EARLY HISTORY OF UNIVERSITY TOLD IN CONVO

Dr. C. H. Vilas Pictures
First Struggles Under Chancellors

The seventy-first birthday of the university was celebrated at the Founders' Day convocation in the gymnasium last night with a program fittingly combining a tribute to Lincoln and Washington, the father of the nation, with a ceremony in honor of the founders of the university. The gym was well filled with students and townspeople.

A comprehensive picture of early university life, the founding of the institution, and the dominating personality of John H. Lathrop, the first chancellor, was drawn by Dr. Charles H. Vilas, president of the regents, in his address on "The University and its First Chancellor." He told of the solemnity surrounding the founding of the university as well as the difficulties in the way of transportation that had to be surmounted.

Dr. Vilas contrasted the present spirit of commercialism that permeates the university and its faculty with the atmosphere of dignity and ceremony which characterized the early years of the institution. His address closed with a picture of future occasions similar to the present, and a prophecy of prosperity for the university.

Velvet Gown Will Do; Prom Queen Sets May 14 Fashion

The worried expressions that may have been seen on some of the physiognomies of frugal parents due to the postponement of Prom until May 14, may change to a cheerful smile, for Dierdre Cox, the Prom queen, is going to wear her velvet gown to the biggest of all social functions. Fears that fond daughters would resort to undue extravagance because of the purchase of a winter gown can be dispelled, for the Prom queen will set the fashion by wearing a velvet one.

"I think that it would be very foolish for the girls to buy new gowns because we are not going to have Prom in winter," Miss Cox said, "and I do not believe that new dresses will be purchased because of this postponement."

The university philanthropists and economists who spent much time worrying over this most serious of all questions can now be set at ease, for there is little cause for worry in this question.

PROM OBJECTORS SCARCE; MEETING SILENCES CRITICS

Follett Discusses Reasons for Postponing Event to May 14

That May 14 is the only possible date for Prom if the junior event is to be held this year, was proved conclusively at the Prom meeting Friday noon, attended by about 50 students.

Prom Chairman "Bud" Follette argued for a solid half hour presenting the situation from every point of view, answering all objections to this date so thoroughly that no one could find room to haggle over the proposition.

The possibilities of every weekend before May 14, were discussed. March 19, which has seemed to many the logical date for Prom, was crossed off for two definite reasons. On that day at least 60 men would be participating in athletic events, and in the junior play, and the committee felt these men should receive consideration. The biggest objection to this date, however, is that it is in Lent. At least 20 people have stated definitely that their church beliefs prohibit their dancing during Lent.

After March 19, the next date considered was April 9, but this was discarded because mid-semester examinations come at that time.

The week-end from April 15 to April 23 includes spring vacation, the Glee club tour, Haresfoot play, and baseball games out of town, taking at least 160 men out of town the first night of Prom. It was conceded by all present that these men should receive consideration, because it is impossible to postpone these events.

On April 30, the Theta Sigma Phi journalistic convention is to be held in Madison. National speakers have been obtained for this occasion, and the faculty will not consider its postponement. The baseball team will also be out of town on this date.

May 7 is the date for the National Oratorical league contest here. University precedent says that nothing may interfere with that date.

May 14—Prom. A dual track meet is slated that week-end, but Coach Jones has given permission for any man who wishes to attend Prom to stay away from the meet, the day after Prom.

TONIGHT'S MIXER TO ADMIT ONLY LIMITED NUMBER

A limited number of students will be admitted to the all-university mixer to be held tonight under the auspices of the Forensic board in the men's gymnasium. Dancing will begin at 8:45, after the basketball game, and the doors will be closed at 10 o'clock.

This step was taken because of the senate ruling requesting students not to gather in crowds. If you have a cold or symptoms of influenza, you are invited to stay away. Otherwise you are urged to come and meet all the new students, or all the old ones, if you are new yourself.

