BADGERS MEET MICHIGAN NINE TODAY AT 2:30

Lowman's Men Are Primed for Crucial Conference Battle

START WITH NEW LINEUP

A Big Ten baseball championship may be won or lost at Camp Randall this afternoon.

Primed for a diamond struggle which will tax its every power to the utmost, Coach Guy S. Lowman's Wisconsin nine will meet the University of Michigan at 2:30 today in a game which may be the making or unmaking of a champion.

The Badgers, with two Big Ten victories to their credit over Northwestern and Minnesota, will stack up against the strategy of Coach Ray Fisher, former big league pitcher and his nine charges who came within a few points of winning the Conference title last year, and who this year upset the dope in their first contest by defeating Illinois, 8 to 1.

Play for One Run

Both teams will play for the one run, depending on airtight defenses to keep back the onslaught of base-hits which may be produced by two such heavy-hitting squads as Wisconsin and Michigan.

"I do not know who will start on the mound for us," said Coach Lowman last night. "It all depends upon how the men look in warming up practice before the game. The new infield combination is going well as could be expected, and the men have been hitting the ball in recent contests.

"Cold weather of the past week has prevented our getting in any effective drills and has hurt the throwing arms of our moundsmen. The team, however, is in good condition for the game."

Result is Significant

Although the loss of one game will not put any team out of the running this early in the season, it will have a marked effect on future playing. Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin are conceded to be the three strongest squads in the 10-team league. When Michigan nosed out Illinois in a nerve-racking battle, the Wolverines came into a tie for first place with Wisconsin. They will obtain a firmer hold on the top if they lick the Badgers this

Theta Sigs Publish Tomorrow's Cardinal

Tomorrow's Cardinal will be an issue published by girls alone.

Skyrockets, editorials, feature stories, and straight news will all be products of the feminine pen.

Theta Sigma Phi, honorary woman's journalistic fraternity, will "own and control," the Sunday Cardinal.

Once every year one issue of the Cardinal is published by this organization. The Theta Sig Cardinal this year is to be an introduction to Journalism week, and issues will be delivered to the regular subscribers and will also be on sale at the drug stores tomorrow.

Friday Cardinal Unavoidably Delayed

Delivery by carrier of yesterday's Daily Cardinal was made impossible because of the late hour at which the paper went to press. The distribution on the hill at noon was only a measure resorted to at the last minute in order to get the papers into the hands of our subscribers.

An accident to the make-up man in the composing room caused the shortage of help which was responsible for the delay.

An official statement issued by The Capital Times late last night follows:

"Through not fault of the Cardinal staff was the issue of April 28 delayed; but merely through an unavoidable accident to one of our employees."

SHOWS RELATION BETWEEN DRAMA AND THE NOVEL

Capacity Crowd Grooms Zona Gale Yesterday in Music Hall

Students, faculty members, and Madison townspeople crowded Music hall to its capacity to hear Miss Zona Gale, novelist and playwright speak on "Making a Play from a Novel," yesterday afternoon.

Tracing the parallels between fiction and drama, Miss Gale used "Miss Lulu Bett" in novel and play form to illustrate, and showed how she developed the play from the novel.

No Arbitrary Rules

"To meet the demands of the drama, the methods used in writing the novel must be turned inside out," said the speaker. "There are no arbitrary rules for dramatic writing. What is explained through comment of the author in novel writing must be explained by means of conversation and action in a drama."

Miss Gale pointed out that changes must often be made in the plot when making a play out of a novel, and that a weakness which has been entirely overlooked in a novel is evident in a play. This often accounts for the change in ending between the novel and play.

Beauty Required

"But these are matters of mechanics," said Miss Gale. "In a play there must be beauty, that intangible beauty which is necessary to the novel. The naturalistic is not enough. We enjoy that childish delight of recognition applying to ourselves. This is largely the field and the appeal of the naturalistic novel and play of today."

"The novel and play of tomorrow will not deal only with the outward manifestations of living, but will embody a deepening wonder of life which now we get only in flashes, and a deeper knowledge of art and heightening of our ability for expression."

Mortar Board Supper Scheduled for May 11

Dancing on a week night, fully authorized by the deans, will be an inducement at the Mortar Board May supper which is held Thursday, May 11, in Barnard court. This supper, which is an annual affair, is given for the benefit of the Mortar Board scholarship fund which this organization has maintained for many years.

