NEED COLLEGE WOMEN FOR BUSINESS JOBS

Industrial World Asks For More Trained Minds, Says Miss Marshall

"College women need more business sense," said Miss Florence Marshall, director of the Manhattan Trade School for Girls in New York, in her talk on "Vocations for Women" in the concert room of Lathrop hall yesterday afternoon.

"I am not one of those who think that colleges should turn their courses into practical training for jobs," she continued. "But I do think that college women must recognize the great need of industry for their trained minds and should fit themselves to take their place in the industrial world."

Movies Attract Women

"Moving picture production is one of the novel activities in which college women have recently become interested, and they are proving most successful producers of a high class of films. Interior decorating, banking, finance managing, expert dressmaking and designing, and the management of tea-rooms and cafeterias are also some of the lines of activities being successfully pursued by college women at the present time."

"There is a big need for college-trained women in trade school education," said Miss Marshall, who is the director of the largest women's trade school of its kind in the world. "The best results in our work we have found to come from the combined teaching of trade school experts and college-trained women with general education and understanding of children's development."

Educate Workers More, Please

That too much time is spent in the public school educating the 10 per cent who go to high school and college, and too little on the 90 per cent who must stop and earn their living as soon as the law permits, was one of the reasons for Miss Marshall's plan to establish a trade

POSTPONE ANNUAL ICE CARNIVAL

The fifth annual ice carnival which was to have been held Saturday afternoon and evening, Feb. 26, has been indefinitely postponed. Coach T. E. Jones, when interviewed yesterday afternoon, stated that unfavorable weather conditions would probably result in the permanent cancellation of the event. "I do not want to be responsible for any accidents that are likely to occur when a large number of people congregate upon thin ice. The ice, as it is now, makes it too risky for skating or ice-boating; should the lake tighten up within the next few days, however, there is still a possibility of having the carnival."

SALE OF OCTOPUS TO CONTINUE TODAY

Copies of the "Winter Sports" number of the Octopus left from yesterday's sale may be obtained at Bascom hall, Physics-Economics building, and the Engineering building, today.

The sale went well yesterday, according to Norman D. Scott '21, circulation manager. The fact that more were printed than usual makes a continuation of the sale possible, so that those who were not able to secure copies before may do so today.

COMMITTEES PLAN MANY EXHIBITS FOR STOCK SHOW

With the added features of a poultry show, committees which were appointed recently for the Little International Stock show are busy working during the remaining two weeks to make the exposition, to be held March 12, at the Stock pavilion, the "biggest and best" in the history of the university.

The "Wild West" show, the horse show, as well as the customary stock exhibits which are held in the pavilion, are to be enlarged and improved, according to the present plans of A. L. McMahon '21, general chairman.

To Announce Riding Tryouts

Dashing western riding by co-eds will be one of the features of the horse show. Two Kentucky students at the university, one of whom has competed in the Kentucky derby, have been signed up by the management. The official tryouts for riders will be announced next week.

That the co-eds at the university show more interest in horseback riding than the men, was indicated by the number of entrants last year for the final tryouts. Out of 25 persons who competed in the elimination, 15 were women students. Although but three of these were chosen for the show event, one of them, a co-ed, displayed such horsemanship ability that she was awarded a prize.

DEMAND GREAT FOR CHESTERTON SEATS

All seats up to the fifteenth row except a few scattering ones, mostly singles, are sold for Gilbert K. Chesterton's talk on "The Ignorance of the Educated," which will be given in the auditorium of the Madison high school Wednesday evening, March 9. Those who have not purchased tickets are urged to do so immediately.

The bursar's office wishes it understood that they are not handling the ticket sale, as they have been besieged with inquiries. Tickets may be obtained at Hook Brothers between 2 and 4 any afternoon, or at the Union building between 4:30 and 6. Most of the $1.50 tickets already are sold, but there are still a few left. Some desirable $1 seats may also be obtained.

