STUDENT RATE ON MINNESOTA SEATS TO CLOSE TODAY

Only 5,000 Tickets Now Sold;
Expect Big Sale Today,
Hunter Says

The sale of tickets at the student rate for the Minnesota game closes tonight at 6 o'clock. Up to yesterday evening only about 5,000 students had applied, which means that a heavy seat sale is expected to-day.

Paul S. Hunter, director of ticket sales, is anxious that every student note the distinction between the general student sale which ends today and the special sale of tickets in the father student section which has been extended to October 9.

Extend Ticket Sales

The extension of time on the latter sale has been necessary because of the delay in getting out invitations to the fathers to visit Madison on October 18 and to attend the game.

If a student purchases a ticket in the student section and later finds that his father is planning to attend the game, he may (until October 9) purchase tickets for himself and his father in the Father-Student section and then get a refund for his student ticket.

More than 100 of the 500 tickets reserved in the special father-student section have been reserved, even though comparatively few students have had time to write the invitation to their homes and receive replies.

7,500 Fathers Asked

"When 7,500 fathers receive invitations from President Birge, and have had time to reply, the available seats in the special section will disappear quickly," John L. Bergstresser, chairman of the student committee, said yesterday. "We have made arrangements, however, so that every student who signs up for a student-father ticket before October 9 will be assured of good seats—the earlier the application, of course, the better the seats."

The seats reserved for this special student-father section are on the west side of the stand, near the cheering section, and include some of the best seats in the stadium.

COLLEGE IS BANQUET, H. WINSLOW DECLARES

"College is a twelve course banquet with trimmings thrown in, but life tends to become one long diet of oatmeal porridge," says Horatio Winslow '04, in his new serial, "The King of the Campus" recently started in the Liberty magazine, and which shows how a man was beaten by success.

Mr. Winslow received both his A. B. and his M. A. here in the university and is known as a writer of short stories and feature articles. During the war he saw service in Archangel, Russia, and was awarded the Croix de Guerre by the French government for his record.

Mr. Winslow has been residing in France and Spain and he is now in Morocco writing fiction.

W. S. G. A. Parties to Feature Bridge, Mah Jongg, Dancing

Dancing, bridge and Mah Jongg will be features at the first of the regular W. S. G. A. Friday night dances which will be held from 7 to 8 o'clock tonight in Lathrop parlors.

"These informal Friday night parties are for all university women and particularly for those who do not dance or play bridge and who would like to learn," Clara Hertzberg '25, general chairman, said.

This is the second year that W. S. G. A. has held these meetings on Friday nights for the purpose of bringing about a closer relationship among the women on the campus.

Boa Constrictor Caught Here; On Display in Biology Building

A small boa constrictor, which traveled from the Caribbean islands in a banana stalk and was captured here by a fruit dealer, will be placed for exhibition in the main hall of the Biology building.

The announcement was made yesterday by Charles A. Weichert, custodian of the zoological exhibitions in the Biology building. The reptile, which was found by a local fruit dealer entwined about the stalk beneath a cluster of bananas, appeared rather tame and little difficulty was encountered in making it a captive.

"Our new addition may refuse to eat in captivity, but I shall try to induce him to eat mice and other rodents," Mr. Weichert said. The animal belongs to the smaller species of the reptile kingdom.

"I expect to put in a new showing of animals every Monday morning. This week garter snakes, are displayed, and later there will be rats, fish, turtles, crawfish and other forms of animal life. Garter snakes are not very useful, since they do not eat mice, but live wholly on coldblooded animals such as frogs and worms," Mr. Weichert added.

In connection with the displays, Professor George Wagner of the zoology department, is arranging a permanent display of specimens from the simplest form of animals to the most complex. Professor Wagner says that the department has plenty of specimens to furnish many interesting displays.

The botany department also has placed a display of specimens in the Biology building. Dr. Rollin H. Denniston is preparing a seed case and Dr. Edward M. Guibert has prepared a case containing various fungi, which will be displayed together with other botanical specimens.

LIT WILL APPEAR UNDER NEW NAME

Change of Title to Accompany Change in Policy, Says Miller

The Wisconsin Literary magazine will have a new name.

"Due to the more or less ill success of the Lit during the past few years, the students have become prejudiced against it, so it has been decided to change the name to one more fitting the new policy of the magazine," Rice Miller '26, circulation manager, announced yesterday.

The Lit is to be a magazine which, although purely literary, will contain more of general interest to the students as a whole. In order to make the entire paper of student interest, the staff has opened a contest to select the new name. This contest will last until October 15 and all students are eligible.

The names are to be submitted to John Weimer '25, Harland Gilbert '25, business manager or to Rice Miller, and a winning name will be selected by them. If, however no name which expresses the true policy of the paper is found, the magazine will continue under its present title. The winner of the contest will receive a prize of $5.

The change in the name follows as a result of the complete change in organization which has taken place under the present management. The new Lit will endeavor to have a broader appeal and to interest a greater number of students.

ELECTION BULLETINS TO BE RUN AT MOVIES

In order to encourage citizens to vote, motion picture bulletins will be shown on the screens in most of the Wisconsin theaters. The films will be displayed by the Motion Picture Theater Owner's state organization and will be shown in Madison at the Parkway, Strand and Madison theaters during the three weeks preceding the November elections. The film does not favor any candidate, the owners announced.

UNION AT MICHIGAN IS VITAL IN STUDENT LIFE

The Michigan Union building representing an outlay of $1,240,822.88 acts as the community center for Michigan men. All men students are members of the union. It cooperates always in advancing the welfare of university life. In 1920-21 alone there were 1,756 dinners and meetings held in the union building. It is estimated that 5,000 men pass in and out of the main entrance each day. The government of the union is vested in the board of directors and the board of governors. The board of directors has charge of all the activities and conduct of the union.

These informal Friday night parties are for all university women and particularly for those who do not dance or play bridge and who would like to learn," Clara Hertzberg '25, general chairman, said.

This is the second year that W. S. G. A. has held these meetings on Friday nights for the purpose of bringing about a closer relationship among the women on the campus.

DOLLARD TO MAKE STUDY OF UNIONS

Will Investigate Social Prob- lems of Leading American, Canadian Universities

A careful and comprehensive survey of the social problems of the university and their possible solutions will begin today when John Dollard '22 leaves on a three weeks inspection tour of leading Canadian and eastern American universities.

The survey is being conducted under the direction of a special committee on the social needs of the university recently appointed by President Birge and consisting of Professors Max Mason, chairman, C. S. Slichter, Otto Kowalek, Scott H. Goodnight, H. C. Bradley, J. D. Phillips, and John Dollard.

