The Intercollegiate Intelligence Bureau (see special article by William Notz, '07) is making an effort to do work that the National Government itself should have undertaken long ago. As an emergency effort to help I. I. B. remedy a neglected situation it may accomplish much toward fulfilling a temporary expediency. If the work is to be well done it will require patient effort, diligent labor, and liberal financial support. Even then results may be almost negative unless hearty co-operation is given by all alumni. One of the delegates at the national meeting deplored the "disposition of the delegates to make senseless suggestions;" so please help the bureau find itself by replying promptly and accurately to any request for information sent to you. Other colleges are joining in this movement. The most elaborate report blank yet brought to the attention of the Alumni Headquarters is from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It is to be hoped that all institutions undertaking the work will regard it with the same apparent seriousness. "Playing with the work" is an all too frequent fault in all lines of educational activities. If this job is to be undertaken it should be done with care, accuracy, and thoroughness, which, as we have said before, will take much time, labor, and money.

The president has pointed out clearly in his recent biennial report the need of better salaries at the University. The unprecedented increase in living expenses is particularly hard on salaried men who are public Salaries servants. Individual employers and private corporations that have enjoyed a share in the prosperity of the country have already granted material increases to salaried employees. Surely the prosperity of Wisconsin warrants fair and adequate increase of salaries to public servants. To be niggardly with educational leaders has always proved economically expensive and wasteful. May the president's appeal for salary increases be favorably received.

Intercollegiate Intelligence Bureau

By W. Notz, '07

On February 6 President Van Hise designated Joseph E. Davies, '98, and Charles Noble Gregory, '71, to represent the University at a conference called for February 10, at Washington, D. C., by Dean William McClellan, Pennsylvania, to consider the organization of the Intercollegiate Intelligence Bureau. About fifty representatives of the leading colleges in the country attended the meeting.

In the morning delegates called in a body on Secretary of War, Baker, and on Secretary of the Navy, Daniels. Dean McClellan, as spokesman for the delegates, offered the services and co-operation of the American colleges to the Federal Government in case of war. Both the secretaries expressed their appreciation and thanks to the delegates in the name of the Government and welcomed the co-operation of organized college men.

Two sessions were held at the new Willard Hotel at which an organization of the Bureau was assured and the following constitution was adopted:

DEAN G. C. COMSTOCK

The name shall be The Intercollegiate Intelligence Bureau.

The object shall be to prepare for the Government of the United States, at its request, the names of American college students and alumni having the characteristics and training specified in the request, and who would be willing to enter the service of the Government in time of expected or actual war; and further, to do such other things as its organization may permit, when called upon by the National Government.

Director—the Chief Executive and Administrative Officer.

State Directors—one in each state, appointed by the Executive Committee on the nomination of the president of the state university, where there is one—and if not, on the nomination of a college president selected by the Executive Committee. Their function shall be to co-ordinate and stimulate the work of the adjutants in their states.

Treasurer—having the usual functions.

Adjutants—One in each college, technical school, professional school, and university, appointed by the Executive Committee on the nomination of the chief executive of the institution. Their function shall be to keep themselves in a position to furnish promptly whatever information may be available in response to requests of the Bureau.

An Executive Committee, consisting of the director, the treasurer, and three college alumni permanently located sufficiently near Washington to be able to give adequate time to the work. It shall have power when the Council is not in session.

The Council shall consist of the above officers, except in adjutants. It shall meet as called by the Executive Committee, or by any ten of its members. It shall have the power to change the constitution, to establish rules of procedure when necessary, and to elect successors to the original elective officers.

The above officers shall serve without remuneration. The first director, treasurer and Executive Committee shall be elected at this conference, and their successors by the Council.

The secretary and his office assistants shall be appointed by the Executive Committee, and shall give all their time to the work of the Bureau, and shall be remunerated.

There shall be no term of office. When the war emergency is over, the Council shall meet to determine the future of the Bureau.

Funds shall be solicited by the Executive Committee, shall be dispersed according to good business methods, accounts shall be kept, and a monthly report furnished to the Council members.

The following officers were elected:

Director—Dean William McClellan, University of Pennsylvania.

Treasurer—Charles E. Howe, George Washington University.

Executive Committee—General W. C. Gorgis, University of the South; W. S. Gifford, Harvard; Dr. David Jayne Hill.

The permanent secretary, the only salaried official, is to be elected later. The resolution passed calls for an initial fund of $15,000 to be contributed by the different state organizations.

N. B. Dr. Notz served as proxy for commissioner Davies who was confined to his home with an attack of grip.

On February 21 President Van Hise named as state director Professor G. C. Comstock, Dean of the Graduate School, address Observatory Hill, Madison, Wisconsin.

A special committee will probably be appointed to devise plans of procedure to be followed in this work at the University of Wisconsin.

The Intercollegiate Intelligence Bureau is a voluntary organization of universities and colleges co-operating with the War and Navy Departments of the National Government. Its purpose is to form and place at the service of those bureaus a classified list of college trained men who are willing and able promptly to place their services at the disposition of the government in time of emergency. The classification above noted relates to the special training and competence of the men, e. g. in engineering, medicine and even minor matters such as competence to run an automobile or motor boat, familiarity with foreign language, with shipping, sanitation, etc.

It is presumed that recent alumni will be most readily available for this purpose but it is intended to include with them at least the upper classes of students now in college. The University can readily deal with students but the resources of the Alumni Association seem best adapted to secure the desired information relative to graduates and I have the honor to request such co-operation from the Association.

On behalf of the Intercollegiate Intelligence Bureau, GEORGE C. COMSTOCK, Director for Wisconsin.

"THE INTERNATIONAL MIND"

Contributed by

KATHARINE C. WASHBURN, '18

"Your religion is what you are willing to die for," said Rev. John Haynes Holmes at Convocation, February 15. Will you die that quarrels between groups of men may go on, or will you die that harmony may come to all humanity?

No one who was held in the pressure of Mr. Holmes' impassioned plea that the international mind spring from the very war itself, and conceive a new world organization, based on a feeling of the unity of the whole human family, and the claim of every part to our service, could doubt that the "pacifist" can be the best fighter in the world, as he turns his tingling enthusiasm and desire to get into the fight into suffering and dying and fighting in the battle between right and wrong,—nor could anyone down the urgency of the impulses aroused in himself, to jump into that fight, and bring in that day!

The international mind finds no person to blame, but a system; it pronounces the verdict of "guilty" on every government, but pays tribute to the sublimity of every people. It finds the purpose of the war trivial, as all peoples think they are fighting for defense. But the true battle line is at the heart of the political, economic, and social conditions within every country, between autocracy and democracy, between those who have and those who have not, between those who govern and those who are helpless cogs in a political machine.

In the days of interstate rivalry men were ready to die for a state, but now, how ludicrous to think of "dying for Massachusetts!" So may our loyalty grow that we may "live for our country," to the greatest happiness and glory of the human race.

DECENNIAL CLASS REUNION FUND

By JOHN S. LORD, '04

At the decennial reunion of the class of 1904, plans were outlined for raising money for student loan purposes and other University and alumni needs. It was planned that each succeeding class should contribute to this fund when it held its tenth reunion.

The class of 1904 pledged at least $1,000 for this purpose and the class of 1905 approved of the plan at its decennial reunion and pledged an additional sum of $1,500.

At the time each class holds its tenth reunion, it will be asked to subscribe to this fund which shall be used as a student loan fund and after that demand has been satisfied, for other University and alumni needs. Those classes which have held their decennial reunion and all persons interested will be invited to co-operate and contribute to this fund.

This plan offers alumni the opportunity to increase their usefulness and influence, as well as to express their loyalty to their alma mater. They will have the privilege of assisting others to enjoy the opportunities offered by the University of Wisconsin, without which assistance many today would be unable to obtain a University education or to complete one already commenced.

