MILITARY STAFF SELECTS CAMPUS BAND FOR BALL

Picked Thompson Orchestra Engaged for Event at Capitol on April 1

The fifteenth annual Military Ball, which will be held at the Capitol on April 1, will employ 11 Thompson musicians as its band according to the announcement made by Robert Pike, '28, Drum Major.

Follows Precedent

Just as it has been traditional for the Prom to call in out of town bands, the contrary is true of the Military ball. Calvin Koehring, chief of staff, states that local orchestras have furnished music in past years, and not wishing to originate a precedent, the committee in charge has once more secured the best selection of town musicians available.

Those chosen are all experts on their respective instruments, for Thompson has weeded out the mediocre and has congregated the very best music makers in his employ.

Mostly Student Musicians

The band is composed mostly of students and alumni of the university.

Lute Holman, who spent four years of his time here, will play the piano, and Carson Roberts '29, will play trumpet with Frank Rohrer '29, sitting next to him at the trombone. Jack Mason '28, will squeeze the accordion and play specialty selections. Jack Seary, another sophomore, will play the silver sax pipe.

The Berigan brothers, Robert on the drums and Bunny at his trumpet, with Earl Smith and Ned Ivey at the saxes, Russell Morhoff pumping the bass, and Hank Meyers playing banjo, complete the list of the temporary R. O. T. C. band.

ART FRATERNITY HOLDS FIRST PARTY TONIGHT

The students and faculty of the Art department will be entertained tonight in the Industrial Arts building at a party given by Delta Phi Delta, honorary art fraternity. The purpose of this party is to foster closer relationships among the students of the art school. Members of the organization are cooperating with the faculty in arranging a program which will consist of a chalk talk by Prof. W. H. Varnum, and skits by faculty members and students. Refreshments will be served later in the evening.

TO GIVE COMBINED CONCERT SUNDAY

Orchestra and Glee Club to Join for Afternoon Program

The University orchestra assisted by the Men's Glee club will appear in its second concert of the year at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Music hall. Florence Bergendahl, soprano, and Prof. E. Earle Swinney, baritone, members of the School of Music faculty, will be the assisting soloists.

Intensive rehearsals are being held throughout the week, according to Major E. W. Morphy, director of the organization.

Beethoven's "Egmont Overture," which is being played in honor of the master's centennial commemoration, and the first scene from the third act of the famous Wagner opera "Tanhauser," are the outstanding numbers on a program of Victor Herbert, Puccini, and Von Flitz music.

In the "Tanhauser" number, the entire Men's Glee club, accompanied by the orchestra, will sing the Pilgrim's chorus. The role of Elizabeth, in this section, will be sung by Miss Bergendahl, while Prof. Swinney, director of the club, will interpret the role of Wolfram.

In all 92 students will take part in the program. Sixty musicians comprise the orchestra personnel, while the Glee club includes 32 members.

The New Order In China

Taking of Shanghai by the Cantonese brings up a new course of events in China. The Cantonese undoubtedly will go northward, killing off the Peking war-lords en route and finally will set up a new government. Then the problem of recognition by foreign powers will arise. The new government will oppose the granting or even continuation of concessions to foreign powers for they have proved to be hiding places for the conservative forces throughout the war. The Chinese will ask, or rather, demand the privilege of collecting their own customs duties in order that they might enforce protective tariffs, needed in order to build up industry in China and give the workmen a wage that is necessary for progress.

Senator Borah For President

Add Borah to list of presidential possibilities! When the venerable Idahoan arose to speak before a meeting of the New Haven Trades council, Prof. Jerome Davis of Yale University, introducing him said:

"Senator Borah is deserving of the highest honor the people of the United States can give him," (Applause, applause.)

$95,514,000 For Reclamation

"Prohibition is Beneficial."—Frazer.

"With half-hearted indorsement, and despite a wave of lawlessness as an aftermath of the World war, prohibition has been a success. Go into any city or town formerly wet and compare conditions in the workingman's home, his savings account, and the police records, with the situation in the pre-Volstead era. There has never been an honest effort to enforce the eighteenth amendment. It is true for Americans to take a stand for right and justice. We have allowed a lot of disreputable grafters to get on the enforcement force. We have allowed public officers to accept hush money."—Senator Frazer, North Dakota.