Dollard, who is secretary of the committee, will confer with the presidents of all institutions with particular reference to dormitories and union buildings and the correlation at present existing between the two. He will interview also many faculty members and undergraduates interested in the general problem.

The itinerary of Dollard's trip will include Northwestern university, the University of Chicago, the University of Michigan, The University of Toronto, Cornell university, Dartmouth college, Harvard university, Yale university, Columbia university, Princeton university and the University of Pennsylvania. Dollard will return to Madison, October 25.

The report of Dollard's findings to the social needs committee will form an important preliminary step in the general program of the board of regents for dormitory construction.

International Club To Discuss Plans At Meeting Tonight

The International club will hold its first meeting of the year tonight in the Lathrop concert room. Plans for the current year will be discussed.

The club was organized in 1903. Since then it has attained a local membership of 50 students and has founded 50 other national societies in various universities. Throughout the world war the society kept together and now is flourishing.

Its object is said to encourage social and intellectual intercourse among students of all nationalities. Membership is restricted to the foreign students themselves and to those of their United States friends who are particularly interested in the group. Honorary members are President Birge, Dr. Percy Dawson, Prof. C. G. Dittmer, Professor Leonard, Dean Slichter, Mr. Wolf, and Mr. L. C. Zucker.

ADVISES GREEN THEME PAPER TO EASE EYES

Belying the rumor that perhaps Professor O'Shea has sentimental reasons in desiring themes to be handed in written on green theme paper, he explains that he has the welfare of the students in mind, and demands this for purely hygienic reasons. There is a lot of writing to be done in his classes, and he believes that green paper is easier on the eyes.

350 SIGN UP TO SUPPORT DEBATES

Three Societies to Hold Initial Meetings Tonight; Expect Big Turnout

After an active campaign in which over 350 students signified their desire to support forensics, Hesperia, Athenae, and Agricultural literary societies will hold their first meetings of the year tonight. Philomathia held its initial meeting last week and will continue its forensic activities by giving a regular program.

"Special invitations have been sent out to the 350 students who answered the questionnaires presented by the Forensics board during registration week," declared William Blake '25, president of Athenae. "Because of this unprecedented interest it is expected that a large number of students will attend the first meeting of the societies. This year will see the re-vival or death of forensics."

In Athenae, William Haber, '19, a former joint debater, will talk on "The La Follette Candidacy." Because of Senator La Follette's former relations with Athenae, this talk is expected to be one of the features of the program. Forensic subjects will be discussed by Glen Bell '26, Henry W. Blake L2, and Harold Beeman '26.

Commenting on the forensic outlook in Hesperia, Frank Stuart '25, president of the society, declared that the programs this year will consist of mock trials, mock senate sessions, orations, and discussions on vital current topics.

"To join the society a student must apply for membership, and give a two minute talk before the society," Stuart declared. "The subject for a discussion of this kind is optional. Prospective members will not be judged on their ability alone, but on their desire to become proficient."

Charles Greco '24, Ralph Axley L3, George J. Fiedler '25, Harry J. Katowitz L3, and Leslie Peard '26 will speak in Hesperia.

In Philomathia the program consists of a debate on the proposition, Resolved: that a Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway be constructed immediately on the plans submitted by the international commission.

The affirmative will be upheld by Harold J. Sporer '25. George Mitchell '25 will debate the negative. Short talks on present day problems will be given by prospective members.

Hesperia, Athenae, and Philomathia meet in Bascom hall, while Agricultural literary convenes in the auditorium of Agricultural hall.

Deutscher Verein in New Quarters Entertains Guests

Holding its first meeting of the year in the new German house last night the Deutscher Verein club welcomed its last year's members and a number of guests. Miss Ernst, of the German department, welcomed the arrivals.

Following a short speech by E. A. Mohme, president of the club, Professor A. R. Hohlfeld, head of the German department, extended the official welcome. Professor and Mrs. Hagen, of the University of Gottingen, and who are visiting here through the Carl Schurz foundation, were given a welcome greeting by Professor Hohlfeld.

Miss Boll '27 and Mr. Owen played a duet, which was followed by a solo from Miss Boll. Charades and refreshments concluded the evening.

Tryout Dates For Co-ed Glee Club Set For Next Week

Tryouts for vacancies in the university women's glee club will be held at 4:30 o'clock next Monday and Tuesday in 35, Music hall, according to the announcement made last night by Esther Nelson, '25, president of the club.

Officials of the club are urging that all interested be prompt in appearing for tryouts. Every girl in the university is eligible to membership, according to Miss Nelson.

Much favorable comment was received last year from civic luncheon clubs, where entertainments were given. Tentative plans are being made for a spring concert.

Martha Biehufer was named secretary of the club, and Mildred Anderson was elected chairman of the publicity department at a recent meeting.

C. I. P. A. ISSUES LARGER MAGAZINE

"Scholastic Editor" Was Off Press Wednesday; Bleyer, Johnson Contribute

The first issue of "The Scholastic Editor" for this year, which came off the press yesterday, marks another distinct advance in the growth and progress of the magazine which was started three years ago as the official organ of the Central Interscholastic Press association.

A new and attractive cover and eight additional pages over last year's 24 are the outstanding changes in the makeup of the magazine. When the "Scholastic Editor" first appeared, it was a mimeographed sheet of eight or 10 pages which came out at irregular intervals. Last year the publication was printed for the first time and grew from a 16 to a 24 page monthly magazine full of all kinds of matter of interest to high school editors.

Among the contributors to the present issue are Dr. Willard G. Bleyer, director of the course in journalism; Prof. E. Marion Johnson, editor of the "Scholastic Editor," and Ellis G. Fulton '25. Dr. Bleyer's article is the first of a series treating of the history of journalism in the United States from the earliest times to the present day. The material for these articles is being drawn from a manuscript on "Main Currents in the History of American Journal-

"One of the Most Beautiful" Samuel Wofsy Says of Campus

That this university possesses one of the most beautiful campuses was the opinion expressed by Samuel Wofsy, of the Romance language department, yesterday.

"There is scarcely a campus in which students move about as much as they do here. In other schools it is merely a question of going from one entrance to another and climbing stairs. They lack that feeling of freedom and cheerfulness that prevails here."

"The University of Chicago with its Gothic buildings forming the ism" by Dr. Bleyer which will soon be published.

Of help to editors of high school year books is an article in which Ellis Fulton, editor of the 1925 Badger, explains how annual editors might profit by continuity in the organization of their staffs. He advises the creation of a permanent board.

The history of the Central Interscholastic Press association is traced in an account by Professor Johnson who manages the conventions which are held here every fall. Plans are already being made for this year's convention.