BADGER TOSSERS IN TOP TRIM FOR BIG SCRAP WITH ILLINOIS

MAT MEN MEET LAWRENCE TEAM IN SCRAP TODAY

Weeks Leads Badger Squad
Against Collegians in
First Contest

Lawrence college grapplers will oppose the varsity wrestling team in the first meet of the year this afternoon, to be held on the basketball floor of the gymnasium, immediately after the Madison high basketball game with Francis Park high school of Chicago.

The Badgers have been working hard for several weeks for this meet and are in the best of condition for the series of bouts against the Lawrentians.

Weeks, the heavyweight champion of the university, is relied on to uphold the Wisconsin colors. Nienaber will have to do some strong grappling to beat the Lawrence featherweight, who is an ex-army champion.

Following is the personnel of the Wisconsin team:

Weeks, 184 lbs.—Heavyweight.
Peterson, 170 lbs.—Light heavy-weight.
Sponholtz, 158 lbs.—Middleweight.
Kirst, 145 lbs.—Welterweight.
Cirlin, 158 lbs.—Middleweight.
Snyder, 135 lbs.—Lightweight.
Nienaber, 125 lbs.—Featherweight.
Prideaux, 115 lbs.—Bantamweight

PICK CHORUS IN TRYOUTS TODAY FOR HARESFOOT

Orchestra of 30 Also to Be Chosen for Musical
Comedy

Chorus and orchestra tryouts for "Mary's Lamb," the 1920 Haresfoot musical comedy, are to be held today in the concert room of Lathrop hall, at 2 o'clock. Men who had no opportunity to sign for these tryouts Wednesday night should appear at this time today, as well as those who heard the preliminary sketch of the show Wednesday.

"Jean" Juster, who is picking and directing the orchestra for the show, anticipates a large number of musicians to appear. He urges especially that men who play with the university orchestra or with other organizations come out, as well as amateurs. An orchestra of 30 will be picked, and there are places for every instrument open, especially for violins and clarinets.

Two choruses of 20 men each will be picked from the candidates in this afternoon's tryouts. Singing and dancing, together with stage appearance and general ability, are the main points considered in judging a man's fitness for work in the chorus. "Jimmie" Hemsing, "Sonny" Ray, and John McPherrin have charge of these tryouts.

Crucial Game Tonight to Decide Pennant Chances

THE PROBABLE LINEUP

Wisconsin	Illinois
Knapp.....rf	Felmley
Taylor.....lf	Taylor
Zulfer.....c	Carney
Weston.....rg	Walquist
Caesar.....rf	Vail

Illinois and Badger basket tossers clash for the second time when the referee blows his whistle for the start of tonight's game at the gym.

It will be a game of more than usual importance for both teams. The Suckers overwhelmed the Badgers on their home floor a few weeks ago, but that was before Coach Lowman's men had begun to display the brand of basketball which they have been showing in the recent games at home. They are anxious for revenge, and the team will do some hard driving for the satisfaction of beating one of the leading fives in the conference.

Basket Shooting Improves

Poor basket shooting was the one real defect in the Badger attack against the Illini earlier in the season, but with the change in the lineup to include Taylor at forward and Zulfer at center, and with Captain Knapp dropping them through the loop from all angles and distances, the scoring machinery should keep pace with the Illini forwards total points. There is little danger of the Suckers piling up such a lead as they did in the first game and they may run against a closer score than they are anticipating.

Because of their defeat by Chicago last Saturday and consequent drop from first to second place in the percentage column, the Suckers will likewise be in a fighting mood and only top-notch basketball can stop their attack, once they are started. The Illini have not been displaying as much punch in the games away from home as they did in the early season games on the home floor. The return of Felmley to a regular position after absence, due to sickness, brings back again the combination which worked together so smoothly at first. He and Carney were the principle point gainers until the addition of Taylor to the lineup, but the latter is almost on a par with them at present. Carney, the big center, is the most dangerous man on the team,

THE SOUTH IS THE LIFE

If this here university
Were down near th'Equator,
We'd ride to all our eight o'clocks
Upon an alligator.
We'd wear our Palm Beach suits
to class

Or maybe none at all,
We'd rest in quiet siesta
Till evening shades would fall.
We'd throw away the goolosh
And the bulky sheepskin coat,
And buy a ring of hammered
brass

To ornament our throat.
We'd eat the snowy cocoanut
And live in tropic form....
If this here "U" were way down
there,
Gosh, wouldn't it be warm?