At the annual business meeting of the Wisconsin Alumni Association in June, 1915, the proposed plans were presented and approved and Professor C. K. Leith, '97, was appointed to represent the Alumni Association upon a committee to be composed of himself, Harold L. Geisse, representing the class of 1905, and John S. Lord, representing the class of 1904, to develop the plans outlined, raise additional funds, secure the co-operation of the succeeding classes, and arrange for the proper administration of the funds.

The members of this committee have considered and approved of this plan. Their statement of purpose and organization as to rules for governing and controlling the raising and administering of this fund will appear in the May issue of the MAGAZINE.

JAMAICA GINGER

Contributed by JACK DAVIES, '13,
Vice President, Haresfoot Alumni Board

The 1917 Haresfoot Show, "Jamaica Ginger," by Stothart and Stempf, is considered the best thing the Club has ever attempted. Anyone who enjoys an evening of music and fun will enjoy this year's show, "Jamaica Ginger." It is full of sparkle and life, as you would naturally expect when you know that it was written by the above-mentioned veterans.

The play construction shows a radical change, the heroine being the only girl in the whole show who is really a girl from start to finish. All the others appear first in male attire, and only assume feminine roles when persuaded by the official plotter. Of course, when I say "girls," you understand that "every girl's a man, yet every one a lady," because the winsome heroine is our own Paul Rudy—a man among men.

The play centers around Rodney Burke, who has made his home in Jamaica studying the four thousand rare native plants. In spite of efforts by his family to marry him to his father's ward, Dorothy Lockwood, Rodney remains indifferent. An adventurer, Billy Smithfield, comes to the aid of the family, bringing with him four versatile Haresfoot men from the University of Wisconsin, "Woodie," "Heinie," "Bradbury," and "Buzz." You can tell that they are Haresfoot men by their catchy names.

Woodie takes the part of Miss Lockwood, while the real Dorothy appears as "Betty Black," the fiancée of "Bobbles" (Bradbury), with whom she is eloping from her father, "Corporal Black" (Heinie). Smithfield arranges for Rodney and Betty to pretend that they are married, so that Rodney may escape the designs of the pseudo Dorothy (and at the same time unwittingly expose himself to the charms of the real Dorothy).

The opening chorus shows mulatto slaves in native dress working in Burke's garden, singing a Jamaican song. A slave runs in holding in his hand the wonderful "flower of love," to which is attached a superstition much feared by the Jamaicans. The landing of a boat is heard and the four Haresfooters led by Smithfield enter the garden. He instructs the boys in their parts, there is a delightful song and dance, and the real action of the plot begins.

The second act finds Rodney distinctly interested in "Betty," and thoroughly disgusted with Woodie as Dorothy. He has by this time become entangled in so many difficulties that he desires to confess that he is not really married to Betty, but in an amusing comedy skit with the "Corporal" he is prevented from doing so. In the meantime his father has become impatient and Dorothy herself, who is now interested in Rodney, wishes to end the farce. Rodney's valet, Tomkins, overhears the conversation and before the conspirators can confess, Rodney learns the truth,—that the "Betty" he loves is the real Dorothy Lockwood. He has been the victim of a joke. He determines to turn the tables on Smithfield and his party, and succeeds in making them very uncomfortable. Then he marries Dorothy and they live happily together until the curtain falls.

The songs are the kind that run in your head making you whistle when you are thinking about something else. The jokes are all rib-ticklers that you never heard before. If you think you have seen good chorus work come and see the twenty dainty little birds George Herbert has trained to warble and frolic in the tropical Jamaican garden. You will see something new in dancing and something new in costumes.

The most pleasing feature of the entire performance, however, is the personality of the fellows taking the principal parts. Haresfoot always has good fellows in the shows, but these boys have personality plus the ability to interpret their parts, and are all singers.

They play in Waukesha, Milwaukee, Fond du Lac, Kenosha, Rockford, Beloit, and Madison the week of April 13. If you are within striking distance don't miss "Jamaica Ginger."

PREPAREDNESS AT THE UNIVERSITY

By P. G. WRIGHTSON

First Lieut. U. S. Infantry, (Former Commandant)

In the resumé of the work of this department during the past three years you must pardon the feeling of pride with which I point to the progress made. The loyalty of the student officers, the enthusiastic responses of the main body of drilling students, and the support given my plans and policies by both the Regents and the President have made the progress possible. To the students, to the Regents, and to the President thanks are due.

In January, 1913, drill hours were held at 3:30 and 4:30 during the year up to April first and then only from 4:30 to 6:00. Sophomores did not begin to drill until September first and then were merged with the freshmen. Four companies at a time attempted to maneuver on the armory floor. The net result was very poor drill with practically no instruction. The chief requirement of a successful captain was a voice which could be heard over all the pandemonium of noises. Theoretical instruction was imparted to officers only in one lecture a week at which attendance was entirely voluntary. The large and popular hospital company which was maintained was regarded as a snap course for sophomores. An engineer detachment did mostly close order drills. Gallery practice was limited. No instruction preceded firing. Close order drills and parades were the main stay of the department. Endless repetition was the watchword.

The purpose of the War Department is to develop officers who may take command of companies of infantry in time of war. In two years we can introduce to every student those matters which are so essential that ignorance thereof spells failure at the outset.

An officer may be able to train a company in "squads right" and in the "manual of arms" but unless his men understand the importance of an advance guard on a march and of patrolling from an outpost, his forces are whipped before going into action. Although his company may march in review in perfect line, unless he understands how and why a company deploys into skirmishers, he will never be able to win a fight. He may be able to execute a marching salute to perfection but unless he can impart the rudiments of first aid to his recruit the recruit may lose his life or imperil the entire company through his lack of knowledge of sanitation. The captain of past years might be able to tell to an inch the stations of every officer and man in a regimental parade but if he does not also know how to advance his men to an attack across an open field and avoid deadly losses, his company will not be of much assistance in the battle. While a battalion parade is very pretty in time of war, it is far more essential that men know how to shoot rapidly and accurately. Rifle salutes are all very well in time of peace but the ability to make a road sketch and to find one's way about in a strange country by the aid of a map is of much greater value in time of war. While it is very important that an officer be able to explain himself to his men, he is sometimes separated from them and must be able to use one of the various methods of flag signalling.

It is not enough that a few men in the corps get such information. It is, therefore, necessary to pick out the very first essentials of officers' duties and impress them upon the entering class. This comprises first of all the close order drill. Next, due to the climatic conditions which force us indoors early in the fall, we take up the gallery firing. Eighty percent is required for qualification which is 20% higher than national guard standards. Last year the entire corps averaged a little over 84% while 99 men fired better than 90%.

Closely related to the power of destroying an enemy is the ability of saving yourself. Hence lectures are given in first aid and the men are practiced in bandaging, splinting fractures, resuscitating drowned and in carrying the wounded. As soon as outdoor conditions permit, the freshmen are taken out on the grounds west of Main Hall and there instructed in the duties of advance and rear guard work through the woods and along the roads. An outpost is established at the Observatory and from there patrols are sent out to map the road and report matters of military importance.

Friday afternoons at 4:30 are reserved for the military department and these hours are occupied by theoretical instruction. In the freshman year most of the time is taken by the captains who teach their men the underlying principles of drill. About eight lectures by the commandant on such matters of general importance as organization of the army, military training abroad, camp and personal sanitation, etc., are also given the entering class. The second year men get very little class work. Lectures in which field engineering, map making and reading, map maneuvers, rifle in war, use of field artillery and indirect fire, etc. are among the subjects drawn upon. Last year for the first time the sophomore companies conducted war games upon large sized (12" to a mile) maps. Each sophomore company also had instruction in semaphore signalling and in guard duty.

