SUMMER SCHOOL BULLETIN GIVES OPENING DATES

Offer 437 Courses in Session

Recitations and lectures for the 1923 Summer Session will start Monday, June 25, and close on Friday, August 4 for all colleges and schools as stated in the summer bulletin. The law school closes on Friday, August 31. Registration day is on Saturday, June 23.

There will be 437 courses offered in the various colleges by 266 professors and instructors, 31 of whom are from other institutions. Complete information on all courses is given in the Summer Session bulletin, now available in the registrar's office.

John Masfield, F. S. Boas and Sir Israel Gollancy, English scholars probably will deliver several lectures during the session. Columbia university is to bring several English scholars to this country and these men may be brought to Madison.

Give Radio Course

Special lectures are being planned. A series of four plays will be given on July 18, 19, 20 and 21 by the Deaux players of New York. During the week of July 16 a three-day course in civics for women will be conducted by the Extension Division in cooperation with the league of women voters and Dean S. H. Goodnight, director of the Summer Session.

Many departments will give the regular courses. The physics department will have a course in radio telegraphy as Wisconsin is one of the few universities to have a complete radio station.

A class in colloidal chemistry will be conducted by Prof. The Svedberg, University of Upsala, Sweden. The department of education plans to conduct a class of subnormal children under the direction of Miss Burns.

More people can be accommodated at the tent colony along the lake shore as 12 new platforms will be installed. The colony was started in 1912 by Dean Goodnight and was used by 125 people last summer.

Expect Normal Increase

Of the 4724 students that attended the 1922 summer session, 1378 held bachelor's degrees and 2653 enrolled as teachers. Wisconsin ranked fourth among national universities in enrollment for summer sessions. The normal increase of 250 is expected this year according to Dean Goodnight.

Terms of admission for the summer session are the same as for regular sessions. The fee, which does not vary with the number of courses taken, is $22 in the colleges and Graduate School and $35 in the Law School. There is no matriculation fee, and auditors pay the same fee as other students. Laboratory fees are proportionate to those paid in the regular session.

Students are limited to three subjects during the session. The average age of students is higher and they can concentrate on few studies, it is claimed.

ACACIA HOUSE BOUGHT BY ALPHA THETA PIS

Acacia fraternity sold its house 615 N. Lake street, to Alpha Theta Pi yesterday for $21,000 through H. H. Koss local real estate agent. Acacia is going to build a $50,000 house on the Burr W. Jones property on Langdon street. Work will start as soon as the plans are completed by James P. and Edward J. Law, Madison architects. Alpha Theta Pi is a new fraternity founded here last fall. They have been occupying a house at 224 N. Murray and will move into the new house August 15.

WEATHER

Generally fair and warmer weather is predicted for today. Sunday probably will be fair with a higher temperature.

HARESFOOT BOOKS MAY STILL BE SUBMITTED

Synopses for books for the 1924 Haresfoot show may still be submitted for competition in the contest to determine the winning play, according to T. Faxon Hall '25, chairman of the Haresfoot play-judging committee.

Five books have been submitted for examination thus far, the judges state. A suggestion for a plot for the coming show was received yesterday from Horation Winslow, former Haresfoot member and author of several shows who is now writing for the Saturday Evening Post. The letter from Winslow came from Casablanca, Maroc, where he is traveling.

Any musicians who wish to write music for the next Haresfoot show have been asked to notify Porter F. Butts '24, at B. 186.

Copies of the score for this year's show, "Kikimi" were placed on sale at the University Music shop and at Hook brothers this week.

RHODES HONOR ATTRACTS FEW

No Applications For English Scholarship Received By Committee

With the scholastic year virtually completed, no applications for Rhodes scholarships have been received by the committee. Although the applicant is not required to pass any specific examination certain records and attainments are necessary before the honor is conferred.

Any student may apply either in his native state or in any state in which he has received two years of college training.

Thus the university of Wisconsin is privileged to pick five men from the list of applicants to represent it before the Rhodes scholarship committee of Wisconsin. This body, made up of five Rhodes scholars, interviews each one of the selected men individually, and thus forms its opinion of each man's worth.

After this series of conferences has been completed, the committee meets in a joint session, and selects the man who is to represent the state at Oxford university.