Supper will be served from 5:30 on, and the dancing will begin as soon as the first people have finished eating and will last until 8:30. Tickets are 75 cents. Fraternity and sorority houses and boarding houses will be asked not to serve supper on that night, to aid the May supper to be profitable enough to maintain the scholarship for the next year.

UNUSUAL HEAVY VOTE

Almost twice as many votes were polled at the annual spring elections yesterday than have ever been cast before. The amendment to the Cardinal constitution failed to receive the required 3,500 votes. Only 1,500 were cast for the amendment, and 252 votes were cast against the amendment.

IT WAS a great election!

RALPH SCOTT was unanimously elected to all five positions on the Board of Control.

WE THOUGHT we had the record when we voted seven times, but Dan O'Neil took the wind out of the sail with a record of 14 1/4.

THE MILITARY bloc may be blamed for certain misfortunes. After gathering on the lower campus, they were marched in a body to places of voting, and incomplete returns show that the disarmament question won with a landslide.

Varsity Menaced By New "Yellow Peril?"

The green and yellow ribbons that sprouted from the heads of certain trembling neophytes of Skull and Crescent yesterday were not a threat of a new "yellow peril," but merely a stunt of President "Gordie" Wanzer to get publicity for the preinitiation show he is going to present in sorority alley this afternoon. He hopes that there will be a large audience and that they will bring paddles.

Convention of Alpha Gamma Rho Held Here

Seventy-five out-of-town delegates attended the session of the Alpha Gamma Rho national convention in the senate chamber of the state capitol Friday afternoon. These came from 19 chapters, and were presided over by Glen Campbell of Pennsylvania.

Last night a banquet was held in their honor at the Capitol cafe at which "Doc" Dorward provided the feature in the entertainment. This afternoon the delegates will be shown about Madison, and tonight a semi-formal dance at the Park hotel is planned.

Mop Floors, Prune Trees For Education

About 2,800 men and 250 women are earning their way through Wisconsin. They are doing all varieties of work from beating rugs to selling blood for transfusion in hospitals.

Mopping floors, waiting on table, clerking in stores, pruning trees, setting type, selling everything from socks and typewriters to oil stocks and electric lighting outfits, tutoring, caring for children, and doing fine laundry are examples of the work done by the students of the University of Wisconsin, according to the estimate made by the student employment bureau.

CAMPUS MOVIE NOW COMPLETE

Last Scenes Taken Yesterday
As Noon Classes Were Dismissed

The last scenes of a Wisconsin moving picture will be taken this noon by Dr. M. E. Diemer '08, head of the photographic laboratories of the university when the 11 o'clock classes are dismissed and 5000 students pour down the campus walks on their way to their respective eating houses.

The idea of the three reel picture which is the combine work of Prof. E. H. Gardner and Doctor Diemer, and which is prepared under the joint auspices of the bureau of visual instruction of the Extension division and the building committee of the Memorial union, is to present the scenes of the campus to the old alumni and former Wisconsin citizens all over the country.

The picture will show snapshots of all Wisconsin activities such as the Varsity welcome, the bag rush, the Varsity teams in action, pictures of the faculty and the buildings, pictures of notable scientific achievements, and pictures of the grads themselves at homecoming last year.

The third reel is written in plot form and has to do with the coming of an old grad from about '95 to Wisconsin after many years' absence. The picture shows his astonishment at the size of the institution and by means of his investigations brings out the need for a Memorial union. The part of the old grad will be taken by Burr W. Jones, justice of the supreme court.

Cambridge Men Seek To Oust All Co-eds

—“BILL” PICKARD.

“Down with the Co-eds” seems to be the recent sentiment of the British male students at Magdalene college, Cambridge university, England, according to “Bill” Pickard, last year's cheer leader, who is now attending college there.

“The students did their best to run the 500 co-eds completely out of the university in an attack against them about a week ago. They did succeed in breaking down the massive gates of the girls' colleges in their hostile attack,” said Pickard in a letter to the Daily Cardinal.

Magdalene college put more emphasis on tradition than any other one of the traditional colleges in Cambridge, according to Pickard.

“I don't hold anything against tradition except in a dining room. In order to preserve traditional environment our college dining hall has no electric lights. We eat by dim candle light. All blessings on tradition, but sometimes it is rather convenient to see whether you have peas or beans on the end of your fork,” he said.

