LEGION OPENS EMPLOYMENT BUREAU HERE

Permanent Office Located in Armory Registers
50 Men

15 SECURE POSITIONS

Madison legionaires who mobilized on a job-hunting drive for unemployed ex-service men as their part of the nation-wide American Legion Employment day have opened a permanent bureau with an office at the armory for all men who wish to register for jobs on Saturday afternoons.

"More than 50 men, three of whom were students, have so far applied for work," asserted Joe Daggett, overseas veteran of the William S. Cairns post.

15 Men Find Work

"About 15 of these men have so far received employment. It is not our intention to limit the work to only a few days when so many men have expressed their desire for assistance. The bureau will continue as long as there is any demand for the service."

The University Legion post, although not yet participating in the work now being carried on by the Madison post, will be called upon to carry out the job-hunting drive and help keep open the office on Saturday afternoons.

Missing Good Opportunity

Eric R. Miller, weather forecaster here, pointed out an opportunity that former service men are overlooking in government civil service examinations.

"Former service men, including those who were enrolled only in the S. A. T. C.," he said, "not only are not required to make as high a grade as others, but those who pass are placed at the head of the list. Others are appointed when there are no other service men ahead of them."

"There are many positions in the weather bureau all over the country now filled by temporary employees who will be replaced as fast as others pass the regular examinations. These present incumbents were appointed to places vacated by those who enlisted during the war."

SEAMAN WRITES PROGRAMS FOR BASKET TOURNEY

Bloecher and Lewin Contribute Stories on Meanwell
and Jones

A program that will interest university fans as well as competing high school basketball players has been prepared for the seventh annual state championship basketball tournament by Cedric E. Seaman '23, chairman of the committee.

Programs will be off the press this afternoon and will be ready for sale when the first game of the tourney is played at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the gym.

Two pages of jokes with a sporty background have been compiled with illustrating cuts. A double page picture of a Varsity basketball game is also included in the magazine.

William F. Bloecher '22 has written an article on Coach Walter E. Meanwell, "Maker of Basketball Champions," and Charles J. Lewin '23, has contributed a story of Coach Thomas E. Jones.

An innovation in the program is a chart enabling fans to keep the scores of games and the records of teams.

WOMEN VOTERS HEAR TALK BY STATE WORKER

League Efforts Bent Toward Welfare Work, Says
Miss Dumke

That all efforts of the League of Women voters are bent toward the welfare of women and children was the statement made by Miss E. Dumke, state organizer of women voters, in a talk before the Collegiate league Monday afternoon in the S. G. A. office.

"The amount of work the women are doing is marvelous," said Miss Dumke. "Where local organizations were doing good work before, after they have become united with the state and national organizations their work is three times greater."

Help Pass Laws

"In Indiana there were 18 amendments to be voted upon at a special election. The only one of these amendments that was accepted was the one for which the women worked."

Many splendid laws in Indiana have been a result of the efforts of organized women. Miss Dumke named the compulsory school attendance law, the mother guardianship law, and the Shepard-Towner law as illustrations of this. The minimum wage bill was supported but was not passed.

Wisconsin Needs Clubs

"Wisconsin is ahead of other states in many respects but it is behind in women's league organizations. Indiana has 120 such organizations, whereas Wisconsin has only 40. In many cases leagues cannot be organized because the women believe it is a party organ. This is not true at all. The women hope that by cooperation certain laws which will benefit other women and children can be passed."

"The women," Miss Dumke said, "played a prominent part in the disarms conference. A delegate was sent to President Harding with resolutions asking him to call such a conference. Later after it was called they asked for representation and as a result four women were placed on the advisory board."

Foreigners Say Wisconsin Has Lovely Co-eds

You have often wondered what he thought of Wisconsin, the brilliant little foreigner who sat in the back row and in his careful English delved into discussion of topics known only to the professor and himself.

Wisconsin mirrored through foreign eyes is the result of a series of articles by six foreign students in the March Lit, answering the question, "What Do You Think of Wisconsin?"

The beauty of the co-eds is stressed by some, others blame co-education for lack of education obtained here. One of the foreign women writing accuses the Wisconsin student of being cheerful, kindly, and intelligent; while a less generous man dubs them the most ignorant of students.

From South Africa to Iceland come the writers of the essays. They are as follows: Ismael Nathan '23, Philippine Islands; Axel Taranger '22, Norway; S. Van Der Meerwe '25, South Africa; Manuel Ortega '22, Spain; Bjorn Bjornson '22, Iceland; Anna Stoffregen, Latvia.

In addition to this feature the March Lit will run a Quotescop, or quotation guessing contest. On display in Brown's window can be seen the seven prizes offered, which include a Parody on the Outlines of History, by Donald Ogden Stewart; The Beautiful and Damned, by F. Scott Fitzgerald; Outlines of History, by H. G. Wells; The Memoirs of a Madget, by Walter de la Mare; Pyle's Book of Pirates; Queen Victoria, by Lytton Strachey, and The Way of All Flesh, by Samuel Butler.

Start Work on New Phi Psi House Today

Work on the new $40,000 lodge of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity begins today on the lot adjacent to the University club, and will be completed about the first of October.

The house will be completely new, including furnishings which will cost over $15,000. Skilled workmanship will be employed to make the lodge distinctive and elaborate.

The entrance to the new house, which is to be built on a moderately high terrace, will be on Sterling court. All the floors on the main floor will be of marble and the interior decorations are going to be artistic. An immense L-shaped ballroom will receive particular attention.

The building will be fire-proof and brick and tile in structure. The contract has been awarded to John H. Findorff & Son. Plans were prepared by Frank Riley.

TO CELEBRATE BABCOCK TEST

Inventor Will Speak Before
New Dairy Club
Tonight

An illustrated lecture on the Babcock Test will be given in Agricultural auditorium by Dr. S. M. Babcock, inventor of the test, this evening at 7:30 o'clock, according to an announcement of the Dairy club.

The Babcock test was invented in North hall in 1890. It is a simple accurate method of testing the butter fat in milk. Before its invention, no accurate means were known to test the quality of milk. "By means of the test, dairying has been developed from one of the most haphazard of industries to an exact and attractive business enterprise," declared Dean H. L. Russell.