KENNEDYS CHARM AUDIENCE WITH THEIR READINGS

The reading of "The Servant in the House" by Charles Rann Kennedy, the author, and Edith Wynn Matthison, his wife, probably won the most applause of any of the numbers on the program given by them in Music hall last night. The portion of the play chosen, from the last of the first act to the end of the second, adequately displayed Mrs. Kennedy's remarkable ability as she interpreted the character of Monsion, calm, strong, and infinitely sympathetic. Mr. Kennedy's rendering of Robert, the drainman, with his Cockney accent, and of the proud, deaf bishop of Lancastershire, was most entertaining.

In the first selection, the court scene from "The Merchant of Venice," the full and musical quality of Edith Wynn Matthison's voice, as she read the role of Portia, was set forth. Mr. Kennedy made Shylock not entirely hateful, but deserving somewhat of pity.

The quarrel scenes from "The School for Scandal" were delightful. Mrs. Kennedy, as Lady Teasdale, was charming with her good humor, and Mr. Kennedy was truly irascable old bachelor husband.

Lady Gregory's "Rising of the Moon" gave the famous actress an opportunity to prove her prowess in still another kind of character—the brave, jolly, and lovable ragged man, an escaped convict. Her singing voice in giving the ballads was equally as pleasing as her speaking voice. Both Mrs. and Mr. Kennedy read the Irish dialect well. Her rendering of a poem by Mr. Kennedy and a Shakespearean sonnet as encores to "The Servant of the House" were unexpected pleasures for the audience.

DEBATE WITHOUT JUDGES FEATURE HERE MARCH 18

No Decision Contests Planned With Illinois and Michigan

Intercollegiate debates without a decision or judges, after which the audience may question the speakers, will be features of a triangle meet with Illinois and Michigan, March 18. These debates are held by the Midwest Debating triangle, which includes these three universities.

The "no decision debate" is an experiment which is being tried here for the first time. Members of the teams may be asked why they took a certain stand, why they did or did not mention certain factors, and the like.

"Resolved, That the United States government should immediately recognize Soviet Russia" is the question and has been debated by all literary societies here, resulting in victories for both sides.

Speakers on the affirmative are Thomas Amlie '21, Ralph Axley '23, and Sterling Tracy '22. This team will meet Illinois here. The negative speakers are Martin Kriewaldt '22, Charles Assovsky '21, and I. Arnold Perstein '21, who will meet Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Profs. James M. O'Neill and Andrew T. Weaver are directing preparation for the debate. Professor Weaver will go to Ann Arbor with the negative team.

COLLEGE GYM MEET SLATED SATURDAY

The inter-college g: 1 meet will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 and is open to all. All varsity and frosh candidates are expected to take part. The official squad picture will be taken before the meet.

BASKET SQUAD PRIMED FOR MAROON GAME

Badgers Given Edge Over Chicago in Tomorrow's Tilt

The Badger basket squad was put through the usual strenuous mid-week work-out yesterday afternoon. The regular lineup will start against Chicago tomorrow night, but it is quite probable that McIntosh will be used for a portion of the game. He displayed exceptional shooting ability at Ohio.

The percentage column will undoubtedly be juggled a bit during the week end. Tonight Iowa and Indiana meet for a second time this week, and the Hawkeyes may be able to duplicate their Monday night victory over Levis' men.

Illinois Meet Michigan Saturday

The Illinois-Michigan contest will be the most important title bearing game of the week. The Suckers play at Ann Arbor Saturday night, and if Karpus is in the Wolverine lineup, there is a possibility of the Illini suffering another defeat.

Wisconsin is given the edge over Chicago, but the Maroons are due for a rally, and the game will undoubtedly be a hard fought one. If, however, the Badger teamwork is of the same calibre that was exhibited at Illinois, Wisconsin should have no difficulty in annexing a victory.

Badgers May Tie Purdue

Purdue plays Michigan at Ann Arbor on Monday night. Wisconsin fans will watch the results of this game with interest, for if the Badgers win from Chicago, and if Purdue loses to the Wolverines, Wisconsin will be tied with the Boilmakers for third place. On the same night Illinois plays Ohio State and Iowa plays Northwestern. Based on recent performances, Iowa and Illinois will be the winners.

