RECOMMENDATION POWER IS SOUGHT BY UNION BOARD

Resolution Presented to Student Senate Will Be Voted on Nov. 2

A resolution requesting that the power of recommendation be restored to the Union board in nominating men to be elected, was presented to the Student senate last night at a meeting in the Law building. The request was referred to the elections committee for disposal at the election November 2.

The elections committee met immediately following the senate meeting and decided to put the question to a referendum vote of the male student body. A majority of the votes cast on the question will change to present method of election.

A resolution was presented by John C. Dawson '24, representing the Union board. Dawson declared the present system hampered the board in its work. "It has been almost impossible to get men to try out for Union board offices under existing conditions. Men feel that there is no longer any incentive to work for Union board positions since the board can no longer recommend them to the electors," Dawson said.

The referendum also provides that men trying out for Union board shall do a certain specified number of hours work in some phase of the activities before they are eligible for recommendation. The referendum as it will appear in full on the ballot is as follows: "Resolved, That the amendment to article VI, section VI made last spring which deprives the Union board of the power of recommendation be changed to read:

"Each spring there shall be elected by the qualified male electors of their respective classes, from among three nominees for each position designed by the board who shall have had experience on regular board committees, one sophomore and one junior to hold office during the next two and one years respectively; each spring there shall be elected by the qualified male electors of their respective classes, from nominations by written petition of not less than fifty qualified electors of such

No Action Taken on Plan For Vocational Conferences

A loan of $300 to be used in the future as the nucleus of a fund for cooperative houses and dormitories, was started last night at the regular S. G. A. meeting held in Lathrop parlors. In the past the S. G. A. has set aside money for a yearly scholarship.

At the meeting last night it was decided it would be to better advantage if this scholarship money were changed into a loan fund of $300 to be left in the S. G. A. budget this year, to be added to in coming years until there is enough to aid the increase of cooperative house and dormitories, of which the campus is in so much need.

No decision on vocational conference change was reached. The vocational conferences are for the benefit of the Junior and Senior girls who are given the opportunity to hear addresses by noted speakers on the problems a girl must meet in the business world after she leaves school. The final decision was postponed until the next S. G. A. meeting.

"Women would occupy a more important place on the campus if they would educate the university men as to what they are doing," said Mary Burchard, secretary of S. G. A., and stated further that womens' activities have not had the place they should have on the hill.

Sigma Delta Chi Elects Thirteen Journalism Men

Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic fraternity, announces the election of the following men:

Richard F. Bellack '24, Malcolm A. McDonald '24, Carl Wright '24, Edwin H. Rohrbeck '24, Harry Barsantee '25, Kenneth B. Butler '25, John Weimer '25, A. D. Gannon '25, Frank Crane '25, Elmer Baehringer '25, Wes W. Dunlap '25, Fred Gustorf '25, Victor M. Zierke '25.

The Wisconsin chapter of Sigma Delta Chi is planning to elect a number of prominent journalistic personages as honorary members this year. Campus publications will co-operate with the chapter in the selection of nationally known men and will pay for initiation expenses.

HOMEcoming BOOK READY FOR PRESS

10,000 Copies of Program Will Be Printed For Sale Saturday

In spite of the fact that 10,000 Homecoming programs will be on sale this year, it will be advisable for students to purchase their copies as soon as possible, according to Arthur W. Trost '24, business manager of the programs committee. Last year when 6,000 were printed they were sold out in less than 15 minutes from the time the sale started.

The program will consist of 64 pages and the cover, as compared with 52 pages last year. The cover will be in three colors instead of two, and the rest of the book correspondingly improved.

Action pictures taken of the Michigan Aggie game were rushed to the engravers and are now on the press with the rest of the book.

Although the book is practically ready for publication, it is being held for such things as a last-minute line-up. As soon as it is known for certain who the players will be, the program will be printed.

"The advertising staff has been securing advertisements for the program not only in Madison but in Milwaukee and Chicago, and the enlarged book is the result," Trost asserted yesterday. "Insurance has been taken out against bad weather conditions which might injure sales, in order that there need be no worry about over-expense in making a good program."

NO REGULAR DELIVERY OF CARDINAL SATURDAY

Regular delivery of The Cardinal will be discontinued for the Homecoming edition, Saturday morning, October 27. Copies will be sold by members of Theta Sigma Phi on the hill, nearby corners, and on the corner of the Square by the Park hotel. Single copies will cost 10 cents.

FOUR WOMEN ELECTED TO THETA SIGMA PHI

Theta Sigma Phi, honorary and professional journalism fraternity for women, announces the election of Dorothy Lawton '24, Barbara Shallenberger '24, Adeline Pepper '25 and Janet Collins, graduate. Elections to Theta Sigma Phi are determined according to scholarship, activities and womanliness.