Burst of Popularity Endangers Wireless Industry—Hanson

The burst of popularity being enjoyed by the radio industry is endangering the efficiency of the university station, according to Chief Operator Malcolm P. Hanson. So much time is required to answer the many requests which come to the station that the proper amount of time cannot be taken to maintain the apparatus.

“We receive hundreds of letters here every week asking every conceivable question,” said Hanson. “I don't have very much help here. There are a few students assisting me, but we can't give much time to doing repairs.”

Hanson expects to have more help at the station next year. He is confident, however, that he can do justice to the demands of the fans in spite of the great handicap placed upon him by the rush.

Hanson feels that so much publicity has been given the radio business by newspapers in their special radio departments that it has endangered the stability of the industry.

Soph Commission to Lead Sunday Vespers

The Sophomore Commission will have entire charge of the Sunday afternoon vespers next Sunday. A special program has been planned, consisting of musical numbers and a number of short talks by members of the commission. “We are anxious to have everyone, especially all of the sophomore women, come to this service, for we have planned a program which is for university women and will be of practical use,” said Miss Brown.

SINCLAIR VISITS HIS SON, DAVID, AT UNIVERSITY

Author of “Brass Check” Tells of His Early Start as Writer

“By the time I was 18 I had written enough dime novels to equal in volumes the works of Sir Walter Scott,” said Upton Sinclair, author of the “Jungle” and “The Brass Check”, who arrived yesterday morning to spend a week with his son, David Sinclair, sophomore in the College of Engineering.

“At 15 I started to write stories for sale. I made my way through school by selling jokes at a dollar apiece and by writing for ‘half dime weeklies.’”

“These stories of wild adventure were written under assumed names. In one magazine I posed as a lieutenant in the United States army and in another I was an officer of the navy. The Spanish-American war was a great time for these heroes. They had all sorts of narrow escapes and encounters with the Spaniards but always ‘came up smiling’ and victorious.”

“After I started writing novels I found that they would not pay the grocery bills so well as the ‘pot boilers’. I tried to return to the dime novels as a way of making money while I wrote my real novels but I found that I had lost my power to tell these exciting tales.

“Experience is essential if one is to tell facts truly. One must have faith in the human spirit to overcome obstacles if he is to be a writer of the first class, and he must not slip to the plane cynicism.”

Junior Women Lead In All-Year Contest

The junior women now are in the lead in the all-year contest for the class championship in all of the sports and individual athletic honors, with a total of 137 points. This total was obtained after all of the championships in the winter contests were declared and all of the individual honors in these sports had been won.

The spring sports will, of course, bring a great many more points to the classes which win in the tournaments, and all of the classes are trying to capture the highest places in the present sports to give them the all year championship.

At present the sophomores are second with 121 points, the freshmen next with 70 points, and the seniors last with 30 points.

STATEMENT

Wisconsin has always been noted for the spirit of fair play shown by her students and the sportsmanship of her teams. This year's Varsity baseball team is no exception to the rule. It is a team of true sportsmen. It is up to the students of Wisconsin to prove that the same may be said of them, by affording to the visiting teams, their own team, and the umpires and coaches courteous and sportsmanlike treatment.

Any student who does not care to conduct himself as a loyal son of Wisconsin, had much better stay away from the games than attend them. Any recurrence of the carping attitude evidenced last Saturday by a few thoughtless or disloyal fans, would be very unfortunate. Wisconsin's reputation for squareness has been built up by years of fair play. It can be seriously affected by a very few occurrences such as this one. If you are a loyal Badger come out and boost today!

T. E. JONES,
Director of Athletics.

Editor's Note: The following communication is reprinted from yesterday's State Journal. The facts concerning the late distribution of yesterday's Daily Cardinal are given on Page 1 of this issue.

Perhaps the Daily Cardinal will indignantly admit that its appearance at noon of election day, with its editorial page devoted almost exclusively to a personal attack upon me, has a—let us say "peculiar look." Men interested in general politics are sometimes so impolite as to call this a "roarback."

"The article consists entirely of personal attack and personal defense, and shrewdly ignores the important question of whether The Daily Cardinal is a good or poor college paper.

"The copy of which I am accused of "demanding" publication in the Cardinal was publicity for the Union Board Concert series, a college enterprise the net profits of which were to go to the Memorial union. I submitted the point to judgment.

