BASEBALL BEGINS

CANDIDATES CALLED OUT FOR PRACTICE.

Preliminary Work Will be Begun at Once—Special Attention to be Paid to Stick Work.

Coach King today issued the first call of the season for the baseball men. Preliminary work will be begun at once in the baseball cage and will be continued there until the weather permits outdoor work. Special attention will be paid to batting and each man will be required to stand up before the various pitchers each day. Stick work is always the most important branch of a college ball team and one in which more weakness is generally shown as well. A strenuous effort will be made this year to turn out a squad equally as strong at the bat as in the field. The prospects this year are better than last year. Several players with excellent records have entered with this year's freshman class and have promised to come out for the team. This should materially assist in strengthening the team. On the other hand ex-Captain Curtis and Mowry of last year's nine will probably not be able to come out for the team this year on account of hard work on the "hill," while Harvey and "Home-run" Hensel graduated last year. This leaves several vacancies on the team while there are also numerous weak spots in other positions which must be strengthened before a good team can be turned out.

Lecture on Petroleum.

Professor Chas. F. Mabery of Cleveland, O., will deliver a lecture in the series of special chemical lectures at the Engineering lecture room on Tuesday, Feb. 19 at 4 p. m. The subject of the lecture is: Petroleum, its history, occurrence, present development, and composition. The lecture will be fully illustrated by lantern slides and by many specimens of crude petroleum from various countries and parts of this country as well as by many specimens of products obtained from petroleum. Dr. Mabery is an excellent speaker and will be sure to interest especially those who are studying chemistry, geology, or the commerce of the world.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

Professor Percy Ashley Engaged for Summer Session.

The University has been very fortunate in securing the services of Professor Percy W. L. Ashley for work in the Political Science Department in the summer session of 1901.

Professor Ashley is a graduate of Lincoln College, Oxford, from which he received the degrees of A. B. with a "First Class," winning by examination the chief research studentship in the gift of the London school of Economics. After this he spent the greater part of two years abroad in France and Germany, studying local and municipal administration. At Berlin Professor Ashley was given unusual opportunities, of seeing the actual workings of institutions and in France and Germany made the acquaintance of many of the leading politicians, journalists, officials and professors. He is now lecturing on local and municipal government in the London School of Economics.

Professor Percy Ashley is a brother of Professor W. J. Ashley of Harvard University.

Professor Ashley will give two courses, viz., a class course, four hours a week on "Local Administration in England, France and Germany" (a two-fifths credit) and a public course on "Modern European Statesmen" which will include his popular lectures on Bismarck and Gambetta. These courses will constitute, it is believed, one of the specially attractive features of the summer session.

Local and Personal.

—Alpha Phi entertained yesterday afternoon.

—Miss Harriet Mason has returned from her home at Fond du Lac.

—Harry W. Page, '03, returned Saturday from an extensive trip out West.

—J. Primakow, '03, has been spending a few days at his home in Milwaukee.

—Delta Delta Delta held an informal reception at their chapter house Sunday afternoon.

—On account of next Friday being Washington's birthday, there will be no convocation.

—Gamma Phi Beta entertained at a luncheon at their sorority house this afternoon.

—Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will have charge of next Sunday's meeting of the Christian Association.

—J. D. Suter of Mt. Morris, Ill., has entered the University as a junior. He is at present a teacher in the University Business College.

—Professors Henry and Carlyle and Superintendent McKerrow have returned from the meeting of the Dairyman's Association at Mondovi.

—The fine condition of the floor at the Junior Prom Friday evening was the subject of a great many complimentary remarks. It was put in condition under the supervision of Prof. Kehl.

—Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Josephine Juneau, which occurred yesterday at Milwaukee. Her son William J. Juneau, '03, was called home some time ago by her illness.

—The lecture on petroleum by Professor Mabery to-morrow, promises to be of especial interest and value. The lecture is one of the series of special lectures provided by the Department of Chemistry. Professor Mabery comes highly recommended as an authority upon the subject which he is to treat.

EXTENDED TOUR

PLANNED TO BE TAKEN BY MUSICAL CLUBS.

May be Gone a Week—Appearing at Cities in Northern Wisconsin—Home Concert About Easter.

Within a week or two action will be taken by the faculty regarding the trip to be taken by the University Mandolin and Glee clubs this spring. It is thought that the clubs will be allowed to make a concert tour this year as in the past. The fine showing made last year ought to bring great success to the enterprise this season should the trip be taken.

The matter will be brought before the faculty this week and will probably be acted upon next week.

A departure will be made from last year's method. Last year several short trips were made. In addition to the home concert the clubs gave concerts at Evansville, Beloit, Janesville, Milwaukee, Racine, Whitewater and Edgerton.

This year it is the ambition of the club to make one trip of a week or ten days, taking in cities in northern Wisconsin. This will not interfere materially with students' work. The cities which the club would like to visit are Winona, Minn., La Crosse, Eau Claire, Berlin, Appleton, Fond du Lac, Milwaukee, Racine, Oconomowoc and Whitewater.

The club last year met everywhere with the greatest success. Not only did they gain the esteem of the public by their meritorious work but they were financially ahead at the end of the season. This year the clubs have tried to keep their musical selections within the bounds of what is known as "college music," although some selections of a classical nature have been practiced.

The Mandolin club consists of twenty members. These are divided into six 1st mandolins, six 2nd mandolins, five guitars, cello, flute and violin.

The Glee club is composed of four 1st tenors, five 2nd tenors, five 1st bases and five 2nd bases. E. C. Ehlman is director of the Mandolin club and leader of the Glee club.