MEDICAL FRATERNITY ELECTS SIX MEMBERS

Sigma Sigma, honorary medical fraternity, announced last night, the election of six members. They are Raymond O. Basseuener, William H. Oatway, Howell S. Randolph, Holden J. Robbins, Carl Richard Smith, and John A. Wilson.

Eight Lively Acts Selected For Homecoming Carnival

The eight acts, of the Homecoming carnival chosen by judges last Saturday from a number of groups that entered the tryouts, will give their performance to the accompaniment of an eight-piece orchestra on a stage, to be erected in the west end of the gymnasium, Friday night.

The stage will be equipped with all the modern appliances of an up-to-date theater, which will give the actors every chance to perform to their best ability. "The acts present a variety of interesting features which will supply a very enjoyable hour and a half of entertainment," Thomas Moroney, chairman of the carnival, said last night. "All the groups are working hard to make this year's show the best that the tradition has enjoyed in its short history."

The first act will begin at 8:30 o'clock, immediately after the bonfire which will take place on the lower campus. "Tickets will be sold for 50 cents during the mass meeting in the 'gym,' preceding the bonfire," said Calvin Dedrick, business manager of Homecoming.

"Those who purchase tickets ahead of time should enter the building through the side entrance of the armory next to the Y. M. C. A. Others should enter at the front of the building where they may purchase their tickets. Only 1,000 tickets will be sold and it would be advisable for those particularly desirous of seeing the show to get their tickets at the mass meeting. Any money that may be made on the carnival will be used to defray the general expenses of Homecoming festivities."

Old grads and students who have found enjoyment in previous carnivals will look forward to the following acts:

The Haresfoot Club, "A Musical Revue"; The Wisconsin Players, "Stage Directions"; Phi Sigma Delta, "A Twelve-String Trio"; Alpha Tau Omega, "A Man and a Girl"; Mr. W. A. Limberg, "Whistling Willie"; Alpha Kappa Kappa, "Modern Syncopations"; Phi Beta Pi, "The Wizard of Aaz"; Sigma Nu, "The King's Dancers."

The judging will be done by Miss Gertrude Johnson, of the Speech department, Mr. C. A. Fernberg, of the English department, and Mr. William Purnell, graduate.

The cup trophies for the two best acts are on display now at the University Pharmacy on State street. Those in charge of the carnival are Thomas Moroney '25, chairman; James Gulbertson '25, Benjamin Wiedring '25, Betty Sears '25 and James Van Wagman '25.

ARTS AND CRAFTS CLUB PLAN PARTY AND DANCE

A Halloween party and dance to be held in the industrial arts laboratory, Oct. 31, was planned by the social committee at the meeting of the Arts and Crafts club, held in the art laboratory last night.

CHURCH BIDS FOR STUDENT OPINIONS

Presbyterians Offer Three Prizes For Best House Plans

The cabinet of the Presbyterian Student Alliance, of which every Presbyterian student is a member, ask everyone interested to send his suggestion on the following question: "How can a student house, like the Presbyterian Student headquarters, best fill its place in the life of the university?"

For the three best suggestions the cabinet is offering prizes as follows:

First prize, a copy of the 1925 Badger; second prize, a year's subscription to the Cardinal and the Octopus; third prize, a year's subscription to The Cardinal.

A student committee of three, consisting of Calvert L. Dedrick, Mable R. Jobse, and Norris W. Wentworth will decide on the merit of the articles, and those considered best will be published from time to time in The Cardinal. All suggestions are to be sent to Miss Gladys Haskins, 731 State street.

The ten best articles selected by the student committee are to be submitted to a committee of the faculty consisting of Dean Sallery, Dean Goodnight and Dean Nardin, who will select what they consider the three of best merit.

The conditions of the contest are as follows:

1. The competition is open to all students of the university, Presbyterians or otherwise.

2. All articles must be in the hands of Miss Haskins by the night of October 31st. It is desirable that they be sent in as far as possible before this date.

3. No article must be longer than 250 words.

4. All articles submitted are to be finally passed over to the Presbyterian Alliance and to be thereafter their property with all the suggestions offered.

COMMERCE CLUB STARTS CHEER FUND FOR SICK

The Commerce club will have a permanent fund for flowers for members of the club unfortunate enough to be sent to the infirmary. The fund was started Monday. The first one to receive flowers was Lawrence Nelson, senior in Commerce, who was taken seriously ill last Saturday night. His work as business manager of the Commerce magazine at present is being taken over by Art O'Hara.

CRUCIBLE PLANS SALE FOR SCHOLARSHIP FUND

CORRECTION MADE IN KISSEL ANNOUNCEMENT

Lester Kissel '25, who announced his candidacy for Junior Prom Chairman yesterday informed the Cardinal that the statement of his activities as presented to the Cardinal was incorrect.

