CALL MEETING TO DISCUSS NEW COURSE

Prof. Snow and Sterling Tracy
Will Speak to Students on Humanities; Prof. Fish
Will Preside

The purposes and nature of the new course in humanities will be explained by Prof. Benjamin W. Snow, of the Physics department, and Sterling Tracy '22, at an all-university convocation at 3:30 in Music hall this afternoon. Prof. Carl Russell Fish will preside.

"The purpose of this massmeeting," said Prof. A. P. Haake, of the Economics department, last night, "is to make clear to the students and the members of the faculty, the meaning of the course in humanities. This course is a grouping of the more liberal studies of economics, history, science and literature. Professor Haake is chairman of the university committee on convocations.

The University of Wisconsin has felt the need for a course in general liberal subjects, and the new curriculum is designed for those who want a cultural education rather than specialized training. Those students in school at the present time who desire to take advantage of this work may do so, in so far as their credits allow, and the course will be scheduled for regular four-year work next fall. The course leads to a Bachelor of Humanities degree.

Dorward to Handle Stunts at Pre-Prom Dance on Jan. 13

Friday, January 13, is the date set for the Pre-Prom dance, which will be held in Lathrop gymnasium and concert room.

"This dance is not essentially for Prom-goers," declared "Doc" Dorward '23, who is in charge of the dance. "We want to make it an affair for everybody."

A number of sororities and fraternities have agreed to postpone dances planned for that night, in order that the date may be kept free.

Thompson's first eight-piece orchestra, with Jean Casserly at the piano, has been secured for the dance, and an entertainment is being planned by Mord Bogie '23. Three musical skits will be given during the intermission.

"We are trying to get the best talent in the university for the program," said Bogie. "If anyone has an act which he wants to try out, the committee is open to suggestion."

Delwin Jacobus '23, is in charge of the programs and tickets. The tickets will be put on sale the week before the dance at Morgan's and at the University pharmacy. The price will be $2.

"Tickets will be limited to 250," said Dorward. "It is our policy not to overcrowd the hall. We want everyone to spend a comfortable evening. Last year's Pre-Prom dance was a big success, and we want this one to be even better."

Balliette Elected to Cardinal Board

Ralph E. Balliette '23 was elected a member of the Cardinal Board of Control at a meeting held yesterday.

Balliette has had considerable experience in journalistic fields, having been president of the Press association and editor-in-chief of the pioneer, both of which are publications of the Platteville Normal. He has also done considerable writing for newspapers throughout the state.

He is a member of Phi Delta Phi and Acacia fraternities, and also a member of the Square club. In addition he is acting as chairman of the finance committee of the 1923 Prom. Since his discharge from the service, he has been acting in the capacity of supervising principal of schools.

PROFESSORS AIR THEIR OPINIONS

Opinions Vary Slightly as to Plan For Union Building

That the auditorium of the Memorial Union building will be made as adequate for the university needs, as is possible, considering the varied interests planning to use it, is the general sentiment of those leading the Memorial Union project.

Goodnight's Views
Dean Scott H. Goodnight feels that the dramatic interests have just cause for complaint, but that the most workable plan would have three phases.

In the first place the theater in the Union building should contain about 2,000 seats, with the possibility of a drop to make the space smaller. Then a work room for practice purposes, for properties, scenery, and stage equipment should be fitted out. Lastly let the university spend a little money, and remodel the concert room at Lathrop to adequately fulfill the demand for a small theater.

Gardner's Opinion
"We are developing the capacity of the whole Memorial building, as needs arise and funds are raised to meet these needs," said Prof. E. A. (Continued on page 10.)

Sale Proceeds Go to Friendship Fund

Doughnuts and sandwiches will be sold on the hill this morning by Euthenics club, and the proceeds will be donated to the Student Friendship fund.

Tables placed in every building will supply hungry students. "Indeed, it will be quite the fashion to walk to and from classes munching a delicious sandwich," said Lois W. Raymond, chairman of the sale.

"By buying a sandwich or a doughnut every one can give aid to the starving students of Europe who have to be contented with a crust of bread," she continued.

An announcement has been made by the treasurer of the Friendship fund that checks may be made out to either Victor M. Anderson, treasurer of the Student Friendship fund or The Bank of the Commonwealth. Any donations may be addressed to 148 W. Gilman street.

Cheerful Tinsel, a Cynic, and Display of Christmas Cards

It was the garishly cheerful tinsel and red display of a 5 and 10 cent store window that the boy was looking at. Above the mass swung a sign which read,

"The Spirit of Christmas." Directly under it, suspended on green and red penny-a-yard ribbon, were countless Christmas cards.

"The sentiment of Christmas, I suppose," he remarked cynically to himself and proceeded to read what danced before his weary eyes.

For Mothers:—
For dear mother, old and gray
May Santa bring a Merry day.
My Friend:—
My love for you will never die,
Not even God above knows why.
To Baby:—
A baby's hand of long ago
Stretches across the years you you know.

"Imagine buying such canned sentiment," he said, and then, bowing to convention (or maybe he had a sense of humor), he bought a dozen of the most florid in thought and design.