It is most touching to scan over the deed and see all the touching expressions of male solicitude about the Prom gowns. One would almost believe that the writers had to foot the bills. We wonder if.....

WHAT IF THE MAN SHOULD DIE OF SOMETHING?

ONE co-ed said that she didn't mind making over her old dress, or even have Lucille do a new one, but this suspense would be sure to carry her away.

JUST because the rest of the campus notables are filling the last line of the Junior Play limerick, we, after much urging and pleading, will give a special printing here of the little thought we have been cherishing for some time. It came to us over our wheat cakes at the Refectory. Ready? Pour on your own syrup.

When you take a girl out the first time,
And your trousers yield up one thin dime,
Ride out ever so far,
Spend your time completing this rime.

GLANCING through the pages of the deed, as we are sometimes wont to do, we find on the edit page an exchange editorial headed "Jazz Hounds," which decries the students for their attitude towards jazz. Turing over we find a story headed, "Y. W. Dance to Have Doc Elsom Mix 'Em." We ask ya, what can you expect of students under such donctions, we ask ya?

DR. VAN VALZAH favors avoidance of crowds. We're with ya, Doc, and have had the davenport and floor lamp reserved for a week.

NOTED MISSIONARY TO LECTURE HERE

Traveling by dog team or on snowshoes into frozen wilds to visit the sick may not have been a very pleasant experience, but the account of such occurrences and more of them just as exciting will be of interest when Dr. H. P. Greeley gives his illustrated lecture on Labrador Sunday evening at 6:30 at the Congregational church.

Dr. Greeley was associated with the noted medical missionary to Labrador, Sir Wilfred T. Grenfell. He did the same sort of work and will be able to present aspects of the life of the people in that sparsely populated country along with his experiences there.

The Congregational Christian Endeavor society, under whose auspices the lecture will be given, has issued a general invitation to all students to hear Dr. Grenfell, and to attend the usual social hour with refreshments, beginning at 5:30.

VAN HISE WAS WAR ADVISER TO PRESIDENT

Regent Discloses Vital Role
Played by Late Varsity
Head

LA CROSSE—A hitherto unwritten chapter from the life of the late President Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin, showing the important role that he played in the direction of the nation's part in the war against Germany, was related at the annual dinner of the Wisconsin club of La Crosse, by Theodore M. Hammond, Wauwatosa, member of the state board of university regents.

"There is an old law on the statute books," said Mr. Hammond, "which provides that the president of the state university may not leave the state without the consent of the president of the board of regents. So, while I do not presume to dictate the movements of the president, it happened that I was aware of something that few others know, since Dr. Van Hise carefully observed the letter of the law. So it comes about that I know that not once, but many times, was Dr. Van Hise summoned to Washington during the war by long distance telephone by President Wilson.

He would leave at night and return in the night two days later, after a few hours of closeted conference with the president of the nation, who earnestly and continually sought his advice. I recall President Van Hise called me on the telephone very early one morning, to tell me that he had been called to Washington. He left Madison before daybreak and none knew of his going.

"President Van Hise, I may say, was practically the 'associate president' of the United States during those momentous months of the war, because he was the intimate friend and adviser of President Wilson.

And, it is significant that when the United States government wanted a man ideally fitted to inure America to France and English universities, but upon the shores of Lake Mendota, and Dr. Van Hise was sent. The unsparing devotion with which he performed this task cost him his life. On that last journey he contracted the throat affection which caused his death, and he lived but a week after his return from abroad."

