PRICE 5 CENTS

CLASS OF 1923 ADDS TO FUND FOR CHIMES SET

Nearly $12,000 Raised At Present

Every year one of the most wonderful carillon of chimes in the world is becoming more of a reality as the graduating classes add to the chimes fund.

Letters were sent out to 1,625 seniors yesterday afternoon soliciting the five dollar senior class assessment that was pledged by the class at the meeting of April 25. This money is to be used to give all seniors alumni memberships, to provide for a reunion fund, and the chimes fund.

Fund Started In 1917

The chimes fund was started by the class of 1917. They contributed $1,600 to the fund and five years later raised $400 more, making their complete contribution $2,000. From that year every class has made similar gifts. The class of 1918 gave $2,073; 1919, $2,110; 1920, $1,793; 1921, 2,272. The class of 1922 gave $1,000, and they promise to bring this sum up to the contributions of previous years as soon as their books are straightened. This makes a total in the fund at the present time $11,253, and with the accrued interest it will amount to approximately $12,000 by July 1.

The bells are to cost about $30,000, and it is expected that they will be made by the John Taylor and company of Loughborough, England. This special bell tower will cost $20,000, but the sum will not have to be raised by graduation classes.

To Be Finest In U. S.

The chimes will be the finest in the country and as good as any in the world. There is enough money in the fund at the present time to purchase a set as good as the famous set at Yale.

The set will be comparable with those installed in the Queenstown cathedral, England.

The set at Queenstown consists of a carillon of 42 bells with clavier, and a compass of three and one half octaves chromatic. The bells range in weight from three tons seven and three fourths cwt to 13 pounds. The total weight of the carillon is 17 tons.

The Taylor company installed the carillon at Yale university of 10 bells and a smaller set at Smith college. They have installed several other sets in this country, and are considered by musicians to be the best bell makers in the world.

PHYSICAL EDs WILL PUBLISH NEW MAGAZINE

A title for the new magazine which the women's Physical Education club is going to put out is the object of the contest which is being conducted under the direction of the board of the Physical Ed club.

The magazine is to be published four times a year and will be sent out to all of the alumnae of the department to keep them in touch with each other, and also with the changes in the department here.

Suggestions for the title for this new publication should be sent to Gretchen Kronke '24, 1121 Rutledge avenue, or turned in at the physical education club picnic Tuesday.

"There have been plans for such sheet for some time but they have never been realized before. We want this to help keep the members of the department in close touch with each other said Gretchen Kronke in speaking of it yesterday.

WEATHER

Fair and warmer Sunday. Monday probably increasing cloudiness.

"FAIR—WARMER" PROMISED FOR SCRIBE PCNIC

"Fair and warmer," the weather prediction for this afternoon and evening, completes the arrangements for the "1923 Pi Picnic" of the University Press club at Bernard park.

The annual outing-frolic will be held from 4 to 9:30 o'clock at the resort on Lake Mendota. The launch will leave the Park street pier promptly at 4 o'clock. A baseball game, picnic lunch, and moonlight trip are the principal features of the event. A tax of 50 cents will be collected when the launch leaves.

Professors Johnson and Hyde and Instructor Ruby Black will attend. Prof. and Mrs. E. M. Johnson will chaperon the party.

WORK ON PLAN FOR SWINGOUT

Committees Named By General Co-Chairmen For Annual Event

Plans for the senior swingout, which is to be held Friday, May 23, on the upper campus are progressing rapidly, according to Lois Jacobs '24, chairman of swingout this year.

This is an unusual tradition which has been observed for seven years here to show the esteem of the undergraduates for the graduating senior women. It always takes place the latter part of May.

The senior women in their caps and gowns march down the upper campus from behind Bascom hall, and then come up in pairs through the lines of junior women, all in white, who bear the daisy chain. Behind the seniors come the freshmen women from behind South hall and the sophomore women from across the campus, who meet and come through the daisy chains in pairs.

The committees who are working on swingout this year are:

General chairman—Janet Marshall '24 and Lois Jacobs '24.

Program—Dorothy Simpson '24, general chairman; Evelyn Smith '24 and Pauline Newell '24.

Arrangements—Rosamond Nolte '24, chairman; Helen Haswell '24 daisy chain; Maurine Hall '25 line of march; Margaret Henry '24 may-pole dance.

Publicity—Frances Warren '24, chairman.

The university band will play for the line of march, which will involve some rather elaborate figures this year.

Annual Dance Classic to Be Big Event of Women's Week

Dance Drama, to be given May 25 in the open air theater behind Bascom hall, will include more than 30 members of Miss Margaret H. Douber's classes in dancing. The slogan "Watch Wisconsin Women" embraces the activities of field day, senior swingout, and the Dance Drama.

The program of three parts will contain Stuart Walker's "The Six Who Passed While the Lentils Bled" nursery rhymes and a study made up of comedy sketches and "Pandora's Box."

"The students of classical dance, entirely and the Dance Drama culminates a long period of creative work," Miss Julia Hanks, of the physical education department and director of the Drama, said yesterday.

"A dance drama contains more depth and feeling than does the ordinary dance, for it creates, interprets and dramatizes. It will lend itself naturally to its out door setting and to its background of pines," Miss Hanks said.

Miss Margaret Gallagher, of the physical education department, will come from Chicago to direct the costuming and Miss E. Hillstrom and Miss J. Swift of the home economics department will assist her.

In 1917 Miss Margaret H. Douber, who is now in Europe conceived of the idea of a dance drama and

ESSAY PRIZES ARE OFFERED

Hart Schaffner and Marx Of- fers $2,000 For Essays on Economics

One thousand dollars is being offered as a first prize for the 1924 prize essays of Hart, Schaffner & Marx of Chicago for the best studies in the economic field.

A second prize of $500 is offered class A contestants. This class includes any resident of the United States or Canada, without restriction.

Wisconsin undergraduates will have an opportunity to compete for prizes in class B. A first prize of $300 and a second prize of $200 are offered to contestants in class B which includes only those who, at the time the papers are sent in, are undergraduates of any American college.

The committee in charge reserves the right to award the two prizes of $1000 and $500 of class A to undergraduates on class B, if the merits of the papers demand it.

VARSITY TRACK TEAM BEATS MINNESOTANS BY 81 TO 54 SCORE AT RANDALL FIELD

Plans Announced For the Agric Picnic at Raemer's

Agrics, Home-Ecs, and faculty members will join in the fourth annual Agric-Home-Ec picnic that will be held at the Raimier farm Tuesday afternoon, May 15.

Red arrows will be posted along the lake shore to guide the picnickers from Agricultural hall to the picnic site. The first party will leave at 3:30 o'clock, the second at 4:30 o'clock, and the third at 5:30 o'clock.

"Games and races will be conducted at the Raemer farm," said Ernest Callenback '24, in charge of games for the occasion, yesterday. Prizes will be awarded to the winners of each race. After the races, the picnickers will assemble around camp fires for a picnic feed.

