SENATE SEEKS ACTUAL FACTS IN 181 SCRAP

Investigating Committee Appeals to Students For Evidence; Asks Restoration of Harmony

The Student Senate last night issued an appeal to students of the university to present actual evidence in the fight on "181" accounting course in the Commerce school.

Promise that all information will be held confidential was made in the statement issued by the executive committee appointed to probe charges made on all sides by students who had made poor grades in the course.

The committee will hear protests on Friday in sessions at the Union building from 10 to 12 in the morning, and from 3:30 to 5:30 in the afternoon.

Speedy return to harmony between faculty and students is urged in the committee's statement, and full co-operation is asked to attain this end. The Senate will hold a meeting probably next week to discuss evidence gathered by the committee, and reach some definite decision on the controversy, members say. The committee's statement follows:

Interviewed Faculty

"The Executive Committee of the Student Senate investigating the alleged injustices done in course 181 has interviewed the faculty of the Commerce school and now wishes to interview all students who have evidence in regard to this situation. The committee requests that students present evidence on both sides of the question. The committee urges that the students realize that the Senate needs and deserves their co-operation in all matters pertaining to student difficulties.

"The Senate believes that when friction arises between the students and the faculty or administration it should be impartially investigated in the interest of harmony and better education on our campus. In view of the present difficulties, hard feelings, and allegations, the executive committee of the Senate is endeavoring to make a thorough and impartial investigation. However, such an investigation cannot be made unless the true facts are brought before the committee.

Want Both Sides

"Consequently the committee wishes to announce that on Friday, Feb. 10, it will meet from 10 to 12 a. m. and from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. in the parlors of the Union building, at which it will confidentially hear criticisms, suggestions, and recommendations pertaining to course 181 or to the accounting department. The committee wishes to emphasize that the interviews are to be confidential and that such interviews are necessary if the investigation is to meet with success.

"The facts as found will be presented to the Student Senate by the executive committee at an open special meeting. Let us hope that this unpleasant situation shall in the end result in some lasting good to the University of Wisconsin.

RALPH E. AXLEY,
MAYNARD W. BROWN,
WAYNE L. MORSE,
Executive Committee."

Badger Room Holds Dances Feb. 10-11

The Badger room dances given by Union board will be held Friday and Saturday nights. An advertisement in the Cardinal incorrectly stated that the dances would be held Saturday and Sunday evenings. These dances feature Fairbank's orchestra.

Number on Pro Not Greater Than Usual Says Dean Sellery

All notifications of deficiencies in scholastic work have been sent out according to Dean G. C. Sellery, of the College of Letters and Science. The number of students placed on probation does not exceed that of former years.

The large number of freshman girls that were dropped at the end of the first semester is accounted for by the unusually large registration last fall. The class of '25 contained over 800 freshman girls.

The office of the Dean of Women has been busy sending notices to the mothers of girls who have been dropped. Each case is given individual attention and copies of the letters are given to the girls themselves.

Contrary to current opinion, students are not dropped promiscuously but each case is gone over carefully by the executive committee. If they decide that the student is wasting his time here and that he might employ his time more profitably elsewhere he is asked to leave. Where there is any possibility that the student will do better he is given another chance.

Austin to Speak on Vacuum Evaporation

H. Austin, chief chemical engineer of the Ernest Scott company, England and U. S. A., will speak today at 11 a. m. in the auditorium of the Engineering building, on the subject "Vacuum Evaporation and Solvent Extraction." Anyone interested is invited to attend, and junior and senior engineering students will be excused from their classes in professional subjects to attend the lecture.

THETA SIGMA PHI OFFER PRIZE FOR BEST LIFE STORY

Journalistic Society to Give $100 For Psychological Autobiography

A one hundred dollar prize for the best psychological autobiography of a "thoughtful, well-educated young woman" will be offered through Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalistic fraternity, by Frances Donavan, a sociologist and writer. The contest is open until March 1, but extension of the time limit may be arranged with Miss Ruby Black, editor of The Matrix, to whom all manuscripts should be mailed.

"I want the facts of each girl's life in detail; I want her hopes, her dreams, her failures, her illusions and disillusionments. I want to know her friends, her relatives, her lovers," says Mrs. Donavan.

Arrange for Entrees

Persons wishing to enter the contest who are not members of Theta Sigma Phi should consult Miss Black at her office, 36 South Hall.

