Julius E. Olson Excuses Classes on His Birthday

Oldest Professor, Here for 44
Years, Celebrates 70th Anniversary

All of Prof. Julius E. Olson's Scandinavian language classes will be dismissed for Friday, Nov. 9, in honor of Professor Olson's 70th birthday.

A "song-fest" will be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday in Lathrop parlors, it was announced in Professor Olson's classes Wednesday. Professor Olson will sing some Scandinavian songs, and there will be a general singing of university songs at the beginning and end of the fest.

The Ygdrasil Literary society has arranged a dinner at the Madison club Friday night in honor of Professor Olson, who is a charter member and an active worker in that society organized in Madison 32 years ago.

Five toasts have been arranged for the banquet. Edward Steensland, a charter member of the society, will (Continued on Page 2)

New Athletic Review Makes Debut Today

Eddie Gillette '13, who starred on Wisconsin's championship football team of 1912, has contributed the featuring article of the November issue of the Wisconsin Athletic Review, which goes on sale today. In these days of hectic football it is fitting that Gillette should review the 1912 season which ended in the last championship for Wisconsin.

Attractive Cover

Externally the magazine presents one of the most distinctive and attractive covers it has yet had, by Reid Winsey '30.

A wide and varied group of sports writers have contributed to the November issue including five non-student and five student writers. Besides Gillette, Hank Casserly, sports editor of the Capital Times; Eric Wilson, editor Iowa News Service; M. V. Morganstern, Chicago Publicity office; and Roundy Coughlin, inimitable columnist of the Wisconsin State Journal, have contributed.

Student Contributors

Student contributors include Bruce Dennis, Harold Dubinsky, George Kroncke, Dave Morrison, Rhyda Wall-schlaeger, and Ty Dahlgren.

Among the subjects of the articles are: Thistletonwaite's opinion of the B team system; tribute to Dad Vail; Iowa's Indian Halfback, McLain; basketball prospects; cross country; Chicago's football team; intramural sports; women's sports; and reviews of past football games.

1,000 to Attend Grid Banquet Set for December 4

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 4, 1,000 men are expected to gather for the 1928 Association of Commerce varsity grid banquet. The following committee heads have been announced by Harry L. French, general chairman:

Program, Col. J. W. Jackson; university invitations, George Levis; publicity, program, and printing, A. E. Gillet; banquet, Oswald Neesvig; and decorations, Phil Franzen.

Through the courtesy of Dr. W. E. Meaniwell, varsity basketball mentor, and Archie Morrow, coach of the East Side High school, the gym has been obtained for the purpose.

Members of the general committee reported last Tuesday noon that several hundred dollars' worth of tickets have already been sold.

Twenhofel Speaks Before Geography Club Today

Prof. W. H. Twen Hofel of the geology department will speak at a meeting of the Geography club, today at 3:30 p. m. in room 321, Science hall. The topic on which Professor Twen Hofel will speak is "Evolution of Organisms Leading to Man." The Geography club extends a cordial invitation to the public to attend this lecture.

Girl Mourning Loss of Photo at Open House

Open house—the picture of a pretty young girl on a dresser—admiring men students—and the picture was gone! That is what happened Friday night, and the Open house has resulted in a teary-eyed girl mourning over the loss of the photograph of a dear dead friend. The person who took the picture did not know it was that of a young girl who is dead, nor did he know what sorrow he would cause by his joke. Won't he please return it to its owner at 228 North Charter street, and make her happy again?

Ross Sails Today with Floating "U"

Prof. E. A. Ross, of the sociology department, sails from New York today on the S. S. Wilson which will bear the Floating university around the world. He is accompanied by his wife and son, Lester, who graduated from Harvard Law school last year.

The cruise is in charge of Sydney Greenbie, well-known author and publicist, who has arranged that the personnel of the university will be equally divided between the sexes in order to insure wholesome social intercourse.

The S. S. Wilson will make its first stop at Havana. From there this unique educational experiment will proceed through the Canal zone to San Francisco, stopping en route at Los Angeles. They will then sail by way of Honolulu for a tour of the far East and Europe.

In the spring they will board the ship at Naples and return across the Atlantic, arriving at New York on June 11. College classes will be maintained both on shipboard and in hotels and the curriculum will consist of subjects selected because they may be studied to particular advantage while traveling.

Wets Weep, Drys Dance As Herb Wins

By GEN FLOREZ

The King is dead! Long live Hoover!! Herbert I., President of the Incorporated States of America, was conceded his office by the vote of a Solid South that wasn't. The campus received the election returns throughout the night. . . . Wall street will get them in the next four years.

And the following morning 8,000 students dragged themselves wearily up the hill, looking like a horde of tired out bookkeepers.

Returns Everywhere

Seated before loud speakers, in fraternity houses, at the Orpheum, in the Union, the student body had listened to electoral votes, precinct counts, majorities, until their heads swelled with computations.

The girls were fortunate. Sorority doors remained open to them until 12:30. . . . those who were of age made a week-end of the affair.

Milton Junction, home of the W. C. T. U., went Democratic for the first time since Brigham Young stopped in for a Cuban and a cup of java while on his way to Utah. One of our political connoisseurs maintained that "whichever way Milton Junction went, the nation would follow." Alas, he forgot that Peoria had its own brewery.

Concrete Sentiment

The sidewalks had voted. . . . but so had every bootlegger and his step-sister.

Think of poor Smitty. Huddled against a damp curbstone in the Bronx, with unkempt derby relaxed on his disheveled hair, he read the want-ad section of the "World." The vacuum cleaner had triumphed over the brown derby.

Before him spread a panorama of immigrants clamoring for return tickets to their home towns; bankrupt steamship companies doling out rain transportation checks; an unnaturalized Milwaukee sorgowing before its faded dream of Schlitz, Schmedeman and Bieberstein.

Committee Plans Gigantic Bonfire for Friday Night

Thompson Promises 30 Foot
Pyramid on Lower
Campus

Flames leaping to the sky from a 30-foot pyramid of boxes surpassing past Homecoming bonfires are assured by Merrill Thompson '30, chairman of the bonfire committee, at 8:15 p. m. after the mass-meeting in the gym and before judging of decorations take place. The bonfire will be held on the lower campus.