The department has also added a signal company and a machine gun.

The former is an outgrowth of the last University Exposition. In May, 1915, it operated a field wireless apparatus. Last year it expanded and took in telegraphy, the heliograph and flag signalling. The helio apparatus and much of the radio material were made or assembled by the students of the company. The machine gun company is equipped with two Colt automatic guns, caliber 30, and using regular service ammunition, 1,200 rounds per gun per year being allowed for practice purposes.

Another innovation is the tent pitching. The Regents authorized the purchase of 200 shelter tents and the War Department issued field equipment (haversacks, canteens, mess kits, etc.) for 250 men. Temporary camp and field target practice was held on May 6.

Study courses in military law, field engineering, military topography, hygiene, field service regulations, etc. are offered. The old type of physical disability excuse is a thing of the past. The student who formerly made up the four units in any way he saw fit now takes hygiene or first aid or a course in military history. These are planned to make him a better fitted citizen and to appreciate his duties and obligations to the community at large.

In the inspection in 1913 there were only 470 students present with an excused list of 599. In May, 1915, we had 1199 students present with an excused list of only 496, and over half of these were merely deferring drill for a year. The military department of the University is rated as "Distinguished Class" one of the ten best in the entire country and the best in the Central States.

Variety of work, a keeping up of interest, a progression in instruction have been my purpose here. To this I attribute the interest on the part of the men and the winning of "Distinguished Class" from the War Department.

MOUND MAP OF WISCONSIN

By CHARLES E. BROWN
Chief, State Historical Museum

THE map shown on the opposite page and which is here published for the first time, illustrates the distribution, in Wisconsin, of groups of Indian mounds. It has but recently been prepared from the records of the Wisconsin Archaeological society and represents the results of eighty years of explorations and surveys in this State.

The total number of prehistoric Indian earthworks of all classes at present or formerly existing in Wisconsin, is estimated at about 15,000, a number exceeding by far the number recorded by investigators of American archaeology from any other state in the union.

As shown by the mound map, the Indian earthworks of Wisconsin are very largely confined to the southern half of the State. In this region groups and scattered mounds were formerly located on the banks of every important lake and stream. Centers in which these records of Wisconsin's past were once particularly numerous were the regions about the present cities of Milwaukee, Waukesha, Beloit, Beaver Dam, Lake Mills, Madison, Baraboo, Prairie du Chien, Cassville, and Trempealeau. Numerous mound groups were situated on the shores of Winnebago, Koshkonong, Green, Puckaway, Buffalo, and Rush Lakes. Groups of mounds extended down nearly the entire length of the Fox River from Portage to Green Bay and down the Wisconsin from Stevens Point to Prairie du Chien. In the valley of the Rock River they were also numerous.

In eastern Sauk County the presence of a total of 734 mounds has been recorded. Those on the shores of Lake Koshkonong numbered 481. The total number of such earthworks formerly situated about the five Madison lakes was not far short of one thousand. There were 217 mounds in and about Milwaukee. Lake Wingra, one of the small lakes in the State, had upon its shores eighteen mound groups with a total of 148 mounds.

About Lake Waubesa there were located 42 groups consisting of 188 mounds. The number formerly situated about Lakes Mendota and Waubesa was much greater than either of these.

In the northern half of the State important mound centers are located about Chetek and Rice Lakes in Barron County, between Osceola and St Croix Falls in Polk County, on the Vilas-Oneida County line near Heaford Junction, and along the Mississippi River between Prescott in Pierce County, and Alma in Buffalo County.

The earthworks of Wisconsin are of four principal classes: 1. Conical, or round mounds, 2. Linear, or embankment shaped mounds, 3. Effigy, or emblematic mounds, and 4. Enclosures.

Of these the conical mounds, which were constructed for burial purposes, are by far the most numerous. The mounds of the northern part of the State are almost entirely of this class. The remarkable effigy mounds are practically confined to Wisconsin. Only a very small number have been found in Ohio, eastern Iowa and Minnesota, and northern Illinois.

These mounds, largely constructed in animal forms, are considered by archaeologists to be the most peculiar aboriginal earthworks on the American continent.

Of the hundreds of fine examples of these which were formerly located in Wisconsin, a large number are still in existence. Among the most widely known of these is the famous man mound located near Baraboo. This was purchased some years ago and is under the protection and care of the Wisconsin Archaeological society and the Sauk County Historical society. Other widely known effigies are the huge so-called "eagle" mound on the lawn of the State Hospital at Mendota, which has a wingspread of 621 feet and the "panther" intaglio effigy on the Rock River road, just outside the city limits of Fort Atkinson. This latter Indian monument has just been purchased and will be permanently preserved by that city. It is the last existing example of its character in the State and also the only aboriginal earthwork of its kind in the world. In its construction it is the reverse of the regular effigy

Taylor described some in 1838, and Dr. John Locke described others in 1840. The Wisconsin Archæological society began its work in the State in 1900. The work of conducting surveys and explorations has progressed mounds being excavated out of the soil instead of built upon it.

On the mound map the boundaries of the region in which the effigy mounds have been found in the State is shown by a broad dark line.

Dr. Increase A. Lapham was the first to call attention to the presence of effigy or animal shaped mounds in Wisconsin, in 1836. Mr. Richard entirely at its own expense until the year 1911, when it received from the State a small sum of money for extending its work, chiefly in northern and central Wisconsin. Numerous interesting publications describing the State's archaeological history have been issued by this society, which has in its membership many alumni of the University of Wisconsin.

WISCONSIN ALUMNI CLUBS

"Sit together, listen together, sing together, eat together, and talk together and you'll work together."

DAVENPORT—MOLINE—ROCK ISLAND

By WALTER JANNSEN, '07

The first annual red letter reunion of the Wisconsin Club is about to be pulled. All that you need is a good story or a good song and two one dollar bills. Bring them to the Harms hotel as the bright lights begin to shine Tuesday evening, March 6. The dollar bills are ne plus ultra. One will be "circed" into a gorging feast and the other will be used to propagate the Faith — WISCONSIN UEBER ALLES. The annual re-election of officers will be pulled along with the dollar bills. There will be no extra charge for this entertainment feature. The Wisconsin Toast will be toasted and the Varsity yell will be yelled. There ain't goin t' be no curfew so come on out.

CHICAGO

By FELIX BOLDENWECK, '02

The weekly Friday noon luncheons, held at 12:30 P. M. at the Grand Pacific Hotel have been most interesting. These luncheons are open to all friends and alumni of the University. Visiting alumni will bear in mind the time and place.

On February 16, Judge Harry Dolan of the Boys' Court branch of the Chicago Municipal Court spoke of the history and organization of this branch of justice. The growth of Chicago during the last twenty-five years has presented many problems among which the most serious ones are those involving boys of from seventeen to twenty-one years of age. The majority of some 10,000 cases which have come to Judge Dolan's court relate to the breaking of some minor law or ordinance, the committing of some lesser crime. These boys as a rule are mentally deficient. Their lack of education and the poor environment of their homes are the chief causes that lent to their delinquency. The conditions of some of the police stations tend to harden these unfortunates against society. Judge Dolan pointed out that the "boys' farm" is a real factor to encourage these lads to lead cleaner, better lives. His talk ended with a plea for helping them to become men, appealing to his hearers in the name of the brotherhood of man.

On February 23 we held a "round table" discussion of the "prom" ball, and other matters of general interest.

The month of March has been set aside for "home talent" talks by experienced Wisconsin alumni: March 2, C. W. Hejda, '04; March 9, John S. Lord, '04; March 16, Dr. A. J. Ochsner, '84; March 23 and 30, open dates.