"Although the rules regulating the contestants for the Donavan prize stipulate membership in Theta Sigma Phi as a requirement for eligibility.

Announce Contest Rules

The rules of the contest follow:

1. The manuscript must be honest.

2. Only members of Theta Sigma Phi can compete.

3. Authorship of the manuscript will be unknown to Mrs. Donavan who will use them. This will be accomplished through the editor of The Matrix to whom they will be mailed.

4. The award will be made on the basis of the best study from the view of the psychologist.

5. Manuscripts must be in the hands of the editor of The Matrix by March 1, 1922.

U. S. Lets Russians Go Hungry—McBride

"What right have the American people and American politicians to play politics and prejudices against the millions of starving people in Russia? Is there so much morality and grace in the United States that we have a perfect right to set ourselves up as the ideal government and then say that unless the Russians follow us and do as we do they shall go hungry and starve?"

So said Isaac McBride, war correspondent and lecturer for the American committee for Russian famine relief, in his talk last night in the senate chamber of the capitol. McBride was introduced by Mayor Milo Kittleson and spoke under the auspices of the Madison relief committee, which consists of delegates from local churches, city officials, civic organizations and the Madison Federation of Labor.

McBride gave a detailed account of Russia's struggles throughout the war. He has been in Russia since 1919 and supplied a great deal of first hand information about famine conditions as they exist at the present time. He likewise told of the obstacles which Herbert Hoover and other government officials had placed in the way of the relief work.

U. W. HONORS CHIEF JUSTICE

Doctor of Laws Degree is Conferred on Siebecker;

1878 Grad

Chief Justice Robert G. Siebecker of the Supreme Court, class of '78, has just been awarded the honorary degree of doctor of laws by the university.

The letter written by President E. A. Birge accompanying the official diploma, and dated Jan. 30, is as follows:

My dear Judge Siebecker:

The University committee on higher degrees makes out each year a brief list of eminent men who should be considered by the faculty and with their approval recommended to the regents for honorary degrees at the June commencement. In beginning its work last fall your name was given the first place for the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

In view of your serious illness we all felt that it might both give you some pleasure and also encourage you in your battle against ill-health if you should know the purposes of your many friends here and should receive at once that well-earned recognition of your work for the State of Wisconsin.

The faculty therefore, have recommended that the regents confer on you the honorary degree of doctor of laws, and the regents at their recent meeting have voted the degree. Both actions were taken unanimously and with warm approval.

I am certain that I need not assure you that it brings you the respect and affection of your university in all its parts regents, faculty, and alumni. In common with all citizens of Wisconsin, they honor you for many years of distinguished service to the State. But your Alma Mater and her children have for you the peculiar pride and affection of the family for one of its members, who in serving the State has brought especial honor to them. And I hope that you will feel that the diploma carries with it this full and deep affection of Alma Mater and her hopes and

One of the most crucial games of the Badger schedule will be played at the university gymnasium tonight when Coach W. E. Meanwell's men meet their traditional enemies, the Suckers. Each year this game is one of the tilts that goes a long way toward deciding the conference winner, and tonight will prove no exception.

Illinois started out one of the strongest fives in the conference, but the "professionalism wave" swept over Urbana and left the team without the services of the veteran guard, Walquist. The game with the Maroons fell during the period of reorganization, and the Illini suffered a reversal. The defeat put them back on their feet, however, as they staged an upset and whipped Purdue a few nights later.

The victory over the Boilermakers indicates that Illinois is still to be reckoned with among the strongest teams in the association. The combination should work even better tonight, as the result of the Suckers having played three games within a week.

It is not known just what shape the Badgers are in for the battle. They have been practicing ever since examinations were finished, and may or may not be playing in mid-season form. The public has

Special Programs Arranged By Lit Societies Tonight

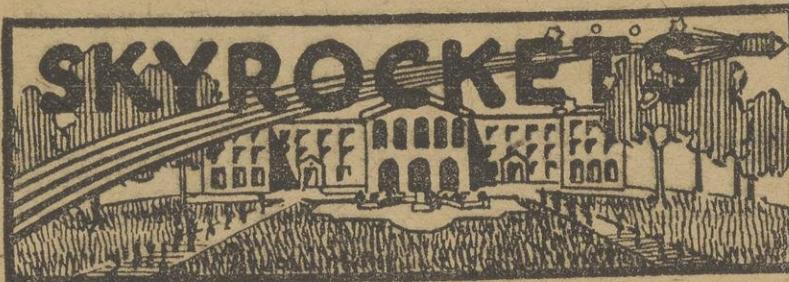

The three hill literary societies are arranging special programs for the first meetings of the semester tonight. The programs are varied and are not of the conventional debate type.