"We are requesting those who will be present to keep back at a safe distance from the pyramid because burning boxes might fall and cause injury to those who are too near the bonfire," advised Thompson.

Burgess Battery company and the Co-op are supplying the materials for the bonfire. Work on the pile of boxes will be done by the members of the committee today and Friday. Inclement weather will not hinder the (Continued on Page 2)

First Issue of 'Lit' Goes On Sale Today

The first issue of the Wisconsin Literary magazine will be released today and will be on sale at the usual places. The price is 35 cents.

An agreeable forematch is presented by the editors, and the typographical beauty of the magazine is enhanced by a distinguished cover by Molnar Gyula '30.

Among the contents will be several articles of outstanding merit, among which is the verse of Carroll Blair '31 and "Aldous Huxley," the 1928 Vilas Prize essay by Naomi Rabe '29.

Blair's pen deftly turns off quips to the discomfiture of several of the outstanding campus types. Among those satirized we find the ornamental co-ed, the athlete, the activist man and the equestrienne.

The book reviews this year are strong and clever. The review of S. G. A. Rogers' new novel, "Less Than Kind," almost smacks of less majesty, when the reviewer points out that Mr. Rogers makes the University club the scene of the chief character's dissipatory activities.

Three prose sketches by Montague Cantor '31, Raymond Hathaway '31, and J. Gunnar Back '31, are interestingly done and present some of the finest bits of condensed writing Wisconsin has had. The verse is good and includes contributions by Maxine Stiles '30, Emily Iglesias '29 and Anne Hodges.

Every Ticket Sold for Chicago Game

A packed stadium for the Homecoming football game was assured Wednesday with the announcement that all available tickets had been sold. The 2,000 to 2,500 extra seats which have been recently erected in sections A, B, and J, and at the ends of the stadium, had all been sold Wednesday afternoon, although the sale for them started only that morning. The regular seats had all been sold after the first half hour of open sale Monday morning.

Prof. Howard E. Enders Will Lecture Tonight

Prof. Howard E. Enders, head of the Biology department at Purdue university, will lecture on "The Jungle Life of the Panama Canal Zone" at 8 p. m. tonight in the Auditorium of the Engineering building.

It is under the auspices of Phi Sigma and open to the public. There will be three reels of film shown.

County Agents Open Convention

Agricultural Extension Leaders Discuss Current Problems

Stressing the task of each farmer in working out his own destiny, Prof. Kirk L. Hatch, assistant director of agricultural extension, spoke at a meeting of county agents Wednesday morning in Agricultural hall.

"No amount of legislation will counteract high production costs, low yield, and soil difficulties," said Professor Hatch. "The state extension workers show the farmer how he can offset these difficulties, and actually help him to do so, thereby bringing about the real, practical farm relief."

Relief for Women

Following Mr. Hatch's talk, Mrs. N. K. Jones, state leader of Home Economics extension, spoke on "The Next Move in Home Improvement." She stated that wherever dynamos or power facilities permit, women on the farm should have electrical equipment to save drudgery.

Wednesday afternoon was devoted to the matter and methods of dairy extension work. County Agent Robert Amundson, Appleton, spoke on "Testing Cows by Mail," discussing a plan which he developed for this purpose. Inquiries about his plan have been received from extension men in nearly every state.

New Milk Test

The method provides for furnishing the farmer with small aluminum bottles in which he may mail samples from each of his cows to the county agent. The agent tests the milk, and mails back the results together with instructions as to treatment of the cows. The approximate charge for this service varies from 50 cents to $1 per cow.

Others who spoke Wednesday afternoon were R. T. Harris, A. Mucks, A. O. Collentine, L. G. Kuennen, and H. M. Knipfel. J. F. Wojta, state leader of county agents, acted as chairman of the morning session, and G. E. Farrell of the afternoon session.

Today's program will follow along the same general lines as Wednesday's. G. E. Farrell will open with a talk on "The Federal Requirements of Extension Workers."

Will Discuss Soils

A soils program will be given in the afternoon. Prof. Emil Truog will speak on the "Various Methods of Applying Fertilizer," and A. R. Whitson will talk on "Lime Needs of Soil Types." Profs. Otto R. Zeasman and Griffith Richards are also on this program.

This evening the annual extension workers' banquet will be held in the Park hotel. The program will be furnished entirely by extension talent, and an illustrated address by Dean H. L. Russell is included.

Gyro Club Hears Football Changes

The old game ain't what she used to be, in the opinion of "Jerry" Riordan, former university football star, who spoke before the Madison Gyro club Wednesday noon at the Loraine hotel.

"There are several things that have changed that I'm sorry to see," Mr. Riordan, now agricultural director for the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association, said.

Line play has altered greatly, since in the old days only five yards was needed in three downs for first down. Fewer substitutes were used, because the condition of the players was better, due to the training table, and 35 minutes halves tested a man's courage, Mr. Riordan said.

He urged strong support of Wisconsin's greatest team in years and advocated a return to the old-fashioned kind of cheering without cheerleaders, or fancy trimmings.

Mr. Riordan is president of the university "W" club. He highly praised the guard play of John Parks in the Alabama game as typical of the old time defensive style.

Seniors of the University of Utah will distinguish themselves throughout the year by wearing a uniform dress.

Frost Will Collect to Send Band to Invasion of Iowa

"The Wisconsin Band should by all means be at the Iowa game to cheer the team along," said Ted Frost '29, who is sponsoring the bucket brigade collection to be taken up for that purpose between halves of the Chicago game Saturday.

"The Wisconsin band is one of the most representative institutions of the university and if everyone at the game would donate 10 cents toward sending it to Iowa, the band would be able to make the trip and the expense of the Michigan trip would be paid besides."

Triad Restricted by Dormitories

This, it is said, effectually spares a repetition of the recent occurrences which caused the circulation of a petition, the direct result of which was the senate's action Wednesday night. The petition which was submitted to the Executive committee, was signed by nearly 200 dormitory residents.