SOPHS TO VOTE ON TRADITIONS

Resolutions drawn up by the traditions committee of the sophomore class will be presented at a class meeting tonight at 7:15, in Music hall. The resolutions deal with the enforcement of all-university traditions and the stand that should be taken by the class.

The committee in charge of the meeting has planned an interesting program which includes some orchestral selections, a boxing bout between two varsity boxers, and songs by "Doc" Dorward '23.

George Carlson, president, is anxious to have as big a representation out as possible so that the action on the resolutions will express the will of the majority.

Xmas Trees of S. G. A. To Symbolize Spirit

Christmas spirit will be in evidence in a tangible form by the end of the week, when we shall see the spirit of the season symbolized by the Christmas trees which S. G. A. puts at the foot of the hill every year.

Placing the trees on the upper campus is an S. G. A. tradition which was started during the war. For each French war orphan that was adopted a star was added to the tree and thus incentive was given to the drive. Since that time the tree has been used for no charity, but rather to make the season's cheer more alive.

Report McConnell's Condition Unchanged

Ansley B. "Micky" McConnell '22, who is at the university infirmary suffering from pneumonia, was reported last night to be about the same. The ninth day, the crucial period of pneumonia, has been passed. McConnell is putting up a splendid fight for life, according to the physician in charge, and although two days ago he was not expected to live, there is now hope for him.

Old Organization
Tau Beta Pi, the oldest honorary technical fraternity in American colleges and universities, was founded at Lehigh University in 1885, to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their alma mater by a high grade of scholarship as undergraduates, or by their attainments as alumni, and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering schools of this country. The fraternity now has 32 chapters in the leading colleges and universities, and alumni chapters have been established in many of the larger cities throughout the United States.

The charter for the Alpha chapter of Wisconsin was granted in 1898, since which time membership in Tau Beta Pi has been regarded as the highest honor that can be bestowed upon any engineering (Continued on Page 10)

Ag Literary Society Will Hold Tryouts

More than 20 members of the Agricultural literary society will try out at Agricultural hall Friday evening at 7 o'clock for the team that will meet the Hesperia debaters. The subject for the tryouts is "Resolved, that the co-operative marketing agency should be substituted for the private agency in the marketing of farm products."

THE weather is as undecided these days as was the young man who didn't know whether he ought to accept the job as elevator boy or not, because he was afraid that the 6 o'clock closing whistle would blow when he was way up at the 39th floor, and would make him late getting off duty.

POSSIBLY the uncertainty of the weather has had something to do with the postponement of the announcement of Prom queen. Still, it is almost too much to ask Jimmy Brader to hurry up on as important a thing as that. With him, you must understand, it is not so much a matter of who he desires to please as it is a matter of who he does not mind displeasing.

AND the longer Jimmy keeps up the suspense, the more invitations to sorority parties he receives and the more Christmas presents he may expect from certain girls.

THE list of parties announced in yesterday's Sassiety Col. looked like the Bulletin Board, so long and inclusive was it. Dates are at a premium for this coming week end, and it is even rumored that the rush of business has made the girls so independent as to ask, before accepting an invitation, whether or no mistletoe will be in evidence.

TIPS ON TABLE MANNERS

AFTER a careful survey made in the very best hotels and clubs of New York, we respectfully call your attention to the fact that those people who should know are looking at the ceiling this year, when eating grapefruit, in order to avoid unmannerly squinting from flying streams of juice. This may be of use to those giving dinner parties this week end.

THOSE backward ones who cannot accustom themselves to the use of galoshes, are advised to carry bags of sand, which may be sprinkled on the sidewalks, thus greatly lessening the chance of an unsightly slip in front of the Law or Engineering buildings.

"So you have been cured of your insomnia? It must be a great relief."

"You've said it. Why, I lay awake half the night thinking how I used to suffer with it."

THE preceding verse set certain mental reflexes in action, and we figured that if we have 10 days vacation, we will be able to sleep 200 hours and still be tired for 40 hours.

MOST of those 40 hours will be spent in eating.

AN advertisement of one of the stores in town, which gave a list of appropriate Christmas presents had each item mentioned explained by an apt paragraph. The following comes verbatim from the ad:

"This is a skin game," said the glove salesman.

Third Music Memory Contest

(A movement to acquaint Madison with the best music, through a contest in naming selections from hearing them. Open to everyone without fee or restrictions.)

Selection No. 14.

Andante from Surprise Symphony (Second Movement).

By Franz Joseph Haydn (Born 1732, in Rohrau, Austria; died 1809, in Vienna.)

A Symphony for Everybody.

Haydn's Surprise Symphony is so filled with pretty dance-like tunes that it needs only to be heard to be loved. Haydn is in fact the best introduction to the music of the great masters, and this week's music memory selection is a universal favorite.

Father of Instrumental Music.

In Joseph Haydn we honor one of the great pioneers of modern European music. His influence on musical development is so important that he is commonly called the father of instrumental music. One of the types of music which Haydn innovated was the string quartet. This form was peculiarly suited to the cheerfulness and geniality of his nature, and time has not been able to dim the freshness and charm of his best quartets, though first Mozart and then Beethoven carried the form to its ultimate perfection. In them we hear at their best the life and spontaneity of the composer's inexhaustible invention, the clearness of his musical thinking, his childlike fun and drollery.