"A Case of Emergency," the story which won first place in the 1924 C. I. P. A. short story contest, is published in this number. Other departments of the magazine are devoted to book reviews, news from high schools everywhere, humor, helps, and hints.

famous quadrangles permeates a certain feeling of gloom, while the University of Virginia, with the buildings all representing a different style of architecture, gives an impression of disunity.

"Perhaps one of the loveliest campuses in the country is that of Washington and Lee university. Situated as it is between the Alleghany and Blue Ridge mountains, it has, of course, the advantage of a mountain setting."

Mr. Wofsy, in comparing North American campuses with those of Latin American countries, stated that as a rule they had no campuses and hence no so called college life. The buildings, usually situated in different parts of the cities, of course, makes for no arranged campus. The University of Havana is composed of white buildings of the rotunda type situated on a hill. The University of Porto Rico, half of which is in Rio Piedras and the other half of which is in Mayaguez, is American in type. The campuses are beautiful, and the buildings combine Spanish and American architecture.

Humane Society Heads Meet Thursday Night

Directors of the Dane County Humane society will hold their regular monthly meeting Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at the city library. Business matters of the society will be discussed according to H. S. Siggelko, secretary.

FRESHMAN WOMEN TO MEET DEANS

Individual Conferences Being Held For Discussion of University Problems

To know where all the freshman women are, that they are comfortable, and that they are happily located is the primary object of the conferences with new women, according to Alice Floyd Miller, freshman dean. F. Louise Nardin, dean of women, and the assistant deans, Mrs. C. B. Flett and Miss A. I. Hunt hold similar meetings with incoming sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

Although many of the freshman women seem to be terrified at the idea of a summons to the dean's office, they will find that it is just the place to come to talk confidentially and to question freely those complexities of university life which trouble the women entering college, Dean Nardin said.

In these conferences, Miss Miller said, we find that the girls usually have selected Wisconsin for one of two reasons. Either the splendid loyalty and enthusiasm of some graduate has shown them the desirability of Wisconsin life or intelligent surveyance of the academic work offered has convinced them of Wisconsin's worthiness.

Although only a small proportion of the 800 women have been interviewed, the girls have shown excellent responses and cooperation with the dean's office which is trying to help them in every way, Miss Miller added.

There are a million bicycles in Holland.

Haresfoot and Union Vodvil Dance Classes

Dancing classes for training in Haresfoot productions will open next Wednesday and will continue for 10 weeks or more. Regular exercises and instruction in the fundamentals of stage and chorus dancing will be taught by the same methods used by Ned Wayburn, producer of the "Ziegfeld Follies, and Jack Blue, producer of "Geo. M. Cohan Shows." The success of the dancing in "Twinkle Twinkle" was due in large part to the early training the men had in the classes last fall and winter.

The class will be open to all men in last year's show, all who intend to try out for 1925 production, and freshmen who expect to go out for future productions.

It is easy to pick a chorus of dancers from a group that has had systematic training by an experienced teacher with stage and professional experience.

DAILY REPORTS OF ALL BADGER TEAMS

ATHLETICS IN THE COLLEGIATE WORLD

VARSITY DEFENSE PREVENTS GAINS BY AMES PLAYS

Harris is Running Lower and Shows Improvement in Line Plunging

The varsity showed a distinct improvement in its defense against Ames plays as demonstrated by the all-Americans last evening and held them gainless, with the exception of two long passes that were completed for material gains.

On the offensive the cardinal-jerseyed boys ran into a stiffer proposition than they have been experiencing, and it required at least a dozen plays before Edie Williams tore off tackle for a counter.

Captain Harris showed marked improvement in his line plunging and hit the forward wall time after time, twice breaking away for long runs. He is running lower than before and should be almost sure of yardage in the games to come.

Three Men Out

Injuries kept Polaski, Solbraa and Leitl on the sidelines again, though none of the men is hurt very badly, and all of them are expected to be in good condition for the tilt Saturday.

Tomorrow the coach will throw wide the gates of Camp Randal to enable the public to see the team in action before the game. This is an innovation at Wisconsin, and Coach Ryan believes that a large and enthusiastic crowd will do a lot to bolster up the eleven's morale.

The coach continued to shift the entire lineup, and tried Kreuz, a short, stockily built redhead who carries himself as if he knew football, at fullback. The backfield was jiggled about from time to time, and is still subject to change, as Coach Ryan himself is not sure of the ability of several men.

Puddy Nelson and Stannard had the first call on the tackles, but were soon replaced by McMasters and Straubel. Stipek went in for Miller at right guard after a few minutes, and was in turn replaced by McCormick. At left guard Biebersen and Slaughter alternated, while the ends were held down first by Burrus and Blackman, and then by a brace of unknowns, one of whom is so from choice and the other from necessity.

Burrus Competes

The lanky boy from Louisville is taking full advantage of Solbraa's inactivity and is making a strong bid for the right end position, but if Solbraa and Polaski are in shape for the game Saturday it is probable that they will start.

The entire backfield put in a long workout with the bucking straps, while the line shoved the bucking ram all over the field. Work of this type has improved the squad a lot, and if the men continue to improve at the rate they have been progressing a formidable array will face Ames.

Masley to Start Tennis Activities at Meeting Today

Tennis will become one of the big sports at Wisconsin if the schedule decided upon by Coach Masley is carried to a successful completion. The fall season will open with a meeting of all men interested in freshman or varsity tennis. The meet will be held this afternoon at 4:30 in the trophy room of the gym.

The first plank in the program is a fall tournament in which Coach Masley desires all men to enter, so that he can get a line on their ability. He is planning on having both freshman and varsity squads and tournaments between squads.

Most of his time will be given over to the development of a team that should rank high in the conference.

FROSH CHEERLEADER CANDIDATES TO MEET

Frosh candidates for cheerleaders will meet at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the Alpha Chi Rho house, 524 North Henry street. "Shorty" Walsted will talk to them, giving them a few pointers.

OPEN PRACTICE IS AMES PEP-RAISER

Practice and scrimmage will be thrown open to university men and women and the public this afternoon as a pep-raiser for the second tilt of the season with the powerful Ames team tomorrow afternoon. Although no definite plans have been made for an organized march to the field, students are urged to go out to the field and watch the progress of practice work. Although the tasks will probably be light, there will be some animated scrimmage with Ames' plays in use by the all-Americans.

SO IT SEEMS

By Ken and Ken

Tonight Coach Ryan and his squad hold "Open house" to the student body and everyone will be allowed to watch practice and scrimmage to pep the team up for the Ames game tomorrow.

The bucking strap played its part again in last night's practice. One of the men dropped the ball as he hit the strap. "Hold that pigskin," yelled Ryan, "You can't make yards without the ball."