Popularity of Coolidge Continues

Charles Hilles, vice chairman of the republican national committee returning from a trip through 24 states declares that Coolidge's "simplicity, sincerity, frugality, and rugged honesty" makes him a prime favorite except in the state where the veto did its work. Elsewhere there is no indication that he has slipped or is slipping.

Yes, Mr. Hilles you would say so. That is mighty fine campaign talk you are giving us.

FATHER HENGELL REFUTES ARTICLE IN SAY-SO COLUMN

Believes Criticism Unworthy of Serious Consideration, in Interview

By GENARO A. FLOREZ

This morning, at a most unsocial hour, I was called to the telephone to answer indignant queries of various members of Father Hengell's congregation. The telephone continued to ring intermittently throughout the morning—each time the receiver greeting me with novel epithets.

No Bias Held

I tried to impress upon my callers that neither The Daily Cardinal nor myself harbored any malicious intentions, that we upheld no one side, and that we could not see what place religious differences had in the question.

This afternoon, following my original plan, I interviewed the preacher who so emphatically opposed birth control lectures from his pulpit last Sunday.

Compared to Mule

"The sophomoric effusion published against me in the Daily Cardinal," began the Rev. H. C. Hengel 'are not worthy of serious consideration. They condemn themselves out of their own pens. They declare that 'their elders have made a bad mess of things,' and then insist upon breeding themselves out of this world by birth control. They remind me of the mule, which is an animal 'without pride of ancestry or prospect of posterity'."

The calm preacher beamed, and continued, "Hunger for food impels the individual to eat. That keeps him from starving. He may eat without thinking of the nourishment that is thus given to his body but if by some positive act such as inducing vomiting, he seeks more capacity, the primary purpose of eating is defeated. Thus the individual who indulges in eat—"

NEW W. S. G. A. HEADS INSTALLED

Dean Nardin Speaks at Installation Meeting; Committee Chairmen Appointed

The installation of the new W. S. G. A. officers took place at a regular meeting held last night. Alice Brown '27, retiring president, gave a farewell talk to which Dorothy Bucklin '28, responded. Dean Louise F. Nardin was the principal speaker of the evening.

Officers installed were: Dorothy Bucklin '28, president; Blythe Anderson '28, vice president; Katherine Keebler '29, secretary; Marcella Eirman '28, treasurer; and Catherine Howard '29, census chairman.

Chairmen of committees were announced as follows:

Viola Wendt '28, judicial; Jean Strachan '28, junior counselor; Gaynold Carroll '29, publicity; Mary O'Neil '28, vocations; Gertrude McPherson '29, scholarship; Sallie Davis '29, student friendship; Gertrude Meyne '27, co-operative housing; Marjorie Kaltenbach '29, posters; Mary Martin '30, magazine table; and Betty James '28, and Josephine Alexander '29, University service.

Chairmen appointed for special occasions were:

Janet Smith '30, editor freshman booklet; Mary Eschweiler '28, memorial day; Charlotte Wollaeger '28, fall pageant; Helen Keeler '29, freshman teas; Jean Droppers '29, varsity welcome; and Beth Hirsig '28, European tour.

Eight High School Teams Remain in Running for Title

Tumas Announces Selection of 18 Sophomore Men

Newly elected members of Tumas for 1927 have been announced by the present active members. This organization is made up of one junior from each of the fraternities enrolled as supporting it. Men elected at this time who will take up active work next year as juniors are as follows:

Ross Chamberlain, James Drummond, Charles Foster, Bryant Gale, James Hanks, Fred Jensen, Walter Laidlow, William Momsen, Theron Pray.

Robert Pratt, Sumner Ricker, Lawrence Scanlin, Sherod Scott, Paul Schuette, William Slavick, Warren Walsh, Myron Welch, and Chris Zillman.

TAX EXEMPTION BILL NOW UNDER DISCUSSION

Exemption of fraternities and sororities from personal property tax is not favored by the Wisconsin assembly. Such was indicated yesterday when the state assembly engrossed a bill making it compulsory for cities towns, and villages to tax property of such organizations. Final action on the measure will be taken within ten days. Passage of this law would undoubtedly put a stop to the suit which the university fraternities are now contemplating against the city of Madison in an effort to have their property taken from the tax rolls.

Dr. Mills to Give Beethoven Recital at 11 O'Clock Today

Dr. C. H. Mills, head of the school of Music, and city director of the nation-wide Beethoven week, will give a Beethoven recital this morning at 11 o'clock in the auditorium of Music hall.