The Union Board dances and concerts are not directed by him as announced. John Dawson '24 is director of Union Board concerts and Sam Thompson '24 is in charge of the dances. Kissel formerly assisted in the dances and is, at present, assistant chairman of the concerts.

STUDENT HELP WANTED FOR HOMEcoming WORK

Many calls are coming to the Y. M. C. A. at this time for students who can give from one hour to every hour of the afternoon during the week doing work in private homes. Many of the requests at this time are for window-washing and raking lawns, also table and dishwashing work during Homecoming. The latter offers exceptionally good pay. A list of rooms for Homecoming is also available at the "Y".

PROF. SHARP TO TALK ON LIFE'S PSYCHOLOGY

3 NEW EXTENSION COURSES OPENED

Twenty-nine Already Enrolled In Hydraulic Engineering Branches

The University of Wisconsin Extension division has introduced three new correspondence courses in hydraulic engineering. These courses are intended to meet the waterworks, civil, municipal, or mechanical engineers, or of any student desiring a practical knowledge of hydraulics. To date 29 have enrolled in the first course.

The first of the course deals with hydraulic pressure, including pressures on dams with the flow through various orifices such as tubes, nozzles, circular orifices, and weirs, and with fluid gauges, Venturi meters, Pilot tubes, and other similar hydraulic instruments.

The second course, a continuation of the first, is a study of the flow through pipes and open channels, and dynamic action of the stream. A careful study is made of the flow through different pipe systems, fire hose, open streams, water meters, stram gauging, and hydraulic rams.

The third course deals for the most part with the description, theory, and testing of various types of hydraulic motors and pumps such as impulse wheels, reaction turbines, reciprocating pumps, centrifugal pumps, and with the factors affecting their efficiency and operation.

W'S AND M'S TO SHINE IN HOUSE DECORATIONS

Electrical M's and W's promise to reign supreme in the Homecoming decorations, judging from reports received from local electrical shops. Every place has had large orders for letters, and others still are being received.

Stringers also are greatly in demand which seems to prophecy that many of the houses are to be outlined.

Most of the work is to be done by the students themselves as only 30 orders for wiring have been received by the various shops.

SHOE STORE INSTALLS NEW X-RAY MACHINE

Huegel and Hyland, in their shoe store at 428 State street, have installed a Simplex X-ray machine. This is the third one to be installed in this state.

The patient stands with his feet under a plate, the electric current is turned on, and by looking through the apparatus, he can see each bone in his foot, and the exact position of his foot within the confines of his shoe.

Last spring the women's physical education department used it for two weeks to inspect the feet of the girls taking corrective gym. The majority of cases of foot trouble that come to the attention of physical education authorities can be traced primarily to shoes that are too small it was found.

Portia Mansfield Dancers Head Bill At Orph This Week

For the last half of the week, including the Homecoming will be The Portia Mansfield Dancers at the Orpheum. They have been only a few weeks in vaudeville and already they have a reputation of being one of the most marvellous dance acts on the American stage. Their act is presented in four numbers or moods.

Only mention the name Mollie Fuller to a great many people, and they will know that there is at least one more high powered act on the program. Miss Fuller is known the world over for her fight against nature's greatest handicap, loss of sight. Although greatly handicapped, she is a wonderful character portrayer.

Frank Dobson, "Just Jesting" is next on the performance.

Dave Roth and his sensational dummy dancer "Annie", will attempt to show their versatility by playing grand pianos, fiddles, dancing and talking.

Harry Bewley the hilariously funny comedian, will present with a small company his laughing sketch "His Night Out."

The two Sternards better known as "America's Premier Xylophonists," will attempt to prove that they are to the xylophone what Spaulding was to the violin.

Seats for Homecoming should be ordered today as there are only a few choice seats left.

WESLEY FORUM TO HEAR BISHOP DISCUSS MEXICO

"Mexico and Her Struggle for Freedom" will be the subject of an address by Bishop Wilbur P. Thirkfield at the Wesley Forum at 7 p. m. Sunday, October 28, at the Wesley Foundation.

As the resident bishop for the Methodist Episcopal church in Mexico City, Bishop Thirkfield has had an exceptional opportunity to study the Mexican situation not only from the standpoints of an American and a churchman, but also from the point of view of the Mexicans. The bishop is a personal friend of President Obregon, and is well qualified to express the views of official Mexico.

Bishop and Mrs. Thirkfield will be entertained while in Madison by the Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Blake-man. They also will be the guests of honor of the Wesley Foundation student cabinet at the regular Fellowship supper held at 6 p. m. at the Wesley Foundation.

A mastodon skeleton was recently unearthed in Carnegie, Oklahoma, that may be of great historical value to the school of Engineering Geology in Oklahoma university.