Athenae will model its meeting after the United States senate. The resolution that the Pacific treaty should not be adopted will then be discussed in parliamentary fashion. Melbourne Bergeman '22 will lead the democratic opposition and Sam Becker '23 will act as republican floor leader for the affirmative.

A topic on the Genoa conference will be given at the meeting by William Haber '23, and on collegiate football by W. J. Blake '24. The newly elected officers for the second semester will be inaugurated.

Hesperia will hold tryouts for the coming joint debate with Ag-Lit. Each member of the society will appear with a five minute main speech and a two minute rebuttal speech. Either side of the following question may be debated: Resolved, that a sales tax should be adopted by the United States government.

A question of local interest will be debated at Philomathia. The question is, Resolved, that the final examinations at the University of Wisconsin be abolished. The affirmative will be debated by A. Walter '23, A. Zube '23, and R. Herman '24. P. Marquart '24, M. MacDonald '24, and R. H. Ludden will debate the negative.

NOTICE!

WE ARE starting a new contributor's campaign. Our mail box has been dusted out, and tomorrow we are going to look in it and see what squibs we have and what new names we can add to our list of contributors. We want poems, bits of non-front-page news, real or alleged jokes, or anything that may be of interest to the rest of our readers. If you have anything at all, don't hesitate to send it in—it may be worth a column. Who can tell, maybe in a week we shall rival the Tribune's famous col. Do it now.

VERY A PROPOS

Dear Editor:
Now that all the rumpus about 181 is taking our attention, might I suggest that there are certain other courses on the hill which can stand the sort of reform proposed in this accounting muddle?

In order to give weight to my remarks I must state that I am a junior, always study my lessons, and am considered a good student. Last semester I enrolled in Appreciation of Music and applied myself diligently in order that I might get at least 85 and be eligible for the course in Harmonica. To make it short, I flunked the course and now I am on probation and ineligible for the men's class in dancing as well as having my Harmonica hopes shattered.

I wouldn't protest if I hadn't applied myself and make a most desperate attempt to get through, but when I think of the time and effort spent, I am ill.

The whole trouble lies in the method with which the Music department presents its course. There is too much use of coercion and prison tactics; they make a slave of you.

The exams are terrible. Once I called a B flat a B, and was promptly flunked. Just because I said Schopenhauer was a pessimist I was forced to add six books to the outside reading. And the impoliteness! When I asked an instructor what composition Nero played at the burning of Rome, he looked at me and laughed.

This isn't all, but O shan't bother you further. I hope you will give publicity to this in order that the reform will not overlook this awful course.

Yours truly,

PEER GYNT, Jr.

Co-eds Wear Proper Shoes, Says Report

Ninety-seven per cent of the women at the university wear sensible shoes, according to Miss Louisa C. Lippitt, assistant professor of physical education.

"Climbing the hill has a great deal to do with it, because you can't rush to a class in Bascom hall with much comfort if you are wearing high French heels and pointed toes," said Miss Lippitt. "The girls here take an unusually fine attitude toward such things as sensible shoes and proper posture. The shoe stores have been co-operative, too, in securing shoes that are both trim-looking and suitable."

A thorough canvass, made two years ago among the co-eds, is the basis for Miss Lippitt's assertion. A group of girls from the physical education department were stationed at all important points on the campus at noon one day, to notice the shoes of the co-eds coming from classes. From the reports made, it was found that only 3 per cent of the women wore improper and extreme shoes.

One of the great epoch-making photoplays of many years is the beautiful William Fox photo drama of mother-love entitled "Over the Hill," which will be seen at the Parkway starting Saturday, Feb. 11.

The Modes of Spring are Here!

In Smart Suits and Charming Coats for Women and Misses

The styles to be vogue of the new season are here in delightful variety. They sound a gladsome note of Spring in fabric and color, a change of season in the marked difference of line and design. The moderation in pricing is an indication of increasing values.

Utility Coats

Coats tend toward swagger effects in the matter of line, and have a sportive tendency in the matter of color; always they are practical for every day wear, distinctively of a new season's fashions and appealing.

Materials are tweeds, golflex and chinchilla; sleeves are raglan or set-in, pockets patch or slashed.

