Student Health Service Issues 'Flu' Warnings

Seeks Prevention of Second Epidemic With "Keep Well" Hints

Measures for the prevention of the return of the influenza epidemic that caused university exercises to cease on Dec. 15 before the scheduled time have been issued by the Student Health Service.

Avoid crowds, dances, and avoid over-

ATTENTION STUDENTS!—HELP CHECK INFLUENZA

Influenza is highly contagious. It appears to be spread mainly through infected droplets in the breath. Probably well persons may act as carriers.

Avoid crowding. Avoid dancing. Use handkerchiefs when sneezing and coughing in the presence of others. Use individual drinking cups, towels, and other articles that may spread infection. Avoid becoming overtired, avoid wet feet, insufficient clothing, drafts, and other factors that lower resistance.

If you feel ill, rest, avoid exposing others and consult a physician. Over-exertion during an original attack is apt to be followed by a relapse far more severe.

Over-exertion, wet feet, insufficient clothing, drafts, and other factors that lower resistance, advise health authorities. The use of handkerchiefs when sneezing and coughing in the presence of others, and of individual drinking cups, towels, and other articles that may spread infection is urged.

Wisconsin Gets $7500 Aid Fund

"Best Alumnus" Gives $2,000; Mrs. J. H. Roberts Establishes Athletic Award

The University of Wisconsin has received $7,500 as a beneficiary in the wills of Israel Shrimski and Mrs. J. H. Rogers, both of whom died recently.

Mr. Shrimski, who was known as the university's "best alumnus," left $2,000 to the student aid fund and $500 to the general fund of the Wisconsin General Alumni association. The "best alumnus" served as president of the Alumni association and also devoted his time and money to its activities as well as to such developments as the Memorial Union project and the university dormitories.

The second donor, Mrs. J. H. Rogers, was the mother of Harlan B. Rogers '08, who was on the baseball, basketball, and football teams of the university. The $5,000 which Mrs. Rogers left is to go toward establishing the Harlan B. Rogers athletic scholarship.

This scholarship is to be awarded annually to a student who participates in one or more of the recognized branches of competitive athletics and who maintains a good scholarship record. The student shall be selected by the president of the board of regents, the president of the university, and by Harlan B. Rogers.

Steve Anasis Stricken With Illness in Class Room

Steve Anasis, a student, was taken violently ill in Bascom hall yesterday morning during classes. An ambulance took him to the student infirmary where doctors sought to analyze his illness. He was reported as resting more easily at the infirmary last evening.

Football Ticket Scalper Is Fined Profits of Sale

Fred Brings, Milwaukee, charged with scalping four tickets for the Minnesota-Wisconsin football game on last November 24 without filing broker's papers with the internal revenue department, pleaded guilty to the offense before Judge Claude Z. Luse in federal court Monday and was fined the amount that the sale brought him. Brings was the only man arrested on charges of scalping, although the names of four students were turned over to the Athletic council and student ticket privileges were denied the offenders for one year.

Defends Care of Student Mental Illnesses Here

Goodnight Refutes Menninger Attack; Praises Lorenz, Edgerton

"Dr. W. F. Lorenz and Prof. A. H. Edgerton, among others, are doing all the work that a mental hygiene counselor could do," insisted Dean Scott H. Goodnight Thursday in defending the University of Wisconsin's method of handling psychological illnesses among students.

"The only difference between the way such things are done at Wisconsin and at other schools is that elsewhere such a task is created into a special department with an impressive name whereas here the same work is done by various persons about the campus in a quiet, unassuming manner," he continued.

Article Recommends Counselor

This assertion of Dean Goodnight's followed an article published in the January issue of The Intercollegian by Dr. Karl A. Menninger, recommending that universities and colleges appoint mental hygiene counselors to aid students suffering from psychological illnesses.

"Why Do Students Flunk" is the title of the article which illustrates how a mental hygiene counselor might diagnose cases of college Bolshevism, rebelliousness and hostility, or the numerous causes of failure in college. This aid of the counselor is expected to lend aid to students who otherwise would feel lost and unable to do justice to their college work.

Have Mental Hygiene Courses

Introductory courses in mental hygiene have been provided at such institutions as Princeton, Amherst, Brown, Columbia, and Leland Stanford, the article states, with the idea of facilitating the abrupt change from the small high school at home to the relatively

Prof. Showerman Receives Honor from Italian King

Prof. Grant Showerman of the department of classics has been decorated by the King of Italy for his work in connection with the American Academy in Rome. He was presented with the Cavaliere della Corona d'Italia (Cavalier of the Crown of Italy).

Professor Showerman received a letter announcing the conferring of the degree the latter part of last month from the Italian consular agent in Milwaukee, Angelo Cerninara. The letter stated that the decoration was given "for your splendid services in the field of classical studies and Roman history."

In 1896, Professor Showerman received his first degree from the university and made his first trip to Rome in 1898. In 1899, he married Zilpha M. Vernon, of Madison, Wis.

He has been a professor of classics at the university since 1900 and taught at the American Academy in Rome in 1922-23, and in 1923 was director of the summer session of the school of classical studies. His works include many books, among which is "Eternal Rome," published in 1924. In 1929, he will direct the summer session for the seventh time.

CENSUS SHOWS CATHOLICS HOLD CAMPUS PLURALITY

Voluntary census of religious beliefs among University of Wisconsin students resulted in definite answers representing 34 faiths by 6,479 out of 9,042 registrants, according to a compilation just completed by Miss A. B. Kirch, university statistician. The census is the first of its kind conducted at the university.

Among those who expressed their affiliations, 1,042 named the Roman Catholic church, 1,018 Lutheran, 959 Methodist, 887 Congregational, 680 Presbyterian, 553 Jewish, 441 Episcopalian, 235 Baptist, and 189 Christian Science. These nine faiths represent 93 per cent of the total answers.

The census is based on cards handed to registrants at the opening of the first semester, with explanations

Operator Burned in Film Blaze at Madison Theater

The movie operator at the Madison theater was slightly burned about the face and arms, the entire operating room was almost completely destroyed, and a crowd of about 100 theatergoers, including several students, were forced to leave the building at about 10:30 last night when the film being shown caught fire, igniting other equipment. The manager of the theater refused to estimate the loss. Attaches at the Methodist hospital to which the operator was rushed immediately after the blaze reported that the victim was not seriously injured.

Paul Fulcher to be Married to Colleague

The approaching marriage of Paul M. Fulcher, professor of English, and Miss Louise Dwyer, instructor of English, was affirmed yesterday afternoon by Miss Dwyer. The ceremony, which will be held in Madison on Feb. 9, will be conducted by Dr. George F. Fulcher, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Monmouth, Ill., a brother of the groom.