CAPTAINS REPORT ON Y. W. DRIVE

Receipts of $800 Already Received Towards Quota of 2,000

Captains for the annual finance drive of the Y. W. C. A. met Wednesday noon in Lathrop hall and reported receipts of $800.

The quota of $2,000 will be reached within a week, it is expected, and the drive will close November 1. The winning team will be given a dinner on that date at the apartment of Miss Mary Anderson, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

Team reports which will be posted in Lathrop hall show that the team captained by Dorothy Strauss '26, is now in the lead with $120.

The drive is being conducted under the S. G. A. district system with 10 girls under each of the sixteen district captains. University women are being interviewed personally and asked to contribute an optional amount.

"New members are also being pledged," said Helen Winkleman '24. "There are no dues for membership. Girls are merely asked to sign the Y. W. pledge."

COMPOSITION FOR PEACE PRIZE TO END NOV. 15

Midnight, November 15th is the closing date that plans will be received for the American Peace Award created by Edward W. Bok. An award of $100.00 is to be given the author of the best practicable idea by which the United States may cooperate with other nations to achieve and preserve world peace, according to the plan of the award published on July 23rd.

As soon as the jury of award has made its selection, the winning plan will be submitted at once to the people of the country through an informal referendum conducted through the daily and weekly press, so far as their cooperation is available, and other organizations. The referendum vote will take place during the month of January.

TUDENT ASSOCIATION HOLDS FIRST BANQUET

The Congregational student's association had its first banquet of the school year, October 23. Approximately 300 Congregational students attended. A whistling solo by Janice Boardman, and some popular songs sung by a quartet preceded the talk of the evening, "From Panama to Gibraltar," given by Chaplain Frank L. Janeway.

ARTIST AT WORK ON PROF. KING'S PORTRAIT

A portrait of the late Prof. F. H. King, former head of the Department of Agricultural Engineering at the university, is being completed by Arvid Nyholm, for the Wisconsin farm portrait gallery.

Professor King acted as director of engineering in the United States department of agriculture and attained a national reputation.

The King system of barn ventilation, the most outstanding contribution of Prof. King, has helped to insure the health of American farm stock.

CONFERENCE
WIRE SERVICEFROSH TEAM USES
MINNESOTA PASS
ATTACK IN DRILLVarsity Gains Consistently on Freshman Team, Using Straight Football

Darkness doesn't bother the Badger team out at Camp Randall these nights.

In a long, hard practice session, one of the last before the game with Minnesota here Saturday afternoon, the Badgers worked long after dark last night. Even the moon was absent—perhaps excluded with the rest of us from secret practice.

The freshman team, playing pretty ball throughout the session, gave the varsity plenty of competition. Using the far-famed Minnesota pass attack, the yearlings succeeded in gaining yardage.

While the frosh were able to complete a pass now and then, the majority of their tries were foiled. Either the varsity intercepted the passes or they knocked them to the ground. Barofski, fast frosh quarter, nabbed one long one and ran for a touchdown.

Given the ball on the frosh kick-off, the varsity proceeded down the field, gaining consistently. As usual, only straight football was used. Just what Coach Ryan will use against the Gophers Saturday is a question which many fans would like to see.

The Minnesota tilt will be the "acid test" for Wisconsin. Indiana the first foe of the Badgers, was woefully weak, and cannot be taken as a just test. The Gophers, on the other hand, are strong and will provide plenty of worry.

SIXTY BADGERS ROOT
DURING INDIANA GAME

Around sixty alumni and students were in Wisconsin's cheering section at the Indiana game last Saturday. They yelled so much that there was hardly a person leaving the field who was able to talk above a whisper.

"I only hope that the Homecoming crowd will give me as good cooperation as I received at Indiana," says "Ez" Crane, varsity cheer-leader. "I worked them hard, but they all came through and did their best. Wisconsin may well be proud of them."

"I was greatly impressed by the spirit shown on the part of the Indiana band. It came onto the field playing "On Wisconsin," while the crowd rose to its feet and doffed its hats. The band then formed in the shape of a block "W" on the field. Members of the band expressed their disappointment concerning the impossibility of our band being there," Ez concluded.

MORE MEN REPORT
FOR TANK PRACTICE

As the time for intensive training for varsity swimmers draws near, more candidates are reporting for practice on the freshman and varsity swimming squads.

It is with this abundance of material, combined with the veterans of last year's squad as a nucleus, that Coach Steinauer hopes to make a winning swimming team.

But Steinauer is making no predictions. The experience of past years has taught him that a winning tank team is brought out only by long, hard training. It is for this reason that he is starting his men early, prescribing long, slow swims to develop stamina and good technique.