Games to be played this week are as follows: Friday—Iowa at Indiana. Saturday—Chicago at Wisconsin, Illinois at Michigan, Purdue at Northwestern. Monday—Purdue at Michigan, Illinois at Ohio State, Iowa at Northwestern.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE FOR LEGION OPENS

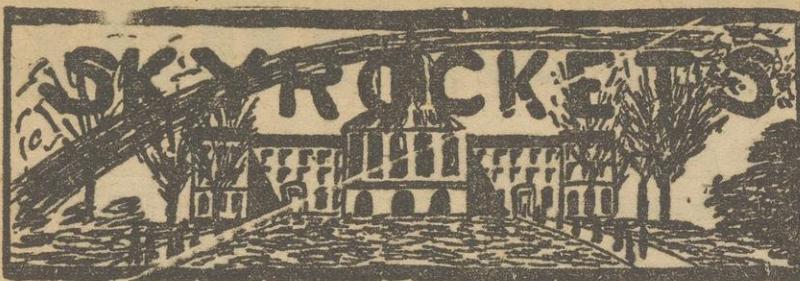

Plans for a "Join the Legion" week on the campus and a series of social meetings were perfected at an enthusiastic meeting of the University post of the American Legion in the University club dining rooms last night.

"Every ex-service man in the university is to be reached by a thorough canvass of each school and department for members and it is hoped to bring the membership up to 750," said Commander Lester Brann in opening the meeting. "Chairmen will be appointed and it will be a close contest to see which department turns out the best record."

It was voted to have a box at the Military ball and to have bi-weekly entertainments which would be of special interest to ex-service men. Orpheum parties, orchestras, a male quartet, and movie shows were suggested for the program this semester.

The next "pep" session is to be held Wednesday night and "Doc" Hughes, the vice-commander, promised a session that would outshine anything yet put on by the post.

The membership drive is to open today and continue for ten days, during which time the percentage of membership for the various schools is to be published daily.

WELL, about the best way to begin is to start.

WHICH makes it appear as though we had our foot in it and had better begin to get it out.

Healthful Hints No. 2
HERE'S another one.

Testimonial: "I have suffered from severe headaches for the last 90 years, and so readily snatched at your suggestion of balancing a button on the tongue. After doing this for a few minutes, the button was easily swallowed and the ensuing stomach ache quickly cured my prolonged ailment."

WE'RE getting anxious to see this girl "With the Smile That Won't Come Off." Hope she hasn't fallen through the ice.

John Thompson.
Agnes Iverson.
Gladys Fairfield.
Ralph Horton.
Julia Van Aacken.
Mabel Drew.

This is the paragraph before the last.

And this is the last, because we feel that we have either got our foot out of it by now, or else it is time that we beat a hasty retreat.

school for those with the least opportunities for other education. The different trades taught and the kind of girls the school is able to help were told in detail by Miss Marshall in response to a question at the end of her regular talk.

"Vocational Opportunities" is the subject of the talk to be given by Miss Helen Bennett this afternoon at 4:30 in Lathrop parlors, as part of the program for the second day of the Vocational conference. There will also be round tables in different subjects, running from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m.

Miss Bennett is connected with the Chicago Collegiate Bureau of Occupations, and has had extensive experience in vocational work and the placing of college women. A bulletin board has been placed in Lathrop lobby on which seniors and any others who are interested may sign for 10 or 15 minute conferences with her today or tomorrow.

Start Discussion Groups

The round tables will be as follows: At 1:30, Clinics, led by Miss Hazel Gray, in Lathrop parlors; Bacteriology, led by Miss Marie Lottes, in Lathrop parlors, and Magazine work, led by Mrs. Boughner, in the S. G. A. room; at 2:00, Landscape design, led by Prof. F. A. Aust, in the S. G. A. office; at 2:30, Pharmacy and Chemistry, led by Prof. Nellie A. Wakeman, in the Dutch room; at 3:00, Securities and Investments, led by Miss Olga Steig, in the S. G. A. room, and Library work, led by Miss Mary E. Hazeltine, in the S. G. A. room; at 3:30, Industrial Education, led by Miss Florence Marshall, in Lathrop parlors; Recreation and Physical Education, led by Miss B. M. Trilling, in the fourth floor reading room, and Social Service, led by Prof. J. L. Gillin, in the Dutch room; at 4:00, Y. W. C. A. Secretarialship as a Profession, by Dr. Katherine W. Eddy, in Lathrop parlors.