"To the accusation that I "usurped the power of the whole board to make demands on the staff members," I answer by quoting the constitution: "The president * * * shall have general supervision of the affairs of the Daily Cardinal corporation."

"The statement that I have consistently opposed women's representation on the board is a falsehood. I have opposed a rule that women shall be represented on the board, just as I would have opposed a rule that men shall be represented on the board. I believe in equality, and that both sexes should take their chances alike. As to the specific case, it happened that in my judgment Joel Swensen, a male candidate, had better qualifications than any woman candidate then under consideration.

I note that in Max Petersen's communication, about three sticksful, was held out for lack of space, but that in violation of precedent, if indeed not of rules, fully four times that amount of space is given to a personal attack upon myself and to personal defense of the staff. If one finds a precedent for this, the trail will undoubtedly lead to a member of the "kept press."

I have not said the Cardinal staff, or any one of them, were dishonest. Gratuitous defense is sometimes interpreted as self-accusation.

"The strategy of this attack upon me may have been good, but the psychology was bad. Had such an attack been distributed at the usual hour of publication Friday morning there would have been considerable opportunity to meet it. A noon distribution gave the student body time to read it before the heavy voting, but afforded practically no opportunity to combat it. Students who regard this as good sportsmanship may be influenced against me by the editorial. Those who do not may find in it an additional reason for refusing to concur with the Cardinal.

"Laying all of these personalities aside, the issue remains the same. Are the students of the university satisfied with the Cardinal? Is it democratic? Is it representative? Does it do honor to the university? Are its affairs in substantial shape? Or is it a poor college paper, reflecting discredit upon the university? If the latter, will those who have not improved it, and who resent constructive criticism, ever improve it?"

ADRIAN SCOLTEN.

THE ELECTION

TO the indifference and apathy of the student body to the welfare of its official press, The Daily Cardinal, can be attributed the defeat of the amendment at yesterday's election. The amendment had been explained—its purpose and the results it would accomplish were as thoroughly familiar to the general student personnel as it is possible for any amendment to be.

That 3,500 votes were not cast is not so surprising, for there are scarcely that many students in Wisconsin who take an active interest in politics. The proposed amendment, however, was not politics in any form—but an honest attempt toward the accomplishment of a long-felt need—better rules for the guidance and conduct of our college daily. The surprising result of the election is that 252 votes were cast against the amendment. Rather a large number showed a marked distrust of the efforts and opinions of various campus leaders who had expressed their earnest desire for its passage.

The election is over and the candidates, defeated and undefeated, should be able to view the results with calm acceptance of what the ballot has decided. The necessary campaign rivalry need not be continued. Whether it is men or issues that have lost—it is best to be as good a loser as one would have been a winner.

TRUE SPORTSMANSHIP NEEDED

TEAMWORK is essential to successful athletics, but it is not restricted to the men on the gridiron, the basketball floor, or the diamond. The crowd can do as much to disrupt perfect teamwork as can the grand stand player. In fact, the latter is a welcome addition to a team in comparison with a hostile audience. The player, by a good exhibition, may justify his being on the team; a jeering crowd is unnecessary and unwanted.

Wisconsin baseball fans last Saturday gave an excellent example of what a university crowd should not be. Poor sportsmanship is inadequate to describe the attitude displayed.

The coach and the team are doing everything they can to produce a Conference winner this year, but they cannot do it alone. An enthusiastic crowd that backs them, an appreciative student body, can supply the one element which a team and coach cannot develop in practice.

This afternoon the team meets Michigan in one of the crucial games of the season. Last year the Michigan-Wisconsin games were hotly disputed and the one this afternoon will be hard fought.

The team and the coach want, and need, the support of every student, and in addition to that support they should have the respect and co-operation of every rooter. If university students can attend the game and forget the small town razzing that characterizes the rooting of a small part of the student body, they should be out in force. If they cannot behave as gentlemen and sportsmen, their place is anywhere except at Camp Randall. The one great aim of college athletics is to develop a spirit of clean sportsmanship and friendly rivalry, not only between the men on the team, but between the students of the colleges. If this aim fails, athletics have, in a sense, failed also.

Cheer with the team and the coach. Not at them.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

WE often think how fortunate we would have been if we had lived in the time of Caesar, or stood on the deck of the Santa Maria with Columbus, as he sailed into the bay of San Salvador, or have seen the Reformation in its early stages. We are apt to sit and think how great a part we would have played in the big thing of history had we been there. We think we would have stood calmly off to one side and given the leaders of those movements the benefit of our experience. How we would have revelled in the delight of telling Napoleon how he might have won the battle of Waterloo; or in telling Columbus to sail to the northward and land in the great natural harbor of New York.