On March 2 C. W. Hejda, '04, engineer of the Bureau of Fire Prevention and Public Safety, told us of the work of his department. This organization not only aims to improve conditions in those buildings about to be erected, but strives to eliminate all possible fire hazards in older buildings, where type of construction and class of occupancy render them less safe. Mr. Hejda pointed out how new buildings, apartments, and residences were erected with a view to beauty, comfort, and economy, but that the type of construction which is necessary for the safe-keeping of the occupants and contents was seldom considered sufficient reason for increasing the cost of construction.

March 3 was Badger Day in Chicago. The afternoon performance of the "Hip, Hip, Hooray" show was well attended by both students from Madison and many members of the U. W. Club. Sousa's band played "On Wisconsin" in a very spirited manner during each intermission. Needless to say, all Wisconsin men took part in the singing, and several good old-fashioned Wisconsin cheers were given. Between the hours of five and seven dinner was served at the Auditorium at which Mr. Sousa and Mr. Meanwell were present. Mr. Sousa favored those present with a witty and interesting talk. The basketball game was an excellent one in every respect. The play was clever, fast, and interesting every minute. The rooting by the alumni and students present was rousing—in fact one could imagine that the game was being played in Madison instead of in Chicago.

On March 9 John S. Lord, '04, and Dr. C. K. Leith, '97, spoke of the Wisconsin state legislature, and its relation toward the University. They pointed out that the present legislature is friendly but that the conservative attitude seems to curtail the broad development of the University of Wisconsin. It was said that the efficiency of the University may become seriously impaired through lack of funds to meet the present day economic conditions. Some of the best talent of the instructional staff has been and is now, attracted by colleges which have offered higher salaries. It was the sense of this meeting to plan another special meeting at which these important conditions could be more fully discussed.

MADISON

By AMY COMSTOCK, '09

Founders' Day has become an institution in the local U. W. Club. The strange thing is that it has been so slow in finding its way into the annals of the University's celebrations. Not until December of 1915 did it enter anybody's head that we might more effectively organize and enjoy knowing one another through such a local alumni club. In February of 1915 we celebrated Founders' Day for the first time and this year we gave a dinner-dance at the Woman's Building, attended by some 230 alumni.

Dr. Charles H. Vilas, '75, gave a talk on the University—its worldwide fame as he had encountered it in his extended travels. He made a plea for more enthusiasm on the part of all alumni for their alma mater, reminding them that the faculty, the regents, the legislature, and the state appreciated such gratitude and could be counted on to respond in proportion to its volume and sincerity. He denied emphatically the assertion frequently heard that endowed schools receive a greater and more intense loyalty from their alumni than do the state institutions.

President C. E. Buell, '78, acting as toastmaster, then called upon Dr. Van Hise, '79, who gave a clear and much appreciated account of the current legislation affecting the University, particularly the Whittet bill to amend the law passed by the last legislature creating a state board of education. He explained that the purpose of the new bill is to effect a dove-tailing of the functions of the board of education and the separate administrative boards of the University and normal schools and to eliminate the overlapping which now exists.

Miss Jean Curry, accompanied by Miss Doris Carter, gave several vocal selections during the course of the evening's program and the Glee Club quartette sang, in addition to special numbers, some of the old songs in which the rest of us, vigorously led by Professor Olson, '84, heartily joined.

NEW YORK

By C. H. GETTS, '14

If there are any doubters of your acquaintance who question the power of the Wisconsin Idea, send the man to Burdette Lewis, c/o The People of the City of New York. I am giving you the address he left on our register. Lewis is commissioner of charities and corrections in New York. He pulled himself out of a sick bed this noon to show his Badger determination to his audience at the luncheon. If you ask whether he held our attention, I shall reply that we kept him busy talking and answering our questions for nearly an hour and that we are all enthusiastic supporters of the farm colony, a new set of prison methods, and of the man who has reconstructed the city's correctional institutions, refreshed hundreds of hopeless people, and who has saved the city six million dollars in a single year.

Last week John B. Andrews, another proponent of the faith in New York, gingered up our interest with a splendid talk on health insurance. He attributes the health insurance movement to the idea of service so often credited to Wisconsin. Andrews is secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation.

We observed Founders' Day with a luncheon which packed the house.

We were literally crowded out of our usual quarters and were forced to occupy one of the largest rooms in the restaurant. William S. Kies, '99, vice president of the National City Bank, adorned the head of the board. He gave us an enthusiastic talk upon the present quality of University work. William Kies modestly denies the suggestion that he is himself an example of Wisconsin achievement.

The present series of noon hour talks is designed to show the effect of University ideas and training in present day events. W. H. Allen, of the Institute for Public Service, the director of the University Survey at Madison, promises us a lively talk at the next session.

Have you been reading of that Badger party? The men and women are joining in a theater and dinner get-together for the last of March. We are inviting all of you!

NEW YORK ALUMNAE

By MARJORIE DAVIS LIVINGSTON, '14

The Wisconsin alumnae of New York are glad to report to headquarters that they celebrated Founders' Day by having luncheon together at the Women's University Club, 108 52nd Street. Mrs. W. H. Lough (Elizabeth Shepherd), '02, was chairman of the luncheon, which, in spite of a regular Wisconsin blizzard, was attended by about twenty alumnae. It was just the opportunity to get together which New York alumnae have been looking for for so long and was enjoyed so keenly by everyone that plans for another luncheon the second week in April were made, with Mrs. C. S. Reed (Florence Bemis), '06, as chairman. It was also decided to have informal luncheons every Saturday noon at "The Samovar Tea Room," 6 E. 38th Street, where, from 12:30 to 1:30, those shopping in the city on that day may expect to find other alumnae by inquiring for the Wisconsin table.

To you Wisconsin alumnae of New York who may read this, if you have not received notices of the luncheons, send your name and address to Mrs. C. S. Reed, 10 Hillcrest Ave., Park Hill, Yonkers-on-Hudson. Greetings to the office. The last Magazine was great.

PHILADELPHIA

By ERNEST F. RICE, '08

The Executive Committee has been busy all month in perfecting the local organization and putting it on a sound financial basis. We have on our list the names of seventy-two men now located in Philadelphia and immediate vicinity, but there are a number scattered around the state whom we are especially anxious to have at our dinners, and if they make their whereabouts known, we will see that they get regular notices. We lunch every Tuesday at 12:30 at the City Club, and hold monthly dinners in the evening, and have a number of good speakers coming to tell us of the progress, needs, and policy of our alma mater. We believe that we are just far enough away from Madison to see things in their right perspective, and as loyal sons and natural born boosters, want to do all we can to help our alma mater. We wish that the members of the faculty who visit this city, or who could stop off here while in the East, would notify us in advance so that we can arrange to have one of our monthly dinners on that occasion, and renew old acquaintances or make new ones.

We are already planning our April dinner, which will be held on the 16th or 21st, at which time we hope to have Prexy Van Hise with us so that we can show him how much our Badger spirit has developed since we left the old campus.

Miss Elizabeth Quackenbush, '11, 5908 Wayne Ave., Philadelphia, has been very active in rounding up the local co-eds and has discovered about fourteen so far. They are going to have a series of luncheons and teas of their own, and will join us when we have our big banquets, dances, and picnics later in the season.

We are looking forward also to our track team repeating the good work of last year at the Relay Carnival of the University of Pennsylvania, and can assure them of a hearty welcome and lots of encouragement when they come to Philadelphia this spring.

Now that the stewards of the Poughkeepsie Regatta have adopted another "Wisconsin Idea" in shortening the course to three miles, we hope to see the Cardinal crew in June, 1918, take its place way up ahead of the procession, as there is nothing that gives Wisconsin a better name in the East than her plucky, hard-fighting crews.

