DEFEATED AGAIN

IT WAS BY GRINNELL COLLEGE
THIS TIME.

A RATHER LOOSELY PLAYED GAME.

Team Changed Around—Poor Playing
All Around.

Another game. This time it was Grinnell college. When the game was over the score was 15 to 10 in favor of the Iowa college. The day was a poor one for a ball game with the cold north wind blowing down the field, but there was a fairly good crowd out. The university team did not seem to know how to play ball. They hit the ball all right, and fielded as well as their opponents but could not win.

The team was changed around somewhat, when the game started in. Falk was in the box, Runkel behind the bat, Gregg in center field, Karel on first and Hagenson on third. When the first inning was over the visitors had secured five runs. Wisconsin could not score in her half.

In the second Runkel pitched, with Gregg behind the bat, while Karel went out in the field with Falk on first. Grinnell secured three more runs while Wisconsin could only get one. The fourth looked like Wisconsin's inning when everyone came up to bat and a total of seven runs was secured. But Grinnell got five which gave her a good lead. Things were rather even after that, Grinnell scoring in the seventh and ninth, while Wisconsin scored in the seventh.

In the fifth inning Fowle ran into the second baseman. Both were stunned for a time but went on playing. In the seventh, however, Fowle had to leave the field on account of the injury.

Pfeffer umpired the game and gave the team some practicing after the game. The following is the score:

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Begins Tomorrow—Arrangements for the Matches.

The tennis tournament for the selection of a team for the match with Beloit will begin promptly at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon. A number of entries have already been made. The drawings will take place at the gymnasium at 7 o'clock this evening. This tournament is not for the championship but Mr. Allen will be allowed to play the winner for the right of representing the university against Beloit.

In order that the tournament may be finished as soon as possible, so that the winners will have a chance to rest before their match with Beloit, it is necessary the contestants be on hand when their match is called. Notices of the time of each match will be posted tomorrow morning and anyone who is not present at the time named will lose by default. Play begins at 1:30 each afternoon, and matches will begin at intervals of an hour, during the afternoon.

The matches will be played on the two east courts. The west courts can be used for practice or by those who have not entered the tournament.

THE SENIOR PARTY.

No Advance Programs—No Refreshments—Stags, $5.00.

The committee having in charge the senior party desire to have some matters in regard to the event clearly understood. In the first place, no advance programs will be issued, and any so made out will not be recognized as official. Tickets will not be sold in advance, but can be secured the same evening for $4.50 per couple. Stags will be charged $5, which is not subject to change. Dancing will be the feature from eight to twelve o'clock, and no refreshments will be served. Lueders' orchestra has been secured for the evening, and every effort will be used to make the party resemble the old class parties as much as possible.

FELLOWS NOT ELECTED.

Meet Again This Afternoon—No More Credit for Cardinal Work.

Although the special order of business for the weekly meeting of the faculty yesterday afternoon was the election of fellows, other matters crowded it out for a time, and no choice was arrived at. Several ballots were taken, but no selections were made. Another meeting will be held for the purpose this afternoon.

One important action of the faculty was in voting to discontinue the allowance of credit for work done on the Cardinal after this year.

The Sigma Delta fraternity will give its annual banquet Wednesday evening. A number of their alumni will be present.

A. L. Nash, '98, and G. H. Brownell, '98, spent Sunday at the latter's home in Janesville.

MISS UPHAM ENTERTAINS.

Many University People Attend Her Dancing Party.

One of the most charming dancing parties given this season was that at the executive residence last evening by Miss Upham in honor of her sister, Mrs. Finney and Miss Kelley.

The parlors were canvassed and the decorations were very tasteful and profuse being composed of lilacs, potted plants and ivy. Refreshments were served in the dining room, the table being decorated with smilax, roses and carnations.

The guests were received by Governor and Mrs. Upham, Mr. and Mrs. Finney, Miss Kelley and Miss Upham. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Williams, of Oak Park, Ill.; Misses Caryl Fairchild, Mary Vilas, Bird Morrison, Janette Doyon, Jessie Hand, James, Berryman, Loomis Mary Freeman, Edith Pingree, Winifred Harmon, Clarissa Linde, Agnes Bowman, Juliet Harris and Laura Osborne; and the Messrs. Charles H. Doyon, E. S. Main, A. K. Sedgwick, L. M. Hanks, Ferguson, W. F. Dockery, Wm. Todd, C. F. McClure, Henry Vilas, H. H. Morgan, Willet Spooner, Frank E. Peirce, Chas. N. LAWS WONT WEAR 'EM.

