL UNREST

the ends of democracy, liberty and right for which the war was fought."

"The three needs of the suffering world are bread, peace and God. The world is a hungry world whose economic foundations have been shaken. All of the countries of eastern Europe are hungry. Actual destitution exists among the students and faculties as well as among the rest of the population of Austria, Germany, and Poland. The world needs peace. The war has left the world in a chaos of national, race, and class strife.

"Evolution or Revolution is the great problem before the world at the present time. The change from autocracy to democracy is coming. The Romanoffs, the Hapsburgs, and the Hohenzollerns have gone, and a free world of democracies is emerging. Shall the transition come violent or personality; the brotherhood of man; and service, the aim to raise the standard of living, rather than to gain profit for oneself.

"Three other principles arise from these: liberty, or self-expression; justice, based on brotherhood, and stewardship or accountability. All these can be summed up in the Golden Rule: Do unto others as you would have them do unto you, the essence of which is love.

"Too often the modern business world is ruled by the opposites of these principles, which are: property, strife, profit, repression, injustice, and selfishness. These are based on the Rule of Gold, rather than the Golden Rule, and their mainspring is hate.

Two Kinds of Life

"Every man and woman here is going out to live one of those two kinds of life. We all admit love and its corollaries in the abstract, and believe that it will be attained in the other world, but when it is necessary to apply it, we say that it is interference. It must, however, be applied, if religion is not all a mockery.

"The value of industry, in the end, is its social value. The ruling idea should be that men are worth more than money. I believe that this will work, if properly applied."

Unusual Character and "Snap"

That's what can be truthfully said of HART SCHAFFNER & MARX CLOTHES. They have a character and vim to them that's not usually found in ready-to-wear garments.

Every particle of cloth that goes into a Hart Schaffner & Marx suit must bear the closest examination; every bit of workmanship must pass a corps of critical eyes before it even finds its way to our racks. With such precautions how can you help but get a suit that will more than satisfy your desires.

You don't have to take our word for it—come see what we have to show you and satisfy yourself.

Spring Hats Betray Their Newness With Glistening Tinsel

One can hardly call them prodigal in its use for in most of these stunning new modes it is so cleverly interwoven with the hem or tagal braid that one catches but a glint of gold or silver now and then as they are worn. You will find these newly arrived equally delightful to wear with street or afternoon costumes.

New Hats--Different in a host of Ways.

A novel braid and one that is growing in vogue daily is that which combines glistening cellophane with colored raffia. It forms smart little turbans and toques over the sides of which flower, feather or ribbon garnitures dangle alluringly. These hats enliven street costumes considerably and most women find them flatteringly becoming.

AT THE ORPHEUM

When you see Frances Kennedy at the Orpheum theater commencing Monday and witness the light and airy manner in which this most noted of vaudeville's comedienne unravels her special material, you would not realize what a world of thought has been lavished upon each word and line of talk embraced in her famous offering. While many of her songs have been secured from America's foremost song writers the completed perfection in which they are finally revealed, and all of her monologue is due, in no small measure to the critical and revising ability of "friend husband," Thomas J. Johnson, a prominent Chicago lawyer. He spent months revising the songs and monologue, which Miss Kennedy delivers in a few minutes. Each character and expression is true to life and taken from actual occurrences, and if you are discerning you may discover just which lines are alluded to.

AT THE STRAND

A unique theme is the basis of the latest Goldwyn picture featuring Tom Moore entitled "Hold Your Horses," by Rupert Hughes. It comes to the Strand theater Sunday to Tuesday. Here is the story: From the old country, Daniel Canavan (Tom Moore) came to New York and followed the calling of street cleaning. One day while on duty he was run down by a carriage occupied by Beatrice Newness (Naomi Childers), a wealthy society girl, and Rodman Cadbury, her swell suitor.

Later, after he had become a political boss he met the beautiful girl who had run over him. The subsequent happenings have been woven into one of the most delightfully stirring stories ever screened.

Charles Ray in "An Old Fashioned Boy" and a comedy "Torchy" with Johnny Hines will be the attraction at the Strand for the last times today, performance continuous 2 to 11.
