LECTURES BEFORE PHARMICS

DOCTOR HARPER TALKS ON EMERGENCIES.

TWENTY-ONE FRESHMEN IN ATHENA.

New Members in Other Societies—
Good Debates.

The audience at the Pharmaceutical society last evening was the largest ever seen at any meeting of this society. It was composed of many of Madison's prominent doctors and pharmacists. The ladies of the society turned out in full force and together with the several lady members of the Madison Zither club the attendance was very well balanced as regards the two sexes.

Among distinguished visitors present were Col. A. H. Hollister, president of the American Pharmaceutical association, and one of our most prominent pharmacists, Dr. Hilborn, doctor of refraction, Miss Alice Goetsch, M. D., and Dr. Jackson.

Messrs. Schempf and Iverson opened the program with a piano and violin duet. This was followed by a recitation by A. S. Woolston and then came the address of the evening. Dr. C. H. Harper gave an excellent address on emergencies. He explained the methods pharmacists should use in case of the absence of a doctor. Under the head of hemorrhages, which he divided into three classes; arterial, venous, and capillary, he explained very thoroughly the treatment required, the main fact being to stop the flow of blood as soon as possible, for which different ways were noted. In the arteries the flow should be stopped by applying a bandage tightly above the flow or cut, by simply placing something in the wound so as to form coagulation, and by application of cold. In case of the severing of many arteries the best mode is to use a pair of forceps, firmly seizing the largest, by forcing the forceps into the wound, then pulling it out and leaving the artery closed by clinching; next treating the smaller ones by seizing, pulling them out and giving them a few twists which will stop the flow of the veins. Before using the instruments they should be washed in an antiseptic solution. In case of a limb being severed by pressure the walls of the arteries are bent inward which causes coagulation, and in this case no treatment is necessary. In the case of veins the pressure is applied below the cut. In case the arm is severed at the shoulder the application of pressure is difficult, so it must be stopped by other means.

Dr. Harper spoke also of the treatment of epileptic and fainting fits, also of hysterics and how to diagnose them. He gave a very concise account of scalds and burns, how to cleanse them, their treatment, and what things drug stores should have prepared for emergencies of such a kind. He made an especial point that the applications of these preparations, one of which is a boiled solution of lime water and linseed oil, should be used in large quantities, and that a list of antidotes for the various poisons be placed in a prominent place in the store. He touched also upon alcoholism, how to diagnose such cases and bring them to consciousness. The doctor closed his address with a few remarks on the treatment of fractures.

The next number on the program was a recitation by W. H. Finney, which was well rendered.

The second half of the program was opened with a march, "Ein Hoch dem Hause Trott" by The Madison Zither club. The club was given a hearty encore to which they responded with the waltz "Fruhling's Spenden."

The part of the program which was to have followed this musical number was postponed and in its place Dr. Jackson gave a short talk intended to partially supplement the address of Dr. Harper. The program closed with a zither solo by Mr. A. E. Schaub.

Athena had an excellent meeting last night. There was a good attendance and good debates. The members of Athena congratulated themselves on the new members that they have secured this year. The majority of the freshmen have done society work before entering the university and they have a decided advantage over those who have had no previous training. There have been over twenty members taken in this year—twenty-one freshmen—and the society is as flourishing as it has ever been.

The first debate: Resolved that the United States was justified in going to war with England in 1812, was led by Mr. Cochems on the affirmative and Ap. Roberts on the negative. The question was for the affirmative. The second debate: Resolved that capital punishment was justifiable, led by Mr. Gilbertson on the affirmative and Gillen on the negative, was decided for the negative.

The report of Mr. Tormey, the critic, was valuable in that he brought out many points of society work which are not usually made prominent but are important to seniors as well as freshmen.

The Engineers' association had a very interesting meeting last night. C. W. Hart gave an excellent discussion on gas engines, which was illustrated with a number of drawings. W. G. Kirchoffer, '94, had an article on swing-bridges, which was appreciated by all.

After the recess the reviews of engineering periodicals were given and then the proposition, Resolved, that the contract convict labor system should be abolished, was debated on the affirmative by A. H. Ford and W. R. Powrie, and on the negative by J. F. Richards and J. A. Jeffery. The jury gave its decision two to one in favor of the negative. A motion was passed instructing the program committee to fix the time to be allowed each debate and to give more time than the five minutes that has been allowed each speaker heretofore.