The couple will take advantage of Professor Fulcher's leave of absence next semester, and will spend their honeymoon traveling extensively in Europe. Sailing from New York Feb. 15, the couple will visit Italy, the French Riviera and then the Italian lake district.

They will then follow northward through Switzerland and Germany to England, where they will travel during the month of June, enjoying, as well, the colorful countrysides in Ireland and Scotland. A flying trip to Amsterdam will take them back to the continent, to spend the remainder of the time before their return in September in northern France and Paris.

Professor Fulcher came here in the fall of 1920 as an instructor, and now is an assistant professor. His courses include contemporary novel, advanced narrative writing, and lectures in English 30. For some years he was chairman of the course in sophomore composition.

Miss Dwyer joined the English department in 1922 as an assistant, and is now an instructor in sophomore composition and English 30. She also assists in other advanced English courses.

Judge A. C. Backus Becomes Regent; Has Two Sons Here

Judge August C. Backus '01, was recently appointed a member of the Board of Regents by the governor of the state.

Mr. Backus received his degree on the hill in 1901, and an honorary L.L.B. from Marquette university in Milwaukee.

The judge is the father of August C. Backus Jr., who played on the football team during the last season and who will graduate in June, and of Walter A. Backus who is now a freshman at the university.

Editorial Lauds Schoolmaster as Tactful Liberal

A prediction that Pres. Glenn Frank might play in a new manner the role of Woodrow Wilson and be the second university president chosen as president of the United States was voiced in an editorial printed in the Chicago Journal of Commerce on Dec. 31.

Following President Frank's address in Chicago to the American Political Science association, the paper commented editorially:

Frank Inoffensively Liberal

"President Frank of the University of Wisconsin is master of a technique of expressing a general spirit of liberalism without offending business men. It is a technique that permits President Frank to speak often on public affairs without embroiling himself with either of the two strong political elements in his state.

"If, within the next decade or two, the political pendulum of the nation should swing away from conservatism, it is not impossible that Glenn Frank may play in a new manner the role of Woodrow Wilson—the university president elected to the presidency of the country.

Keeping Himself Available

"It is not probable, but it is not an outlandish conjecture. President Frank, to use the politician's term, is keeping himself available.

"The message which he expresses is like Wilson's in that it breathes a 'forward-looking' spirit, but, unlike Wilson's, it does not emphasize the Jeffersonian tradition of the rights of the plain people, nor indicate hostility to big business. This is a new age, which takes little stock in the initiative and referendum, and has accepted the bigness of business as necessary.

Has Gift of Expression
"Living in the new age, with his mind attuned to the newer developments in American life, and his ear not far from the ground, President Frank expresses himself in a manner that is rather new, or at least seems so to the ordinary listener. If what he says is commonplace to political scientists, it is nevertheless a novelty to most other people. Therefore he is having little difficulty in winning a reputation as a prophet of an age to come."

A somewhat similar prediction, but more specific, in an editorial in the Wisconsin State Journal, declared that President Frank would, in four years time, be a candidate for governor succeeding Governor-elect Walter J. Kohler who, it was predicted, would then seek a senate seat. Subsequently, President Frank would become a presidential possibility, The State Journal said.

Wiggam Praises Frank
At the time of Albert E. Wiggam's recent visit to the university, the Daily Cardinal printed an interview with him on the same subject. Mr. Wiggam praised President Frank's able guidance of the University of Wisconsin and declared that such ability was much to be desired in a president of the United States.

"He may not be one of the greatest men," said Mr. Wiggam, "—the greatest men are not elected as president—but he has that necessary personality."

The first "Frank-for-President" article appeared in The Nation, liberal weekly, about a year ago.

Daily Reports of Badger Teams

Theta Chi Leads in Hectic Badger Bowl Struggle

Kappa Sigma, Theta Xi, Follow Closely, Latest Standings Show

Theta Chi, Kappa Sigma, and Theta Xi are repeating their hectic struggle of last year for the Badger Bowl, as is shown by a perusal of the point standings released yesterday afternoon by the Intramural office. Theta Chi is securely lodged in first place with a total of 343 points. Kappa Sigma is not far behind, with a 302 total. Theta Xi holds third place with 283 points with Sigma Chi fourth and Delta Theta Sigma fifth.

Theta Chi, champion last year, has reached the top, with championships won in touch football and swimming, and a fourth place in cross country. Kappa Sigma took second honors in tackle football and swimming. Theta Xi annexed the tackle football championship for the second consecutive year and received a third place in touch football.

The standings:

Theta Chi 343; Kappa Sigma 302; Theta Xi 283; Sigma Chi 231; Delta Theta Sigma 217; Theta Delta Chi 192; Delta Pi Epsilon 187; Alpha Chi Rho 175; Delta Sigma Pi 166; Phi Gamma Delta 150; Pi Kappa Alpha 145; Alpha Gamma Rho 130; Phi Delta Theta 128; Phi Kappa Tau 126; Sigma Phi Epsilon 125; Phi Kappa 100; Sigma Alpha Epsilon 100; Alpha Sigma Phi 99; Alpha Kappa Kappa 83; Tau Kappa Epsilon 83; Beta Theta Pi 76; Delta Tau Delta 67; Phi Sigma Kappa 67; Lambda Chi Alpha 50; Alpha Kappa Lambda 50; Chi Psi 50; Delta Chi 50; Phi Pi Phi 50; Phi Sigma Delta 50; Sigma Pi 50; and Sigma Nu 40.

Dahl Stars at Eastern Meet

Ocock, Milverstedt Help Wisconsin Gain Third Place

Wisconsin again rose to the heights in collegiate winter sports circles by taking a close third place in the annual college winter sports at Lake Placid, N. Y., during the holidays.

The fact that Wisconsin had only a three-man team prevented the only mid-western entry from winning the President Harding trophy for the highest point-winning team.

Knute Dahl, star Badger ski man, won the seven mile cross country ski race and took second in the jump, while Bobby Ocock and Fred Milverstedt took nine points in the skating events with a first and second in the two mile and a fourth in the 440 yard dash. Ocock won the two mile easily but in the 440 was fouled and failed to place.

Hans Troye, student at Wisconsin and an outstanding collegiate ski man, was not sent on the trip because of ineligibility. His presence would have increased the Badger's chances considerably.

The point score in the Harding trophy competition follows:
New Hampshire 21; McGill university 18; Wisconsin 17; Syracuse 10; Dartmouth 8.

St. Francis Leads Church Standings in Intramural Race

St. Francis is leading the Church league race with a total of 200 points it was disclosed upon release of the standings from the Intramural office yesterday afternoon. Hillel foundation holds second place with Calvary Lutheran, both churches having 150 points.