Squad Still Has Clear Slate

Winning three slams and placing first in eight of the fifteen events, the Wisconsin track team humbled the strong Minnesota team at Camp Randall yesterday afternoon by an 81 to 54 score.

The victory keeps the Badger outdoor season slate clear, for the win yesterday followed a victory over Chicago a week ago. The meet was the first of the season for the Gophers.

Despite the somewhat lop-sided score, the Minnesota men showed great strength in some events and were able to shut the Badgers out in three events entirely.

Wisconsin's greatest strength lay in the runs, the pole vault, and the high jump, while Minnesota's slams came in the hurdles, the discus and the javelin.

Minnesota Star Takes Honors

Towler, Minnesota star, proved his individual strength by taking high scoring honors, while Johnson, of Wisconsin, and Gross, of Minnesota tied for second honors. Towler took first in the high and low hurdles as well as a first place in the broad jump. Gross took firsts in the shot put and discus and placed second in the javelin throw, while Johnson broke the tape in the 440 yard run, took second in the broad jump and in the 100 yard dash, and tied for second in the 220.

In one of the prettiest races of the afternoon, Rossmessel, who took first place in the mile at Chicago, improved on any previous performance and broke the tape in the fast time of 4 minutes 28 1-5 seconds. Schneider and Bergstresser followed him closely and finished second and third respectively to complete a slam in the race.

SPRING HOCKEY IS PLAYED BY MADISON CLUB

Spring hockey opportunities are being offered to all women graduate students, faculty members, and town women through the Madison Hockey club which was formed last spring for the purpose of extending hockey to women after they are graduated.

Meetings are held at Camp Randall at 5 o'clock every Tuesday and at 11 o'clock Saturday mornings.

Last fall this organization was victorious in every match contest which they played. They met several games out of town, and succeeded in defeating Milwaukee Downer alumnae team, the Milwaukee city team, the Chicago club, the Chicago Midway team and Winetka team. Besides these games they defeated the university varsity hockey team, the senior team, and the junior team.

This spring arrangements have been made to teach the game to all women who join the group. Practice on different strokes and formations will be held besides regular games.

All women who wish to play hockey and join the Madison Hockey club may do so through Mrs. Warner Taylor, president of the club, or Miss Alfreda Mosscroft, of the physical education department faculty, who is secretary-treasurer.

Attendance at every meeting is not compulsory, and women may come out at any practice time at the field house.

STUDENTS WANTED

Men and women are wanted for soliciting Cardinal subscriptions among seniors. Good commission basis. Apply to circulation manager in the Union building any day this week at 3:30 o'clock.

MILITARY INSPECTION TO BE HELD THIS WEEK

The annual staff inspection of the military department for distinguished college ratings will be held here Friday and Saturday, May 18 and 19. The annual review will be held on the lower campus Friday afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

The inspectors will see the regular work of the department in the classes at the armory Friday and Saturday mornings. A completed schedule will be announced later this week. The horse show Saturday afternoon will conclude the inspection.

Major general H. C. Hale of the sixth corps area will inspect the department on Tuesday. His trip will not be connected with the military inspection.

Results Yesterday

Wisconsin 10, Minnesota 9.

Michigan 6, Illinois 3.

Minnesota lost her hold on first place in the Conference baseball race by losing yesterday 10 to 9 to Wisconsin in a loose, uncanny game.

Heavy hitting featured the contest, the Gophers slamming out 10 safeties, two of which were home runs, and the Badgers getting a double, two three baggers and six singles.

It was a bad day for pitchers. Friedl, star Gopher hurler besides allowing nine hits, issued seven free passages to first and made a wild pitch, while he struck out only three men. Jerry Pickford started on the mound for Wisconsin, but worked only the first inning. Bill Johnson finished the game and had a bad third inning, getting tapped for a homer and four singles.

Score Eight Runs In Inning.

Wisconsin batted clear around and three men over in the first frame, pushing eight runs across the plate. This was after Minnesota had scored four times in the first half of the inning, and the fans began to think they were watching the track meet.

Gus Tebell had a busy day around third sack, handling six chances perfectly, and in addition made two hits, one of which went for two bases. Capt. Rollie Williams gathered three flies in his garden, worked the pitcher for two walks, and stole third base with the whole Gopher team watching him when pitcher Fredl dropped a ball returned to him from one of the fielders.

The fireworks started at the very beginning of the game. Gambil was hit by a pitched ball and went to second when Myrum drew a walk. Foote sacrificed the men along and Rumble brought them in with a clean blow to center. Bros' home run made the total four. Moskovich fled out to Williams, and Tebell threw Radtke out at first, ending the inning after two hits and four runs were made.

Second Inning Score Less.

The second inning was scoreless although the teams made one hit apiece. Minnesota tied the score in the third inning. Capt. Myrum fled out. Foote hit for four bases. Rumble fled to Becker. The next four men up singled, the first three scoring. Friedl made the third out with a grounder to Combacker.

Wisconsin got three hits, eight scores, six walks, and two stolen bases in this one inning.

The fifth inning was short, the men going out in order. Tebell and Holm together retired Minnesota in the first of the sixth. Servatius tripled in the Badger half of the inning and scored when Aschenbrenner was thrown out. This put Wisconsin in the lead 10 to 9, and the rest of the game ran off rather methodically.

RIVALS CROSS BATS TUESDAY

Lawyers and Engineers to Meet in Final Battle of Year

The boilermakers and the shysters are going to promote one more scrap before the toll of graduation lays them away in a blacksmith shop or filing office.

Announcement from the Law school Saturday morning declares that lawyers and engineers will clash in a baseball game on the over campus this Tuesday. The game will begin at 4 o'clock and all inter-fraternity contests are postponed to permit the leeches and the plumbers to settle their conflict.

"We hate to do it," a prominent lawyer said this morning, "because it's going to show up the engineers like a counterfeit dime in the United States mint. Most of those birds are so muscle bound from carrying slide rules and passes to Kehl's dance hall that they'll have to use quinine to keep alive on the diamond. We don't want to abuse the guys with the strong backs and weak minds, but if necessary, we'll give all engineers five strikes and a chew of their favorite tobacco when they get up to the plate."

A senior engineer characterized the lawyers as a group of "Blood-sucking shysters who would take the last cent from a starving widow after robbing her child's bank for coppers."

"We can beat that bunch in anything from pinocle to a pie-eating contest," he said. "They didn't have a chance in the snowball fight and we had two St. Patricks so we fooled them in the parade. If they can play baseball, I'm an Ethiopian. Most of those guys are too old to walk without a cane. I'll be surprised if they don't quit before the first inning is over."

If these statements are an indication of feeling, it looks like a hot ball game when the two teams clash on Tuesday.

BADGER GOLF TEAM LOSES IN FINAL ROUND

Illinois Wins By Score of 12-5

The Badger golf team lost to the Illinois team yesterday afternoon in the final round of the match. The score of the final round was 9-1 in favor of Illinois, making the total score 12-5 with the Indians on the long end.