The program will include a very short talk on Beethoven, the man, and the rest of the hour will be devoted to Beethoven selections played by Dr. Mills.

This week marks the first centennial since Beethoven's death in 1827. "How many of the works of art we are producing today are likely to last out a century? How many of them will be vigorously alive in the year 2027?" comments an essay "Beethoven After a hundred years."

MEN'S GLEE CLUB ADDS TWO CONCERTS TO LIST

Two more formal concerts have been added to the spring itinerary of the Men's Glee club. As a result of a week-end tour by Carlton H. Johns '27, business manager of the club, a concert has been arranged for Milwaukee to be sung April 3, and a concert will also be sung in Rice Lake on April 8.

Y. W. C. A. to Hold Social Banquet for Industrial Workers

A social banquet for those working and interested in student industrial work will be held at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, March 29, at the city Y. W. C. A. parlors.

Every Tuesday evening students of the university Y. W. C. A. meet with industrial women at the city Y. W. C. A. They hold discussions on subjects of interest concerning the opinions of the working girls on different topics of education, religion and work. Out of this joint work has grown the summer school for industrial women, a thing which the university is sponsoring and which in its few years of trial has proved very successful.

Evelyn McElphatrick '29, chairman of the student industrial work of the university Y. W. C. A. announces that the tickets, which cost 50 cents, will be on sale in both the university and city Y. W. C. A. offices. All tickets must be bought by tomorrow.

YESTERDAY'S SCORES

Ashland 20, Menasha 17.
Eau Claire 24, Nekoosa 6
Kenosha 25, New Richmond 7
Platteville 18, Kewaunee 11
La Crosse 22, Watertown 18
Waupun 11, Ladysmith 5
Wausau 24, Laona 14
Madison Central 25, Wisconsin High 18.

Eight teams fell by the wayside yesterday in the race for the golden grail of Wisconsin interscholastic basketball.

Upsets were remarkable for their absence and the favorites, among them Eau Claire, Kenosha, La Crosse, and Madison Central moved into the second round without a great deal of opposition.

Good Basketball

General fine play and a marked tendency towards the use of the short pass were distinguishing features of the first day's play, while three of the games were so hard-fought that the winner could not be predicted before the final gun.

Eau Claire and Kenosha hailed as powers to be feared in the tourney, won their first round games over Nekoosa and New Richmond easily. Eau Claire will meet stiffer opposition from Ashland at 3 o'clock today, while Kenosha has a somewhat more cagey opponent in the Platteville five, which nobody has yet been able to figure out.

La Crosse Plays Tonight

La Crosse ran into strong opposition from Watertown and barely got through, 22-18. The La Crosse five will meet a dark-horse Waupun team in the second round at 8 o'clock tonight.

Madison Central, too, met unexpected strength in its battle with Wisconsin High last night. The Centralites had to call their last bit of skill into play before finally winning 25-18. Central should have a somewhat easier time against Wausau tonight, although the Wausau team is a power.

BANNER YEAR FOR MILITARY CAMPS

35,000 Students Enrolled in 53
Service Camps for Coming Summer

With 35,000 students in 53 camps the Citizens Military training camps for 1927 will enjoy a banner year. Lieut. Colonel J. F. Barnes announced yesterday. This, the largest number of camps in the six years experience of the Cadet Military Training Corps movement, is necessary in order to meet the record flow of applicants, Colonel Barnes said.

These camps, held under the auspices of the War department, are a part of the general scheme of the government to carry out the requirements of the National Defense act of 1920. They are placed under the direct supervision of the War department because that is the only government branch best qualified to provide experienced instructors, material, and facilities for the conduct of citizen training.

The military feature is not the primary aim of these camps, Colonel Barnes pointed out. Their chief purpose, he declared, is to develop the youth of the Nation by bringing together young men of high ideals, from all walks of life on a common basis of equality, and under the most favorable conditions of outdoor life; to teach them the privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship and to stimulate them physically, mentally and morally.

Four courses, known as the basic red, white, and blue, offer training to the C. M. T. C. candidate. The last three courses are for basic graduates who desire to specialize in any of the following arms of their choice: infantry, cavalry, field artillery, coast artillery or signal corps.

Attendance at one or more of any of the first three courses involves no obligation, written or implied, for further military service. Blue course graduates are eligible for commissions in the Reserve Officers corps, upon the successful completion of the necessary mental and physical examinations.