But the truth of the matter is that we would not have been in any better position if we had lived at that time than anyone else. It required just as much vision on the part of leaders in old history as it does today. The crying need of the day is for men who can get off to one side and view things from all angles, just as it was 500 years ago.

These are momentous times. The world is trying to recover from a disastrous war. How it would help if we could have the experience of future historians to guide us through the dangerous channels. But obviously we cannot have that experience. We must solve our own problems in our own way. Future historians will have their own difficulties to work out, and they probably would not help us if they could.

Let us view the questions of the present day as we like to think we would have viewed the discovery of America or the battle of Waterloo. Get off to one side and think on the problems that confront us as past history. Let us look at them from all angles and draw our own conclusions. Then get to work on them with all the power, all the strength, and all the ability we can muster. The world is in desperate need of leadership from the perspective and it is looking to the youth of all nations to supply it.

This is the diary of a young college man:

Back to college again with a fine record behind me, to wit: twelve dances, seven teas, several theaters and a long line of broken hearts. It was a great vacation and I feel that I have done myself and the college justice.

Pythia Lit Society Wins Annual Debate With Castalia, 2-1

Pythia defeated Castalia 2 to 1 in the annual joint debate of the two women's literary societies held last night in Music hall. Mrs. John J. Blaine presided. The debate was marked by a clearness of argumentation and by numerous bits of humor.

The question, "Resolved, That the passage of a soldier bonus bill by Congress being conceded, the money to defray the bonus should be raised by a sales tax on all retail transactions," was upheld in the affirmative by Pythia and in the negative by Castalia.

The Pythian team, which was composed of Vesta Ritter '24, Cornelia Heise '24, and Marjory Capron '24, based its argument on the claim that a sales tax would be workable in practice, socially just, and economically sound.

The Castalians, Pearl Anderberg '23, Anita Jones '24, and Catherine Boyd '24, argued that such a tax would be unjust, unnecessary, detrimental to business, and that it has failed in other countries, notably in Canada.

The debate was judged by Dr. G. H. Stewart, Dr. Harry Jerome, and Justice Walter Owen of the Wisconsin Supreme court.

AT THE ORPHEUM

A couple was passing through the lobby of the Great Northern Theatre in Chicago, after a performance of D. W. Griffith's latest screen offering, "Orphans of the Storm."

As they passed a life-sized portrait of Joseph Schildkraut, who plays the role of the Chevalier, and de Vaudrey, and whom the critics have declared to be the handsomest man of the screen, the lady looked long and earnestly at the photograph.

"Well, the man commented, giving her arm an impatient little tug, "did you think he was so terribly handsome?"

"Yes, he's good looking, all right," she assured him, "but, say, Jim, I don't believe he'd make half as wonderful a husband as you are."

Whereupon a smile lighted his face, and he gave his wife's hand a sly little squeeze.

"Orphans of the Storm" will continue at the Orpheum Theatre for the balance of the week, with two performances daily, including the Sunday shows.

Give Clinic Away to Champion Ticket Seller

Do you want a pedigreed Airdale, for whom you won't have to pay? If you do, get busy and sell tickets for the second annual Madison dog show, to be held in the stock pavilion of the university, Saturday, May 13.

The Kennel club, sponsoring the show, has announced that it offers a pedigreed Airdale to the person who sells the greatest number of tickets. The dog was named this morning in honor of the project for which the money realized from the show goes, the Child Health Center of the Public Welfare department. His name is Clinic.

FLANNEL HAT AND SCARF SET IS NEW

Scarf and hat sets to match have been popular for some time, but it remained for 1922 to bring in the hat and scarf set of flannel. Here is a dashing model which will brighten up any spring or summer costume. It is of red flannel with a floral design applied in white felt with black stitching.

2,600 ATTEND TENTH ANNUAL AUTO DISPLAY

Dance to Thompson's Orchestra in New Building This Afternoon

A total of 2,600 passed the turnstiles of the tenth annual automotive exposition in the new Purcell-Wischen building yesterday, the second day of the show, Manager Wischen announced.