There was a very good attendance at Philomathia's hall last night. The first debate was on the question: Resolved that the United States merchant marine should be subsidized. Schmidt, '96, ably led the affirmative and was well supported by his assistants. Burgess, '96, championed the negative. The debate was very lively throughout.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

AN INTERVIEW WITH PROFESSOR HENRY.

SAYS THE OUTLOOK IS PROMISING.

Short Course Begins January Second
—When 5,000 Pounds of Milk Will Be Used Daily.

Prof. W. A. Henry, head of the agricultural college was seen by a Cardinal reporter yesterday afternoon and spoke enthusiastically of the outlook for his department. He said: "The work done by our department is recognized not only all over this country but even in journals abroad. We have sent from our dairy school teachers to seven other states and to Canada. Our students are scattered all over the United States. We have five now in California. William K. Vanderbilt's butter maker (a Norwegian) holds a graduate certificate from here. Ten of our former short course students acted as live stock judges at thirteen county fairs last fall and short course students from this institution took the first prize for dairy butter at the Wisconsin state fair and the Walworth county fair. The applicants for admission are always more than we can well accommodate and if the people of the state knew what we could do for them we would be overwhelmed with applications. We have already registered one hundred for the dairy course and over forty for the short course. Students in both these courses will begin work January 2, 1895, and continue for twelve weeks. At present we have three graduates studying with us.

"Our creamery is receiving three thousand pounds of milk daily from surrounding farmers, the butter from which is sold here in Madison. When the dairy school opens we shall need five thousand pounds daily.

"The dairy school will be conducted this winter by Prof. E. H. Farrington, formerly of the University of Illinois, and now associate professor of dairy husbandry here. We anticipate a most successful season."

The experimental station of the agricultural college is revising its mailing list. Any resident of the state wishing to receive returns and bulletins should send in their names and addresses. Its eleventh annual report will go to press next week.

PRESS CLUB.

The bi-weekly meeting of the University Press club will be held in North hall on Monday evening. The program of the evening will consist of several papers and discussion by the members of the club.

Oscar Nelson, '96, is at home in Boscoel this week.

The University Bible class of the Presbyterian church will be entertained this evening at the residence of J. R. Berryman.

YALE WINS.

Yale-Harvard football game score was 12 to 4 in favor of Yale. Yale made two touchdowns in first half and Harvard one. No score second half. Teams evenly matched but Harvard's mistakes in first half lose game.

Six or eight men hurt on both sides. Nearly all the subs. put in. One minute before end of second half Harvard kicked goal from field, but not allowed on account of offside play. Game rough and very desperate.

HARE AND HOUND RUN.

The second cross country run was held yesterday, with fifteen runners out for the sport. Very short notice had been given, consequently so few participated; but those who went were enthusiastic over the invigorating sport. Messrs. Zimmerman, '96, and Goddard, '98, were the hares, and were given two minutes' start. The course was down Langdon street to Lake, thence cross town to Camp Randall, through the university grounds, and back to the gymnasium, where the runners were rubbed down. Mr. N. S. Hopkins was leader of the hounds, and though the trail was lost several times, he succeeded in bringing all his men in twenty minutes—just two minutes behind the hares. The order of finish of the first eight hounds was as follows: 1st, Hopkins '95; 2d, Benson '97, 3d Pope '98; 4th, Elsner '96; Katzenstein '96; 5th, Rowell '97; 6th, Patchin '97, Beffel '95.

The next hare and hound chase will be held next Friday at 3 p. m., if the weather is favorable. It is expected that a large crowd will take part in the sport.

ACADEMY ENTERTAINMENT.

The literary society at the academy furnished its friends a pleasant entertainment last evening. The society is made up of boys, but last evening the girls took an active part. The room was decorated and made attractive. The program was sufficiently long and well selected. The music was furnished by the Mandolin club and by vocal solos by members. The literary part consisted in recitals, reading of character sketches, etc. There was a large crowd present, seats were filled and standing room was taken. The program lasted till ten o'clock, and everybody expressed themselves well entertained.

