Schabo Market Is Robbed Thursday Morning

Schabo Brothers Meat market, 301 E. Harrison, was robbed of between $30 and $40 Thursday morning, when a bandit entered the shop and at the point of a gun ordered Henry Steggert, 1322 S. Jefferson St., who was alone on duty at the time of the robbery, to open the cash register and "give me all the money you've got." Steggert was warned not to holler or call the police. The robber took the money and fled with his companion in a Ford touring car, which neighbors said was parked in the road slightly to the side of the building. Police were notified and three motorcycle officers and three police cars put on the trail. Authorities of surrounding communities were also notified. Reports reached the police station that a car answering the description was seen headed toward Neenah, and another that the bandits were believed to have been in the vicinity of Sherwood. The robber who entered the Schabo market was about five feet ten inches in height, was of slender stature and dark complexion. He wore a dark fedora hat and a dark raincoat.

Veteran Flagman Retires After 36 Years Service

John Meggers, 201 S. Walnut St., retired today after 36 years of service with the Chicago and Northwestern railway. Mr. Meggers has been a flagman here for a great many years on the Ashland division of the Northwestern. He is one of eighteen employees who are retiring from active service today. Six of these men have been connected with the road more than 40 years.

The county committee on mothers' pensions will meet at the court house on May 6 at which time twenty-four renewals, five hold-overs, and six new applications will be considered.

Purchase of Historic Old Park Site For a New City Park is Possibility

Would Appleton people like to have another city park overlooking our historic Fox river? The only park property belonging to the city and fronting on the river is Alicia park on the western border of the city, although Pierce park is almost adjacent to the river. However, the Chicago and Northwestern railroad right of way separates Pierce park from the stream and somewhat cuts off the view of the stream. Now the residents of the Fourth ward, particularly the lower Fourth ward are talking about having the city acquire a few acres of land down in their part of the town for a city park.

They want to restore the old Telulah park, once a famous rendezvous of old-time Appleton residents and for that matter a meeting place for people from all over the country. Telulah park, or rather the land that used to be Telulah park, is just east of Newberry street on a rise of ground east of the Interlake mill property and across the canal from the mill itself. Fifty or sixty years ago Telulah park was one of the chief outdoor amusement places of the Fox River valley. The Outagamie county fair, which was really an event of some importance then, was held at the park and one of the chief features of the fair was horse racing. Famous race horses from all parts of the middle west and a few from more distant points have churned up the dust of this old race track as they sped over the ground in some very thrilling contests. One can still see the course of the old track, the last remaining vestige of this popular amusement park of the eighties and nineties.

The land, about 28 or 30 acres, now belongs to the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal company. This company has owned the property for a good many years, but nothing has been done to improve it in any way because the growth of the city since the beginning of the century has been north and west and very little residence construction has gone forward in the lower Fourth ward.

Now there is talk of securing at least that portion of the property which is up on top of the hill east of Newberry street for a city park. Some people feel that the city of Appleton should acquire as much territory as possible along the river for municipal purposes. At the most this would only be a small fraction of the river frontage in the city because most all of this frontage now belongs either to industrial concerns or to individuals who have built beautiful residences along the river bank. Those who advocate the acquisition of park property along the river point to the example set by the city of Milwaukee, which has purchased all but a very small portion of its nine or ten mile shoreline on Lake Michigan and is now developing one of the finest systems of parks and drives of any city in the world.

Others object to the purchase of the old Telulah park property on the ground that Appleton should be concerned primarily with getting park property in sections of the city which are growing the most rapidly. Up to the present time the whole matter is just one of discussion and surmise. No definite action has been taken either by the city council or the park board and it is not certain just when the subject will come up for any kind of a decision. Nor is it known just how much this property would cost or what the cost of development might be to make it into a suitable city park.

But Milwaukee is not the only city which has seen fit to buy water frontage for its parks. There are examples much nearer home. Oshkosh, Neenah, and Menasha have scores of acres of land and many thousands of dollars invested in attractive water front parks. Of course, Appleton is at somewhat of a disadvantage in not having a lake as these other cities have, but we do have the Fox river, which is one of the most picturesque and historic streams in Wisconsin.

Telulah park gets its name from the sulphur mineral water spring or the Indian Telulah spring which is nearby. Telulah is a modification of the name of the legendary Indian princess, Lulah, for whom the spring is named. This tract of land is a beautiful spot, quite heavily wooded in some places, and contains a number of beech trees. This kind of tree is no longer a very common variety in Appleton. Quite a number of people like to take their picnic lunches to the spot and enjoy an hour or two in its pleasant surroundings. The old park used to be the gathering place for thousands on holidays or special occasions. If the city does not see fit to buy the property, it is probable that the tract will be platted out for building lots. There has been some talk of this recently and this is what started the discussion on purchasing the site for a city park.

Winnebago Co. Roadhouse Reported Robbed of $40

Two masked men held up the Old Timers Inn on highway 41 about 9:15 Thursday evening and escaped with $40. Both the robbers had guns. When they arrived at the inn they cut the telephone wires so some delay was experienced in giving an alarm immediately after the robbery. No description of the bandits was obtained. The Old Timers Inn is on the new highway 41 about midway between Appleton and Menasha.

Committee Votes Against Forestry Appropriation

The chamber of commerce committee, appointed to study and report on the Wisconsin State chamber of commerce referendum on a conservation policy met Tuesday afternoon. H. A. Schlitz is chairman of the committee, which includes Seymour Gmeiner, S. C. Rosebush, J. N. Fisher and John R. Riedl. Concerning the allotment of forest land, which proposes ten per cent for the federal forest, fifteen per cent for state forest, thirty per cent for county forest and forty-five per cent for privately owned forest, the committee decided against such an approximation. The report indicated that reforestation is primarily a federal and state obligation and that counties where reforestation is not logical, are not financially able to carry on the burden of work. Private ownership of forests and reforestation is not considered sound business policy for industry or individuals under present existing conditions. By "present existing conditions" the committee calls attention to excessive taxes levied against timber tracts and the utter disregard of the timber crop by some counties. Excessive taxation and lack of fire protection does not give the owner a chance and is forcing slaughtering of forests with the sole purpose of getting out from under. The present crop act offers nothing definite, the report continues, for industry to work on. Foreign competition is so demoralizing markets in lumber and pulpwood that reforestation cannot pay its own way as a business venture. It is pointed out that at the time reforestation pays a dividend in mature timber, sixty or eighty years hence, there is no guarantee that the then existing market would demand such timber or justifiable return for the investment incurred. The committee recommended that the percentage of forests to counties and private owners be lessened and the federal and state percentage be increased.

The committee also expressed the belief that prevention of forest fires is important in any reforestation program and urges every effort to protect growth and future plantings. It questions the sufficiency of $500,000 suggested as adequate to protect forests and recommends that an amount be set which is ample for proper protection. Immediate drastic action by the state is urged to curb forest fires at the source, along roadsides and from incendiarism started for the purpose of obtaining employment. Under proper fire protection private owners would be encouraged to practice selective cutting, the report states.