The Board of control as elected by the Executive committee consists of Gordon Derber, fellow-adviser, James Munro '31, and Milton Wittenberg '29.

A resolution introduced by George Chandler, comptroller, that the dormitories be decorated for Homecoming was overwhelmingly defeated after discussion.

Hoover Wins 444 Votes; Smith, 87

Continued from Page 1) creased the majority to 13, on incomplete results. The House is similarly affected, although several prize Republican districts in Pennsylvania and Illinois were captured by the Democrats.

Emmerson Wins in Ill.

In Illinois, the Glenn-Emmerson-Carlstrom combination for U. S. senator, governor, and attorney-general was successful against the Thompson-Crowe machine. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick and Richard Yates, both Republicans, were chosen representatives-at-large.

Although the rural districts of New York were Republican enough to wipe out Gov. Al Smith's metropolitan lead, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, was chosen governor over Albert Ottinger by a margin that showed him running ahead of the national ticket. U. S. Senator Royal S. Copeland successfully held his office against former German Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton.

New Members Elected to University Committee

Prof. E. R. Schmidt, of the school of medicine, and Prof. H. R. Trumbower, of the economics department, were elected to membership on the University committee at a meeting of the faculty Monday afternoon. They are to serve three years with the four other members of the committee who are: Prof. A. W. Hopkins, professor of agricultural journalism; Prof. W. G. Rice, law school; Prof. J. H. Mathews, chemistry department; and Prof. H. A. Smith, French department.

Professor Olson Dismisses Classes

(Continued from Page 1) talk on "Professor Olson as a Young Man." Prof. Paul Knapland, of the history department, will speak on "Professor Olson and the University." "Professor Olson and Ygdrasil" will be discussed by N. P. Haugen, the oldest member of the club. Herman L. Ekern will tell of "Professor Olson as a Friend." M. W. Torkelson, a former member of Professor Olson's classes, is to speak on "Professor Olson as a Teacher."

There will be a musical program consisting of songs by Thelma Halverson and Amelia Juve, both of Edgerton, and Vilas Johnson and Eugene Leonardson, Chicago.

Guests from Chicago, Minneapolis,

Cambridge, and Decorah, Ia., will attend the celebration, in addition to the 35 members of the society.

Professor Olson is the oldest member of the university faculty, being now in his 44th year of service. He came here in 1884 and became an instructor in the Scandinavian language department. Now he is chairman of that department.

As chairman of the committee on public functions, Professor Olson has for 41 years planned the programs for all university functions, such as Varsity Welcome, commencement exercises, Memorial day exercises, and all dedications.

Our traditional Varsity Welcome was originated by Professor Olson in 1913. It was held in the men's gymnasium, and lemonade was served. The event continued to be held in the gym until 1921, when it was changed to Lincoln terrace.

Professor Olson is a member of the Wisconsin State Historical society, the American Scandinavian society of New York, Sons of Norway, and Psi Upsilon fraternity. For his services in Norwegian activities he was made a member of the Norwegian Order of St. Olaf by the king of Norway.

Revamped Maroon Squad Will Try To Upset Cardinal Hopes

Chicago Plans Rally in Final Games of Year

Stagg Will Present Strong Lineup Against the Badgers

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 7.—No football team in the country has so stubbornly clung to the belief that it may be down but it is never out as has the current edition of the Maroon eleven. Under the handicaps of appalling injuries which kept from seven to ten regulars out of every game up until last Saturday, the Maroons have finally struck their stride, and with Wisconsin and Illinois to face, will be able to play two strong games.

Though they have taken some unmerciful beatings because they were disorganized by the injuries, the Maroons have refused to crack. They kept battling against Iowa, Minnesota, and Purdue when they knew the game was lost, and they put up a wonderful fight against a superior Penn team. Each Saturday they have come back with amazing spirit, and now their work against Penn has given them the confidence they lacked.

Maroons Are Determined

The Chicago players are disappointed but not discouraged by the result of the Pennsylvania game, when their own carelessness let a tie game be converted into defeat after they twice had come from behind. This week they are expected to show further improvement, and at full strength for the first time this season, they will be able to go against Wisconsin with something like an even break.

Coach Stagg, who has struggled along without complaint all season rallying the team and using his adroit store of football strategy to replace a lack of power, has again proven his position as a great coach. The Maroon offense is as brilliantly conceived as any in the country, and already has been given the tribute of being copied by other coaches. It is interesting that the Chicago tactics this season are of an entirely different type than the style which made Chicago's battering a legend of the last ten years. Stagg has built a wide open attack around light and fast men, and his use of the forward pass is an outstanding feature.

Lineup Being Reorganized

There has been no question all season but that the best backfield combination that Chicago could put in the field consisted of Mendenhall, Van Nice, Rayson, and Leyers, with Libby and Burgess in reserve. But only once has Stagg been able to start that set of men, and in the hardest games he has had to do without three of them most of the time. Return of Rayson this week will give Chicago three stalwart defensive men who tackle viciously and who give fine support in blocking on offense.

The line, which had to be remade from tackle to tackle, is just coming into its own. Weaver is ready to play a full game now. Cassle is good for at least a half, and Froberg is available for relief at tackle. It has taken

Dormitory Teams Fight for Honors in Touch Football

With ten games already played by each team in the dormitory league the race for the touch football championship narrows down to three teams, LaFollette, Botkin, and High who are all undefeated. The records of Botkin and High, however, are marred by tie games.

LaFollette house, with a smooth passing attack, has amassed a total of 208 points in ten games, and its goal line remains uncrossed.

Botkin and High played to a scoreless tie in their engagement. LaFollette plays Botkin Friday and High next Tuesday.

The intramural department has offered a $75 dollar cup to be awarded to the champions.

Committee Will Select All-Star Football Team

An all-star interfraternity touch football team will be selected at the close of the league by a committee of five, who will give a brief account of each player and the reasons for his selection. This composite team will appear in the Daily Cardinal about November 24.