Mr. Hammond commended President Birge of the university for unusual efficiency in meeting the problems of the university during the readjustment which followed the war.

FLU JINX FAILS TO DELAY PROM FOR ILLINOIS U

300 Couples Take Part in Event,
Watched by 600 Spectators

URBANA, Ill.—Eclipsing all past achievements in Illinois society shows, the delayed and much debated junior Prom arrived in the role of an informal formal, recorded itself in red letters on the scholastic calendar and departed flushed with fame.

The fact that the formal this season was given a la Wisconsin in point of time, may have added an appreciable portion of the apparent spirited morale to the whole affair. At any rate, the old semester and all its cares had been happily or sadly dismissed and a who'some mid-semester peace of mind obtained. No undercurrents of perplexity, either for the morrow or for yesterday, had occasion to mar.

For a brief night, 300 lavishly adorned couples on the expansive gym annex floor and 600 plebian spectators in the bleachers above, were transferred to a land of fantastic colors, mesmerizing music and magical light. From the first groans of the subtle saxophone, when Ollie Wilton, class president, with Miss Laura Steele of Lake Forrest, followed by successful chairman Wabby Brown and Miss Adrienne Steinfeld of Northwestern, led out the grand march formation at 9:30 o'clock to the soothing strains of "Dardanella" at 2 in the morning, the hosts of blissful Illini and Illinae forgot cares and danced.

It was an all night parade of stylish splendor, a dazzling display of novel patterns and bewildering luxuriousness, a pompous procession of fashionable creations.

Conniving with Dame Fashion were the realizations of an afternoon of fevered industry in beauty parlors. Feminine touches scientifically applied to feminine graces, craftily wrought the latter into singular prominence and thereby hoisted the mercury in the campus beauty barometer several degrees.

SEVEN CO-EDS FACE CHEATING CHARGES

URBANA, Ill.—Seven cases have come before the woman's honor commission since the opening of the University of Illinois in the fall. Of these, one woman was found guilty of deliberate cheating and dismissed from the university, another lost credit in the course, a third withdrew from school before action could be taken, while final action on the other four cases is pending. Investigation into the case of the one who withdrew before coming to trial is being made through the office of the dean of women. Only one case was reported to the woman's commission during the period of final examinations.

SENSE OF HUMOR IS BIG ASSET TO MEN IN MEDICINE

"Human interest and a sense of humor are things you must have in order to successfully practise medicine," said Dr. A. J. Oschner, of Chicago, a Wisconsin man, Vocational conference speaker yesterday. During the war he was one of five men who made up the committee of American medical work in the army.

"If you haven't a human interest get out of the medical profession," Dr. Oschner continued. "In medicine the man who is irritable decreases his usefulness so much that he had better be elsewhere. Tactfulness is necessary.

Other necessary qualifications for a medical man, Dr. Oschner said, were sincerity, honesty, industry, and worth-whileness. Besides this a long term of training is required.

Edward S. Jordan, Wisconsin graduate, president of the Jordan Motor company of Cleveland, spoke at the Engineering building on the prospects for young men in the automobile industry. Willis Wisler, labor manager for the Clothiers' exchange, presented phases of the efficiency engineers outlook.

GET THE SUCKERS

THE game against Illinois tonight marks the critical point in the Wisconsin basketball schedule. In addition to a jump upward in the percentage column, a Badger victory means vengeance for an earlier defeat.

Unpleasant as it may appear, student interest has ebbed somewhat at the time when the team is in most in need of support. Reduced to a point in fact the question has often been broached that some degree of responsibility for defeats on the home floor in the past can be attributed to a marked lack of student backing.

It is well worth noting that basketball as distinguished from practically all other branches of sport is certainly the most dependant on large scale bleacher backing. The players are not as far removed from the stands as is the case in football, baseball, or track. They appreciate more keenly every yell, every roar that means 100 per cent support.