It is interesting to note how moderate are the prices

$19.50 to $50.00

Tailored Suits

Fashion rumors—and these suits confirm—the Tailleur for spring. The material may be a firm poiret twill or tricotine, or one of the soft, wooly, tweeds so highly favored; the color might well be navy blue, a brown or grey but the dernier cri of fashion is pastel shades, rose, lavender, etc.; but always the tailoring is rather mannish and very smart.

One may already select from a considerable number of models for women and misses at

THE SENATE TAKES A HAND

THE Student Senate in ordering an investigation of the conduct of Accounting 181 has done no less than its duty to the student body. Of course, the Senate has no power of action in the matter. That must come from the proper administration officials. But the Senate can help in bringing all the facts to light and in getting an adequate expression of opinion from the students.

When the facts are fully determined, the matter should not be dropped, as is the case in many investigations. Indeed, the facts have been known for a long time. It is relief that is needed now.

The proceedings at the Senate session Wednesday night helped to clarify the issues. The defense of the Accounting department consisted of a blanket statement that the charges of the Daily Cardinal were not grounded on facts.

The charges preferred in this column were mild and tempered with the milk of human kindness.

It was charged that the number of fails, cons, and poors was inordinately large. According to one member of the department, 35 per cent either failed or conned the course. When the poors are added to this there is no telling how high the percentage may mount. Is the Accounting department proud of this record? Does the department absolve itself of all blame and place the odium entirely on the students with the implication that nearly half of them are either lazy or stupid? But 181 is just a "weeding out course," it is contended. If this be true, why not require a good or an ex grade for advanced work instead of smearing fails and cons on the record cards of more than a third of those taking the course?

It was charged further that terrorization was the dominant spirit of the course. Is it possible for a student to be other than frightened when he enters the course with the knowledge that the odds are even that he will garner either a fail, a con, or a poor in the course? The elaborate system of regulations to keep the students honest increase the terror which the course inspires in the minds of a large number of students.

It was charged further that the students are viewed with distrust by the department. There is too much loose talk from the instructors about cribbing. Ample testimony can be given that the instructors give frequent curtain lectures on the dishonesty prevalent among the students. If the students are trusted, why are they told not to look up from their papers when writing a quiz? Is not this in itself an assumption that if the students look up they will copy from a neighbor's paper? Students object to being considered guilty of dishonesty until they prove themselves innocent.

It was charged further that the discipline was millitaristic. We doubt that West Point offers any such precedent as deducting 10 per cent from a student's paper if he makes a scratch on his paper after the close of the hour. It is denied that such is the policy of the department. It cannot be denied that the threat is made and that the instructors take up such papers and scribble "late" on them. It may be true that the department does not take this into consideration in marking the papers. It may be only a bluff. Bluff is the polite parlor term for the practice. We believe that the rule is unreasonable and should be discontinued.

It was charged that the department, while demanding obedience to its own rulings, has violated at least one ruling of the university—the destruction of examination papers in less than a year after the writing of the quiz. This saves the department the trouble of going over the papers with cantankerous students who presume to ask to see their papers. Is it asking too much of the department to comply with faculty rulings? Is it asking too much of the department to comply with sane pedagogical principles one of which is that students should profit by the mistakes they make on examinations?

It was charged further that the students are often treated with courtesy. We are glad to learn that the women students do not suffer on this account. The Senate committee will probably find that a considerable number of men have found the situation different.

The Daily Cardinal is confident that these charges are founded on fact. When established by a preponderance of evidence, the proper administrative officials ought to straighten things out.

TOO BUSY

When the average student refuses to do some friend a favor, or when he foregoes a picture show or cuts a class or misses a dance, he sighs or moans or snaps: "Too busy." We, who also have our minor obligations of class-room, activity, and society, take him at his word and offer him a bit of brotherly sympathy; for we also are wrestling with the hallucination that we are likewise "too busy."

And so we continued our way of bending beneath the burdens of a fast and furious college life, until we heard of one student whose business was exceeded only by his ambition and his physical endurance.

This student is in the College of Agriculture. He waits table for his board and tends furnace for his room. He works five hours a night in a restaurant, finishing up at midnight; then he takes a turn as night-watchman until 4 a. m., when he goes to bed for his less than six hours dily sleep. When he studies no one can tell, and yet he is carrying on an average schedule and making good grades.

This man is determined to get a college education, and it looks as though he were going to succeed. And we have learned that we, after all, are possibly not so busy as we thought.—Daily Illini.