The scholarship consists of three hundred and fifty pounds (approximately $1400) annually for a period of three years. This enables the chosen men to live comfortably during this period at Oxford.

The courses offered are Law, the Sciences, Engineering, Classical and Modern languages, and History.

The only requirements are that the candidate must have completed his sophomore year in some degree-conferring university and that he be not less than 19 nor more than 25 years of age.

The selections by the university are made in October, and the final selections are announced in December. The man elected enters Oxford the following year.

WEDNESDAY IS LAST DAY TO GET BADGERS

Unless students who have subscribed for the 1924 Badger procure their books before Wednesday, they will forfeit the total sum of money paid, Howard B. Lyman, business manager of the yearbook announced yesterday.

Subscription blanks contained the clause that books must be claimed ten days after date of publication. Tuesday is the last day on which students can get the Badgers. Approximately 600 yearbooks which have been paid for in part or in full, are in the Badger office at the Union building. One hundred more books are on open sale at $5 each.

Many of the remaining books were purchased by students who have left school. Friends and organizations of which subscribers are members are asked by Lyman to get the books and send them to the persons no longer attending college.

PUBLISH UNION BOARD'S REPORT AND STATEMENT

Issue Booklet on 1922-23 Activities

"For the last twelve years it has been the custom to print in book form the reports of the various activities of the Union board. This year it has been the desire of the board to publish a more complete report than has been done in previous years," Gordon B. Wanzér, '24 editor of the Union board annual report, stated.

The book opens with the president's report by Leslie R. Gage '23, in which he states the purpose of the Union board, "an administrative organ by which the social activities of the university are controlled."

He tells of the board's work in binging to Madison Elman, Wersenrath and Casals, the initiating of the speakers' series, and the successful parlor room dances at Lathrop.

To Conduct Vodvil

The board hopes next year to hold the university circus under its auspices, in conjunction with the annual interscholastic and Venetian Night.

Union Vodvil will be resumed next year with regard to the alterations of the dramatics' committee rules which will make for vaudeville of a more elevating tone.

John Dollard, secretary of the Memorial Union committee tells of the progress of the Union fund which has reached over $360,000, and is growing rapidly.

Russell Frawley gives a report of the 1922-23 Union Board concert series in which a net profit of $2820.03 was made, and Morton C. Frost writes of the "All University Mixer." A total of $737.74 was made in the mixers.

John C. Dawson tells of the Union life membership buttons and Lee McCandless of the convocations. Tentative speakers for next year's Union board convocations are ex-Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, Senator Hiram W. Johnson, and either Judge K. M. Landis or

PLAYERS DINE AND INITIATE; PLAYS NAMED

The University players held their spring initiation and banquet on Thursday evening at the Women's building.

The following candidates were initiated: Lillian Paisley '24, Dora Igraham '23, Calvin Oakford '24, Donald Kastler '23, Margaret Campbell '26, Laura White '25, James Hecker '25, Everett Bogue '24, Charles Carey '25, Dorothea Wilgus '24, Herman Wirka '26 and Wilfred Roberts '26.

Plans for next year were announced. These include the presentation of three plays and the customary programs held twice a month to which all students are invited. On December 1, the Players will give "Mixed Marriage," a three act drama by St. John Irvine.

For the prom play, to be given February 7, the club has chosen "The Torchbearers," which has been playing to packed houses for the past season in New York. This play is a most successful piece of humor, and is the combined work of George Middleton and Guy Bolton.

On March 29, "Adam and Eva" will be presented as the spring production. This play has also had a long run in New York and is rated as one of the best of comedies. George E. Kelly is the author.

SUMMER CARDINAL

All students interested in work on the Summer Session Cardinal report to the editorial offices in the Union building for conference with the editor between the hours of 5 and 6 o'clock today. Positions in all departments are open.

HOLD PIPE OF PEACE CEREMONY JUNE 16

The annual Pipe of Peace ceremony will be held at 11 o'clock Saturday, June 16, on the lower campus.

"Efforts are being made to make the ceremony the most elaborate of its kind ever given at Wisconsin," Harold Seering '24, chairman of the event, said yesterday.

Forty-eight people will comprise each tribe. The pipe which is to be used is the one which has been in service since 1895. The colors of all past classes will be attached to it.