RACINE

By H. E. BILKEY, '12

On the evening of March 9 we held our second annual roller skating party, and to say that this latest attempt to make the Racine alumni a prominent factor in local social circles succeeded is putting it mildly. Promptly at 8 o'clock the Eagles Band struck up the old familiar refrain "On Wisconsin," and to this inspiring music, which among all songs is the favorite of every Wisconsin Grad, an evening of real pleasure began, which will be long remembered as one of the best social stunts given by the Association. Over one hundred Grads and friends were on the floor, renewing old acquaintanceships. A spirit of good fellowship permeated the whole evening, everyone entering into the spirit of fun, showing that in spite of differences in age and class, the Wisconsin Grad feels the bond of fellowship with others who have attended the University "on the Hill." During the evening a Grand March, consisting of several unique features, was led by the officers and a committee. Imagine if you can a Grand March composed of graduates of at least twenty different years, rolling past the spectators' stand, first in couple formation, representing two classes; then as a column, four abreast, representing four different classes; and finally in a column eight abreast, representing eight different classes. More than this, the party was a success financially due to the cooperation of the members of the Association with the committee. As a result of the spirit and attitude shown, it is planned to have either the Wisconsin Glee and Mandolin Clubs or the Haresfoot Club, at Racine in the near future. The committee having charge of the affair is composed of the following: Helen Flett, '15, Lucile Hatch, '15, Avrina Pugh, Ex '13, Adolph Janecky, '07, Vilas Whaley, '12, Arthur Draves '15, Harold Bickel, '10, and H. E. Bilkey, '12, secretary.

SEATTLE

By GRANT I. BUTTERBAUGH, '16

When I met Everett Dahm, '13, and Malcolm Bruce, '14, Friday noon and they told me there was to be a Wisconsin Alumni banquet at the College Club the next night, I didn't lose any time making a couple of reservations. I made a couple because I knew Lehm Brown, '16, would want to go as soon as he heard about it.

Brown met me at 6 o'clock and we went up to the College Club and found the bunch standing around like they used to do over in the Y. M. C. A. waiting for a "smoker" to begin. We soon got acquainted and it wasn't long before the fun began. About the first fellow we met was Houston, '16, track man. He looked like money from home to us. There were about twenty-six or twenty-seven at the banquet, most of them older men, presidents of banks, managers of industrial concerns, insurance men, attorneys, army men, railroad men, and college professors, but all Wisconsin men. It was a comfortable feeling to look about and know that every one of them had been through the same mill and could appreciate the same lonesome feeling for old Madison and Wisconsin. Right in the middle of the spread we heard a knock on the door; and somebody shouted, "Come in." Pretty soon a head appeared and a tardy arrival said, "Is Dean Birge in there?"

The banquet over, officers for the ensuing year elected, speeches made, and general discussion in order, plans were announced for the "College Night" at the University of Washington, which was to begin at 8:30 P. M. that evening. One member had had made a sign, thirty feet long, attached to six poles, bearing in big cardinal letters, two feet high, the word WISCONSIN. They also had about a thousand or two little cards printed with "6,500 attending Wisconsin and still growing," which were distributed to those present. We left the College Club and went out to the Gymnasium. And what a sight was there! That place was packed full of men—just men. Every man wore a little pennant on his coat lapel with his college letter and every college had its banners and pennants waving. When we all got together somebody suggested the Varsity Locomotive and I was made an impromptu cheer leader. I did my best to imitate Red Parker and Ken Layman and we certainly did let them know that the Wisconsin bunch had arrived. That brought all the University professors and other Wisconsin men who had arrived over to us, and I guess we had about fifty in all.

Then we had a parade in order to show them our banner, and every time we'd give a cheer everybody would shoot up a little card in a sort of pyrotechnical display. I'm sure they were delighted when they read what was on that card. We got front row seats and put our banner up along the wall so everybody in the place could see it. The Minnesota bunch was there in numbers and so was Michigan, Illinois, Chicago, Pennsylvania, Harvard, Yale, Tufts, Amherst, Williams, Stanford, California, and every other college I believe I ever heard of and a lot more. We'd give them a locomotive and Minnesota would come back with an "Ole Ole-son, Yon Yonson—we licked Wisconsin," and we put the quietus on them and brought down the house with "Menoka Menoka Menoka Minnesota—Swede-Swede-Swede."

The program consisted of selections by the Washington Glee Club, College Club Sextette, cartoons by Paul Fung, cartoonist for the leading Seattle paper, and speeches by prominent "Carl Russells" and by the president of the University. When this was over and the band had played "Hot Time" for our special benefit, every group sang a college song, and we gave them "On Wisconsin" a couple of times. It took one trial to teach some of the old ninety-fivers the words. Just before the eats, who should come in but "Butch" Boyle, our famous old line smasher back in 1908 and 1909. "Butch" is a Representative in the Washington Legislature now, and he was hailed by the Wisconsin bunch with much glee. I said he got there before the eats. And it was a well managed feed they gave us. They served a cafeteria style lunch and planned to feed the entire crowd in eight minutes, which task they well nigh accomplished.

Well, we showed them that Wisconsin spirit is the real spirit and that we could be counted on to boost for old Wisconsin all the time. It was generally conceded that we had the largest delegation aside from the University of Washington of any college or university there, and we will be back again next year with twice as many for we'll see that the banquet is two weeks ahead next time and that everybody saves the date.

PUNCH!

- will be in every page of the 1918 BADGER
- THE SCENE SECTION will be treated in a brand new, refreshing style. Something besides the usual cold page pictures.
- THE ADMINISTRATION SECTION will not be the deadiest part of the book any more, but a living picture of our faculty, your favorite pros in action.
- THE ATHLETIC SECTION—action, all kinds of it. More photos, snappy stuff, just enough reading matter to make it interesting.
- THE ORGANIZATION SECTION will be inoculated with an injection of college life that will make it a knockout. Something new in college annuals—a page of local color for each fraternity.
- THE CO-ED SECTION—for the first time! A whole section—of, by, and for Wisconsin women. They promise us some surprises.
- THE SATIRE SECTION, yes—and the Satire Section. Has it got the punch? We'll say it has a wallop!

Basketball

The one remaining game on the Badger basketball schedule—with Indiana at Bloomington—will not affect the standing of the team and Wisconsin will be satisfied this year with third place in the conference. Only one game, however, separates Dr. Meanwell's men from a tie for the championship which is jointly held by Minnesota and Illinois.

Under the leadership of its new captain, Harold Olsen, the Badgers opened the second semester with a lop-sided victory over Ohio State, the final reckoning being 40 to 15. "Big Bill" Chandler was the shining light with seven field goals to his credit, while Meyers, in addition to excellent floor work, caged three baskets. "Chick" Harley, who defeated Wisconsin in football, was inserted into the line-up, but he failed to make any end-runs for baskets. The line-up and summaries:

Wisconsin (40)		Ohio State (15)
Olsen	R. F.	Norton
Carroll, McIntosh
Hemming
Bauer	L. F.	Leader
Chandler	C.	MacDonald, Bast
Meyers, Simpson	R. G.	Bolen
Carlson	L. G.	Davies, Harley
Field goals—Olsen, 3; Chandler, 7; Meyers, 3; Carlson, 2; Hemming, 3; Simpson, 1; Norton, 2; Leader, 2; MacDonald; Davies. Free throws—Chandler, 2; Leader, 3.