Years after, the test was invented, motion pictures of the men who were instrumental in discovering the test were taken at the scene of the invention. Students who have not seen the picture will have an opportunity to hear Dr. Babcock explain how he happened to invent the test.

Dr. Babcock is the first of a series of prominent speakers which the new club is planning to bring to Madison. Alonzo E. Taylor, Dr. Caroline Hedger, Dr. E. V. McCullom, and many others of national fame as nutrition experts, economists, bacteriologists, and chemists will appear as guests of the club in the near future.

Ames, Nebraska and Cornell, as well as some of the smaller colleges, have Dairy Science clubs. Wisconsin—"The Leading Dairy State"—now has a flourishing organization also, which is fittingly named for the great dairy scientist, Babcock. About 20 men are members of the club, which is open to all students in the long and middle course who are interested in any phase of dairying.

"The aim of our club is to promote an interest in all sides of dairying, both scientific and economic," explained H. H. Sommer, newly elected president of the club. "We want to link up more closely the work of the chemist, of the bacteriologist, of the dairy husbandman and the dairyman. When we have all these forces cooperating, then a great future is in store for Wisconsin dairying."

The officers of the Babcock Dairy Science club are: H. H. Sommer, president; K. V. Bryan, vice-president; C. M. van der Riet, secretary and treasurer, and R. Thomas, custodian. Men interested in joining the club may make application for membership at the close of the meeting.

HIGH SCHOOLS WILL JUDGE IN STOCK CONTEST

18 Districts Send Delegates
To Annual Meet Held
Here

JUDGING STARTS FRIDAY

Students from 18 high school districts of Wisconsin will be the guests of the University of Wisconsin when they enter the state high school stock judging contest to be held in the university Stock pavilion Friday.

The event is an annual contest between the high schools of the state conducted under the auspices of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association and the College of Agriculture.

Local Contests Held

Wisconsin's agricultural high schools are divided into 19 districts containing from three to five schools each. Local elimination contests are held, and the winning team is permitted to enter the state contest.

In former years, the event was held during Farmer's week, but this year the event was postponed until the state basketball tournament, in order that the large number of students may take advantage of the reduced car fare rates, and see the basketball games that are held in the gymnasium.

Judge 12 Classes

Exactly 12 classes of live stock are to be judged, according to those in charge of the contest. They include four classes of dairy cattle, two beef cattle classes, two classes of horses, two groups of swine, and two classes of sheep. To win the contest is considered a very high honor. A silver cup is awarded to the winning team.

Dean James Has Charge

Officers in charge of the contest are: Dean John A. James, G. W. Davies of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association, T. L. Bewick, in charge of boys' and girls' club work, and J. W. Gehrand, state board of education.

High schools that will be represented in the contest are: Waterloo, Omro, Sheboygan, Viroqua, Boscobel, Ellsworth, Waukesha, Neillsville, Marinette, county school of agriculture, St. Croix Falls, Prairie du Sac, Gilmanton, Chippewa Falls, Barron, Milton Junction, Lurngston, and Wabeno.

"Students of the university who are from these schools are urged to meet the high school students and guide them about the campus," declared A. W. Hopkins, of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association, today.

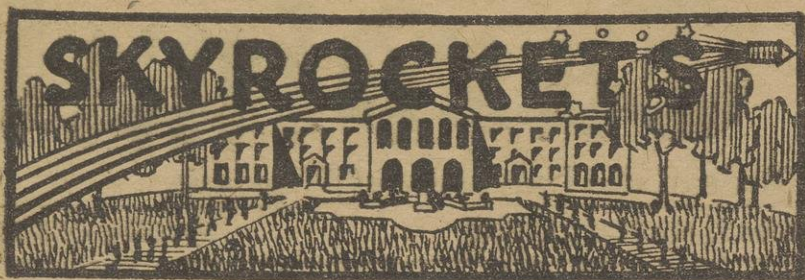

GOLF MEN HOLD MEETING IN GYM AT NOON TODAY

Will Play Big Ten Universities; Conference Meet at Chicago

A meeting will be held today at 12:45 in the trophy room of the gymnasium for all men who are interested in university golf. Officers will be elected and other important business taken up.

An intensive schedule is being arranged for the season, including meets with the University of Chicago, University of Illinois, and Northwestern. There is also a possibility of return meets being arranged with these schools.

Several men from last year's team have returned this year and are expected to report today. These men are Henry Pope '24, Laurence Bauer '22, Joseph Hook '23, Henry Capen '22, and Morton Frosh '23. Athletic director T. E. Jones will coach the golf team.

THIS is our second fling in the Rockets in as many weeks, so feeling more secure in our position we promise to refrain from using such ordinary jokes as Sid Bliss, Doc Dorward, and Tyler Barney. With Peter, however, it is different because he has plenty of the necessary which we lack.

NOW HE PAYS CASH

THAT reminds us of how Pete first came to be a Sky Rocket. It was back in the first four years of Walt Schwinn's college career that he came to Madison and Walter K. was editor of the col. at that time. So Pete slipped the grip to Walt. "Tell the folks I'm here," says he. And Walt did.

THESE few Spring days have flooded the office with poetry and therefore even though our Boss objects to too much verse on any one day we are going to print several selections. We consider the two following contributions especially good.

ROBB ASKS STUDENTS TO VOTE FOR RHODES

"I wish to express my hearty thanks for the support of the students in the elections yesterday," declared Carroll E. AT THE PARKWAY

Tonight the Greenwich Village Follies makes its last appearance at the Parkway. It is heralded as a real musical comedy and has the original New York Cast. It has attracted most favorable comment in the towns in which it has appeared and is sure to attract attention here. It is the first real musical comedy to visit the Parkway this season.

Thursday is Spring opening in Madison and in keeping with the times, Irene Castle will be the attraction in "French Heels." Miss Castle is considered the best dressed woman in America and in this, she wears some stunning new gowns. Miss Castle is an actress of no mean ability and a lumber camp provides an adequate outlet for her histrionic ability. A rousing comedy "Little But Oh My" and another of the scenic beautiful, complete the program.

AT THE GRAND.