The county dance hall committee met at the court house Friday afternoon to discuss the new feature of the county dance ordinance which provides that application for dance permit shall be accompanied with the fee for supervisors.

Princess Oshkosh Will Be At Treaty Celebration

Real descendants of the Menominee Indians who negotiated with the United States the Treaty of the Cedars in 1836 will take part in the program here Monday afternoon, May 18, when the historical marker located on Highway 41 near Kimberly is unveiled.

Princess Alice Oshkosh, great granddaughter of Oshkosh, the chief of the Menominees, will be here from the Menominee reservation to unveil the boulder on which the bronze inscriptive tablet is being placed. One of the older members of the tribe will speak in his native tongue telling what the treaty meant to the Menominees, and his words will be transmitted to the audience through an interpreter.

Other Indian entertainment will be a war dance put on by a group of young Menominee braves. Several squaws also will sit around the circle. The Indians will be in their full regalia, making the scene a colorful one.

These are only a few of the features arranged by Appleton Lions club, under whose auspices the dedication is being arranged. An invitation has been extended to Gov. Philip La Follette to be present, but his consent depends on the press of legislative business at Madison. Word also is being awaited from the principal sepeaker, whose name will be announced later.

Exercises are scheduled to start at 1:30 in the afternoon with a band concert. At least two bands will be present. The dedication program will be under way about 2 o'clock. Arrangements are being made to handle a crowd of 10,000 persons, because the event is attracting state-wide interest.

New City Dump Ground Put in Use Today

Beginning today all garbage and rubbish will be hauled to the city's new dumping grounds on the Herman Nickles farm on the Kimberly road. The city recently entered a contract with Nickles to rent the dump for $75 a month, which includes whatever service is necessary on the grounds. Signs have been put up directing the way to the dump which is located on the Kimberly road about three-fourths of a mile from the city limits. The route lies over John street to Walter avenue, thence on Newberry street which becomes trunk Z.

Through the contract with Nickles the city is saving about $90 per month, Mayor Goodland stated. A rental fee of $65 per month had been paid to John Tracy from whom a dumping ground was rented last year, and it was necessary for the city to employ a man on the site to direct the disposal. This brought the cost to $165 per month, and under the new contract $75 per month will pay for the rent of the grounds and supervision.

Work has been started on lowering the sewer on South River street in preparation for paving that street. At present the sewer is too close to the surface and it will be lowered about three feet before the pavement is laid.

Lawrence Golf Enthusiasts Responsible For Start of State College League

Lawrence college golfers will play their first home match of the season tomorrow when they met the Carroll college team at Riverview Country club. The Vikings started something of a really worthwhile sort in spring athletics when they organized the Lawrence College Golf club last year, because this proved to be the nucleus for formation of the Wisconsin Inter-collegiate Golf association. The colleges which make up the membership of this golf group are Lawrence, Ripon, Carroll, and Beloit, the same quartet which comprises the membership of the Little Four conference in other sports. State teachers colleges are also eligible for membership in the Wisconsin Inter-Collegiate Golf association.

The Blue and White turf squad has been working out for only about a week at the Riverview links under the direction of Oscar Riches, Riverview pro and coach of the Lawrence team. Cold and rainy weather has hampered the workouts considerably, but now the team is rounding into shape nicely and an interesting match is expected tomorrow with the down-state school.

Beloit to be played at the state-line city.

Donald McMahon of Appleton was instrumental in organizing the Lawrence College Golf club and also the Wisconsin Inter-Collegiate Golf association. Mr. McMahon is president of both the local and state organization. It is hoped and expected that every year will see a larger number of candidates trying out for places on the Lawrence golf team. Through the initiative of Lawrence college and particularly Mr. McMahon and Mr. Riches golf has now become a well established inter-collegiate sport in Wisconsin.

Three Appleton boys are on the Lawrence team. They are Jim McKenney, Paul Hackbert and Carson Harwood. The other member of the regulars is George Dakin of Antigo. First string reserves are Lynn Trankle and Donald Farrish. McKenney is captain and probably the most experienced golfer on the squad. Tomorrow he will be pitted against Henry Ottery, the pride of the Orange and White turf artists. Ottery hails from Fond du Lac and is the outstanding golfer at Carroll.

The Lawrence boys are working hard in preparation for the association's state tournament which will be held at Ripon May 23. This tourney will bring the Little Four schools and several of the teachers colleges together in the season's finale, and will determine the collegiate golf champions of Wisconsin. On May 9, a week from tomorrow, the Vikings will meet the Ripon team here at the Riverview course and on May 16 they are scheduled for a match with the unique program planned by Miss Olga Achtenhagen, instructor in English at Lawrence college; Geneva Bluemehin, Appleton, and Geneva Feamon, Chicago, college nurses, and Miss Ann Dohearty, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. P. Dohearty, who is teaching in Chicago. The girls are traveling independently, and will leave this country July 6 on the Europa. They plan to concentrate their visit on the walking trip through the Black Forest and in the Alps. Several weeks will be spent in Switzerland, and some time will be spent in the villages of Brittany and Normandy. The group plans to spend about ten days in Paris and one month in Germany, and will return home about the middle of September.

Outagamie county council of the American Legion held its April meeting at the Legion hall, Kaukauna, Thursday evening. The war history for the county was discussed, and several posts reported on work being done on post histories, some of which material probably will be used for the county history. Harold Miller, Appleton, county athletic officer, was instructed to promote inter-post junior baseball.

Appleton Host to Woman's Club Convention May 12-13

A program of widely diverse subjects, but all bearing on an element of life of importance in club and social work, as well as in the business world, has been arranged by the committee in charge of the two day convention of the Ninth District Woman's clubs, which will be held in Appleton May 12 and 13. Mrs. E. V. Werner, president of the Appleton Woman's club, is general chairman of the activity in Appleton. On the first day of the convention a luncheon will be served at the Woman's club, but the convention dinner, Wednesday luncheon and all sessions will be held in the Methodist church.

A number of exhibits have been planned, among which will be one of charts, outlines, and books on international relations, arranged by Miss Margaret Reynolds, district chairman. Mrs. Claude Colburn, conservation chairman, will have an exhibit of pictures from the clubs of the district, showing their loveliest beauty spots. Mrs. H. S. Cooke, who will have charge of a press conference, will have an exhibit to emphasize her work. An exhibit of pictures entered in the Helen Mears Memorial Prize contest, under the auspices of the art department of which Mrs. W. E. Switzer, Antigo, is chairman, has also been arranged. The district prize will be awarded Wednesday morning.

The opening session, on Tuesday afternoon will be addressed by Mrs. L. A. Leadbetter, Rhinelander, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Woman's Clubs. Miss Margaret Reynolds will be the speaker at the convention dinner. She will discuss some phases of our relations with European countries.