With a chance to tie the conference basketball race, the Badgers journeyed to Champaign for their second encounter with the Illini on February 22, but after a game filled with thrills Illinois was returned a winner by a score of 20 to 17. Wisconsin assumed the lead from the start and gathered five points before the Illini scored but then Ralph Woods caged a free throw and three baskets in succession by Alwood and another free throw made the count 8 and 5 in Illinois' favor as the half ended. At the opening of the second half, Illinois led only to lose it to Wisconsin and with three minutes to play the Illini got their three-point lead and held it. Olsen and Carlson put up great games against their opponents while Meyers' two sensational baskets kept Wisconsin in the running. The line-up and summaries:

Wisconsin (17)		Illinois (20)
McIntosh	R. F.	Ralph Woods
Olsen	L. F.	McKay, Felmley
Chandler	C.	Alwood
Meyers	R. G.	Ray Woods
Carlson	L. G.	Halas
Field goals—Alwood, 5; Ray Woods, 3; McIntosh, 3; Meyers, 2; Chandler, 2; Halas. Free throws—Ralph Woods, 4; Chandler, 3.

Wisconsin got sweet revenge for the upset that the Maroons gave them in the home game during the first semester by trouncing "Pat" Page's Chicagoans at Chicago on March 3. The final score was 25 to 16 but the score failed to indicate the margin of difference that was shown. Chicago managed to get the early break and started out big but after that it was all Wisconsin and the Chicagoans afterward declared that the Badgers were stronger than either Illinois or Minnesota. McIntosh and Chandler took turns at starting for Wisconsin, the former garnering five field goals and the latter two in addition to three free throws. In the second half, Chicago was completely outclassed and seldom did Page's men have the ball. A large number of Wisconsin men—alumni and undergraduates—attended the game which was the finale of a "Chicago Day." The line-up and summaries:

Wisconsin (25)		Chicago (16)
Meyers	R. F.	Clark, Parker
McIntosh	L. F.	Bent, Bondy
Chandler	C.	Borgas, Orr
Olsen	R. G.	Townley
Carlson	L. G.	Rothermel
Field baskets—McIntosh, 6; Carlson, 3; Chandler, 2; Olsen; Townley, 2; Gorgas, 2; Bent, Rothermel. Free throws—Chandler, 3; Townley, 4.

Playing in fair form, the Badgers defeated Indiana at Madison on March 7 by a score of 29 to 14. The game was listless so far as Wisconsin was concerned, especially during the first half, which ended with the Badgers two points ahead. At the beginning of the second half, Schuler, who was inserted into the Hoosier line-up, made three shots in rapid-fire order and tied the score, but after that it was all Wisconsin. Chandler, playing center for Wisconsin, was the star of the game with six baskets from the field. The line-up and summaries:

Wisconsin (29)		Indiana (14)
Meyers	R. F.	Bushman, Schuler
Hemming
McIntosh	L. F.	Reed, Williams
Chandler	C.	Nash, Bowser
Olsen	R. G.	Mullet
Simpson, Carlson	L. G.	Byrum

Field goals—Chandler, 6; Carlson, 3; Olsen; Hemming; McIntosh; Nash, 3; Schuler, 3. Free throws—Chandler, 5; Williams, 2.

Wisconsin's basketball five, out of the running for the championship, demonstrated their worth in the last home game of the year by trouncing the Gophers, 16 to 13. The defeat dropped the northerners from undisputed first place into a tie with Illinois for the title.

The game was one of the best ever seen here and it was anybody's until the final whistle. It was a close battle throughout and there was never more than a two-point difference until the very end, when Wisconsin spurred into the lead, which they held. At the end of the first half the score stood 8 to 8.

Minnesota went into the lead when Gillen and Kingsley caged baskets at the start of the game but the Badgers rallied and devised a defense which made it impossible for further scoring by their opponents. At the close of the game, when the Badgers had the long end of the score, they played it safe by some of the cleverest short passing of the year. The Minnesota men tried desperately to break up the passes but failed. The line-up and summaries:

Wisconsin (16)		Minnesota (13)
Olsen	R. F.	Gillen
McIntosh	L. F.	Partridge
Chandler	C.	Stadsvola
Meyers	R. G.	Kingsley
Carlson	L. G.	Wyman
		Douglas

Field goals—Meyers, 2; McIntosh, 1; Chandler, 3; Olsen, 2; Gillen, 1; Kingsley, 3. Free throws—Douglas, 5.

Gymnastics

Wisconsin gymnasts defeated the Illinois gymnasts in their dual meet by the score of 1234.5 points to 1087 points. Captain Russell Smith of the Badger team worked consistently and proved that he is entitled to lead the team by his work on the rings, parallel bars, and with the clubs.

In the wrestling matches there were many close decisions in which Illinois came out on the top in each case with the exception of the heavy weight event, which was taken by Owen of Wisconsin on points.

In fencing Illinois won both the broad swords and foils, Norris being the sole Badger representative.

Track

In its opening dual meet of the indoor season, the Badgers succumbed to Notre Dame at South Bend on February 24, the final score being 48 to 38. The deciding factor was the shot put in which the Catholics scored a "slam." Arlie Mucks, the big weight star, was unable to make the trip and his absence cost Wisconsin five sure points which would have given Coach Jones' men a tie. Notre Dame's relay team broke the gymnasium record in the one-mile event by traveling the distance in 3:33 2/5.

Wisconsin was represented by only three men in the first annual indoor relay carnival which was held under the auspices of the University of Illinois at Urbana but even with this small quota the Badgers finished in third place. Chicago won the greatest number of points with Illinois second. Captain Smith was the individual point-winner with eleven to his credit—first in the 75-yard dash, second in the low hurdles, and second in the broad jump. Casey took third in the dash, while Burke, who represented Wisconsin in the all-round championships, finished second to Fisher of Chicago. Wisconsin was not represented in any of the relays which were won by Chicago and Notre Dame. The meet was especially attractive by the appearance of the University of Michigan—the first appearance of a Michigan team since the maize and blue withdrew from the Big Nine several years ago. The entry was heralded by some as a harbinger of Michigan's desire to return again to the western fold and it would not be at all surprising to find them engaged in competition with the big western teams in the near future.

In one of the most exciting dual meets ever held here, Wisconsin and Illinois fought to a tie,  $47\frac{1}{2}$  to  $47\frac{1}{2}$ . The score was tied when the two teams lined up for the start of the relay and it looked like an Illinois victory when Captain Smith took up the final quarter with ten yards to make up against Spink, the Illinois star. He caught the latter on the second lap and the two finished stride for stride, the judges being unable to decide the winner. The time was 3:35  $\frac{1}{5}$ , which broke the old record made in 1914 in a tie between Wisconsin and the Chicago Athletic Club.

Smith was the star of the meet with three firsts to his credit. He won the dash on the quarter and broke the record in the broad jump. Arlie Schardt, the star miler, was not far behind him, however, with a victory in the mile and a close second in the half-mile.

Illinois confidently expected to win and the tie was heralded as a victory by the Wisconsin rooters.

Swimming

Coach Hindman's swimming team has broken even in the two meets held thus far, losing to Chicago 39 to 29, and winning from Illinois 35 to 33. The season will close with the conference meet this month, and although Wisconsin has no championship hopes, the outlook was never as bright as it now is for success in this sport. Coach Hindman has a promising squad of freshmen and will lose no men this year.

Baseball

The council recently appointed A. J. Couture as assistant baseball coach. Couture, who is one of the best baseball men that ever entered Wisconsin, is ineligible because of having played professional ball before entering the University. The men are still working in the annex.

Rowing

Steps have been taken toward a reconsideration of the action whereby rowing was discontinued at Wisconsin and at a recent meeting of the athletic council that body appointed a committee consisting of Professors Pyre and Bunting and the writer to make an investigation and report back to the council. It is expected that the reduction of the race from four to three miles will be a decided factor in the return of the sport in case it is readmitted. Dr. Withington, football coach, who was a rowing enthusiast at Harvard, has written a letter to the Daily Cardinal in which he expresses the hope that rowing will again take its place as an intercollegiate sport.