Any Commerce girls or others interested in Money and Banking may have conferences with Miss Agnes Kinne also, by signing on the bulletin board. Miss Kinne holds an executive position in a bank in Milwaukee, and is well known to those in the university interested in commerce.

TANK SQUAD IS SCHEDULED TO MEET PURPLE

Northwestern Summaries Are Second Conference Team on Schedule

With the same line-up that held the Illinois swimming squad to a 35 to 33 win, the Wisconsin tank squad will engage in its second conference dual meet of the season against Northwestern on Friday, Feb. 25, in the gymnasium tank. Coach Joseph C. Steinauer is putting his charges through a series of time trials this week to round the new men into better condition, and a greatly improved squad will stack up against the Purple conference swimming champions.

Although ineligibility caused the loss of thirteen men, Steinauer has re-built the squad around four swimmers who escaped faculty displeasure. A second-string team held Illinois to an indecisive victory last week after the faculty ban had riddled the squad. While the team has not reached the point where it can be considered a championship possibility, the Badgers showed in their game battle against Illinois that they are a team which will rate high in conference swimming circles.

Northwestern Men Are Veterans
Northwestern possesses a veteran team, which is practically the same one which won the conference championship last year. The Purple has engaged in three meets this year, winning two and losing one. One dual meet was won from the Milwaukee Athletic club squad which defeated Wisconsin, and a second meet with the M. A. C. at Milwaukee was dropped by Northwestern. Last Saturday, Coach Tom Robinson's proteges defeated Chicago by the narrow margin of one point. The meet was a tie in events won, but Northwestern defeated the Maroons in the relay and were enabled to scrape by with the one point victory.

The entries for the meet follow:
Relay — Northwestern: Hayford, Paiver, Thompson, Flack, Harvey, Richter; Wisconsin: Bach, Davies, Haldeman, Baker, Sollitt.

Dives — Northwestern: Huegenin, Trumbo, Crawley; Wisconsin: Koch, Davies.

40-yard swim — Northwestern: Paiver, Hayford, Thompson, Richter, Lindsey; Wisconsin: Bach, Davies.

Leads Band at Sunday's Concert

MAJOR E. W. MORPHY

Major E. W. Murphy, conductor of the First Regimental band, is preparing a program of some of the finest musical selections for the second concert of the season, which is to be given Sunday in the gymnasium. This program is said to be even better than the last.

200-yard breast stroke — Northwestern: Daniels, Moogan; Wisconsin: Collins, Koch, Peterson.

220-yard swim — Northwestern: Dickson, Hayford, Gottlieb; Wisconsin: Logie.

150-yard back stroke — Northwestern: Hayford, Agnew; Wisconsin: Koch.

100-yard swim — Northwestern: Pavier, Hayford, Dickson, Lindsay; Wisconsin: Bach, Davies.

Water basketball — Northwestern: Huegenin, Hayford, Moogan, Daniels, Lindsay, Flack, Penfield, Lowery, Gottlieb, Thompson, Phillips, Miller; Wisconsin: Koch, Collins, Lahmann, Pabst, Haldeman, Baker, Bach, Davies, Peterson, McMurray.

Charge Brutality to Veterans in Hospital

NEW YORK — Charles H. Gillen, national commander of the disabled soldiers league, left for Washington today to ask for a congressional investigation into conditions at Fox Hills hospital on Staten Island.

Charges of brutality to disabled veterans at the institution have been made.

TIMELY QUESTIONS TO BE DISCUSSED BY "LIT" SOCIETIES

A protective tariff, the short ballot in Wisconsin, and recognition of the Soviet government of Russia will be discussed in debates before literary societies tonight.

Debate Tariff Measurer

A protective tariff for infant industries will be the question for a debate at a meeting of Hesperia in 451 Bascom hall tonight. The affirmative will ask that congress provide for a tariff that will protect manufacturers of chemicals, dyes, scientific instruments, toys, and the like, from foreign competition.

