MASS MEETING TO CLEAR UP WRONG IDEAS

Students Sponsor Gathering to Spread Facts Not Known

An all university massmeeting conducted by students will be held next Tuesday night between 7 and 8 o'clock in the men's gymnasium. It will be in the nature of a get-together at which time it is intended to correct erroneous impressions about the university that have been gained in some quarters and to acquaint the students with facts that should be more generally known.

The Council of 40, representing men of the university, and the executive boards of S. G. A., W. A. A. and the Y. W. C. A., representing women, will sponsor the massmeeting which is intended to be a sequel to the varsity welcome and the first of a series to be conducted by students in order to put facts before the entire university.

Weston to Open Meeting

"Red" Weston '21, president of the senior class, will open the meeting, taking as his subject, "The University as Others See It." Frances Ellen Tucker '21 will follow him on the program and will answer criticisms against the university that have recently appeared in newspapers throughout the state, discussing from the student viewpoint the points they have featured.

Dean George C. Sellery will make a short address in which he will attempt to dispel gloom among those students who have been worried by allusions to the mythical "sore eye" specials which are falsely said to convey countless numbers to their homes during the university year. Irwin Maier '21 will present an outline of the present needs of the university and will show from the student standpoint the necessity of adequate appropriations to continue to maintain the university in its present high ranking. Lawrence Hall will close the hour meeting by suggesting means for closer co-operation between the student body and the citizens of the state.

Message to Take Home

The massmeeting comes after more than a week of campaigning through the press in order to disseminate among students and the people of the state facts about the university and it is intended to be an added incentive to students to carry the message to their parents and the people of their communities during the Christmas vacation.

PROM PARTY PLANS ARE TAKING SHAPE

Arrangements for Prom parties for men not connected with an organized group are fast taking shape, according to Edward C. Caluwaert '22, chairman of men's arrangements, and he is eager to get in touch with all who are interested in the plan.

Men who have not yet communicated with him are asked to call B. 4611 or Don Murphy '22, B. 3222. A meeting of all interested in these prom parties will be held next Wednesday noon at 12:45 in 165 Bascom hall.

There will be an important compulsory meeting of all Cardinal reporters and special writers at the editorial office Saturday at 12:45. Failure to appear at this time will mean that the reporters will be dropped from the staff.

ANNUAL BAZAAR TO BE GIVEN IN LATHROP BY Y. W. C.

Four Seasons Will Be Plan Carried Out in Decorations

"The majority of campus organizations and the various groups of the Y. W. C. A. organization itself are co-operating in such a way that the Bazaar of Four Seasons promises to be truly 'a bazaar above par,'" said Dorothy Dwight '22, who has organized and managed the annual Y. W. C. A. bazaar to take place tomorrow afternoon and evening.

All of the first and second floors of Lathrop hall will be given over to the stunts and sales which have been arranged. General admission to the bazaar will be 10 cents and admission to the various side shows and stunts, and chances for the raffles and grab bags will be the same price.

The gymnasium walls will be lined with booths for the side shows, which will be conducted by Pythia and Castalia, women's literary societies, the French club, and the organization of native Hawaiians. One booth will be occupied by the Spanish club which will exhibit a bullfight. W. A. A. will conduct a Punch and Judy show and a mock wedding. An Egyptian fortune telling establishment will be under the direction of Alice Korl '24, and Mary Oflund will tell fortunes by the gypsy method.

Will Give Program

In the concert room a program, consisting of dancing by members of Miss Margaret H'Doubler's classes, selections by the men's Glee club, and a play "Nevertheless," to be presented by Twelfth Night and Red Domino, will be given in the afternoon at 3:30 and in the evening at 7:30.

The plan of the four seasons will be carried out in the arrangement

CHRISTMAS TREES TO APPEAR AT FOOT OF CAMPUS TODAY

S. G. A. Sponsors Student Reminder That Holidays Are Coming

Just to remind us that Christmas is coming, three trees will appear, trimmed and lighted at the foot of the hill opposite Music hall tonight. The impression of "W" will be given with one large tree in the middle and two small ones on each side. S. G. A. is responsible for this cheerful addition to the campus. That organization has voted to make the institution of Christmas trees a tradition at the university.

For the past two years trees have been used in connection with the drive for the French war orphans. Although this work has been discontinued, the trees will appear as a regular custom. They may be used in connection with a drive for any charitable purpose, provided the offerings are purely voluntary. As before, tags bearing the names of contributors may be used for decoration. This year, however, the trees are to be used for decorative purposes only.

Gladys Haskins '22, is chairman of the committee in charge of the trees. Other members of the committee are: Lucile Curtis '23, Carolyn Kay '22, Minnie Beattie '23, Ida Gilbert '22, and Lila Ekern '24. The trimming, as well as the trees, is furnished by S. G. A. The lighting of the trees is contributed by the university.

At the beginning of the Christmas recess, the trees will be given to the Bradley Memorial hospital for the Christmas celebration there.

RECORD WEATHER

"Cap" Isabel Says Lake Has Never Been Open This Late

"This is the latest the lake has ever been open," said "Cap" Isabel yesterday afternoon. "One winter, six years ago, we had this kind of weather all winter, but a cold snap came along in December, and froze up the lake."

"The lake hasn't started to freeze at all, yet. It's got to be twice as cold as this, and the wind has to go down before it can freeze."

"How long does it take? Well, I've seen it freeze in a night—not strong enough for skating, but when it once starts, it doesn't take long. Three or four, sometimes five feet is as thick as the ice gets."

"Is it going to snow?" he grinned. "Ask the weather man!"