Steinauer's aim is not a team with stars in one or two events, but a team with men who will place consistently in every event.

Cross Country Runners Get in Shape For Gopher MeetFirst Dual Meet of Season
Takes Place Here on Saturday

With the first dual meet of the season for the cross country team only two days off, the hill-and-dale candidates are putting in their last hard laps today. The work-out for tomorrow will be of a lighter nature, permitting the men a well earned rest before entering what promises to be a hotly contested race with the Gophers Saturday morning.

Although the general condition of the team at the beginning of the week was anything but promising, it now appears as if most of the candidates will be back in the necessary form when they line up in front of the gym Saturday to cross fortunes with the Minnesota harriers.

Gophers Are Improved

The early part of the week found a number of the Cardinal runners disabled with sore legs as a result of over exertion. Several of the men injured themselves during the time trial last Saturday, but the majority of the injuries are improving rapidly.

Latest reports from the northern institution indicate a much improved team for the Gophers over those of former years. In their first dual meet of the season last Saturday they trounced Grinnell college thoroughly, four of the Old Gold and Maroon runners finished before a Grinnell man was in sight.

Judging from this performance Coach Burke's proteges will have to extend themselves to the limit if they are to keep clean the fine record of the past two years, in which they were returned victors over the Gophers in both races.

The varsity team will be composed of eight runners, the men being picked from the list of about twenty candidates who have been working diligently ever since the

Two more days until the hard-tack-eating Swedes invade our camp.

Last night was another one of those "secret" affairs out on Camp Randall. No one was admitted. King George himself would have had a hard time getting in—for two reasons.

Harris, Stengel and Schneider got a good workout, with Taft doing some punting. It looks like a sure bet to see old "Tiffie" getting in there on Saturday in the full-back's position.

The old grads are due to put in an appearance tomorrow, beginning with the early morning trains. The State street merchants are putting on the dog, already with their elaborate window displays, and the athletic department is still selling tickets in section Z.

Have you been watching the Wisconsin writeups in the Tribune lately. It seems as though that paper thinks Wisconsin is some hick institution. We seem to be grabbing off the second and third page for all of our football write-ups—what's the matter Trib?

If Wisconsin can outrun the Gophers on Saturday, it will be considered quite a feat, for this would give the Badgers three consecutive victories over their greatest rival.

Two Specials Carry
Minnesota Rooters
to Homecoming Fray

With every ticket sold, Minnesota rooters will invade Madison Saturday morning in two special trains over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad. The Gopher team will not arrive until just before noon, when they will detrain at Camp Randall siding.

The Milwaukee road announces that fifteen cars of rooters, including the large Minnesota band, will leave Minneapolis Friday night at 10:45 and will arrive in Madison at 8:30 Saturday morning. One of the specials will leave Saturday night and the other Sunday night in order to accommodate those desiring to stay over.

The Minnesota team is to leave Minneapolis Thursday night on the Pioneer limited, and will spend all of Friday in Milwaukee, where they will work out on Marquette field. They will leave for Madison on a special train Saturday morning, and will live on the train at Camp Randall siding.

In addition to the Minnesota trains, the Milwaukee road announces that there will be two specials from Milwaukee. One will come from Chicago, and one from Janesville, with two special cars from La Crosse, one from Wausau and one from Wisconsin Rapids—all for the accommodation of Iowa is going to have a lot of trouble with Ohio State next Saturday, because three of their main cogs are out of commission. Ohio State is out to avenge the drubbing they received at the hands of Michigan, and Iowa has its back against the fence after its defeat by Illinois and Grange. This column will hope that game Saturday morning.

Every Big Ten opponent Wisconsin has yet to play will have scouts at the Camp on Saturday to see what we've got. May they get seats in Sections Z or XX.

JOURNALISM LAB BUYS
5 NEW TYPEWRITERS

Five new Underwood typewriters have been ordered for the Journalism laboratory, making a total of 15 machines and filling up the entire space. The increased enrollment has necessitated this change. The seminar and the reading rooms have been made into one room, and the copy desk formerly in the laboratory, has been moved into the next room.

DEFAULT ELECTIONS

The usual number of elective offices have been filled by default; just why there was no competition is not clear. We must assume either that no one else wanted the offices, or else that the candidates who were automatically elected were so eminently fitted for the jobs that it would have been folly for others to compete.

Whichever of these reasons is the correct one, the result is unfortunate, in that it tends to cheapen the offices in public estimation. With all due respect to the successful aspirants, and without in the least questioning their fitness, we maintain that an unhealthy political condition obtains when elective offices are not contested. It is quite true that campus politics can be overdone, but it seems equally obvious that they can be underdone. If nominations are so few as to be equivalent to elections, the main purpose and principle of the elective office is defeated.