One of the best motion picture productions, from every standpoint, that it has ever been our pleasure to see, opened Sunday at the Grand Theatre, for a 4-day engagement. It is "Her Social Value," starring Miss Katherine MacDonald.

Concerning Your Education

Those of you who have not attended the Wednesday evening services at Grace Church have been missing a series of splendid talks on subjects about which you ought to be informed.

Your understanding of the greatest of all books will be enhanced by the Rev. S. M. Cleveland's discourse on "The Breadth of the Bible," this evening at 7:30.

Developing and Printing A Profession

The developing of amateur films is a business in itself and requires the closest attention of professionals. The fact that a great many people offer a developing and printing service does not indicate that the process is simple. The shop making a business of this art, alone, is in a position to give you honest workmanship. Your films deserve this attention; it costs less in the end. Eventually you will realize that the best results come from such an establishment.

BLAINE URGES PARTICIPATION IN RUSS RELIEF

Millions Are Destitute; Campaign Progresses Favorably

Realizing the worthiness of the appeal for funds being made by the Dane County Relief committee headed by Miss Elizabeth Kelley, Gov. Blaine has issued a proclamation appealing to the people of the state to assist in aiding the starving peoples in the stricken territory.

"I again call the attention of the people of Wisconsin to the desperate situation prevailing among the Armenians, Syrians and other christian peoples of the Near East," states Gov. Blaine in his proclamation. "Millions of these people were, as a result of the World War, driven from their homes and with their children either murdered or left to wander forth, racing destitution, disease and death."

Dane county's quota is the caring for 433 orphans at $60 a year apiece to keep one child alive. No personal solicitation is being made. Contributions are being received by mail and at the office of the Central Wisconsin Trust Co., care of L. M. Hanks, who is treasurer of the Dane County Near East Relief committee.

Gov. Blaine's Near East Relief proclamation follows:

"Only through the ministrations of the Near East Relief which organization was chartered by our American congress for this special purpose, has this ancient christian race been saved from absolute extinction."

"Only through the continued generosity of our American people has the Near East Relief been able to continue its great humanitarian work. Today this organization is operating 175 orphanages, 11 rescue homes, and 63 hospitals. In these institutions, more than 100,000 little children are being fed, clothed and given that industrial training which in a few years will render them completely independent and self-supporting."

"During the last few months this great humanitarian work has been seriously handicapped by a terrible drought and famine which has swept over northern Armenia, destroying crops and rendering starvation inevitable, except as food is brought in from the outside. Tens of thousands of destitute women and children are applying to the Near East Relief for aid. Thousands are dying daily. Unless additional supplies are swiftly rushed across the sea, thousands more will perish."

"I know that our people are called upon from time to time to give aid and comfort to the suffering millions abroad, and

Man Digs Up $4,000 in Silver On Farm

BUFFALO, N. Y. — The police and sheriff's office today were trying to solve the problem of how bar silver worth between $3,500 and $4,000 came to be buried on the farm of Lewis Salmon, on the east bank of the Niagara River. Salmon called on a Buffalo jeweler with a sample of the metal which he had turned up with a spade. Salmon reported his find to the police and accompanied by an officer returned to the farm. They dug up forty four bars. The soil showed no sign that the bullion had been recently buried.

Modish Ribbons are Picoted

The last word in picots is spoken by the ribbons edged with loops of contrasting colors that look, for the world, like tiny blossoms.

Quite the daintiest and smartest thing for spring frocks of cotton or silk is a gay ribbon girdle or a corsage in which ribbon plays a prominent part. Two color combinations were never lovelier—peach and silver, henna and pekin, or seal and silver, for instance. 20c to 60c.

Marjorie Says:

Robin Red-Breast Arrives to look for summer apartments

Chirping and singing hopefully from the topmost bough of an apple tree just the other morning, he and his demure little mate discussed the relative advantage of the view from the Heights or a cozy home along the lake shore. Did you hear them? Some folks did. Many have caught a glimpse of the first bluebirds.

Robins, bluebirds, azure skies and sunshine! It's been a long wait, hasn't it? But now that spring is really here, you know that in a very few days you'll be saying goodbye to winter impediments—fur coats, galoshes and bunglesome wraps. And don't you feel a little like a butterfly escaping from his chrysalis? The pussy willows, too, are growing soft and silky in the sunshine. Sluggish brooks are bubbling. I wonder if it isn't that same urge of returning spring within us that makes us desire that which is fresh and new and flowery. Frocks blossom out in the colors of Spring hillside; accessories are as treasurable as the first violet—who, in all the wide world, isn't planning something new?

Floral Combs—

Have you seen the quaint little combs bearing tiny roses of softest pink, orchid and maize? They are truly harbingers of Spring. $3

Ear Drops Dangle—

But in a dozen variations, new and colorful. Amethyst, hand painted jet, as well as dainty combinations, of two colors. Periwinkle and red ear drops, too, suggest their own color schemes. 75c to $2.

Hand Painted Jet—

Forms an alluring sautoir. Sunny Italy sends this bit of genuine jet and sketches in color a rose bursting into full bloom. The ribbon slide bears a dainty rose bud. $5.

Hughes Denies Secret Treaty With England

Letter is Followed by New Attempt to Delay Vote on Pact

WASHINGTON--Presentation in the senate today of a letter from Secty. Hughes denying flatly that any secret agreement exists for future British-American cooperation led today to another effort by opponents of the four power treaty to send it back to committee. The effort brought on a warm debate.

The secretary's letter characterizing suggestions of such an agreement as "absolutely false" was laid before the senate by Sen. Lodge, the Republican leader and a member of the arms delegation who at the same time put into the record a telegram from Paul D. Cravath, the New York attorney, denying the accuracy of a statement on the same subject attributed to him by Sen. Borah.

Reiterating a denial made in a former communication that any secret agreements existed with other powers in connection with the arms conference, Mr. Hughes wrote in today's letter that he hoped to see "no further aspersions upon the veracity and honor" of the American delegates.

Smith Outlines Need For New Compressor

The estimated maximum daily pumpage of water for this year is 5,640,000 gallons, according to Supt. L. A. Smith of the city water department, who will submit a report to the common council Friday night in support of the passage of the $40,000 bond issue for a new 2,500 cubic foot compressor and a new well.