Dr. H. M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, will be the speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting. Mrs. Babette Marshall Breslauer, Milwaukee, formerly of Appleton, will give a reading and special music will be furnished under the direction of Mrs. Carl Waterman, district chairman of music.

The Wednesday morning session will be devoted to business, the principal feature of which will be a talk on the Foundation Fund by Mrs. Robert Elder, Argonne, chairman of the state finance committee. Miss Edith Foster, Milwaukee, will speak at the Wednesday luncheon on some phase of social work with criminals. Reports of county and district chairmen will be presented at the closing session Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. F. H. Bartlett, Drummond, chairman on the special committee on Rural Cooperation, will give an address, which will be followed by an open forum on rural problems by county chairmen and others interested in the subject.

Carl J. Waterman, dean of Lawrence Conservatory of Music, and LaVahn Maesch, professor of organ, will spend part of the summer studying in Europe. They expect to sail from New York on the Holland American liner Statendam on June 20. Seven weeks will be spent in Paris where Dean Waterman will study voice and Prof. Maesch will take up work with the organ, after which side trips to the music festivals of Leuth and Munich will be made.

Review's Platform For Appleton

1. Have a Community Chest.
2. Budget Plan for Municipal Expenditures.
3. Provide a Free Beach.
4. Adequate Plan for Industrial Expansion.

ACT NOW ON THE INDUSTRIAL SITUATION

An invitation to the citizens of Appleton to quit talking and get into action on the industrial problem was issued by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., in his message to the incoming council. He suggested the appointment of representatives of the common council on a chamber of commerce or citizens committee to seek new industries for the city.

Now let us see the chamber of commerce, the service clubs, the retail bureau and others interested in Appleton's progress step up and accept the invitation. A composite committee from all of these organizations can do more than one group working alone.

Appleton usually gets what it wants when the civic bodies pool their services, roll up their sleeves and get down to work. We raise thousands of dollars for buildings. We have built bridges and made public improvements such that Appleton stays in the lead as a progressive city. As important as any or all of these is a consistent program of industrial growth. The same keen minds concentrating on this problem will bring a plan that can be consummated successfully if our leaders make up our minds it should be done.

No time should be lost on this matter. We can at least take enough interest in the industries now operating here so their problems can be known and met before the plants are lured away by more sympathetic communities around us. We can find the small industries capable of growth. We can find men who have new products of merit that can be manufactured and sold successfully. We can, if advisable, engage the services of a skilled industrial engineer for a sufficient time to investigate the logical type of expansion and guide us in putting a program into effect.

Let us shake off our lethargy, bestir ourselves out of the rut of self-complacency, arouse ourselves to the true situation and go forward intelligently for the protection of Appleton's future. This city has much to offer a prospective industry and the only one we have to blame if we go backward is ourselves.

THE WORKMAN'S GOD-GIVEN RIGHT TO LIVE

"There is something wrong," say the sociologists, "with a system that permits part of the people to live in comfort and plenty while the remainder are jobless and in want."

Most men possessed of an ordinary income have little opportunity to accumulate savings of any consequence for the "rainy day." When wages are high, prices are high. Depression brings living costs down but not for the benefit of the man on part time employment or idle. The few hundred dollars a man may lay aside will disappear quickly when earnings cease.

Those who are willing to work have a God-given right to live but they should not be obliged to seek charity. A dole system would be unwelcome in the United States. Some other plan therefore must be conceived out of the present depression to take care of the deserving worker who is laid off.

In almost every city campaigns have been conducted for relief funds. Contributions have come willingly from those comfortably fixed and those fortunate enough to be possessed of steady employment. Society recognizes its obligation to share its plenty with those less fortunate.

It is properly a governmental function to meet situations created by a depression. Voluntary campaigns are not enough. They benefit only a few and the relief is not provided in every community. Why is it not possible, therefore, for a system of special taxation to be set up, to be used only in emergencies?

Under such a plan, luxuries could be taxed sufficiently to build up a fund administered by the treasury department, or through state channels to take care of those whose earnings are temporarily suspended. Luxury taxes would affect only those able to pay; a system by which division would be equal.

No man would sacrifice his self respect or injure his pride by applying to a governmental agency for an unemployment income obtained for his benefit. Dealings with the government are impersonal. The recipient of the money likewise would know that it came to him without inflicting hardship on those who gave it.

Dole systems destroy initiative. People who know they can depend on the dole indefinitely become satisfied to exist in this lazy way and the handouts never end. The average American worker has so many good things within his reach, a home, a car, a radio and other pleasures and comforts that he is ambitious to better himself so he can enjoy these. Temporary help would not destroy his ambition any more than a student receiving a scholarship loses his desire to succeed in his studies. There always will be parasites and indolent persons, but they represent a negligible minority.

It could be within the power of the president to declare the existence of an unemployment emergency and order the taxation plan put into effect. He could order the taxes to cease the moment the emergency is declared at an end. An automatic arrangement of this kind would bring relief quickly and in a manner that should be well received by those taxed as well as those receiving the benefits.

Aside from restoring to a man enough income to maintain his home until he finds work again, this system would be a checkrein on the demoralization of business. The beneficiary of the income would still be purchasing necessities and a flood of money going into trade channels from this source would help to keep business active. It might even minimize the depression to such an extent that there will be an earlier recovery.

Unemployment insurance has been suggested as the nearest approach to a solution, but this would prove a direct burden largely on industries when there are many others who should also participate. The luxury tax plan would distribute the load over the entire populace, permitting the well fixed to share with others only at a time when there is a need.

A POLICY ON MARRIED WOMEN'S JOBS

Some of these days the city and county governments must face squarely the issue of employment of married women in public positions. There is plenty of discussion among the rank and file now about the double pay envelopes that go into some homes while others have none.

One cannot blame a man or woman out of work for bitterness against a system which does not distribute employment for the benefit of the largest number. When there are jobs for all, nothing is said. When jobs are not to be had, the subject is vital.

Naturally the city, the county and the school systems do not wish to displace married women now employed who have been faithful to their work and who possess valuable training for the tasks with which they are entrusted. There are also circumstances where such action would be unfair.

In order to satisfy the public and be fair to the unemployed, these public employing bodies ought to establish a definite policy now for the future. It need not affect those now on the payroll, but will mean that their positions will be filled upon resignation by unmarried persons. Eventually the policy will be in full effect and no further injustice to the unemployed will come about.

Private business could well adopt the same policy while conditions are acute, allowing, of course, for the employment of married women in positions for which they are especially fitted because of training or experience not available from other local sources. The number of positions thrown open by this plan is not large, but every possible avenue should be utilized to enable the people to earn a livelihood.

If it were only possible to buy a schedule of spring showers!