To be eligible to attend the Citizens' Military Training camps, the candidate must be between the ages of 17 and 24, an American citizen of good moral character and physically fit. Upon being enrolled he is given a vaccination and inoculation which makes him immune from communicable diseases for a period of four years.

R. C. YOUNG, Phi Beta Kappa

college instructor to-store manager

"I received my B. S. degree from Colby in 1915, and my M. S. from Wesleyan University in 1917. From 1915 until 1920 I taught physics and chemistry in Colby, Wesleyan and Providence, R. I., excepting service as a commissioned officer during the war.

The desire for a more active life induced me to leave academic lines and become assistant to the head chemist of the Gorham Manufacturing Co. Opportunity for advancement here seemed too limited, so after two years I decided on another change. I wanted to settle into a life occupation where ambition, ability, and hard work, would be demanded and rewarded.

The Kresge organization has answered every requirement. Promotions have been made as rapidly as I have been qualified to receive them. Today I find myself receiving a greater income than the teachers and industrial acquaintances who sought to discourage me from making such a radical change in occupation. My observation of men who have been with this Company for many years shows me that my future earning power is going to be limited only by my own ability."

R. C. Young, Phi Beta Kappa

How far can You see into the Future?

The men we want to manage our stores are men of vision—men who are able to look into the future, and who are willing to work hard to attain what they see there.

If you have the faculty of vision, combined with perseverance and a willingness to improve yourself through work and study, you are the sort of man who goes far in the Kresge organization.

And if you are this sort of man, you will not choose a position that offers much today, and little tomorrow. But you will be able to see into the future, and you will pick a job that offers a fitting return for the energy you put into it.

Study our organization. Perhaps you will find it to your liking. At any rate, write now, to our Personnel Department so that we may send a graduate of your own college to tell you how he found success in the Kresge organization.

Wisconsin High Out

After a magnificent last-half struggle, Wisconsin high school dropped from the championship flight before the steady play of Madison Central, 25-18.

Central was leading 11-7 at the half and appeared to have the victory just about put away, but the Badger preps made a desperate come-back in the third quarter and succeeded in gaining the lead 16-15. After this effort, Wisconsin High weakened and again fell behind the consistent Central five. Fosdick starred for Central with 10 points to his credit.

Kenosha Wins

Kenosha, heralded as one of the tournament favorites, easily demonstrated its superiority over the New Richmond five by a 25 to 7 count. Kenosha had little difficulty in running up a 13-2 count in the first half, while holding New Richmond without a field goal.

The Kenoshans displayed a cool unhurried type of play which should put them close to the finals, if not one of the finalists. Pacetti, the big Kenosha center, was the chief scoring ace with four baskets and four free throws for a total of twelve points. The Kenosha quintet plays Platteville today.

Ashland's far-north quintet opened the tournament play by scoring a narrow 20-17 victory over Menasha.

The winners exhibited some passable teamwork and proved more of a five-man team than Menasha, which had to rely on Godhardt to do most of the scoring. Godhardt was individual star with four field goals and five frees, while Carlson scored three goals and three foul tosses for Ashland.

Fast Fighting Features Last Tourney Bouts

Straight punching and hard fighting matches brought the preliminary bouts in the all-university boxing tournament to a close yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The finalists of all classes were chosen yesterday and will meet for the university championship Saturday afternoon at 2:30. A list of these will be published Friday.

Of the four bouts run off today, two of them ended in technical knock-outs, and the remaining two were won by clear superiority. In the first bout of the day, Korshak stepped out of his class to fight Steiner at 165 pounds and using a hard driving hammer punch, forced him into submission during the entire fight.

Rosenberg and Borlem at 165 lbs. put on one of the most fantastic bouts held this year. In the first round, Rosenberg so completely outpointed and outpunched Borlem, that a knock-out was expected by the spectators. However, Borlem, rallying, managed to hold his own in the second round, and then completed his rally by punching Rosenberg all over the ring in the last round. Rosenberg being out of condition, was unable to stand the gaff and would have been knocked out in the last round had Borlem had the necessary punch. Borlem was awarded the decision.

Matthias defeated Crowsey at 165 pounds in a clever, well fought bout. Superiority and aggressiveness won the fight for Matthias.