In the morning match the Illinois men copped to points in three of the matches and tied in the fourth. Rolfe, Illinois lead-off man, got two on Captain Frost. Bock and Novotny tied with one a piece in the second and best match of the day. In their match on Friday they went the eighteen holes with no points out for either man. Humphry, third on the Illinois card, again came through with three points against Stegeman. Humphry was high point winner for the meet, scoring half of the total number of points for his team. Hopkins was defeated by Hatch with another three points for the Suckers.

Illinois Going Good

The team average in scores for the Illinois men is about 75 which for conference golf is fast going. The Indians are easily one of the best teams in the conference and will come through the season at or near the top of the frame.

In the two rounds the first pair broke even in points won, Rolfe and Frost each getting two apiece. Novotny and Bock also came out tied with one marker apiece. Humphry, high point winner of the meet won six from Stegeman. Hatch had a margin of one point on Hopkins with scores of points at 3-2.

BADGERS WILL CONDUCT CAMP

Indianola Will Have Large Number of Students on Staff

Several persons connected with the university will work in various capacities at Camp Indianola, a boy's private summer camp on the other side of Lake Mendota, according to F. G. Mueller, psychology department, proprietor of the camp.

Dr. J. C. Elsom of the department of physical education will be on the staff of counsellors as a leader of games, instructor in Indian lore, and leader of woodcraft expeditions. He also will have charge of evening entertainments. As official camp photographer he will make permanent record of the activities of the summer campers. C. E. Lauterbach of the psychology department also will be one of the counsellors at the camp. He will be in charge of story telling and will lead afternoon hikes. He will conduct several classes in school subjects in the morning.

The camp stenographer and bookkeeper will be Miss Lucile Hubbard of the psychology department. She will have several classes in French.

Athletics at the camp will be under the supervision of George Martin '23, director of winter sports at the university. He also will assist in the direction of the cavalry.

Military activities, including drill, school of the soldier and cavalry, in addition to general camp routine direction, will be in charge of Louis B. Rutte '24, a captain in the university cadet corps.

Another university student who will spend his summer at the camp is Walter A. Frautschi '24. He will have five English classes in the morning, will be in charge of dramatics and will assist with evening entertainments.

Plan Improvements For Boscobel Fair Grounds

BOSCOBEL.—Extensive improvements of the local fair grounds are planned to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Boscobel fair, which will be held August 7. At a gathering of the Boscobel Fair association a report was made and the improvements ratified.

The plans now underway include a new barn for horse and cattle exhibitors, 50 by 78; moving of the art hall and vegetable building to provide a greater midway; enlargement of the amphitheater by adding a row of boxes along the entire front of 120 feet. These apartments will extend 10 feet towards the track and the seating capacity will be increased nearly 300. Sixty-five elm trees and 65 hard maples are being set out to shade the midway.

lent work of Tschudy who, after staying past the middle of the procession for the greater part of the race, spurred on the last two laps and won by several yards. Wade and Piper also ran good races and took second and third places. The highly-touted Ulrich, of Minnesota, failed to do better than a fourth place in the run.

Minnesota's first slam came in the high hurdles when Newell, Wisconsin hurdling ace, was disqualified after placing second, for knocking down three hurdles. Towler, Martineau, and Niles all finished before the other Badger hurdlers could reach the tape.

The Minnesota star weight trio, composed of Schjoll, Gross, and Neubeiser, performed up to standard and completed slams in the discus and javelin throws.

Captain Spetz, of the Badger team, did an excellent day's work by taking firsts in both of his events, the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes.

The high jump ended in a triple tie for first with Campbell, of Minnesota, and Tuhtar and Donohue of Wisconsin, all successfully clearing the bar at 6 feet 1 inch.

Ideal track weather favored the meet, and a fairly large crowd of spectators was present to watch the Wisconsin team in its only home meet of the season.

A complete summary of the meet follows:

100-yard dash—Spetz, (W) first; Johnson, (W) second; Gruenhagen, (M) third. Time, 10 3-5 seconds.

One-mile run—Rossmessel, (W) first; Schneider, (W) second; Bergtsreaser, (W) third. Time, 4 minutes 28 1-5 seconds.

220-yard dash—Spetz, (W) first; Johnson, (W) and Gruenhagen (M) tied for second. Time 23 15 sec.

120-yard high hurdles—Towler (M) first; Martineau, (M) second; Niles, (M) third. Time, 16 1-10 sec.

440-yard dash—Johnson, (W) first; Gruenhagen, (M) second; Flueck, (W) third. Time, 52 1-5 seconds.

Two-mile run—Tschudy, (W) first; Wade (W) second; Piper (W) third. Time, 9 minutes 57 1-5 sec.

220-yard low hurdles—Towler, (M) first; Schneider (W) second; Newell (W) third. Time 26 3-10 seconds.

Half-mile run—Ramsay (W) first; Valley (W) second; Hirt (M) third. Time, 2 minutes 2-5 seconds.

Hammer throw—Nichols (W) first; Van Ellis (W) second; Madsen (M) third. Distance, 131 feet 4 in.

Shot put—Gross (M) first; Van Ellis (W) second; Neubeiser (M) third. Distance, 41 feet 11 inches.

Pole vault—Tomlinson (W) and Kreiger (W) tied for first; Hamman (W) third. Height, 11 feet 9 inches.

High jump—Campbell (M), Donohue (W) and Tuhtar (W) tied for first. Height, 6 feet 1 inch.

Discus throw—Gross (M) first; Schjoll (M) second; Neubeiser (M) third. Distance, 128 feet.

Javelin throw—Schjoll (M) first; Gross (M) second; Neubeiser (M) third. Distance, 172 feet 2 inches.

Broad jump—Towlers (M) first; Johnson (W) second; Muzzy (W) third. Distance, 21 feet 3 1-4 in.

CHICAGO GIVES BADGER NETMEN FIRST DEFEAT

Bennett Gets Only Singles Win

The varsity tennis team merits its first defeat of the season at the hands of Chicago yesterday afternoon when the Maroons won four of the six sets played. Wisconsin was able to win only one double and one single match.

up to their reputations, and displayed tennis ability of championship class. Both of them won their singles matches, and then defeated Tredwell and Aageson in the doubles match, 6-2, 6-3.

Bennett Wins Match

Bennet won over Hunt of Chicago in the only singles victory for Wisconsin. He beat his opponent 6-3, 6-2. Moulding and Bennett were responsible for the other Badger win, defeating Hunt and Valentine in the doubles, 6-4, 6-4.

The match between Tredwell and Wilson, of Chicago gave the fans an exhibition of championship tennis. It was one of the best matches seen on the courts in some time, and Wilson was forced to extend himself to his utmost before he finally defeated Tredwell 3-6, 8-6, 6-1. The Badger captain seemed to weaken toward the end while Wilson appeared to grow stronger.

Moulding, Bennett Win

Aageson found the going rather hard, and went down in defeat before the volleys of Frankenstein by a 6-3, 6-4 score.

With the score at 3 to 2, all eyes turned to the last match between Moulding and Stagg, of Chicago. A win by Moulding would have given the Badgers a tie match with Chicago, but Stagg, after losing the first set 4-6, improved his game and won the remainder sets 7-5, 6-4. The match was a close one, but the volleys of Stagg proved too much against the well placed returns of Moulding's and the latter went down to defeat in two hard sets.