An added well capacity of 3,980,000 gallons is needed, he points out. One new well will supply an additional capacity of 2,000,000 gallons. To pump 8,000,000 maximum gallons daily, he says it will require 2,800 cubic feet of pressure.

Delays Appointment of Siebecker Successor

Appointment of a supreme court justice to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Chief Justice Robert G. Siebecker, is expected to be held up until after the special session of the legislature tomorrow. It was thought that Gov. Blaine would select a justice before the court met March 14, but with no appointment at that time, it is now believed that he will wait until nearer the time the court sits, April 11. The names of Judge E. Day Stevens of the Dane county circuit court and of C. H. Crownhart, reviser of statutes, as probable appointees, are still mentioned.

Ex-Service Men to Share Legion Box At Military Ball

All ex-service men attending the university have been invited to use the American legion box during the Military ball which will take place at the state capitol on April 7, according to John T. Fritschler, president of the legion.

One of the largest offices in the capitol will be assigned to the university post of the legion for its members and guests at the ball. C. P. Crane, 1819 Adams street, has charge of the arrangements, and ex-service men desiring to take advantage of the offer extended by the organization are asked to communicate with him.

Mail order sale of tickets for the Military ball is scheduled to close next Saturday. All tickets not disposed of by that time, will be placed on open sale. Those ordering tickets by mail should inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope, according to Lawrence P. Warner, chairman of the sale. The price of the tickets is $4.

As far as is possible, the committee desires to dispose of the tickets through groups and clubs this year, and all men who wish to attend are advised to join or form a club of some sort and make their reservations in a body. Only 10 men are needed to make up a group large enough to secure a box.

Organizations can reserve boxes from Lester Brann, 615 N. Lake street. A fee of $3 is being charged for each box reserved.

Relief Drive Will Continue to April 1

The Near East Relief drive which was launched in Dane county yesterday will continue until April 1. Sixty dollars is a sufficient amount to care for one orphan for one year, according to Miss Elizabeth Kelly, former member of the university faculty, who is in charge of the drive.

Because there will be no personal canvass, all contributions should be mailed to L. M. Hanks, treasurer of the Near East Relief fund of Dane county, care of the Central Wisconsin Trust company.

It is the opinion of Madison people that this drive is one of the most worthy causes that has sought support since the war, for the people whose children are seeking this relief made up the most important force in bringing the war to a close and sending the American soldiers home.

The Best Way to sound, white, pretty teeth

Dental science has for years been seeking a way to check tooth troubles. They have become alarming—almost universal. White, sound, healthy teeth are known to very few.

Yet research shows that entire races are almost completely immune. They scarcely know of dingy teeth, decay and pyorrhea.

The reason lies in fruit

Investigation shows that this protection comes through eating fruit. And science now knows the reason.

Certain fruits multiply the ptyalin in saliva up to 12 times over. That is the starch digestant. Its purpose is to digest starch deposits on teeth. Otherwise they gum the teeth, get between the teeth, ferment and form acids.

Certain fruits multiply the alkalinity of the saliva up to 8 times over. Alkalis are there to neutralize mouth acids—the cause of tooth decay.

Ptyalin and alkalis are Nature's great tooth-protecting agents. They are ever-present, night and day. But they are usually too weak. Certain fruits give to those factors many-fold effect.

Now in a tooth paste

People in this climate eat too little fruit. They get these fruit effects too rarely. As a result, clean teeth are rare. Tooth troubles are almost universal.

Able scientists have now embodied the fruit essentials in a tooth paste. Every application brings the fruit effects, and instantly. Above all, it brings them at bedtime, to protect the teeth at night.

This tooth paste is called Dentifruit. Modern dentists are urging folks to use it.

A month's test is offered free so that every home may know these wondrous fruit effects. For the sake of better tooth protection, send the coupon for it.

Use Fruit on Teeth

Dental authorities, all the world over, are urging it today. Millions of people, through these fruit effects, keep forever immune to tooth troubles.

Now the fruit essentials are embodied in a tooth paste. You can apply them every time you brush teeth. We will buy you a tube if you will try it. See what it does in a month.

SPRING POLITICS

SPRING time is election time. The local political contesting at the present time is perhaps of less interest to the student body at large than the campus election this spring will be.

Local politics has been quite spirited and the public interest high; in the student community interest in our own election should be proportionally quite as high. We need not fear a total absence of interest, however, when the things begin to roll and the election date draws nearer.

But there is one thing we should strive for in the coming election, and that is for the active participation of more students.

It is very easy to let established and experienced political circles do all the work incidental to choosing candidates for the various offices and campaigning for them. Too many of our citizens give up the biggest part of their franchise rights in this way, by merely casting a ballot and letting their responsibility and interest cease there. Numberless students are guilty of a corresponding lack of interest in the campus elections.

Some students may be too occupied with more important things than mere school offices and therefore have no time to waste on the elections. We do not believe this is as it should be, for will it be excusable to be too taken up in life after college to maintain an interest in our government and the management of our governmental activities?

It is all too evident during the school year that there is nowhere near a unanimous approval of the way student activities are being conducted. This simmers down for the most part to the fact that individuals in office are not always the best fitted from among those eligible for the position. It is too utopian to hope that we will ever attain the excellence where the best man will hold every office, but by an increased interest in the offices at election time, on the part of the students, we can make a small stride in the direction of the ideal.

This ideal democracy is not that in which the candidates put forth by the "ring" attain office by virtue of the political machine. The student who aspires to an office and feels himself qualified to ably discharge its duties should not remain a political wall-flower merely because he lacks an organized backing. He should get out and make known the fact that he desires to have an active part in running our activities.

Only a few of the early candidates are out, so far in the game. There is still time for all who feel themselves capable and worthy to get into the race themselves—at any rate, support the right candidates, or do both. Get into it and help make for a better election.

NOW—AND LATER

ARE students unusually critical and hard to please? From the number of "kicks" raised in the course of the year about everything in general, what is done, and how things are done, one might almost think so if it were not for the fact that schools are not the only places where "kicks" are registered. Not only the student likes to have things done his way. It is not only the man in school who, displeased with this or that, thinks, "If I were king."