The long looked for heavyweight fight between "Dynamite" Mansfield and his opponent, Shannon, was held yesterday, and proved the attraction of the day. Shannon, a well built lad, was no match for the clever fast-punching Mansfield who lifted him from his feet in the first round, and so battered him in the second round that the fight was stopped and a technical K. O. awarded to Mansfield.

FROSH TRACKMEN FINISH FOURTH IN BIG TEN MEET

Ziese, Benson Tie for First; Parkinson Takes Second in Shot

The freshman track team closed its indoor season by placing fourth in the Big Ten frosh meet, events of which were run off last Saturday and the results announced in this week's issue of the Big Ten Weekly.

The Badgers scored 15 points to place behind Iowa, winner of the meet with 54 1-2 points, Illinois, second with 27, and Michigan third with 17.

Tie For First

Ziese, Wisconsin hurdler was one of four men to tie for first in the 40 yard high hurdles at 5.4 seconds, and Benson, sprinter, tied four Iowa freshmen for first in the 40 yard dash at 4.5 seconds.

Parkinson and Gurneau, promising young Wisconsin shot putters, placed second and third respectively in this event. Parkinson's heave of 43 feet and 9 1-2 inches was one of the best he has made this year. Callendar placing third in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet 11 inches, and Thompson, third in the two mile, were the only other Badgers to win points.

Up High

A freshman pole vaulter from Illinois, McDermott, made the remarkable height of 12 feet 7 1-4 inches to take first place in this event.

Other good marks were hung up by Moulton, Iowa who won the half mile in 1:59.5, North, Minnesota, who raced over the two mile run in 3:46.4, and Barg, Iowa, who took first in the shot put at 45 feet 10 1-2 inches.

Iowa's over-towering victory was attributed partly to the fact that the Hawkeyes had the best indoor track upon which to make their records.

For the Cause of Humanity

In a period of international distrust and disorder such as the world is cursed with at the present time, we can look upon the move signalized by the scheduled banquet of the Fourth Internationale more or less as a refreshment.

The banquet has for its main purpose a discussion and an evaluation of present day international problems, and will be conducted by students from most of the nations of the world. They will seek to find positive and practical means of substituting international understanding for the now too evident and highly developed nationalism.

Higher than nationalistic pride and dogma, these men have placed the cause of humanity and understanding among all men. Theirs is a worthy cause. The world needs thousands more of this type of student to become the leaders of thought and industry in their respective nations, there to spread the cause of international understanding and peace.

More Grades

A stranger walking into an American college classroom would be prone to wonder whether or not education in America is a chase for grades and grade points or a pursuit for knowledge and intellectual broadening. We recall a certain class attended at the beginning of this semester in which an instructor took no small amount of the class time to explain a few of the possibilities by which a careless student might blast a chance for double grade points—as though the amount of grade points garnered in a semester are the fruits of one's months spent at the university.

Nevertheless the grades have been issued by Dean Goodnight's office for last semester's standings, of the organized groups on the campus. Some very interesting comparisons can be made between the figures of this report of the grades and those of years past. The average for all students has fallen one tenth of a grade point per credit over that of last semester. This drop can hardly be indicative of any serious tendency.

Once more the pledges of most of the organizations place lower than the active branches of the organizations. No doubt this is due to the fact that the first year men are still in the period of adaptation.

Again the women prove superior to the abilities of the men as far as the grade point contest is concerned. The men no doubt are wondering how they do it, not admitting, of course, that the opposite sex is the more intelligent of the two. The difference is explained by one or more of several arguments. "They spend all of their time with the books," is a favorite; or "They know how to handle the Profs," is another.

The active embers of eight fraternities have laid themselves open to the ruling which went into effect last year concerning the placing of a fraternity on probation whose average fell below 1.000 grade points per credit. How far these figures go to show the educational capacities of an institution is a question which might be debated far into the night.

An Ancient More Passes

Not so very long ago the discerning editor of The Capital Times commented upon the appearance in a number of national magazines of a cigarette advertisement with a photograph of a slim, dainty, unmistakable feminine hand holding the fag. It was pointed out that the advertisers were becoming unusually daring in thus appealing obviously, if in a somewhat disguised fashion, to women smokers.

Since then a series of ads for a popular cigarette brand has appeared which makes no bones about going after the woman smokers. They consist of testimonials from well known female opera stars, accompanied by photographs, setting forth the remarkable harmlessness of Blank cigarettes upon delicate throat membranes.