LACEY GIVES OUT JAMBOREE PLANS

Committees Are Named for Annual All-University Frolic

All committees were appointed yesterday for the big varsity Jamboree which will be held January 15, in the gymnasium and concert room of Lathrop hall. The annual Jamboree is a masque ball given under the direction of the student senate. Prizes are awarded to groups, individuals, and partners for the cleverest costumes.

"Nearly 2,000 people went to the Jamboree last year," said David Lacey '21, general chairman, "and although we will not try to have as many this year, since it will not be in the big gym, we want it to be even a greater success."

Committees appointed yesterday by the general chairman are as follows:

Finance: George Stolley '22, chairman, Kersey Kinsey '23, Clarence Rasmussen '22, Helen Shippley '23, Margaret McDowell '22, Everett Carpenter '22.

Stunts: Lee McCandless '23, chairman, Walter Schwinn '22, Walter Shulke '24, Reginald Garstang '22, Mildred Kahn, Marjorie Severance '23, Joy Shadbolt '24.

Costume: Philip Falk '21, chairman, Frances Tucker '21, Helen Cheetham '22, Gustavus Tuckerman '23, Elizabeth Woods '23.

Prizes: Joseph Hook '23, chairman, Willard Duncan '22, Esther Lindsten '23, William Dorward '23, Ruth Houseworth '23, Doris Stein '24.

Floor: Joseph Bolender '21, chairman, Clarence Jennett '21, Cecil Russell '23, Frederick Nolte '22, Carol Parkinson '21, Aileen Hamilton '23, Lydia Lacey '21.

Refreshments: Birney Miller '22, chairman, Phillip Nolte '23, Henry Katz '22, Viola Maag '23, Lyla Holt '24, Eleanor Glascock '24.

Publicity: Foster Strong '21, Katherine Beebe '21.

Tickets: John Hurley '24, chairman, Herbert Hentzer '23, Claude Debbink '23, Helen Moebs '24.

A general meeting of all committees will be held Monday at 12:45 in the Union building.

PI TAU SIGMA ELECTS SEVEN

BADGERS MEET KNOX COLLEGE IN FIRST GAME

Coach Meanwell Looks for Stiff Opposition From Galesburg Five

The curtain will be raised tonight on the 1920-21 basketball season at Wisconsin when Coach Meanwell's Badgers meet the fast quintet from Knox college, Galesburg, Ill. Wisconsin fans have shown unusual interest in basketball so far this season and in view of the fact that the game tonight will be a close one, a large crowd is expected to see the Badgers in action.

The Badger line-up will be:

Expect Hard Game

The Badgers are not looking for an easy game, and Coach Meanwell gave his varsity players a rest yesterday so that they will be in good condition for a hard fight against the Illinois champions. The Knox aggregation is composed of light, fast men, who use the short pass game similarly to the Wisconsin game. The battle tonight will be settled by the defensive strength of the two teams.

In this department Coach Meanwell has Caesar, Tebell, and Horne with Gage in reserve. Caesar is well known to Badger fans while Tebell and Horne have developed into powerful defensive players. The former showed up well against the frosh quintet in Wednesday's game and should be a big factor in the Badger defense during the coming conference schedule.

Five Games in Eight Days

The offensive play is well taken care of with Captain Taylor, "Rollie" or "Jack" Williams at the forwards and Frogner at center. These men developed considerable ability in the short pass floor game. Taylor's free throwing this year is better than it was last season and the Badgers should lose but a few counts in this part of the game.

The Badgers have five preliminary games within the next eight days and if they can come through with a clean slate, prospects for a winning team will become considerably brighter. The squad has been working nearly 15 hours a week since the first of October and Coach Meanwell claims that never before has he put his men through such a grind as this year's squad has undergone.

MADISON CHILDREN TO BE GUESTS AT STUDENT PARTIES

Fraternities and sororities are co-operating with Madison charities this year to give a series of Christmas parties next week for children of the poorer districts. Fifteen sororities, working together, will give parties next Wednesday and Thursday afternoons at the various houses, each house entertaining from 15 to 20 children.

The fraternities, under the direction of Ku Klux Klan, are working with the Associated Charities and the Volunteers of America. They will entertain, altogether, about 300 children, at the different houses. Fraternities which have not yet been included in the plan are urged to communicate with William Collins '22, at Badger 1405, if they care to help.

THE LIT REVIEW

SPITE the edit in the "Lit" this month, our wager in regard to cover subjects still holds good. This month the hero decorates the front, and within two more issues they'll have the heroine, or some squally sticky and gooey young thing, probably smiling from behind a fan, or looking coquettishly through a fox fur, if you see what we mean.

AS we requested last month, the "Lit's" most prolific contributor, The Democrat, comes through with another splendid bit of verse, written after a mixer, and entitled, "Get Acquainted." Now, our mixer poem would doubtless be an ode to Tiz or Blue Jay,—but this idea of The Democrat's is not half bad.

THE edits are getting shorter, doubtless because ye ed. is panned, and the effect would be lost if length were used. As for legends, didja ever hear the one about the baptismal feast of the Liberty Badger? Them was the good old days.

TED SCHULTZ writes about a pot of rouge on a fraternity house mantel. Now, at the Beta house, you have everything in the world to write about, but it's not all on the mantel. They keep their souvenirs in their rooms.

WITH A. C. Hamilton writing for Lit, Snappy Stories and Black Cat have lost the chances of their life-time for real money-getting serials. Fancy what the man could do with a fleet of steam-boats, and a whole fence-full of garden gates!

HAMILTON should go out for directing the last 60 feet of movie films.

WE are really getting concerned and decoration of the first floor. The swimming pool will be transformed into a scene of summer where the Dolphin club will give a free exhibition of fancy diving and swimming.