The Church league basketball race will get under way Saturday afternoon at Wisconsin high gymnasium with eight churches engaging in four games. Calvary Lutheran, last year's champions, will undoubtedly again put a strong team in competition to attempt to cop the title for the second consecutive year.

Saturday's schedule: 1:00 — St.

HERE'S the DOPE

By HAROLD DUBINSKY

The fact that the Wisconsin student body made a mad exodus for their homes did not in the least prevent Wisconsin teams from making remarkable records during the vacation.

Basketball

Wisconsin went through one of its most successful pre-season periods in basketball this season by emerging undefeated in four starts against some strong quintets including Pittsburg (national collegiate champions in 1928), Franklin, Carleton and Lombard.

Dope

In those four games Wisconsin looked exceptionally strong despite somewhat ragged play. The tall forwards and the lightning guards functioned well enough to smother any opposition offered.

Saturday

This Saturday Wisconsin opposes Minnesota in Minneapolis in the first of its Big Ten games. Meanwell is inclined to fear Minnesota.

Hockey

The Badger hockey squad took its annual training trip through the cold, bleak north and hung up a better record than it has ever had on such a trip. Last night the team played the Chicago A. C. in Chicago and that game completed the training trip schedule.

Saturday

Wisconsin will open its home season Jan. 11 and 12 against the North Dakota Aggies who boast of a powerful sextet. Men who have been showing up exceptionally well, include Harold Rebholz, Don and Gordon Meiklejohn, Gallagher, and Art Frisch. Frisch has clinched a goalie position and has been rapidly rounding into shape.

Wisconsin failed by a narrow margin to win the annual collegiate winter sports title at Lake Placid this year. With only a three-man team the Badgers were unable to total enough points to win the President Harding trophy. Dahl did some splendid work in the ski events while Ocock and Milverstedt took first and second in the two mile, with the latter winning a fourth in the 440 yard dash. Ocock was fouled in the 440 and his failure to place kept Wisconsin from winning the championship.

Freshman Wrestling Managers

Freshmen interested in securing positions as managers of the wrestling team are advised to see Coach Hitchcock or the manager in the gymnasium.

Francis vs. Hillel; 2:00—Wesley vs. Congregational; 3:00—Luther Memorial vs. Calvary Lutheran; 4:00—Baptist vs. St. Paul's.

Wrestling Offers Physical, Mental Development to All, Coach Says

By GEORGE HITCHCOCK
Wrestling Coach, University of Wisconsin

Amateur wrestling is one of the few sports today which afford an equal opportunity to every short or tall, light or heavy man to develop himself physically as well as mentally.

The benefits derived from wrestling are many. It would take volumes to explain them. However, a few of the most important deserve mention. In no other sport does the contestant have to rely upon himself as does the wrestler.

He is on the mat with his opponent, making use of his speed and skill. His brain is ever active, for should he make one slip, a sudden defeat might result. Mistakes cannot be easily covered up, and responsibility for them can not be passed along to the next fellow.

Learn's Co-ordination

The wrestler must learn self-

Hockey Squad Has Strenuous Season Ahead

Coach Farquhar Drives Men Hard, Preparing for Se- vere Schedule

Thursday's hockey match with the Chicago Athletic club, played at the Coliseum, was the fourth of a number of pre-season bills scheduled for the Badgers by Coach Johnny Farquhar, who is doing his utmost to build a smooth machine from a group of green men. Contrary to previous announcement, the Wisconsin pucksters did not meet the Waterloo, Iowa, six on New Year's day. After a last minute cancellation, Farquhar took his lads north for a holiday game with the Wausau Hockey club.

Farquhar, a former Canadian pro star, is pleased with the prospect of the C. A. A. match this week for it will give his men an opportunity to witness the fast hockey played in the pro league. Many of the Blackhawks are former teammates of the Badger coach, and the new center of the Toronto aggregation, Andy Blair, will be remembered by Wisconsin fans as the University of Manitoba star, who played here two years ago.

Play N. D. Aggies

Following a change in the dates of the Minnesota-Wisconsin series here, Coach Farquhar today announced the scheduling of the North Dakota Aggies for Jan. 11 and 12. He further said that St. Thomas college will be brought in for matches later this month as will Marquette university.

The Cardinal skaters have been making the best of their vacation periods, drilling twice daily, except when playing their preliminary games. Johnny Farquhar has been concentrating upon nine men, who will actually carry the brunt of the work. The Badgers have a long way to go if they are to vie with Michigan and Minnesota for Big Ten honors, as seven of these boys are recruits.

Mitchells Successor Good

The Wisconsin squad that made the trip to Chicago includes the following players: Frisch, Rebholz, Gallagher, Bards, D. Meiklejohn, G. Meiklejohn, gel. Art Frisch, the sturdy football Krueger, Thomsen, Peterson and Sielinenman from C'hisholm, Minn., has taken well to his new post, goal tender. He has a difficult task in trying to duplicate the work of ex-Capt. Mitchell, but is fast learning the art of stopping the flying puck.

Harold Rebholz, gridiron luminary, has also shown great improvement in his new role as defense player on Farquhar's outfit. "Reb" is a great competitor, and a natural athlete. He should become one of the leading lights on the Wisconsin sextette before the season is far along.

INTERFRATERNITY BASKETBALL

All interfraternity basketball games scheduled to be played this week are postponed and will be played at some later date, to be arranged with the other dates for games which could not be played because of the early closing of the university.

Three Schools Offer Coaching Helms to Lieb

Tom Lieb, Badger line coach, stated Thursday night that he has received three offers as head coach at various institutions for next fall, when questioned in regard to rumors that he intends to leave Wisconsin to act as assistant to Knute Rockne, at Notre Dame, where he once starred as tackle.

He has made no decisions as yet, he added, however. The rumor, which originated in apparently chance remark by Lieb, when returning with the team from Beaver Dam, previous to the Minnesota game, has it that Coaches Lieb and Allison intend to leave Wisconsin to accept positions at other institutions.

Allison Satisfied

Coach "Stub" Allison, end coach and assistant athletic director, also reported to have received offers from other schools, says he is satisfied with his present position, and does not have intentions of leaving.

George E. Little, athletic director, stated that it is not unusual for coaches to receive offers from outside, and that the offers are rarely accepted unless the change involves considerable salary increase.

Thistlethwaite, Little Satisfied

Both Coach Thistlethwaite and Director Little declared that they would like to retain the present coaching organization and personnel.

Tom Lieb has coached at Wisconsin for three years, and "Stub" Allison for two years. To Lieb is given much credit for the Cardinal rise from ninth place in the 1927 gridiron standings to the second place position in the 1928 list.

Iowans Improve in Preparation for Buckeye Tilt

Iowa City, Jan. 1.—Whether the University of Iowa basketball team won all its December games was not so important, just so Coach Justin M. Barry had ample opportunity to watch his material develop under fire.