Speakers on the affirmative are Nels C. Lerdahl '21, Reinhold O. Ebert '22, and Henry M. Blume '23, and those on the negative are Lawrence B. Dunn '22, Henry Muskat '21, and John T. Atwood '22. Business conditions at the present time will be presented in a topic by Frank M. Koons '24. Elmer S. Hollensteiner '24 will discuss William R. Hearst's injunction against the United States government to prevent the proposed loan to Europe. Nels C. Lerdahl '21, who was elected president of the society at the last meeting, will preside for the first time.

Discuss Short Ballot

Athenaeum will debate the question of adopting the short ballot at elections in the state of Wisconsin at a meeting in Athenaeum hall tonight. The same question was defeated in a debate before another society a short while ago. Speakers favoring adoption of the ballot are Birney F. Miller '22, Abraham S. Friedman '23, and N. S. Schwartz '24, and those opposed to the proposition are Sidney Charney '24, Edgar H. Kapp '24, and Abraham Sygman '24.

Recognition of the Soviet government of Russia by the United States will again be debated at the Agricultural society meeting tonight. This question has been debated before all societies in order that members may become familiar with it, for the intercollegiate debates will deal with Soviet recognition.

Speakers in favor of recognition are Melvin E. Luther '21, Willard B. Albert '23, and Roger P. Matteson '23, and those opposed are Guido L. Weber, grad, Arthur O. Albertz '23, and Arthur R. Williams '21. Parliamentary drill will be conducted by Laurence H. McKay, grad.

Philomathia has as a special feature tonight in the form of "Frosh Dec Night," when freshmen will try out for places on the freshman declamatory team.

PROGRESS OR REGRESSION

IN a discussion of the legislative bill, prescribing a bar examination for all graduates of the University of Wisconsin law school, there is but one valid query, Will a bar examination for the Wisconsin law school graduate redound to the general advantage of the commonwealth? When personal and private interests are subdued, when blind antagonism is removed, when the clear light of reason is available, the final decision must rest upon the answer to one question, Does the present system or the proposed system assure men better fitted for the legal profession? In short, is the proposed measure, from the public viewpoint, constructive or destructive?

A satisfactory answer is only possible if the function of the bar examination is clearly known. In theory, at least, the bar examination is supposed to protect the public by prescribing the minimum requirements for the practice of law. It was never intended, is not intended, and will never be intended to fix the uppermost limit in the attainment of legal knowledge. The bar examinations are in reality a sort of safety gauge by which the state may exclude from legal practice certain of the most undesirable persons.

No one of clear understanding holds that the bar examinations are a perfect test. No one of clear understanding thinks for a moment that the passing of a bar examination is the acme of perfection in legal training. No one of clear understanding can deny that there are means of legal training far superior to training for answering seventy or seventy-five questions on the academic side of law.

Sound training in law involves more than training to pass the bar examinations. A man is not necessarily well qualified to enter the legal profession simply because he has had sufficient training in the academic aspects of law to enable him to pass certain minimum requirements.

A sound training in law involves not merely a knowledge of certain rudimentary facts. It involves, in addition, a clear conception of legal principles, legal ethics, legal methods, and legal mode of thought. It involves and demands that thorough knowledge and understanding of law in all its aspects that will enable a lawyer to apply our code to the varying needs of society—that will make possible a wise legislation, wise administration, and wise interpretation of our laws under all the diverse conditions of our present state. The best law school is the one which trains men to understand and apply the law as well as be acquainted with its more academic aspects.

If all law schools gave this type of training, and if the state could be assured that every man who entered the legal profession had acquired such a training, a bar examination would be superfluous and unnecessary. The state in its own schools can see, and does see in the University of Wisconsin, that this higher method of training obtains.

The university law school does maintain a standard of instruction that fits men to make, administer, and interpret our code of laws in a sound and just manner. The university law school is well qualified to, and it does maintain such a standard because of the general aims of the university and because of the fact that the state university professors are, for all intents and purposes, state officials (the legal definition of "official" notwithstanding).