Snow drifts, evergreen trees, and Santa Claus guarding a large Christmas tree will change the familiar hall into the likeness of hoary winter. Santa Claus will be in charge of the raffling of the donations by town firms. The sale of homemade cakes and pies is in charge of the Home Economics department, with Isabel Wright '23, in charge. One place in the hall will be set aside for the sale of the numerous Christmas gifts which have been donated by the women of the university. Christmas cards will also be sold.

Will Dance in Parlors

Dancing during the afternoon and evening will be in the parlors which will be decorated to represent autumn. Thompson's orchestra will provide the music for both afternoon and evening.

In the Japanese tea room, where the idea of spring will prevail, Japanese maidens will serve tea, ice cream, and cakes. There will also be booths for the sale of candy.

Plans which the Chinese club have made to contribute to the affair include a musical program, the selling of Chinese tea, and the display of native embroideries for which orders will be taken.

about "Pen" Crosby. This last spell has been going on a month, and she's still seeing purple rabbits with wings flying into red evergreen bushes. Give it up, "Pen," give it up.

NOW there are jags and jags. Witness the way Frank Gray sees his dreams. All murky and cold and Poe-like, with all the regulation equipment of a real creepy mystery story, including a crypt, a briny smell, damp flour, wild singing, and darkness. Don't read "Bare Hands" to children or fearful maiden aunts.

IN "Afterwards" "Dot" Shaner gives us a soul peek. To think that our "Dot" had felt the big, big world like that! Probably she'll do a volume in time, labelled "Heart Throbs" or "Experience" or "Memories."

AND then we find "Dawn." More souls, more inspirash, more youthful visions. Garvin is a handsome model thing, with, mark you, curly hair. Good sign, that! And Mary is a typical s. y. t. with all of woman's traditional devotion and slavish anxiety. It's just the sort of story the Baptist quarterly or "The Sunday Home Circle" would like to publish. The maiden aunts might shed tears over it, but the children won't quite understand it.

That Something New

Where is the woman who does not seek a hat that is smart, becoming and yet not too expensive? It is such a natural, feminine desire, and now so easily attained.

Just this afternoon while I was down town doing some of my Christmas shopping, I saw some of the loveliest hats you could imagine

For the college exactly, are the ravishing little models which Kessenich's have on display. They have just come in, and oh! such a bevy of loveliness! Of course there were school hats and street hats, tailored hats and sport hats, but what most attracted my attention were the charming little bonnets designed exclusively to adorn one's head for the gaities of the afternoon and evening.

Every shade of the rainbow has been caught and used in some new and bewitching mode to form a fitting crown for Milady's head. Some of them are in soft shades of velvet, while others boast satin or duvetyn. Blossom-smooth and clinging, a few of them are fashioned in perfectly irresistible little turbans, and the new subtle designing of these bonnets is truly unusual.

One little French tam, so exclusive in design that you'd just think it had walked right out of the Rue de Rivoli, demanded special recognition even amid the alluring array which I saw. Fashioned in the new cathedral shade, the wide sweep of smoky-grey uncurled ostrich softly waves back from the brim, making a well-nigh irresistible effect.

One of the newest wrinkles in chapeau-land is a turban created in gay oriental metal cloth, covered with sparkling transparent net. There are some at Kessenich's that cannot fail to please you, they're so very individual.

Perhaps your coat is brown this year. Then, of course, you will want a hat in one of the more sombre shades. I saw one which would be ideal with such a coat. Designed in tete-de-nigre, it achieved its cleverness by daring to flaunt a plume of fire-orange uncurled ostrich from the front to the back. Laid flat across the crown the plume greeted you again at the sides. You just can't imagine a more striking combination than those russet feathers, and such gorgeous plumes.

Do you like the little feather hats? They are so soft, so appealing, that they are becoming to most everyone. In just exactly the right shade of Chinese blue (many call it French blue) is a small little all-feather hat. No other trimming spoils the color note, and if your eyes are blue, the loveliest effect imaginable may be achieved.

One little chapeau so individual that it immediately arrested my attention has a crown of that soft, luscious apple-green, that harmonizes so well with any of the little dancing frocks. The dark brim is slit in such an alluring way that it will be so becoming as to spell danger to one's partner.

Just as the name of a famous designer or modiste assures smartness to your gown, just so does the name of Kessenich's assure le dernier mot to your purchase, no matter from what department you have selected your gift.

A word to the wise is sufficient—this week a special sale of $4.00 silk hose gives the fortunate buyer the opportunity to purchase a practical Christmas gift for only $2.75.

SCOTT WINS TROPHY FOR BEST TACKLER

Gets Cup Offered Early in Year by Prof. A. S. Pearse

By his great work at tackle during the past football season, Ralph Scott '22, has won the distinction of being the best tackler on the Badger team and has been awarded the trophy cup which Prof. A. S. Pearse of the Zoology department offered early in the year for the best tackler on the squad.

Major John S. Wood, Prof. J. F. A. Pyre, and Prof. Warren Taylor composed the committee which selected Scott as winner of the trophy.

When Professor Pearse offered the cup he stated that it should be given to the man who was most consistent in his tackling throughout the entire season. Professor Pearse was a member of the Nebraska university football team of 1901. He realized the great importance of tackling to football and the cup was offered as an incentive toward better and harder tackling by members of the team.

Wisconsin line and more than once turned the tide of the game by throwing an opposing runner for a loss. He possessed remarkable speed for a man of his size and once he grabbed an opponent the latter never wriggled out of his arms.

It may have been the last play that Scott made in a cardinal uniform that won the Pearse cup for him. Badger fans will remember that just before the final whistle in the Chicago game, "Scotty" broke through the Maroon forward wall and nabbed the runner for a 15 yard loss. There is not a backfield man on any conference team which opposed the Badgers this season who does not have a high esteem for Scott's 190 pounds of tackling ability.