Fire early this week destroyed the store, warehouse and feedhouse at Deer Creek, and spread to a barn under construction on the property of John Pelky. The loss is estimated at $10,500. The store and warehouse property was recently sold by A. M. McClone to Charles Fischer, Appleton, who was to have taken possession today. The fire is believed to have been started in a partition chimney near a kerosene supply tank. The blaze was discovered by Mr. Pelky, who notified Mrs. William Mentzel, a daughter of Mr. McClone. Mrs. Mentzel had been in the store all morning taking inventory, and had left the place for dinner. The fire department from Deer Creek was called. Loss of $8,000 on the Fischer property is covered by insurance, and the $2,500 loss on the Pelky property is partly covered. Mr. Fischer will rebuild as soon as the debris is cleared away.

Mayor John Goodland and F. E. Bachmann, city treasurer, attended a hearing before the assembly committee at Madison Tuesday on Bill 858 A which proposes to make cities, villages, and towns bear the entire loss in instances where a county sells unpaid taxes for less than the par value as authorized by law. Under the proposed bill the county would deduct all of its share and return the balance to the

Water Pageant Features Clever Dances and Aquatic Stunts

Something quite new in the line of entertainment was offered Appleton people and Lawrence college students last night in the presentation of a water pageant, "Princess of the Evening Star," at the swimming tank of the Alexander gymnasium. The production was put on by the Lawrence women's department of physical education under the direction of Ruth E. McGurk, women's physical director. The pageant, which will be repeated tonight, takes the place of the time-honored May fete which has been an institution on the Lawrence campus for scores of years.

The theme of "Princess of the Evening Star" centers about an Indian legend which explains the presence of the evening star in the heavens. A meteorite falls from this star carrying the star princess to earth into the sea. The princess is rescued by Osseo, son of Manito, the great Indian chief. The part of the princess is taken very ably by Faith Kuter and the part of Osseo is very ably played by Lucille Kranshold of Appleton. Margaret Heckle of Appleton played the part of Manito the Mighty.

In the first act are some very attractive dance numbers, the dance of the Glow Worms, the Indians, and the Totem Poles. All these dances, staged along the sides and the ends of the large pool are well carried out in this rather unusual setting for a stage production, but one which is made beautiful by the decorations of the sides of the room which represents a starry sky. Multi-colored lighting effects make some beautiful and almost perfect reflections of the gaily costumed dancers in the clear water of the pool.

Many splendid aquatic stunts feature the second and final act of the pageant. Old King Neptune, seeing the star princess, falls in love with her at once and in order to entice her away to his realms of the deep he puts on a great water carnival for her benefit. Many difficult swimming and diving tricks are featured in this part of the pageant. Diving off a springboard through a hoop of fire was one of these. About half a dozen girls took part in this hazardous sport. There were all manner of fancy high dives, swimming in various well worked out formations and in time with the music of the orchestra. One girl, Ellen Lewis, performed the rather remarkable trick of towing a group of nine girls the length of the tank twice, the group being arranged in a regular formation so that each girl floated along on her back as Miss Lewis, swimming on her back, propelled the whole nine up and down the pool.

Another outstanding feature is a scene in which each swimmer carries a lighted candle in her course through the water, so that a long string of lights twists its way up and down the length of the tank. With all other lights in the building out the effect is most impressive.

The wicked sea king finally induces the princess to leave with him and she departs to his region aboard his barge. Osseo, her Indian lover, mourns for her, and Celestina likewise grieves for her lover. One night she emerges to the surface of the water and sees Osseo on the shore. Great joy is expressed at their reunion, but soon a group of moonbeams appear and implore the princess to return to her kingdom in the skies. Celestina, a true daughter of the heavens, yields to the call of her native home and sings farewell to Osseo, leaving him sad, but comforted by her assurance that she will be waiting for him when the Great Spirit has summoned him to join her on the Star of Evening.

Seven Appleton girls, in addition to the two playing leading roles, take part in the performance. They are Yvonne Catlin, Annette Heller, Jean Shannon, Dorothy Brandt, Dorothy Davis, Dorothy Calnin, and Nona Nemacheck, Dorothy Edwards plays the part of the sea king.

One Telephone to Every Six People in U. S.

At the beginning of 1931 there was a total of 20,201,000 telephones in the United States. Of these, 15,682,000 were Bell telephones, 4,416,000 Bell connecting, and 103,000 non-connecting telephones. Despite slack business conditions in 1930, there was a net gain of 122,500 telephones in the Bell System during the year.

The total telephones in the world were estimated to be about 35,300,000 on January 1, and of these approximately 32,200,000, or 91 per cent, can now be connected with any Bell System telephone. On the first of January, 1930, the Bell System telephones could be connected with about 85 per cent of the world's telephones.

These more than twenty million telephones in the United States are served through a total of 19,545 central offices operated by 7,436 companies, of which 25 are Bell, 7,163 Bell connecting, and 248 non-connecting companies. In addition, there are 29,300 Bell service lines, the telephones of which are included in the figures for connecting telephones.

The telephones of the United States are served through a total of 83,110,000 miles of wire. The great bulk of this wire mileage belongs to the Bell System, as the connecting companies own 6,706,000 miles of wire and the non-connecting companies 156,000 miles. The Bell System wire mileage comprised, at the beginning of the present year, 62,867,000 miles of exchange wire and 13,381,000 miles of toll and long distance wire. Little of this Bell System wire mileage is now in open wire; only 7 per cent on January 1, 1931. On the same date 66 per cent of the Bell wire was in underground cable and 27 per cent in aerial cable.

Old fairy tales were used to emphasize health work in the program given at the McKinley Junior high school health class Wednesday. "Red Riding Hood" and "Cinderella" were given by Marian Rule, Ruth Barnes, and Dorothy Blake, and "The Lazy Boy" was given by Maxine Monson, Evelyn Abel and Inez Spletter.

They are Charles Gosha, Charles Brown, Leonard Merkel, Steve Meidam and Gottfried "Grandpa" Langstadt. One other Appleton member, John Baer, now lives in California. Kaukauna's only surviving veteran is John Lawe. New London has one veteran, Harley Heath. There are two or three other veterans of '61 in the county who will be invited to the festivities next Monday evening. Three surviving Neenah veterans also have been asked. They are Murray McCallum, Thad Sheron and Robert Lawe.

Business including the completion of plans for Memorial day observance, the Fourth of July celebration to be staged by the local post and other projects will be discussed by the post members.

Outagamie county is one of the sixteen "honor counties" in the state, according to a list recently compiled by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association. Honor counties are those reporting two or more living cases of tuberculosis during 1929 for every death from the disease. Two new cases per death is the workable standard set up by the national public health organizations for the early reporting of tuberculosis. The peculiarity of the standard is explained by association officials, who state that careful and detailed studies have revealed that for every death from tuberculosis there are about nine active cases. Many of these, however, are not discovered until they have reached an advanced stage.