Fred E. Palmer, '95, and Isaac P. Witter, '96, are on the sick list.

Walter Alexander and John Karel left for Milwaukee last evening.

Mr. J. J. Schindler, who graduated with the class of '89 and has since been doing newspaper work, will go to Washington, D. C., as soon as congress convenes, and act as correspondent for the Milwaukee Journal. He is one of the editorial writers on that paper and has been for some time past.

Hart's Formation of the Union at the Co-op.

See those football stick pins at Sidney Rundell's.

At the request of a large number of students I will open a new dancing academy with a sociable in Odd Fellows' hall Saturday evening, December 8, 1894.

"FAGGING" IN COLLEGES.

There are one or two phases of American college life little known to the general public, says the Philadelphia Ledger. The custom of "fagging" which has become historical through "Tom Brown" is one of these. Few people have an idea to what extent it is practiced in this country today.

At a large hotel on the Massachusetts coast this summer four Harvard men were stopping. One of them was observed to obey the other three with such alacrity that the guests believed him to be a valet until they were informed that he was "only a freshman." While sitting on the piazza the freshman strolled by in company with some friends and with a cigarette in his mouth. At a significant nod from the junior, who was talking to a number of girls, he abruptly ceased smoking and threw it away. When fishing or boating if there was any work to do it fell to the freshman's lot. On one occasion he addressed a guest of the hotel, a jovial sort of a fellow, by his last name. He was told to go back and call him "Mr." and when he hesitated was asked if he "wanted to go to the river," which he evidently did not, for he straightway obeyed.

It is difficult for an outsider to understand how the customs, even if practiced on the campus, should remain in force out of college. But such is the case. Hardly any student would admit that this could be called "fagging," because it is not done through fear, as in English schools. The cause of this practice at Harvard and Yale is simply this: It is the one ambition of every student to get into a society, and if he fags for a junior or senior who is already a member his chances are good for being elected. When a freshman enters college he has very little standing, and is glad to avail himself of the friendship of an upper classman, so that where there are gathered together a company of seniors and a freshman the latter would not think of refusing to run an errand.

LECTURE BEFORE PHARMICS.

out. The jury decided in favor of the affirmative. After the recess Eddy, '98, read a paper on his experiences in the west which was well received. The question Resolved, that capital punishment should be abolished, was then debated. The debate showed much preparation, especially on the part of the freshmen. The debate was won by the affirmative. Urness, '95, gave the critic's report.

Before adjournment S. W. Smith, '98, was unanimously admitted as a member.

The roll call at Laurea last evening was responded to by athletic news after which the program was opened by instrumental music by Miss Rosenstengel. Miss Hood gave the important current news with a few comments on each item. The debate for the evening was well discussed by Miss Craig and G. Spence on the affirmative and Misses Copp and M. Spence on the negative. Resolved: that chivalry did more good than evil in the age of chivalry. The question was decided in favor of the negative. A recitation by Miss Comstock was followed by the critic's and the meeting closed. On account of the Thanksgiving vacation it was decided that Laurea will not meet again until two weeks from Friday.

Hesperia held an ideal debating society meeting last night. Every member who was on for debate was present, had prepared himself, and argued with zest and vim. The first debate: Resolved, that reciprocity was an acknowledgement of free trade principles, was decided—2 to 1—in favor of the negative. The second debate: Resolved, that church property should be taxed, was also won by the negative. Mr. Ochsner, '91, of Chicago, visited the society and spoke of the help society work had given him even in his profession—that of a physician. H. C. Miller, '98, and Mr. Stecker were elected to membership in the society.

The meeting of the '98 Engineers' Review club yesterday afternoon was well attended. Condensed reports from the following magazines were read:

Scientific American—H. R. Crandall.
Electrical World—P. S. Smith.
Railway Gazette—Ira Cole.
Scientific American Supplement—Geo. W. Pope.

Western Electrician—Hal. Murphy.
American Machinist—W. W. Goldschmidt.

Electrical Industries—L. C. Street.
Railway Review—Fred Newman.
Electrical Review—Fred Barrows.
The reports were well received and showed much preparation.

The new dancing academy is to be strictly for students and their friends. Twelve lessons for gentlemen, including sociable $5.00, for ladies $3.00.