Let us repeat that this argument is not put forward in derogation of those who have been elected without contest. Probably they would be the first ones to have wished for a contest, in order that, if successful, they would not hold an office which is open to the imputation that no one else cared enough about it to run for it.

If, as has been suggested, campus politics are useful mainly as a preparation for real politics, elections by default should form no part of the system. Fortunately for the country, elections in real life are rarely uncontested. There are always candidates, of one kind or another. But here in the university they are slow to come forward. It may be that we are too modest, that we hesitate to come forward and assert our qualifications, and throw ourselves upon the mercy of the electorate. Modesty is a charming virtue, yet if our student elections are not to become a mere formality, candidates will have to step forth a little more boldly.

Unless this is brought about, it might be wise to reduce the number of elective offices, so that competition for those remaining may be keener. Perhaps if some way could be found to enhance the glory and prestige incident to the existing offices, the same result would be achieved. At any rate, something should be done to make the elective offices elective.

SCHOLARSHIP CUPS

The approach of the first examinations reminds us again that studying is one of our campus activities that should not be entirely neglected. Scholarship is a recognized indoor sport, and one which every one can go out for.

Judged by the recognition it receives, however, intra-mural scholarship is a very minor sport, not comparable to bowling or water polo. There is a small travelling cup, which is awarded each semester to the social fraternity having the highest scholastic average, but it does not approach, in size and grandeur, the least of the six or seven trophies given annually and permanently for inter-fraternity basketball.

We do not claim that scholarship should necessarily be rewarded by cups of any kind. It is its own reward; and besides there are various other ways which individual and group excellence in this respect is recognized. But if scholarship is to be made a matter for trophies, along with baseball, Homecoming decorations, Venetian Night floats, and other laudable group achievements, it is not evident why it should be the most insignificant of the lot. If cups are to be the measure of scholarship, let's have some that are bigger than eye-cups.

WANTED—A COURSE IN LECTURE GIVING

To hear a lecture well delivered on this campus or any other for that matter is a rare pleasure. So rare indeed, that there is a common saying on this campus that there are but a few men on the hill who can reinforce their facts with good lecture appearance and presentation.

With very few exceptions, the lectures to be heard on this campus are marked by poor and often abominable grammar. The English used is bad, and the lectures are punctuated throughout with such unintelligible grunts as er, ah, uh, umm, nnn, andahh, which really have no significance whatever nor any relation to the course. Yet the student is expected to listen to those grunts as well as to the bad grammar and then to secure an appreciation of the course.

Nor is this habit confined to the lecturers. Very few of the instructors are capable of talking intelligently to their classes and use good English at the same time. Indeed, the language of many an instructor in addressing his class is often an absolute disgrace to the university. Were the merest frosh to hand in a theme containing the grammatical errors made by his instructor during the class hour, he would be unmercifully flunked.

Bad grammar and unintelligible grunting are not the only faults of lecture giving, for there are those lecturers who deliver their lectures as if they were addressing the empty air or an inanimate body. Then, gain, there is the lecturer who reads his lecture as if it were a set of new and foreign ideas of which he knows nothing at all. Such lectures are dry, dead, and uninteresting, for the living personality of the lecturer is essential to inspire interest in the course and to assist the student to obtain the most from the course.

Every man owes it to himself and to his fellow men to learn how to talk to them fluently and easily. Especially is this the case with the teacher. There hardly can be an excuse for the lecturer who has been meeting his classes several times a week year after year and has not yet learned how to present to them a well delivered lecture. To know how to say a thing and to say it well is as essential a part of teaching as it is of an education. Men can learn to address an audience correctly and a lack of such a knowledge on the part of a lecturer merely indicates an unwillingness to perform his duty as he should and perhaps a general shiftlessness and carelessness.

STILL ANOTHER TEST

Experimentation in educational methods of university training continues to assume a more important aspect in the broader field of academic sciences when word comes from Columbia university that a new professorship in "collegiate educational research" has been created there by the trustees. As the school, which instituted and has most widely extended the system of intelligence tests for entrance, Columbia now institutes a new system of placement examinations, designed to find the yearlings' specific weaknesses in restricted lines and direct attention to their immediate correction.

The plan, which is to be inaugurated shortly, will subject the men to analytical treatment of their ability. In English for instance, distinct tests will be given in the various phases of rhetorical work; spelling, construction, vocabulary, and composition. Where a man is found lacking in any one of these capacities, he will be required to take a special course in that phase of the work without credit. The system will, it is hoped, eliminate the difficulties which arise from unequal degrees of preparation which are bound to exist among all entering classes under the present preparatory regulations.

In purpose, this is a most commendable arrangement, but the difficulties which arise with the cluttering up of such an intricate administration by test upon test are bound to preclude the successful workings of the organization. If Columbia can maintain both intelligence tests, placement examinations and the several other preliminary inquiries into personality and capacity which are already a part of their system, they are indeed worthy of praise.