Other numbers on the program will be furnished by the University quartette and by other soloists in the clubs. E. A. Snow will appear on the program in readings. The club is now getting into shape for the home concert which will be given about Easter time.

Judge Winslow Before Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. listened to one of the most interesting and beneficial talks yesterday that has been given in its course of Sunday afternoon meetings. The talk was by Judge Winslow of the supreme bench who dwelt upon the subject, A Full Life and its Meaning. In this address Judge Winslow continued the address which he gave last year before an afternoon meeting saying that to do right a man ought to have a tender regard for others and that this brotherly love is the cardinal virtue. In a life of selfishness man approximates the brute. The most complete life must preserve and use its faculties in the best manner whether the station be high or low. The performance of duty should be the supreme aim of life.

Steadfastness of purpose is not possible of being overestimated. A character moved by every fad can never excel. A character without convictional steadfastness will fail in honesty and integrity. Instability is violation of creation.

Unswerving strenuous stability results always in crowning effort. The successful men are those who pursue their purpose unceasingly. Work conquers and is genius.

Communication.

To the Editor:

Feb. 16th, 1901.

"Senior" in a communication published in to-day's Cardinal discusses, apparently with some warmth, my explanation of the attitude of the Board of Editors of the University Bulletin toward the publication of joint-debates. I am sure that he misunderstands my position for his argument is elaborated to show the value of the joint debates as debates, a matter upon which some stress was laid in my communication. He confuses "investigations of a scientific character" with investigations in science, and is in error in quoting the Director of the School of History, as favoring the publication of the joint-debates as University bulletins. As a member of the Committee of Editors this gentleman's views have been too often expressed for any doubt to exist regarding his position.

The statute under which the Bulletin of the University is published allows the publication of investigations of a scientific character, and to quote, "Senior" in the communication under review, "That Joint Debates are not purely Scientific investigations no one will deny", and, further "the art of skillful presentation, and logical reasoning, would be the principal lesson a reader would expect, and would endeavor to learn from this publication."

Let the joint debates be published as debates—not, however, in a serial publication devoted to scientific investigations and issued as such under the statute.

Wm. H. Hobbs.

Communication.

Editor of the Cardinal:

Now that the prom is over and the last of the outside girls have gone, there are several matters that might be better modified in proms to come. As a whole the prom was undoubtedly the most successful held at the University. One of the difficulties which many found was that the crowd was much too large for comfort. Of course it is the purpose of the prom that it should be a University affair, and of course the attendance must necessarily be large. However, we see no reason why the attendance, at least the male part of it, should not be restricted to bona fide students or alumni of the University. I do not know how many non-university men were in attendance Friday night but there were certainly quite a number from Milwaukee and other cities who never attended the University, who came out to the prom just as they would to any public party. This certainly shows a spirit which should be suppressed. The prom should be made to pay for itself, but not by means of introducing non-university men, simply to make the financial account show a balance on the side of the prom committee. Let the Junior Prom continue to be the greatest social event of the year, but let it be a University party, not a public hodge-podge.

A Conflict.

It seems unfortunate that the date selected for the next military hop is the night before the indoor track meet. While it will not interfere with the quality of the athletic work performed, it is apt to injure the attendance. The track department is making a laudable effort to pay expenses and any conflict that will interfere with its success is to be regretted.

Try for the Team.

Every man that ever batted up flies or played "one old cat" ought to turn out and make a try for the baseball team now that candidates have been called out. Wisconsin's baseball record for the last few years has not been brilliant and it is beginning to be time that the hoodoo, whatever it may be, is removed. One way to do this is to have the cage full of men every afternoon waiting for their turn at the coach's attention. There are a plentiful number of positions to fill and the inducements to try for the team were never greater. Under these circumstances there is no excuse for a large field of candidates not presenting themselves.

More Oratory for Law Students.

The suggestion has recently been made that additional training in oratory should be given the law students. The two law debating societies in a measure give their members training in speaking, but these societies include less than one-half of the total number of law students.

It may be true that in these days the practicing lawyer has not so much need of oratory as he had in the past; but this is no reason why all training in oratory should be dispensed with. Everything else being equal a lawyer skilled in the art of good and forcible speaking will win cases from his less fortunate opponent.

The study of oratory in the past was included in the curriculum of the law school, but it is now omitted. It has been said by some that training alone will not make orators, and that therefore each student must look out for himself; but a course in oratory, at least will stimulate interest in the subject. It is to be hoped that some measures will soon be adopted by which our law students may be given an opportunity for improvement along this line.

The name of Mr. McKesson, representing the Columbian debating society in the Junior Oratorical Exhibition, was inadvertently omitted from the article which we printed on that subject a few days ago.

Home for Old Engines

Purdue University is to form a collection of locomotives. Old and worn-out "iron horses" consigned to the railway bone yard will be welcomed at the Lafayette institution and given the attention their hard service has entitled them to.

President Stone of the university has announced the project of the trustees. To the professors and students he explained recently that the purpose of the university officials was to preserve the different species of locomotives now threatened with extinction, that the growing generation might be familiar with the railway engine of thirty years ago. The collection will illustrate also the rapid development of the locomotive in recent years.

The university now has a "Schneccady" engine and three more have been promised President Stone. One of these is of the old "camel back" pattern, which for many years have been used for heavy work by the Baltimore and Ohio railway. Another is an eight-wheel engine of the class called "flyers" thirty years ago. The last is the "James Tolman," one of the English locomotives exhibited at the World's Fair. It was built for speed, and its characteristic feature is its great drivers.