The record of the 1921 show was broken Wednesday when 25,000 paid admissions were recorded. This figure exceeded the 1921 record by several hundred.

"Despite the fact that the more popular cars are not represented in the show, we have exhibited another record for a Madison automotive exposition," Mr. Wischen said yesterday. "We have sold 12 cars, one tractor, and one truck by this noon. This has never been accomplished by any Madison show before."

The exposition may continue until Monday night instead of closing on Saturday as originally planned. This may be necessary to accommodate the many persons who find it impossible to attend except during the evening.

Thompson's orchestra is furnishing music for dancing this afternoon and evening. A section of the second floor is especially decorated and arranged to accommodate 500 dancers.

Dean May Obtain Offices Next Week

Offices in the Karsten block, probably on the third floor, will be obtained within a week as offices by Phillip Dean, former building commissioner, who is going into business for himself.

Sunset Serenade to Be Staged May 19

Tree Planting In Impressive Grant Service

Madison Veterans Aid in Honoring Memory of Noted General

Headed by the high school band, in full uniform, some 3,000 Madison school children marched to the Capitol, where, between the East Main street and Monona avenue entrances, exercises in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of General U. S. Grant's birth were held Thursday afternoon at 3:30.

Hosea W. Rood acted as master of ceremonies, and introduced Stanley E. Lathrop, civil war veteran, who gave the invocation.

Following a speech by Judge A. C. Hoppmann, who declared that Grant's life is an example of the fact that man is not great because he has great wealth or abilities, but is loved and honored only insofar as he applies his wealth and abilities to the service of his fellowmen, the tree planting ceremony took place.

The tree, presented by members of the G. A. R., was set into the ground and the first shovel of earth was thrown on by Dr. H. R. Bird, also a member of the G. A. R. Other veterans who aided in the planting were: Comrades F. A. Bird, Joseph W. Curtis, A. H. Cook, Frederick Casebeer, Joseph Dean, H. Levander Farr, George W. Holt, Ranson C. Luther, John Liefeld, Charles H. Lang, Charles M. Loomis, Jesse S. Meyers, T. A. Manchester, Martin Nelson, William Pooch, Philip Ryan, William Sauthoff, Mark Smith, John Siggelko, Henry Sanford, James Thompson, K. L. Thompson, M. P. Wheeler, and George Zimmerman. Singing of patriotic songs was led by Prof. E. B. Gordon.

Gloria Dei Completes Plan For $25,000 Church Edifice; Begin Razing Old Building

Proposed New Gloria Dei Lutheran Church

Plans for a $25,000 edifice have been completed for the Gloria Dei congregation at E. Mifflin and N. Hancock sts. The structure will be of brick with a seating capacity of 300 on the main floor and about 100 in the balcony.

A large Sunday school room and assembly room are provided for in the basement, also a kitchen built on one side of the main structure. The building committee consists of John Ahl, chairman; O. W. Levander, F. A. Fredrickson, and Herman Hanson. Bids have already been solicited and contracts will be let as soon as accepted.

The work of tearing down the old chapel has already begun and the congregation is ready to solicit funds to carry out the program. The campaign will start as soon as the final arrangements are completed.

The Gloria Dei Evangelical Lutheran church in Madison was organized in 1907 by Rev. Paul Bostrom under the name of the Swedish Evangelical Lutheran church, at which time there were 27 members and a Sunday school of 13 children. At the present time there are 120 communicant members and 65 children in the Sunday school.

The congregation is affiliated with the Evangelical Lutheran Augustana Synod of America. Although mostly composed of people of Swedish descent, services are generally held in English, and the Sunday school is conducted entirely in English. Due to this fact, the congregation recently decided to change its name to Gloria Dei (from the Latin, Glory to God) Evangelical Lutheran church.

After Rev. Bostrom left in 1910 the progress of the congregation was somewhat handicapped until 1914 when Rev. Erik Karlson was called to take charge. Meantime the work had been in the hands of students, among others A. H. Bostrom, Albert Scherten and Einar Goranson. The present pastor, Rev. E. A. Peterson, succeeded Rev. Karlson in June, 1917, and from that time the work has been steadily going forward. Due to the loyal assistance rendered by its societies, especially the Ladies' Aid, the congregation has finally been able to clear its property at 404 E. Mifflin st. of debt which for a long time has been altogether too inadequate to fill its requirements. Plans were prepared by Balch & Lippert.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

BADGERS MEET MICHIGAN NINE TODAY AT 2:30

Lowman's Men Primed For Crucial Battle

afternoon, while if the Wisconsin outfit wins, it will have a comfortable lead in the race.