Smoking the Pipe of Peace is an old Indian custom by which one tribe receives another into its midst as a brother. The senior and junior classes will depict every phase of the old ritual this year. A dance and song of Calumet is one of the main features planned for the program.

The committee has been busy securing costumes for the last three weeks.

VOTING LIGHT IN ELECTIONS

Student Court Justices Chosen By Respective Departments

Marked by extremely light voting, elections to the Student court were made yesterday by students in the respective departments represented. The Law School was the only division to register a heavy vote.

The men elected to the bench are as follows:

Only 439 votes were cast out of all the male student body. 112 of these were cast by students in the Law School, Agricultural students cast only 33 votes, and those in the College of Letters and Science only 68.

The election was orderly in every way and was conducted without any trouble, Harold A. Seering '24, chairman of the elections committee, reported. No particular reason for the light vote was given by the committee. The election was a little nearer the examination period than usual this year, which may have accounted for the apparent lack of interest.

Cecil Dull '23, chief justice of the present court, will meet the newly elected court at 7 o'clock Monday night in President Birge's office.

The justices elected will take office in the fall and serve for the year 1923-24. Two important cases were decided before the court this year after two years of comparative quiet. A prosecutor will be named by the faculty of the Law School next fall.

ENGINEERS TO HOLD ANOTHER ELECTRIC SHOW

Conditions look very favorable for the electrical show next year, according to H. L. Rusch '23, chairman of the 1924 show.

The show of last year was the first of its kind ever attempted at Wisconsin. In spite of this fact a crowd of about 2500 people attended the exhibit. At the University of Illinois, the electrical show results in a turnover of $3,000.

"It is not impossible to conceive of the electrical show as becoming as effective an advertising medium of the university as is the Varsity exposition which takes place every four years," said Mr. Rusch. "The electrical show is an attempt to put modern applications of a great science in a popular form, and judging by the comment of the Madison public which attended, it accomplished this object last year."

BASEBALL TEAM TO PLAY FINAL CONTEST TODAY

Meet Strong Michigan Nine

Badger baseballers are set for the game with their strongest and keenest athletic rivals. Michigan and Wisconsin will end their baseball seasons in a game starting at 2:30 this afternoon on the local diamond.

Michigan started early this season with something like 200 candidates reporting for practice. A squad was soon weeded out and they took a swing down into the southeast where they met and defeated the best teams in that section of the country. They have kept their slate clean all through the season and come here tomorrow with the expectation of taking the Big Ten championship with a 1.000 per cent standing.

Put In Good Practice

From the way the Varsity hit, caught, and tossed the ball around the lot yesterday afternoon, it looks as though Michigan might meet disappointment in their final game. Coach Lowman was well pleased with the snappy work his men put up in their last practice session.

Bill Johnson goes to the mound for the Badgers in the tilt this afternoon. Eddie Aschenbrenner, will do the stopping for Bill.

The infield will lineup as usual, but the outfield is a little uncertain. Jack Servatius will likely be in left field and Capt. Williams in center as has been the case in the last few games. Dugan will more than likely get the other garden, although Pollock has been trained for the place. Pickford, because of his hitting qualities might play in the field, or Becker, second string catcher might be used.

Michigan Battery Strong

Michigan played at Northwestern yesterday. They have two pitchers who rate high in Gibson and Liverance. The one of this pair who rested yesterday will do the tossing for the Wolverines.

Liverance pitched the 11 to 3 win over the Badgers at Ann Arbor in April, but Wisconsin got eight hits off him, enough to win an ordinary game. Johnson delivered for Lowman the first six innings but was followed by Radke. Johnson has improved a great deal since those days as was shown by the way he handled the Illinois on Randall field.

Lowman has shifted his batting order again. Williams goes back to the lead off post. Aschenbrenner is shoved up to third and Hully Holm gets the clean up job with Servatius fifth. Holm has come out of his batting slump and should make things interesting for the Wolverines.

BLEYER MAKES MOTOR TRIP THROUGH EUROPE

Professor Bleyer intends to spend a short time in Paris and then go on to the lake region of England where he will devote the summer to finishing his latest book.