Advertisers are notoriously cautious about inferences which might conceivably offend the moral sensibilities of even a small minority of the public. We may be sure that this radical departure in cigarette advertising was not undertaken without a careful study of public opinion. Apparently then, this innovation may be taken as an indication that smoking for women has definitely stepped out of the realm of questionable practices, to be guiltily indulged in the privacy of a boudoir or a quiet cafe.

American women, particularly in the west, have been a little timid about smoking in public. University women, with the forbidding influence of the dean's disapproval pervading the atmosphere, have been even more conservative.

We may venture to predict, however, that the time is not far distant when Wisconsin women will be pulling on their fags up the hill to their eight o'clocks, and contributing their just share to the pile of butts in front of Bascom hall.

Other Editors Say

COLLEGIATE KLEPTOMANIA

Somewhere in the make-up of the college student of today is a strain of blood that comes from other days. It comes, perhaps, from Robin Hood and his jolly robbers, from Captain Kidd or other plundering pirates of the main, or from the brigand bands that once swept the plains of Europe and Northern Africa, pillaging as they went.

The urge to plunder, to assume possession of trinkets belonging to others, or, to use the harsher word, to steal, seems to be imbred in college students. Unlike their brigand and pirate ancestors, they steal, not for their gain in a monetary way, but just for the zest of it and in the spirit of a souvenir collector.

And so it is that restaurants in the university district find their silverware mysteriously disappearing, their teapots vanishing into thin air, their drinking glasses vaporizing almost before their eyes, their sugar bowls dissolving into the mists of invisibility, and their salt shakers evanescent into nothingness. Restaurant keepers, of course, are aware of this necromancy practiced by the students, but are powerless before it because it is not the hand quicker than the eye?

Bold strokes of petty piracy are made occasionally. One hears vague but frequent rumors that a huge Grecian urn, a stone object d'art of tremendous weight, has mysteriously disappeared from the lobby of a downtown hotel and reappeared in a fraternity house as a mastodontic ash tray. Likewise heavy iron cannon balls that long rested beside the cannon in front of Memorial Hall, have vanished, presumably to be metamorphosed into oversize paper weights. Another bold stroke has been to appropriate a theater sign in broad daylight. Apparently usefulness is not a matter of consideration to collectors.

To be fair to both men students and co-eds it must be acknowledged that neither sex monopolizes the souvenir collecting although the men are by far the most active. But did we not see a co-ed, emulating the Spartan lad of old times, who hid a stolen wolf under his coat only to have it gnaw his vitals, emerge from a sandwich shop with a hot teapot under her coat?

As an extraordinary circumstance of collegiate kleptomania we might cite the example of the football team from Ohio State that made a trip to the coast a number of years ago. On the return trip meals were served at station restaurants while the train waited. When the special train arrived at Chicago, representatives of the chain of restaurants boarded it and collected a sheet full of silverware.

And so the collegiate kleptomaniacs collect and collect, pilfer, pillage, an dplunder, and there is none clever or heartless enough to say them nay.—Ohio State Lantern.

Readers' Say So

DEPENDS FATHER HENGELL
Editor, the Daily Cardinal:

Both Mr. Zendt's attack on Father Hengell and those in the Readers' Say-So were ridiculous. He brings up all that the Catholic church did in the Middle Ages, and emphasizes especially the numerous burnings at the stake; and shows his ignorance of universal history thereby: the world at that time was composed of people firmly believing in superstition, just as we believe in the thought of today, and any burnings at the stake and the like were committed in the firm belief that it was right. Do not say that the Church is behind all of this; if you would study a Catholic catechism, you would find that the Church strictly forbids superstition.

As to Father Hengell's stand on birth control: it is evident that he sees the impossibility of the thing. Reverend Hengell urged that the only control is self-control; who is ignorant enough to deny this? Birth control is against nature! How do you suppose birth control can be affected: by passing a law? Poppycock. What average married man believes in birth control. Very few, I believe. The subject is only a baby idea that will duly collapse. In concluding let me caution remembrance of an age old adage: "Self preservation is the first law of Nature; Race preservation the second." Effected by self control, isn't it?

Regarding Hengell's statement on hearing Lindsey, I believe that Reverend Hengell took for granted that few people would take Lindsey seriously after weighing both sides of the question. The point he stressed was not the actual hearing but taking him seriously.