Triangles, Delta Chis, and Phi Kappas Win First Bowling Matches

By B. W.

The Interfraternity Bowling meet which opened at the Plaza Alleys Tuesday night indicated that some fine bowling scores would be rolled up this year. Delta Chi, Triangle and the Phi Kappas turned in good scores. Phi Kappa had the highest team score with a total of 2430 and also had the highest individual score in their team, Healy who rolled 572 in three games.

Iowan Offense Gains 5 Yards in Every Drive

Exactly five yards on each attempt from scrimmage has been averaged by the Iowans in five games. An even 1,300 yards is the fruit of 256 offensive drives. Oran Pape, sophomore substitute halfback, has made 418 yards in 46 trials, averaging nine yards, and drawing far ahead of McLain, who has 276 yards after 64 trials. The sprinter also is the Big Ten's leading scorer with 48 points, although playing hardly half of the time.

In the South Dakota game, Willis Glassgow, the shifty halfback, brought his season's total of 267 in 74 trials. Paul Arnil, quarterback, is credited with 160 yards in 24 ball-carrying efforts.

While the varsity battles the Buckeyes, the reserves will play Notre Dame's seconds on Iowa field. The Hawkeyes defeated Indiana reserves, 13 to 6, in the only game played so far this fall.

Outing Club Hike to Be Held Nov. 10

The Outing club hike to the Fish Hatchery which was postponed last Saturday, will be held this Saturday, Nov. 10, at 9 a. m. Each girl is requested to bring her own lunch. The leader will be Dorothy Hansmann, '31.

The Women's Athletic association will hold its homecoming celebration at the fieldhouse on Saturday, Nov. 10. At 11 p. m. an alumnae hockey team will play an undergraduate team, while the Madison Hockey club will play another University team. At 12:30 p. m. a luncheon will be served for 35 cents to all players and spectators. The committee in charge is Lucille Verhulst '30, Katherine Sonnen '30, and Catherine Schmidt '30. Chicago W. A. A. members will be guests at this luncheon. All who are planning to attend are asked to sign the poster which is on display at the fieldhouse.

Barbara Francis is the first person at the University of Minnesota to study to be a museum curator. After a special four-year course she will receive a degree of bachelor of science.

largely responsible for the drive of that team. It is better to be a king in the small time stuff than an unknown in the big time.

Rumor afoot says that members of the B team who have played enough will be awarded regular minor W's. However, this has not been announced. The writer thinks the B team players deserve such an award for their excellent showing.

Cross Country

In a few weeks Wisconsin will see the Western Conference cross country race here. Iowa, Indiana, and Wisconsin are the three strongest teams, and many are prone to favor Iowa for the title. Wisconsin has balance and fight.

But . . .

But Coach Jones is having his troubles. Construction near the Hydraulic building has literally ruined the cross country road. Trucks coming in and out have pitted the path with deep ruts, and the harriers are having trouble keeping their footing.

And . . .

And furthermore the said construction has so obstructed the road that a temporary bridge was built over the lake to enable the harriers to pass. For the conference race this bridge will be widened to 16 feet. Everything possible must be done to accord the visiting hill and dale men a suitable welcome.

Cheap

Cross country is a sport which demands little expense, and perhaps the least of any sports. Coach Jones estimates that 300 men are using the cross country roads.

Squad Drilling on New Defense for Chicago Tilt

Thistlethwaite Expects Stiff Tussle from Maroon Team

The heavy downpour of rain yesterday hindered whatever plans Coach Thistlethwaite may have had for an intensive drill and scrimmage at Camp Randall and forced him to take the squad into the sawdust at the stock pavilion.

Once again the players went up against Chicago plays reeled off by an All-American eleven in the best manner that the narrow confines would allow, and succeeded in stopping a majority of their opponents attempts.

Backs Drilled

Coach Thistlethwaite took charge of the backfield men and drilled them in passing and a new play. Lusby was doing the tossing for the backs and his heaves, as in the past, were straight and unerring.

The ends were given a busy evening of breaking up a concentrated offense evolved by freshman players. Chicago is noted for sending two and three men out with their ball carrier for blocking purposes, and as they feature wide, sweeping end runs, the Badger wingmen must be prepared to break through.

Improved Blocking

Tom Lieb again took charge of the linesmen and blocking was the main course of the day. The Wisconsin line will attempt to break up the plunging of the Maroons or their off tackle smashes and end runs, by charging forward and using the full benefit that a fast forward wall can give.

One thing is certain concerning Saturday's game. The Chicagoans, in their first visit to Madison in 16 years, will unleash a series of deceptive plays that will make the struggle interesting from beginning to end. It is herein that the Maroon strength lies.

Chicago Line Fast

The invaders have a line that while it lacks weight, is fast and charges quickly. In the backfield, they can boast of such stars as Mendenhall and Van Libbey, both excellent ball carriers, and the scoring threats of the Midway team.

The two teams will play to a packed house this week when news was given out that the final and additional block of 1,000 tickets, released at open sale Wednesday morning, were gone within an hour. It will be the first time the stadium has been full since the Michigan game, four years ago.

Hard-Workout Today

Today marks the last chance the Badgers will have to indulge in scrimmage, and the weather permitting, the men will undoubtedly encounter a hard evening of work at the stadium. Friday afternoon, light signal drill will constitute the finishing touches of the squad's work.

The Chicago team will arrive in Madison Friday afternoon and will indulge in a light workout inside the stadium during the afternoon. After that, the squad will retire until time for the game to begin.

Neil Hayes, scrappy little Wisconsin halfback who suffered an arm injury in the Alabama game and had not reported for practice the first two days of this week, was again in uniform last night, but was forced to ease up in practice because of his injury.

Meanwell Books Eastern College

Four minor college teams and one eastern university five have been contracted to complete the 1928-29 basketball schedule of the University of Wisconsin. The Badger athletic council placed its formal O. K. on these games this week. "Doc" Meanwell's quint will open the season here Dec. 10 with Franklin College.