Sometimes the criticism is just; officials in school activities may do otherwise than their constituents would have them do, but when advice is asked and is not given, the constituent should ask no recourse.

The Student Senate is shortly to legislate with regard to the freshman green caps and hazing, and a member of the Senate has asked the student body through the Cardinal, what its desires in the matter are. Those who have opinions to express should voice them now, not wait until that action least desired by the majority is taken, and then hurl criticism.

Students can be expected to support the principles that they themselves profess to desire. The students' self-government at Wisconsin can be successful only so long as the laws laid down by those elected to legislate are supported by the student body, and there is no fairer method of concluding what shall be the nature of the laws than by first asking the students what they desire.

Those students having any serious opinions to render should do so before the matter is acted upon. It should be a case of speak now or in the future hold your silence. And it should be better to speak now and in the future be satisfied.

BRAIN VS. BRAWN

If there were as many trained minds in college as there are trained bodies, how different the campus would be. In every college there are dozens of men who take the best care of their bodies. They exercise strenuously, diet, and keep regular hours. Highly paid coaches and trainers are provided to keep them in condition.

There are surprisingly few trained minds in comparison with the trained bodies. A mind can be built up in the same way as a body, and requires conscientious discipline, regular routine, diet, and sleep. While it is demanded of an athlete that he give his maximum energy in a game, the minimum is the standard in mental activity.

American college men have better physiques than the student of any other country, but their mental discipline is far short of the bodily training they acquire.

A trained mind is a convenient thing to possess, just as a strong and healthy body is necessary to success. The secret of brain development is as simple as keeping physically fit, but requires the same sort of unpleasant exercise. A college has two ideals, to impart knowledge and to train the mind. The libe and the classroom are the mental gym.—Beloit Round Table.

WORLD GROWING KINDER, IS VIEW OF HOPPMANN

Human Element Stressed in Courts Today; Judgments Are Lenient

That the world has become kinder and more lenient in its judgments and that as a consequence the human element, which cannot be formally dealt with from the bench, has become the all-important phase in the criminal court, were the contentions of Judge A. C. Hoppmann of the superior court in an address before the Badger club at the university Y. M. C. A. Sunday night.

"As you know, in the ancient and medieval times and quite into modern history, judges were appointed by the ruling power, the kings and emperors. The judges realized their responsibilities to the powers that appointed them and the natural result was that to a more or less extent the wishes of the appointing powers found expression in the judgments of the courts."

Punished by Death

"The punishments in those times were far more severe than they are now. At one time there were some 150 offenses punishable by death under the laws of England."

"I think it is safe to assume that when the judges were not responsible to the people, and crimes were punishable by such severe penalties, that there existed a great gulf between the judge and the unfortunate criminal, and I can not conceive of the possibility of the judge concerning himself very much about the physical or mental condition or surroundings of the criminal, with the result that there was but little human element in a criminal court."

Conditions Changed

"Fortunately for all of us a great change has come to pass. In the first place all except federal judges are elected by the people, and therefore, to some extent are responsible to the people. This has had a tremendous effect upon the change insofar as the judges have taken into consideration the human element. I do not want to say that the federal judges are not recognizing this human element just as much as the elective judges."

"The world has become more tender hearted. We are every hour getting away from the old idea of that punishment which demanded an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. This new gospel of justice is demanded by the people, enacted into law by our law-making bodies, and so administered by the judges in the criminal courts. In Wisconsin not one crime is punishable by death."

NOTED RUSSIAN NOVELIST SPEAKS TO JOURNALISTS

Discusses Experiences in Newspaper and Literary Field

Elias Tobenkin, well known Russian novelist and graduate of the university in 1905, gave an informal talk on his experiences in the newspaper world and in writing before the members of the Journalism house and Delta Pi Delta fraternity at the Journalism house Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Tobenkin received his M. A. degree here in 1906, and after that was employed on the Milwaukee Free Press, Chicago Tribune and on a San Francisco daily. It was while working on a newspaper that he conceived the idea of writing his first novel, "Witte Arrives," which tells of the troubles of a newspaper man, and is almost entirely autobiographical. His other novels deal with the immigration problem and social class distinction.

He is now taking a trip through the middle west, getting material for his next novel which will deal with conditions in Wisconsin.

Church Players to Have Quaint Garb

Costumes and other heirlooms, some of them over 100 years old, are to be used in the play "The Old Peabody Pew," which will be given under the direction of Mrs. H. P. Greeley at the First Congregational church tomorrow night.

Music will also be a feature of the program. Miss Emily Elmore will sing some old-fashioned songs; Mrs. Harry Wood is to sing in a quartet; and Mrs. Homer Carter will play the incidental music.

Included in the cast of the play are Mrs. Clara B. Flett, assistant to the Dean of Women; Miss Emily Elmore, instructor in the Physical Education department; Miss Sara Stinchfield, graduate student; Miss Ann Birge, Mrs. George Holmes, Miss Susan Lathrop, Mrs. Andrew Whitson, Mrs. Homer Carter, Mrs. W. C. Edwards, Mrs. G. A. Morrison, and Mrs. H. P. Greeley.

Noted Scientist To Give Lectures Here

Prof. H. A. Lorentz, recently retired professor of mathematical physics in the University of Leyden, Holland, will be here from March 20 to April 1, as the guest of the department of physics, and will deliver a series of lectures on "Light and the Constitution of Matter."

Professor Lorentz is the most distinguished mathematical physicist and one of the greatest figures in the two sciences in the last 50 years. He was one of the first to see the significance of the electron theory of matter.

A colloquium conference of distinguished men from the various institutions will be held by the department on March 30, 31, and April 1. The fundamental problem of electricity and matter will be the general subject of the conference.

AT THE STRAND

Rupert Hughes' latest comedy-drama "Come on Over," starring Colleen Moore and Ralph Graves, will be shown at the Strand theater for four days starting today.

Mr. Hughes has taken as his heroine a young Irish girl, Moyna Killiea, who is left behind by Shane O'Mealia, when he goes to America, with the promise that he will soon send for her. But Shane has ill luck in New York, included in which is the fact that Judy Grady falls in love with him, because he has helped her to get a job for her father and induced him to promise to let liquor alone. Also, he's out of a job so much that he can't save up enough money to send for Moyna.