But the leaf is about to be turned now, with the advent of a new month and a new year—and the schedule calling for the Western conference season to open against Ohio State here Saturday evening.

Although Pittsburgh won a 45 to 39 victory over the Hawkeyes at Pittsburgh last Saturday, the squad displayed a second half comeback as remarkable as any in Iowa annals. Pitt left the floor after the first twenty minutes of play with a 30 to 10 lead. Iowa out-scored the eastern team, 29 to 15 in the second half, but could not completely whittle down that margin.

The turmoil of the Western conference championship race will engulf Iowa's team when it enters the eight week twelve-game season by playing Ohio State on the field house court Saturday evening.

Although the Hawkeyes won three of their four preliminary games, they face the Buckeyes with misgivings. Influenza harassed the Iowans early in December, hitting five players, and now Virgil David and Fred Geneva, guards, are out with the scourge.

Hockey, Wrestling Entries Must Be Filed by Saturday

Entries for fraternity hockey and wrestling must be handed into the Intramural office by Saturday noon in order that schedules may be drawn up at that time.

At the present time the following entries have been received for hockey: Alpha Tau Omega, Beta Theta Pi, Chi Phi, Chi Psi, Delta Pi Epsilon, Delta Sigma Pi, Delta Theta Sigma, Kappa Sigma, Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Kappa, Phi Kappa Sigma, Phi Sigma Kappa, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Phi Sigma, Theta Chi, Theta X, Triangle, and Zeta Psi. Phi Kappa Psi, last year's champ, has not turned in its entry.

The wrestling entries to date are Delta Theta Sigma, present champions, Kappa Sigma, Phi Kappa Tau, Phi Sigma Kappa, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Theta Chi, and Zeta Psi.

Badgers With Four Victories, Face Gophers

Wisconsin Shows Erratic Form in Pre-Conference Tilts; Minnesota Strong

Wisconsin's basketball team, undefeated in its four pre-conference starts, will open its Big Ten cage season tomorrow night when it journeys up to Minneapolis to take on a husky Minnesota squad in a game that appears to have two evenly matched fives as contestants.

The Gophers, beginning their second season of play under the tutelage of Dave MacMillan, have succeeded in mastering the new system of floor work brought from the west by their coach, and have shown enough power in their practice games to be considered as a dangerous opponent to Wisconsin and other conference teams.

May Take Whole Squad

The Meanwell men will leave Madison tomorrow night with probably the entire squad. The struggle will be staged in the new Minnesota field house, and being upon their home floor will give the Gophers a slight advantage.

During the holidays, the Badger cage squad saw action three times, facing Pittsburgh, Carleton college, and Lombard college. In all of these encounters, victories were won by rather wide margins, but the work displayed was somewhat ragged.

Play Is Erratic

In the Franklin game, the Cardinals played on and off basketball, at times displaying flashes of offensive and defensive strength, and then lapsing into a mediocrity that foreboded evil. Quite to the contrary, in the Pitt clash, the Wisconsin five turned in some neat work, although (Continued on Page 5)

Wausau Winter Frolic Planned

Third Annual Sports Festival Is Set for Early February

All Wisconsin has received with enthusiasm the recent announcement that the Wausau Winter Frolic will be held again this year. The dates for this gigantic ice and snow festival have been set for February 6 to 10.

The 1929 Wausau Winter Frolic is the third edition of this carnival, which in its brief existence has become one of the largest events of its kind held in this country. Through the efforts of Fred Wiechmann, who will serve again this year as general chairman, the Wausau Frolic has grown to such proportions that it now rivals the famed Lake Placid.

Scheduled for February

Several changes have been made in the plans this winter. Those in charge have chosen to cut the events down to five days rather than seven, and for the first time have advanced the date of the Frolic into February. The Wausau carnival is sponsored by the Outdoor Sports club of that city.

Every outdoor game known to inhabitants of the north, where snow and ice abound, will be featured. Hockey, ski jumping, ice yachting, curling, snow shoeing, speed skating, and distance skating all have their place in the well-rounded program. There will be many classes of competition thrown open to entrants, from the novices and small children up to the intercollegiate teams.

Plan Hockey Matches

The sports committee, headed by Oscar Binzer, is scheduling many hockey matches for the five days of the festival. They are now considering the promotion of a Wisconsin valley tournament and a state amateur championship series. In addition they expect to bring some college sextettes to Wausau, and already the University of Wisconsin team is planning to make the trip.

The Wausau ski club promises an array of skiers that will far surpass anything ever seen in this state, and the same may be said for those arranging for the other sports.

On Conversation

Our Troubles With It Lie in Excess Quantity Without Quality

AN unusual old professor one day queried two of his students as they tardily entered his classroom: "What have you been doing?"
"Holding a conversation," one replied.
"A conversation?" the professor quizzically repeated.

"Yes, I believe so," the student returned.
"Then, sirs," the professor stated heartily, "you are to be congratulated!"

For conversation is a lost art in America. We have a nation so full of a number of things that we should all be able to converse like kings, is a paraphrase of Stevenson. But either our kings are bores, or we cannot converse, for so much of our mouth-production is consumed in sweet nothings, retorts courteous, chatter, wise-cracks, and what-nots, that we really produce very little actual conversation intelligent, stimulating, pleasant discussion directed on a single subject.

But we do not bemoan the fact that we talk so much; we bemoan the fact that we say so little. The worst is not that "awkward silence" the etiquette ads tell us about, but that social banter that fluffs like so much spun sugar—if you have ever been to a country fair.

One college student, knowing well the community in which he was to spend Christmas, compiled the six most-asked questions. This stimulating list reads as follows:

1. When did you come home?
2. When do you go back?
3. Do you enjoy the University?
4. Do the students like President Frank.
5. How is Professor Meiklejohn's school coming?
6. Will Wisconsin have another good football team next year? (Or, what happened in the Minnesota game?)

But the "folks back home" are not lone offenders. They have alert sons and daughters away at college, rushing chairmen for fraternities and sororities, asking:

1. Where do you come from?
2. What course are you taking?
3. Do you live in the dormitories?
4. Do you know so-and-so?

And then we have the mechanistic chant which can be repeated in unison following an introduction: "I'm very glad to know you," and its sequel, on parting, "I'm very glad to have met you." (Very frequently accompanied by the mental note: "What the devil was his name, anyway?"

These are the verbal gymnastics of social success. It is pleasant, harmless, inoffensive—unless the subject happens to really know, and appreciate, conversation.

Sincere conversation—and all genuine conversation must be sincere at least in its spontaneity—constitutes a sound requisite of a well-rounded, useful education. It requires a point for direction, and the thinking necessary to make observation. It requires a fundement of knowledge, and results in a broadening interchange not only of facts but of interpretations and applications of those facts.