Other Badgers Considered

Wisconsin had an unusually strong group of tacklers this season and Brader '22, Sundt '22, Williams, and Bunge '22, were men who were close followers of Scott for first honors. Anybody who saw Howard Stark in action against Ohio State at Columbus last fall claim that Scott's running mate was one of the greatest tacklers in the conference.

Scott played a consistent game all through the season, however, and although he was not a flashy type of tackler he was the most dependable man on the Badger squad.

U. S. ERECTS 200 WARSHIPS

Completed During Past Year, Says Report to Daniels

WASHINGTON. — Nearly 200 warships, including one superdreadnaught and 96 destroyers, were completed for the American navy during the fiscal year ended last June 30 and more than 100 others, including eleven superdreadnaughts and six great battle cruisers, were building at that time.

This is shown in the annual report of Rear Admiral David W. Taylor, chief of the bureau of construction and repair, to Secty. Daniels, made public at the navy department.

Pythia will devote its regular meeting tonight to the discussion of two war poets, Rupert Brooke and Siegfried Sasson. Irma Borchers '23 will give a short sketch of the life of Rupert Brooke, and will read "The Soldier," and "Not with Vain Tears," by this poet. The life and works of Siegfried Sasson will be discussed by Fern Busby '22. Agnes Currie '21 will contrast the works of the two poets, and the meeting will close with a general discussion. At the regular meeting of Cas-

TWO MACHINE SHOP UNITS TO BE READY SOON

New Buildings to Relieve Congestion in Engineering School

Two units of the new training shops which are now being constructed for the School of Engineering will be ready for occupancy by next semester, announces W. L. Dabney, superintendent of the university machine shops. The cost will be $62,000.

Complete courses in forging, foundry, chipping and filing, pattern making and the short course in carpentry will be installed. The present machine shops, however, located along Lake Mendota near Park street, will not be moved until the remaining two units of the shop system are constructed. Appropriations for these units have not yet been made by the state legislature.

"The new buildings and equipment are of a modern type," says Mr. Dabney. "They will do much to relieve the school of the congested condition which now exists due to heavy enrollment. More than 600 students in our courses are now being taken care of with very limited facilities."

Equipment from the United States government was purchased below cost price by the university for installation in these shops. Under the provision of the Caldwell bill, passed in November, 1919, educational institutions were granted the right to purchase war-time equipment from the government at 15 per cent of the cost price.

Thirty per cent of the equipment which has been purchased for the university shops has already been installed in the old machine shops. Expensive machinery, such as machine shop lathes, milling machinery, and planers have been purchased. Special and automatic tools for use in a manufacturing department, which the School of Engineering hopes to develop, have also been acquired.

The machine shops will be moved as soon as further appropriations are made. With the construction of the remaining units in the shop system, the present over-crowded condition, officials hope, will be remedied.

Water Tower Will Vanish Brick By Brick In 20 Days

The old water tower on E. Washington ave. will be demolished within 18 or 20 days if the present weather continues, according to L. H. Milsted, who is directing the work for Perry T. Fess. The work began Nov. 20. From 20,000 to 30,000 of the 80,000 bricks in the structure have already been torn down and sold. Semi-cylindrical sheets of steel 4 feet by 19 feet, 6 inches, making up the huge tank within the tower are being stacked on the ground as they are removed, to be sold later to some city which needs a water reservoir of this type.

To expose one circle of sheet steel, workmen have to remove a four-foot tier of bricks from the wall, lowering the bricks with a single pulley gin pole arrangement outside the tower. Then rivets are cut and the huge steel sheets are lowered with the same tackle. Two tiers of brick and two circles of steel were removed Wednesday.

The lower part of the tower has walls four feet thick, varying to a thickness of 20 inches just below where 14-inch I-beams which support the tank. This portion of the structure remains solid, and it would endure for years. Above this the wall is a brick veneer eight inches thick, and nearer the top it is only four inches thick.

DANCE PROBLEM IS CHALLENGE TO THINKING STUDENT—DEAN NARDIN

"The solution to the student problem centered about dancing, will come just as soon as the students realize that the situation is a challenge to thoughtful consideration and an opportunity for them to show themselves as real leaders."

So spoke Dean F. Louise Nardin to a gathering of men that crowded the parlors of the university Y. M. C. A. to hear her talk on the subject, "A Dean's Viewpoint of a Student Movement."

Dean Nardin spoke frankly and intimately but made it clear that moral problems, distinctly as such were not her consideration, nor had she come with the purpose of demonstrating approved styles of dancing, and that if her audience had appeared with such thought in mind the passing of rain checks was in order.

"At this time," said Miss Nardin, "when every supporter of Wisconsin is intent on creating the best impression possible for our university he should not neglect this matter of proper dancing. It is necessary that the state trust us if it is to invest in us the millions asked for appropriation. Every precaution must be taken in the home town during Christmas vacation that in no way may things detrimental to our purpose be picked up by those who are watching. We can't afford to be talked about."

Tracing briefly the progress and development of the situation since agitation was begun by local dance hall proprietors, Dean Nardin cited numerous instances brought to her attention in her effort to co-operate with the Student Life and Interests committee. The work of this committee, she emphasized, is merely the expression of the majority of students who are determined to see the abolishment of the improper dancing practiced by a small minority.

Concerning the letter recently sent to all organizations, requesting that they appoint a censor for each dance, Dean Nardin said: "Representative women were asked if they considered this plan advisable and if it would aid the general movement. They were unanimously agreed that it would. Through the letter, the writers hoped that Wisconsin dancers would challenge all possible criticism."

At the conclusion of the talk the meeting was turned over to open discussion. During this Dean Nardin told of several of her experiences with university men and women in connection with the dance problem. Announcement of the all university massmeeting to be held next Tuesday evening was made by Lothrop B. Follett '21. At this time matters of general student interest will be presented, particularly those concerning the needs of the university.

