SENATE TO VOTE EARLY TODAY ON PROM RESOLUTION

Measure Expected to Pass;
Already Favored in Lower House Vote

The state senate this morning will take up the consideration of the resolution allowing the use of the capitol for Prom, a member of that body predicted last night. It was expected that the measure would be considered yesterday but it was delayed because of other business.

The lower house of the legislature declared it had no objection to the state house being used for the function when last Friday by a viva voce vote with no roll call it unanimously adopted the resolution which is now pending in the senate.

Dance Only in Rotunda

The Prom authorities this year have been able to bring two orchestras for the affair as announced yesterday by not having to spend money for amplifiers and other apparatus to broadcast the music throughout the building. If Prom is held at the state house there will be dancing only in the rotunda.

John Cavanaugh '26, chairman of boxes, has announced that no definite arrangement for boxes will be made until tickets are purchased. These may be obtained at Morgan's and the University pharmacy for individuals and for groups through John Riley '26, at 530 North Pinkney street.

Supper Reservations

Supper arrangements may be made at any time now, either at the Capitol cafe or at the Park hotel. Not everyone expected to attend Prom can be accommodated for supper and in order to be assured of supper places orders should come in early, the manager of the Capitol cafe advised.

MEMBERS OF MUSIC

FACULTY BROADCAST

Two members of the School of Music's faculty broadcast the WHA concert at 7:45 o'clock Monday evening. They were Mrs. Madelon William Jackson, pianist, and Miss Agot Borge, soprano.

Mrs. Jackson's program included "Country Dance" by Beethoven, "Juba" by Dett, "Shadow Dance" by Macdowell, and "Etude Fantastique" by Goddard.

Miss Borge's songs were "Spirit Flower" by Campbell-Tipton, "Hark, Hark, the Lark" by Schubert, "Life" by Curren, and "Piper of Love" by Carow.

SUMMER SESSION

ATTRACTED 4,772

Wisconsin Ranked Fourth
Among Large Universities of Country

The Wisconsin Summer Session again ranked fourth in size among the summer schools of the country. The enrollment here was 4,772. Columbia university, with 12,916 students; California, with 6,983, and Chicago, with 6,130, were the only universities exceeding the enrollment at Wisconsin. In two of these schools the summer term is a full quarter.

Other university summer-sessions of large size enrolled last year were Minnesota, 3,896 students; Iowa, 3,381; Michigan, 3,147; Harvard, 2,422, and Cornell, 2,076. Wisconsin has ranked fourth for some years and was among the few whose enrollment increased last year.

Academic subjects interested more than three-fourths of the students enrolled at this university last summer. The registration in various colleges was 4,033 in Letters and Science; 249 in Engineering; 84 in Law; 362 in Agriculture, and 44 in Library training.

The enrollment included 2,833 women and 1,936 men.

The number of undergraduate students enrolled was 3,016, and there were also 329 preparatory or unclassified students.

Color, Light, Forms, Combined Make Clavilux Enthralling Amazing

By CHATTY

Light fading into color color taking form forms moving .. up, down, forwards, backwards .. revolving, changing shape, changing color all with a rhythm moving color, form and rhythm in perfect composition, blending .. rising to a climax, sinking into oblivion.

Then futuristic color and light evolving into the impressionistic .. weird shapes and lines the arching girders of a bridge, the hulk of a skyscraper beyond and above, the dim glow of a lamp light overhead, a tug slipping into its moorings.

The impressionistic assumes reality, and there is painted on the large white screen in front of the clavilux a seascape, with the limpid, opalescent water lying serene beneath a slowly darkening sky. The sun sets, and a glorious radiance is thrown out over sea and sky alike. The artist wishes a rock-bound coast as a border for his picture, and the crags appear on either side. The moon rises and with it the wind, so that the sea becomes rough and the breakers begin to roll in, so cool and refreshing do they look that one watching the living picture is tempted to rush down into those curling waves.

Such is the clavilux, amazing as it is unique, its work enthralling as it is beautiful. And any one who saw Thomas Wilfred's presentation of his invention last night at the Central high school can readily understand how the clavilux is to have as great a future as the pipe organ has had and probably a much greater one, such an addition to art will it be.

Mr. Wilfred carried his audience through the development of his machine and its powers, and from the first it was an entertaining and inspiring presentation.

All of it, like every art, required some imagination, most of it a good deal in fact, but not so much that any part of the program was incomprehensible. So many and varied were the experiences, scenes, objects, relations which were called up by the clavilux that one could read into its exhibition what his fancy willed.

A symphony in color, that is what it was.

ELIZABETH SEARS HEADS INTERSE

New Organization Starts Plans
For Matinee Dance on February 23

Elizabeth Sears '25 was elected president of Interse, the new woman's organization at a meeting held yesterday afternoon to formulate plans for the organization. She with Miss A. F. Miller, assistant dean of women, will supervise the club. Twenty-nine presidents of sororities and rooming houses were present at the meeting.

Interse for its first social function is giving a matinee party on February 23. It is to be held in Lathrop parlors from 4 to 6 o'clock, and is a couple affair given for all sorority and non-sorority women. The tickets are to sell for $1.25 and the number is to be limited to 200.

The chaperons will be Mrs. B. W. Davis of the Alpha Gamma Delta house, and Mrs. Montgomery of the Pi Phi house. Janet Walls '25 is the chairman of the ticket committee and is in charge of the tickets at the Alpha Gamma Delta house. Other members of the committee are:

Vivian McDonald '25, 515 North Lake street; Margaret Ashton '26 Barnard hall; Bessie Gustafson '26, Gath Inn; Beulah Henry '26, Delta Delta Delta; Dorothy Straus '26, Sigma Kappa.