The incentive to play hardest is always high when the crowd is of maximum proportions. Tonight the team will need all the student support that can be crowded into the armory. Illinois must be lowered and the fighting Badgers raised in the percentage columns.

There could be no better opportunity than an Illinois game to assure our basketekers that the entire student body is behind the team. The Sucker team has always been a worthy foe for the Badgers. Tonight they come with a determined effort to strengthen their position. Wisconsin will be ready and there should be a crowd on hand early with a big reserve of lung power to prove it.

Help "Get the Suckers" tonight.

THE VARSITY CALENDAR

THE university calendar for the second semester has already listed an event of all-university character for practically every week-end. To carry this program through in keeping with Wisconsin traditions and at the same time retain high scholastic standards will require the maximum of student effort.

Seniors in particular should be especially impressed with the last events of their college days. To them the approach of graduation accompanied by participation in undergraduate activities for last time often has more than casual importance. In university circles it means the passing of another student generation with the much used phrase playing its background role—"well, that will be my last chance to make the team."

Not only seniors should be interested in the success of the program, for it includes some of the most important activities which undergraduates are privileged to enjoy. The junior Prom, the Northern Oratorical league contest, the intercollegiate debates, and some of the season's best basketball games offer a diversity of interests great enough to interest all.

If they are to be made successes of the first order everybody must take a hand. The best time to get up steam is the present in order to insure a reserve supply when occasion demands it.

WIND UP OCTOPUS 'SUB' DRIVE TODAY

Work on March Issue Goes at Fast Clip; Call For Contris

Although the campus drive for Octopus subscriptions ended yesterday, the circulation manager will be in the Octopus office in the Union building this morning to take orders from those who have not yet subscribed.

Already work on the next issue is in full swing. However, there are still several jobs on the business and editorial staffs that are not filled and as for contributions, the editor urges that these be sent in as soon as possible in order that material which needs illustrating may be put in the hands of the art department.

Any original joke, any bit of spicy prose or jingly limerick, any snappy picture is what The Octopus needs to make the new magazine one of the best in the country. The subject of the next number is "New Thoughts."

Contributions should be put in the boxes that have been placed about the campus for that purpose, or brought to the office before March 1, which has been set as the deadline. Every contribution must be signed so that credit may be properly given, although names will not be used.

BADGERS PRIMED TO MEET ILLINI

because of his unerring eye for the basket and his remarkable ability as a dribbler.

Frogner Likely Starter

Although the Wisconsin lineup will doubtless be the same as the one which started against Michigan, Coach Lowman may use Frogner at the left guard position in place of Caesar, because of his familiarity with the Illinois style of play. Frogner played that position in the first game with the Suckers.

While these two teams are battling, Chicago will play Michigan at Ann Arbor, and Purdue and Northwestern will meet in Patton gymnasium at Evanston. Illinois will go from Madison to Minneapolis for a game with the Gophers at that place Monday night.

ILLINI KEEN FOR WIN

URBANA, Ill.—Stung by the recent defeats at the hands of Chicago and Purdue, Coach Jones' quintet has not lost any of its characteristic drive and fight as a result of the two trimmings in the last three games, but has rather taken on a greter spirit of aggressiveness since the upsets.

Only a brace of victories over Wisconsin and Minnesota will fix the Indians so that they will be in a position to overtake the slight lead which the Maroons have gained. If either the Badgers or Gophers upset the Indians all chances for the title will have flown, but two wins from the coming opposition will place the Illini where it will be only necessary for them to trounce the Maroons and Michigan to finish in at least a tie for first honors.

Opposition from the Badgers is reckoned now as being tougher than that which will be put out by the Gophers.

With characteristic sportsmanship, Coach Jones had no alibis to present for the defeat by Chicago. That Illinois was outplayed was evidenced by the score, always a criterion. The teams were evenly matched and it was just that extra "something" which left Chicago with a two point lead at the finish.