VARSITY FISH PRIMED FOR FIRST MEET

Chances for Win Over Milwaukee Squad Are Slight

The Wisconsin swimming team is being primed for the meet with the Milwaukee Athletic club squad at Milwaukee, December 17. Wisconsin's chances of winning have been lessened by the easy way in which the Milwaukee natators defeated the Northwestern swimming team. "We have a large squad," said Coach Joseph Steinauer, "but the material is only fair. The record of the Milwaukee Athletic club squad is a splendid one and speaks for itself."

The M. A. C. squad is composed of many former Badger water stars, including Arthur Thompson, James Bach, Oscar Osthoff, Carl Beckstein, Southcott, and Hildebrandt. This galaxy of water dogs twice defeated Northwestern, last year's Big Ten champions, and also swamped Chicago, runner-up in the 1920 conference swimming meet. The Milwaukee aggregation has maintained its splendid record of last year by defeating the Northwestern squad 38 to 34 in a recent contest.

Plan Annual Meets

Wisconsin swimming authorities are planning to make the meet with the Milwaukee club an annual event. If arrangements go through as planned, a cup will be donated by the Wisconsin Alumni association of Milwaukee to go to the team which wins two out of three swimming meets.

The remainder of the Badgers' schedule follows:

Milwaukee Athletic club at Madison January 15; Great Lakes at Great Lakes, January 22; Illinois at Madison, February 19; Northwestern at Madison, February 25; Chicago at Chicago, March 12. The Wisconsin squad will wind up its schedule with the conference meet at Evanston on March 18 and 19.

Harlan D. Smith.

As director of information of the U. S. department of agriculture, Harlan D. Smith, the new appointee, becomes Uncle Sam's spokesman to the 18,000,000 farmers of the country, informing them through the press of the latest advances in agricultural methods, giving them full benefit of the work of the government experts. To the general public he must justify the appropriation of millions spent by the department annually in the interest of greater farm production and better farm life.

At The Theaters

AT THE ORPHEUM

"The Viol-Inn," a young musical comedy, heads a fairly well-balanced bill at the Orpheum this week. The slight semblance of plot upon which the music hinges is sufficiently original to be interesting, and the music itself is very pleasing.

Algernon, the agile hat check boy, seems to take the center of the stage. The versatile stars in a soft-shoe dance, and in some violin jazzing of classical music that is not bad at all. The chorus is composed of violinists. Led by the hat-check boy, they produce some really charming jazz.

"The Man Off the Ice-Wagon" sings sentimental songs, gesturing meanwhile with the ice tongs. His voice is fairly good, but the act is especially helpless, and there is no explanation why he comes off the ice wagon.

In the next act, Hugo Lutgens, as the Swedish Billy Sunday, exhorts the audience to "Yump on the Vater Vagon." There are a few good laughs in this, but for the most part it is feeble. The contortions of the preacher are unconvincing and pointless.

Giving what purports to be a "Southern line," Mason and Dixon strain the line to the breaking point by the weight of the humor which, on the part of the feminine member of the team, is about 100 pounds too heavy to be even risqué.

An act by Booth and Leander contains some rather clever bicycle riding. Marlette's Marionettes close the bill with a really ingenious performance by puppets.

AT THE GRAND

When Shirley Mason comes to town on a freight train disguised as a boy—as she does in the first part of "The Little Wanderer," in which William Fox will present her today at the Grand theater—she certainly does have a good time. When the scene was filmed at Hollywood, Cal., in a freight car in the railroad yards, Miss Mason threw herself into the work with all the zest of the half-wild boy she impersonated in disguise. She climbed and played and romped all over the car.

"I missed so much play as a child that I have to make up for it now on every possible occasion," she says. She was on the stage as a child and much of the time on the road, and so had no chance to romp like other children—because she was making a career.

Her mother, however, kept her a child as much as possible, even on the road.

AT THE STRAND

The sea again furnishes the background for a strongly dramatic story in Hobart Bosworth's latest photoplay, "Below the Surface," which is now showing at the Strand.

DEAN NARDIN'S TALK

THREE hundred men, crowded into every available inch of space at the Fellowship meeting last night and representing every element in campus life, proclaimed the talk by Dean of Women Louise Nardin an outstanding success. They came to hear facts; and they heard them in generous quantities. They came to learn the truth about the dancing situation at Wisconsin; and to the last man, they left the meeting content that they had spent an entertaining and beneficial hour.

To many the talk must have proved a rude awakening. We render hearty approval to the dean's statement that there is plenty of good intention at Wisconsin to make things go right. The question is merely how can this good intention be made by each individual's own thoughtfulness to become good standards. It is a challenge to the student body which merits the keenest consideration.

There are many things in which an individual has his own right of choice. We make no comment on the way students choose their food in cafeterias, but shall we take this non-committal attitude in regard to dancing? The answer is obvious when it becomes apparent that the people of the state, the real backers of the university, are made to believe that improper dancing by an almost negligible minority is the favor of the majority.

Realizing that the guilty are so small in numbers makes the task comparatively easy. Challenge them to thoughtful consideration. Make them adequately realize the injustice they are unconsciously doing their alma mater. Moreover, it is the solemn duty of the majority to impress the minority with the vast difference between the self that has momentary desires and caprices and the self that thinks a thing through to the point of deciding what is really best.

Improper dancing needs no extended definition. It is the kind which our parents readily recognize as objectionable despite their removal from the school atmosphere of a university campus. There is only one way in which we can thoroughly eliminate all wrong impressions of the university. It is by an ardent and absolute determination to individually and collectively show the people of the state and nation that the university stands only for that type of dancing which is open to the criticism of the world.

"Watch your step."