Interse is a permanent organization which will conduct business and social meetings throughout each year. The Washington party will be a traditional affair.

HOME EC EXAMS NOT TO BE GIVEN EARLY

There have been reports current that the home economics department will give final examinations earlier than heretofore and before any of the other departments. This is untrue, according to Miss Manning of the department, who says that final examinations in that course will be given at the last class held in each subject and all the courses will terminate coincident to those of the Letters and Science course.

AGRICULTURAL HEADS GO TO FORESTRY MEET

Dean H. L. Russell of the College of Agriculture and C. L. Harrington of the state conservation commission, will attend the fiftieth annual meeting of the American Forestry association in Chicago, January 22. It is the purpose of the association to stimulate interest in forestry in Illinois and the surrounding territory and to develop maximum cooperation in forest fire protection.

Country Magazine Gives History of Home Ec Course

The history of the course in Home Economics from its birth 21 years ago when two instructors started giving courses in South hall through its development as a prominent department with a home of its own, is given in the January issue of the Wisconsin Country magazine.

In the issue is to be found an article about the Wisconsin farm portrait gallery which contains portraits of eight men and one woman, prominent in the development of agriculture in the state and nation through their work at the university. Among the portraits are those of William A. Henry, William F. Vilas, William H. Morrison, Harry R. Russell, William D. Hoard, John A. Craig, Ransom A. Moore, Franklin H. King, and Mrs. Ada F. Howie. The article goes on to mention the merits of these people which justify the placing of their portraits in this gallery of honor.

SPILLED OIL CAUSES ALPHA CHI RHO BLAZE

CARL FISH BUYS OLD WILLETT MAIN HOME

Prof. Carl Russell Fish, of the history department, purchased the old Willett S. Main home, 511 N. Carroll street, it was reported Tuesday. The consideration was not made known. Possession will be given July 1, 1925.

Triple Humor Improves Enlarged Octopus Issue For This Month

A. C. H.

The triple humor idea which is used in the Octopus for the first time this month is good. We will say it improves the Octopus, but not as much as it should. The Octopus is eight pages larger than usual this issue, and that does not seem due to advertising. The exchange editor was still busy this month for there are some good exchange jokes.

The cover is a disappointment. We like the idea, but the colors do not seem so good. The illustrations are very good. Don Barley's page pictures what the Lit's Mirror tells us. Kenneth Kehl, Mike Stiver, Jeff Greer, Stuart Palmer, Dick Gront, C. A. Rawson and D. Abert do some especially noteworthy work with illustrations this month. Don Trenary's article, "How to

Finance Reports of Campus Groups Due For Auditing

"Treasurers of any student organization who wish to have their books audited before making a financial report may leave them at 201 South hall," said Mr. A. W. Peterson of the university accounting department yesterday.

A financial report of the first semester from all student organizations is due on February 10 at Dean Goodnight's office, 201 South hall. Statements of profit and loss and of assets and liabilities are to be submitted.

By student organization is meant any literary society, student club, or other organization, of similar nature. This does not include fraternities and sororities.

BRITISH EXPERT TALKS ON SOILS

Sir Daniel Hall Discusses Law of Diminishing Returns in Agriculture

Development of English agriculture from medieval times through the period of enclosures to its height in productivity in 1870 because of the introduction of artificial fertilizers and machinery was discussed by Sir Daniel Hall yesterday afternoon in Agricultural hall to a large group interested in agriculture.

Sir Hall, soil scientist of the British ministry, is touring the United States through the invitation of the late Henry C. Wallace, deceased secretary of agriculture.

Sir Hall explained how his country was able to produce from 20 to 30 bushels of wheat to the acre in the period ending in 1870, but after that time, although methods were steadily improving, English production did not rise correspondingly.

"Why didn't we go on in production?" asked Sir Hall. "Because according to the law of diminishing returns, added expenditures and labor do not mean increased production. Competition of the prairie soils of your country, China and Australia began to cause wheat to drop in 1875 from $2 a bushel to 50 cents a bushel."

"Fertilizing the intellect as well as fertilizing the land brings increased production. Brains are the only addition that can be made to land bringing improved results without increased cost. This, together with the use of machinery, constitutes the only way of cheapening production."

PROM REVUE CANCELS POPULARITY CONTEST

Due to adverse criticism the editors of the Prom Revue have withdrawn their plans for a beauty-popularity contest which were announced yesterday. That the results of the contest would either be taken too seriously or not taken seriously at all; that the winners would find he attention directed to them undesirable; and that such contests were in general undesirable in a large university were some of the opinions expressed about the campus which caused the editors to change their plans.

UNIVERSITY GETS STATE SANCTION TO FIX BASCOM

All Other Appropriations Requests Slashed By Public Affairs Board

The remodeling of Bascom hall is the only large building improvement that has been approved by the convening legislature. Requested appropriations for educational, charitable, and penal institutions were all slashed, according to the report of the board of public affairs. The reason for this action is that no additional taxes can be permitted, so appropriations must be cut down to be within the present income of the state.

University Gets $391,000

For construction of additional new buildings for the university, the board recommends $391,000, which is a reduction of $600,000 from the amount requested. This amount is to include any land purchase, leaving an available balance for new construction to be apportioned where necessary for new buildings. In addition to these measures, a repeal of over $500,000 in unexpended balances for the university has been recommended by the board.

