UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN.

VOL. IV—No. 157.]

MADISON, WIS., TUESDAY, MAY 28, 1895.

[PRICE THREE CENTS.]

FELLOWS ELECTED

SEVEN HONORARY FELLOWSHIPS CONFERRED.

THREE OF THEM ARE IN ECONOMICS.

Committees Chosen to Arrange for Commencement.

At their meeting yesterday the faculty elected the following honorary fellows for the coming year:

H. F. Stecker, '93, mathematics.
Samuel Weidman, '94, geology.
B. H. Meyer, '94, economics.
James A. Beauchamp, economics.
James H. Hamilton, economics.
Mary F. Carpenter, Hebrew.
W. H. Chynoweth, Hebrew.

Mr. Meyer, has been studying at Halle and Berlin the past year; Mr. Beauchamp is an instructor in the Baptist female seminary at Lexington, Mo.; Mr. Hamilton is a graduate of Hanover college and has been studying at Halle; Miss Carpenter is a graduate of Smith college, and Mr. Chynoweth of Lawrence. These honorary fellows are not required to give instruction, and the only compensation they receive is a remittance of fees.

The faculty also chose a committee on commencement, with Prof. Olsen as general chairman. It was divided into the following sub-committees: On program and printing—Profs. Parkinson, Turner and Frankenburger; on reception, etc.—Profs. Ely, Whitney, Jackson, Barnes, Snow, Henry and C. F. Smith.

THE MONEY QUESTION.

The most important question before the county will be thoroughly discussed Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the parlor of the Unitarian church by Prof. W. A. Scott, who will speak under the title "The Conflicting Views on the Currency Question." The combination of speaker and subject insures an especially interesting meeting for this, the closing one for the season of the Contemporary club. All are invited to attend.

UNIFORM STATE LEGISLATION.

"Uniform State Legislation" is the subject of a paper just issued by the American Academy of Political and Social Science in its series of publications. It is written by Frederic J. Stimson, Esq., of Boston, the author of "American Statute Law," and commissioner from Massachusetts on the Board of Commissioners to establish uniformity of law throughout the Union, and secretary of the National Conference for that purpose.

The paper contains an explanation of the causes of diversity in State laws; an account of the movement to secure uniformity; uniform legislation concerning deeds and seals; concerning wills; concerning weights and measures; concerning bills, notes and days of grace; a uniform commercial code; uniform legislation concerning conveying; concerning charitable bequests; concerning mortgages; concerning frauds; concerning interest; concerning corporations; criminal law, diversity and inequality of punishment; uniform laws on marriage and divorce.

This movement to secure uniformity of legislation has been spoken of by an eminent authority as "the most important juristic work undertaken in the United States since the adoption of the Federal Constitution."

IN REGARD TO CRUM.

Bedford, Ia., May 27.—The charge made by Trainer Murphy of Yale that John V. Crum, who won the 100 and 220 yard dashes in the Mott Haven games at New York Saturday is a professional runner has aroused much indignation in this town, which is Crum's home. The story is absurd and utterly groundless and seems to have originated in envy at his success in the races. Crum is 22 years old, was brought up in this place, and his entire life is perfectly well known to nearly every resident. His father, W. E. Crum, is and for the last twenty-five years has been an influential banker and lawyer here. Young Crum made his first running record at the Iowa university, which he now attends, and from which he will graduate on his return from the east. Prior to going to the state university Crum was only an ordinary runner and the only races in which he took part were those such as all boys get up among themselves. Since the discovery of the young man's powers in running the citizens here have watched his races with much interest, and the charge that he was formerly a professional has aroused much indignation.

Iowa City, Ia., May 27.—One thousand students and citizens compelled J. V. Crum, the champion American college sprinter, to accept a ride in a carriage drawn all over the city by them tonight, brass bands, fireworks, cannon, Yale and Harvard coffins, and donkeys aiding in making the ovation memorable. Crum will represent the university at the Western meet in Chicago Saturday. Citizens and students alike repudiate the charges of Yale. Crum has never visited Texas and was only 16 years old when he started to school here in 1890.

HARVARD'S CREW.

The outlook for a good crew at Harvard this year is far from encouraging. A fortnight ago it was thought that the eight men who will sit in the boat in the Yale race were decided upon, but now the illness of Hollister and Stevenson threatens to upset the previous calculation. After the class races three substitutes, E. N. Wrightington and J. E. Chatman from the sophomore boat, and J. A. Stillman of the juniors, were taken to the varsity table. Chatman and Stillman are at present rowing with the eight during the absence of Hollister and Stevenson. Bullard has gone to stroke, a position which he may fill in the Yale race. The other men in the order they are rowing are: Fennessey, No. 7; Wattress, No. 6; Chatman, No. 5; Stillman, No. 4; Shepard, No. 3; Damon, No. 2; Lewis, bow.

SHELL HAS COME

ALL THE WAY FROM MASSACHUSETTS.

WEIGHS ONLY TWO HUNDRED AND THIRTY POUNDS.

Will be Used Only for Racing—A Marvel of Construction.