NORMAL SCHOOL TRACK RECORDS FALL IN MEET

Milwaukee Takes First Again

Two State Normal track marks were smashed and three were equalled yesterday at Camp Randall when Milwaukee Normal scamped away with the event for the third consecutive year. The Milwaukee men gathered 74 1-4 points while La Crosse, a poor second, made 32 1/2 points. Oshkosh made 22 points, Platteville got 10 1-4, and Stevens Point trailed with 1.

The new records were made in the 220-yard dash and the hammer throw. Tyre, Milwaukee, clipped a fifth of a second from the old mark when he stepped the distance in 22 and 3-5 seconds. MISS TRILLING TO GO TO N. Y. FIELD MEET

Blanche M. Trilling, director of the women's physical education department, left yesterday for Syracuse, N. Y., where she will attend a Y. W. C. A. track and field meet for women and girls.

Miss Trilling is chairman of the national committee on women's athletics whose purpose it is to consider questions which might arise regarding athletics for girls and women and to furnish information and criticisms.

There has been a tendency recently by outside promoters who wish to make money or reputation through pushing girls forward in highly competitive activities, to exploit them in athletic events, and this committee is discouraging that.

GUARD OFFICERS PLAN 1923-24 ORGANIZATION

The President's guard, after completing a successful year of activity, held its final meeting last Thursday evening. Most of the time was spent in discussion of next year's plans of organization and in giving a final send-off to Robert Luening '23, cadet colonel and guard commander for the last two years.

Plans as formulated by the officers of the organization involve a considerably different unit than has been in existence for four years. More rigid entrance requirements will be instituted, using the 35 or more experienced men from this year's unit as a basis of organization.

Commander Luening made his farewell address, and was presented with a traveling case as a token of the organization's esteem. Luening was the founder of the unit and has been the commanding officer for the last two years.

JUNIORS WILL ADVISE FROSH

S. G. A. Now Planning For Welcome of Freshman Girls Next Fall

Junior girls only will act as advisers to freshman girls next fall. This will be an improvement over the previous method of having voluntary girl advisors assigned from any upper class, in the opinion of Jean Palica '25, chairman.

As the plan is outlined, the S. G. A. district system will be used in such a way that the junior adviser will have a freshman advisee who lives nearby and who can be easily reached.

An S. G. A. tea, open to juniors and freshmen alone, and a Y. W. C. A. tea for all university girls will be given at a late date next September.

Each girl on the advisory committee will be chairman of one of the sixteen S. G. A. district divisions. During the summer, this chairman will get in touch with the juniors in her district, and tell each one to write a summer letter of welcome to her particular freshman. Four Madison girls will be on the committee so it will be possible for them to get the names of those freshmen whose credits have been received during the summer.

A pamphlet, "If I Were a Freshman," will be sent to the names that have come in as well as a card asking for the freshman's Madison address.

Every junior girl will be required to take her advisee to the S. G. A. tea at Lathrop parlors on Sept. 23. The Y. W. C. A. tea will be held at

2,000 CHILDREN TAKE PART IN AG PLAY DAY

"Biggest thing Agric triangle has ever done and a great credit to the club," is the way a Dane county official described the mammoth parade, field and track meet in which over 2,000 school children took part at Vilas park yesterday. All of the 3,000 onlookers, of which a large number were mothers and fathers of the contestants seemed to enjoy the gala outing more than the kids themselves.

The organization with which the affair was planned showed conclusively in the excellent management of the children. The gigantic task of managing 2,000 lively kids seemed simple for the university students.

Eastern Dane children made Western Dane go the limit to get the banner in the track events. Mendota Beach school tied Happy Hour school in baseball, while Madison grades scored a 5 to 4 win over Marshall grade school in the same sport. Medals were awarded individual track and field winners.

President Birge's home, Sept. 25. On Tuesday night, the 25th, a party will be given for freshmen only.

A table will be placed in Lathrop next fall where every registering freshman girl will be asked if she has heard from her adviser. At present, the names of 400 girls who will be juniors next school year have been catalogued. No work has been done on freshmen names yet.

SENIOR VESPERS

Senior vespers will be held on the afternoon of June 3 on Muir Knoll as in former years.

The regular 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon Y. W. C. A. vesper service held in Lathrop hall will be discontinued for the rest of the semester.