Two Fine Oratorios.

Mention should be made in passing of Haydn's work in the oratorio form. By no means an originator in this field, he is also no mere imitator, and his two best choral works, the Creation and the Seasons, still hold a firm place in the affection of all lovers of choral music.

Haydn and the Symphony.

But Haydn's most notable bequest to modern music is the symphony, whose form he determined, and which he enlarged and enriched with the power of true genius. Symphony means simply concerted music, and up to Haydn's time it could designate any sort of instrumental combination. It was Haydn who visualized and then carried out the harmonious union of an ever-growing number and variety of instruments, and thus became, through Mozart and Beethoven, the originator of the modern symphony orchestra. It is seldom given to the pioneer to achieve the highest development of his new idea, and Haydn is no exception. In his many symphonies he was steadily groping for new possibilities and a richer mode of expression, but his best works seem somewhat thin beside the titanic masterpieces of Beethoven. Yet they can still give pleasure by reason of the same fine and wholesome qualities which we noted in his quartets. "It is the air which is the charm of music," he once said. Those works which possess genuine melody are the slowest to die. Haydn's melodic richness will keep his works alive long after many more pretentious compositions have faded into forgetfulness.

The "Surprise"

When a composer writes 109 symphonies almost any striking characteristic feature, such as an unexpected loud drum beat, may be seized upon to name this or that favorite. This is the explanation of the title Surprise Symphony or, as it is called in German, Symphonie mit dem Paukenschlag. The second movement, the Andante, begins softly with a simple sedate eight measure melody in the style of a peaceful though somewhat hopping folk song. The listener, after having heard the brilliant, rather noisy first movement, now relaxes and settles back for a little quiet enjoyment. The strain is repeated still more softly and the listener relaxes still more until at the end of these second eight measures there is a single sharp chord by the full orchestra played fortissimo. "How the dear ladies will jump," the fun-loving Haydn is said to have laughingly remarked when he wrote this musical surprise. Then, like a roguish mischief who has in the midst of a sedate walk suddenly tripped or struck some unsuspecting bystander, the music continues softly with an innocent contrasting melody of eight measures which when repeated completes the theme of this movement.

Theme and Variations.

Having stated his theme or subject, Haydn proceeds to play with it in four sets of variations and a little closing section called a coda. One simple way to grasp the idea of a musical theme and variations is to conceive of any subject as it appears in its simplest, unadorned state, and then to imagine it under various other conditions. Consider the changes in appearance, action, and disposition that occur in almost any person when he dons decidedly different garments—business suit, dress suit, overalls, masquerade costume: compare our saying, "the clothes make the man". Think of the variations in any landscape in summer, and in the other seasons; of the effect on its appearance of a cloudy day, a heavy rain, a light fall of snow. Recall the different effects obtained in the theater by suffusing a scene with various colored lights. Read the article on Painting with Light in the December 10th issue of the Literary Digest.

Each Listener a Program Maker.

These suggestions will help you to enjoy the fanciful touches which Haydn has introduced into this charming Andante. The theme as given in the first thirty-two measures reappears exactly in each of the four variations except in the second. That is the key of C minor instead of the original C major which is used for the rest of the movement. Even here Haydn keeps closely enough to his original in the first sixteen measures so that they are evident to the careful listener, but in the second sixteen he departs into the realm of free fantasy with only a suggestion of the original theme. It is an altogether stimulating and delightful task to pick out the theme as it marches persistently through these variations, now high, now low; now graceful, now tremulous; now hesitating, now sweeping; and finally in the Coda, a little of each with an added tender and reminiscent mood.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

BADGERS SHOW SIGNS OF PRE SEASON SLUMP

Line-up Remains Same But Work Below Standard

With three games less than a week away, the Badgers are showing worse form than they have for several weeks past. Doctor Meanwell sent his men through a light practice yesterday afternoon, following three days of hard scrimmage.

The team seems to have fallen into a decided slump, and the performance of even the most experienced men is way below par. Unless a change takes place within the next day or two, chances against Ripon, Butler, and Knox look rather slim. A defeat in any of these games would be the first preliminary contest that a Meanwell team has suffered in the present coach's regime here.

No Changes

The lineup has not undergone any changes this week. Both Gibson and Johnson are being used at center, and Tebell and Irish are holding down the back guard positions. The work of the two pivot men is about on a par, although the latter's brilliant showing against the Michigan Aggies last Saturday has boosted his stock to a considerable extent. Johnson, however, works well at forward, and it is probable that both men will be used in the coming games.

If Tebell is in good condition, he will undoubtedly start the game on Friday. He is performing in his usual consistent manner, while Irish's work will require a great deal of polishing before he can put up a desirable game at guard.

Big Ten Teams Working

Practically every team in the Big Ten conference has swung into action, and, with the opening of the conference season only two weeks away, numerous hard-fought contests may be anticipated. The Chicago, Illinois, and Iowa coaches are frantically shifting their combinations about in an effort to present the strongest possible fighting fronts in the initial conference games.

The balance of the coaches have veteran fives, and are merely putting the finishing touches to their teams. Hopes for a championship team are running high at Purdue, and it must be admitted that the advance dope favors the Boiler-makers. Levis' Hoosiers may likewise be feared by their opponents, as the only problem confronting the former Badger star is that of filling the center position.