They Are Invited to Adopt the Cap and Gown, But Refuse.

The law seniors this morning received a communication from the seniors of the college of letters and science, asking them to adopt the cap and gown for commencement. The legal gentlemen, however, thought that the scholastic robes, would not become them, and passed unanimously a resolution to souse in the cold waters of Mendota any one of their number caught wearing the paraphernalia of a senior.

The exercises of the golden jubilee of the University of Notre Dame will take place Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 11, 12 and 13. TENNIS AT NORTHWESTERN.

Interest in tennis at Northwestern university was never so great as it is this year. The tennis association now has a membership of sixty, and the young women have besides a flourishing club of their own. Three clay courts have been completed and three others are projected. The young women's association will soon have two clay courts of its own, too, on the campus at Woman's hall. The improvement in many of the players has been phenomenal, and the coming tournaments promise great things. Several teams have been formed for contests in doubles. Among them are Walter Scott and William Burt, Charles Scott and E. M. St. John, W. L. Wilson and W. F. Wilson. Three tournaments are to be played this spring. May 15 a tournament in singles and doubles will begin exclusively for members of the faculty. At least sixteen of the instructors are enthusiastic devotees of tennis, and are players of no mean ability. May 25 the college tournament will begin, and will last one week. It is expected there will be fifty entries. There will be prizes in gentlemen's singles and doubles, ladies' singles and doubles and mixed doubles, and the winners will represent the university at the intercollegiate tournament which begins in Chicago June 1. An interfraternity tournament will also be played at Evanston the fore part of June.

CONTEMPORARY CLUB.

The Contemporary club will meet Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the parlor of the Unitarian church. Prof. Victor Coffin will speak of "The Present Status of Canadian Political Parties," and Prof. F. G. Hubbard will read a paper on "George William Curtis." All are cordially invited to attend.

C. W. Lea, '97, is back from a short visit to Waupun.

S. W. Smith, '98, is receiving a visit from his parents of Rockford.

Walter Brockway, Lawrence, '97, is in the city on business.

Nielson, the photographer, will soon take photographs of the law seniors, to be hung in the senior class room.

A fine write-up of our crew and its prospects appeared in Saturday's Minneapolis Journal. The issue contains pictures of Capt. Rohn, coach O'Dea and the crew.

PROFESSIONALISM.

The fact that Beloit played on their ball team a person not connected with the college but hired to play with and to coach the athletic teams of that institution, reminds one of many other examples of college professionalism. In fact Beloit is not the most prominent example. Beloit is a small college, whose only hope for success is in playing hired professionals. Her size is an excuse, but a very small excuse, for her action. But the other colleges have not the same excuse.

Henry Wade Rogers, president of Northwestern, acted as secretary at the conference of college presidents last winter. In that capacity he should have been familiar with the rule against playing professionals. But he allows Griffith, a professional ball player, to pitch for Northwestern. He seems to have some notion of a rule barring professionals but claims it was not to go into effect until this fall; Griffith graduates this spring. No one denies that Griffith is a professional. But Northwestern says "What are you going to do about it?" But she should remember that no credit can be given to Northwestern for a base ball victory. No claims of the western championship, or any ranking among western colleges can be made.

And then there is Michigan. When the rules regarding athletics were adopted by the college presidents, Michigan congratulated the other colleges on having attained the same high plane of athletic purity, which she had so long occupied. Yet Michigan has as pitcher this spring Sexton, a professional. He has played for two seasons on the New Bedford professional team. He left Amherst in the middle of the year in order to play ball with Brown. He is now at Michigan, attracted by the fame of the university, doubtless. He is also playing ball for them. He is said to have signed with the Boston league team. It is also stated that Shields, Michigan's captain and center fielder, is professional. Michigan's captains have an inclination that way, as witness their track team.

Chicago has adopted the anti-professional rule but Harry F. Kendall in the May Outing says: "Nichols of Chicago university has also played in professional ranks."

At the Vesper service on the day after the Wisconsin-Beloit football game last fall, President Eaton offered a prayer for their team. We would suggest that he now pray for our nine.

THE MATTER OF CREDIT.