THE NINTH INNING

The final chapter of 1922-23 Wisconsin athletics will be written this afternoon when the baseball team will make its final bow at Camp Randall.

While somewhat overshadowed by football and basketball as a college sport, baseball probably is more lasting than any outdoor activity. The men who have worn spikes for Wisconsin on the diamond have had to work as hard as their fellows on the gridiron and court. They deserve as full recognition.

Many of the men will appear today for the last time as college athletes. A capacity crowd should be their reward for good work. Though not permitted to bring a championship to the Cardinal, they have played the game and given the best that they had.

Two of Wisconsin's most illustrious athletes will don sport togs for the last time today. Each has attained stardom in three major sports. Seldom have two men done as much, each working wholeheartedly with the other, sharing in honors and triumphs,—Rollie Williams and Gus Tebell.

In order that the names of these Wisconsin athletes whose college race has been run may not be forgotten when time has dimmed the lustre of their efforts, we set their names down here in Wisconsin's roll of fame:

CAPT. ROLLAND F. WILLIAMS
GUSTAV K. TEBELL
LLOYD BECKER
HOWARD R. COMBACKER
HAROLD W. HOLM
JEROME M. PICKFORD

THE MEMORIAL UNION—KICKS AND FACTS

Inevitably in a great movement discontent crops up when the material thing sought is not brought to an immediate consummation. The Memorial Union has not escaped its share of "Why don't we get the building?" criticism.

Objectors like to point to Michigan's magnificent union structure and remark that it's a pity Wisconsin doesn't hurry up. Specifically speaking, satirists for the Badger have printed in pictures what seems to be a project woefully lacking in push,—the dedication of the building in 1972.

Facts furnish good meat to throw to the dogs of skeptical war. Michigan acquired its building after ten long, tedious years. It is not yet complete. Wisconsin, conceiving the idea four years ago and actively campaigning for two, is ready to break ground and start next fall.

Two years against ten. Remarkably speedy and creditable work on Wisconsin's part, it seems. But there is yet much to do. Much money must yet be subscribed; pledges must be met. The summer should offer every student the opportunity either to fill their obligation or to assume a new one toward the Union.

In the meantime the work of planning and building goes on. Wisconsin should be satisfied and eager more than ever to lend a hand.

A GROWING BADGER AD

There always is joy and enthusiasm in a growing thing; a dead thing yields despair and retrogression to all it approaches. The past year has proved that the Haresfoot Dramatic club is decidedly a living and an expanding thing. By contact and association with it, Wisconsin has also grown, become more well known, has obtained a closer amalgamation of alumni consciousness.

In the past Wisconsin has looked a bit enviously at the achievement of the men's dramatic organizations of the eastern universities. Their long trips, their extensive reputation, their wide-spread applause benumbed Badger hope in the embryonic greatness of the infant Haresfoot.

Now with a multitude of enthusiastic press notices and a wealth of alumni admiration and appreciation, a new and added pride in the outstanding dramatic achievement of Wisconsin has been born.

The success of the past merely promised of what the future holds in store, however. Already officials of the organization for the coming season have declared that undergraduate and ambitious authors have submitted possibilities for the manuscript for the show to be given a whole year from now. Musicians have already expressed their desire to write music during the summer months to be used by the club. Scenery builders have presented themselves and declared themselves as willing to offer work and ideas to further the completion of a good show.

This activity welds Wisconsin together. The united business of constructing an organization and a theatrical aggregation into a finished state fit to present to thousands of critical persons, develops in university men a sense of responsibility, a resolve not to fail, and a call to do ones best. The ruder but more vital aspects of the world are these men's before their actual application to the "daily grind" of an office chair or a farmer's plow.

Activity's excuse and reason for being is found in this personal gain to men.

Greater Wisconsin also profits by the activities of the undergraduate students, typefied in the yearly work of the Haresfoot club. Where Wisconsin clubs are the strongest, where Wisconsin graduates are the most numerous, where Wisconsin spirit is the ripest, where the Memorial union needs a helping hand,—there goes the Haresfoot show.