Ohio Confident

Coach Trautman, at Ohio State, is predicting a far more successful season than that of a year ago, when the Buckeyes finished in ninth place. In addition to having a number of veterans back, an early start was gained this year and Buckeye followers are planning on sending a dark horse five into the pennant race.

High Scores Made In Class Bowling

Although class bowling teams will not be announced until February, work in that department is progressing rapidly. Several high scores, which will be posted on the perpetual bowling tournament, have already been turned in.

The highest scores are: Anna Arnquist '22, 149, Ruth Hoffman '22, 145, Genevieve Hicks '24, 139, Adelaide Miller '22, 139, and Dorothy Swensen '24, 137.

Those who are going out for class teams must have eight scores in by December 19. Class squads of from 10 to 15 will be chosen February 15, and class teams of seven each will be announced two weeks later. Class managers will be elected the first week of January.

ILLINOIS OPENS BASKETBALL AT HOME THIS WEEK

Coach Winters is Getting Squad of Twenty-five Into Shape

URBANA, Ill.—Coach Winters is whipping the Illinois basketball squad of twenty-five into shape for the opening games this week-end. Friday night Illinois Wesleyan invades the Illini camp and Saturday night Knox college will show its wares. The Illini basket men have been engaged in fast scrimmage for two weeks. The squad has been divided into four teams in the practice sessions and Winters may use all the candidates in these practice contests.

Capt. Carney, Walquist, Sabo, and Collins of last season's team are showing up well in the trials. Carney, who has been slowed up considerably with a bad knee during the football season, is back in running form. Walquist is a clever floor man and one of the most reliable forwards on the squad, with two years' experience in Conference basketball. Sabo and Collins are dependable guards who show cleverness both on offense and defense.

Danielson, Bates, Tabor, and Gipson, utility men of last season, undoubtedly will be in the lineup during the season. Gipson is a rangy center who has been going at a tremendous pace in practice work, both in shooting and floor work. Of the nine candidates from last year's freshman team several are showing varsity form in scoring ability.

Harvard Likely to Reject California Offer For Contest

A Harvard offer for a football game with California at Cambridge next year will probably be refused by Coach Andy Smith of the far western institution. The Crimson asked for a game on Oct. 28, which lies between Harvard's bookings with Centre college and the University of North Carolina.

The California Bears have scheduled a contest with the University of Southern California on Oct. 28, and are scheduled for two trips in the autumn of 1922, one to Los Angeles to play Southern California and the other to Seattle to play the University of Washington.

Coach Smith has opposed the proposed Illinois-California home and home series, and it is doubtful now if this deal will go through.

Final Tryouts For Gym Team Are to Be Held on Friday

The trials for the gymnastic meet with Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. will be held at the City "Y" at 7:30 sharp Friday evening when the team which will go to Milwaukee on Saturday will be picked.

There are about 16 men who have been practicing regularly on the set of exercises which have been decided upon by the "Y" men, as the official exercises for this coming meet. Each man will be given a chance to exhibit his originality in an optional exercise which he can choose for himself.

The meet promises to be a close one, as the Milwaukee men are in good trim, and have been practicing all summer. Coach Schlatter also has some good material to pick from, and only the men who are best qualified will be taken to the meet.

The frosh gym squad has also been practicing hard. The final trials for the yearlings will be held next Tuesday, Dec. 20. At this time the regular frosh team will be picked. There will be a meet between the frosh and the varsity gym teams early in January.

Faculty to Witness Wrestling Matches Friday Afternoon

Coach Hitchcock has invited the faculty to witness an exhibition of wrestling on Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6, and at the same time they will have an opportunity to inspect the new equipment which has been installed. With this additional equipment, the men can do much better work, and the department will be able to handle twice as many wrestlers as are now on the squad.

Although the wrestling squad has lost several men through graduation and ineligibility, this year, Coach Hitchcock has discovered several good men among the new material. Most notable of these are Phelps and Allison, both bantams. The team is fairly well supplied with men of the lighter and middle weights, but there is very little material for the weights over 175 pounds. The coach wants more men of the heavy weights to report at once.

Hess and Wolford, in the lighter weights, are showing up very well. Haddorf has an injured shoulder, and will be out for several months. Farand has an injured back, and so is out temporarily, too. Hauer is recovering from the effects of a bad boil. Captain Peterman is getting back into shape. The greatest hardship was experienced in the loss of Klass and Holmes through ineligibility. One of the best men who remains, Pier, will graduate in January.

If the plans for a meet with Lawrence college on January 14 materialize, Peir will be able to be in that meet, the last one of his university career. The first conference meet will be with Northwestern at Madison. There will also be a meet early in February between the Varsity squad and the frosh, who are showing up very well.

Complete First Week of Frat Basketball

The first week of inter-fraternity basketball games continued to show some promise of even matches in the later series.

The games last night were especially characterized by the outstanding work of the Betas and Loyola. In both cases the fraternities easily won over their opponents by a good margin and still had no fouls chalked against them.

Last night's scores are as follows:

Chi Phi 7, Sigma Phi Epsilon 21.
Chi Psi 18, Theta Xi 4.
Loyola 9, Kappa Psi 4.
Beta Theta Pi 36, Alpha Delta 2.