Following are the scores for the match:

Frankenstein defeated Aageson 6-3, 6-4; Wilson defeated Tredwell 3-6, 8-6, 6-1; Stagg won over Moulding 4-6, 7-5, 6-4; Bennett won from Hunt 6-3, 6-2; Wilson and Frankenstein beat Tredwell and Aageson 6-2, 6-3; Moulding and Bennett defeated Hunt and Valentine 6-4, 6-4.

CADETS PRACTICING FOR INDIVIDUAL SHOOT

Practice for the 1923 annual individual rifle competition is now being held by the military department at the outdoor range in the stone quarry. The shooting is being done with the regular army 30-calibre service rifle at the 100 yard range.

Every cadet in the R. O. T. C. who has qualified as marksman or above is eligible for the competition. Practice shooting will be done this week, and record firing will begin next week.

Scores have been unusually high in the practice firing. L. P. Drake '26, G. H. Ross '26, and W. A. Rorison '25, have turned in perfect scores. All are members of the rifle team and are expert riflemen. W. A. Rorison '25, captain of the rifle team, won the 1922 championship. Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be given to the winners and will be presented on Memorial day.

Alderman Will Inspect McCauley Land Sunday

Aldermen will view the McCauley land Sunday afternoon before definite purchase is made by the city, according to action taken by the council following the report of the sewage disposal committee last night.

The committee report as submitted by Ald. George Fessler, chairman, stated that the 190 acres were needed as an outlet for the new sewage disposal plant. Ald. H. J. Steffen moved that the purchase be reconsidered and all council members be given an opportunity to view the land before definite purchase is made by the city.

Sigma Alpha Iota, professional musical sorority, will present Miss Marjorie Lacy, pianist and composer, at its Spring concert, May 28 in Music hall. Miss Lacy will be assisted by Miss Merle Gibbs, contralto, and by the Sigma Alpha Iota Octette.

THE STYLE FOR MOTHER'S DAY

The universal fashion today for student, laborer, man, woman, child athlete, and valetudinarian will consistently be a flower in the button hole in honor of our mothers. Even the non-conformist to established traditions will break his rule and respect a custom sacred to those we love best.

Sentimental, of course, it is to pay this special regard to parent by the mere trifling remembrance of a carnation or rose; but what of beauty has the world gained which has not risen from sentiment. All art, literature, poetry, and, in fact, the cultural things of life, arise from a love akin to sentiment. They are things of the heart, not the mind.

The average student, perhaps away from home for any length of time for perhaps the first time, will appreciate this day of tribute to the one back home, and if he has not already done so he will write a long letter, not the typical brief weekly note, but an interesting, newsy, and informative reminder, between the lines of which the mother will catch all the love of the son or daughter and will realize that the business, worry and fun of "getting an education" has not interrupted the thought and love for "a dear old mater."

The style today by common consent is a carnation on the heart and a letter in the mailbox to the one we love best and who loves us most.

CARRY ON, MADISON

An unfinished tale, an unfinished symphony, or an unfinished painting has in the past sometimes come to be regarded as a classic work of art in spite, or perhaps because of, its deficiencies. But not so with an unfinished street.

A model pavement, smooth and unblemished, which comes to a sudden end and for a brief block continues with chuck holes, "thank-you-maams," and rocky gullies will never receive the approbation of the motorist even on an artistic basis. It is doubtful, of course, that any idea of art was intended by the city of Madison in leaving the excellence of the last block on Langdon street to the imagination, but it natural to suppose some cause.

There seems to be no logical reason why the pavement should be discontinued just in that short block where there is so much traffic to the gymnasium, the clinic, the library, and to that decrepit but much used center of student activities—the Union building. Perhaps it was thought that the abrupt contrast at Lake street would make the five good blocks appreciated.

To eight thousand men and women who annually inhabit the four lake city and who spend thousands of dollars here, no more pleasant summer activity for the city could be suggested than the completion of the unfinished Langdon masterpiece.

ODDITIES

The Student senate, now that the school year is virtually over, sets diligently about to enforce the wearing of green caps by freshmen with whom the wearing is by rule optional.

The faculty always plumps down flatly and balks at any plan that suggests a change in the old order of things. This time it's the daylight saving suggestion.

William Tannewitz '23, student in the university, wrote a play called "A Matter of Choice," an honest-to-goodness, playable play, the Wisconsin Players produced it, their best production of the year, and nobody has presented him with a scholarship abroad or elected him to the Bue Buckets or offered him $1,000 for the work.

Phi Betes cannot concentrate and do their work in two hours to have a little time left for enjoying life without someone questioning the example they set or someone in the Education department devising graphs, curves, points and the like that will make them labor the day long or suffer the label of inefficiency.

Round Table

DO A FEW THINGS WELL

In the olden days lived a king and his jester. The king gave him a rod, and said, "Keep this stick, and give it away only to the man whom you find a greater fool than yourself."

The buffoon kept the stick. On a day the king was stricken sore, called for his jester, and said, "I am going away."

"Where are you going?" inquired the other.

"On a long journey."

"When will you return?"

"Never."

"Have you prepared for the journey?"

"No."

At this the jester handed his rod to the king, and said,

"Here! take the rod for I have never committed so great a folly."

To extract from life its humor and zest for our own uses without losing its deeper, nobler strains is a fine art, possible even to professional fools who strive to build nonsense on common sense. We may presume that the jester believed that his education for life extended farther than his education for a profession; that he believed in doing well some few things of increasing value to himself, and inspiring to his fellows. A man can afford to jest freely with life, to demand of it its fullest pleasures, to enjoy its largest liberties provided, he answers its deepest needs. He who "kings" it over life, failing the challenge of its nobler issues, fares badly. Give him the rod of the fool.

Broadly speaking, education in any sphere means adequate preparation for the whole sphere of action. Yet life lived in that sphere is so short its owner has time to engage in only a few things. His secret of success lies in doing these few things well. Edison knows his field but concentrates on a few ideas to make them bear fruit. With ten thousand ideas, he must content himself with a few score inventions. Too short the time to develop more. Burbank, it seems, would enjoy another lifetime to run down to their sources of useful power the thousand loose ends of thought he has unravelled from life's tangled skein of ideas. He has not time enough.

By the way, what things shall man choose to do well? What problems shall he choose to solve? The tasks some men have set themselves lead on to failure, make man "a god in ruins," a drag on society. "Nine-tenths of the calamities which have befallen the human race," Macaulay reminds us, "had no other origin than the union of high intelligence with low desires." The truly educated man selects with distinction. He has earned what to spend his life on. His choices are safe bets.

Said Lincoln, "I will study and get ready and maybe my chance will come." His preparation became the steps of the ladder that set him on the throne of national service. He could do worthwhile things well. Wherefore, give him the throne of the king. Give the sceptre of power. He knows how to capitalize his education for the business of life.