The official report points out that "it will be absolutely impossible to embark on so large a building program and keep within the income of the state. It is obvious that only selected building projects and land purchases can be undertaken. After weighing all evidence presented, the board decided that certain building needs are paramount and should have priority in appropriations. The board recommended $591,000 for the university, the major portion of this to be used in building an addition to Bascom hall."

Bill Cut by Board

It is recommended that the rest of this allotment be used to provide heat for certain farm buildings in order to reduce the fire hazard and to build connecting tunnels and conduits.

The program at the university called for a much larger expenditure than that which has been approved by the board. The building program suggested by the regents far exceeded that which has been authorized. Whether separate bills will be introduced in the legislature on new university projects is not known.

BADGER EDITORS WILL MEET HERE

Convention Here February 5, 6, and 7 Will Discuss Newspaper Problems

Prof. W.G. Bleyer, director of the Course in Journalism, will speak on "A Code of Ethics for Wisconsin Editors," at the Friday afternoon session of the mid-winter meeting of the Wisconsin Press association, which will be held in Madison, February 5, 6 and 7. At this time editors from all sections of the Badger state will gather here to discuss topics which interest journalists on various types of publications, especially country weeklies and farmers' magazines.

Such topics as the securing of more national advertising, handling of news propaganda and press agent work, job printing, pending newspaper legislation, community development and newspaper makeup; are to be discussed, according to John A. Kuypers, president of the association.

Eighteen awards will be made and $250 in cash prizes will be distributed, for entries made of weekly newspaper makeups presented by editors.

For the main speaker the association is presenting the president of the National Editorial association, George W. Marble.

Six local organizations, Gyro, Kiwanis, Lions, Optimists and Rotary clubs and the Madison Chamber of Commerce will entertain at dinner for the editors and their wives.

TRACK MEN TAKE STRENUOUS RUN AS SPEED MENU

Jones Makes Attempt to Hasten Heavy Footed Dis- tance Runners

Yesterday was a bad day for any of Coach Jones' distance men who do not like plenty of hard work because the strenuous exercise was certainly handed out to them in large quantities.

Nothing is much more fatiguing than two miles of an alternate fast and slow quarter mile, but it is one of the best methods of putting speed into the otherwise heavy-footed distance runners and is part of the training that must be gone through with if Wisconsin is to have a winning track team this year. Such a menu will be on the program once a week from now on.

Practice Time Trial

With only four days between now and exams Coach Jones is working the men hard ending the stiff workouts with a time trial in the form of a frosh-varsity meet Saturday, open to all track men. After that the tracksters will hit the books for a week instead of the cinders until exams are over, except whenever an occasional moment presents itself. Then the Cardinal runners will go back to the track with a vengeance in preparation for the quadrangular meet, February 14.

An old track star of a few years back came into the annex last night to give this season's squad the once-over. The man in question was none other than the famous Arlie Mucks, one time world record holder for the discus throw. Mucks looked over the present squad of weight men with an appraising eye and gave the men a few pointers.

Mucks Looks On

That Charles McGinnis, all around star, will devote his time to other events in addition to high jump was evidenced last night when Coach Jones had him skimming over the high hurdles. With a little practice the brilliant sophomore will become a dangerous rival of any hurdler in the conference with the possible exception of Kinsey of Illinois, Olympic hero. With McGinnis working on both the high jump, his favorite event, and the high barriers, Wisconsin will be fairly well fortified in these two events.

FAMOUS CHEMIST TO LECTURE HERE

Prof. M. T. Bogert Will Speak January 27 on Perfume Making

Perfume, the art and science of its manufacture, will be the topic upon which Prof. Marston Taylor Bogert, of Columbia university will speak Tuesday, January 27, in the auditorium of the Chemistry building.

Mr. Bogert has been professor of organic chemistry at Columbia university since 1904 and has made considerable research for which he has been awarded the Nichols medal and has been elected to the National Academy of Arts and Sciences. In connection with his chemical work he has studied the perfume industry and manufacture, and after the war, while studying conditions in Europe, he devoted special attention to the perfume industry in France.

In the line of executive work, Professor Bogert has held such positions as chairman of the New York section of the National Chemical society and chairman of the division of organic chemistry. During the war he received recognition in his appointment to the National Research council, the Board on Chemical Technology, and the Intelligence Division of the General Staff.

Although Prof. Bogert has been technically interested, his lecture will be popularized and delivered in non-technical language so that those uninformed in chemistry may be able to enjoy the talk. Slides, exhibits of perfumes, material used

So It Seems

And still the selection of Wisconsin's new athletic director hangs in the balance. The athletic council, after a long meeting Monday night, met again yesterday afternoon with the athletic committee of the regents of the university and tried to arrive at a decision. They adjourned at 6:45 o'clock and had not, they said, selected a new director.

It is probable that the selection will be made today. The council and regents are guarding the news carefully, and despite rumors of one sort and another insist that they are still deliberating.

"You can't corkscrew me into a statement," said Professor Pyre to reporters who had waited for hours for the news, and that settled it. The members were pledged to secrecy.

But we've got troubles of our own. Things didn't go so good at Ann Arbor. The Michigan defeat was more or less unexpected. But perhaps they'll get the knack of making the last few minutes count for something and then we'll hear different stories.

Right now the chief worry is Minnesota. The Gophers drew the last baskets and beat the Badgers in the first game, but Northwestern won her first conference game in two years Monday night by defeating the Gophers 15-14 in a fast game and it may be that the strength of the Minnesota quintet is on the wane.