Student K. of C.'s Are Guests at Banquet

About 75 student Knight of Columbus members were present at the Mercier club banquet, held at the Woman's building, last Sunday evening.

R. S. McCaffery, Rev. H. E. Hengell and Roman J. Heilman, former district attorney, were the honored guests of the evening. Mr. Heilman spoke to the boys on the "Activities of Present Day Standing of the Knights of Columbus in the University." He praised Father Hengell's progress among the Catholic students of the university. Patrick G. Powers was toastmaster.

Questionnaire Time Limit is Extended

The time limit for submitting questionnaires has been extended until noon today, according to those in charge of tabulating the results for the Commerce magazine. Due to the fact that the first 2,000 questionnaires printed contained no reference to the time limit, this extension has been made.

Prof. Carl Russell Fish will address the Fellowship meeting at the "Y" tonight at 7 o'clock. "Christmas in Colonial Days" will be Professor Fish's subject.

STANFORD BID FOR U. W. MEET RECEIVED HERE

Letter Received by Jones Opens Track Negotiations

In a letter received yesterday by Coach Tom Jones from the track mentor of Leland Stanford university, preliminary negotiations for a cinder meet between Wisconsin and the far western school were set forth.

No formal offer was made for the trip. The western coach, a graduate of Wisconsin, sent the letter merely as a feeler to determine the Badger sentiment on the matter. No action has yet been taken by Coach Jones or the Athletic council in regard to the affair.

California Refused Last Year

The attitude of the governing athletic body in the past has been one in opposition to such long inter-sectional trips during the school year. A bid from the University of California was last year turned down by the council in accordance with this policy.

Should the council take a favorable stand and the arrangements go through, the squad would probably take the western journey during the spring vacation.

Team Works Out

In preparation for the coming meets, a large number of track candidates are working out in the annex daily from 4:30 to 6 on the various track and field events. From this goodly squad an unusually strong team should be developed to represent Wisconsin against all Big Ten rivals.

"Jazz" Lowers Standard Of Music, Declares Erika Morini Who Plays Here Tomorrow

"We Have Much Jazz in Europe, Too," Says Violinist

"Jazz!" "Oh, yes, you mean ragtime," exclaimed Erika Morini, world-famed violinist, who plays at Christ Presbyterian church Thursday night, as she sat at the luncheon table at the Park Hotel this noon. She has a pretty foreign accent, but speaks English remarkably well.

"We have much jazz in Europe, too, just like you have in America. Jazz, I think is very good for ze dance, but for nothing else."

Miss Morini believes that on the whole jazz and ragtime, such as are in vogue now, are injurious to the musical standards of all the countries, but she doesn't know how that is to be avoided except by educating the young people up to something better.

Speaking of the dance in this country she said:

"It is just the same in my country, Austria, but there the dance is more graceful."

Her parents always accompany her. She has given concerts in nearly every country in Europe, excepting France and Russia. The audiences in all countries have been kind and appreciative, says Erika, and America is no exception. She is to appear in Chicago and Milwaukee in the near future and then will make a tour of the south. Next year she will return to America and make a cross-continental tour.

Jap Diplomats Underhanded Says Student

Chinese Leader Scores Japan Policy Before Roxana Club

Denouncing the Japanese as "underhanded diplomats" who are attempting to sustain their treachery under the guise of higher diplomacy, Leo Shen, chairman of the speaking department of the China club of the university, addressed the Roxana club last night at the city Y. M. C. A. on the question of China's part in the Disarmament conference. Far Eastern problems, he declared, are at present and will be focused on China; and that another war is impending and is inevitable if China is not properly considered.

"No peace will be possible if China is unjustly treated as an article of reward for bargaining Japan's consent to the 5-5-3 plan," Mr. Shen said, "and the treaty of the four powers means to justify the unjust claim of Japan upon the Shantung railways and Manchuria. This will hurt the good will of the Chinese toward American trade in the Far East."

"At present American trade is favored in China, and the Chinese will not purchase Japanese goods; but if America, toward whom China is friendly, should agree to the Japanese program, the result would greatly affect American trade there."

Mr. Shen, closing his address, challenged the wisdom of the American business man in supporting the "guaranteeing of Japanese treachery." J. B. Gleason and Hugh Montgomery presented the silent boosts for the week. The club pledged its support toward insuring a Christmas for the poor.

C. Nugent, vaudeville's most talked of line of talk. The two acts, big time features over the Orpheum circuit, will head the six act bill, which remains for the balance of the week, including the three performances Sunday. Other bright and entertaining spots on this bill will be The Canine Thespian, "Taxie," in the novelty playlet "True Pals," Billy Miller and company in the comedy of six-cylinder speed "Adam Killjoy," Julian Hall and Kathleen Dexter in "What's It All About?" and the little marvel, Elly, youngest feminine juggler in the world. DEMOCRACY AND SCHOLASTIC STANDARDS

THE unfortunate occurrence of an editorial being printed in The Daily Cardinal on December 13, which was clipped from The Wausau Record-Herald and run without comment, has occasioned justifiable indignation from certain sources at the policy of the paper in regard to university scholastic standards.