CLASS OF 1907

Tenth and Improved Reunion Coupon Bonds Dated 1907 Due 1917

Interest payable at Madison, Wisconsin, only. Issued in denominations of Five ($5.00) Dollars. Principal will be registered and deposited in an approved bank. Louis F. Reinhard, Trustee. Ten valuable coupons.

Application will be made to list these bonds and it is expected that the entire amount will be taken up by the class. Definite or engraved bonds will be mailed on or before May 1st.

For information regarding this issue of bonds we refer to the sense of the reunion committee from whom we quote:

PURPOSE

The purpose of this issue is to obtain working funds for the reunion of the class of 1907 at Madison. Rather than borrow from a few private individuals the reunion committee believes that the class should obligate itself as a whole. The entire proposition is known to be under most reputable management; however the manufacture of events, programs, parties, baby contests, and baseball games will be seriously hampered in spring if funds are not forthcoming. The management is considered very capable and is at all times in direct touch with "CARP" GOEDJEN, President. Until the success of this issue is known, however, no contracts for raw stock, etc., can be placed; bids for delivery of material at our plant at Madison cannot be entertained. Therefore unless the class as a whole responds, insolvency is inevitable and we of 1907 will be considered a dead issue.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Balance on hand from 1912.....	$34.00
Present Printing and Postage.....	34.50
Deficit.....	.50

Sale of Bonds, present issue only..... Up To You

From the above statements you will notice that we want to avoid further assessments in June at Madison. No collectors will be employed and those of our visitors who are also bondholders need arrange for their railroad fare only.

TERRITORY

This reunion will operate to draw visitors from every state in the union and is further organized under the old franchise of 1903-1907 which the UNIVERSITY agrees to renew for another ten years.

EQUITY

There will be substantial equity for the holder of one of these bonds. The feeling that (if you should be so unfortunate as not to be able to come in June) you will have done your share in upholding the dignity of your class and its position, is in itself worth a great deal. Such equity cannot be figured out in dollars and cents.

LEGALITY

The legality of this issue; the franchise; the character and enthusiasm of the directors have all been favorably passed upon by Master Hubert O. Wolfe (actually graduated from the law school). Another very famous attorney, and, in the days of his prime, a very popular member of T. N. E.—"IKE" LORENZ—states: "these bonds will be found to be the only legal entry to all entertainments, speeches, tea and keg parties and even banquets and dances."

The bonds of this issue are therefore recommended for investment and are considered legal trust funds for your scrap book and other portfolios now being collected and held for your children.

Very truly yours,

REUNION COMMITTEE CLASS OF '07,

LOUIS F. REINHARDT, Treasurer, 709 Hackett Ave., Milwaukee,

Do not forget to advise us of your present address.

1912

By WM. J. P. ABERG, '12

The mighty Class of 1912 has risen—GANGWAY! All has been planned—from Picnic to Peerade. All that '12 needs to put on the only REUNION ever mobilized on Wisconsin soil is your presence in June—with the old time pep—and your money, now. Five is the price; send it to the treasurer.

The committees here published will be in charge of the big spring drive. Send them your big ideas and start a one-man campaign of your own for a 500 attendance. Every nineteentwelve's name and whereabouts is published here. Look them over; if they're your friends, write them! SHOW 1912 SPIRIT!

Executive Committee: Bill Aberg, Ted Hoyer, Bailey Ramsdell, Laura Johnson, Harry Meissner, Harold Eckhardt, Ed. ### Reunion War Whoop

By VICTOR CRONK

Blanche Fulton, of Hudson, is wintering in California. Blanche sure missed a few breezes and things. How's the orange crop, Blanche?—B. F. Lounsbury doctors for the Milwaukee Railway in Chicago. Believe it or not, but Doc. maintains three offices and you can generally find him at a fourth where his sign doesn't hang out. When we were in the city we tried to get hold of Doc. but when he inquired on the phone if we were the man with a wooden leg, we gave up in disgust and took the train for home.—Walt. Mabbitt is selling automobiles in Edgerton. Walt knows all about the differential and all that business. Walt and Marie are both coming to the reunion and so are the kids.—Hawley Lennon is, in the advertising business in Minneapolis. We just found out about it, or we would have passed around the hat before this and offered Hawley the job of advertising manager for the War Whoop.—Louise Foote, now known as Mrs. Barton, is teaching school out in Mason City, Iowa. Sure she's coming.—We are afraid there may be a lot of trouble as to who shall march first in the procession. We have studied on it all winter and we think the procession should be led by the clergy. If they can't decide who shall march first let them march all abreast. However, we are going to speak out our mind, and vote in favor of the most Reverend William A. Lee of Atlanta. Probably he won't do it, but we shall feel disappointed if he won't march in his pontifical robes. As for the others, Bill Parker can march in his or not as he likes, and so can August Hasse and Fred Wedge. (By the way, Wedge is pastor of a Baptist Church in Rhinelander. Fact.) Failing this, we vote for District Attorney Harry Sauthoff of Dane County. There is a strong underground influence in favor of the Commerce graduates (Fred Vogel), but we are firmly against it. We want them to bring up the rear, along with the medical corps and Harvey Clawson. (Next month we shall take up the problem of the second division.)

New York, March 3, 1917.
Mr. T. R. Hoyer,
106 Prospect Avenue,
Madison, Wisconsin.

Dear Ted:

Glad to get your letter and to see that the plans for the big reunion are under way. We will certainly make it the best yet, and I am sure that those of us who are in the East will do our share.

Our class certainly had them all beat at College and there is no reason why we should not have a reunion that will set the mark for a good while.

I look forward to seeing my classmates with a great deal of pleasure, and most every one I have spoken to expects to go.

Yours for a good time in June.
Lawrence Washington.

CAMPUS NOTES

Lack of purpose in seeking a college education is the reason for the large number of dismissals at the end of the first semester, according to S. H. Goodnight, dean of men.

Nearly seventy per cent of the 3,330 men students enrolled are pursuing professional studies. Engineering shows an enrollment of 628; commerce, 625; agriculture, 585; law, 163; medicine, 111; chemistry, 102; journalism, 67; pharmacy, 40; music, 5.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was suspended by the inter-fraternity council from inter-fraternity athletics and deprived of the privilege of holding social functions for the remainder of the semester, for the offense of "lifting" a pledge from Phi Kappa Sigma.

A popular primary system was tried out at the spring class elections, resulting in an exceedingly light vote.

The agricultural debating teams lost both ends of the triangular debate with Minnesota and Iowa Agries, March 2, debating the high cost of living problem.

"Careless handling of finances" has forced the Awk, a humorous monthly issued for the last year and a half, to suspend publication.

President Van Hise spoke on the Adamson bill at a meeting at the Settlement house, Milwaukee.

Scarlet fever caused a quarantine to be enforced on the second floor of Chadbourne Hall and the Gamma Tau Beta medical fraternity house. Miss Alice Edison, a freshman from Sun Prairie, and Grafton Weller of Fond du Lac, contracted the disease.

Harold Olsen, captain of the basketball team and halfback on the 1916 football team, has been appointed coach of athletics at Ripon college to succeed "Hod" Ofstie, ex '14, next fall.

The old "Athena Rooster," lost in the fire in the dome of University Hall, has been found. A query from E. W. Allen, '01, former debating star, set students detective machinery in action and the picture of the fowl was found safe in the room of a present member of Athena.

John R. Mott conducted a series of religious meetings, starting with an all-University convocation February 22 and continuing for four days. The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. were in charge of arrangements.

Membership on the astronomy committee of the National Research council has been conferred upon Dean G. C. Comstock, professor of astronomy, upon the recommendation of the National Academy of Sciences.