KITCHEN-CABINET VESTS

No objections or lack of praise ever are meted out to the activities man in these columns for the work he does for himself, his organization, and his school. That activities are a vital and necessary part of school life and have a definite function in education is proved by the attention given them in the advertisements of all schools by the men hired to further specialized forms of activities and by the student and faculty attitude.

There is one type of activity man, however, which is not needed or wanted at Wisconsin. The man who saunters down the hill, idly letting the wind disclose a vest which seems to be a cross between the dash board of a new sport model or inside of a kitchen cabinet with tin-ware everywhere seems to show poor taste, and gives the impression of a mere pin-seeker.

Keys, buttons, and pins are given as honors and should be worn as such. The man who crowds his lapel and vest with all the symbols of his achievements is excessive and just as vulgar as the over-bejeweled woman.

I guess we can.

FUNNY THING, we saw a young fella with a celluloid collar go out in a canoe, and a little while later we saw the canoe blow up.

LITTLE ERNIE

Little Ernie went in swimming the other day. Yessir he dove right in off the Deke pair and it was so cold that he crawled right out and tore home and got five boxes of matches and warmed up the lake by lighting matches and throwing them into the water.

ASSEMBLY MAN WURST: But we orta have them there PHARMACY BUILDINGS.

SENATOR PUNK: No sir, we aint going to have no more of them FARM buildings out there on the campus. THEY ain't necessary.

LORD HUNKYDORY'S QUANARY

The scene opens with Lord Hunkydory, of Hunkydory House, sitting beside his kitchen fire. Smag-gerpash, his faithful servant, is brushing the teeth of L. H.'s dorg. A sound is heard at the door.

L. Hunkydory—Find out who's without.

Smagg (looking)—Whooz' without.

L. Hunkydory—What? Who's this?

Smagg—Yes sir.

L. H.—HEY, answer me. Don't get funny with your old Lord Hunkydory.

Smagg—Whoozis.

L. H.—Yes, pumple! Tell me who's this without.

Smagg—Whoozis without.

L. Hunky—Hound, go to the door, it's time you showed him in.

Smagg—Whoozis.

L. Hunky—Yes, whoever it is, show him in.

Smagg—But whoozis without.

L. Hunky—(DUMBLY)—Buddha! Allah! Hell! Show him in anyhow.

Smagg opens door. Hey! what do you mean by this? Take your dirty pig out.

(Smagg withdraws with pig and goes on brushing dog's teeth).

Smagg—Whoozis again without.

L. Hunky—(VICIOUSLY) I know it. Leave him without. Mr. Pim Passes Out and the Curtain descends mercifully.

Come again PUCITA, that is darn clever stuff, as far as we can see. We right this here column every Sunday.

Books and things—cabbages—
Kings—as penciled by Ever Sharp

The other day a publisher sent us a book which we won't name. It evidently comes from England and isn't worthy of mention. After reading the first four pages we were ready to throw it in the lake.

But don't misunderstand us. We weren't put out because they were bad. We realize that we must read more than four pages in order to judge a novel. But what did make us discontented was the fact that it started out by describing with grim reality the pitiful struggles of a writer to keep himself and his family from starving.

After the first pages we were ready to eschew all thought of ever being anything but an insurance man. So frequently is it brought home that there are three professions, writing is the first, which are certain of bringing only slight means and which are more apt to bring dire poverty.

News comes that another writer of books of the category of Parkman's and some of Roosevelt's will write no more. It is Emerson Hough who died at Chicago last week. If he has not added to the art of the world he has at least added to its historical works. For he knew the West well, having studied it closely in his own adventures and in works of the past.

The Covered Wagon, his last book, has become what is almost a best seller. Like North of 36, another of his books which has been attracting much attention, it deals with the life on the western plains as it was when Francis Parkman knew it.

Do you remember some number of years ago when a then comparatively new author made a sensation with a most excellent novel about New York called The Harbor? Poole wrote a number of novels since then but for some time he has remained in obscurity.

Now at last he has returned with a new novel called anger; A Novel of Today (The Macmillan Company; $2.) It is a dramatic story of a woman whose effort in the interests of society are very persistent and unfortunately very misguided. She brings the members of her circle face to face with a real problem, it is said to be a splendid tale.

The prolific pen of Mr. H. G. Wells has brought forth a new work which is called a novel by Macmillan, the publishers, and perhaps by the author himself. Men Like Gods does what Bernard Shaw did, or tried to do, in his Back To Methuselah; it takes the reader into the world of a thousand years hence.

Of course the whole world of imagination and hopes is open to an author who does such things as this. He can have just the kind of a world that he wants and he will probably kid himself into thinking that the kind of a world he wants will be the kind that very likely will exist.

From the novel Wells departs a little and unrolls a vast panorama of the future in government, letters, society, science and morals that is nothing not provocative and stimulating. It is a sort of Utopia, in fact, the author even calls the place Utopia.

Well, it may be all right to look a few centuries ahead, but the jolly old world may be blown to bits before 20 more centuries roll around. Still, the Englishman doubtless had a mighty good time writing his Men Like Gods and public will doubtless have an equally good time reading it.

Irvin S. Cobb has picked a varied list of books as his ten favorites. It runs all the way from the Bible to Mark Twain and Kipling. We hardly think it necessary to say who Irving S. Cobb is. You know his short stories, his humor, and you have heard of his lectures and his plays if you have not actually heard them.

His choice runs as follows. The Book of Job; Plutarch's Lives; Robinson Crusoe; Pickwick Papers; Treasure Island; Huckleberry Finn; Hamlet; A Midsummer Night's Dream; The French Revolution; and Barrack Room Ballads.

All Madison Backing Big Sporting Event Next Saturday

Saddle Club Officials

Saddle Club Fosters 1923 Horse Show

The Madison Saddle club is working in full co-operation with the university this year in order to make the 1923 Horse Show next Saturday an event of interest both to students and townspeople.

In former years the Saddle club has held a separate event but this year is bending all efforts towards making the Horse Show the most successful exhibition ever held in Madison.

The club is composed of Madison people interested in horsemanship and riding. The organization of the club is as follows:

S. Gwyn Scanlan, president; Dr. Phillip R. Fox, vice president; John J. Yoke, secretary; and John Suhr, treasurer. T. A. Coleman Sr., Thomas R. Hefty, August O. Paunack, Leo T. Crowley, Dr. Harry E. Purcell, Major Orlando Ward, and Major John S. Wood are directors of the club.

More than 2,000 bleacher seats will be erected on the lower campus by the military department. The seats will be put up on the State street side and will extend the entire length of the campus. There will also be a parking space reserved for automobiles.

The ticket sale will be handled by means of a tag arrangement, each person paying the 25 cents admission will receive a tag and will have full privilege of the stands. Cadets will act as special police during the event.

Prizes for the different events will be silver cups. No subscription of merchants for donations is being undertaken, the prizes to be bought entirely with the gate receipts.

Many late entries are being received daily and great interest is being shown in the inter-sorority riding contest. Each sorority is entitled to enter one contestant, and this event is expected to be the premier of the day.