Drill on the attack comprised most of the Illini sessions for this week. The defensive play was of a high order Saturday night and the Maroons got few chances at the hoop, but the Indian inability to get clear shots was the cause of their upset. Felmley, Taylor, Carney and Walquist will be closely tutored in this department all week so that nothing will remain undone when the team takes the road for the second time this year.

VILAS MEDAL WEARERS

All winners of the Vilas medal in forensics will meet at Ruud and Irion's studio at 9:30 a. m., Sunday, for the Badger picture.

TELL HISTORY OF VARSITY AT CONVO

to the untiring efforts of Prof. Julius E. Olson to whom the success of the meeting was largely due. He commended the inspiration that "connected the founders of the university with the founders of the commonwealth." "Such a plan gives social steadiness," he said, "in days of unrest when there is a definite group which scorns the principles upon which the country rests, and that is the group which we propose to wipe out."

Prof. A. B. Hall, who was to speak on "The Democracy of Washington and Lincoln: A Flashlight on Present Day Problems," was unable, on account of illness, to attend the meeting. A draft of his address was read by Professor Olson. Professor Hall brought out that the democracy of Washington and Lincoln was the result of the best of American ideals found in both characters. He pointed out that both of the statesmen, although opposite in social life and temperament, "reached a common ground in the democracy of America." Both men had an unswerving devotion to an ideal.

Isolation is Gone

"We may find courage for present day affairs from a contemplation of them," he said. "America stands at the parting of the ways. We can no longer live in splendid isolation. Shall our policy be constructive or negligent?"

"The constructive policy leads through untied pathways, but so also did the program of Washington follow new lines of development. Present domestic problems also call for courage, sanity, and common sense. For these qualities we need to emulate the devotion of Washington and Lincoln to a single idea and the cause of justice. Our ideal must be a democracy more perfect, more righteous, and more just."

Frances E. Tucker, '21, speaking on the subject of "Changing Ideals," pointed out the importance of social factor in the university and the new ideals which the student forms as well as the old ones that are strengthened. Leroy J. Budlingame, '18, showed that the duty of the Wisconsin student is to boost the Wisconsin spirit by steady application to service and less application to simple pleasure. The subject of his talk was "Evolution of Wisconsin Spirit."

Discusses Memorial Union

Miles Riley, '09, chairman of the Dane county committee for the proposed Memorial Union building, gave an address that was accompanied by slides showing Union buildings in other universities and various views of Wisconsin's building. He brought in interesting descriptive facts about the proposed memorial, and the message which he brought to the students was that if Madison people and the students do not support the project they can look for failure in the entire campaign. Dean Sellery put the climax to his statements by assuring Mr. Riley that "there are no quitters at Wisconsin."

Musical numbers by the Glee clubs, the choral union and the band were interspersed throughout the program and gave the touch needed to make it a real "Convocation Extraordinary."

CLEF CLUB TRYOUTS

Tryouts for freshmen and associate members of Clef club will be held in Music hall, Thursday evening, March 4, at 7 p. m. All those wishing to try out must mail their names to Georgina W. TRACK AND TANK TEAMS FIGHT IN FOREIGN CAMPS

Runners to Notre Dame, Swimmers at Illinois for Dual Meets Today

Badger track and swimming teams will battle in foreign fields today. The thinly-clad will run against Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., and the swimming squad is booked to meet Illinois at Urbana.

As a result of ineligibilities several of track men were eliminated. Among them are Malecker, one of the best sprinters on the team, and Rushen, a strong man in the high jump.

It is the general opinion of track dopsters that the Badgers will have no easy time of it, for the Catholic school is noted for having one of the strongest cinder teams in the Middle West. Judging from the results of the Notre Dame-Wabash, college meet the Gold and Blue lineup is a comparatively strong one. Wabash was ewamped by a score of 68 to 18.

The Badgers lineup will be:
40-yard dash — Spetz, Knollen, Kelsey and McCandless.
440-yard dash — Kayser, Spetz, Donaldson and Kelsey.
Half mile — Nash, Will and Crump.
Pole vault — Enders, Wilder, Merri-rick.