The racing shell built for the university by Davy arrived last evening at 8:05 and was removed to the gymnasium for temporary storage. It has been put in the boat house this afternoon and will be ready for a trial practice in a few days. This boat was built strictly for racing purposes. It will be used for practice only enough to accommodate the varsity eight to its speed and style of movement. W. H. Davy, of Cambridge, Mass., made the shell and furnished its complete outfit. It is 61 feet 9 inches long and weighs under 230 pounds, 70 pounds less than the shell obtained second hand a short time ago. The inside of the boat is a marvel of delicate construction. The style of bracing adopted is quite unique. In many ways the bracing is an invention of the past year. The keelson (which in the old shells is a board six inches wide hollowed out at intervals) in the new shell is constructed in two strips running the entire length of the shell, each strip about an inch in width, and one eight or ten inches above the other. Cross pieces and side braces make this keel the means of keeping the shell from vibrating vertically while riding in the water. A new wrinkle is observable also in the gunwales of the boat. Instead of the single solid strip along each side, the gunwales are double. One strip of an inch in thickness runs along the top of the hull the whole length. And a lighter strip runs parallel just three inches farther inboard the whole length of the cockpit. This double keelson and double gunwale is calculated to give the greatest lightness with the least vibratory motion either laterally or vertically.

The fine, delicately carved cross braces are filled into this skeleton with extreme nicety and symmetry so that to the carman's eye at least its bracing is a thing of beauty in itself. It is probably the lightest cedar boat of the same stiffness that has ever been built.

SOCIOLOGICAL JOURNAL.

The board of trustees of the University of Chicago has decided to start a new periodical to be devoted to the field of sociology. It will be the first journal of its kind in the United States. While there are magazines that view the social problem from its economic, moral, sanitary, philanthropic, and its other multitudinous sides, the new journal will study the problem in its entirety. The contents will be strictly scientific from a sociological point of view, but yet be non-technical. The contributors will be the leading writers on sociology in this country and Europe. Head Professor Albion W. Small, assisted by the faculty of the social science department, will have editorial charge of the publication. Associated with them will be a number of the leading investigators in this line from two continents. The first number will appear soon after July 1, and subsequent issues will appear every two months thereafter. The new venture is looked upon as one of the most important undertaken by the university. It is a giant stride forward for the new science of sociology. The University of Chicago was the first in this country to form a special department for the science and give it a faculty commensurate with its vast importance. It now takes the lead in establishing a medium for the dissemination of the latest thought on the subject. Moreover, it is the most advanced move by the university toward solving the intricate problems of social existence and development.

GAME BETWEEN LAW STUDENTS.

The ball game between the junior laws and seniors, which was to have been played this afternoon has been postponed until tomorrow at 3:00 p. m. on account of the Wisconsin-Madison game today. The opposing sides will play as follows:

JUNIORS.	SENIORS.
Spooner, r. f.	Campbell, lb.
Runkel, p.	And. Lees, c.
Falk, lb.	Simons, p.
Freeman, 3b.	Cook, 3b.
Wasson, l. f.	Dudgeon, r. f.
Karel, ss.	Karel, c. f.
McCabe, c. f.	Wheelihan, 2b.
George, 2b.	Bunn, ss.
Casey, c.	Walker, l. f.

—Castalia will hold her Sophomore blowout on next Friday evening. A good time is looked for, as extensive preparations are being made by members of that class.

—H. H. Manson and W. H. Hughitt, who will represent the university at the western intercollegiate tennis tournament, left for Chicago today.

—In giving the rules for the interfraternity boat race, the Cardinal made a mistake. The rule regarding the out-riggers should have read "No out riggers" instead of "Two out riggers."

AMERICAN SCHOOL AT ATHENS.

The semi-annual meeting of the directors of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, Greece, was held at Wesleyan University last week. There are twenty-three colleges which co-operate in the expenses of this school, and twelve of them were represented. The delegates were: Professors Seymour and Perrin of Yale; Goodwin and White of Harvard; Sloane of Princeton; Hale of Chicago; Fuller of Western Reserve; Fernald of Williams; Sterrell of Amherst; Wheeler of University of Vermont; Poland of Brown; Van Benschoten of Wesleyan, and Miss Slater of Mount Holyoke. Reports were made from the directors of the school at Athens, showing the work that had been done the past year, and it was decided to offer a fellowship, which shall be awarded by competitive examination to the successful candidate from the twenty-three colleges.

—The Yale commencement will be held Wednesday, June 22.

In the election of honorary fellows the faculty has done well to recognize the splendid work being accomplished in the department of economics. That so many advanced students are attracted to the institution in this line of work should reinforce the argument in favor of a larger instructing force for the school of economics, political science, and history made by overcrowded condition of classes in those departments.