Colleges today are criticized because they emphasize quantity so much and quality so little. That is precisely the trouble with our conversation, our writing, our thinking. We are trying desperately to appear intelligent without intelligence; we are trying to captivate without character; we are trying to do deep-sea fishing in a four-foot tank. The "talkies" are the new development in the picture industry: the new development needed in the college talkie industry is a little mental "movie."

Let the Gossips Gossip

Chicago Journal of Commerce Now Has Dr. Frank in Wilson's Role

EVER since President Frank came to the university and started making speeches, the chief delight of local gossipers has been in speculating secretly as to the possibility of his becoming President of the United States and to the extent of his aspirations for the job. But now the Chicago Journal of Commerce actually went ahead and said it. It has proclaimed that "Glenn Frank may play in a new manner the role of Woodrow Wilson—the university president elected to the presidency of the country." That definitely lets the cat out of the bag.

Whether or not President Frank is consciously grooming himself for political purposes, one person's guess is as good as another's; and surely there is no political prognosticator skillful enough to say whether any party, four or eight or twelve years hence, would care to nominate a man whose attitude on specific current political problems is as yet a complete mystery.

However, we must admit that the prospect of President Frank in the White House fires our imagination. His clearheadedness, "bunklessness," and vigor in a place that has withered under the stagnant influence of Calvin Coolidge would be as refreshing as an April shower. The editors of The Daily Cardinal years hence would probably be the first to rally under the banner of "Let's Be Frank with Frank." But here we are just gossiping ourselves. Well, far be it from us to attempt to strifle so delectable a subject for conversation and speculation.

A New Year's Toast

In Which an Editorial Writer Goes Sour on the Future

IF the student body feels itself sufficiently recovered from the customary celebrations of the New Year to go as far as to read editorials, the time for the following bit of morbidity. For the writer ventures that this is perhaps an appropriate sake of grandiloquency, we address it to the students of the country—we might just as well throw a bucket of water in the Atlantic Ocean as in Lake Mendota.

In one, two or three years, most students, barring good football players, will leave the colleges and universities and start to run the world. Leaving aside the cute things said by presidents of billion dollar monopolies regarding the rosy prospects for the future, it might be worth while to make a few brief observations about the nature of this world, which just now seems to bother students very little. We do not mean the vast profundities of Russell, Spengler, Dewey and their contemporaries and predecessors, but simply some hard practicalities of modern life which even college graduates cannot ignore.

Industrially, the United States is highly advanced, which means that fewer and fewer individuals are securing more and more controlling power. Young men of ability, one is told, get far in large corporations; but the sacrifice of a man's spirit and individuality is rarely mentioned. The distress to the masses as a result of the present industrial organization is a question too large for consideration here. But unemployment figures and tables showing the number of families getting less than a living wage are things to think about.

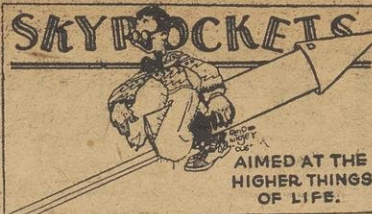

Even a college student knows that the words "politics" and "politicians" connote graft and deception. The whole slobbering mess of corruption is a colossal challenge to future "leaders in the community." What are they going to do to remove the ballot box from the influence of religious and racial prejudice?

Add to this the activities of bootleggers and the great host of other criminals and the picture nears completion. Perhaps it is not a fair or accurate picture, but there are so many descriptions of the opposite type extant, that perhaps this one is a necessary antidote.

One more detail presents itself to a casual observer: the spectacle of the governments of the great nations calmly girding themselves for a new war with deadly chemicals and germs intended not for armies but for populations.

Perhaps the mission of the future citizen is to save civilization from eradicating itself. But whatever it is, it would be very heartening if the younger generation showed some realization of its mission.

—H.

By the Rover Boys

Yes, we took some books home too. And we are no different from you we didn't study ours either. But they do serve the purpose of impressing the folks.

Seriously, though, there really ought to be a regulation against taking the dam' things home at all. They take up too much room in the grips when packing to return to school.

ONLY THIRTY DAYS UNTIL PROM AND STILL NO QUEEN!

How do you ever expect to have anyone at your party, John, when you won't announce the queen until the grand march? Every woman in the university is waiting until the last minute on the chance that she might be the one to be chosen.

And there isn't a woman in school who doesn't secretly feel that she would make the best choice for a queen

Meanwhile we butter and eggars are getting tired of being stalled off and are deciding not to go.

Comedy relief: Have you heard about the Scotch children who killed their parents so that they could go to the orphan's party?

We know of two buddies who live across the street from each other. That street is an important one though, because it divides Kansas City, Missouri from Kansas City, Kansas. But that one street is scarcely wide enough or important enough to make any justice in the dean's edict that the boy living on the Missouri side of the street had to be back on Thursday while the one on the Kansas side was allowed to stay away until Friday.

During the vacation we either saw or heard reports on all of the college musical comedies which made the winter trip. These include the shows of Ohio State, Michigan and Princeton and a few put on by lesser schools. They ranged from fair to terrible. All had jokes from the gay nineties. Which means that if the Wisconsin Haresfoot show this year is at all up to expectations it will be the wow of the country.

We have wasted a good many hours since getting back watching the airplanes alight on and take off from the ice on bonny old Mendota. We were among those fortunate few who were watching last year when "Winky" Kratz took that spill in his plane, and we don't want to miss the next one either. Being in a position to give out eye-witness statements to reporters is too much fun to miss.

How demure you look
Lying in the grass,
And how the golden sun
Brings out the ruddy tan
On your cheeks.
Methinks I'll
Snatch you up
And away with you,
Making a touchdown
For dear old California
And a name for myself besides.

What? Wrong goal? Why that means
Vaudeville Contracts!

Damn!
'Tis a pity
That I must fall here with you,
Sweet,
Scant six inches from the goal
And a touchdown for California
And a name
For myself

The Buck in the Snow

By EDNA ST. VINCENT MILLAY

WHITE sky, over the hemlocks bowed with snow,
Saw you not at the beginning of evening the antlered buck and his doe

Standing in the apple-orchard? I saw them. I saw them suddenly go.

Tails up, with long leaps lovely and slow,
Over the stone-wall into the wood of hemlocks bowed with snow.

Now lies he here, his wild blood scalding the snow.

How strange a thing is death, bringing to his knees, bringing to his antlers

The buck in the snow.

How strange a thing,—a mile away by now, it may be,

Under the heavy hemlocks that as the moments pass

Shift their loads a little, letting fall a feather of snow—

Life, looking out attentive from the eyes of the doe.