If one doubts the efficacy of this higher method of training as it is practiced at the University of Wisconsin, let him look at its results. Among the lawyers of the state, on the benches of our state and federal courts, in our legislature and in Congress, on the supreme bench of the state—there are to be found men who typify in their legal callings, the results of the university law school's method of training.

The whole question then is this: Will the legislature of Wisconsin foster the higher type of legal training, or will the legislature disown it and encourage training to answer seventy or seventy-five questions of the academic side of law? Will the legislature encourage a thorough understanding of legal facts, legal principles, legal ethics, legal methods and legal mode of thought, or will it, by prescribing a bar examination for all graduates of law schools, public and private, tend to make passing a bar examination the ultimate aim of legal training? Will the legislature encourage a thorough understanding of legal institutions, or will it impose obstacles in the path of such betterment?

Wise action by the legislature would consist in encouraging the schools with low standards to raise these standards to the level of those which obtain in the university law school, not in forcing the high standards of the university down to the lower standards of other institutions.

In the legislature's hands, the solution to the problem now rests. Will the action be progressive or retrogressive? Will Wisconsin continue to have men fitted for legal practice or will it have mere examination passers? Will the legislature build up the standard or tear it down?

Progress is at stake. The legislature must not turn backward. The legislature must not make the minimum requirements for the legal profession the maximum.

The legislature should encourage high standards by defeating the bill which would impose a bar examination on the graduates of the law school of the University of Wisconsin.

Alpha Gams Entertain

The pledges of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity will give an informal dance for members of the active chapter after the Chicago-Wisconsin basketball game, Saturday evening at the lodge, 1726 Hoyt street. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. McMahon and Prof. and Mrs. F. C. Wilson will be the chaperons.

Phi Mu Party

Phi Mu sorority will entertain with an informal dance, Saturday, Feb. 26 at the chapter house. The party will be chaperoned by Mrs. Frances I. Drake and Mrs. Alma Battisfore.

Pledge Announcements

Eta chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority announces the pledging of Mildred Johnson and Esther Gruenbeck, a junior in the course in commerce.

Kappa Kappa Gamma announces the formal initiation of Pauline Ambrose, Ann Anderson, Beatrice Butterfield, Elizabeth Castle, Frances Farrington, Helen Gardner, Edith Jackson, Elizabeth Osius, Anita Showerman, and Miriam Swartz.

Psi chapter of Theta Chi announces the pledging of Karl H. Ackerman, Plymouth, a freshman in the two-year Pharmacy course.

Personals

Miss Edith Worthington has left Madison for Purdue to attend the formal of Beta Theta Pi fraternity there.

Miss Dorothy Krueger is visiting in Madison for the week end.

Miss Elizabeth Halden returned yesterday from St. Paul where she attended the Minnesota Prom, last week end.

Miss Marshall Entertained

Miss Florence Marshall, New York city, was the guest of Chi Omega sorority at dinner at their chapter house last evening. Mrs. M. K. Rosenberry who is Miss Marshall's hostess during her visit in Madison, and Mrs. E. L. Mendenhall were the only other guests.

MRS. ROSENBERY TALKS AT VESPERS

"If the women of the university would be willing to cut down on their social activities during Lent, and make it truly a season of quiet and meditation, they would find that by Easter they would be able to start on life anew with strengthened ideals and a clearer knowledge of themselves," said Mrs. M. B. Rosenberry, in her talk at Vespers Sunday afternoon in Lathrop parlors.

"And if the women should take a stand against too many social activities during the Lenten season, all the students would follow, and Lent would assume its proper function—that of preparation and solitary consideration of one's problems."

In speaking of following one's ideals in the university and in life, she said, "It will be hard to do this at first, but you will soon find that all ultimate responsibility brings loneliness. Loneliness, moreover, is good training. It is that which gives one the power to bear responsibility."

"The belief in the eternal is the best armor against such isolation. You must remember that you are only young once and old for quite a long time, during which you will have to live with yourself."

TICKETS ON SALE FOR DANCE DRAMAS

"The Dream Gate" and "The Juggler of Notre Dame" will be special feature dance dramas in the Dance Drama recital which will be given Thursday, March 3 in Lathrop concert room by members of Miss Helen H'Doubler's advanced classes.