Chicago will travel down to Indiana for a game Saturday night. There is one consolation for the teams. Both are in the cellar having lost every game played so far, so either the Maroons or the Hoosiers will come up from its lowly position.

Ohio meets Northwestern Saturday night at Columbus. The Buckeyes are upset after their defeat by Michigan last week, and figure that the bad taste will be washed away a little bit, anyway, if the Purple are defeated.

Iowa, the team which started the season off with the victories over Minnesota and Purdue, and is one of the leaders of the conference, lost a basketball game to Creighton university of Omaha, 36 to 20. It's getting to be that the smaller schools show the conference teams up regularly.

PROF. PAXSON LEAVES FOR NEW YORK TODAY

Prof. Frederic L. Paxson of the history department will leave for New York tonight to attend the first meeting of the committee on management for the Dictionary of American Biography, which is to be held Friday and Saturday to elect the editor-in-chief of the Dictionary of American Biography.

Professor Paxson, who has been granted a leave of absence for half a year, will sail for Havre, France, on the "Paris" January 28 where he will join his wife and three children whom he left there last summer. Professor and Mrs. Paxson will spend some time in Paris and then travel indefinitely on the continent and in England, where they expect to take the "Doric" at Liverpool for the United States on August 28.

Lowell Frautschi Will Address Kiwanis Club

Lowell Frautschi, a sophomore in the course in humanities, will give an account of his travels through Europe on his Y. M. C. A. trip last summer, at the meeting of the Rotary club at the Loraine hotel Thursday noon. The remainder of the program will consist of short biographies of new members.

Former Mayor Adolph H. Kayser was reported to be making slight improvements at the Madison General hospital today. Mr. Kayser was admitted to the hospital on Dec. 4.

Independent Basketball League

Eleven teams have now signed for the Independent Intramural Basketball league which is scheduled to go into action early in the second semester. The department still wants more teams, however, to enter the competition. Church groups, rooming house groups, clubs, etc., are all likely organizations in the forming of teams. Any number of men may get together to form a team, as there is no restriction whatsoever in the independent league, faculty members as well as others being eligible. Entries may be made at the intramural office in the gymnasium on any noon between 12:45 and 1:20 o'clock.

Wisconsin Block League

The block league organization is being put into form in preparedness for this season's play. Announcements will be made in this column in the near future in regard to arrangements for the competition. The block league was inaugurated last year when Director George Berg divided the rooming house district into special block divisions and had teams formed from the resulting groups of men.

FROSH TRACKSTERS TO ELECT CAPTAIN

Tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock the freshmen tracksters will meet in the track annex to elect a captain of the team for the rest of the season. All first year track men are urged to attend as this is one of the most important meetings of the year for the 1925 cinderpath men.

FANS TAKE INTEREST IN MARTIN'S SKI CLASS

That greater interest is being taken in skiing is shown by the fact that 12 people turned out for George Martin's beginners' class Sunday, and 7 men for the cross country ski hike held last Wednesday.

Seven of the class in skiing were from the balmy south, where opportunities for this sport are lacking. So far the class has proved worth while.

Only two more cross country ski hikes are to be held this semester, one on Wednesday and one on Sunday. These hikes will be continued as soon as the second semester begins.

The old tuxedo won't do for Prom this year. The style has changed. The coats have shorter, broader shoulders, low set pockets, wider lapels, and no vent. The trousers are high waisted and are wide and straight hanging.

We have a wide selection of the newest styles in tuxedos. They are correct and they are reasonably priced.

NEW ATHLETIC DIRECTOR MAY BE SELECTED TODAY

POOR SHOOTING EXPLAINS THIRD BADGER DEFEAT

Michigan Player Makes Final
Winning Basket to Break
Tie Score

Again the inability of the Wisconsin cage men to shoot when they are in dire need of points brought them their third defeat of the cage season. With the score tied and the game almost finished the Badger men attempted to shoot after shot to put them in the winning lead, but they were unsuccessful. Captain Haggerty of the Michigan quintet was able to cage the winning shot which put the Wolverine men in the lead and gave them the victory.

Fair at Goals

In the first conference game of the season against Minnesota the Meanwell men were defeated by two points because of their failure to make the majority of their attempted tries at the goals. In the contest against Ohio the score stood 18-16, but the Badger cagers could not find the basket which would give them the lead. So was the case in the game on Monday night. Time and again the Badger men had chances to cage goals but on most of the occasions they failed to make good the tries.

Varney Disabled

Varney was not in the best of form and was twice taken from the game. He has not been in the best of form for the first few games and thus the whirlwind attack of the Wisconsin team has been materially slowed. Brooks was rather zealous in his guarding and had three personal fouls called on him. Merkel started the game in the place of Varney, but failed to cage any goals at the forward position. The rest of the week will be given entirely to preparing for the Minnesota quintet which will battle the Badgers here on Saturday.

Sportive Rambles in Aphasia

By Ken Cook

Having nothing to do, I dropped over to the hockey rink the other day to watch the hockey team practice, fight I should say. Oh boy, hockey is no man's game. It's for brutes. The boys chase up and down the rink so fast that it looks like somebody is laying a steel track. After an hour of this easy exercise the coach says sarcastic like, "Take a rest, you are getting weak in the knees, I can see it." There is no use to argue with a guy like that.

"While you are resting," continues the coach who wouldn't be much of a success in a day nursery with his soft, soothing voice, "you might try a few shots at the goal." This would be heavy exercise for an ordinary man. They shoot the thing they play with at a bird who stands in front of the goal dressed up like he was going to jump off the capitol and was afraid the shock would hurt him. This guy is rather clumsy and gets in the way of a good many shots. Personally, if I were him, I would bring along my own individual haystack.