Interesting statistics shown by the report reveal that all but four of the sixteen honor counties are among twenty-nine counties in the state giving sanitarium care to two or more patients for every death; that all but five of the sixteen were among the thirty-nine counties having county nurses in 1929; that the 1929 tuberculosis death rate for the sixteen counties was only thirty-eight per one hundred thousand population compared with fifty-seven for the other fifty-five counties.

Honor counties are Bayfield, Burnett, Dodge, Dunn, Forest, Oneida, Green, Langlade, Manitowoc, Marinette, Oconto, Outagamie, Racine, Rusk, Trempealeau, and Waushara.

Yancey had reverted. Always—even in his staidest Wichita incarnation—a somewhat incredibly romantic figure, he now was remarkable even in this town of fantastic humans gathered from every corner of the brilliantly picturesque Southwest. His towering form, his curling locks, his massive head, his vibrant voice, his dashing dress, his florid speech, his magnetic personality drew attention wherever he went. On the day following their arrival Yancey had taken from his trunk a pair of silver-mounted ivory-handled six-shooters and a belt and holster studded with silver. She had never before seen them. His white sombrero he had banded with a rattlesnake skin of gold and silver, with glass eyes, a treasure also produced from the secret trunk, as well as a pair of gold-mounted spurs which further enhanced the Texas star boots. Thus bedecked for his legal and editorial pursuits he was by far the best dressed and most spectacular male in all the cycloramic Oklahoma country.

Sabra learned many astounding things in these first few days, and among the most terrifying were the things she learned about the husband to whom she had been happily married for more than five years. She learned, for example, that this Yancey Cravat was famed as the deadliest shot in all the deadly shooting Southwest. He had the gift of being able to point his six-shooters without sighting, as one would point with a finger. He was one of the few who could draw and fire two six-shooters at once with equal speed and accuracy. His hands would go to his hips with a lightning gesture that yet was so smooth, so economical that the onlooker's eye scarcely followed it. He could hit his mark as he walked, as he ran, as he rode his horse. Sabra was vaguely uneasy. Wichita had not been exactly effete, and Dodge City, Kan., was notoriously a gun-play town. But here no man walked without his six-shooters strapped to his body. On the very day of her harrowing encounter with Doc Nisbett, Sabra, her composure regained, had gone with Yancey to see still another house owner about the possible renting of his treasure. The man was found in his crude one-room shack which he used as a combination dwelling and land office. He glanced up at them from the rough pine table at which he was writing.

"Howdy, Yancey!"
"Howdy, Cass!"
Yancey, all grace, performed an introduction. This lean, leather-skinned house owner wiped his palms on his pants' seat in courtly fashion and, thus purified, extended a hospitable hand to Sabra. Yancey revealed to him their plight.

"Well, now, say, that 's plumb terrible, that is. Might be I can help you out—you and your good lady here. But say, Yancey, just let me step out, will you, to the corner, and mail this here letter. The bag's goin' any minute now."

He licked and stamped the envelope, rose, and took from the table beside him his broad leather belt with its pair of holstered six-shooters, evidently temporarily laid aside for comfort while writing. This he now strapped quickly about his waist with the same unconcern that another man would use in slipping into his coat. He merely was donning conventional street attire for the well-dressed man of the locality. He picked up his sheaf of envelopes and stepped out. In three minutes he was back, and affably ready to talk terms with them.

It was, perhaps, this simple and sinister act, more than anything she had hitherto witnessed, that impressed

The Placing of This Sign Took the Better Part of a Day.

Sabra with the utter lawlessness of this new land to which her husband had brought her.

This house, so dearly held by the man called Cass, turned out to be a four-room dwelling inadequate to their needs, and they were in despair at the thought of being obliged to wait until a house could be built. Then Yancey had a brilliant idea. He found a two-room cabin made of rough boards. This was hauled to the site of the main house, plastered, and—added to it—provided them with a six-room combination dwelling, newspaper plant and law office. There was all the splendor of sitting room, dining room, bedroom, and kitchen to live in. One room of the small attached cabin was a combination law and newspaper office. The other served as composing room and print shop. The Hefner Furniture and Undertaking Parlors provided them with furniture—a large wooden bedstead to fit Sabra's mattress and spring; a small bed for Cim; tables, chairs—the plainest of everything. In two days Sabra was a housewife established in her routine as though she had been at it for years.

Setting up the newspaper plant and law office was not so simple. Yancey, for example, was inclined to write his first editorial entitled "Whither Oklahoma?" before the hand press had been put together. He was more absorbed in the effect of the sign tacked up over the front of the shop than he was in the proper mechanical arrangement of the necessary appliances inside. THE OKLAHOMA WIGWAM, read the sign in block letters two feet high, so that the little cabin itself was almost obscured. Then, beneath, in letters scarcely less impressive: YANCEY CRAVAT, PROP. AND EDITOR. ATTORNEY AT LAW. NOTARY.

The placing of this sign took the better part of a day, during which time all other work was suspended. While the operation was in progress Yancey crossed the road fifty times, ostensibly to direct matters from a proper vantage point of criticism, but really to bask in the dazzling effect of the bold fat black letters. As always in the course of such proceedings on the part of the laboring male there was much hoarse shouting, gesticulation, and general rumpus.

It was Sabra's first realization that the male of the species might be fallible. A product of southern training, even though a daily witness, during her girlhood, to the dominance of her matriarchal mother over her weak and war-shattered father, she had been bred to the tradition that the male was always right, always to be deferred to. Yancey, still her passionate lover, had always treated her, tenderly, as a charming little fool, and this role she had meekly—even gratefully—accepted. But now suspicion began to rear its ugly head. These last three weeks had shown her that the male was often mistaken, as a sex, and that Yancey was almost always wrong as an individual. But these frightening discoveries she would not yet admit even to herself.

"Yancey, this case of type's badly pied." Jesse Rickey, journeyman printer and periodic drunkard, was responsible for this misfortune, having dropped a case, face down, in the dust of the road while assisting Yancey in the moving. "It'll have to be sorted before you can get out a paper."

"Oh, Rickey'll tend to that. I've got a lot of important work to do. Editorials to write, news to get, lot of real estate transfers—and I'm going to find out who killed Pegler and print it in the first issue if it takes the last drop of blood in me. I'll show them, first crack, that the Oklahoma Wigwam prints all the news, all the time, knowing no law but the Law of God and the government of these United States! Say, that's a pretty good slogan. Top of the page, just above the editorial column."

In the end it was Sabra who sorted the case of pied type. The five years of Yancey's newspaper ownership in Wichita had familiarized her, almost unconsciously, with many of the mechanical aspects of a newspaper printing shop.