More cars wrecked, more monkey business, more co-eds all agitated—I never saw the likes of it. And what's to blame, degeneracy of the present generation, preparation for homecoming or exams or something.

Why, the other day a co-ed was speeding recklessly down the street (oh, those women drivers oh, oh) and after running into a poor in-offensive lad who labored in a meat market emporium, she inquired, "Are you hurt?" And the boy replied in heart rendering accents, "I can't find my liver."

And here's some additional inside dope on the smash up at the corner of Langdon and Henry a few days ago. The victim who piloted the unfortunate Ford presented a bill for $67. Both the Baby who owns the chariot and Lottie are trying to get first revenge by dating the man. Neither has succeeded.

HOMECOMING

Hurrah, for Homecoming And yell for the team But watch your step girlies Things ain't what they seem.

All nice girls date not But let men go their ways For they've been put wise It's the woman who pays.

Don't touch any liquor Don't powder your nose Wear cotton instead of Such sheer silken hose.

Don't sing and don't dance Don't smile at the boys And you will be guiltless Of Homecoming joys.

THE CAKEEATERS' UNION, Local No. 8, hereby petitions the athletic department of the university to allow full gym credit for Haresfoot dancing class.

All of which inspires the following:

He was the nicest little boy But bad things come to pass His parents had to give him up He went to Haresfoot class.

LEW COLE is a great actor. We were eating with him in Lawrence's the other day and he made several futile grabs at his check apparently unnoticed by us. Then in an exasperated tone of voice he said, "keep your hands off my check, will you?" We did.

This old moth eaten wise crack is probably being worked again this year: "I suppose that even the capitol will be lit up Saturday night."

ed on University avenue across the street from Lathrop hall, in the very center of university activity. The corner stone of the structure was laid October 9, 1921, since which time construction has gone steadily forward. The building, of Gothic design, is of cream colored Colfax stone with Bedford stone trimmings. The auditorium seats 1,800 people. The altar, of carved stone, is sixteen feet wide by thirty-five feet high. In the center of the facade of tracery and carving, in a niche directly above the altar slab, is a carved figure of Christ with hands outstretched. To the right and left of the altar is a series of arcades in which hang richly colored tapestries, while above and back of it, diffusing a subdued light, is a handsome art glass window of Gaytee, one of America's great art glass designers. Another important feature is the organ of over 3,000 pipes. This will be dedicated at the consecration service.

Friends and members of the church throughout Wisconsin and the entire northwest have contributed unparingly of their efforts and means, so that the new church is fittingly styled the Lutheran cathedral of the northwest.

LAWYERS TRIUMPH OVER ENGINEERS

Score in Co-ed Enrollment
Stands 10-0 With Barristers Leading

At last, the lawyers have triumphed over the engineers—they have ten co-eds in their building, and the engineers haven't any.

Whether the co-eds were scared by plaid shirts in the Engineering building is not definitely known, but the rumor is extant, however, that cave-man tactics did not have the fascinations of the elite across the campus.

Last year the statistics were six for the Law school and one for the College of Engineering.

To be perfectly truthful, the engineers did have a co-ed in their midst for a few days this semester. She enrolled and then decided that there were other courses in engineering besides those given in the University of Wisconsin and went off and got married.

The ten in the Law school are Irene Higgins, Eagle River; Miriam Frye, Madison; Cecelia Doyle, Fond du Lac; Cornelia Heise, Madison; Beatrice Walker, Columbus; Gena Thompson, Madison; Adeline Meyers, Madison; Helen Conway, Wisconsin Rapids; Cecelia Skrentny, Indiana Harbor, Ind.; and Elizabeth Brandeis, Washington D. C.

CHURCH TO BANQUET ON HOMECOMING DAY

The Congregational Christian Endeavor will hold its annual Homecoming banquet Saturday evening, October 27, in the dining room of the church, 202 West Washington avenue. Supper will be served promptly at 6:15 o'clock after which a program of stunts and games has been planned. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ross will chaperon. Anyone wishing to attend the banquet please make reservations with Jane Gregg at F. 1793, or Jane Reed at F. 738 before Friday noon.

Sophomores of the Oregon Agricultural College wear buff and blue vests as emblems of the class and for the purpose of promoting class spirit.

"It is in the family, I guess," they say when asked how come they're going to be lawyers. And the facts are that most of them do have a parent who is a lawyer or a judge.

Thrills and Fancy Combine to Please In "The Bad Man"

"THE BAD MAN"
Featuring Holbrook Blinn, Jack Mulhall, and Enid Bennet.
At the Strand.