AUGUST W. DERLETH

FREE DISCUSSION

Editor, the Daily Cardinal:

On behalf of the sturdy defenders of our present academic freedom and standards of moral conduct who are again engaged in one of those periodic conflicts with one who would save the world, permit me to say a few words.

In the present controversy, in which the Rev. Mr. Hengell is the would-be saviour, it seems to me that the charges made by the Reverend are ridiculous and unwarranted, as was pointed out by Mr. Zendt in yesterday's Daily Cardinal. They are, in fact, a distinct insult to student intelligence, for certainly, the great majority of students are to be credited with sufficient discriminatory ability to distinguish between a lecture of risqué stories and one of real scientific information. Furthermore in regard to the qualifications of Dr. Yarros and Judge B. Lindsey to speak on their respective subjects, it is certain that they are qualified, if not more so, to discuss questions relative to their respective fields of inquiry as is the Rev. Mr. Hengell in discussing questions pertinent to his office.

I believe that the Student Forum is to be congratulated in bringing such renown and highly respected lecturers as Dr. Yarros and Judge B. Lindsey to this university and I feel that each student has a moral obligation to attend these enlightening lectures, the subject of which has been so long suppressed by these everlasting blundering censors of student thought.

P. W. G. '28.

BUT THERE'S A CONSTITUTIONAL STATUS, TOO

Editor, the Daily Cardinal:

My attention has been drawn to the editorial in which you quoted a provision from the Constitution of Wisconsin and applied it to the Christian Science meetings which are conducted by and for students of the University of Wisconsin in one of its halls.

As a Christian Scientist and as a lawyer who had a good deal of experience with the construction of constitutional and statutory provisions, I feel that your editorial was written without due regard for the particular terms of the provision in question. It reads, "And no sectarian instruction shall be allowed in such university." It does not read, "And no sectarian meeting shall be allowed in a hall or upon the grounds of the university." The actual provision in the Constitution of Wisconsin is limited to sectarian instruction in the university. It is a reasonable conclusion that such provisions in the Constitution or laws of the American States express the separation of Church from State, and are intended to forbid denominational teaching by persons representing the state or a state institution.

GILLEN ENDORSES LINDSEY AS JUDGE

Influence of Denver Magistrate Over Young Delinquents Outstanding

Endorsing Judge Ben B. Lindsey as an understanding and just judge, Prof. J. L. Gillen, sociologist, says, "I have watched Judge Lindsey's work in the Denver Juvenile court for many years. His understanding of the children who have come under his court has been most remarkable, as shown by the results in their conduct. He has shown that the just judge is he who understands the young. Their confidence he has won. How many young delinquents he has been instrumental in winning from waywardness no one knows, perhaps not even the judge himself, but they are legion."

Judge Lindsey lectures at the university gymnasium Monday night, March 28. His talk is on "Why Kids Lie," and it is based on his years of work and understanding in juvenile delinquency in the Denver courts.

Lindsey is not afraid to broadcast his ideas, no matter how they clash with public sentiment, and for that reason has been the center of a hundred storms. The recent attack on him and his doctrines by the Rev. H. C. Hengell, pastor of the St. Paul

Prof. Gillen Reads Various Selections in Lathrop Lecture

The varied selections of modern Irish poetry read by Prof. C. F. Gillen of the French department in Lathrop parlors yesterday afternoon included many well known authors.

Drawing his selection from Louis Untermeyer's anthology of Modern British Poetry and Padraic Colum's Anthology of Irish Verse, Mr. Gillen read from the works of William Butler Yeats, whom he called "Ireland's proudest boast," George William Russell, Eva Gore Booth, Padraic Colum, James Stevens, Joseph Plunket, Patrick MacGill, Winifred Letts, Sheumas O'Sullivan, Douglas Hyde, Arthur Shaughnessy, Katherine Tynon Hinkson, and Thomas M. Kettle.

Mr. Gillen acquired his pleasing rendition of the Irish dialect through his contact with the Irish settlers during his long residence in Quebec. His sympathy with the spirit of Irish verse was admirably and infectious transmitted to the audience.

GOYA'S ART THEME OF HAGEN'S LECTURE

Vivid Etchings of Spanish Artist Attributed to Napoleonic Invasion

The art of Francisco Goya was the subject of Prof. O. F. Hagen's third lecture given on Tuesday night in the biology auditorium under the auspices of the Madison art association.