Let it be known emphatically that The Cardinal does not believe that the standards of the university are too high; in many cases the standards do not reach that degree of excellence which produces an educated, as well as a well-trained man, and in many others the man turned out is equipped with a system rather than with a brain trained to co-ordinate knowledge and experience.

The editorial taken from the Wausau paper plainly distorted the position which The Cardinal took in a former statement. The small-town point of view is tragically apparent. This former statement set forth the idea that it was possible that in some courses the standards might be leading towards the spinning of theories rather than the attainment of real knowledge. In some courses theories, or systems, weigh down the actual worth of the knowledge obtained; this fact cannot be denied. The Wausau Record-Herald implied that this paper felt that the university was becoming a place for the favored few; that "if the courses were too hard for the average girl or the average boy they should be changed."

Credit is due the faculty for its continual drive to elevate scholastic standards, and the course in humanities recently inaugurated is a direct step forward. This is not a school for the rich or the genius, as the Wausau Herald would imply, but it must place its seal of approval only on those who have attained its standards, and its standards must be compatible with those by which the world judges a university trained man or woman.

As long as Wisconsin is to hold its place among the most useful institutions of the country, so long must it refrain from "playing down" to the mediocre, the shiftless-thinking, the average. Those "ultra-smart," to which the Record-Herald so contemptuously refers, are drifting through school without effort; they have learned that a certain amount of work gets the required grade. And this, because the courses here too often are given to teach the man and not to educate him.

The university, through its present administration, or the administration of the late President Van Hise, does not seek to make this institution "greater than the state, to make everybody in the state subservient to it." It is the most ridiculous piffle to imply that this university feels that "the young people of the state are brought up for the sole benefit of the university." The idea of interrelated service, so well set forth in last year's Badger, must prevail, and does prevail. But that service must be the work of educated men and women, who have learned that loose thinking, faulty co-ordination, and heavily systematized methods of thought are not productive of the best that is in them.

Education is neither a pill nor a process. Let it not be dispensed in doses or narrowed into a system, but correlated with the highest and broadest standards possible. The Cardinal supports the faculty whole-heartedly in every upward move.

USE—DON'T ABUSE

WE are able at Wisconsin to boast of some of the best of school library facilities in the country. Unfortunately, perhaps, every student cannot have his individual complete library; we are compelled to make use of the present equipment. It is, sadly, often the case that students must be reminded that in the use of a general good we have not the same privilege and freedom that we have in individual property.

Many hundreds of students daily make use of the university library—and it is obvious that while some books are needed only by one or two people at a time, there are volumes which must be used by a great number. There are courses in which a reference, of which there are but one or two copies in the library, is needed by a whole class or a number of classes. What respect can we have for the student who takes such a book and keeps it in his room for several days or a week or permanently?

And not only in the matter of deliberately taking shelf volumes there are many abusing their rights. Any student who on finding a valuable article in some bound magazine, clips it rather than copy the information, certainly is possessed of a perverted sense of obligation toward his fellow students and toward the state that makes possible our library.

The students who make a practice of clipping library magazines and of appropriating generally used and needed volumes to their personal use alone either do not realize that by so doing they impair the actual use-value of the library to other students, or else are selfishly unconcerned with the educational well-being of their fellow students.

Most of them can be given credit for knowing better, but there are far too many cases of such petty thievery for the good of a decent degree of honesty in the school. It is about time that all of the students learn to appreciate the advantages and privileges offered them in the library to the extent of refraining from denying those privileges to the rest of the student body.

Plant Environment Discussed by Prof Kraus Last Night

"Plants are largely responsible for changes in their environments which may even lead to their extinction and to their being supplanted by other forms," said Prof. E. J. Kraus of the botany department, in speaking on "The Influence of Environment on Plant Life," at the open meeting of the Geography club, at Science hall last night at 7 o'clock.

Professor Kraus explained how plants gradually built up a soil from rock formations, and how they steadily filled in lakes until dry soil was the result. The first plants that begin this process are generally algae or other primitive plant form. Usually there is a gradual ecological evolution or succession which culminates in seed plants.

"Plants are very largely responsible for changes in their environments; new plants are steadily taking the place of the old," said Professor Kraus. "Plants do this by changing the rock surface, and thus making conditions suitable for other forms. Lichens grow on rocks, disintegrate, and gradually form a soil. Mosses, ferns, and seed plants, in turn, follow the lichens upon the soil. The climax condition is reached when a certain plant can live indefinitely under an environment which it makes itself.

"Man can change the environment of plants, if he so desires. He may accept conditions as he finds them, and substitute different kinds of plants for the originals, or he may create his own environment. The greenhouse is the acme in man's work of creating entirely new environments for plant life. However the most widespread and important means of changing the conditions under which plants live is through the mineral materials and the moisture of the soil. The application of fertilizers to the soil, and the use of irrigation and drainage in controlling the moisture of the soil, are examples of man's success in creating or renewing environments of plants."

Reading Is Better Than Rummaging

When you go to buy a pair of boots, a malted milk, or a party dress, do you know what you want? Or do you just take "pot luck?"

You can save a dollar and many an hour's time if you know beforehand what your money is going to get you—and where to go to get it.

Merchants with established reputations are the best with whom to deal.