Hurdles — Andrews, Knollen, Lewis.

Shot put — Kelsey, Hertzfeld.
Mile — Dayton, Crump, Brothers.
Two mile — Meyers, Brothers and Crump.

High jump — Edwards, Young.
Relay — Nash, Spetz, Donaldson, Cox.

The tank squad was also hit by poor scholastic standings, but the mainstays of the team are eligible and a good showing of the Badger swimmers is expected by Coach Joe Steinauer.

The Illinois meet will be the first conference contest of the season for Wisconsin. The varsity men who will compete are Bach, Davies, Haldeman, Peterson, Burt, Koch, Kidder, Colline, Krum, Black, Blood, good, Lamboley and Stark.

One Monkey Carries Off Another — And Octopus Grieves

"Who stole my sign?" is the wail the publicity manager of The Octopus has set up since some light-fingered Johnny under the shades of night carried off the large "monkey" poster that stood against a tree in front of the bursar's office.

The whole Octopus staff is in an uproar since the disappearance of its biggest and best poster, a dancing monkey calling for subscriptions. All sorts of tempting rewards are offered to detect the perpetrator. The same vandals carried off a poster that stood in front of the library and several other art works that graced the bulletin boards of main hall.

So desperate and enraged is the staff that rumor has it that a thoroughgoing search of all rooms is to be instituted to apprehend the villain. A list of suspects is now being drawn up and it is well near certain that in this group the guilty will be found.

When asked what he knew about these people that take the painted posters from the bulletin boards, the assistant custodian of Main hall declared that he did not know the guilty persons, but that he did know it was those people who valued the art more than their honor.

But that doesn't help The Octopus out of its predicament. The cold fact is that its posters are gone and it wants them back. So please, Mr. Connoisseur, bring back just the big monkey sign. The Octopus needs it.

The Power of Electricity in Transportation

ELECTRICITY has leveled out the Continental Divide. The steam locomotive, marvelous as it is after a century of development, cannot meet all of the present demands for transportation facilities. Its electric rival has proved to be far superior.

On the mountain divisions of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway—the world's greatest electrification—giant electric locomotives today lift an ever increasing freight tonnage over the mile-high Rockies and also make traveling clean and comfortable. They utilize the abundant energy of distant waterfalls and then, by returning some of this power to the trolley, safely brake the trains on descending grades. And their capabilities are not impaired by excessively cold weather when the steam engine is frozen and helpless.

Electricity is the power which drives the trains of New York City's subway and elevated systems. It operates the locks and tows the ships through the Panama Canal. It propels the Navy's latest super-dreadnaught, the New Mexico. Electric mine locomotives have replaced the slow-moving mule and the electric automobile has also come to do an important service. Such achievements were made possible by the extensive research and manufacturing activities of the General Electric Company.

Electricity has become the universal motive power. It has contributed efficiency and comfort to every form of transportation service and in this evolution General Electric apparatus has played a large part—from mighty electric locomotives to the tiny lamp for the automobile.

Some Advantages of Railroad Electrification

Saving the Nation's coal

Lower maintenance costs.

Greater reliability and fewer delays.

Ability to haul smoothly heavier trains at higher speed.

Operation of electric locomotives unaffected by extreme cold.

Ability to brake trains on descending grades by returning power to the trolley.

GILLIN CALLS RELIGION MEET STUDENT NEED

Problems Arising in College to Be Discussed at Conference

"There is great need for a religious meet for the students of the university," emphatically declared Prof. J. L. Gillin, professor of sociology, in speaking of the all-university Religious conference to be held March 4-7.

"Many students are confronted with tremendous religious problems," Professor Gillin declared. "They hesitate about going to their professors with these problems because they fear they will not be kindly received or that they may impose upon the instructors by bringing up subjects that are outside of the regular university work."