THE TERCENTENARY OF THE PILGRIMS LANDING

DURING the past few days, various organizations have been celebrating the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims. It is indeed well that on such occasions as this we let our attention run back to the days when the Mayflower first dropped anchor off the American coast; that we read with an analytical mind the history of those trying seventeenth century times; that we know the institutions and the people of the Pilgrim period.

It is obvious from the history of this period that there were certain institutions and certain beliefs prevalent in the time of the Pilgrims that are neither possible nor desirable in modern society. On the other hand, there were institutions and traits of character that might well have influence in our complex life today. A knowledge of the history of the Pilgrim period sufficiently thorough to enable us to apply the beneficial institutions and personal traits of that period in the solution of our present day problems would be most desirable.

One of the most outstanding characteristics of the Pilgrim days is the fact that there existed an intelligent democracy. Every member of a community knew his community government. He realized its problems. He devoted his talents to their solution. But he did not seek this solution blindly. He realized that success in democracy meant a constant and consistent improvement of the abilities of each citizen. The average citizen sought self-improvement.

A second factor in the life of the Pilgrims that might well be remembered at the present time is the sacredness with which written constitutions were regarded. The Pilgrims set aside a certain sphere of individual sovereignty, and they held this sphere inviolable. They realized what too many of our politicians fail to realize—that a majority may become tyrannical, and that a minority needs protection. Above all, the Pilgrims realized that while a written constitution may deter certain popular impulses, such deterrent is, in the end, wise—that that government is soundest which has developed the slow but certain evolutionary way.

A third notable factor in the Pilgrim life was the sincere endeavor to temper all actions with the spirit of justice. The so-called New England conscience was truly a vital force in the Pilgrims' life. The moral question was at all times prominent.

The staunch courage and the unyielding fortitude with which the Pilgrims faced every obstacle should also be remembered. The severest winters, the ravages of disease and famine, and the Indian massacres never halted the Pilgrims in their march of progress. They survived through their boldness the severest trials. They pushed the frontier farther and farther westward. They were the founders of a progressiveness that has tolerated no hinderance.

The foregoing features of Pilgrim life might well be borne in mind by our citizens of today. It is indeed well on the tercentenary celebration to recall the sterling qualities of this noble people.

Communication

SUPPORT THE "LIT."

Editor Daily Cardinal:

Many friends and supporters of the Wisconsin Literary Magazine believe that the "Lit" is fairly entitled to a greater measure of good will and support than is accorded by the Cardinal, the faculty and the student body in general.

Without the whole-hearted cooperation of an enthusiastic group of students, the production of the "Lit" would be impossible. The "Lit" is nothing less than a sincere effort on the part of its makers to present from month to month the best creative work expressed in prose and poetry by students in the College of Letters and Science.

It is against the dignified traditions of the "Lit" to do the spectacular in order to increase its subscription list. We cannot stage stunts, contests and vaudeville on the hill in order to get the attention of the masses. The fact is, the "Lit" does not need to use such methods.

What the "Lit" needs is criticism. It should be a subject for the Cardinal editorialist now and then. If there are things published in the magazine that ought not be published, the editorialist should say so; if there are things that are worth the attention of the entire student body, then the editorialist should loosen up. Give the "Lit" a square deal, please.

Business manager.

SCHOOL LEVY FOR 1921 IS $705,636

The appropriation sanctioned Monday by the city council for school expenses is 2.3 mills larger than last year, according to a statement by Prof. E. B. Skinner, at a meeting of the school board last night.

Mayor Kittleson and T. G. Murray were reappointed members of the industrial school board for three-year terms.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Zella Swinney, Draper school, taking effect November 19, and Miss Margaret Seiler, kindergarten director, Draper school, taking effect yesterday. Miss Mabel M. Johansen was appointed to the position vacated by Miss Seiler.

Louise Nardin will be assisted in receiving by members of Keystone, and Misses Elizabeth Smith, department of zoology, E. M. Backman, agricultural bacteriology, Frances Sabin, teacher of Latin in the Wisconsin high school, and Helen Smith, department of Romance languages.

What girl will not have a wonderful Christmas if it brings her some of the adorable underthings of silk and lace which we have assembled in such a delightful profusion? Such gifts need not be frightfully expensive to be dainty and have those little individual touches of hand embroidery and little chiffon roses in the softest of pastel shades, which lend such enchanting loveliness to the simplest garment of silk.

There are lovely envelope chemise of crepe de chine, satin and trousseau silk, with yokes of lace, filet inserts and georgette ruffles. These cannot fail of a welcome in any feminine heart, $3.50 to $18.50.

Boudoir caps in the most fascinating little designs that lace, ribbon, georgette and chiffon were ever used, and in the soft, becoming shades that just must suit anyone, $1.00 to $5.00.

Dainty camisoles to make the sheer new blouses all the more entrancing. There are of soft satin and lovely crepe de chine with just the proper touch of fine lace or embroidery to make them perfect, $1.50 to $5.95.

Petticoats—and who wouldn't love to own one of these lace, georgette or crepe de chine conceits, which isn't really a petticoat after all, but just a dream of loveliness come true? $5.00 to $25.00.

Gowns of soft clinging crepe de chine, and the softest of moon-glo satin, with dainty little yokes of tucked georgette or perhaps a bit of lace cleverly contrived to make them creations of beauty, and a joy to possess, $5.00 to $27.50.

Something that any girl, and mother, too, would be proud to possess is a pair of the lovely silk hose, which we can show you in such a charming variety of styles. Paris whispers "short skirts," so hose must be lovely.. $2.00 to $5.00.

Beware Christmas gift seeker, not to be too zealous to give the unusual! Maybe she has just been waiting for Christmas to bring her one of the new handkerchief novelties. We have the daintiest of linen ones, with corner designs embroidered in gay colors, made, 50c $1.75.