Wireless reports of athletic contests have become quite as common as "wires," due to the activities and efficiency of the wireless station at the University. Radio communication with other universities having similar equipment has been had quite frequently.

The initial number of the new magazine, Commerce, published by students in the Course in Commerce served as the official organ of the Wisconsin Commercial and Industrial Congress in February. G. L. Service of Mishawaka, Ind., is editor-in-chief. E. H. Gardner, assistant professor of English, is faculty editor and advertising head. F. H. Elwell, '08, S. W. Gilman, '99, and R. H. Hess, '08, are department editors.

The Health and Disease course which has an enrollment of 200 will meet in the auditorium of the Biology building to permit the admission of visitors.

Miss Mary F. Carpenter, instructor in the Library School, leaves April 1 for six months of library work in Hawaii.

Dr. J. C. Elsom of the department of physical education is giving a course for scoutmasters.

A charter of Theta Xi, national professional fraternity, was granted in February to the members of Engineers' Lodge, 428 N. Murray St.

A Short Horn show and auction sale were held in the Stock Pavilion February 15, and the program included films on agricultural subjects and an address by Sec'y Harding of the American Short Horn Breeders' Assn.

The Student Senate has created a Publication Advisory board, to which all student publications except the Cardinal will make monthly financial statements.

The flag bearing the state emblem, won by the Wisconsin corps of cadets in the Preparedness parade at Milwaukee last summer, was formally presented to the military department March 2.

Rev. John Haynes Holmes of New York spoke at an all-University convocation February 15, on the subject of "The International Mind."

A course for bandmasters is the latest innovation in the School of Music. Maj. J. E. Saugstad, leader of the First Regimental band, is directing the course, which is designed to help fill the need of trained leaders for bands and orchestras.

Gilman Blake of Los Angeles, a junior in the University, sailed for France to take up Red Cross field ambulance work in February, after Germany had renewed its indiscriminating submarine warfare.

"Lincoln's Attitude Toward Education" was the subject of a series of addresses delivered by M. V. O'Shea, professor of education, on a speaking tour through Louisiana, Texas, and Tennessee.

Our wireless station is included as one of four stations in a relay proposed to cross the continent, the others being at Albany, N. Y., Denver, Colo., and Los Angeles, Cal.

Cards announcing the marriage of Miss Ono Mary Imhoff, formerly assistant in the Legislative Reference library, to W. E. Hooper, February 21, at New York have been received.

The Wisconsin Interurban Street Railway Co. is seeking a right-of-way over lands owned by the University, for a route to Middleton and Prairie du Sac, abutting on the C. M. & St. P. right-of-way.

Dr. W. S. Miller, professor of anatomy, in an address before the Milwaukee County Medical association, declared that seventy-five per cent of the tuberculosis experts know absolutely nothing about lung structure, and that ignorance of the true conditions has hidden the real cause of the disease.

The rebuilding of the dome of University Hall has been postponed for two years to await the remodeling and fireproofing of the entire central portion of the building.

The Extension Division has issued a series of bulletins on correspondence-study, giving general and detailed information as to courses and credit.

The championship in the inter-sorority bowling league was won by Kappa Kappa Gamma, with Alpha Phi and Pi Beta Phi in a close race for second.

A collection of photographs, taken at Memphis during the Civil war, of Company C of the Twelfth Wisconsin, has been donated to the Historical Library by Thomas Wilson of Black Earth.

Sherwood Eddy, leader in prison camp relief work in Europe, opened a campaign March 7 to raise $4,000 for this work and the Wisconsin-China movement.

The judiciary committee of the Assembly killed a bill introduced by Assemblyman Donnelly, a Marquette graduate, requiring Wisconsin Law School graduates to take the state bar examinations.

The inter-fraternity basketball championship was won by the Beta Theta Pi team, with Delta Upsilon second, Delta Kappa Epsilon third, Sigma Alpha Epsilon fourth, and Kappa Sigma fifth.

Over eighty per cent of the faculty signed a telegram assuring loyalty to President Wilson, at his inauguration.

Founders' Day was observed by the Achuth sorority on March 3, with a banquet and dance at Lathrop hall.

The third annual conference of deans of women of Wisconsin colleges and normal schools was held at Madison March 9 and 10.

"Recent Developments in Aviation Engines," by A. F. H. Scott, '17, appeared in the February issue of the Wisconsin Engineer.

Director George Herbert is in charge of the rehearsals for "Jamaica Ginger," the Haresfoot production for 1917.

A Commerce Club for Women has been organized on the campus, its object being to encourage women to enter that course and to bring them into closer touch with one another and with the business world.

Assemblyman Pieper's notorious bill denouncing the Prom was indefinitely postponed by the committee on education, in executive session.

Herman A. Zischke was elected president of the class which enters the roll of graduates in June, 1917. Eleanor E. Ramsay was chosen vice president, and Wilfred Evans, secretary and treasurer. The new junior president is William Chandler, and the sophomore class is headed by Paul Cranefield.

Committees of students headed by George Baldwin as general chairman have organized to work for a dry Madison, at the coming election.

The report of Dean Reber for the biennium ending July 1, 1916, gives evidence of wide-spread service to the state through correspondence-study, public discussion, lectures and entertainments, civic and community affairs, texts, and bulletins. The reports of the various departments, and of the various division headquarters about the state show evidence of the remarkable growth of the Extension Division since its reorganization in 1906. A series of charts show graphically the extent of the activities, placing the various phases of the work before the reader in a most interesting and intelligible manner.

BOOK NOTES

The Elements of Public Speaking (Ginn and Co., Boston, $1.40) by H. G. Houghton, assistant professor of public speaking. This textbook is designed for use in beginning courses in public speaking, teaching the organization of subject matter and the cultivation of powers of expression. Each important principle of the art is treated in a separate chapter, and the importance of clear and accurate thinking is emphasized throughout. It is in no sense a book of speeches, the excerpts from orations and other literature being very brief.

Character and Temperament (D. Appleton and Co., New York) by Joseph Jastrow, professor of psychology. The work is dedicated to "the University of Wisconsin, a pioneer in the academic recognition of psychology." It surveys the sources of human nature in the light of modern psychology. It is a statement of the foundations of human differences, and a study of the traits upon which education builds, which the vocations select, and which society encourages. It includes an intimate account of the emotional life and of the origins of the sentiments which sway human actions individually and in masses, and of their normal and abnormal expressions. It considers the varied play of the environment and the manner of its working upon the qualities of men which heredity supplies. It reaches definite conclusions upon the psychology of sex and of race—topics of immediate concern in the political arena and the conflicts of armed nations. The volume makes a direct appeal to all who are responsible for the training, direction, or selection of men, likewise to all practically dealing with the most significant asset of any people—the qualities of its citizens.

Contracts, Specifications, and Engineering Relations (McGraw-Hill Book Co., New York) by D. W. Mead, consulting engineer and professor of sanitary and hydraulic engineering. The book was originally issued for the author's classes and for private circulation. In it are discussed some of the important relations of the engineer and of the architect in practical life; legal and contractual relations are considered more briefly; and personal and ethical relations are also taken up. The author has gone into greater detail in the preparation of specifications, on which not so much published matter is available.

Shipping in Its Relation to Our Foreign Trade (Business Training Corp., New York City) by E. R. Johnson, '88, professor of transportation and commerce at the University of Pennsylvania, and G. G. Huebner, '05, assistant professor of transportation and commerce at the same institution. This volume is the seventh unit of a "Course in Foreign Trade," directed by Edward Ewing Pratt. It presents problems and conditions in the world's shipping business concisely and accurately, the result of their thorough studies of shipping and commerce.

Albert Teachers' Agency

Graduates of the University of Wisconsin will find it to their advantage to register with an agency long established and with a patronage covering the entire country.