Miss Bertha Ochsner is the author of the "Dream Gate" which was given in the open air theater last spring, and she has also adapted "The Juggler of Notre Dame" for the dance, and has composed music for the production. Solo dance will be included in the program.

The girls who will dance in the recital are those who have worked and studied intensively with Miss H'Doubler since she introduced her theory of the dance.

Tickets may be obtained in Miss H'Doubler's office in Lathrop hall, and at several drug stores. The cost of admission will be 50 cents.

Communication

A FEW CORRECTIONS

Editor The Daily Cardinal:

Dear Sir:

Unfortunately the communication which the writer sent you on the Honor System was incorrectly printed, so as to materially change and rather confuse its meaning.

In paragraph one the statement did not read "war largely responsible for the abolition of an Honor System, which so far as the honor, is still in force," but it did read "war largely responsible for the adoption of an Honor System, which, so far as he knows, is still in force."

The point was to suggest to the student body that machinery for an Honor System already exists, if students see fit to take advantage of it.

In paragraph two the word used was "overlooks" instead of "overlies," making the paragraph read correctly "But much of the discussion in communications overlooks two very essential things."

Paragraph four began with the word "This" and not "then."

In the second of the features of an Honor System the correct wording was "That students will refuse to help other students in individual topic work (not word) or examinations."

MANY EXHIBITS ARE PLANNED FOR SHOW

Display Fowls at Show

The chicken show, which will be held for the first time, is being undertaken by the Wisconsin Poultry club. Following the decision of the organization to hold the show in conjunction with the stock show, extensive plans have been made, according to William J. Frederick '22, chairman, to make the initial effort a success.

Chickens, both blonde and brune—in fact, all varieties of the feathered species will be exhibited. The methods of breeding will be illustrated, and the latest incubators demonstrated.

The advantage of pure bred fowls over mongrel fowls will be shown by student assistants. The exhibits will be placed in a side room of the Stock pavilion where all the stock is to be shown.

Interest is Keen

"Unusual interest has been evidenced by students in the dairy department," declared Lawrence E. Murphy '21, superintendent. "I am now negotiating with several state breeders' associations and particular individuals to donate special prizes."

OZO TWINS CHOOSE FLORENCE EMMEL AS TODAY'S BEAUTY

After considerable debates and arguments the Ozo twins unanimously chose Florence Emmel '24 to be today's campus beauty. When interviewed one of the twins said that she was "an attractive blonde with a wonderful complexion." The other Ozo was non-committal at first but finally admitted that he liked the way "she puckered her lips and said 'Thank you,' when she was given a ticket."

Ten more numbers were also chosen today and those who hold the lucky tickets can claim their candy at the Chocolate shop any time this week. The numbers are as follows: 765, 1993, 1691, 1469, 1694, 1776, 631, 707, 1551, and 186.

Every day more than 300 subscriptions are being turned in at the Wisconsin Literary Magazine office in the Union building and about 300 staff members are taking part in the drive.

SOUTHERN CLUB

Members of Southern club will meet at the Union building, 6 p.m. Friday for the hay-ride party to Frank's. Outing clothes will be worn.

PYTHIA TRYOUTS

Pythia tryouts will be held March 11. Put names of candidates in Pythia box in Lathrop hall.

ORIENTAL SOCIETY
HOLDS CONVENTION IN MADISON TODAY

"The functions of the officers of the Temple of Ningrisu," "The story of an Egyptian politician," "A new interpretation of Exodus 4, 24-26," are a few of the papers which will be read at the meeting of the American Oriental society, a national organization meeting annually at which prominent educators convene for a two day session to discuss oriental subjects.

Following a luncheon at the University club this noon the opening session will be held at 2 o'clock in 125 Historical library where papers will be read by: Prof. Ira M. Price, University of Chicago; Prof. Samuel A. B. Mercer, Western Theological Seminary; Prof. D. D. Luckenbill, University of Chicago; Rev. J. L. Astrup, Natal, S. Africa; William F. Edgerton, and Dr. T. George Allen, University of Chicago.