"B" is for fashionable bag. And to be TRULY fashionable as everyone knows, in 1921, it must be designed in soft, hand-tooled cordovan leather. We have a complete assortment of these purses which cannot fail to win the instant approval of even the most fastidious, $5.00 to $30.

EXPERIMENTS OF FOREST PRODUCTS
LABORATORY SAVES U. S. MILLIONS

The Forest Products laboratory is now conducting research work that will save millions of dollars to the nation, according to laboratory officials.

Sawdust has already been converted into stock food. Future trials by the dairy department of the university are planned to test the value of the carbohydrate food. Tests are also being made on the distillation of alcohol from wood. It has been found that a small amount of weak alkali such as sodium carbonate added to the wood previous to distillation increases the yield of wood alcohol by 50 to 60 per cent. This is accomplished without seriously affecting the yield of the other valuable food products.

Make Paper from Cotton

With the nation-wide famine of wood pulp and the resultant hardships upon newspapers and other publications, chemists at the laboratory are busy experimenting upon new species of wood suitable for wood pulp. It has been discovered that cotton linters can be used in the manufacture of paper. Two companies are now erecting plants for the making of paper from this material.

The reduction of loss in shipping boxed goods is the object of one series of experiments which are being conducted. The development of efficient containers for shipping purposes is being watched by manufacturers and shippers throughout the country. Research into the best methods of packing various commodities and developing efficient containers which will deliver their contents in a satisfactory condition at minimum cost is being carried out.

Experiments are being made to find best methods of packing phonographs, cream separators, carpet scrubbing machines, shoes, and various other commodities. Returnable crates for shipping live stock, a proposition of concern to farmers and cattle raisers, are also being studied.

Baseball bats and tennis rackets are some of the articles affected by another series of experiments which are being made upon different types of joints and splices and the most efficient method of joining these pieces with glue. Great reductions in cost have been accomplished by the results of tests already made. The use of small pieces of wood, joining them together by glue, will greatly reduce the time to dry stock, utilize otherwise waste material and lower the cost of stock, laboratory officials claim.

The butter tub has become a problem to dairy men as the supply of ash wood rapidly diminishes. Through a series of studies which are being conducted, it has been discovered that western spruce is a satisfactory wood for this purpose.

Co-operative instruction courses are now being carried on for superintendents, plant executives, and foremen of manufacturing plants over the country. The men are sent by the companies to the laboratory here where practical training courses in kiln drying, glue work, and boxing and crating are being given at various times.

The laboratory, which is conducted in co-operation with the university, has caused the saving of many millions of dollars to the country. During the period of the war many experiments were made on the manufacture of a water-resistant plywood for airplanes. The air service department estimated a saving of $6,000,000 alone on the purchase of this material.

NOTHING IN A NAME? O NO! TAKE A PEEK AT THE FACULTY DIRECTORY

Only on a few occasions do we have the opportunity to be facetious at the expense of the faculty so it behooves us to make the most of the opportunity when the faculty directory comes out with its lists of names beautifully arranged with all the married ones starred, as a reward of merit or courage or something like that, we suppose.

Maybe you think there is nothing in a name, but, personally, we think there is and we have lots of sympathy for the "nut" who was so ruthlessly sky-rocketed the other morning for going through the directory and checking the names of the people whom he knew. We did the same thing and quite enjoyed the feeling of being well acquainted in school.

But, alas, when we came to the faculty directory we could check much fewer names. We found a lot of names, though, that interested us, some that surprised us and some whose connotation made us desirous of knowing the owner. For example, wouldn't you like to know Professor Meanwell. We never knew one who did, it was always the other way around.

Another interesting little combination we found was a Frye and Bacon. One could almost start another election on that. That most popular name for school teachers seemed to be Wilson. We found 21. We always did think the faculty back of the student body and after having found in its midst a Dance, a Dahm, a Crook, and a Curl, we are perfectly convinced of its frivolity. Even Commons and Corse did not seem out of place after that. The directory and the Octopus will soon be rivals, and then, Goodnight. That's the way most things end so it behooves us to cease our impertinence, but before we do we cannot help bringing to your attention the man of Gallalee. Thus endeth the first lesson.

PROFESSOR MEAD HOLDS OPEN HOUSE

Prof. Daniel Mead, 120 W. Gorham, has invited university men to attend an open house this evening. Grant Brown '21, of the cabinet of the university Y. M. C. A., is helping in the entertainment.

A party for all foreign students is to be given at the home of Prof. Karl Young, 433 N. Lake street tonight. The Junior council of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are working to provide the program.

WOLFE SPEAKS AT SHORT COURSE "Y"

"Dad" Wolf, secretary of the university Y. M. C. A. is to be the speaker at the Sunday morning meeting of the Short Course Y. M. C. A. in the auditorium of Agricultural hall, on the subject "Is the World Getting Better or Worse?" Ray Kreucher, president of the association, will preside.

Religious services will be held, and a program will be given. The meeting starts at 9 o'clock, and all men in the two year courses in agriculture and dairying are invited.

WEATHER

The highest temperature during the past 24 hours was 35 at 2 p. m. and the lowest was 27 at 5 a. m. Sun sets at 4:23.

It is raining on the Atlantic coast where north-easterly winds prevail. The weather is cloudy and unsettled in the Mississippi valley and on the northern plains. The barometer is high with clear cold weather in the southwest. A storm is approaching the north Pacific coast preceded by rains.

We give you fair warning. Watch this paper. Now—more than ever before.

SICK STUDENTS LACK MEDICINE

Cost of Drugs and Medical Assistance is Great in Europe

Deaths in Austria exceed births by 100 per cent, according to statistics received recently by the American Relief association of which Herbert Hoover is the head; and although hundreds of university students are desperately ill, they are unable to get medical attention.