Six new men joined the all-Americans yesterday. "Come on Ames," called Ryan to the All-Americans when he was ready for the scrimmage.

Ames has written to T. E. Jones asking permission for the "twisters" to hold a pep parade between halves tomorrow. This organization follows the team on all of its games.

Polaski has been out of scrimmage for a couple of days, but will be back in the harness again tonight. "The fellows know that Wisconsin has opportunities to do something big this year," said Polaski, "and the men are working to make cause for a big celebration after the Chicago game."

The Ames colors are cardinal and old gold, but since Wisconsin will wear cardinal jerseys tomorrow, the Iowa players will wear old gold jerseys so the players may be distinguished.

Hopes for a soccer game with Minnesota this fall have been shattered by a letter received by Coach Schlatter from the Gopher institution saying that the expense of the new stadium has made it necessary for them to drop some sports for this year, soccer being one of them.

Nevertheless we see several soccer enthusiasts out on the lower campus every night kicking the inflated ball around.

Men Go Out and Make Good; Wisconsin Training Well Known

Stars of Wisconsin athletic teams are in ever-increasing demand as coaches and many former Badgers are now holding noteworthy positions in the coaching world, many of them in some of the most important universities, colleges, and high schools in the country. Wisconsin-trained athletes are continually in demand, and more and more they are making good in the field.

The coaching staff here boasts of quite a few of these wonder athletes. Helping Coach Ryan in football there is Sundt, a former all-conference fullback. Below, an all-American tackle, Gerber, a football and swimming star, and Nelson, another former football star.

In track and cross-country we have Mead Burke, one of the best track men ever turned out by Coach Jones. Coach Burke has done wonderful work with the Badger harrier teams. The present freshman basketball coach, George Levis, was an all-conference man on some of Coach Meanwell's championship fives.

Recent additions to the Badger coaching staff are Johnson who stroked Wisconsin's wonder crew last year, and Eschweiler, captain of water basketball last year.

Conference schools also have their quota of Wisconsin grads. Some of the biggest of these are Bob Zuppke, head football coach at Illinois. His teams at Illinois have won three conference championships and have tied for three others. Then there is Coach Wilce of Ohio State. Mr. Wilce played on both the Cardinal football and basketball teams, and he has made an enviable record at Ohio. Stiehm, who recently died, was formerly head of football at Indiana.

Harold Olsen, an all-conference basketball man, was formerly director of athletics at Ripon college, but is now in charge of the cage teams at Ohio State. At Iowa another Badger, Bresnahan, is in charge of track, and has turned out some wonderful teams, and also several Olympic champs. A recent addition to the Hawkeye football staff is "Rollie" Williams, who was a nine-letter man here.

The football reins at North Carolina university are now held by "Gus" Tebell, a man whom few students will ever forget. He was an all-conference end and was also swimming yesterday at the university pier and it wasn't George Martin either. Just to show us how much fun it was, he went down the chute.

There are easy days for "Cap" Isabel with nobody in the water. If some more of us inventive geniuses would construct amphibious Fords, business would pick up a little. We aren't just sure whether Confalon is the name of a disease, auto, or candy bar, but we do know that it's what the cross country squad is trying to win.

Frosh Late June Crew Races May Cut Year From Activity

A question in regard to freshman crew men who compete in spring competition after the close of school has been raised which is causing a great deal of discussion among crew coaches and athletic directors all over the country, especially among those who send teams to Poughkeepsie. Wisconsin, again established in the Hudson classic, is especially concerned in this controversy.

Says the Big Ten weekly: "But the fact remains that any university in the conference, under the rules, is allowed to enter in competition for these late June sports after college has closed, men who have just completed their freshman work. Under the wording of the rules they are technically sophomores.

"It was hoped that the conference committee would adopt a definite rule on late June competition that would be perfectly clear. Such a rule may be necessary if Wisconsin is to send a freshman crew to Poughkeepsie next June after the close of college. The conference does not allow freshman intercollegiate competition and if the Badger crew goes East with the understanding that they have become sophomores, it will rob them of competition in their senior year, for they will have had three boat races at Poughkeepsie before 1928, the spring of their graduation."

GIMME SEAT WITH LOTS'A NOISE, GIRL PLEADS IN LETTER

At last a university woman has demanded that she be given a footfall ticket in a section of the stadium where there is noise and lots of it.

Paul Hunter, director of the ticket sales, received the following impassioned plea from a Madison Miss in a letter ordering tickets:

"Kindly give me seats in some section where there's some CHEERING going on. I am not an alumnus, but I have attended the university and hope to graduate when I go back. Since I've been out of school I've had to sit in a section where the people look and act as if somebody had just died and when I get excited I shriek so that people around me look and wonder."

"Give me seats where they make NOISE."

"She got tickets that will put her 'midst the din."

EVENTS PLANNED IN WINTER SPORTS

Skating Lessons, Ski Hikes, Ice Carnival, Races Among Many Features

Extensive plans are being formed by the newly organized Winter Sports club, and by George Martin, head of winter sports this season.

Lessons in skating will be given this year, as they were last, under the supervision of Martin. He will also have charge of the ski hikes which are to be held twice a week.

A big ski meet, bigger than that of last season, will be repeated. The ice carnival which was quite a success, will again be held by the Winter Sports club. This will undoubtedly be the greatest event of the winter sport world. The carnival will be run along the same lines as in previous years. There will be speed races for both men and women, and a number of novelty stunts will add pep to the program.

An amount of money has been appropriated by the board of regents, the exact amount of which is not yet available. This money will be used in clearing off the rinks, and for other purposes along that line.

picked on many honorary basketball teams.

Bill Juneau is now at Tennessee, and Gene Van Gent is at Stanford. Al Buser was formerly head of the athletic department at Central high of St. Paul, and Wilders, one of the best pole vaulters Wisconsin has ever had, is doing good work at some Texas high school.

The normal schools of the state also have several former stars. Keyes is in charge at Platteville, Hancock at Eau Claire, and Keeler at La Crosse. E. M. Johnson is turning out fighting teams at Menomonie, and Gibson at Janesville and Cramer at Joliet high are doing the same.

The above mentioned men are rather a small percentage of those who have gone out from here and made good. These men have done their bit for Wisconsin, and are still working for their Alma Mater by occasionally sending promising material to help build future Badger teams.

Badger Captains
No. 6—Mac Simpkins

LaCrosse came in for its share of Badger captains when Mac Simpkins was selected to captain the Badger tank team. While in high school at LaCrosse Mac played on the school basketball team winning his letter the senior year.

At LaCrosse Mac met Gerber, another Badger star and these two boys worked out together in practicing dives.