What these boys play with is a nice little round thing made of soft rubber so that when it hits a guy in the head it will spring back into shape and the dents won't show.

Say, where is that bird who was so dumb he thought that the "Sex-tette from Lucia" was a hockey team?

WARM WEATHER HINDERS SKATING

Coach Iverson Promises to Conduct Women's Classes
When Ice Permits

There has been considerable dissatisfaction among the students who use the rink because of their not being able to use it early in the afternoon. The truth of the matter is that the rink is never in condition to be used at that time of the day.

In the words of Kay Iverson, the new hockey coach, "The weather ever since I've been here has been more suited to canoeing than to hockey. I promised to coach the girls' team and as soon as the weather gets so that the ice can be used at the scheduled time, I will do so."

At the present time the ice is too wet early in the afternoon to permit using it. Naturally the attention of the coach must be given to the varsity first, and as a result, Iverson cannot possibly give his time to the girls' classes until practice can be started at the regular time. As soon as the weather turns colder the varsity will begin practice at 3:30 o'clock every afternoon.

ATHLETIC MEET ADJOURNS BEFORE REACHING DECISION

Hold Conference of Council and Regent Committee to Discuss Situation

By KEN BUTLER.

Suspense in regard to the selection of the new athletic director to replace Thomas E. Jones still reigns as the athletic committee of the regents of the university is scheduled to meet at 9 o'clock this morning to decide upon a candidate to present to the regents for ratification when they convene at 10 o'clock this morning.

In conference until a late hour Monday night without coming to a decision, the full athletic council met yesterday afternoon with the athletic committee of the regents in the office of the business manager of the university in the administration building. Byron Barwig, student member of the council, was present at this meeting, having been absent Monday night on account of playing in the Michigan game at Ann Arbor.

Hold Long Meeting

The council and regent committee discussed the situation from 3 until 3:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon and adjourned for the day without having come to a decision. Several members of the regents, besides the committee, were present at the meeting. Two of these were John Callahan and Harry L. Butler, who had been instructed by the regents to work with the committee. A. J. Horlick, of Racine, was also present at the meeting.

"No decision yet," was the verdict of the members who had been in council as they came out of the conference room. It is reported that a list of five possible candidates was presented at the meeting, but that about two were considered seriously.

Consider Organization

"At every meeting there are several who have not been explained the situation," Pyre said. "There are many things to be considered besides mere personality, such as organization. I cannot say when a man may be selected."

It was planned to present the selection before the regents today and if the committee arrives at a decision this morning before 10 o'clock the name will undoubtedly be presented to the regents for ratification.

The present winter season marks the highest point of interest that has ever been taken in winter sports. There are approximately 300 men and women in the different winter activities sponsored by the university, disregarding the many who skate on the different rinks, and who make use of the toboggan slide.

Early this fall plans had already been formulated by George Martin, head of winter sports, for the season. His plans were actively carried out with the help of George Berg, head of intramural sports, and now the university boasts of three fine skating rinks,

"W" CLUB FAVORS MEANWELL FOR ATHLETIC HEAD

Lists Seven Reasons in Letter to Athletic Council; Committee Named

Dr. Walter E. Meanwell is unanimously desired for the position of new athletic director by members of the University "W" club, who met last night to discuss the athletic situation.

A committee of three was appointed to carry the recommendation of the "W" men to the board of regents today. The committee was composed of "Slam" Anderson, vice president of the "W" club, Dr. C. A. Harer, state health officer, and A. J. Myrland, secretary of the state tax commission.

The "W" association, in a letter sent Tuesday afternoon to the athletic council, believes Dr. Meanwell should be selected for the following reasons:

1. He has the executive ability necessary to administer the affairs of this important position.
2. We know him intimately as a man and a successful coach.
3. Evidence in our possession of his record at the University of Missouri is exceedingly favorable.
4. He is intimately acquainted with our present conditions.
5. Our basketball prestige will not suffer as a result of Dr. Meanwell devoting time to administrative affairs.
6. Wisconsin should establish a policy of promoting its efficient servants.
7. His appointment makes possible the addition of the Meanwell-Rockne combination to our summer school coaching staff and suggests possibilities in the development of our coaching staffs of immediate and immense importance which it would be extremely negligent to overlook.

and a newly improved toboggan slide which is one of the best in the country.

For the benefit of those who know little or nothing about skating or skiing, George Martin has organized classes in both of these sports.

GETTING TOGETHER

According to an announcement in the Daily Cardinal yesterday morning a new club has been formed with better relations among sororities and women's rooming houses as its objective. The name of the club will be "Interse", according to the report.

But the name of the club is immaterial, and the important thing is that at last such an organization has been formed. At present there are at least two inter-sorority societies. They are all right as they stand, but now they are to have a sister organization of a greater scope and of a more altruistic objective.

Sororities are not open to all, or at least do not receive the amount of criticism which is leveled at fraternities. They are making a good step, however, and a much needed move.

It is to be hoped that the fraternities will follow their example. Two of the three inter-fraternity societies which have existed on the campus during the last few years have not fared so well. Perhaps it is simply because they have little or no excuse for being. But if such an organization could be formed among the men students as has been formed among the women students, it would have excellent grounds for existing and thriving, and would be able to do as much good toward cementing the relations of men students as Interse will doubtless do in cementing the relations of the women students.

DOING THEIR OWN JOB

"If you want a job done well, do it yourself."