—From The Buck in the Snow and Other Poems
—Harper Brothers, New York, 1928.

True Freedom

THE quest of the "life abundant" has been the focal point of youth crusades ever since a clear-sighted young carpenter first coined that pithy phrase. We always can trust youth to be idealistic; to be dissatisfied with mere experimentation until it can reach the best that life has to offer. In pursuit of freedom our generation is taking with a new frankness and hope many hitherto unaccustomed paths. Youth will have its fling and its share of the 20th century equivalent of purple and fine linen; nevertheless he is a blind prophet of doom who does not see the growing group of college students today (the tabloids notwithstanding) which is deliberately taking its fling in the pursuit of the only kind of freedom that is true and lasting. These students are discovering that only by observing certain conditions inherent in ourselves and in the universe about us will the pursuit of freedom lead us out into that larger, fuller, more expansive, satisfying and abundant life.

Book Notes

BACK-TRAILERS FROM THE MIDDLE BORDER. By Hamlin Garland. Mac-Millan. New York. 379 pps. $2.50.

"The Lure of the East," the title of the first chapter in this chronicle of human emotions, explains the whole book. I regret that I could find no better name for it than "chronicles of human emotions." The author's home is in Chicago. He is in the depths of despair. His health is failing, he cannot work.

All he needs is the east, the companionship of other authors, other friends, and he will surely be happy. But he cannot persuade his wife to leave her home. HER friends are there, her daughter's connections, too. He succeeds. The journey on the back-trail is accomplished. The move for happiness has begun. After a short time in New York, he feels the need of clear air again. He purchased a camp in the Catskills. Now his joy is complete.

Now perhaps it can be seen why I call this a "chronicle of human emotions." Throughout his story runs the love for family, and for his work. Soon a new desire takes hold upon him. If he could only take his family to England! That would complete the back-trail. It is done.

For five lovely, exotic months, they live in London, revelling in the associations with famous authors, painters and statesmen. Wonderful visits with Kipling, Barrie, Shaw, Conan Doyle, and John Sargent. In all their travels his daughters were searching for careers. Constance wishes to draw, Mary Isabel to go on the stage. Her ambition flourishes after a meeting with Sargent. One of the delightful points of this book is the sketches that adorn the pages. These are by Constance.

This trip has done its work. Garland never thought he would realize such supreme happiness. He has gotten a good start on his new book, "Back-Trailers," he has regained his health, and his daughters are finding themselves. Both are finally married to fine young men and the Garlands are left to their meditations.

Garland's wonderfully fine writing makes this book a joy to read. He has a way of picking just the right words to fit the scenes. I can only say, "Read it," and may he live to write another.

PROFITABLE LEISURE

At Columbia University, which offers a course on how to make leisure profitable in terms of culture, the members of the men's faculty club have passed a year and a half out of the last eight years, playing bridge. Some mischievous person found a book containing the scores, which revealed that at least 25,000 rubbers, at a rate of thirty-five minutes each, had been played in the preceding eight years—making a total of 500 days.—"Daily Trojan."

It is a common saying that a friend is kept by three things:—By honoring him in his presence, by praising him in his absence, and by aiding him in his need.—Anon.

Erratic Badgers to Face Powerful Gophers Jan. 5th

their passing and handling of the ball was not of the best.

Against Carleton and Lombard, the work of the Badgers was again uncommendable. The general floor work of the men was at times poor, and the offensive and defensive work was below that usually displayed by a Meanwell five at this stage of the season. With the Big Ten season opening, the calibre of competition the Badgers must meet will be far superior to that already faced and they will have to advance rapidly.

Newcomers Star

Thus far during their encounters, the work of two newcomers upon the Cardinal squad has stood out, namely that of Matthusen and Chmielewski. Matthusen, the smallest man upon the squad, but stocky and full of fight, has turned in some excellent play at the forward position, while Chmielewski bids fair to become one of the outstanding running guards in the conference.

The veterans of the team, and the "Percherons" of the group, have failed to live up to advance expectations. Foster has displayed his usual accurate eye at the basket, but his handling of the ball has been ragged. Miller and Tenhopen are showing flashes of excellent play, but are not steady. Kowalczyk has started out rather slowly but seems to be coming up fast.

Doyle Below Form

Johnny Doyle, one of the best guards in the middle west last season, has yet to find himself, and has been giving way in play to Chmielewski, while Ray Ellerman, a converted forward now playing at guard, is coming along nicely.

Facing the invaders at Minneapolis, will be a Gopher squad composed of such stars as Otterness and Hovde, the former a forward and the latter a guard. Hovde, the brilliant quarterback, is rated as a great defensive player. At the center position, the veteran Williams has given way to a newcomer, Nelson.

Several Sophomores

In addition to these men, those who see service upon the MacMillan five at various times are Engebretson, Olson, Schoening, Norgaard, Bondy, and Loose. Most of these are sophomores, and so fast are they developing into the new system of play that several of the veterans have been benched in their favor.

After the Minnesota game, the Badgers will return to Madison and allow local fans and students to see them in action in their first home game against a fast Michigan five, which, after a slow start, bids fair to rival the Wolverine cage squad of last season.

Pa: "Was Jack intoxicated when he came home last night?"

Daughter: "I didn't notice anything—except that he asked for a mirror to see who he was!"

University Picks Lacey for Animal Husbandry Staff

James Lacey, for nine years county agent of Green Lake county, has been appointed to the staff of the animal husbandry department of the university. He will devote his entire service to instructional and demonstration work in meat production, assisting sheep, swine, and beef cattle breeders. Promotion of economical meat production is a branch of work which university specialists feel should be developed in the state. At present some state and local organizations are working with this goal in view, and Lacey in his new position will cooperate with these organizations.

Commenting upon the selection of Lacey, G. C. Humphrey, chief of the animal husbandry division, said:

"His success in organizing and staging county and state-wide campaigns for the improvement of livestock has attracted favorable attention throughout the state. He has shown splendid leadership and unusual executive ability in dealing with livestock problems. This experience fits him particularly well for his new duties."

"Modern Japanese Youth" Is Subject of Bishop Binsted

The youth of modern Japan will be discussed by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Norman S. Binsted, of Tokio, Japan, at the Grace Episcopal church tonight at 8 p. m., the Rev. William J. Lumpkin, pastor of the church, announced Thursday.

Bishop Binsted, who has just completed a tour of the United States and a study of its colleges and universities, has spent a number of years at work with the Oriental students both in colleges and in connection with his church work.

An invitation has been extended to university and particularly Oriental students here to attend the address.

Wrestling Offers Physical, Mental Growth--Hitchcock

Wrestling may be taken for physical education requirement from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. daily, which gives the lightweight as well as the heavyweight a chance to build himself physically.