When Mac came to the university he fell into Joe Steinauer's hands and became a member of the frosh tank squad where he showed up well in the dives and won his numerals.

Last year, Mac's first of Big Ten competition, proved to be a successful one for the titian haired

AMES IS STRONG, TICKETS ON SALE TODAY, TOMORROW

Seventeen Letter Men on Iowa State Grid Team This Year

With Ames here tomorrow all ready to do business with the Cardinal eleven, Badger coaches are recalling the big battle put up by Ames last year against Bill Spaulding's Minnesota regulars in one of the Gopher prelim games. Ames put up an unexpected showing and Minnesota only eked out a 20 to 17 victory after a terrific battle.

Student sale of seats for the Ames game tomorrow begins at 8 o'clock this morning, Mr. Hunter announces, and will be on sale until 6 o'clock tonight. The sale opens again at 8 o'clock tomorrow and pasteboards will be sold until 12 o'clock noon. After that all seats will be sold at the public rate of $1.50.

Only two men of last year's team are absent from this year's squad, and Ames comes here with 17 letter men on the list. Two of the Iowa stars are Johnnie Behm, open field runner and line-bucker, and Roberts, sensational forward passer. It is reported that Roberts can heave a perfect pass 50 yards. Larry Reuland, in making his series of sensational runs which netted a touchdown against the varsity the first of the week, followed Ames plays as scouted by Barney Traynor and Guy Sundt last Saturday.

5,019 SEATS SOLD FOR GOPHER GAME

Minnesota Students Increase Order From 1,200 to 4,000 Tickets

A total of 5,019 seats has been sold to Badger students so far for the Minnesota game, traditional battle for Wisconsin grididers, according to figures given out by Paul Hunter, director of ticket sales, last night.

This includes 3,619 tickets sold to students, 1,304 cheering section tickets, and 96 student and dad pasteboards.

The sensation of the sale for the Gopher game is that Minnesota has wired down for 4,000 tickets for the game this year, whereas in former years their demands have not exceeded 1,200 tickets. This will be the biggest crowd which has ever followed a Gopher grid team to a battle on foreign field. This would seem that Bill Spaulding and the Minnesota student body have something real to offer this year.

Although the Badger games with Michigan and Chicago are always hard-fought, the Minnesota tilt is the traditional grudge contest at Wisconsin. The two teams have played since 1898 and have met in 25 games. Of these Wisconsin has won 10, the Gopher 12, and three ended in a tie.

Minnesota has not scored on Wisconsin since 1919, and last year, the homecoming game, the contest ended in a scoreless tie after the ball had been pushed back and forth in midfield most of the game.

Mac was a consistent point winner all through the season, winning firsts in practically every dual meet and having to his credit triumphs over Bird and Frantier, two stellar divers at Minnesota university. After defeating these two men in dual meets Mac was again a misdeal at the conference meet when both these men won from the diminutive Badger star.

After the close of the swimming season Mac topped off the year by his famous performance of the fire dive given in connection with Venetian night. He with Gerber were the stars of the evening as the death defying act is one demanding great skill.

This year the diving captain is out to lead his team mates to a Big Ten championship, and with the addition of some valuable men from last year's frosh squad the tank men should have a successful year.

OPEN PRACTICE TODAY

When it was announced last Saturday at the North Dakota game that henceforth all football practices would be a secret with the exception of Friday afternoon, when onlookers would be admitted at 5 o'clock, a few sport lovers who follow the daily progress of the squad were disappointed. They like to go out to Camp Randall every afternoon, watch the scrimmages, and gossip about athletics while they neglect their books.

It wasn't because of an aptitude for contrariness, however, that Coach Ryan layed down the law about no spectators at practices, but because it is in the best interests of the team. Everyone understands that. The trouble is that there isn't enough of a desire on the part of the student body to know how their team is getting along, and consequently very few really care whether they can go out to the field or not. They are satisfied with going to the games every Saturday, and think that thereby they are doing their share to support the team.

The open practice every Friday afternoon is the important clause in this secret practice ruling, at least from the standpoint of the students generally. It is then that a big crowd is expected at the field, and the time is purposely put on Friday so that the boys may be encouraged just before each game. They know that it is to be an open practice, and following some of the pep parades out to the field that have been held in the past, they will be on the lookout for a throng of rooters. They will be a bit on edge because of the next day's game, and the moral encouragement that a big turnout can give will just put them in the proper mood to play their best.

Today is the occasion of the first open practice under the new schedule. Of course there will be a fairly decent sized crowd on the sidelines, composed of those old faithfules who have been chafing for a chance to get out there all week. But those upon whom the team will have to depend to swell the numbers of their visitors are the big majority of non-experts, the crowd which wants to see the team do its best, and has enough Wisconsin spirit to devote an hour to the cause this afternoon.

TEACHERS AS FRIENDS

Primitive education was miles ahead of our modern machine-like system of schooling as far as individual efficiency and inspiration is concerned. The present method is designed for the masses, with the maximum number of diplomas and degrees as the chief end in view; the best name for the system is mass production.

The original idea of education was the disciple idea. That is the first father taught the first child; that is how our parents started our education, and how we learned the best and dearest lessons we have had; that is how Socrates taught Plato, and how the Man of Galilee inspired His twelve; that is the way that a young boy in oriental countries today receives an religious education; and in rare instances the disciple method of teaching and learning is the means by which really great students are developed in our western universities. In a few cases, exceptions to the general rule, a student and a teacher develop such close affiliations and friendship that the latter's life and principles have a powerful influence on the pupil, and education becomes something more than a mere acquiring of facts.

The greater a professor is, and the more popular he becomes through his greatness, the less chance is there for his students to get to know him. It is foolish to suppose that a lecturer in any of the crowded courses on the hill here can even recognize the faces of more than a few in his audiences. There are far too many for him to become personally acquainted with everyone. And yet these professors are the very ones who have the most to offer, through the richness of their past experiences and personal character, and they can't possibly unload all this wealth of personality in the lecture room.

This human touch that comes from personal contact between teachers and pupils is, however, one of the chief opportunities that a school holds out to those who enroll in its classes. It is something that cannot be enjoyed by everyone, but as the big majority seems to prefer to keep shy of their professors anyway, there is no actual difficulty. Anyone who desires to become personally acquainted with a member of the faculty will almost always find that his own friendship will also be appreciated. And such friendships are not hard to form. They may start through an unusually good recitation or piece of work, or from a manifest desire to do a little more than a course requires, or even from a friendly and unrestrained conversation between the instructor and his pupil.