On the 15th the great Pittsburgh aggregation will be met at Milwaukee in the city auditorium. Lombard College of Galesburg, Ill., comes to Madison for a contest Dec. 28 and Carleton College is booked for January.

Columbia University has altered its curriculum so that the students are divided into classes according to the quality of their work.

True to Form

Such Was the 1928 Election; the Republicans Still Hold Sway

THE election over, and all thoughts of victory or defeat aside for a moment, the one general conclusion that may be drawn from the vote of Tuesday is: "It ran true to form."

Despite optimistic Democratic hopes that Al Smith might break down the Republican dynasty and defeat Herbert Hoover, nothing happening before or during the campaign really gave evidence that for the first time since Buchanan's election in 1856 a Democratic candidate could win a presidential election on its merits.

Only four times since the Civil War have the Democrats controlled the administration, twice under Grover Cleveland and twice under Woodrow Wilson. Each of these four times the Republicans were defeated because of dissension within the party or because of some slip on the part of their candidate.

But normally the Democrats do not enjoy an equal chance of winning. And although this campaign may have seemed to some to offer the Democrats and Mr. Smith hope of victory, little that occurred to cause serious consternation on the part of Republicans. Tuesday's results proved this.

In the electoral college Hoover has won by a landslide, of more than 400 votes, although in the popular vote Smith pressed him more closely. The Democratic leader, however, even with his great city support, could not break down the dominant Republican majorities which have held sway for 72 years. In fact, he even lost many of the rock-bound Democratic votes of the South, and this enabled Hoover to break into this solid block of states that for 50 years has been impregnable.

The story of this election has only begun. Did Protestants repudiate Smith because he is a Catholic? Did bigotry and seditious propaganda cause the cleavage in the South? Did Smith's wet program in opposition to his party's dry platform lead to his defeat? Did pleas for the continuance of Coolidge prosperity help hold voters in the Republican fold? Is the country naturally Republican?

These controversial questions will all be sources of argument for years to come. Obviously, for at present they are unanswerable, but one may reasonably conclude that each presents great truths and some falsehoods. History alone can be expected to clear up the conflicting factors that determined the Hoover landslide.

Five more or less clear and outstanding results of the vote are evident. First, of course, is the Republican advance into the South. Southerners were torn between their adherence to strict Protestant and Fundamentalist doctrines and their avowedly dry sentiments, on the one hand, and a half century of Democratic allegiance on the other. Therefore it seemed evident before the election that something was bound to happen below the Mason and Dixon line. And for Governor Smith, the worst did happen. But whether, in coming campaigns, the Republican party can maintain this sudden advantage on other than a religious or dry issue still remains to be seen.

The Republican scandals of the Harding regime, which bobbed up during Mr. Coolidge's administration, failed to turn the tide toward Smith. Whether an idea that continuance of Coolidge prosperity meant more good for the nation than continuance of corruption (if it has not already been purged) meant evil, or whether scandals were viewed only with passive indifference, this issue failed to cut a figure. The Republicans carried all the states that were affected by corruption.

Mr. Smith's greatest blow came from New York. Toward the end of the campaign, Hoover supporters had hopes of carrying the state, but they did not expect to make the inroads upon Smith that resulted Tuesday. But the central fact remains that the governor did not receive the maximum of support from New York City. Nor did he prove so powerful up state as a presidential candidate as he had when running for governor. Anyway we look at it, New York was Smith's greatest disappointment.

Regardless of what may be said by the Democrats, the turn of events in this election seems to indicate a peculiar vote getting power behind the Republican name. Smith, the only man who seemed to have any chance of making a contest for the Democrats, who is famous for his vote capturing ability, fell under this Republican spell. Probably it was the name; probably Americans habitually do vote the G. O. P. ticket. Evidence appears to be here, but still we cannot prove anything.

Finally, we note again that this election upholds the general view that the United States is dominated by one major party, the Republicans, with a secondary party, the Democrats, making inroads periodically at the expense of Republican splits. Nothing this year precipitated or even indicated anything but Republican harmony. Tuesday, as usual, illustrated the result.

Right now, in this election, there is nothing to upset the general view of the past 72 years, namely, that the Republicans have held the upper hand. Probably in the future circumstances will bring about a more even distribution of political party support. But 1928 has not yet been the year.

Homecoming

The Big Event This Year Is Distinguishable in Many Ways

PLANS are virtually complete for Wisconsin's annual homecoming, a week-end devoted to the entertainment of Badger friends and graduates, old and young alike.

Practically every homecoming is hailed by the publicity agents as "the greatest in history," but that of 1928 actually promises to distinguish itself in many ways.

For one thing, a complete sell-out of tickets for the chief homecoming attraction, the Chicago-Wisconsin football game, indicates that the largest crowd ever to watch an athletic event at Randall field will fill the stands when Captain Rube Wagner leads his unbeaten football team onto the gridiron. Estimates place the crowd at somewhere between 40,000 and 45,000.

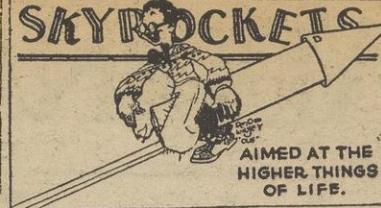

Another feature of the 1928 homecoming will be the appearance of Coach A. A. Stagg and his Chicago Maroons at Randall field, the first meeting of these two teams on Wisconsin soil since 1916.

And still another distinguishing feature, and the one which seems to be drawing Badger friends back in unrivaled numbers, is the fact that the Wisconsin team will take the field unbeaten after four major contests. In these, it displayed a type of fighting skill such as has been associated only with the great Wisconsin teams of many years ago.

The fact that Wisconsin is developing a powerful and winning team during the current season has awakened alumni interest to a point higher than ever before. Alumni are giving evidence of this support by returning in great numbers for the homecoming game, showing in a tangible manner their faith and their pride in the great squad which Glenn Thistlethwaite has developed.

Alumni support will hearten and encourage the team. When every available inch of space in the stadium is filled next Saturday by returning friends, Cardinal football players will have visible evidence of a staunch and hearty support on the part of friends everywhere.