Mr. Hagen prefaced the lecture with a warning that the discussion of Goya's art would be no pleasure trip. Francisco Goya lived in a stormy period of the world's history—a long period from 1746 to 1828. His early life was that of an adventurer, but, when the Napoleonic wars endangered his native Spain, his patriotic spirit rose to scourge the invader with all his biting fire of wit and irony.

The Napoleonic invasion inspired a series of etchings called "Los Desastres de la Guerra." These etchings of the disasters of the war were rendered in all their stark horror, and never does Goya permit one to turn his face from the grim tragedy of a mound of dead bodies or the rape of Spanish women.

Perhaps even worse was Goya's indictment of the grasping clergy and the criminal stupidity of Spanish government, both church and state.

Mr. Hagen declared that Goya in the unmitigated pessimism with which he accompanies this attack upon the political, social, and clerical abuses of his day, was not unlike that other 19th century pessimist, Schopenhauer.

The last lecture in the series will be on "Book Illustrators of the 19th Century;" the time of presentation will be announced later.

Ags and Home Ecs Hold Annual Party This Friday Night

The Ag family will frolic at their annual party Friday night at the Women's building. Approximately 300 agriculture and home economic students will be in attendance at this ball.

Dancing and novelty features will entertain the attendants. The latter will include a stunt by Professor John S. Donald, extension specialist in agricultural economics, and a selection by Donald Jones who will play on an old dulcimer. This is a

TO LECTURE ON YOUTH OF TODAY

Sherwood Anderson, Novelist, to Discuss Status of Younger Generation

Is the younger generation as bad as it is painted or is it painted as bad as it is? This is one of the questions which Sherwood Anderson will attempt to answer in his lecture here Tuesday, March 29, when he appears under the auspices of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalistic fraternity for women.

The capability of this author to speak on modern conditions has been endorsed by various members of the English department of the university when they have expressed their opinions concerning Anderson as a writer and as a student of humanity.

"Sherwood Anderson is a novelist of tremendous power with which he can make one intensely feel reality," says Helen White, of the department of English. "To him, sex is the most powerful force of life, the motivating element in existence."

His understanding of the force between human relations and existence, his appreciation of the reality of human nature, fit him to comment upon "The Younger Generation," with peculiar insight.

SPANISH CLUB TO
"Las Solteronas," comedy drama will be one of the main features of the "Spanish Night" to be given by the Spanish club at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday in Lathrop concert room. Those in the cast are: Sandalia—Lillie Suckern '27. Pura—Helen Pike '23.

Claudio—Arthur Katona '30.
Procopio—Frederick Roy '29.
Dancing and musical numbers in keeping with the Spanish atmosphere will complete the program.

Y. W. C. A. Installs New Cabinet, Picks Frosh Commission

Newly elected members of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet were installed by the members at 4:30 o'clock on March 20 in Lathrop parlors. The candle light service used annually for the installation was employed.

A new Freshman commission was selected, including:

ing only for the sake of the enjoyment derived is a pig.

"The sexual appetite impels individuals to marry, and thus represents the race in self perpetuation. Persons authorized, (married) lawfully enjoy the pleasures of sexual indulgence, even though they do not give a thought to offspring. But if by POSITIVE ACT through the use of contraceptives, they deliberately frustrate or defeat the primary purpose of sexual relationship, they commit a crime against nature; for such an unnatural form of sex abuse amounts to nothing but reciprocal masturbation.

In answer to Oliver Zandt's taunt of "why is there but one side?" Father Hengell exclaimed, "Regardless of all sob stories of difficulty involved, persons may do wrong, even in order that good may come of it. Stealing is not justified by the intention to distribute the things stolen to the poor. It is in this sense that I insist that there are no two sides to the questions of sex abuse, by contraceptives, any more than there are two sides to the question of murder, stealing, or lying."

The Rev. Mr. Hengell refuted the argument of overpopulation, and that of pitifully overcrowded conditions in tenement districts, as follows:

"Overpopulation and poverty are brought in as side issues. The real question is evaded when such arguments are presented. The question is whether or not birth control is right. The conditions existing in tenements and slums is due to the existing economic conditions, and only through sound economics should they be met. There is an unfair and unequal distribution of wealth and goods. Remedy that, and birth control will be forgotten."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

There will be a meeting of the Christian Science society at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Room 1 of Music hall. All members of the faculty and student body are invited to attend. A special business meeting will immediately follow the service.