Whether Captain Forrest Paddock, Christianson, Pickford, or any of Coach Lowman's pitchers will step onto the rubber to throw the first ball will not be known until shortly before the referee shouts his, "Play ball." Paddock has grabbed two games on the won side of Wisconsin's ledger. He whiffed 23 men and allowed 12 hits, 8 to Northwestern and 4 to Minnesota. If the leader is in condition, he will take up the pitching burden with a good crew of hurlers in reserve should the Michigan swat-smiths run amuck.

New Lineup

The new lineup will show before a large crowd of fans for the first time. The return of George Ruedinger to third base has considerably strengthened the offensive and infield. Dugan, who has been clouting the horsehide with regularity, has been shifted from the third base to right field. Christianson, a regular pitcher, to take his turn on the mound.

Another change in the inner works will put either Skaife or Combacker at second base. Combacker showed up well in the Notre Dame game last Monday.

"Babe Ruth" Elliott will do his bit at shortstop. The Bambino has been murdering everything served to him in the line of good pitching, and batting in the cleanup position this afternoon, he will have an opportunity to lace out long drives which will be sorely needed. J. Williams will complete the infield at first base, and R. Williams and Ceaser will take care of the outer garden. Barry is slated to don the mask and shin guards behind the bat.

Michigan a Hard Foe

Presenting almost the same team that Wisconsin fought twice last year, Michigan will be a hard foe to beat. The Badgers lost a game at Ann Arbor in 18 innings, but beat Michigan out of a championship by a 7 to 6 victory in the last game of the 1921 season. Capt. "Ernie" Vick, star catcher, has received an offer to play with the St. Louis Browns, American leaguers, next year. He will be in the points with either Dixon, Liverance, or Schultz, Michigan's star trio of pitchers.

The Roxana club of Madison will be guests of the Wisconsin athletic department at the game.

Probable batting orders follow:

Schlatter Names Teams For College Soccer Tournament

Teams which will enter the inter-college soccer tournament to begin Wednesday afternoon were announced yesterday by Coach Fred E. Schlatter. Agrics, Letters and Science players, and Commerce men have been selected. The Law school and the Engineering college have until Monday noon to announce their entries in the tourney.

Agrics will meet L. & S. soccer players in the first game of the tourney at 4:30 Wednesday. Commerce will stack up against the Engineers on the same afternoon. The winning team will receive college insignia and points will be awarded to count toward the Nelson trophy for intramural sports.

With Coach Schlatter looking the men over carefully, it is expected that some good material will be unearthed for the proposed Varsity soccer team next fall. Wisconsin has entered into negotiations with Minnesota and Chicago for contests and if it can procure a good team, the matches will be scheduled.

Lineups of the three teams already chosen follows:

Letters and Science—C. H. Chu, fullback; Lee, left end; Landa, forward; Klos, forward, Hendry, back; Maxcy, back; Miller, back; Isaacson, forward; Sinclair and Weinreich.

Agriculture—J. Vander Merwe, C. M. Vander Reit, B. J. Smit, R. P. Matteson, S. H. Matteson, Alfred Weed, William Longenecker, Marvin Schaars, E. W. Callenbach, H. G. Derthick, John Reinhold, A. A. Dennerlein, E. E. Bertolaet, Tenpas.

Lambda Chis Wallop Phi Psi Nine, 12 to 2

In their first game of the series yesterday afternoon the Lambda Chis walloped the Phi Psi by a score of 12 to 2. The game, which was played after supper on the lower campus and which was called after five innings on account of darkness, was a walkaway from the start, the Lambda Chis making six runs in their first trial at bat.

Batteries for the two teams were Shorty Clausen and Rube Kessel for Lambda Chi, Farrel and Bunge for Phi Psi. Clausen, a frosh, did good work at the slab, holding down his position throughout the five innings and striking out a number of his opponents with ease. Farrel started for the Phi Psis, but was forced out of the box in the first inning. Two other pitchers were used up by the hard hitting Lambda Chis before the game was called. Bunge caught for the five innings.