At such a time, there arises for the student body a peculiar opportunity to demonstrate their own loyalty to the team. A student section united in cheering, backing the team in a win, lose or draw, will do much toward impressing on thousands of alumni the fact that Wisconsin's title aspiring eleven has the united support of every man and woman connected with the university.

By THE ROVER BOYS

The Band is not going to Iowa. It's not because they don't want to, or because it would be impossible to raise the money. It is because Dean Goodnight told Major Morphy that the Michigan trip would be all. And when that comes from the dean it means that the band is not going.

The annual scramble to choose a prom queen is due to start soon. Pre-season dope has it that the Phi Psi's are going to boom Billy Pearce.

AN OPEN LETTER

Dear Home Ecs:

We have heard complaints that you and your rural brothers are being gradually excluded from the general activities of the University. We hope that you are not being pushed off the campus.

THE ROVER BOYS

It seems that they are like the Phi Gam rushees—many are bid but few accept.

Just who is it that all those cheerleaders are waving at every Saturday afternoon?

Now that we have Rho Epsilon Delta, the redhead club, the Rover Boys advocate the founding of a Mexican Hairless society as the next step in tonsorial fraternities. We nominate Bill Kieckhofer for president. Any windy day will establish his eligibility to those who doubt.

Some fraternities whose new homes were built by shoestring financing are pledging anything that wears trousers. As yet we have not seen a button on Abe Lincoln up on the hill. But then they overlooked Lindy when he was here too.

There has been a lot of space on sports pages devoted to complaints about gridirons that are muddy at the time of a game due to their not being covered during the week. The field at Camp Randall has been kept fairly dry all season, but why do the spectators have to wallow through mud up to their ankles in order to get to the stadium?

An extra carload of Canada Dry has been ordered by local drugstores in anticipation of the homecoming of our drinking alumni.

Although they have only about six inches of snow every winter in Chicago, there is slaying all year round.

By WEE WILLIE WINKIE

Aye, and yet again, aye! The movies are certainly a fine institution. Any system or method which could take a face like that in Baron's window and make it look like some of the really attractive ones which we see at the Palace and Madison, is a benefit to humanity in general, and certainly must be a blessing to the subjects.

We were passing the place one night when she was about due to retire, and one of the boys was horrified because he was afraid that she would have to go five days without a bath. He was greatly relieved to see the Crane fixtures (courtesy of Crane) looming up magnificently in the background. Then the thought struck him—that's our main objection to that sort of publicity: that was the first time a thought had struck Tommy in three years, and the shock was tremendous—and he gave vent to the thought. "If she did decide to take a bath," he said, "the streets would be deserted all around. Wouldn't people run for home though?"

The publicity may be too much here too, but we feel that this guy deserves a little space for this exploit. The lad had asked one of the pledges to get him a date for the Gridiron brawl. The request was granted, and introductions were made. Then the obliging pledge, in the expectation of giving the two more time together to arrange things, took the bruiser and the date home, having in the vehicle with him the one upon whom he lavished his own affections. First he took the date and the little lad to the abode of the new-found dream-child. Then the pledge and his big brother went to the home of the pledge's damsel to deliver her safely into the waiting arms. And guess what! He proceeds to two-time the poor little pledge and take his adored one out instead of the wench with whom he had a contract.

We heartily sympathize with the poor sook who pays for the gas that goes in the Phi Kappa Sig-LaSalle.

SAYS STUDENTS GET BAD DEAL

ON FOOTBALL TICKETS

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

I realize that the question which I am about to bring up, arises several times each year.

I should like to ask the Ticket Sales Department a pertinent question. It is this: "Just who are the people who get the good seats at the football games?" I have just received my tickets for the Homecoming game; they are in section 2, directly back of the goal posts.

I sent my application for these seats to the Ticket Office a little more than a week before the Notre Dame game. Now it seems strange to me that a good share of the students (and there are many who are in the same predicament as I am) should get stuck with the poorest seats, while the townspeople, and the alumni get the pick.

I should like to ask whom the football team represents. Does it represent Madison? Does it represent the alumni? Or does it represent the student body of the University? If the football team is representing the students, then it seems only fair, to me, that the students should at least have seats somewhere between the goal posts.

A few days ago, there appeared in The Daily Cardinal, a severe criticism of the spirit shown by the students, and the cheering of the students, or rather the lack of it, drew particular censure. It is no wonder to me that the cheering is weak, when a large number of the students are seated at various points farthest from the place of action.

Now, if I am not grossly mistaken, there are some 9,000 students in attendance at this institution; there are some 40,000 seats in the stadium at Camp Randall. How the Ticket Office has the face to state that there is no partiality shown in filing ticket applications has always remained a mystery to me. It seems only fair to me that they should reserve half of the seats on one side of the stadium for students who get there applications in six weeks ahead of time.

I know of men in this city, who have never attended this University who have seats on the fifty-yard line for every game. This is probably due to some slip in the Ticket Office, but I should greatly appreciate an explanation from them. I think that they are (to put it mildly) giving the students a mighty rotten deal.

—W. C. R.

THE TICKET SITUATION AGAIN

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

At the beginning of each school year the students are met with cries of "Send for your football tickets now, and be sure of good seats!" Those poor saps who took heed of that cry sent for all their football tickets in September, with this result. The tickets they received were for seats in sections "I" or "J", and as far up to heaven as most of us will ever get.

Students who send for their tickets a day or two before the day of ticket sales closes get much better seats than those who send for them in September do. Where is the fairness in this procedure? My seat for the Notre Dame game was in section "B", for the Alabama game in section "I", and the Chicago game in section "J". For the Minnesota game I expect to be sitting in either "M" or "Z".

Perhaps if we would have less talk of the lack of Wisconsin spirit, and instead give a good many of us seats from where we can enjoy the games, we would have a chance to show that Wisconsin has spirit, and is in a position to express it.