Meet New Problems

Problems confronting both the men and women of the university are the result of their education, Professor Gillin pointed out. Many students come here grounded in the old orthodox beliefs, and when they come into contact with the sciences they have questions brought up that may shake their faith in religion if not set aright.

"It is to straighten out these difficulties that the conference has as one of its objects," Professor Gillin stated. "The students will get an opportunity to interview some of the big men and women speakers who will be here and in that way have a chance to get expert advice and to have their questions and problems answered. Hundreds of students have taken advantage of this opportunity to go over their questions with the speakers who came here to former conferences and the good they get from such meetings is lasting."

Aims at Two Results

Two main objectives have been set up for the conference, Professor Gillin said. One is to interest the young people of the university in religious work. Many men and women have an interest in missionary and other forms of religious work, and it is aimed to encourage this feeling and to stimulate greater participation of the entire student body in religious matters. The other object is to show the connection between the church and our economic and social lives.

"From my own experience, I have found that there is a great need for setting students aright upon religious questions," Professor declared. "Those students who have been brought up in the old orthodox beliefs, as I was, will find in many of the subjects studied here apparent contradictions to those beliefs. It is the object of the advisors who tear down the old fundamental beliefs, but rather to strengthen them by application to the modern world."

"Revival" Title Doesn't Apply

"The conference is in no wise a revival. It is simply an attempt to bring religion to the students in a practical way and by people who have the understanding and the encouragement needed by both men and women at Wisconsin."

There will be no intention of discriminating between sects or faiths at the conference, Professor Gillin announced. Protestant, Catholic, and Jew will have an equal opportunity to confer with suitable persons who will be willing to take up any problem or question that is bothering the student.

LAWRENCE COLLEGE RAISES TUITION FEE

APPLETON—An increase in the tuition rates at Lawrence college, effective next September, has been announced by President Samuel Plantz. The tuition will be increased from $75 to $100. In order to aid students who cannot afford the increased tuition, 50 scholarships of $25 each will be given and will be awarded at the discretion of the president.

FOX COMMENDS VARSITY LEAD IN DRAINAGE WORK

Expert Talks on Swamp Land
Reclamation; State Meet
Closes

"As in so many other things, the University of Wisconsin has been a pioneer and leader in scientific drainage," said John A. Fox, of New Orleans, director of the National Drainage congress, in his talk at the Engineering auditorium yesterday morning that closed the two-day session of the Wisconsin State Drainage association here.

Officers of the association elected yesterday were Nye Jordan, Mauston, president; Carl Foll, Deerfield, vice president; E. R. Jones, Madison, secretary; and Anton Dorst, Babcock, treasurer.

Mr. Fox, as manager of the Wisconsin estates which have done extensive drainage work in Louisiana, is particularly fitted to discuss the drainage problems of that section of the country.

The program for the convention, arranged by O. R. Zeasman, instructor in agricultural engineering and B. G. Elliott, professor of mechanical engineering, began Thursday morning with a talk by B. M. Vaughn on "A Necessary Additional Drainage Law," followed by a discussion on "How to Improve the Drainage Manual," by F. W. Lucas and Jerry Donohue.

The afternoon session included a report from the committee on contracts and specifications by O. R. Zeasman, a discussion led by F. W. Lucas, a talk on experience in building railroad crossings by Jerry Donohue, and a report on the national drainage congress by J. G. W. Mack, state engineer.

Thursday night Mr. Fox gave his illustrated talk on "Drainage in Louisiana," and R. O. Geehu talked on "Flood Protection in the Fabius River Valley."

The last meeting of the convention yesterday morning opened with a discussion by H. V. Tennant of "The Effect of Back-water from Dams," taking up in particular the two dams on the Wisconsin river at Prairie du Sac and Kilbourn. Perceval Brooks Coffin talked on "The Advantages of Consolidating Districts," and Mr. Fox concluded the meeting with his motion picture of flood conditions on the Lower Mississippi.