This seems to be the motto of the students who gathered together yesterday afternoon and set to work clearing part of the ice in front of the university boat house for a skating rink.

There have been calls from many sides for more skating space, and many criticisms of the work which was being done to provide space. And now these dissatisfied persons have set to work themselves.

Have sufficient room they will. And they will probably appreciate all the more their pleasure when the ice is cleared.

OUTSIDE THINKING VS. OUTSIDE READING

At best, outside reading when required usually turns out to be a most desultory method of obtaining part of an education. It is pretty generally known and appreciated, except by the faculty perhaps, that there are a thousand and one ways of satisfying outside reading requirements without actually doing the reading. And most of these methods are employed quite regularly by those who have neither the time nor the inclination to do the reading conscientiously.

In fact, those people who are the good students, who are fully absorbed in their work, will need no prodding along this line; they will do their reading as a matter of course and cry for more. For them there is no need to make reading requirements.

For the others, those who probably need it most, outside reading becomes a veritable farce. They will and do not follow out the assignments and no sort of requirement will make them.

Beside the fact that required outside reading does not work very effectively, it appears that it is not the best thing that could be used in the necessity of giving youth its education. Surely reading should be a great part of a student's curriculum, but when it is not supplemented by thinking it is of no avail. And, after all, that a man think out some thoughts of his own is much more important and profitable than that he make a survey of another man's thoughts.

Perhaps it would be impracticable to require outside thinking. But it is certainly impracticable to require outside reading, and it might be well, therefore, to try the other method. It already is tried in one course at least. And because the spirit behind its use in that course is what it is, the course is one of the most popular as well as one of the most profitable of all those offered on the hill. It should be extended to more courses and education would improve with its extension. If the Greek maxim, "Know thyself," should be the emblem placed on Bascom hall instead of the present billboard advertisement, we would all be much better off. For it is more important that a man know himself than that he know a myriad of facts gleaned from between two pieces of card board.

Topics and theses could very readily be made a means for putting into practice this matter of outside thinking. In fact, it was probably with such an end in view that topic and thesis writing was first introduced. But we have broken and are still breaking away from this original intention, and it would be well if we could get back to it, at least in the matter of topic and thesis writing if in nothing else.

There is too little thinking done nowadays.

THE GOOD AND THE EVIL

It is a constantly recurring criticism of fraternities that they tend to foster undemocratic conditions on a campus, that they are breeders of snobs, and that the emphasis laid on such organizations by some people is too great. Pick out any group on the campus, fraternity or non-fraternity and sooner or later this question is bound to come up for discussion. The sad thing about such discussions is the fact that they tend to get nowhere, to do no positive good. The subject is brought up, opinions pro and con are aired on it but no one comes forward with any positive suggestions.

There is seldom a denial to the statement that fraternity connections play an important part in attaining membership in the various campus activities. The non-fraternity man is apt to give it as an excuse for not trying out for these things, the fraternity man treats it as a matter of course. And why? It is not because the fraternity desires primarily to run these organizations, though that idea does creep into their plans, but it is because past experience has proven to them that without some organized effort to get men and women into these activities they are apt to fall flat, that the average person is too lazy or procrastinating to attempt to even try out for the various extra-curriculum doings on the campus. A case in point would seem to be that of the literary societies which with the increase in university enrollment have seen a decrease in interest in their work. And so we may have to admit that fraternity activities along such lines are not quite as bad as they are often painted.

As to social activity on the other hand there are few who deny that the organized groups on the campus have a pretty large monopoly of the social functions. It is an unfortunate situation, no doubt, that the students who are most in need of such mixing activities are the ones who get them least. There seems to be a false impression among many students that the members of these groups are the only ones that can have good times. The fact is that many fool themselves into believing that and do not even care to amuse themselves—and then they crab at the social system. Fortunately there are a number of groups which are doing much to help this situation. In particular the student churches have done a great deal lately to remedy such conditions and many other groups exist on the campus which have these ideas in mind.

We're going to make this very short, so we can study, or else the Thief of Badjag will be singing those Home Again Blues along about February 9th.

UNIVERSITY GETS 2 MINE MODELS

More Than $10,000 Expended in Producing One; Students to Use Them

Accurate, detailed, and valuable are two mine models which have recently been presented to the department of mining and metallurgy, one by the Anaconda Copper Mining company and the other through the efforts of E. E. Hunner, Wisconsin graduate and general manager of the Hanna Company's iron mines. The first is a model of a copper vein in Butte, Mont., and the second a surface plant and shaft timbering system in the Mesabi range.

Over $10,000 was spent in constructing the model of the Anaconda vein, which represents a section approximately 4,000 feet long and 3,500 feet deep. First on a wooden platform a network of supporting wires was built. Then metal painted white was arranged so as to represent accurately the mine shafts.

The outline and orientation of each successive floor of ore were secured by plattting each in turn from engineering and geographical maps. The model was built up by bits of three-ply wood, scroll-sawed to correspond exactly with the results secured from the plattting and laboriously added one to another in proper order. The veins so constructed were colored to indicate their supposed geographical ages.

Both models will be of value in the courses in mining methods, mine surveying, and structural geology, according to Prof. Edwin R. Shorey, of the mining and metallurgy department.

The model of the plant on the Mesabi range is a reproduction at a scale of one inch to a foot of the headframe, hoist, and idler stands of the Hobart mine at Gilbert, Minn. Miners built the model for exhibition at a meeting of the American Mining congress held recently in Chicago. After the exhibition Mr. Hunner persuaded his company to present the model to the university.