Second only to athletics, is the Haresfoot club in interest to the alumni body. St. Louis, Indianapolis and Peoria all look forward to a first visit next year of this band of players. The Badger clubs already there will be strengthened and revitalized by this undergraduate manifestation of Wisconsin enthusiasm and work.

The present season closes. 1924 lies ahead. The University of Wisconsin looks for bigger and better things each year from its growing advance agent and dramatic representative.

Editors Say

PURE AND SIMPLE ENGLISH

(Purdue Exponent)

Literature of today might be classed as a poor thing in comparison with the fine literary gems of yesterday. Writers must appeal to a hurried public, one that reads between bites at meal times and on the street cars going to and from work. To satisfy this public, the short story and magazine articles written in plain and concise terms have been developed. A great volume of this literature is being poured upon the market. Some of it is rather good, but the great majority of it is trash, read one moment and forgotten the next. Poetry has also suffered in that it has been commercialized, poets being compelled to bring in the practical element or resort to free verse to sell their writings. It is very improbable that any of this will form any material contribution to the literature of posterity.

This literature does, however, meet the popular demand and fills a real need. One of the keynotes in modern progress is simplicity and it is only to be expected that this would show itself in literature. We are not wasting time in reading short stories and practical poems for most of them present problems and aspects of the modern life. They are written for the most part in the pure English of today which is plain and simple. The purpose of this literature is to reach and educate as many people as possible. It is written for the layman, rather than for the highbrow. Therefore in developing a vocabulary it is well to include plain and direct words in order to get your "stuff" over the public.

Oxford Cosmopolitan Club

The cosmopolitan character of the student body of Oxford has always been one of the attractive features of the university life. Situated as it is in the center of the educational world between the east and the west and enjoying a unique tradition and prestige, Oxford has always been a shrine of the student world. But not until now have the foreign students been brought together in one organization where the various national points of view could be publicly presented to the undergraduate body of Oxford. The Oxford International assembly, modeled as it is on the League of Nations in form and procedure, is now one of the most unique movements of Oxford history. Organized a year ago, it has drawn into its ranks representatives of 42 nationalities. Its first meeting was under the presidency of Prof. Gilbert Murray whose practical experience at Geneva was a great source of help to the organizers of the Assembly. His first successor was Magbool Mahmood, of India, who is already well known in American universities.

Though modeled on the League at Geneva, the Assembly is not bound in its organization by the limitations of the League, as the admittance of delegates from Turkey, Russia, the Irish Free state and the United States plainly shows. Delegates from the United States are elected in the Oxford American club after heated debates between Democrats and Republicans and they have played a conspicuous part in the proceedings of the Assembly. Ralph Carson, Rhodes Scholar from Michigan, was the first American to be president of the Assembly. W. Y. Elliott, Rhodes Scholar from Tennessee, and E. S. Griffith, Rhodes Scholar from New York, have also served as president and the former rendered valuable service to the cause of the Assembly by aiding in the formation of similar bodies in French universities. Other Americans have served on the Secretariat, conspicuous among them being S. W. Washington, Rhodes Scholar from West Virginia, who is now general secretary.

The questions which have been dealt with by the Assembly are to a large extent those which are considered by the League of Nations. Principal among them have been the various questions of the Far East, the Epirus dispute, the question of Egyptian independence, the dispute between Turkey and Greece the question of the union of Austria and Germany, reparations, disarmament and minorities. The discussions which are held in the Union debating hall, have thrown upon the screen of Oxford opinion a clear silhouette of the various nationalistic point of view. Nowhere is seen more clearly the differences between the East and the West, the Latin and the Saxon, the Continental and the American. It is not extravagant to say that the Oxford Assembly presents on a small scale a cross-section of world opinion.

Steps are being taken to organize similar Assemblies in other large and cosmopolitan universities of the world and to unite these organizations in order to obtain student opinion throughout the world. Exchange visits and inter-changes of reports and decisions on international problems will be arranged between the various Assemblies, and it is especially hoped that the plan will be adopted in many of the large American universities, as indeed has already been done at Columbia and Wisconsin. The cosmopolitan character of many American universities make them like Oxford peculiarly fitted for such organizations and where it is impossible to secure delegates of every nationality, expert delegates may be substituted to represent some nations. Practical suggestions and help of any kind will be gladly given upon inquiry to the general secretary of the Oxford International assembly.