Merchandise with established reputations is always the best to buy.

If it is clothing, you know how well it should wear and what the style should be.

If its a musical instrument, you know what to expect in tone and workmanship.

If its a carpet sweeper, you know what kind of service it should give.

David Crackett said, "Be sure you're right, then go ahead."

The way to be sure of the goods you buy is to read Cardinal ads regularly. Buy advertised goods and you can't go wrong.

Reading advertisements is far better than rummaging around aimlessly.

Athenae Debates on Labor Questions at Meeting Tonight

Athena literary society will debate on the question: "Resolved, that the courts be deprived of power to issue injunctions in labor cases," at the last meeting of the year to be held Friday evening at 7:30 in 401 Bascom hall. The affirmative will be upheld by Abraham Sygman '24, and the negative by G. Dellhausen '23.

The following officers will be installed at this meeting: A. Nierad '23, president; S. Saref '23, vice president; William Haber '23, secretary, and E. Meyer '24, treasurer. A pep session, led by the new cheerleaders, Meyer and Nierad, will close the meeting.

Women Voters Will Meet Tuesday, Dec. 20

Mrs. E. C. Hoebel, president of the Progressive league of women voters will speak at an open meeting of the Collegiate League of women voters to be held December 20, in the S. G. A. room, Lathrop hall. The public is invited.

The possibility of establishing a citizenship department in the university is being investigated by the league, and will be reported upon for discussion at the next business meeting, which will be held in January. The department, if established, will be modeled from the citizenship department at Yale, the only school in the United States where such a department now exists.

The league will vote upon several proposed articles for the constitution at the January business meeting.

The meeting scheduled for yesterday could not be held.

Orph and Grand to Give Benefit Shows

With the Orpheum and Grand theaters' benefit performances the Empty Stocking club will be able to raise $1,500 with which to buy food and clothing for distribution among the needy families in Madison, is the opinion of members of the organization.

A program composed of more than 20 acts is being arranged for the Orpheum under the direction of "Doc" Baker, who has planned to be in Madison for the occasion.

This production which has been made possible by Manager Hugh Flannery and the owners of the theaters will be staged on Tuesday, Dec. 20. Railroad Jack will be one of the headliners.

F. J. McWilliams, manager of the Grand theater, announced last night that he would run a benefit for the Empty Stocking club. A $50 check has been received by the organization from Victor H. Arnold.

AT THE MAJESTIC

Presenting something decidedly new and novel, "The Hell Diggers," Wallace Reid's latest Paramount starring vehicle was shown with no inconsiderable success at the Majestic theater yesterday. For the first time in the history of the screen, the giant dredging machines which are employed to pan the earth in the gold fields of northern California are made the central theme of a gripping and fascinating story.

Mr. Reid plays the role of one of the engineers on one of the big floating engines and construction superintendent for the company. Lois Wilson is the heroine.

A lively "Torchy" comedy with Johnny Hines, some harmony numbers sung by Misses Hebard and Moore, latest News Weekly and a cartoon comedy completed one of the best programs the Majestic has offered.

Philos Represented By Lamb, Kimball, Deicher in Debate

Philomathia's team for the fifty-first annual joint debate, which is to be held in Music hall next Saturday evening, is made up of the following men: Francis L. Lamb '23, Dean H. Kimball '22, and Philip Deicher '23.

Letters to practically every important manufacturer in Wisconsin have been written by this team to obtain first hand knowledge on the question which deals with compulsory unemployment insurance. The men were elected by their society early in the year and have been working on the question since that time. Philomathia is upholding the negative side of the question.

Francis Lamb will open the debate for this side. Lamb has had much debating experience at Madison high school from which he was graduated. Last year he was closer of one of Philomathia's teams in the semi-public sophomore debates. He is an editorial writer for The Daily Cardinal, and is chairman of the decorations committee of the 1923 Prom. He is a member of Chi Phi fraternity.

Dean H. Kimball will speak second for the Philomathians. At present he is president of Philomathia, and in the past he has held numerous offices in the organization. He is the only senior on the team.

Philip Deicher will be the closer for the negative. Last year Deicher was closer for a sophomore semi-public debate, and he has had considerable practice in speaking and debating in high school and in the society. He is a member of the Rifle club and of the Pistol club.

student in his undergraduate career at Wisconsin. Many of the world's biggest engineers are among those wearing the Tau Beta Pi key, while the society is represented on the faculty of the university by more than 25 professors and instructors. Elections are conferred by the active chapter with the advice of a faculty committee, only upon those seniors and juniors whose scholastic ability is conspicuous for its high quality, and whose personality recommends them.

At the Spring election those juniors who have been found to be worthy of the distinction will be elected. Tau Beta Pi also proposes, in the interest of fostering scholastic attainment, to present to the freshman of the College of Engineering, who at the end of his first year possess the highest weighted grade average, an engraved slide rule of special design.

Professors' Opinions Vary on Memorial

Gardner. "Two separate auditoriums, as suggested by Prof. James M. O'Neill of the speech department, would be most desirable, if the proper amount of money can be raised.

"What we need is constructive criticism," continued Professor Gardner. "One woman sent in her pledge, declaring that she would give $100 if the auditorium should seat 1,400, but that if it were made to seat 2,000 she would give $1,000."