A series of round table discussions will be held. On Saturday, Feb. 18, Prof. V. A. C. Hinmon will preside at a discussion of the education problems; Prof. A. L. Haake will lead a discussion of secretarial work; and Prof. John R. Commons will discuss labor management.

The conference, which will begin on Thursday, Feb. 16, is the ninth annual women's vocational conference held here in the university, and each year it offers a larger program of vocational intelligence to university women who wish to become better acquainted with the vocation which they have decided upon.

ARRANGE LOCAL TOURNAMENT OF CHESS CHASERS

Complete Organization of Club
Here; Want More Members

Organization of the Chess club of the University of Wisconsin has been completed. Plans are under way for a local tournament and for games with other universities. A game by wireless with Ohio is planned.

At the regular meeting of the club held recently in the Green room of the Y. M. C. A. the local tournament arrangements were discussed and the basis for determination of a team agreed upon.

Newly elected officers include: F. C. Forsbeck '22, president; J. K. Kolb '23, vice-president; S. M. Cone '25, secretary; C. F. Nixon '23, treasurer; E. M. Fitchett '23, sergeant-at-arms.

Membership in the club is open to everyone interested in chess. Beginners are to be given instruction in the game and will have an opportunity to watch the progress of the tournament games. Those interested are urged to become active members of the organization in order to insure a representative team for the university.

Chess 1,300 Years Old

Interest in the game of chess, now 1,300 years old, which has played such an interesting part in French, English, and German literature from the Middle Ages up to the present time was given great impetus by the world war. In the prison camps, in the field hospitals, and even in the trenches, chess was one of the favorite diversions in hours of leisure, not only because it offered a pleasurable pastime but because it served to develop an interesting study for every soldier,—the grasp of the principles underlying military strategy and the ability to conceive and carry out military operations on a large scale.

More than 5,000 volumes on chess have been written, and weekly or monthly magazines solely devoted to chess are published in every country so that the game has become an almost international universal language.

Dentifruit

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

The Five-Fruit Dentifrice

Based on elements derived from pineapple, orange, paw-paw, grapes and apples.

Made to regularly do for teeth what these five fruits would do.

Multiplies with every use the tooth-protecting forces in the mouth. This must be done—and often.

Fruit Effects 30 Days Free

The fruit effects on teeth.

We will buy you a tube of Dentifruit, so you may realize what these fruit effects can do.

Dental research has lately discovered what fruit does for the teeth. And why whole races living largely on fruit are almost immune to tooth troubles. This is an effort to spread the facts and lead millions to benefit by them. The fruit essentials are embodied in a tooth paste. We supply a month's test free. Thus you may learn without expense the need for fruit effects.

What fruit will do

We long have known that starch deposits gum the teeth and get between them. In fermenting they form acids and breed germs.

Now we know how Nature combats those deposits. She puts ptyalin in the saliva to digest the clinging starch. She puts alkalis in the saliva to neutralize the acids as they form. But those factors depend on stimulation, and Nature expects that from fruit. Certain fruits will multiply the ptyalin up to 12 times over, and the alkalis up to 8 times over.

Most people in this latitude eat too little fruit. Those tooth-protecting forces are not properly maintained. Starch and acids on the teeth are not constantly destroyed. So, with all our care, tooth troubles are increasing. They are almost universal, and alarming in extent.

Now a new idea

Now dental science has evolved a new idea. The essential fruit elements are embodied in a tooth paste. Now you can apply them every time you brush your teeth.

Dentifruit brings the fruit effects. It multiplies the ptyalin and the alkalis in the saliva. It gives many-fold effect to those great forces which destroy the starch and acids.

It does this instantly and several times a day. Then Nature fights those tooth destroyers as nothing else can do.

With these results

Starch deposits are digested and removed. The mouth is placed in normal alkaline condition. A fresh, clean feeling comes with every use. Natural conditions are established, as by diet rich in fruits.

The object is to prove this by a test. Then you will realize that in some way you must get these fruit effects. So we offer to buy you a 35-cent tube. We offer 30 days' use at our cost. Any modern dentist will advise you to accept this offer. Do it.

ICE CARNIVAL TO BE STAGED ON SATURDAY

Hope For Cold Weather As Prizes Are Announced

Feeling certain of the return of colder weather before tomorrow the committee in charge of the Sixth Annual Ice carnival to be held Saturday afternoon and evening has compiled a list of prizes for the various skating events scheduled for the winter classic.