While it cannot fail to be noticed that the present condition of disposing of library books and periodicals has greatly improved in many respects, it seems very obvious to the least observing that several grave difficulties are still to be remedied. In the first place it has come to be a common occurrence that some students come near to forming a clique for monopolising the daily papers as one comes to see without comfort or delight. Without any exaggeration it is a fact that this morning half a dozen were so attentive to the local affairs of the day and also so zealous to be positive that some suitable person might succeed him in its enjoyments, that numerous students came in vain to read a paragraph. A general understanding exists that such and such a lucky one may have it next, and it becomes tiresome to see the winks expressing more than one would guess. It is needless to say that this must be stopped as quickly as possible as it will not be put up with. Another source of inconvenience to many is the fact that text books so often used as to be considered reference books are allowed to be taken out as any others, much to the trouble of many inquirers. These are merely suggestions that ought to merit some attention from those concerned even at this late day in the year.

It will not be long before the lower campus will not be available for athletic purposes. As soon as the new historical building is commenced the ground will be used for the storage of materials, so that all but practice work will be crowded off. We hope that the regents may find means this summer to enclose a few acres at the south east corner of Randall Field, and make a start upon a grand stand, so that the athletic association may be able to collect some revenue from football games next autumn. By grading down the race track and adjoining land a fair elevation can be obtained, so that tile-drainage will not be necessary. An enclosure 330 feet north and south by 550 feet east and west, containing about four and a half acres, with a 220 yard straight-a-way track connecting at the north-west corner with a grand stand upon part of the west and north sides, will give ample accommodation for all college sports. Speaking of Randall Field and the new historical building we are reminded that we have been tardy in acknowledging the most efficient services rendered by Senator Bashford to all University interests. He it was who made the acquisition of Camp Randall for the University feasible, and who saved the bill from defeat at the last moment. Again when the historical building bill was doomed to defeat it was he who procured the votes to pass it. Mr. Burrows also did great service; but in this as in all other legislation in either house, Mr. Bashford's great ability and genius for management were conspicuous. Although in the minority he was most influential, and rendered most efficient service to the state towards conservative legislation.

—Dartmouth will issue a daily paper for five days during commencement.
—The valedictory at the Univ. of Penn. commencement will be delivered by O. J. Roberts.
—Mrs. C. K. Adams will read a poem entitled "The Message of the Dead," at the Memorial day exercises.
—A prize for general excellence in athletics will be offered by the faculty of the University of Michigan. It will be in the form of a trophy, which will become the property of the winner.

BICYCLING FOR WOMEN.
One Woman's Experience in the Healthful Exercise.

Bicycling is, in my opinion, the most healthful and beneficial pastime in which a person can indulge. The exhilaration that is experienced in riding mile after mile upon streets and roads which were never known to one before learning to ride, is simply charming and almost beyond words to describe. Language fails any lover of nature when telling his or her experiences in wheeling through the magnificent scenery that surrounds us on every side. Those who do not ride are not aware of the exquisite pleasure they are missing as the seasons pass away. As a boon to my sex, I can by personal experience say, that bicycling is a most efficient cure for many of the ills to which women are subject. I do not wish to injure any person's business or profession, but I have no doubt when a woman takes to riding a bicycle she will call upon her physician less frequently than has been her custom heretofore.

Wheeling, where practiced in moderation, is beneficial to every one. Some persons can ride many miles without fatigue and there are very few, it matters not how delicate they may be, who cannot ride five or ten miles after two or three week's practice. The exertion of driving a wheel on smooth level roads or streets is practically nothing, and the skill of guiding one's wheel is so easily acquired that one has many a laugh at the doubts and fears they felt before trying to learn. It is no more difficult to guide a wheel than it is to walk and not half so hard to learn.

I look back to the time when I learned to ride and can see how much easier it would have been if I had had a little more courage. However, I was timid and lacked confidence in myself, and it was three or four days before I dared to trust myself alone on my wheel, while my daughter, a girl of thirteen, bid adieu to her instructor after the second lesson and went spinning along like a bird. After I found I could guide my wheel alone I commenced to ride on country roads at once, and in two weeks I rode to Slingerlands and back, a distance of sixteen miles, only walking up part of the five mile hill.

Before riding the wheel I was sick most of the time, but now my aches have disappeared, and I enjoy almost perfect health, and can ride seventy-five miles in a day and feel very little fatigue, and think nothing of riding from ten to fourteen miles before breakfast. I have such an admiration for my wheel (knowing and feeling how much it has done for me), that it is almost veneration, and I call my "Columbia" the "Gem of Cycles." If my sickly and nervous sisters, who never know what it is to really enjoy the pleasures of this life, would try the wheel, I know that it would make life bright and beautiful, and their despondent hours would be few and far between. Their husbands and families would also bless the bicycle, for when the wife and mother is cheerful and happy, the home is the place of all to be desired.

The first time you mount the wheel, you may, perhaps, be a little discouraged, but the next time you will understand it better, and become anxious to continue. You will then want to buy a wheel, and let me here give you the benefit of my experience. I advise you to get one of the best makes you can find, and, by all means, insist on having one that weighs not over twenty-five pounds. As soon as you learn to ride, get some acquaintance to accompany you on little trips on the country roads. You will very soon be able to take excursions of ten, twenty or fifty miles from home. Let me add that life has seemed far different to me since I learned to ride two years ago, and money would be no temptation to me to go back to the miserable condition in which I was at that time.