Most teachers appreciate being spoken to on the street, or being invited to fraternity and sorority functions, or being asked for personal advice and help. Such little things do much to improve the general feeling between faculty and student body, and they always hold out the possibility of leading to a strong personal friendship that would be of utmost value to both parties.

Notes From a Dean's Clinic

By G. C. SELLERY

4. VACANT PERIODS

College days are usually the happiest in one's life. There is no doubt about it when they are viewed in retrospect. The coming together into one large community of young people, full of life and hope, eager for wholesome study and play, and capable of both, is a perennial phenomenon of the college city which turns autumn into springtime.

These observations will introduce a topic which has, superficially considered, all the earmarks of irrelevancy and aridity. It is not so. The manner in which vacant periods are used often settles the question of happiness in a college career. The proper use of them releases time for play, for "outside activities," for attendance at university functions, and gives as well the contentment of duty well performed.

The university program involves many vacant periods. A class at nine, another at eleven. What of the hour between? It is easy to loaf around in that hour or to "go down and get a malted." Other vacant periods offer similar opportunities. These hours are usually available for study. Usefully employed in preparation for future class exercises, they offer freedom later in the day or week. Wasted, they tie up the student and deprive him of larger opportunities for relaxation, diversion, or gainful employment.

Contrast the purposeful use of spare hours the week before examinations. Note the speed, the concentration with which one works, the ease with which difficulties are surmounted under the stimulus of necessity. The moral? Use some of this latent power in vacant periods, get the habit, and worthwhile activities will not call without response for competent recruits, nor will college seem a vain thing.

Lovers of Trees
Offered Course in General Forestry

In cooperation with the university the Forest Products laboratory is offering a course in general forestry. Prof. Harry D. Tiemann, physicist and expert in kiln drying, is in charge of this course, which is open to all students. It is intended for tree lovers and those desiring to become acquainted with the native trees and the general forest conditions of the country.

Until late in fall the students of the class will take short field trips about the campus to observe the distinguishing characteristics of trees, and to obtain as many different leaf specimens as possible. During unfavorable weather Professor Tiemann will lecture on forest conditions and physiology, forest policy and history, and the different uses of woods.

The work of the second semester is more technical. It includes the identification and utilization of wood as a material. The two semesters are independent of one another, but they form a logical sequence of studies. The first semester of the work is Course 1, forestry and utilization of wood, and the second is known as Course 102, wood technology. Each course allows two credits.

MEN FIND WORK THROUGH Y. M.

Care of Children is Newest For mof Employment Offered Students

Caring for children is the newest kind of work offered to university men seeking part time employment, according to the Y. M. C. A. employment office.

Jobs have been applied for by more than 625 students. Fifty-three calls for steady jobs requesting from two to ten men for each job have been received and more than 100 odd jobs employing one or two men each have been supplied to applicants.

Besides the common jobs of waiting on tables or dishwashing, there have been calls for all sorts of experienced men. Barbers, drug-store clerks, physical directors for grade school work, bookkeepers, stenographers, bell boys and desk clerks for hotels, tailors, orchestra men, shoe clerks and elevator operators have been a few of the varied list of calls received.

The biggest demand however has been for salesmen.

The minimum wage paid is 40 cents an hour, but often the men are paid as much as 50 cents.

Between $5,000 and $6,000 has been raised in Dane county so far for the La Follette-Wheeler campaign, according to Herman W. Sachjen, county finance committee chairman.

YOU WITH THE FOOTBALL APPETITES!

Football—the supreme spectacle!

Tomorrow Wisconsin meets Iowa State College (Ames) in the second of the season's games. Everywhere over the land there are other games—some of little moment—but football! Ever since August we've heard about "eligibility," "line material," "backfield prospects," and "Wisconsin chance"—

And now all the pent-up interest of late summer and early fall is beginning to let loose—in pilgrimage to Football, the supreme spectacle!

Pulses will quicken and cheeks glow as the thousands of Randall-bound folk surge out University avenue in the crisp air of late autumn. The same thousands will fill the stadium with deep, rolling "locomotives" and return after "Varsity" with appetites that will make a hundred-odd cooks scurry.

But the keener the appetite, the keener the taste, and the wise ones will stop in at the University Cafeteria.

Bring your "football appetite" over tonight and treat it to these incomparable waffles—for tonight is waffle night!

Athletes and Proteins

Eminent doctors in the field of food research have assured us that the amount of protein a person needs daily may be determined fairly definitely and that this does not vary with one's activity. The primary purpose of protein in the diet is to repair the body tissue which is constantly being worn out. Protein cannot be stored in the body except in the case of a few instances as in the case of the growing child who is building new tissue. The athlete, too, is constantly putting on new muscle tissue with its aid. Any surplus must be burned or oxidized in the body and the end-products of digestion eliminated, chiefly through the kidneys.

Stratford Clothes

"The new order of things" — a phrase now famous throughout the country — was invented by Capper & Capper to describe their installation of Stratford Clothes.

America's smartest men's shop sought America's smartest men's clothing — finest woolens, superlative style, most thorough hand tailoring.

They found it in Stratford Clothes.

In Madison, Stratford Clothes are displayed by the Co-op.

METHODISTS TO HAVE STEAK FRY SATURDAY

The social activities of the University Methodist church will be started Saturday with a steak fry at Daisy field near Blackhawk cave.

The purpose of the hike and supper is to further acquaintanceship between new students and upperclassmen, according to Mary Storer '27. Students will meet at Wesley Foundation church at 2:30 o'clock and will hike out to Blackhawk in a body. Baseball and other sports will occupy the afternoon.

Arrangements are being made for a group to hike out after the football game in the afternoon. Those intending to go should sign up at Wesley church or call B. 2858.

MENORAH HOLDS OPENING MEETING

Open $50 Prize Essay Contest
For Best Writing on Jewish Subject

"Menorah attempts to give to the Jewish students an understanding of his relations to his neighbors," said William H. Lipman '25, president of the Menorah society, in outlining the aims and purposes of the organization at the opening meeting held Wednesday evening at Lathrop parlors. "Menorah attempts to show how non-Jew and Jew can work together most harmoniously and productively in forming an ideal Americanism." Approximately 300 persons were present at the first Menorah meeting.

Announcement was made of the Menorah essay contest. A prize of $50 will be awarded to the student submitting the best essay on any Jewish subject. The contest is not limited to Jewish students, but is open to any student on the campus. The essays will be judged by members of the English department acting with one Jewish member of the faculty. May 1 is the time limit set for getting in the essays.

Dean Goodnight in an address to the students defined college spirit, pointing out that it consisted of more than noise and cheering and went deeper into loyalty and service.