Is it possible that the faculty intends to force every one who has any aspirations to do newspaper work into the "school of journalism" which it purports to start next year? Such would seem to be the case, from the action taken at the meeting yesterday, in voting that hereafter no credit shall be given for work done upon the Cardinal. We do not know that such is the case—we can see no reason why there should be such a desire on the part of the faculty; but we can think of no other reason which would prompt them to such action. This is done, too, in spite of the fact that universities all over the country, from Boston to Colorado, are coming to recognize the value to the student of work upon the college publications, and are granting credit therefor. There is not—has never been—a promiscuous amount of credit given for work upon the Cardinal. The whole staff, from the editor-in-chief to the reporter who only writes a stickful of matter a month, are not all getting credit by any manner of means. The faculty knows that only one or two people are being granted any credit at all for the work done; and they could find out on investigation that the one or two are putting as much time and as much conscientious work upon the Cardinal as upon any work in the university for which they would get equal credit. As for the so-called course in journalism: We are glad to see it established, and we believe that those who take it can get from it some benefit, but we also are inclined to believe the teachings of the ablest practical journalists—i. e., that one can learn to do newspaper work only by actual work on a paper; and while the Daily Cardinal can not furnish all the varied kinds of experience which a metropolitan daily can furnish, it is presumptuous enough to think that it can give at least as much training as any "image of straw" which may be erected in a class-room.

From about the state comes the intelligence that arrangements are already being made for extension lectures next year. Perhaps here is a suggestion for the students to act upon when they return home. By means of these lecture courses in the university the institution is brought in closer touch with the state at large, and there can be no doubt but that a more active interest in its welfare is stimulated among the people of the state.

To the nine: If at first you don't succeed, lose, lose again.

—A commission of fifty leading educational men, with Hon. Seth Low, president of Columbia college, as chairman, has organized to investigate the liquor question in its physiological, ethical, poetical, and sociological aspects.

—The student body at Vassar has voted to establish an Athletic association, and a committee has been appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws.

PROF. ANDERSON ON NORSEMEN.

Talk Before the Literary Club Last Evening.

The Madison Literary club met at the home of Mrs. F. W. Hoyt, on Monona avenue last evening. Though the attendance was not large, the meeting was very interesting.

Prof. Anderson discussed briefly the sources of Viking history. He pointed out the fact that references are made to the old Norsemen by Greek and Roman writers and that some knowledge of them is supplied by English, French and German authors, while the main sources of Viking history are the Icelandic sagas. The eighth, ninth and tenth centuries are properly to be styled the Viking age of the Norsemen. During these centuries they are found in nearly every part of the then known world, and the Viking age closes with expeditions across the Atlantic to America, affording a most brilliant finale to the great historic drama.

Prof. Anderson made an earnest defense of the character of the Vikings, and argued that they were not such cruel, barbarous pirates as they are painted by their Anglo Saxon and French chroniclers. They were men of courage and a fine presence and they adhered strictly to their words and promises. It was not only a love of booty that drove them to foreign lands, but also nobler motives. They went abroad not only to gather wealth and property but also in quest of honor. Viking expeditions were regarded as a school for young men of high birth in which they might win fame by heroic achievements, and in which they might become educated and polished by intercourse with people in foreign lands. The Viking was frequently a merchant and when he returned to his home, having won fame, he lived on his farm, a peaceful and law-abiding citizen, differing from his neighbor only in the fact that he possessed more culture and enjoyed more luxuries, but there is no evidence that his sense of right and justice had been blunted.

The old Vikings fully understood the importance of studying the art of ship-building and navigation. They knew how to measure time by the stars and how to calculate the course of the sun and moon. To them belongs the great honor of discovering pelagic navigation. They were themselves the first to venture out upon the high seas and they taught the rest of the world to navigate the ocean. They demonstrated the possibility of venturing out of sight of land and in this sense it may be said with perfect propriety, remarked the speaker, that they taught Columbus how to cross the Atlantic ocean. Prof. Anderson closed with an enthusiastic description of Iceland and an eloquent apostrophe to liberty.

President Adams took issue with some of the views expressed by Prof. Anderson. Prof. Storm Bull followed in support of the paper. Dr. Butler agreed with President Adams. Dr. Birge also took part in the discussion.

A very pleasant social time was had after the literary portion of the meeting had been disposed of. Light refreshments were served.

F. V. Cornish, '96, who has been sick for a few days past, is about once more.

—R. L. Holt, '95, has returned to the university, after spending several days at his home in Waukesha.

The law seniors have invited Justices Harlan and Brown, of the Federal Supreme court, to address them on commencement day, but both gentlemen will be unable to be here. The class is now in communication with other distinguished jurists.

—Charles Coolidge Parlin, '93, principal of the west side high school at DePere, and Miss Ruth Annie Christie, '90, assistant at the same school, were married at the bride's home in Baraboo Saturday evening.