Class Attendance

DAILY records of absences from classes, excused and unexcused, are kept in the office of the dean of men at the University of Illinois. At the close of each semester the scholastic averages, together with the absences, of all men are compiled. Many students low in scholarship are usually those who are irregular in their attendance while those who attend classes regularly are found to stand high scholastically.

A plan of this sort would be applicable at the University of Nebraska. Students who are lax and indifferent in their work are usually the ones who are absent the most frequently. They expect to receive their education only through the medium of their textbooks without any assistance from classroom lectures or discussions. They lose sight of the many new ideas brought up and the many new theories propounded in the classroom.

While other factors than attendance are concerned in the variations in scholarship, the regularity of the increase in absences as grades decline would lead one to believe that the relation might be in part a causal one. The matter of attendance, however, is one to be seriously considered in any attempt to improve the scholarship of the individual.

Amelita Galli-Curci Sings Again in Madison on Nov. 13 at Capitol

Born in Italy, Singer Takes America for Her Homeland

Six years have passed since Amelita Galli-Curci last sang in Madison. She sang then in the Stock Pavilion of the University, from which several hundred enthusiasts were turned away at the door.

On Tuesday, Nov. 13, Amelita Galli-Curci will again sing, and music lovers will hear her at the Capitol Theater. Tickets for the performance are now on public sale at $2.00 and $3.00.

Although Galli-Curci was born in Milan, Italy, the city famed for its opera house, La Scala, Madame Galli-Curci has adopted America as her homeland. She is an American singer and an American citizen.

The choice of her homeland has been her own. For 12 years ago, on the day of her sensational debut as guest of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, Americans claimed her as their own. And Galli-Curci has remained an American ever since.

Only once in the first eight years of her sojourn here did the singer leave America, and then briefly to visit her mother. For that same length of time flattering offers for foreign tours poured in on her managers, but they were all refused. When, finally it was decided to tour the British Isles and Australia in concert, both lands were conquered by Galli-Curci's voice, and both tours were triumphs.

But her heart and home were in America, and at the close of the year she returned to a concert tour of America. Spending all her summers in the country in preference to sailing away to Europe for a vacation, Madame Galli-Curci has already learned to know intimately the beauties of her chosen homeland.

Her home, "Sul Monte"—"On the Mountain"—is in the Catskills, four hours distant from New York City. Designed by an American architect, built by American workmen, and with furnishings "made in America," her home is a complete expression of her loyalty to America.

"Sul Monte" stands on the highest peak of the range where it commands 80 miles of view of mountain and valley. A home in the best sense of the word, "Sul Monte" is not a show place of formal magnificence, but is a place for rest and comfort. There Galli Curci spends four months vacation in the summer, studying new songs and roles, directing her household, and working in the garden. Summer ended, she returns to what she calls her joy of joys, bringing happiness to others by her singing.

The infant mortality rate last year was the lowest on record according to statement of Children's Bureau of Department of Labor.

Minnesota Librarian Is Entertained Here

Miss Harriet A. Wood, of the department of school libraries, Minnesota, spent Wednesday at the Library school.

On Wednesday morning, Miss Wood lectured to the class; she was a guest of the faculty at a noon luncheon; and in the afternoon was entertained at a tea.

It is estimated that about three-fourths of the women students at the University of Utah are either supporting themselves or helping to do so while attending school.

SOCIAL CHAIRMAN

We are going to make a change in our "Personal" news during Homecoming week-end, so that the alumni can know which of their old friends are back at Wisconsin. We want them to be able to read the "Personal" columns as they linger over Sunday morning breakfast; so we are asking the social chairman of each organized house to send the news of returning alumni and guests to the Cardinal office by Friday afternoon. This will help make Homecoming a bigger success, and be more convenient for both you and us.

Delta Sigma Pi Holds Founder's Day Banquet

Founder's Day banquet was held at the Delta Sigma Pi chapter house Wednesday evening. Carman Blough, charter member of the Wisconsin chapter, former university faculty member, and at present chairman of the state board of public affairs, was the principal speaker at the dinner.

Delta Sigma Pi was founded at the University of New York in 1907.

Dorothy Bess x'26 Weds Ralph Smith

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Dorothy Bess, x'26, to Ralph Smith. Mrs. Smith is a member of Coranto and Alpha Delta Pi sororities.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are now at home at 211 La Grange street, Grand Rapids, Mich.

How to Score Heavily at the Home-Coming Game

1. Wear a fur or furred cloth coat to keep you warm and high-spirited.

2. Wear a coat so smart and sophisticated that your escort will adore you while other women will watch you enviously, and hate you terribly!

3. In short, wear a Manchester coat. Perhaps you will choose one of these of softest tweed or deep-napped coating with luxurious panel collar of fur. You'll doubtless choose a Cardinal red felt hat to reflect your Wisconsin spirit. For new red felts are shown in clever, sophisticated shapes. Gordon sport hose of silk and wool or lisle and silk. Pull-on gloves of capeskin, lined or unlined. Voila, your costume! Watch it score!

ARGE poster depicting Greco-Persian football game at Thermopelae stadium painted in other half of Deet office. Prof. Beatty tells class he thinks Charles Chaplin is greatest dramatic actor . . . we think he is right . . . this happened in a class in Shakespeare . . . Winter social season approaches . . . Tuxedo rentals are the harbingers of the event . . .

Lots of midnite shows set for Homecoming . . . read our ads . . . Strand is latest addition to the list . . . Talkies will open there Friday . . . "White Shadows in the South Seas" . . . is the name of feature . . . Our Gang comedy with dialog also featured.

Toto charms crowds at Orph as expected . . .

Orph

"Annapolis" is the movie at the Orph. It's all right for what they have to work with. Plot peters out.

Clifford and Stafford on the stage do drawings and sing at the same time. One doing each. SEE?

Frank Conville is good comedian in places. He says, "I used to impersonate women until a guy ran me up an alley."

Carter Brothers and Bobby Saxon put on a good review. The dancing is good. Watch the chorus' toe dance. They use up-to-date songs, thank heavens.