The hand press was finally set up, and the little job press, and the case rack containing the type. The rollers were in place, and their little stock of paper. Curiously enough, though neither Yancey nor Sabra was conscious of it, it was she who had directed most of this manual work and had indeed actually performed much of it, with Isaiah and Jesse Rickey to help her. Yancey would lose himself in the placing of his law library, his books of reference, and his favorite volumes, for which he contended there was not enough shelf room in the house proper. He had brought along boxes of books stowed away in the covered wagons. If the combined book wealth contained in all the houses, offices, and shops of the entire Oklahoma country so newly settled could have been gathered in one spot it probably would have been found to number less than this preposterous library of the paradoxical Yancey Cravat. Glib and showy though he was with his book knowledge Yancey still had in these volumes of his the absorption of the true book lover.

Lost to all else he would call happily in to Sabra as she bent over the case rack, her cheek streaked with ink: "Sabe! Oh, Sabe—listen to this." He would clear his throat. "'Son of Nestor, delight of my heart, mark the flashing of bronze through the echoing halls, and the flashing of gold and of amber and of silver and of ivory. Such like, methinks, is the court of Olympian Zeus within, for the world of things that are here; wonder comes over me as I look thereon.' . . . G—d, Sabra, it's as fine as the Old Testament. Finer!"

What Shall We Have For Dinner Today?

WHAT TO DO WITH SOUR MILK

In these days of better and better refrigeration for our foods sour milk and cream are almost unknown in many households, unless purchased in that state, or deliberately made sour. Our grandmothers, working under other conditions, learned how to turn this natural process of souring to the advantage of their tables and discovered many of the delicious possibilities existing in the naturally soured milk and cream.

Here are some of the ways of making most delectable things of them—some new and some very old.

Many of you have already discovered that sour milk and cream makes a more tender batter for cakes and breads and gems and cookies than does the sweet. Many have fond memories of clabbered milk and cream that was as tender and smooth as the finest custard and delightfully cool and refreshing with the after-school slice of bread and butter and brown sugar.

But do you know how to make the clabber cake that dates back a century or so? And clabber pie?

For the cake mix together 1 lb. flour, ½ lb. butter, 7 tbsp. sugar, 3 eggs. Add to this 1½ cups clabber (thick sour milk) from which the whey has been drained, and 2 even tsps. soda dissolved in a tbsp. new milk. Bake in a covered pan, leaving cover off until cake begins to rise.

For the pie—heat a cupful of thick clabbered milk in a double boiler and when it is warm add 2 tbsp. cornstarch mixed with 4 tbsp. cold water. Cook until thick, then add ¾ cupful of maple syrup, 2 well-beaten egg yolks, the juice and grated rind of 1 lemon and 1 tbsp. melted butter. When it has cooked until clear turn to a baked crust.

Make a meringue with the egg whites, stiffly whipped, adding gradually 4 tbsp. maple syrup and ¼ tsp. vanilla. Bake in slow oven about 25 minutes.

For the crust you might like to try this very old rule. To ½ cup of lard, melted by setting in vessel of hot water, add enough sour milk to fill the cup. Mix thoroughly with a cupful of flour and add, very carefully, enough more to make a dough of a consistency to roll out.

Two tablespoonfuls thick sour cream added to ham omelet makes it very tender and "tasty".

Stuffed eggs for Sunday-night supper have a new fillip if thick sour cream is added to the mashed yolks to moisten them, then a dash of lemon juice, a little mixed mustard and salt and pepper to taste.

Sour Cream Sauces

A sour cream sauce lends special piquancy to cold ham. Beat ½ cupful thick sour cream, add ¼ tsp. salt, ½ tsp. sugar and beat in ½ cupful horseradish.

Sour cream gravy is delicious with chicken, fricassed or fried, on toast or split biscuit. Rub together 1 tbsp. each butter and flour; add 1½ cups broth and let boil. Thin with about ¾ cup sour cream, re-heat and season with salt and pepper. Do not let boil after cream is added, as it is very apt to separate.

A very dainty dressing for fruit salad may be made by whipping ¾ cup slightly soured thick cream, adding ¼ tsp. salt, 1 tbsp. lemon juice, and 1/3 cup honey.

Delicious frozen desserts may be made of sour milk and cream, as well as very appetizing and healthful puddings. Here is one of the best:

Sour Cream Pudding

Pare and core, slice thin and cook until tender, 9 apples, using ½ cup sugar and just enough water to keep from sticking. Beat 4 eggs until light and add ½ cupful sugar. Mix 2 tbsp. cornstarch with 1 cupful sour cream and add to eggs. Then add this to the apples, being careful not to mash them. Mix 1 tsp. cinnamon and 1 tbsp. brown sugar with ½ cupful hard bread crumbs and place half on the bottom of a baking dish, pour in the apple mixture, cover with the remaining crumbs and bake in a slow oven for 45 minutes.

Refreshing Drink

This drink is really a light luncheon in itself. Beat together half a glass of sour cream and half a glass of rich milk with a pinch of salt until light and smooth. Pour into a tall glass sprinkle over the top grated nut meats and a pinch of grated nutmeg. Serve very cold.

Sour cream dressing for cucumber or lettuce salad; sour cream in Johnny cake or ginger bread are familiar to most older cooks. Sour cream with brown sugar stirred into it has made delectable sandwich filling for many a youngster of other days. Young cooks of this later day will do well to familiarize themselves with the part these two items may play in the realm of cookery and to give their imaginations free rein in creating new concoctions with them.

Poison Bran Mixture is Best For Cutworms

Experienced vegetable growers have found that the best control measure for the cutworms that appear during May and early June is a poison bran mixture sown broadcast about the young plants in the evening.

Cutworms are active in their search for food only on warm nights. They will eat and cut through the stems of such plants as the potato, tomato, sweet potato, radish, squash, and cabbage. Usually the cutworms sever the plant at the surface of the ground or weaken it so that it will be broken off with the first storm.

Directions for making a poison bait to use in controlling cutworms are listed as follows: thoroughly mix 25 pounds of dry bran with 1 pound of paris green or white arsenic, and moisten with 4 to 5 quarts of water to which 2 quarts of cheap molasses and the juice of 3 lemons have been added. Add enough water to make the mixture stick together. The mixture should be made a few hours before it is used.

Plant Your Shrubbery To Frame the House

Like a frame to bring out all the beauty in a picture is the planting about the base of a house. The first impression of a home is made by a combination of the house and its setting as one approaches it. No matter how beautiful the building itself the effect will not be pleasing if it is not surrounded with the proper trees, shrubs or lawn.

To get the desired effect make a plan of this setting before starting to work. By definitely blocking out the scheme in mind either the whole or a part of it can be done at one time and the final result will be as planned.

The front lawn serves as the foreground of the picture. This carpet of green is usually most effective when not broken up with beds of vari-colored flowers or cluttered with makeshift plant containers. Shrubs or trees massed together to form a screen can hide undesirable views and buildings. A border of shrubs also makes a splendid background of green for colorful garden flowers.