"There is another side of culture besides that which is found in books," said Prof. Selig Perlman, faculty adviser of Menorah, "and that has to do with the solving of social problems. The Jew always strikes a high note in his attitude on public questions. Menorah aims to help the student understand what it means to be a Jew, and by making more clear his relation to his neighbors, help him in the solving of social problems."

Ruth Persson '27 played several violin selections, accompanied by Miss MacGregor at the piano.

MERRIMAN SPEAKS ON RELIGIOUS LEADERSHIP

Prof. Curtiss Merriman of the department of education opened the Madison community training school Wednesday at the Esther Vilas hall of the Y. W. C. A. He spoke to representatives of 18 Madison churches, expressing the need for training religious leadership among the younger people to meet the growing challenge of the present-day social and religious problems. The meeting was the first of a series to meet every Tuesday at the Y. W. C. A. for the next ten weeks.

The training school faculty will consist of Prof. W. L. Uhl of the education department, Frank Cockrell, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., the Reverend Howard Hare, director of religious education at the Wesley foundation, E. R. Stiver of the university, Miss Rosette Reese of the city library, and Mrs. L. B. Cockrell.

Y. M. JUNIOR COUNCIL PLANS TO VISIT FROSH

Truly College--

Traditions of the great Universities are reflected in the clothes of their favored sons. College men as a class are admittedly among the best dressed groups in American life. The true university man can always be identified by his clothes.

Among the leading tailors of collegiate clothing is D. T. Langrock of New Haven. For approximately thirty years he has been making clothes for the well dressed men at Yale and other large Eastern Universities. He specializes in clothes for University men, making only one model in suits and two in overcoats, but these are the correct ones. We represent Langrock at Wisconsin.

Come in and smoke it over with us.

CRIBBERS MUST MAKE UP CREDITS

Students Found Cheating Are Penalized By Disciplinary Committee

"The reason that many students try to cheat is that they come from high schools where it is easy to 'get by'. Freshmen are warned of university discipline at the beginning of first year English. If they plagiarize they must make up extra credits," commented Professor Ray S. Owen on the action of the disciplinary committee Wednesday. The action has yet to be approved by the faculty.

One senior was acquitted. Two Letters and Science juniors who cribbed in English examinations must make two extra credits before they graduate. Last June the physics department was kind enough to send examination questions to a junior ill in the infirmary. When he returned his blue book he had quoted passages from the text with such extreme accuracy and length that the committee decided he must earn five extra credits before graduation. A Letters and Science freshman who cheated in an English examination last June was fined two credits.

All of the fines carry with them disciplinary probation, which means that the student cannot take part in campus activities for the current semester.

Two of the students committed their offenses a year ago and left school when told they had to appear before the committee. This fall when they wanted to enter the university again, they found they could not register until the committee had dealt with their cases.

The committee meets every Wednesday evening in the journalism seminary room in South hall. It consists of Professors Ray S. Owen, George I. Kemerer, Harold C. Bradley, R. W. West, and Bayard Q. Morgan.

EVANGELICAL STUDENTS WILL HOLD RECEPTION

All Evangelical students and their friends are invited to attend a reception at 8 o'clock tonight in Albright hall of the First Evangelical church at the corner of West Johnson street and Wisconsin avenue. The hall will be decorated. A program has been arranged and refreshments are to be served. At the close of the evening "Miniature Orpheum" scenes will be staged. All students will be welcome.

A Beautiful Fraternity House For Sale

The lovely Theta house, located on Irving Place, is available for purchase

This is one of the best houses at Wisconsin, and will make an ideal home for any sorority or fraternity that wants a new chapter house equal to the best at Wisconsin.

This house was built for a fraternity house, and is not a made-over rooming house. It has large club rooms and dining rooms, and is ideally arranged for dancing. It is magnificently decorated and has as beautiful interiors as any house on the campus.

The sleeping quarters are splendid, the bath rooms are large, and the heating system is steam—just new.

This house is located close to the campus, and the neighboring chapter houses are among the oldest and best Greek letter societies at Wisconsin.

The policy of the Theta Sorority has always been to carry a very large chapter, and for this reason they are building a large new home. This is the only reason that they are leaving their present lovely home.

I own this house and will sell it to a fraternity or sorority for much less than the building alone would cost today. I will require only a small down payment, and the balance can be paid in ten monthly installments—just like rent. The room rent alone will more than pay for the house, for I will not require any larger payments than you would have to pay out in rent on a house not as good as this.

This is an opportunity for a fraternity or sorority to buy a magnificent house direct from the owner on easy terms. Write or call for additional information.

Hardy's "Tess" is Modernized For Picture Audience

BY A. S. G.

This famous story of Thomas Hardy's, which was once a vehicle for Mrs. Minnie Mader Fiske, has been modernized to suit the sophisticated tastes of the movie fan of today. In its up-to-date garb it is less plausible than it was formerly.

Blanche Sweet, who plays Tess, does some very good work, especially in the murder scene, although in other parts of the picture she is somewhat over-emotional. Conrad Nagel offers good support as the emotional hero.

Stuart Holmes plays the villain, Alec D'Urberville, in his usual suave manner.

While there are several deviations from the original story, the picture is well arranged and is interesting even to those who have not read the book or seen the play. The plot drags somewhat, but the interest revives in spots. On the whole, it is a good picture. The settings give glimpses of the beautiful English countryside.

H. C. Witwer's popular "Telephone Girl" is the comedy, which is full of laughs and thrills. The subtitles furnish most of the laughs, and an exciting automobile ride offers the thrills.

The Daily-Cardinal-Strand movies of the frosh welcome are being shown for the rest of the week. Pictures of the rush will be featured next week.

THEATERS PLAN WEEK'S SHOWS

By H. E. R.

In this annual Fall race for theater popularity, the shows will prevent another week of good features that ought to fill our spare moments very nicely.

For instance, the Strand is bringing a feature here for the entire week that could hardly be scorned. "The Sea Hawk", considered Milton Sill's best piece of work will make a good bid for patronage. Enid Bennett and Wallace Beery are co-stars in this "dramer" of olden days and "the high seas". Pictures of the class rush will also be shown, and should give the upperclassmen a good giggle.

Then the Parkway is going to feature Johnny Hines in "The Speed Spook", and, knowing Johnny, one could hardly say that the show will not be a good vent for a lot of laughs, and a good place to get rid of the blues of homesickness, etc. Mary Boland is coming Friday and Saturday in a new comedy, "Meet the Wife", and Mr. Neilan says, "You will like it". The latter is a legitimate stage show, and will be the first of the one-a-month big shows that will be scheduled for the Parkway.