The girl is brought over by friends and she finds Judy and Shane planning to go to the priest's because Judy's father has consented to take the temperance pledge. Moyna thinks they are going to be married and the tantrum into which she flies keeps the comedy hitting the high spots of fun till the very end.

A Harold Lloyd comedy and a Scenic Study will also be shown.

Hickey Brothers Make Things Hum In Parkway Show

By PROEHL H. JAKLON

The Greenwich Village Follies, which played at the Parkway last night, labored under more than the usual disadvantages common to road shows which have gained recognition in their original presentation. Persons who had heard of the success of the original company went to the show last night expecting to see the same quality of entertainment offered in metropolitan theaters.

Frankly, they were disappointed. The fact that no successful producer can afford to take a first rate company on the road was only too obvious. Perhaps this was more noticeable because the juvenile lead's voice was temporarily impaired by the well known wintry ailment. Nobody can sing with a cold. But to get to the parts that were pleasing...

Hickeys Are Good

Hickey brothers were the outstanding feature of the show. Although some of their comedy was a little antique, the brothers were relied upon for most of the laughs. These were dished out in liberal measure, and long before the final curtain the appearance of the duo was a sure signal for the laughing gas. Eddie Hickey's make-up was almost enough to get him by, and when it was supplemented with his surprising drollery, the results were riotous.

If the ladies who paraded around in costly clothing were artists' models, it is easy to understand why inspiration is needed by most painters. The garments which were many and varied, appeared bright and clean, and from the amount of material contained in them, the censors will have no kick. Especially impressive were the costumes in the Javanese scene and the "Message of the Cameo" number.

Dancer Pleases

Japonette, which is the nom de moniker for the person who does most of the dancing, was commendable for most of her work, and especially in the Dance Eccentric, where she was accompanied by the "McDougall Alley" Syncopators, a not unusual jazz band.

If you are entertained by very pretty clothing, if you want to laugh with a couple of excellent vaudeville comedians, and have recently received money from home, you might drop around to the Parkway tonight and be well satisfied, but if you are awfully hard to please and have a quiz Thursday, well, you've read this far.

Dean Jones Talks To Agric Triangle

That the greatest asset of a college man is an intimate acquaintance with faculty members and with students who go out from the institution was the substance of an address given by Assistant Dean J. A. James to members of Agric Triangle, Sunday morning.

Some of the problems of the assistant dean of the agricultural college, according to Dean James, are placing students in contact with their advisers, giving student loans, passing on dishonesty cases, selecting material for the long course and short course bulletins in the College of Agriculture.

Warner Has Sale of Tickets For Military Ball

LAWRENCE P. WARNER '22
—Courtesy De Longe

Lawrence P. Warner '22, Beloit, is chairman of the tickets committee of the tenth annual Military ball which will be held in the state capitol on April 7.

Warner is a major in the cadet corps, and a member of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity. He is a member of the Ex-Marines club, and last year was secretary of the Badger Ski club. He also is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Alumnus Coaches Military Ball Play

Miss Alice Keith, who was graduated with the class of '16, is coaching "The Bells of Beaujolais," the musical comedy to be given on March 25 by the Gun and Blade club.

Last summer Miss Keith recruited the cast for the Chicago Fire Semi-Centennial pageant which was held during the first and second weeks of October. The cast was made up of 2,500 persons.

During the war Miss Keith was director of dramatics with the New England division of War Camp Community service, producing plays, pageants, and operas in Boston and neighboring cities for the benefit and entertainment of enlisted men. She was a member of the cast of Rachel Crother's play "A Little Journey," which ran in Philadelphia, New York, Washington, and other eastern cities in 1920.

Miss Keith was a member of Theta Sigma Phi and Red Domino during her stay at the university. She had charge of the music in Madison high school when she was a junior. The following year, Miss Keith held a position of assistant supervisor of music in the public schools. For two years she supervised music in the La Crosse schools. "The Bells of Beaujolais" is one of the latest comedies which have been written, according to Miss Keith. Until a couple of weeks ago the play had never been given on the stage.

Must Apply Before Using Union Building

Applications will have to be made for permission to use rooms in Union Board building hereafter, according to Leslie Gage, secretary of Union board.

Organizations have been using rooms in the Union building without permission. These rooms have been furnished by Union board for the use of students and not as meeting places for different campus clubs and groups, declared Gage.

Reservations can be made for securing one of these rooms by calling Leslie Gage at B. 171. A small fee will be charged for the renting of the rooms.

Wisconsin's Rank As a Dairy State Draws Attention

Minnesota Making Definite Efforts to Attain First Place

Wisconsin's position as a dairy state has attracted attention and created a bit of rivalry on the part of some of her sister northwestern states, says K. L. Hatch, assistant director of the Agricultural Extension service.

Minnesota, especially, is ambitious to rise to first place as a dairy state. She is third in number of cows, but ranks lower in the number of pure bred animals. But she is making definite efforts to introduce good cows within her territory, which is an excellent region for this branch of farm activity. Minnesota is watching Wisconsin methods, and is showing great interest in Wisconsin work.

"It's good to feel that our neighboring state is following in the wake of Wisconsin," says A. O. Collentine, dairy specialist at the Badger College of Agriculture. "Her appreciation of the worth of our dairy stock is evidenced by the fact that she now is and always has been among our best buyers of high bred dairy cattle. Many of these Wisconsin animals are being used in Minnesota foundation herds."

"Wisconsin has forged to the front and earned her reputation as the leading dairy state. An unchallenged reputation for quality dairy products and bred for production stock, free from disease and physical defects, will maintain the state in the first place."

Madison Has Most Phones Per Person

That Madison has the largest number of telephones per hundred population of all cities in the United States is shown by the 1921 report of the Bell Telephone company.

The cities are lined up as follows: Madison, 32.7; San Francisco, 29.4; Atlantic City, 27.3; Omaha, 26.6; Des Moines, 25; Minneapolis, 24.3; Portland, 24.2; Spokane, 22.8; Washington, D. C., is twenty-third in the list with 20.02.

A—Yes, he was just getting nicely started, you see he only finished college last June.