Dean George C. Sellery will give an address of welcome at the Friday evening session. His address will be followed by one by Prof. A. H. Lybyer, president of the society on the subject, "The four quadrants of Asia."

The program for Saturday will consist of an illustrated lecture in 165 Bascom hall on "The unity of early history" given by Prof. Michael I. Rostovtzeff, University of Wisconsin, and Prof. A. T. Olmstead, University of Illinois, a luncheon at the Madison club given by the local members of the society and friends, and the concluding afternoon session.

All meetings are open to the public. Among the social affairs arranged for the visitors are a dinner at the University club, Friday, at 6:30, a luncheon at the Madison club Saturday at 12, and a smoker and reception Friday night at 9, when Prof. Eugene H. Byrne entertains at his home, Lake Lawn place.

VARSITY TRACK MEN TO MEET NORTHWESTERN

Engage Purple in Dual Event at Evanston Tonight

With all eligible men in good condition, the Wisconsin track squad entrains this morning at 9 o'clock for Evanston, where the Badgers engage Northwestern in the first conference dual track meet of the 1921 season tonight.

Coach Thomas E. Jones will present a strong line-up for Wisconsin's initial appearance of the season and the squad will be almost the same as the one which won a third place in the 1920 conference track meet.

Three men who had won regular places or the quad will not perform at Evanston. The men are Ralph Spetz '22, who is out because of ineligibility; Peter M. Platten '23, laid up with a sprained ankle; and Carl H. Kelsey '22, who left school at the beginning of the second semester.

The loss of Spetz and Kelsey has nullified the chances of Wisconsin to count in the sprints, while Platten had been counted upon as a point winner in the high jump. Wisconsin easily defeated Northwestern last year, and with all of the track men clicking off their events in record time this season, the Badgers expect to repeat their victory over the Purple.

Good Chance to Win

"The men who will represent Wisconsin are in good condition," said Coach Jones Thursday morning. "We have an excellent chance of beating the Northwestern track team. The Purple are very strong in the sprints, and will probably win these events without much difficulty, but Wisconsin is sure to count points in the field events, hurdles, and long distance runs."

A report from Northwestern declares that Coach Ray Edler is a bit "peeved" with his track men because some of the "elder" candidates have not shown up consistently for practice. Edler, however, has tightened up on the delinquent runners during the last week, and his team will be in trim to give Wisconsin a close battle.

The athletes that the former Badger basketball star is preparing are: Capt. Townley, weights and pole vault; Blackwood, weights; Grausnick and Pollack, 100 yard and 220 yard dashes; Wootan, high and low hurdles; Dally, Szold, Blocki, Hoefler, middle distance, quarter-mile, and half-mile runs.

Purple Men Strong

Of these men, Capt. Townley is a point winner in both of the events in which he is entered, and the big Purple captain may enter the high jump. Szold is a long distance runner of considerable ability, and he is almost sure to place one, two, three in the longer grinds. Blackwood has hurled the shot as far as the best in the conference, and while little is known of the other Northwestern men, all are capable performers.

The lineup follows:

Sixty-yard dash—Wisconsin: Field, Wood, Wallis, Knollin, Stolley; Northwestern: Grausnick, Pollack.

Sixty-yard high hurdles—Wisconsin: Knollin, Stolley, Armstrong, Newell; Northwestern: Wootan, Grausnick.

One-quarter mile run—Wisconsin: Kayser, Johnson, Holbrook; Northwestern: Dally, Szold, Blocki, Hoefler.

One-half mile—Wisconsin: Nash, Post, Holbrook; Northwestern: Szold, Blocki, Hoefler.

One-mile run—Wisconsin: Wall, Brothers, Wille; Northwestern: Burke, Miller.

Two-mile run—Wisconsin: Dennis, Finkle, Noble; Northwestern: Johnson, Telford.

Shot put—Wisconsin: Sundt, Gude, Liskovec, Armstrong; Northwestern: Blackwood.

Pole vault—Wisconsin: Merrick, Wilder, McClure, Cruzen; Northwestern: Captain Townley.