Education 90 is Revised For Next Semester's Class

Education 90, a professional course primarily for those who intend to teach, given under the education department, is to be slightly revised for next semester.

During the closing semester, experiments were undertaken to improve the general organization of the course. The results of the experiments are to be applied to next semester's class. The standardized examination will be used in the place of the old essay examination. Technique will be given the students in teaching by application of theories to actual incidents. The technique will be taught at the university high school where contact will be had with pupils, teachers and the principal, essentials of a school.

The purpose of revision in the class is to give in as concrete and concise a manner as possible the procedures of teaching, and to give to the students technique with which to improve their methods.

Regents Take No Chances On A Blue Book Shortage

Students, don't worry! Although the forests are rapidly disappearing, paper is soon to become scarce, and nations and individuals are becoming poorer every day, the university still has the money and paper to furnish all with blue books for examinations. One can study with full assurance that no such disaster will arise to cause the semester examinations to be dismissed.

At the present time there are in the university enough 4, 8, 16 and 32-page blue books to last throughout the current year ending January, 1926. All the scheduled examinations and quizzes during the summer school sessions and the regular school session can be given in safety. These are the statements from Francis X. Ritger, purchasing agent for the university. Furthermore, the university uses 700,000 blue books every year, at a cost of $3,000.

The blue book plan was first introduced in this university more than 3 years ago, and was tried out for a short period. Later, as the plan did not seem to be fully satisfactory, students were required to furnish their own paper for examinations. For the last 20 years, however, the regents have purchased blue books.

The university holds the honor of being the first institution in the United States to furnish its students with this creation—the blue book.

Thrift Essential in Child's Life Miller Asserts

"Thrift begins in the child," said Prof. S. L. Miller of the department of economics when commenting upon National Thrift week, from January 16 to 23.

"Most children have little banks into which they are encouraged to put their pennies. If the thrift that is thus hoped to be instilled in the child were carried out when the child grows up, there would be no need of a national thrift week.

Thrift week is one of the means by which the nation seeks to urge its citizens to put their money to the best purpose and not squander it at will. The fact that January 16 is the birthday anniversary of Benjamin Franklin, one of the greatest thrift enthusiasts that this country has ever had, is the reason for making this particular week the week in which people should practice the policy of thrift most assiduously.

Solveig Winslow Wed in New York to William Wensel

Announcement has been received here of the marriage of Solveig Winslow, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Winslow, of Oakland, California, and William Clyde Wensel, of Hackensack, New Jersey, which occurred on January 15, in the Little Church Around the Corner in New York.

Mrs. Jessel graduated in 1923. She is a member of Delta Gamma, Orchesus, Red Domino, Mystic Circle and was in Union Vodvil while in school.

Since graduation she has studied under Dr. Adler of Vienna, and Dr. Jung of Zurich, psychologists, and is now carrying on their work in this country. During the war Mr. Wensel served in the navy.

TITLED SCIENTIST IS GUEST OF UNIVERSITY

Sir Daniel Hall, distinguished member of the British ministry, was a guest of honor at the reception given last night by President Birge and Miss Anna Birge at their residence.

Sir Hall, who is spending a few days here as the guest of the College of Agriculture, was invited to meet the regents and the legislators for whom the reception was given. President and Miss Birge received informally between the hours of 8 and 11 o'clock. The reception was informal in dress.

Sir Hall is soil scientist of the British ministry and for 10 years was director of Rothamsted Agricultural Experiment station in England. At the invitation of the late Henry C. Wallace, formerly secretary of agriculture, he is touring the United States.

Faculty members of the College of Agriculture gave a dinner last evening at the University club in honor of Sir Hall.

GOT IDEAS HERE IN COLLEGE GOV'T

Scholz Head of Reed College, Believes in Student Self- Government

Upon the principle that students in college are no longer children, but should be allowed to take part in the government of the college. President Richard Scholz of Reed college, Portland, Oregon, founded his policy of administration. Ex-President Scholz was a graduate of this university, where he formulated his ideals concerning college administration.

President Scholz was in office at Reed college from 1921 until last June, when death ended his services. The matter of choosing a new president came before the consideration of the regents. Groups of students and alumni sent petitions to the regents, naming their favorite candidates.

The policy of Norman Coleman, the newly elected president, was one of "morality," the protection of the young from contaminating thoughts and experiences. Students and faculty members rose in protest against the downfall of their ideals of self-government.

WILL PHOTOGRAPH ECLIPSE SHADOWS

Yerkes Professors Attempt First Pictures of Phenom- ena Saturday

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis.—An attempt to photograph the phenomenon accompanying the total eclipse of the sun known as "shadow bands" will be made by Dr. Frank E. Ross and Prof. Oliver L. Lee of Yerkes Observatory at Iron Mountain, Mich., Saturday. With proper weather conditions, Prof. Lee said he believed the attempt will be successful, and give to science the first photograph of the illusive shadow bands.

The bands are visible for about ten seconds before the total eclipse and for ten seconds after totality. They are described as "vague and rapidly moving wave-like alterations of light and shade."

Dr. Ross has devised a new scheme for mounting a battery of four cameras in such a manner that the instruments may be made to follow the shadow bands and with the aid of a fast lens, it is probable that the camera's plate will show the shadow bands, he said.

In addition to this effort, the Yerkes Observatory men will photograph the "crown of light." Fourteen cameras will be used in the work arranged in batteries of four each, with two extras. The various colors of the "crown of

PERIODICAL ROOM USED EXTENSIVELY

Individuality of Readers Can Be Told By Choice of Magazines

That an individual's choice of magazines tells how he feels and how much work he has to do is the opinion of the librarian of the university library periodical room.