B—Well, he did have a good education.

A—Yes, he spent a lot of time and money getting it.

B—I understand his folks had to make some sacrifices to send him to school.

A—That's true, I know the family well, but young Jones was a bright boy, he made the most of his opportunities.

B—How so?

A—While going to school he worked on the side to pay for a five thousand dollar policy in the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company.

B—Then his education was not —ALL theory?

A—Oh, no! Well you see the Northwestern Mutual maintains an office in Madison to instruct students and others in the value of life insurance.

Anatole France Buys Gobelin With Nobel Prize

French Writer Also Invests in National Defense Bonds

STOCKHOLM—Anatole France, the French author who won the $40,000 Nobel Prize for literature last awarded, has just appeased the curiosity of the Swedish public by telling how he spent and invested the money. Most of it is already disposed of, he announced.

"The Nobel Prize awarded me," said M. France, "has given rise to much talk and stupidities. I have spent some of the money for some very beautiful Gobelin tapestries—exquisite, royal ones. The rest of the money I have invested in French national defense bonds. I consider that an excellent and most comfortable means of investment."

Knut Hamsun, the Norwegian novelist, whose "Growth of Soil" helped win for him the Nobel Prize for literature, showed that he was in earnest when he wrote the above mentioned book. He invested most of the Nobel Prize in blooded stock and other improvements for his farm in Norway.

It will be recalled that Theodore Roosevelt, who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1906 for his efforts in bringing to an end the Russo-Japanese War gave his $40,000 to the Foundation for Promoting Industrial Peace.

AT THE ORPHEUM

Two acts on the present Orpheum program are far enough in the lead of their playmates to deserve special mention. Doris Humphrey's dancers are first with a series of dances that denote their ability and training in this difficult art. One of their members devoted her time to a gypsy tambourine dance that had an excess of energy and ability to furnish several such numbers. Harrison Greene and Katherine Parker had an amiable colored dialogue wherein the soft and persuasive tones of Mr. Greene were the principal ingredients of this enjoyable comedy. Miss Parker as his aid and associate revealed a substantial interest in the conversation. Sully and Thomas sang and danced throughout a quarter hour of which the dancing was by far the best. Ed. E. Ford makes faces, tells stories and recites for a short time in an act that runs smoothly at all times. The Alexander Melford trio are excellent acrobats. Farrell and Carley do a rag pasting and painting entertainment which produces several likely scenes and canvases.

"Snugglepuppeting" Causes Argument

By W. C. Radio News Service
ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 22.—So much heated discussion has arisen here lately following an editorial in the Michigan Daily on "Snuggle puppeting" and a subsequent communication directed against the "snuggle puppeting" co-ed and signed "The Man Who Has Never Been Kissed," that University of Michigan students, both male and female are beginning to treat the whole argument as a huge joke.

They are coming to doubt the significance of the name of "The Man Who Has Never Been Kissed." Society

WORKER FALLS FOUR FLOORS; ESCAPES DEATH

Charles Aleny, 35, Slips Through Beaver Building Shaft

Charles Lange, aged 35 years, laborer employed on the New Beaver building, narrowly escaped death about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he fell four and a half stories through the exterior elevator shaft. He was rendered unconscious by the fall, and at St. Mary's hospital, where he was taken, it was said that he sustained internal injuries to his back, in addition to a scalp wound and several scratches.

According to James Kelley, another laborer working with Lange on that side of the building, it was miraculous that Lange is not dead. The fall was enough to kill anyone, he said. Kelley was on the platform of the hoist with Lange. They were being lowered to the ground.

Suddenly something snapped," said Kelley. "I grabbed for a two-by-four on the shaft, and saved myself, but the hoist, with Lange on it, went down."

The drop was almost 80 feet, it was said. Lange resides at 524 W. Dayton st.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

PLANS FINISHED FOR BIG STATE BASKET MEET

Rhineland and Fall
Creek Meet
First

With the ten teams who will battle for places in the 1922 basketball tourney about to arrive on the scene of action, Chairman Hubert Perrin and his staff of assistants are busy completing plans for the entertainment of the athletes during their stay in the city.

The big event on Tuesday's card will be the University high-Superior clash. The Badger preps stand a good chance of winning the initial game, since the northerners have not been as successful as in the past few seasons. Numerous beatings were taken during the regular schedule, but the district tournament was weathered favorably and Superior will perform here for the third consecutive year. The old Hancock-Nevers combination has been broken up, however, and the Madison team will go into the game as favorites.

Eliminate Good Teams Early
It is unfortunate the local five always seems to draw a hard team in the opening game, as the great amount of support which Madison gives its high school battlers is bound to subside if the result of the first tilt is disastrous.

The end of the Menominee-New Richmond clash will see one of the best fives in the meet eliminated from further consideration for the state title. The latter town is noted for its consistently strong high school athletic teams, while followers of last year's tourney need no introduction to the Menominee outfit. The work of Setter, Menominee all-star forward, was one of the big features of the 1922 meet.

Fond du Lac Should Win
The opening gun of the tournament will be fired at four o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when the Rhineland and Fall Creek fives meet. The former quintet is not conceded to be as strong as it was a year ago, when it failed to even get started on the big university court. Fall Creek is not rated as being among the dangerous contenders for the championship.

Fond du Lac should have little difficulty in winning its initial game tomorrow night. Argyle will furnish the opposition, but the Platteville district winners have never proven to be as strong as their opponents, and this year is no exception. The Fox River valley champs, however, are not doped to be particularly dangerous this season. After taking two beatings from Oshkosh, the Fond du Lac five managed to win the tournament games by a narrow margin.

The Watertown aggregation, which is granted a big chance for state honors, was fortunate enough to draw a weak team in the initial contest. The La Crosse five was twice defeated by the Madison high school team, which was only able to place third in the Whitewater meet. No team in the state had to battle any harder for the privilege of attending the big tournament than did the Watertown five, and Milwaukee district followers are confident that their representatives are in line for a string of successes between now and Saturday night.

Argentine Breaks Swimming Record

Romeo Maciel, an Argentine student, yesterday completed a record swim from Colonia, Uruguay, to Buenos Aires, a distance of 27 miles across the Plata Estuary. He was in the water 24 hours and 30 minutes, beating the previous record by 30 minutes. This is said to be a world's record for distance swimming.