Eight different weights make up a complete team, for inter-collegiate competition. They are as follows: 115, 125, 135, 145, 155, 165, 175 pound and heavyweight classes. The latter is unlimited.

Should the freshman be further interested so that he should like to get into the freshman tournament at the end of the year, he is given a chance to earn his class numerals and sweater. He is also given a chance to enter the all-University tournament in which event both gold and silver medals are given to winners for first and second place and first place wins numerals and sweater.

Prof. R. S. Stebbins Exhibits His European Paintings

A hanging of 38 paintings by Prof. R. S. Stebbins, of the applied arts department, are on exhibit at the Union. All 38 pictures were done while Professor Stebbins toured Europe last summer. Professor Stebbins will be present in the exhibition rooms on Mondays, and Fridays during the month from 4 to 5 p. m.

Catlin Is Silent; Will Queen Hold Secret a Month?

Can a woman keep a secret? Can she if she knows a month in advance that she is to lead Wisconsin's prom? The queen has been selected, but not asked by King Catlin. He will pop the question, however, by 10:30 this coming Sunday evening.

The delay in popping was deemed advisable in a special meeting of prom assistants when it was considered what a tremendous strain it would be on a member of the fair sex to carry such a secret home with her during the Christmas holidays.

Imagine the difficulty she will encounter in keeping the news from her friends—in holding out on her sorority sisters, for instance. Well might she choose "My Suppressed Desire" for her anthem.

Campus comment decries the fact that the queen will not have a chance to be featured in the publicity for prom, but, consider what newspaper throughout the country would not wish to run a picture of the woman who had kept Wisconsin's biggest secret of the year, and for a whole month, too.

Enjoy the remaining hours of the evening at Madison's only cabaret. Delightful surroundings — the best of Chinese and American dishes, and wonderful music will complete a most enjoyable evening's entertainment.

LeNoir Blott x'29 Married Christmas to Dr. C. Franceen

At seven o'clock on the evening of Christmas day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blott occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss LeNoir, to Dr. Clifford C. Franceen, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Franceen of Fredrick, Wis.

The house was beautifully decorated, appropriate to the season, in cut flowers, candles, poinsettias and a gorgeous Christmas tree, before which the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Harris, pastor of St. Mathias Episcopal church, Waukesha.

The bride was charming in a Russian costume of white satin and lace and a bridal veil of tulle and lace.

The bridal bouquet was of white roses, baby's breath, and ferns. She was attended by her sister, Miss Camille Blott, as maid of honor, who wore a gown of gold lace, and carried an arm bouquet of red roses. Arnold Franseen, brother of the groom, acted as best man. Preceding the ceremony, Monona Nickles '29 sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority. The groom is a graduate of Wisconsin and received his Master's degree here. He was an instructor in the School of Medicine last year. He is a member of Alpha Kappa Lambda, and Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, and Iron Cross honorary scholastic fraternities. At present he is a student at Harvard.

University students who were present at the wedding were Charline

Zinn '30, Harold Zinn '32, Dorothy Glover '29, Virginia Shaver '31, Silvia Orth '27, and William Powell '31.

Electric Wiring Caused Delta Pi Epsilon Blaze

A fire that caused considerable damage to the Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity house on December 23 was caused, according to the firemen who extinguished the blaze, by defective electric light wiring. The fire started on the second floor and then spread to the upper story, damaging the walls and floors of the building before it was checked.

Katz and Kittens Frolic at Union

Dance Lovers Hear Celebrated
Jazz Artist This Week-End

Al Katz and his Kittens, a dance orchestra internationally known through their engagements in Europe, will play for the regular Union dances in Great Hall tonight and Saturday night.

Katz and his Victor recording orchestra completely captivated Europe during his tour there two years ago. While Katz was fulfilling an engagement at the 400 Club in Paris he was selected to play at the Exposition des Beaux Arts, as the greatest representatives of American jazz music.

Katz and his Kittens also played before such noted audiences as the president of France and his cabinet, the King and Queen of Spain, members of the Royal academy and various other noted visitors to the great French exposition.

After returning to this country Katz and his Kittens became one of the outstanding novelty orchestras of Chicago, playing at the Chicago Beach hotel and fulfilling a contract for a solid year at the Rainbo Gardens, where they broadcast over station WQJ. Tours throughout the country at college and society functions, conventions and theaters have met with sensational success.

This is the fourth of the big-time dance bands that are being brought to the Union for university dance lovers. The price will remain at $1.50, it has been announced.

Research Here to Seek Pedigree for Sauerkraut

Milwaukee, long the seat of the great American sauerkraut industry, will be forced to move down a notch presently and harken unto the plans of the University of Wisconsin college of Agriculture. The home economics department has evolved the idea of creating a new study—scientific research under a fund established by the National Kraut Packers association, to determine the vitamin contents of the pickled vegetable. Should the new experiments prove successful the manufacturers of the product will be able to vend it as a pedigreed item.

The contract of Zez Confrey who was to play at the Union Dec. 14 and 15 was cancelled because of the early dismissal of the university.

Terry Denies Use of College Humor Bulletins at WHA

A statement in the College Humor news bulletin saying that the University of Wisconsin is one of the schools who use the magazine's news-flashes for their radio program is unfounded, according to Prof. E. M. Terry of the physics department.

Professor Terry said that no news sent to them by College Humor was used in the programs that are broadcast over WHA every Monday and Wednesday evening at 730 and 830 p. m. Most of the news is obtained from Daily Cardinal editorials, some of which have been read in full, and the rest from the university press bureau. L. A. Mallory of the department of speech is in charge of the arrangements for these programs.

An announcement of the change of the time of the agricultural programs to the noon hour of Monday and Wednesday was made by Professor Terry. The other programs will continue according to their present schedule.

Ankle Socks Are Officially 'In' at University of Hawaii

Honolulu, H. I.—Students of the University of Hawaii, Honolulu, Hawaii, recently decided by ballot that women could appear on campus and in classes wearing ankle socks. The question involved much pondering on the part of the student body, and on the day the decision was rendered groups were seen clustered about the campus, jotting down their votes and reasons.

Frank Foresees 'Dream College'

President Tells of Hopes for Future Educational System

(Note: The following article, which outlines Pres. Glenn Frank's hopes for future growth and advancement at the University of Wisconsin, was printed in the last issue of the Daily Cardinal immediately preceding the Christmas recess. It is being reprinted at this time for the benefit of those who were unable to read it upon its first appearance.)

By W. P. S.

"If I were building a new college," was the text on which President Glenn Frank outlined the future University of Wisconsin curriculum in an exclusive interview with The Daily Cardinal.

A radical overhauling of the present system, orientation courses, the goal of a university education, the formula for a new curriculum, and a dream for Wisconsin were some of the subjects about which President Frank sketched his ideas.