Recreational readers predominate in the periodical room early in the semester before assignments are given out, and during hours free from class. Then, The Saturday Evening Post, Hearst's International, The American, and the Cosmopolitan are in great demand. The Mercury, Atlantic Monthly and Harper's, while widely read, do not enjoy as wide a popularity as the purely fiction magazines. Men predominantly read Popular Science Monthly, but women like the Cosmopolitan. Grads use the technical magazines both for entertainment and assignment.

Foreign publications are read for the most part by foreign students and those who are studying languages in the university. The majority of newspaper readers are townspeople.

The librarian concludes that students prefer sleep as an indoor exercise rather than reading, for seldom does a student wander into the periodical room at the unearthly light," is the objective of the scientists, who have arranged various screens for the cameras that will enable a photograph to be made of the intra red rays as well as the ultra violet—the rays of light which are beyond the ability of the eye to register.

The equipment to be moved from the observatory here to Iron Mountain, Mich., will weigh approximately 400 pounds. It will be assembled in a shack on Pewabic Hill, where Dr. Ross and Prof. Lee are to arrive Thursday morning. Late Friday night the work of assembling the instruments and mounting them on the out-of-doors stands will be completed.

BOARD MAKES CUT IN STATE BUDGET

Economy Leads Public Affairs Body to Make 12 Million Reduction

Economy guided the Wisconsin board of public affairs in its budget recommendations prepared for the legislature, according to a statement issued today by Gov. John J. Blaine, chairman. Under the general summary of expenditures the board recommends for the 1925-1927 biennium, more than $12,000,000 less than the requests made, the governor stated.

The total budget recommended is 67,203,898 for the two year period.

The board in its recommendations is opposed to any increase in taxes and "holds that this is not the time for expansion of state activities," said the brief analysis of the budget by Gov. Blaine. The board says "it believes that rigid economy should be practiced in the state government and that no new financial burdens be put upon the taxpayers of the state."

Among the reductions over last biennium recommended for the biennium for operation, are the following:

Department of agriculture, $12,000; engineering department, $10,000; geological and natural history survey (cut from $110,000 to $50,000), $60,000; highway commission $48,000; marketing division, $13,000; Wisconsin national guard, $12,000; railroad commission, $10,000; and University of Wisconsin, $600,000.

The budget also recommends the repeal of more than $500,000 in unexpended balances for the university.

The only substantial increase recommended in operation for the biennium are: Superintendent of public instruction, $10,000; eradication of bovine tuberculosis, $200,000 penal and charitable institutions, largely food and clothing $275,000; normal schools about $180,000. The amount recommended for the normal schools is approximately the amount recommended in the finance bill of the 1923 legislature.

For construction of additional new buildings, the board recommends for the biennium, for the state charitable and penal institutions, $600,000; for the university, $591,000; for the normal schools, $375,000; these amounts to include any land purchase leaving an available balance for new construction to be apportioned to such departments where necessary for new buildings and special capital, $179,046.

STUDENT ACCOUNTS AVERAGE ONLY $13

Branch Bank Loans $200,000
Cash Year to Student Activities

"That's where my money goes, tra-la, tra-la-la-la." Yes, it's very nice to know where your money goes. Did you know that the average student account averages only $13. So you see that students are often as dead broke as they insinuate, for accounts often run down into actual nothingness. And yet students are not extravagant in the opinion of Mr. B. R. L'Hommedieu, of the Branch Bank of Wisconsin, which handles one thousand student checking accounts every school year.

He believes that it takes a lot of money to live in Madison and that students are very careful, indeed, to keep within the restrictions of their allowances, and declares that they are excellent persons to deal with, that they are business-like and honest. Every year $200,000 is lent for student activities such as the Badger, the Cardinal, the Prom and Homecoming committees, and the different fraternities and sororities, and none of these have failed to pay their loans.

"Only five out of a hundred students keep stub accounts. Perhaps it isn't necessary because nearly the same amount of money is spent every month, but if they would, it would be excellent business practice, I'm sure. I have found that foreign students are invariably more careful in this respect. Several years ago there was one who wrote out a single check for every meal he ate," Mr. L'Hommedieu said.

The Bank of Wisconsin makes no profit on student accounts. It maintains them, however, because a great amount of time and expense is involved in handling checks drawn on out-of-town banks.

Worker in China

Gives Addresses to
Y. W. C. A. Group

"Work of the Y. W. C. A. in China is carried on mostly by the Chinese women. Women from European countries as well as from the United States co-operate with the Chinese in the charitable work but charitable institutions and societies had been in existence in China long before the people from other countries began to come in."

So said Miss Maud Russell, yesterday, at a meeting of the Y. W. C. A. sophomore discussion group. Miss Russell is attending the meetings of the discussion groups and the commissions and is giving short talks on work in China. She is in charge of student work at Changsha Hunan, China.

That the charitable organizations of China have done a great deal to relieve the oppression of poverty and disease is the belief of Miss Russell who has been very closely associated with this type of work.

REV. LUMPKIN MAY GET INDIANA CHURCH POST

The Rev. H. H. Lumpkin, pastor of the Grace Episcopal church, who is taking certain courses in the university, is being considered for the position of coadjutor of the Northern Indiana Episcopal diocese, according to a report from West Bend, Indiana, where a convention is being held. Election to the post will be held today. The Rev. Lumpkin did not say whether or not he would accept the position, were he elected, but he added it was considered proper for the clergyman elected to accept the position.