All of the prizes except cups for the inter-fraternity relay and the silver fruit baskets and bon bon dishes for the inter-sorority relay have been donated by Madison merchants or town sporting goods companies. Sweaters, skates, golf sox, cigars, flowers, candy, fountain pens, and Eversharp pencils are among the contributed articles. An incense statue is an unusual prize which is being offered to one of the winners of the girls' quarter mile singles.

A fee of 25 cents is being charged each entrant in the races as a means of discouraging poor skaters from taking part in the contests. This measure was made necessary because of the limited time in which the events must be run off. If only the best skaters enter the races, waste of time will be reduced to the minimum, in the opinion of the committee. The fee will also help to defray the expenses incurred in holding the carnival.

The list of events and the prizes are as follows:

220 yard dash: first, red sweater, The Hub; second, pipe, Morgan brothers; third, pair of sox, Economy Boot shop.

Quarter mile girls' singles: first, rink skates, Wolf, Kubly, and Hirsch; second, bedroom slippers, Brown Shoe store; third, incense statue, Capital City pharmacy.

Quarter mile men's singles: first, fountain pen, Rider Pen shop; second, pipe and tobacco, Hinkins; third, carton of cigarettes, Franks' restaurant.

Quarter mile girls' doubles: first, electric iron, Harloff-Laprich; second, golf sox, Spaulding Sport shop; third, bottle perfume, Badger Barber shop.

Quarter mile men's backward: first, fountain pen, Victor Maurseth; second, Eversharp pencil, Badger, pharmacy; third, golf sox, Rupps.

Half mile men's singles: first, wool scarf, Co-op; second, Whitman's campers, University pharmacy; third, box candy, Chocolate shop.

One mile men's singles: first, second, and third places receive medals, Nestor, Johnston Skating company, Chicago.

100 yard girls' backward: first, mirror and air pillow, Palace Drug store; second, box candy, Menges pharmacy; third, stationery, Netherswoods.

Quarter mile mixed doubles: first, silk stockings, Garbut and Thuringer; second, corsage bouquet,

Illinois Wins From Purdue, But Feels Loss of Walquist

(Special to Daily Cardinal) URBANA, Ill., Feb. 9. — Coach Winters' Illini basketball team, still suffering from the loss of Walquist, veteran of two seasons, staged a successful comeback last night when it sent Purdue down the conference ladder with a 29 to 28 defeat.

Since the defeat at the hands of Chicago last Saturday, Coach Winters has worked hard to correct the many faults which were evident in the Maroon game. The combination which defeated the Boilermakers last night, although it lacked the polish and ease of a smooth running machine, was better than the team that played the Maroons. Coach Winters was obliged to use Tabor, a guard, at a forward position, and Vogel, a guard, at center. The latter played an excellent defensive game but was decidedly weak on the offense. Much attention is being devoted to the training of the Illini scoring combinations in an effort to develop the same fast offense that was built around Walquist. Illini followers are highly optimistic but by no means over-confident as to future games. It is believed, however, that with some hard practice sessions Coach Winters will put a team in the field that will still make a bid for conference honors.

The squad was given light scrimmage against the Freshmen this afternoon. The yearlings, using Wisconsin plays and Doctor Meanwell's short pass game, put up a hard fight against the many Varsity formations. The games with Wisconsin Friday and Minnesota Saturday are considered the hardest ones on the Illini schedule, coming as they do at a crucial period of the season.

Much attention is being directed toward the Big Ten games this week. Indiana succeeded in upsetting Minnesota's clean record last Saturday and should prove a dangerous opponent against Coach Lambert's Boilermakers this weekend. The result of this game in addition to the two Illini contests up north, will determine the standing of the Big Ten teams at the half-way mark and will indicate definitely the contenders for final honors.

Renschlers; third, picture frame, Photoart.

Obstacle race (free for all): first, silk muffler, Toggery shop; second, laundry case, Madison Leather Goods company; third, box candy, Frank Brothers grocery.

Two mile (open): first, tube skates, Spaulding Sporting Goods company; second, box cigars, Camel Billiard room; third, flashlight, Blackhawk Electric company.

Broad jump: first, golf sox, Kesenichs; second, box cigars, Mautz Billiard room; third, bedroom slippers, Malec and Melas.

Inter-sorority relay: first, second, and third places receive silver fruit baskets and bon bon dishes.