Even when students are able to get attention from doctors, they have not enough money to secure hospital attention or to buy drugs, say travelers who have investigated conditions.

At the market value of European currency, people in Poland have to pay 50 times the normal price for medical supplies. In Austria and Hungary drugs cost 40 times the normal cost.

There is great suffering among students in Central Europe from the effects of insufficient food and physical exhaustion, resulting in tuberculosis. The federal officers hear continually of death by nature or by suicide which can be traced to these causes coupled with mental depression and despair.

A survey of conditions among the medical profession in Vienna shows that there are about 4,500 medical men and at least 90 per cent of whom are working on half rations and many are actually on the point of starvation. Some of them have plenty of Austrian money, but cannot buy from the farmers who will accept nothing but foreign money of recognized value.

ENGINEERS PROVE BIG SURPRISE IN "LIT" CAMPAIGN

Yesterday, for the first time this year, the Literary magazine was sold at a table in the Engineering building, and the sales were so satisfactory there that it will be included as a regular stand from now on.

Up to this time it has been on sale in all the other main buildings on the campus, but it had not been thought that there would be a good enough field among the engineers to warrant the placing of a table in their building.

A limited number of copies will be placed on sale this morning at all the tables. The circulation manager urges that all who have not already secured their copies do so now, as they are going quite rapidly, and late comers will probably be disappointed. The sales this month, particularly on the first day, have been better than ever before, and the staff plans to make even a greater record next time, because of the increased interest in the Literary magazine among the student body.

A meeting of the business staff was called yesterday afternoon. The editors of the different departments spoke briefly concerning their part of the work, and different problems of organization and policy were discussed.

POLITICS TO BE DISCUSSED BY DEBATERS

Forensic Societies Meet Tonight for Last Time
This Year

Political questions will interest members of the literary societies tonight at the last meetings before the Christmas recess begins.

"That the Nonpartisan league is an unhealthy influence on American politics" will be debated by members of Philomathia at a regular meeting in 220 Bascom hall. Supporters of the question are J. M. Bffel '23, L. B. Kimball '24, and A. A. Wegeman '24; and opponents are M. H. Erickson '24, A. J. Engelke '24, and F. W. Nimmer '24.

The discussion on the general phases of the debating will be conducted by L. F. Lamb '23, who will present "Outlines of Brief Making." An initiation speech will be made by F. Schnell '23, and a topic will be given by C. D. Assovsky '21.

Important action on the home economics beauty contest will be taken at a meeting of Agricultural literary society in a meeting in the auditorium of Agricultural hall. All members are requested to refrain from casting their votes until Saturday morning because of this meeting.

A debate, "Resolved, That a compulsory board of arbitration be established to settle all disputes between capital and labor," is also on the program. The affirmative team consists of W. H. Pierre '21, M. E. Luther '21, and J. J. Pinney '21; and the negative team is S. Goldman '22, H. G. Ahrens '22, and G. Heebink '23. E. F. Kuehn '22 will give a reading after the style of "Uncle Josh."

"Why Alsace Lorraine was returned to France by the treaty of Versailles" will be explained by C. C. Krause '21, at a meeting of Hesperia in 451 Bascom hall. Repeal of the federal excess profits tax by the next congress will be discussed in a debate. Affirmative speakers are H. G. Meyer '21, F. Risser '23, and S. H. Sabin '24; their opponents are C. W. Osgood '22, C. F. Richards '24, and R. H. Damion '24.

European situations will interest members of Athenae tonight when they meet in 401 Bascom hall. "The Industrial Situation in Europe" will be discussed by O. Christianson '21. The question for debate will be: "Resolved, That the United States should have recognized the soviet republic before July 1, 1920." E. Hofsoos '21, E. J. Smith '24, and J. B. Kohl '24, will speak for the affirmative, and A. F. Pitzner '21, A. S. Friedman '23, and E. P. Meyer '23, are on the negative. Both the talk and debate will be followed by short round-table discussions.

MILITARY SETTING PLANNED FOR GUN AND BLADE DANCE

Under the protection of French 47 millimeter guns and flanked on all sides by military decorations, the members of Gun and Blade club will dance to the music of Thompson's orchestra Friday evening. Lathrop concert room will be the scene of operations, and a good time the only objective. Zero hour is set at 9 o'clock.

The Battle of the Dance will be a vigorous engagement, but casualties will be well cared for as the Social Welfare nurse will be there with assistants. Dean and Mrs. J. D. Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Tiege will be present to aid the veterans in securing their objective—the best time since Mons.

RECORDS BROKEN AT DOLPHIN CLUB OPEN EXHIBITION

Florence Fox '24, is Star in
Plunge—Seniors Win
Relay

Records at the Dolphin club exhibition of swimming and diving last night at Lathrop were made by Florence Fox, a freshman in the College of Letters and Science, in the plunge, and by the senior class in the relay races.

The exhibition opened with a seal dive of welcome, in which the whole club participated, followed by a snake dance, and the club's own special dive, the Dolphin. The galleries were crowded three deep with applauding spectators, and tables, chairs and saw horses were utilized to save neck-cramping.

The breast stroke, side stroke, single overarm back stroke, trudgeon, and crawl were demonstrated to illustrate speed and speed in swimming. The audience found the three legged race and the frog dives very entertaining.

The big races of the evening were the relay races in which freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors competed. The races were won by the seniors with the sophomores second. Some of the stunts were an exhibition of torpedo-walking on water, the waltz stroke, the tub race, and the feat of swimming under water twice the length of the tank.

Some of the most spectacular dives were the swan, the jack, the back-dive, the stand-sit-stand-back flip, and the double dives.