Val Harris plays the old man and Ann Howe plays the city flapper. Same stuff but good. He says, "I know what men want; they go to Burlesque shows, and women—well I'm 72 and I've got a rough idea."

Toto is an excellent clown. He used the unexpected and exaggerated. Watch him change clothes. This act is famed.

Scoop

Haresfoot Foolies, annual dance with cabaret acts, will be Nov. 28 according to a special secret source which we have discovered.

Frank Rohrer and band will do the tootin' and bangin' . . .

Capitol

This week-end "Avalanche," a Jack Holt & Zane Grey collaboration, is featured at the Capitol. This is not a super movie.

On the other hand it is interesting, thrilling and entertaining.

The supporting bill is strong. The Police Quartet sings nicely, there is a funny Lupino Lane comedy and an athletic picture about football which supplements the regular newsreel.

This is policemen's benefit week and the guardians of the law will profit by your attendance.

The cops get a break by having a good show to offer.

(Reviewed by Hank Baker).

Lit

The NEW Wisconsin Literary magazine will make its appearance today or tomorrow.

The book is absolutely rejuvenated, re-lived and makes delightful reading.

The cover and typography is of a standard unequalled by any other campus publication.

The list of authors represents a more intelligent group than any other list of contributors.

There are poems . . . and good ones . . . the editors having felt that a few good works are better than a lot of poor ones.

Carroll Blair, Zona Gale scholar, trackman etc., has written a series of short pictures of campus types.

These are reported to be good . . . very very good.

Parkway

Al Jolson's sellout wow attraction, "The Singing Fool," is coming back to the Parkway for a special Friday night show.

This is the Vitaphone epic of all time . . . and it may not be shown here again for many months.

Jolson fans can stand seeing this three times at the least . . . "Mammy."

Home Economics Group to Meet

Four Department Members Discuss Homemaking at Milwaukee, Nov. 8, 9

Four members of the home economics department of the university will discuss homemaking and the teaching of home economics at the annual meeting of the Teacher's association in Milwaukee on Nov. 8, and 9.

There will be four tables consisting of four main heads. They are as follows: first, textiles and clothing; second, food and nutrition; third, child welfare and family relationship; fourth, related art and housing.

Miss Mayo, of the University of Wisconsin, will talk on textiles and clothing. Miss Micheals is the chairman of the second round table, and Dr. Eichenberger, the assistant national director of nutrition in the American Red Cross will speak on "The Role of Nutrition." Miss A. Brady, a nutrition specialist from the University of Wisconsin, who is at present working in Milwaukee county, will also talk on "Food and Nutrition."

Miss Helen T. Parsons, of the University of Wisconsin, will address the teachers on "Research Basis for Child Feeding." Miss Richardson will speak on "Field Working in Child Development, and Parental Education," and Mrs. A. Reeve, Miss Knutson, and Mr. Tellites will talk on "Related Art and Housing."

On Friday afternoon there will be a general meeting, with Miss S. West of Milwaukee Dovner college as chairman. There are to be four speakers: Miss Richardson, Miss Allen, Miss Cadioch of Milwaukee, and Miss Abby L. Marlatt.

U. of California to Complete New Stadium by 1930

PALO ALTO, Calif.—There will be a new stadium built at the University of Southern California for the Stanford - Trojan game in 1930, Robert Behlow, president of the Associated Students at the university has announced.

The student body is putting across a tremendous building program, according to Behlow. Last year, an Associated Students Union building was financed by the football receipts alone. A library, paid for by student contributions, and a gymnasium, for which both students and alumni have contributed, are under construction this year.

The stadium, work on which is to be started next year, will be as large as the Coliseum in Los Angeles.

Maroon Gridders Hope for Victory

(Continued from Page 3) practically all season to get the line organized and experienced, and though it is late now, there is still time for two good games against the Badgers and Illini.

Defense will be drilled into the Maroons this week, for Wisconsin combines a driving off tackle attack with a lot of cleverness with the forward pass. The linemen especially will be worked on charging the passmen, so that the big mistake against Penn, which permitted the Quakers to get off a winning pass, will not be repeated. That lesson already has sunk in so deep that the Maroons will remember it.

Robbers Steal Watches, Pens, Cash from Menges'

Robbers, believed to be small boys, pried open a rear door of Menges' pharmacy, 900 block of University avenue, and escaped with six watches, half a dozen fountain pens, and about $10 in cash Tuesday night. A cheap machinist's hammer, a file and several screw drivers were used to gain entrance. The robbery was discovered by a milkman.

H. G. Seyforth Appointed

New Dane County Agent

H. G. Seyforth, of Ellsworth, Wis., a graduate of the University of Wisconsin college of Agriculture with the class of 1914, was unanimously appointed agricultural agent of Dane county by the Dane county board Tuesday. Mr. Seyforth is at present county agent in Pierce county, a position he has held successfully for the last eight years.

EUTHENICS CLUB

The Euthenics club will meet tonight in Lathrop hall. A business meeting will be held at 7 p. m. and the open meeting at 7:30. Mrs. Anderson, in charge of the clothing department at the North Dakota State Agricultural college, will speak. Dues are payable now.

DOLPHIN CLUB

Dolphin club practice will start at 7 p. m. this evening in Lathrop pool.

Portrait of Vilas Given to Dorms

Through the efforts of Dean Charles S. Schlichter, a large oil painting of William F. Vilas has been placed in the house den of Tripp hall which bears his name. The picture was secured from the state historical society which received it as a gift in 1910 from Mrs. Anna M. Vilas and her daughter, Mrs. Mary E. V. Hanks. The portrait was painted by Samantha Huntley.

The acquisition of this oil-painting for the den in Vilas house is part of Dean Schlichter's plan to place in each of the dens a portrait of the men after whom the various houses received their names.

USHERS

Twenty-five more ushers are needed by the athletic department for the Chicago game. Men who wish jobs are asked to report to William Aspenwall at the ticket office either Thursday from 11 to 12 or Friday from 10 to 12. All ushers who can not be at the game by 12:15 Saturday are asked to turn in their tickets, as the large crowd expected necessitates an early start.