The feature of the game was a three-bagger in the first inning. Lambda Chi was at bat, the bases were full and no outs had as yet been made. Ambourne, the stocky second bag man, stepped to the plate and knocked out a three-base hit in the right field, bringing in the first three runs of the game. Before the side was retired, six markers had been piled up for a safe lead by the Lambda Chis.

The Phi Psis made one run in the first session, and the other of their lone pair in the third inning. Lambda Chi made four more scores in the second inning, one of them a home run wallop by Clausen, the freshman pitcher, who scored the only circuit of the game. The last two runs of the game were made by the Lambda Chis in the third inning.

The team which will meet Northwestern university, Beloit college, and Chicago in matches. Henry Capen, Joe Hook, Bauer, and Pope are a quartet of good brassie wielders who are expected to make a good showing.

THREE BADGERS PLACE IN DRAKE RELAY PRELIMS

Three Wisconsin Relay Teams Will Also Enter Finals Tonight

(Special to Daily Cardinal)
DES MOINES, Ia., April 29—Wisconsin made a rather poor start in the Drake Relay carnival which opened here yesterday when only three Badger places were landed in the preliminaries for the special events.

Ralph Spetz placed in the finals of the 100-yard dash when he won his heat in the fast time of 10 1-5 seconds.

Guy Sundt qualified in both the shot put and broad jump. No other Badgers qualified. The feature of the preliminaries day was the javelin throwing of Angier, of Illinois. He slipped beyond the competition of the other entrants when he hurled the javelin 191 feet 4 inches.

Besides having a man in the broad jump, shot put, and 100-yard dash, Wisconsin will have George Stolley in the 440-yard low hurdles, and will have three relay teams on the track, a quarter-mile team, a two-mile team and either a mile or half mile team.

TENNIS TEAM TRIMS MILTON COLLEGE MEN

Badgers Meet Purple in First Big 10 Tilt Today

Losing but one set, the Wisconsin tennis team opened its 1922 season yesterday by a sweeping victory over the strong Milton college team. Although retarded in practicing by rainy weather, the team worked in early mid-season form.

The Conference schedule opens this afternoon when the Badgers meet Northwestern university here on the Breeze terrace courts. Northwestern university has an indoor tennis court, a thing that is sadly lacking at Wisconsin, so should bring a team to Madison that will be in the best of condition. With the experience of one Conference match this season behind them, the Purple men should put up an exhibition of tennis that will be a treat to the fans.

Tredwell Stars

"Tommy" Tredwell, Wisconsin ace, overwhelmed the highly touted Milton star, Daland, in two straight sets, 6-1, 6-0. Tredwell seemed unable to get started in the first set, but opened up in mid-season form in the second and shut out the down-stater. Daland was playing in poor form and could not control his backhand stroke, which resulted in his poor showing.

Gotfredson duplicated Tredwell's score and defeated Kneeland, Milton college man, 6-0, 6-1. Gotfredson was the one man who seemed to be playing Varsity tennis, and several times brought forth applause from the fans. Kneeland plays a driving game of tennis and has fairly good control of his strokes. His nervousness, however, lost him many points, and showed clearly his lack of experience. With more experience Kneeland should develop into a star of the highest class.

Moulding Wins

"Art" Moulding, last year's freshman and intercollegiate champion defeated Skaggs of Milton in two straight sets. Moulding is one of Linden's most consistent players and with experience in Conference competition will make a valuable man.

Hastings, seemed worn out after his strenuous match with George Parker yesterday, and was unable to play his usual brand of tennis. Hastings has been playing exceptionally well this spring and with a little more confidence, should make a strong addition to the squad.

California Comes Here

Coach Linden is putting a strong team in the field and a high rating in the Conference standing can be expected. With the opening Conference matches over, Coach Linden will put his squad through several strenuous work-outs in preparation for the match with the University of Southern California here next Thursday.

Summaries of yesterday's match follows:

Tredwell, Wisconsin, defeated Daland, Milton, 6-1, 6-0; Gotfredson, Wisconsin, defeated Kneeland, Milton, 6-0, 6-1; Tredwell and Gotfredson, Wisconsin, defeated Daland and Kneeland, Milton, 6-3, 6-3; Moulding, Wisconsin, defeated Skaggs, Milton, 6-1, 6-3; Hastings, Wisconsin, defeated Oakley, Milton, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3; Moulding and Hastings, Wisconsin, defeated Skaggs and Oakley, Milton, 8-6, 6-1.

Baseball Team Plays Notre Dame Monday