Monte Blue and Beverly Bayne will open the week at the Madison in "The Marriage Vow", and Wednesday will find our friend of "Sinners in Heaven", Bebe Daniels, appearing with Norman Kerry in "Daring Youth". We haven't any "dope" on either of these, but the casts look good.

A new leading lady, Miss Dixie Dow, and a new heavy, Dan Gallagher, will begin their careers in Madison at the Majestic. The show, "The Mad Honeymoon", will be a farce, and as we think that Madison has a good stock company compared to some that we have seen we are all for giving the show encouragement.

Donald Kerr and Effie Weston in "The Flip and The Flapper" and Mildred Andree and Girls will be headliners at the Orpheum in the first part of the week. The features of the second half are not known yet due to a chance in programs.

By the way, Mr. Neilan of the Parkway announced today that "The Ten Commandments" will appear here in December. Bravo.

Plan to Examine Smoke Inspectors Here Soon

Dr. Edward H. Drews, president of the police and fire commission, announced Wednesday that a special meeting of the commission will be called either late this week or next week to conduct an examination of applicants for the position of city smoke inspector.

'S Funny how these theatrical people hate publicity when the pinch comes. It seems practically impossible for us to get the dope on that "super-announcement" we promised. They just won't come across. And they're good friends of ours, too.

But then, you can wait. * * *

Don't think, though, that this suspense—if it is suspense—is nothing more than a publicity stunt. For it isn't.

Some good shows are on the boards in Chicago. "7th Heaven" seems to be starting out with a bang along with "In the Next Room," one of the latest mystery plays, which are ever with us.

And now Walter Hampden is in the city with his New York success, a revival of Cyrano de Bergerac. That's almost worth making the trip to Chicago to see.

What do you think of the Daily Cardinal-Strand moving pictures? This column invites communications from its readers and would like to have some suggestions on the new feature film.

By the way, we see the Strand is starting "Tess". Seems to us that "Tess" has probably been produced by more directors than any other classic of the English language. We remember seeing the screen version of this story away back in 1910 or so, and it has been filmed almost every two years since then by one producer or another.

We're going to see this latest version, you bet. But we're going, hoping against fear, that Hardy hasn't been murdered. He's still writing, and it would be too bad to cut off that grand author before his time.

Yet in a way, he's been murdered before by the crowd out in Hollywood and maybe he can stand it again. But he must have nine lives.

Buster and Tige Draw Full Houses at Shows

More than 500 children attended the Buster Brown and Tiger Show at the Palace theater Tuesday afternoon, given free by the Schenk-Huegel department store or Atwood ave.

Children came from all over the city, and so many filled the theater that two shows had to be given. At least 100 youngsters were turned away from the doors because of the lack of space.

At the end of the second show, Buster Brown was too tired and Tige had already smoked too many cigars to put on a third show.

The Schenk-Huegel Co. plans to have Buster and Tige come again soon.

Monte Blue Fools Movie Fans By Not Being Respectable

H. J. B.

"Being Respectable" is what we film goers are likely to anticipate of Monte Blue. He fools the public at the Madison this time, however, and much to the amazement of the audience (and himself) finds he is engaged to the girl of his father's choice, but a few minutes after a passionate love tete-a-tete in the garden with His Choice.

Monte is a good sport, marries papa's selection, and poses happy for four years. He comes upon HER suddenly, forgets duty, makes love all over again, and promises to sacrifice everything for their mutual happiness.

The curly-haired little son of his is finally responsible for another change of mind. At the second crucial moment he deserts HER again, and true to his reputation, Monte finds "Being Respectable" the most chivalrous way out.

As a Shiek, Monte does his stuff—surprisingly!

Flotilla Orchestra Wins Audience at Orph Last Half

By Leo John

It's hard to talk about anything at the Orph this half but Harry A. Yerkes' Famous Flotilla Orchestra, with Dick Barton as conductor. They call themselves masters of dance rhythm and exponents of classical jazz. You won't want to dispute their right to the titles.

Martin & Martin

Aerialists, male and female. The former must be rubber-jointed, and the latter shows her stuff, too. Besides she's god looking.

Brown & Elaine

They call it "The Fatal Wedding". Nut stuff that gets by big, although some of it isn't "nice." They sing songs all about "Here Comes the Bride" and "There Goes the Groom."

Geo. M. Fischer & Hurst—Honey

Theirs is yept "Hats and Things." Verra funny. The Hurst part does the kind of singing in which the voice doesn't matter much. Her program seems like an old song revival.

Mayor Recommends Reduction of Parking Space Around Capitol

Changes in the traffic ordinance reducing the restricted parking area around the capitol park district from three to two blocks, will probably be asked of the common council at its next meeting, it was intimated by Mayor I. M. Kittleson Wednesday.

Under the present ordinance no parking is permitted around the capitol park within a radius of three blocks except where spaces are marked. A great deal of complaint has been heard on this section of the traffic law.

"I believe that the law takes in too much territory around the square," Mayor Kittleson said. "An amendment to reduce this distance from three blocks to two would serve the purpose. Under the present clause, parking is restricted to Langdon, Broom and Wilson sts."

All parked cars on the north side of Doty st., from King to Hamilton sts., must be placed at an angle to the curb and those on the south side of the street parallel to the curb, according to action taken by the traffic committee at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon.

Hilbert raided the Theodore Runte elevator at Hilbert yesterday and discovered fifteen gallons of alleged moonshine. A search warrant had been issued in Chilton.

LEAGUE O. K.'S PEACE PROTOCOL

Assembly Sanctions Plan After Woman Makes Impassioned Plea

GENEVA — The fifth assembly of the League of Nations today concluded its work of peace by the unanimous adoption of a resolution urging that all governments ratify the protocol of arbitration and security, providing for the peaceful settlement of international disputes.

The memorable debate before the league which closed with the adoption of the resolution ended on the dramatic note of a woman's plea that war be forever banished because "its first victim is always the child."

The speaker was Mrs. Helen Swanwick of Great Britain, the last of the delegates to mount the rostrum before the voting. Before introducing her President Motta declared:

"You will all agree with me, my fellow delegates, that it is most fitting that a representative of the world's womanhood should be the last speaker to adhere to our achievement of peace."

Mrs. Swanwick spoke gently and in low tones and yet her voice carried to every corner of the huge auditorium as she sorrowfully sketched the woe caused to humanity by past years. Women, the world over, she declared, abhorred vengeance and detested war.

Fifty-seven delegations supported the resolution and no state represented abstained from voting.

The most important clauses of the protocol are those which interpret and strengthen the league of nations covenant, provide a system for the fining of an aggressor state, and machinery for the arbitration of all and any disputes which may arise, thus paving the way for that which former Premier Briand in his speech today called "making war on war."