By SAPPY

"The Bad Man" is a regular show. It shows the wild life on the Southern border, good horses, desert lands, many guns, lots of Mexicans, and it pictures Holbrook Blinn, playing the part of a second Villa. The story is poor, but it is put across in great fashion, and makes a nice entertainment for a few leisure hours.

The wildly romantic, exaggerated adventure pictures are always amusing, and if they contain a good bit of humor—good American humor—they are dandy. We all like to see wonderful heroes, who always do just the right thing at the right time, in a nice and happy-go-lucky manner; we all hate the bad villain who mistreats the heroine, who is always so sweet, romantic and beautiful.

In the heart of every one of us there is a secret desire, that has come over from our childhood days, to be either a hero or a heroine, and go through all kinds of trying situations, and then have some wild man step into the plot, and fix everything to everybody's satisfaction. And "The Bad Man" gives us all that, and adds some nice humor and satire to it, and makes the show no, not a masterpiece, but a show that everybody will enjoy and be pleased with.

At Iowa State University's Homecoming the past week-end, the campus reunion of classes was a feature. A unique plan of having each alumnus seek the tree bearing the numerals of his class was introduced.

SALE OF BUTTONS IS STARTED TODAY

Proceeds From Homecoming to Furnish Funds For Entertainments

Sale of Homecoming Buttons on the Hill will start this morning.

Tables will be placed in each of the buildings on the campus today and tomorrow and workers will urge all students to "Buy the Button" and do their share in putting the Homecoming celebration across.

Canvasses of fraternity and sorority houses in the Latin quarter began yesterday and are to continue until the rounds have been made.

Sale of the buttons, is to furnish the revenue for the bon-fire, carnival, Hobo parade, circulars to alumni, awards for house decorations, and other expenses of Homecoming.

"We are depending upon the loyalty and enterprise of the student body to put the sale across," declared Wilbur W. Wittenberg, chairman of the Button committee, last night. "Every man and woman on the campus ought to 'buy a button'—and wear it. And they ought also to encourage others to do likewise."

"The success of the homecoming celebration is in the hands of the students."

FARM GET-TOGETHER SET FOR FEBRUARY 4

Wisconsin farmers will have their annual get-together at Agricultural hall the week of February 4 to 9, for the purpose of planning for the year's work. K. L. Hatch, in charge of program arrangements, says, "Draw a red circle around February 4 to 9. Then plan to take a few days off, rub elbows with your neighbor from every county in the state, and let's all pull for a bigger and better Badger state."

DER DEUTSCHE VEREIN MEET IN LATHROP HALL

FRENCH LECTURE GIVEN ON TOMB OF KING TUT

"The recent discoveries made in King Tut's tomb are not extraordinary," said Prof. Alexander Moret, of the College of France, in a lecture on "La Sepulture de Toutankhamon" given in French yesterday in Bascom hall.

"Excavating has been going on for a number of years," he continued, "and the only unusual feature of the recent discoveries is that they were unearthed among the debris left by former excavations."

"It is doubtful whether the present tomb was the original burying-place of King Tut or a place to which his followers removed his body after the first burial," according to Professor Moret. The coffin of the famous king has not been opened yet.

Professor Moret's lecture was illustrated with slides showing the arrangement of the tomb.

THE TWO- TROUSER SUIT

Has more uses than a cat has lives

Lamareaux, P.—Has a two-trouser and alternates the trousers. Says if you give the trousers a rest, the whole suit lasts longer.

Charles R.—Sits at his desk a great share of the time. Found his clothes bills enormous because the knees of his trousers, from rubbing on the desk, wore out before anything else. Cut his bills almost in half with a two-trouser suit.

John R.—Has a Ford and ruined a perfectly good suit when he had trouble with his timer and got grease on the trousers. Swears by the two-trouser idea.

Arthur T.—Is known as the best dressed man at the house. Says baggy knees spoil more men's appearance than anything else except unshined shoes. Trouser No. 1 or Trouser No. 2 are always spick and span and are part of Art's secret.

Daniel C.—His girl is always bobbing up with plans for the evening that Dan did not remember. He would be out of luck if he did not keep the second pair of trousers ready.

Claude C.—Was passing along the drive the other day when a saddled horse leaned over and made a quick lunch from his coat-sleeve. Claude won the prize for quick-thinking by having a new sleeve made from part of the extra trousers. Claude's second pair saved a whole suit!

Gene M.—Became a convert to the two-trouser suit one day when he counted the half-worn-out suits in his closet. Found seven of them with coats and vests in good condition, but trousers worn out.

But most enthusiastic of these is Chuck, P. C.—whose middle name is Economy. Buys two trouser suits for just one reason—they give double the wear at about half the cost!

See our line of popular priced two-pants suits.
You, too, can share the economies mentioned by these men