Besides the inter-sorority event, there will be a great variety of open and military events. A three-gaited open event will be held for both men and women. A five-gaited event will attract many stellar entries in both the men and women's open contest. There will be an exciting steeplechase, and also an exhibition of draft horses in fancy driving contests.

Helen Callsen '25, and Aileen Hal '23 are among the most promising of the inter-sorority entries. Each placed in the riding contests held in the Stock pavilion last fall. Kenneth Wicker '24 is one of the university's strongest entries in the men's open events, having won several blue ribbons last year.

Is Motor Vehicle Replacing Horse?

Is the horse out of date?

In this world of ever-increasing numbers of autos, airplanes, and motor-driven vehicles some people claim that the horse is becoming a back number.

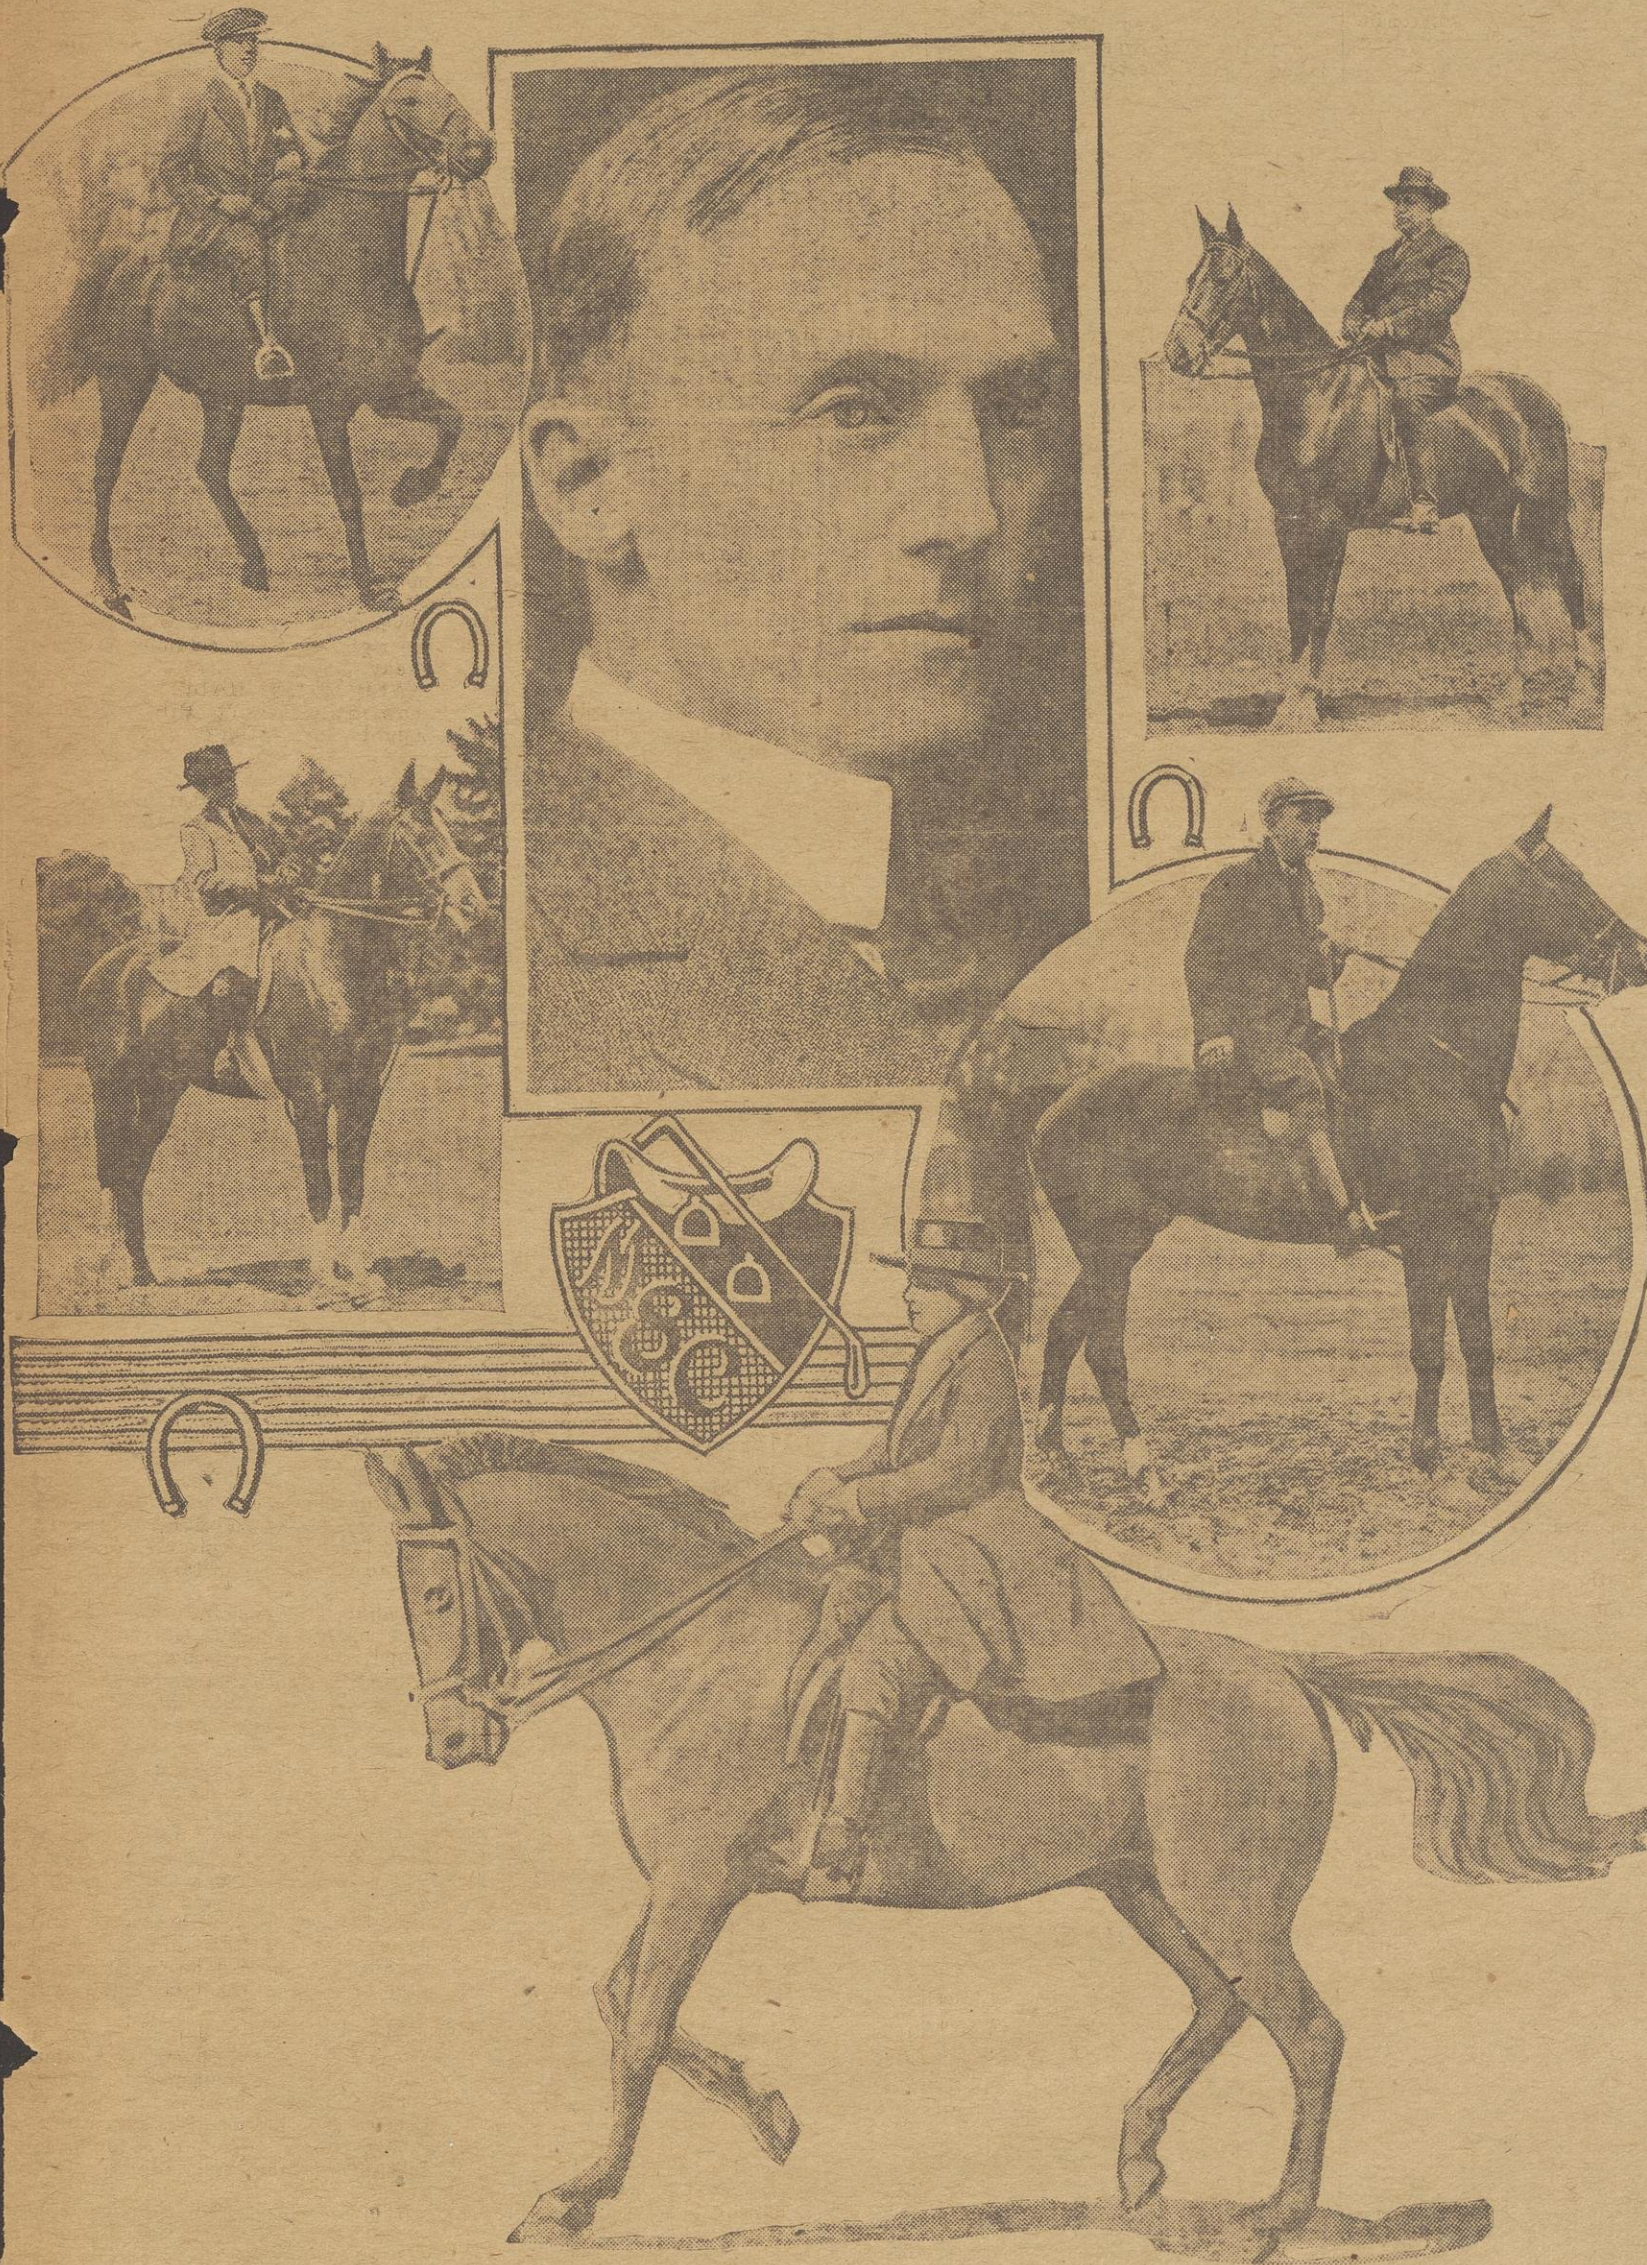

Not so very long ago when we were kids we remember that our biggest ambition was to be a cowboy sitting astride of a bucking broncho and grasping the world fairly by the horns.

Is the youth of today visualizing the same ambition, or is it a dream of grasping the wheel of a 90-mile-an-hour racer or to fly among the clouds at a 245-mile-an-hour clip?

Surely let us hope that the day will never come when we can view the horse only in a museum. The horse, man's noblest and best friend, let us cherish and admire him always.

ustomarily presented comedies by Labiche or Moliere which depend upon comedy of situation and rapid action. "Les Plaisirs" depended almost entirely for its comedy upon the repartee of the characters.

A great majority of the cast will be in the university next year, and it is expected that their experience in this year's production has benefited them materially and prospects are good for another year.

Full House Sees 4 Act French Play

"Les Plaisirs du Hasard," a four-act contemporary French comedy by Rene Benjamin, was the play staged this year by the department of Romance languages. It was presented on Tuesday evening, May 2, in Lathrop concert room before a packed house.

Frederick Price, '24, who played the part of the hero, had by far the most difficult and important role. The changing moods and situations of the care-free, temperamental "Emmanuel" demanded an actor of unusual dramatic ability. Price filled his role with an ease which bespoke careful and intelligent study and coaching.

Lucille Salentine '25, and John Brooks, grad, took the parts of the heroine and doctor, respectively. Miss Salentine's voice and natural stage presence suited her very well for such productions. Brooks' spoken French was a joy to the audience. His representation of the "Docteur" was highly satisfactory.