Wisconsin Milk Prices Show Little Change

While milk prices usually decline considerably in the spring of the year, the Wisconsin average this year dropped only two cents per hundred pounds from February to March. This is an encouraging sign for our dairy industry. During the past five years the decline from February to March has usually been between three and four per cent. This year it was only a little over one and one-half per cent, which indicates that the long downward trend in milk prices is probably approaching its end. The average reported by Wisconsin producers for last month was $1.26 per hundred as compared with $1.28 in February. A year ago the price averaged $1.72 per hundred, according to the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States Departments of Agriculture at Madison. The present price is two per cent below the 1910 to 1914 average, which is the lowest point reached in ten years.

Milk production in Wisconsin is maintained at a high level, being about two per cent above the high level of a year ago. For the United States, milk production during the past month has only shown about the usual increase. According to crop reporters, the average milk production per cow on the first of April for the United States was 14.3 pounds of milk as compared with 14.5 for each of the past two years. Since the number of milk cows in the country is somewhat larger, it is estimated that the total milk production is about 2.5 per cent above a year ago.

While dairy production for February was well in advance of a year ago, consumers evidently seem willing or able to take the production off the market at present prices. February consumption of butter increased 5.3 per cent over a year ago, while consumption of condensed and evaporated products increased 9.9 per cent. Unfortunately for Wisconsin producers, cheese consumption has declined by 5.9 per cent in spite of prices which should be attractive to the consumer. Storage holding of butter in the United States on April 1 consisted of 18,025,000 pounds. This represents a decrease of 41 per cent from last year, but an increase of 44.8 per cent for the five-year average. April 1 storage holdings of American cheese at 41,866,000 pounds were only slightly below a year ago, but nine per cent in excess of the five-year average. Swiss cheese holdings of 7,276,000 pounds were 10 per cent above 1930 and 21.87 above the five-year average.

Mothers Will Be Guests of University Students

Mothers of University of Wisconsin students will be guests of their sons and daughters during the week end, May 22, 23 and 24, at which time the campus will be given over to their entertainment.

Invitations to this annual event have been placed in the mail and approximately 9,000 mothers should have received by this time a welcome to what is expected to be the season's gayest event.

The entertainment will commence with the senior swingout at 4:20 p. m., Friday, May 22, which will be followed by a dance drama by Orchesis, University women's dance group. A reception by President and Mrs. Glenn Frank will precede the dinner in the Memorial Union Saturday evening. A concert by the Men's Glee club and the traditional women's field day will be a part of the program.

Special acts by Haresfoot members at the dinner Saturday night, and an interscholastic track meet Saturday morning will be special features of this year's fete whose predominating theme will be one of college life.

An unusually large crowd is expected to attend this year according to the invitations committee, whose members are Helen Twenhofel and Marion Bean, Madison, and Helen Cole, Atlantic, Ia., chairman.

Special assistant chairmen are Dorothy Fuller, Milwaukee; Barbara Critchell, Chicago, and Alex Cannon, Milwaukee. Mary Standing, Marion, is in charge of planning special features. Publicity for the event is in charge of Fritz Streng. Plans for the banquet are being made by Ted Wadsworth, Ft. Thomas, Ky., and Katherine Ehrler, Milwaukee.

Miss Louise Wagner, Madison, general chairman, says that the senior swingout was placed earlier on the program than has been the custom because the farewell demonstration of senior women interfered somewhat with the special functions arranged by fraternities and sororities at the dinner hour.

Venetian night will be replaced by a display on the Memorial Union terrace, the exact nature of the spectacle not as yet having been decided.

Dairy Cattle Exports Are On the Increase

After the low year of 1930, the shipments of dairy cattle out of Wisconsin are again showing distinct gains. Outshipments during March were 18 per cent larger than February, and about 4 per cent larger than during the same month last year. The total number exported from the state during the month was 3,554 head, of which Illinois received 1,416 and New Jersey 1,233. The March shipments exceeded February by 540 head. These figures indicate that the exports of cattle from Wisconsin to other states during 1931 will probably show a distinct increase over the low record of last year when only 56,466 head were shipped out, as compared with an average of over 80,000 head during the previous three years, according to the Crop Reporting Division of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets at Madison.

For the first three months of 1931, only February and March showed an increase in the number of dairy cattle shipped out of Wisconsin. A total of 3,014 head were shipped out in February as compared with 2,248 for the same month a year ago, indicating an increase of a little more than 13 per cent. For March, 3,554 head were recorded as having been shipped out as compared with 3,415 for March, 1930. The movements in January, however, showed a small decrease under the January shipments a year ago.

After declining for a year and a half, a turning point in cow prices seems to have been reached. Crop correspondents of the Wisconsin Crop Reporting Division indicate that the prices of dairy cattle are becoming more stable. Since October of 1930 dairy cow prices have declined each month until March of this year when no change is shown from the previous month. An average price of $63 per head is reported as having been received by these correspondents for the past two months, as compared with $66 per head for January and $89 a year ago.

Overproduction of Crude Oil Faces Nation, Bagg Says

Serious overproduction of crude oil faces this country as the result of recent developments in Texas, Dr. Rufus M. Bagg, of Lawrence college, told members of Appleton Lions club at the weekly luncheon Monday at Conway hotel.

Dr. Bagg recently made a tour of the Texas oil fields in furtherance of his study of geology and told of the immense new sources of oil under development. The country contains a hidden mountain range and part of it was a former ocean bed. The lime rock stratas have been enriched by these deposits, and an endless number of "salt domes" therefore exist, beneath which are millions of gallons of oil. In one place the skeleton of a dinosaur nearly 60 feet long was found.

Modern geology makes it possible to "see" beneath the earth, said Dr. Bagg. Recording instruments and electrical devices make it possible to determine exactly where oil may be found, so wells may be sunk without much of the "wild-cattling" of the past on lands adjacent to where the oil is supposed to be. The opening of these wells will bring forth so much oil the nation will be seriously over-supplied, the speaker said, and the government and producers are co-operating in an attempt to regulate the supply according to the demand.

Dr. Bagg also visited some of the mammoth wells from which water is supplied to Texas cities, declaring they are some of the most productive he has seen. He exhibited photographs of many of the places he visited.

Mrs. Elmer O'Keefe read from Ross Crane's book on Lighting and Lighting Fixtures at a meeting of the West End Reading club at the home of Mrs. P. H. Ryan Wednesday afternoon.

High school students who wish to make up work or take additional summer work will be offered courses in history, English, mathematics, and science at the Outagamie County Normal school, Kaukauna, this summer. The summer session opens June 8 and continues until July 11. Classes will be held six days per week, commencing at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Dog owners who have not paid the 1931 license are warned by Chief of Police Prim to do so immediately or face arrest. The dog licenses were due February 1, and delinquents have had plenty opportunity to purchase licenses. Persons who had not secured licenses by the end of this week will be taken into court and fined.