Inter-fraternity relay: first, second, and third places receive silver loving cups.

Challenge to Rifle Match Accepted by Iowa Cadet Squad

The challenge to a rifle match from the University of Wisconsin has been accepted and the Iowa R. O. T. C. rifle team has begun shooting the prone position, according to Warrant Officer James J. Gibney, individual instructor in rifle practice.

The championship match of the Seventh Corps Area also starts this week and lasts through the entire month of February. All four positions, prone, sitting, kneeling and standing, will be shot and when each team has completed its entire string, the targets will be sent to the officer in charge of R. O. T. C. affairs at Fort Crook, Nebraska.

Badgers Meet Illini Basketball Quintet

The teamwork has shown consistent improvement, but none of the men have seemed able to locate their shooting eyes in former games. If Coach Meanwell has been able to remedy this defect during the vacation, Wisconsin has at least an even chance of winning from the Suckers.

Since Wisconsin and Illinois are tied for third place in the conference at the present time, each will battle fiercely to keep from dropping further down the percentage list, and probably out of the running for the championship.

A victory will put either team into a tie with Purdue for second place. Minnesota will still retain her hold on the top with a record of five victories against a single defeat.

It will again be necessary to turn away the town-people when they come for tickets this afternoon, as the pastebands were all sold in two hours long before the end of the student line had been reached. This means that at least 2,300 student rooters will be ready to cheer the Badgers in their effort to climb a step nearer to the pennant.

CHANGES SURE IN WEEK-END CAGING GAMES

Big Ten Leaders Will Meet in Crucial Tilts

With Illinois and Minnesota, Iowa and Chicago, Michigan and Ohio State, and Purdue and Indiana all playing tomorrow night, the week-end promises to be one of the most vital of the 1922 pennant race.

The arrangement of the schedule insures some juggling about of conference standings, as the present leaders clash with each other, and two of the teams will forge into leads which will give them an advantage for the balance of the race.

The Suckers have a hard proposition facing them, that is, playing Minnesota at Minneapolis the night after playing Wisconsin. Both games are bound to be hard, and the Illini have already played two games in the past week. Consequently, it would not be surprising to see the Gophers chalk up a victory tomorrow night. Doctor Cook's aggregation will probably be keyed to revenge the defeat which they suffered last week, and should play a better game than they have at any time this year.

Iowa Meets Chicago

Iowa and Chicago will stage an interesting battle on the Midway tomorrow night. While neither is in line for the championship, both are stronger than they have been at any time this season.

Changes Sure

There is no telling what will occur when Purdue travels to Indiana tomorrow night. The Hoosiers were not even conceded an outside chance of winning from Minnesota, but they managed to grab off a victory, and there is no reason why they cannot repeat this week. An Indiana victory would tend to further muddle up the conference standings, and would incidentally give Wisconsin a little boost.

prayers for your speedy recovery.

May I not add—without going too far away from official duties—that this letter bears also the full sympathy of your former teacher and long-time friend?

Very faithfully yours,

E. A. Birge,

President.

In acknowledgment of the degree Justice Siebecker wrote the following letter to Present Birge on Feb. 7:

Dear President Birge:

Among the many messages that have come from my friends none has touched me more deeply or given me greater pleasure than your very kind letter conveying your sympathy and good wishes and telling me of the unexpected honor which my Alma Mater has conferred upon me. Much as I appreciate the honor conferred, I prize the degree chiefly because of your assurance that it brings with it the respect and affection of the men and women who make up my Alma Mater.

I especially appreciate your reference to my work. If my service has been such as to deserve such reference by you, it is because of the nurture and training given me by the university to which I am so deeply indebted. May I ask you to convey to all who have had a part in thus honoring me my sincere appreciation of the honor conferred, and particularly of the spirit that prompted the taking of such action.

It is difficult to find words to express to you the comfort and encouragement which this expression of affection and regard has brought to me.

With kindest personal regards, I am

Very faithfully yours,
Robert G. Siebecker.

AT THE GRAND.

Shirley Mason, the popular little star, will be the chief figure at the Grand today when she begins an engagement in her latest picture, which is attractively titled "Lovetime." The picture has for its heroine a dainty maid, of humble birth but fair to look upon. An aristocratic artist, noting her beauty, paints her portrait and surrenders his heart while doing it. The obstacles to the happiness of the pair, and how these are overcome are the basis of incidents which stir the heart.