Due for Overhauling

"I am perfectly free when I say that I am very much dissatisfied with both the curriculum and the net educational result of the first two years. My criticism is not directed solely to Wisconsin but is a general commentary on American colleges. We are due for a radical overhauling of some section of our four-year curriculum, but I am not 100 per cent sure whether it will come in the first two years, or whether it will occupy a portion of the course running through the entire four.

"Are orientation courses a suggestion of worth?

"The average orientation course is not worth a great deal. Most of them have been superficial, and have gained no respect from the scholarly world in general.

Must Select Important Courses

"The difficulty seems to be that there is now so much knowledge that if you judge four years sufficient to pick it up, you will always be disillusioned. We must select the important things for these orientation courses, and we are never able to reach an agreement as to what are the most essential things.

"There seems to be one important thing in the liberal education: to succeed, in the four years, in creating in the student a real interest in ideas and a real interest in reading—sufficiently real so that he will read something besides the latest novel and The Saturday Evening Post. The student needs to have practice in facing, unravelling, and understanding difficult relations and problems, and of pulling in from diverse sources the information he needs for this process. For developing this capacity, the subject-by-subject approach is inadequate.

"What will be the influence of the Experimental colleges on Wisconsin?

Experimental College Key

"No one in the Experimental college staff feels 100 per cent sure that they have the right materials in their curriculum. But personally, I am every day more convinced that the underlying formula of the college is the key to liberal education. It approaches the big situation first. That is the mental process that is used by adults. College and life should parallel one another in their thought approaches, and when the graduate is pitched into a professional career, he must transfer the college method of approach to use in life.

"My own guess, if I were building a new college, is that my first experiment would be to set up in my curriculum the first two years in the formula of attacking episodes in civilization. I should include Greek civilization, whose material is intrinsically important. Mediaeval society, where the close alliance of church and state development of the guild system are significant, the Industrial revolution which broke the closely organized mediaeval society, and then a topical consideration of the Rise of American Civilization."

Spend Half Time on Project

"My students would spend between 50 and 60 per cent of their time on this project, and devote the remainder to languages and elementary science in the more conventional subject-by-subject manner. Of course, they would get much of the history and development of the sciences from the other course."

"Do you consider, in this sense, that you are building a 'new college at Wisconsin'?"

"Yes. My own dream for Wisconsin —and of course we must question all dreams—is that in the future the entire freshman and sophomore population will be enrolled in a series of small resident colleges of 100 each with a small staff for each one to carry out the general teaching procedure.

Would Extend Dorm System

"This will necessitate a rapid extension of the dormitory system, if ways and means can be found. I believe that they can be found without going to the state for the money for their construction. We can erect dormitories on a self-supporting basis. This will enable us to get all the good that exists in the English residence and instructive system. It will also diminish our need for classroom space by taking many groups into dormitories."

"But what will this do to fraternities?"

Fraternities Not Threatened

"It might advance the point where men moved into fraternities. The University, certainly, will never make any step which would precipitate an impossible financial situation for the fraternities, or the students or alumni who have invested large sums of money in good faith."

And thereupon, Miss Julia Wilkinson, the president's executive secretary, came in with the note that read "Time's up."

"But tell them," President Frank added as we went out together, "that there is comfort in the length of time it takes to accomplish these things, and none of the present student generation will be greatly bothered by it."

Skies with Commerce

THE air map of America is now in the making—on the ground.

Ten years ago, there were 218 miles of air mail routes with two station stops; to-day, a network of sky roads bridges the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Can you imagine this growth without electricity—without illuminated airports—without trunk lines studded with electric beacons?

Men of vision are building for increasing traffic of the air. Soon, the skies will be filled with commerce.

Just as electricity is helping to conquer the air, the land, and the sea to-day, so to-morrow it will lead to greater accomplishments in aviation and in every human activity.

A majority of the beacon lights used in airport and airway illumination have been designed and manufactured by the General Electric Company, whose specialists have the benefit of a generation's experience in the solution of lighting problems.

$125 in Awards Given by Illinois Central System

Cash prizes totaling $125 will be open to competition by undergraduate students of the University of Wisconsin in an essay contest which has just been announced by L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central system. This contest, which calls for essays of between 600 and 1,000 words on "The Future of the Railroads," will close Feb. 28.

A prize of $25 is offered for the essay from the university. The winner of this prize will in addition be eligible for a system-wide award of $100, the contestants for which will be the winners from the various colleges and universities on the Illinois Central system in which similar local contests are now in progress.

The essays are to be submitted by mail to L. A. Downs, president, Illinois Central System, Chicago, Ill. They are to be typewritten, double-spaced, on white paper of letterhead size (8½ by 11 inches), and the name and address of the author and the name of the college or university represented are to be shown on the upper left-hand corner of the first page. The essays are to be submitted flat or folded—not rolled.

A Common Supper Table For The Wisconsin Household

THE great moments of life come EVERY DAY to the household that assembles at a common table for the evening meal. And it was ever thus. ¶ For King Haakon and King Arthur . . . Cedric of Saxon and the Scottish Chiefs . . . the Dukes of Milan and the Houses of France . . . peasants and royalists—the best of living and day's crowning glory came when the supper table was ready, crowded with huge roasts, rich pastries, and ale—a burden of good food and good cheer for every member of the house. ¶ Around the table, from master to jester, men-at-arms to lovely ladies or kitchen maids, the magic spark of fellowship started up the flame of evening joy, brightening wits, loosening tongues, and increasing the zest for banquet fare. ¶ Early Wisconsinites, with difficulty, preserved the amiable tradition over the barbecue fire. Even pioneer hardships withered at the cry "Come one, come all to barbecue," while red quarters of beef and buffalo were lowered over glowing pits, to slowly cook to sweet delicious tenderness.

THE Union intends that none of the best flavors of good old days or places or foods shall be lost. ¶ Wisconsinites can now enjoy, without difficulty, the picturesque feast and the rousing cheer of the "common supper table days." The place is Tripp Commons. Here, where the heraldry of olden times lurks in the shadows of the ceiling beams, and the flame of the great Tudor candelabra sheds a congenial light, are informal tables for twos, fours, eights, or more—a place for every member of the Wisconsin Union household to find the eternal blessing of a good evening meal with friends.

THRICE welcome, men and women of the Wisconsin faculty and student body, to the common supper table in Tripp Commons! Tonight and every night!

The Tea Room, as before, will offer its more finely appointed dinner service and its quiet reserve for those who prefer it.

TRIPP COMMONS IN THE UNION

And Tripp Commons at noon, as usual, will be the busy mid-day crossroads where men halt for lunch and discuss the masculine affairs of the household.