The same plan of re-modeling Lathrop concert room, and arranging the auditorium with a drop was advocated by Professor Gardner.

Sharp's Views

Prof. Frank C. Sharp feels that the amateur dramatic interests should come first, and that an auditorium of about 1,000 seating capacity would be advisable.

"However, if it is possible to bring about some plan of shutting off part of the auditorium, then I feel that it ought to seat about 2,500," explained Professor Sharp.

The present gymnasium is quite adequate for athletic mass meetings and convocations, according to Professor Sharp, but the need is pressing for an adequate place for concerts, lectures, and similar events.

Central City Charity Budget To Be Made

Committee to Plan Details of Social Agency Federation

A federation of Madison social agencies and a committee to work out details and a constitution were decided upon at a meeting of about 60 members of the city's charitable organizations and a group of large contributors, who dined at the city Y, M. C. A. last night.

The committee consists of Prof. F. E. Turneaure, Judge M. B. Rosenberry, Charles O'Neil, Father P. B. Knox, John Stock, Mrs. E. H. Hart, Mrs. J. B. Ramsay, Arthur Merz, Mrs. L. T. Reber and Mrs. William Kittle.

Many of the drives, under the new plan, will be eliminated, and one large drive to raise funds for the federation will be conducted. Individual organizations are at liberty to join or remain out of the organization.

The two reasons for the federation are: that it will eliminate duplication of work, insure better cooperation, make it possible to ascertain just what Madison's poor need, and to spend more efficiently; and to cut down the number of drives for charity.

Each organization will submit a budget estimating the running expenses for the coming year. These figures will be used in the final budget and after the drive each body is to receive its share of the total receipts.

According to C. P. Connelly, secretary of the Rockford Federation, who spoke last night, the new plan will result in the raising of more funds. He contended that with a number of drives citizens give a little here and a little more there and are under the impression that they have given a considerable amount at the end of the year. With one large donation asked, he maintained, larger amounts will be received and the organizations in the federation will be better financed. Any charitable organization regardless of religious affiliation or nationality, should be admitted to the federation he said.

Many Stores Open at Night During Holidays

All shoe, clothing, jewelry, hardware and five and ten cent stores will remain open evenings for Christmas shoppers, the last week before Christmas, beginning next week, Monday, Dec. 19. On Saturday, Dec. 24, all Madison stores will close at 6 o'clock.

Labor Spends $3,000 To Alter Temple

The Madison Labor Temple association was today granted a permit to make alterations on its new temple building at 309 W. Johnson st., formerly Kehl's dancing academy. The permit calls for the expending of $3,000.

AT THE PARKWAY

"There are few things that can play greater havoc with a girl than over-indulgence in dancing," declares Anna Pavlova, although her own success-slogan is "work, work, work." The great Russian danseuse, who will appear with her Ballet Russe and Symphony orchestra at the Parkway on December 21, asserts that "If I had not managed to conserve my energy I do not know what would have become of me." Over-exertion, late hours, and a surfeit of pleasure she believes to be fatal to any ambition that aims for high and lasting success.

There are 679 dogs in Madison— all subject to taxation, according to a report filed with City Clerk Harry C. Buser by Chief of Police Shaughnessy today. This will mean a little more than $800 revenue for the city. The majority of them are male animals taxed at $1 each. Females are taxed at $2 each.

Communications

A number of communications have been received by the editor of the Cardinal, but due to the fact that they are unsigned, they cannot be published. Every communication must be signed by the writer.

Publication of communications also depends upon length and universal interest of each particular article. Communications frequently cannot be printed due to lack of space for lengthy articles and because of a lack of general interest in the article.

Editor Daily Cardinal:

We are all greatly concerned in the high standards of our university and its position as an educational institution. Should we not center our concern on its maintaining that position?

Some students seem to be worried about the precautions taken against dishonesty at examinations. Think a moment, cases of dishonesty have been found and just as long as such cases are found at examinations there ought to be a degree of precaution taken against their furtherance. Are you willing to have people go through the university just because they can get by at an examination? Chances are that the person who has his work done for him out of class will be the one who resorts to cribbing at the examination. If he hasn't studied beforehand he is "out of luck." Everybody knows there is not much chance of getting information out of the blue book. That precaution at examinations is for your own benefit. If you want a degree that means something when you graduate all this "getting by" has to be done away with. All those precautions at examinations are made for you, then why feel ill at ease under them?

Other causes of worry among students are the restrictive rules and measures of discipline. Apparently some people think the rules are not in keeping with the age of the average student. Perhaps not, but they are in keeping with the maturity of the average student. Some students haven't forgotten that they are no longer in high school. If that sort of a student must give vent to his or her surplus energy in other channels than that of required work let them turn loose until a reasonable hour, but usually they miss that old town curfew.

Some of these would-be students don't know what it means to get their nose down on the grindstone. They will get down some day but not until they are asked about a reservation on the sore eye special. It doesn't carry all fourth class passengers either. That is the type of a student who "must have a severe and guiding hand to direct his life into the proper channels." The students who have met their difficulties and have come down to earth, realize the value of a restricting rule. They accept these rules at their face value and try to set an example for the more or less wayward because the rules must be general to have them carried out at all.