Do You Want To Make $50 A WEEK This Summer?

The largest manufacturer of its kind in the world—nationally known and respected through its product and through its advertising appearing in the Saturday Evening Post and other leading national magazines—offers men of this college an opportunity to make $50 a week or more during summer vacation.

For several years we have received many applications from college men who have wanted to represent us during the summer.

Although we are the largest institution of our kind in the world, we have never, until just recently, been in position to take advantage of these applications from college men who have seen the money-making advantages of working for us during the summer.

Now that we have increased our already tremendous production we can, for the first time in our history, consider expanding our organization this summer by adding a limited number of college men who want to make a good income during the vacation period.

These men will also have the opportunity of representing us at the college next fall and the income from their efforts during spare hours should go far towards paying their expenses during the term.

Our organization is an international institution. We have over 200 branch offices in the United States and Canada.

Our product is well and favorably known. It needs no introductory work to sell it. Each sale puts a substantial profit into the pocket of our representative. Sales, which make an income to our men of $50 a week, are more common than unusual.

Selling our product is clean work—wholesome and pleasant. It has nothing to do with books, insurance, magazines, brushes or anything which might be distasteful to you.

If you want a $50 a week income this summer, under pleasant conditions and surroundings, see our District Sales Manager while he is in Madison.

SENIORS MAKE HIGHWAY PLAN

Thesis Work Shows That New Highway Must Detour Hill

A relocation of Highway 12 at Sumpter hill will be necessary when the state remakes this highway of concrete, as is planned, according to J. A. Maers '23 and T. R. King '23, who have just completed a thesis on this subject under the direction of Prof. L. S. Smith, head of the highway department of the College of Engineering, and H. D. Blake, assistant state locating engineer of the Wisconsin highway department.

The state has decided that the new surface of the road shall be concrete because of the increasing truck traffic. Sumpter Hill, which is located three miles south of Baraboo has long been a source of trouble to tourists on this highway, and will now interfere with the plans for concrete construction.

At present the maximum grade on this hill is about 10 per cent. By reconstructing the old road at this point, it would be impossible to reduce the grade below 7 per cent.

Also it would be necessary to detour at this point. The cost of detouring the traffic for the period of 90 days or more which would be necessary for the reconstruction would be approximately $70,000, whereas the cost of relocating the road will probably not exceed $55,000.

CO-EDS SPEND $300 SEMESTER

S. G. A. Gathers Information From Girls Representing All Types

The majority of women students at the university spend about $300 a semester, according to Alice Corl '25, who in response to many inquiries, has made an extensive investigation concerning the income necessary for a woman student at the university.

Through the S. G. A. board, Miss Corl was able to obtain about 60 women who volunteered to keep accurate account of their expenditure for the year 1922-23. An effort was made to secure girls who represented every type of life—girls in large rooming houses, in dormitories, in sororities, and in smaller houses were averaged with the girls who work to earn part or all of their expenses.

The results are to be used in a booklet, "If I Were a Freshman Again," which will be mailed to every registered freshman woman during the summer.

When the reports came in at the end of the first semester it was found that the girls could be grouped into three classes: i. e., those who spent about $300 per semester, those who spent about $500, and those who spent a great deal more than the latter amount. The larger majority, however, spent around $500. It was unfortunate that the girls who spent a great deal more than $500 the first semester were unable to render a second account. It was also noticeable that the girls who spent the least were the most philanthropic.

Whether a girl lives in or out of the state seems to have little effect on her general expense account, although it is obvious that a girl who spends $62 a semester for tuition must economize in other things if her expenses are to run no higher than those girls who do not have such expense.

The second semester is somewhat less expensive than the first, and this is accounted for by the fact that girls spend less for clothes and sports during the second semester.

Room rent average about $90 a semester. The cost of books and fees varies with the year in school and the course one is taking. About $25 the first semester and $20 the second seem a fair estimate for this expense. Clothing items and traveling expenses vary greatly with the individual. The excess food item is comparatively low, and varies generally with other expenditures.

Many girls find ways to both earn and save money. Typing, stenographic and clerical work, serving, staying with children nights, sewing, giving music lessons, and giving massages and manicures are some of the ways in which girls earn money.