Forty of the 47 men employed on construction work at the new postoffice are from Appleton, according to statistics secured by W. H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster. The seven remaining workmen are specialists brought here to superintend the work. Seventeen bricklayers, fifteen laborers, six carpenters, three plumbers, and six foremen and superintendents are engaged on the job.

Knowing Our Children Better

By

Edith D. Dixon

Do Not Punish Erring Child

Punishment today is considered a questionable device for training children. Fear is the basis for all punishment, and at its best could only frighten the child away from the wrong thing.

Too often punishment is administered hurriedly, impulsively, or unjustly. The child does something to annoy or irritate us and we punish him to relieve our feelings. Perhaps he did the same thing yesterday but, because it did not happen to bother us, we let it go. Such punishment has in it an element of retaliation, a desire to get even. This kind of punishment is never just and it makes the child rebellious, stubborn, or indifferent.

More often we punish to prevent a repetition of the act. We want the child to realize that he must not do a certain thing, so we make him afraid to do it by threatening, scolding, or spanking. Does this make him want to do the right thing next time? Not often. It may make him cautious about doing the wrong thing in our presence, but he may continue to do it behind our backs.

The child who is truthful and honest simply because he is afraid of punishment is still in a very precarious situation. When the fear is removed he may not be able to maintain his honesty. But the child whose experience has taught him that honesty is associated with a satisfying sense of security within himself, that his conduct is approved by others, that in being trusted and respected he gains in freedom and is given added responsibility—this child is in a position to continue the practice of honesty under all circumstances because it has become a necessary part of himself.

A. G. Meating, superintendent of the county schools, and the two supervisory teachers, Miss Nellie McDermott and A. L. Collar, will attend some of the sessions of the three day program at the State Teachers' College, Oshkosh, May 7, 8, and 9. Rural education will be discussed and emphasized. Rural teachers will also be given an opportunity to attend. E. G. Doudna, secretary of the board of regents of state teachers colleges, will lead the discussion on "Training Program for Preparing Rural Teachers to Meet the Present Situation." O. H. Plenzke, assistant state superintendent, will discuss provision for one-teacher schools. Others on the program are President Frank E. Baker of the Milwaukee state teachers college, Miss Bertha L. Carns, rural education director at the Superior state teachers' college, O. W. Neale of the Stevens Point state teachers college, Miss Maybelle G. Bush of the state department at Madison, John Callahan, state superintendent, and George S. Dick, state supervisor of rural schools.

Miss Florence Day, librarian, and the Misses Mary DeJonge and Mary Kreiss and Mrs. Lillian Embrey and Mrs. Nellie Harriman of the staff attended a meeting of the Fox River Valley Library association at Neenah Thursday. A luncheon was given at The Sign of the Fox, after which there was an informal program.

Campus Comment

By Russell Davis

The inter-fraternity baseball league was off to a fine start this week when the Delta Sigs defeated the Betas, and the Sig Eps bowed to Delta Iota. Both games were won by a one run margin with the Sigma-D. I. game going an extra inning. Paul Fischl was the D. I. hero, scoring the tying run after two were out in the last inning, and sending the contest an extra heat. Burns, Beta twirler; Hesselgrave, Sigma moundsman; Ryan, D. I. slab artist, and Dixon, Delta Sig pitcher, all tossed fine ball for their teams and showed that they will cause opposing batsmen a lot of grief before the season ends.

The coming of spring brings with it outdoor games for the gym classes. A baseball tournament now is on. Three games are played each afternoon in the grades. The ninth grade has names of the National league teams; the eighth grade, the American league, and the seventh grade, the American association. In the ninth grade the New York Giants beat the Boston Braves 13 to 8; the Chicago Cubs won from the St. Louis Cardinals, 9 to 8; and the Cincinnati Reds beat the Robins, 15 to 5. The last game was featured by Carl Koletzke who had four home runs and a single out of five times at bat.

In the eighth grade only one game has been played. The Washington Senators defeated the Chicago White Sox 21 to 4.

In the seventh grade Toledo won from Kansas City, 23 to 14.

Another interesting tournament is being conducted for eighth and ninth grade students; a horseshoe double elimination tournament. There are 64 participants in the ninth grade and 50 in the eighth. Matches are being played after school or whenever possible for students to play them. Because of the many entries in the horseshoe tournament, the seventh graders were eliminated so Mr. Clough, science teacher, has organized a marble tournament. Only seventh graders are allowed to enter. This tournament is being played before or after school or when time allows. The students surely are active when tournaments are in play.

The first alumni college to be conducted in Wisconsin will be sponsored by Lawrence college June 4 to 8. More than fifty alumni have already signified their intentions of attending the sessions which will be held in connection with the annual commencement exercises. The program will consist of a series of lectures on literature, economics, and art on the mornings of June 4, 5, and 6. President H. M. Wriston, and Professors M. M. Bober of the economics department; Dorothy Bethurum of the English department; and O. P. Fairfield of the art department will be in charge. Afternoons and evenings will be open so that alumni may attend reunions and commencement exercises.

A picnic on the south campus will be substituted this year for the annual dinner. The south campus has been chosen for the picnic so that it may be held in the new Alexander gymnasium in case of inclement weather.

Departments at Lawrence college have been reorganized and consolidated so as to eliminate a condition of over departmentalization which was one of the criticisms made by the survey staff of the Methodist Board of Education in 1930. The score or more departments have been organized as eleven divisions, grouped in an attempt to cut down departmental boundaries between closely allied subject fields. Faculty members in each division have as their chairman one of their group appointed annually by the president. Elimination of courses of study which in any way duplicate each other will be one of the immediate effects of the change.

Though Mr. Lyons has conducted an employment department in connection with the poor department, the municipal bureau established under the direction of the Appleton Citizens' Committee on Employment, will provide a place where all persons out of work, as well as those who have obtained city aid, may register, and also where employers who are in need of help may register their needs. You Have Been Told that advertising in Review is merely "duplication" of your newspaper advertising.

Successful, sales-making advertising follows various methods and uses all available means to reach its prospects. The oftener you get the attention of these prospects for your goods the better for your sales.

If newspaper publicity is sufficient, why do the buyers of advertising use the magazines, billboards, direct-mail of all sorts, novelties, sky-writing, radio, and scores of other ways and devices to draw the attention of possible users to their product, whether it sells for 5c or $1,000?

If newspaper publicity is sufficient, why does the great Associated Press (and other news syndicates) with its many hundreds of newspaper members get "on the air" to advertise itself?

If newspaper publicity is the be-all and end-all of advertising, why isn't there a single successful business house in Appleton, or any other live town, that relies upon it entirely?

All Review readers are open-minded to new and better standards. There are thousands and thousands of them and they live in several thousand able-to-buy homes in the immediate vicinity of your business.

A fertile advertising field that you should not fail to cultivate.