Perhaps the most typically French character was the young Frenchman just graduated from the lycee played by George S. Darby '24. The audience "got" his comedy lines better than those of any one else in the cast. Louise V. Schiefelin, as the doctor's wife pleased the audience. Her French is excellent. Mention should be made of John Irwin, grad, who took two roles with equally great success. His natural ease on the stage was notable, and his French is remarkably clear and fluent.

The remainder of the cast filled their roles with distinction. The play went off nicely there were no hitches or lapse to destroy its continuity and general effect. The entire production showed an ease and polish which reflects great credit upon those who work the hardest and yet who are not seen on the stage.

To Mademoiselle Marguerite Pans should go the bulk of the credit for the success of this year's play. H. M. Acton, grad, provided the properties and directed the stage. Miss Bessie Cornwell was prompter, and Mr. Sprague was business manager.

This year's play was of a different type from those presented in past years. The department has

Hughes Story Will Be On Screen Here

By CHATTY

Spring weather isn't exactly conducive to movie-going, is it? The canoe and a picnic is a much pleasanter form of amusement right now than taking her to the movies.

But if winter weather such as we had in the middle of the week comes around again, or even if a rainy day turns up with a down-pour, it may be handy to have a line on the week's movies in town.

Only four pictures will be seen here this week which really doesn't leave much to pick from. They are all, however, pretty safe bets as near as can be gathered from reports and the press sheets.

There is little need to say much about "Souls For Sale." If you are a Red Book addict, and statistics say that about one-fifth of the population of this country are that, you have read this story of the movies written by Rupert Hughes.

Then too, this picture has the reputation of having run longer in New York than even "Robin Hood" or "The Four Horsemen." The cast has actors who will draw almost any type of person—there are Barbara La Marr, Mae Busch, Eleanor Boardman and Aileen Pringle, to put the ladies first, and Richard Dix, Lew Cody, Frank Mayo and Yale Boss. The last sounds like a screen name, doesn't it?

We can't see just how the story amounts to much other than a wild and racey dime novel.

Remember three years ago when press notices about a Broadway play called "Adam and Eva" got this way? The thing made quite a hit at the Longacre theater as "a new comedy of American home life."

Well now it has been filmed, like so many other of its brother pieces. Marion Davies replaces the stage actress, Ruth Shepley, as Eva and T. Roy Barnes takes the role of Adam carried on the platform by Otto Kruger.

It was a peasant play, very much to the tune of "Nice People" and ought to be rather entertaining on the screen. It's the old story of daughter spending too much of her millionaire papa's money and being reformed by a hard-working man who sets her to hoeing radishes without the knowledge of papa.

An unusual thing has been done in the picture that appears at the Strand the first of the week. "The Toll Of The Sea" has been filmed in natural colors as some of Lyman Howe's pictures were. It has been a regrettable fact that so few pictures have been done in anything but black and white. Color makes a picture so much more realistic, although Nazimova's "Salome" in black and white was about as colorful as any picture we have seen.

The story is apt to be a little too much of the tragic strain for springtime. It is different though, and the Chinese element in it should make it a little more out of the ordinary since we haven't had a movie of the Occident for some time.

Mary Pickford comes back to us after a long absence. Her vehicle appeared in Madison some time ago but the picture has been changed a great deal, and the cast is entirely different except for the star. So what we have is the old story taken by modernized photography and with modernized directorship.

You probably know the story, of how the poor fisher-girl fights for the rights of the colony and herself. She has an uphill pull all the way and there are many complications. Don't by any chance confuse the story with Hardy's of about the same name. This might be called a "substitute," but one, we believe, which you may accept. It's written by Grace Miller White.

"The Flame Of Life" is a story of an ignorant girl-worker in an English coal mine who proves her worth. There is a lot of fighting and rough-stuff in the picture and it all ends up in a tremendous mine explosion scene; quite spectacular, in fact.

The leading lady, Priscilla Dean, is an old stand-by with admirers of emotional acting. That is her long suit and she has plenty of opportunity to use it in this movie.

Ringlings Expect To Induce Rain
On Montana Land

BARABOO—The Ringlings have ever been quite given to the spectacular and now comes Richard Ringling the Bozeman, Montana, ranchman, who is going, or thinks he is going, to make rain for Montana on a large scale. Earl T. Vance, an aviator will be associated with Mr. Ringling in the new enterprise which is to have its headquarters in Great Falls. Ringling has already purchased 10 airplanes to be used in Montana's dry land districts.

As air planes find landing a very difficult problem in foggy weather, those in charge of the government air service instituted experiment to determine what might be accomplished in the way of dissipating fog. It was found that finely powdered sand charged with static electricity and cast from an air plane over a foggy district proves effective in dissipating the mist.

It has long been known that water vapor will not condense unless dust particles or electrons are in the air to furnish nuclei about which the water vapor may assume the liquid state. An experiment was made by grinding sand into the finest dust and then carrying it aloft in an air plane, charging it with a static electrical machine, and dropping it through the air.

As far as can be learned this is the only case of the disease in the city.

'NEW GRID
LEAK TESTER
Indicates Values
While Leak is Being Altered

MADISON, May 12.—Tests made show:

1. Many of the so-called "Variable Grid Leaks" are most erratic in values as they are adjusted.
2. The expensive tubular glass enclosed leaks of fixed value are safe only if made by a very reliable manufacturer.
3. The little black button type often will not take enough pencil marks to make enough leak for a hard or "Peanut" tube.
4. The paper strip type must be made of specially prepared fibre to do the same.

Experienced Radio men are unanimous in their belief in the importance of having just the right amount of Grid Leak for "Hard Tubes" such as Amplifier or Peanut Tubes used by Detectors. The best plan is to own a series of calibrated grid leaks that may be attached or detached quickly.

The economy of the fibre strip type that is attached to the Grid Condenser with glove button fasteners recommends it if it is possible to have a series of these calibrated.

We offer Kapaciton Leaks of the above type at 4c each and our grid leak testing service is free to all.

Henry Ford to Establish Big
Chain of Banks

NEW YORK—The Ford installment plan, by which an automobile may be purchased for $5 a week, is the first step in Henry Ford's project for a nation-wide chain of banks, according to report here today.

Mr. Ford, it is said, decided to become independent of existing money markets following his turn-down by Wall street in 1920.

Bankers interviewed today said they saw no reason why Mr. Ford could not establish a chain of banks if he so desired. He has the money, they pointed out, adding:

"That is the prime essential." First branches of the Ford banks under the plan reported, would be opened in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis and some of the larger western cities.

Banquet For Wearers
Of W To Be May 22

Old alumni athletes who have won "W's" during their school years will mingle with the present "W" wearers of the university in a banquet May 22, according to plans announced yesterday.

The feast of the sport experts will be a round up of the year's activities, as well as a send off for the "W" men who will be graduated this spring. Plans are being made by a committee, of which Oscar E. Kiessling '23 is chairman, and Frank Leitz and Nicholas Aagesen are members.