Brookins, of the Iowa track squad, recently tied the world's 40 yard dash record in a dual meet between Iowa and Wisconsin. The time was 4 2-5 seconds.

MANY NATIONS WILL COMPETE FOR DAVIS CUP

Meet Will Bring World's Greatest Players to U. S.

Including the United States, 14 nations will compete for the Davis cup this year, surpassing the record of any previous contest. In fact this is the largest number of countries that have entered any athletic event, for last year's Davis cup matches beat the record that had been established in the Olympic games.

Challenges have been received from Australasia, Belgium, British Isles, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Hawaii, India, Italy, Japan, Roumania and Spain. These nations are drawn against one another the pairs being determined by chance, just as individuals are drawn for a tournament in a "blind" draw.

Four Rounds Necessary
The nations that meet in the first round are notified of the date by which their matches must be completed. It is then their duty to agree upon the time and place for holding the match and if they fail to agree, they must play at a time set by the champion nation.

For an entry of 14 four rounds are required to bring out the winning nation that will meet the United States in the challenge round, which will take place at the West Side Tennis club, Forest Hills, on September 1, 2, and 4. The final round will be played at Newport the week of August 14 and the semi-final matches will be scheduled for the week preceding, to be played probably on August 10, 11, and 12.

Brings Famous Players
Depending upon the teams which survive the early matches and come to this country, it now appears likely that some of the world's most famous tennis players will be seen on American courts this summer. Nicolas Mishu of Roumania, whose playing abroad was one of the sensations of the European season in 1921, expects to play, as does Manuel Alonzo of Spain, who has become even more prominent abroad.

Gerald L. Patterson, whose game attracted much attention when he won the world's championship in 1919, will visit the United States and Zenzo Shimidzu of Japan also will compete here.

TANK MEN ELECT BENNETT CAPTAIN

Johnny Bennett '23 was elected captain of next year's Varsity swimming squad last night at a meeting of the swimming team. Although this is Bennett's first year on the Varsity squad, he has proven himself to be one of the greatest swimmers in the Big Ten Conference. At the Conference meet held at Chicago last week Bennett was individual high point man.

At a meeting of the Frosh swimming team, Jimmy Hipple was elected captain. The freshmen will continue to report each night for practice.

Underclassmen Win In Bowling Games

That the underclassmen often show their ability to come out ahead was shown in the first games of the women's bowling tournament Monday evening, when the Sophomores beat the Seniors, and the Freshmen beat the Juniors. The Sophomores won the first two games with the Seniors by the scores of 613-603 and 586-526. The Freshmen won two games and lost one game, 489-536.

High scores bowled were: Esther Harris '23, 160; Helen Zuelke '23, 154, and Helen Meyer '22, 151.

The next games will be played Wednesday, March 22, when the Seniors play the Freshmen at 7 p. m., and the Sophomores play the Juniors at 8:15.

The University of California claims an extension enrollment of 22,744 and a regular enrollment of 20,522. The total enrolled is 43,266.

Wisconsin to Meet U. S. C. In Tennis Here on May 3rd

University of Southern California Will Tour in East

The tennis schedule announced by the University of Southern California includes a match to be played with Wisconsin at Madison on May 3, it was announced yesterday.

Activity in intercollegiate tennis is starting earlier than usual this spring. The publication of many schedules shows a large number of colleges ready for the opening of the playing season. This interest is general throughout the United States, and is indicated by two institutions so widely separated as Dartmouth and the University of Southern California.

At Dartmouth an association has recently been formed to promote the sport there under official auspices. The University of Southern California at Los Angeles, will begin its eastern trip on April 27. The Southern Californians are the first of the Pacific coast contingent to announce their schedule. It includes a few open dates which will probably be filled when the team is on its way east.

Part of the schedule follows:
April 27—University of Arizona at Tucson, Ariz.

May 1—Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

May 2—University of Chicago at Chicago, Ill.

May 3—University of Wisconsin at Madison, Wis.

May 4—Campion College at Prairie du Chien, Wis.

May 5—Milton College at Milton, Wis.

May 6—University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich.

May 8—Detroit University at Detroit, Mich.

May 10—U. S. Navy at Annapolis, Md.

May 11—George Washington at Washington, D. C.

May 12—Georgetown University at Washington, D. C.

May 15—Lehigh University at Bethlehem, Pa.

May 16—Swarthmore University at Swarthmore, Pa.

May 20—Columbia University at New York, N. Y.

SUCKER BALL TEAM STARTS OUTDOOR WORK

Men Will Go South On Spring Training
Trip

(Special to Daily Cardinal)
URBANA, Ill.—With but three weeks to get in trim for the annual spring training trip to the South, Coach Lundgren and his squad of 30 baseball candidates have taken up outdoor training.

The good preparation for the conference race that Illinois has always received on her southern trip has moved other Big Ten institutions to a similar practice. Michigan has scheduled several preliminary games, while Coach Lowman will take his Wisconsin nine to the sunny south for the first time.

To Select Squad Soon
Should good training weather continue, the squad will stage several practice games to give Coach Lundgren ample opportunity to see his men under fire. Selection of the squad to make the southern trip will probably be made in about two weeks.

From last season's team Coach Lundgren has a tried pitching staff in Jackson, Barnes, and McCann. Haley and Hull are also showing good form as hurlers, and along with Roettger, star, freshman hurler of last season, are putting in strong bids for the mound honors.

Lose Two Regulars
"Doc" Dougherty, Robinson, and Snodgrass are putting up a game fight for the backstop position, while Klein and Captain McCurdy are handling the first sack post in fine style. Durant, Stewart, Horton, Hellstrom, Maxwell, Doubet, and Potter are the infielders who have survived the latest cut in the squad. The outfield has some fine material in Vogel, Crossley, Peden, and Reichle, veterans, and Baer and Bissel.

Illini chances for a second successive baseball championship are bright inasmuch as only two regulars, Mee and Captain Johnson, were lost from the 1921 winning nine. Coach Lundgren has won the Big Ten baseball title for the last five years, four at Michigan and one at Illinois.

militating against the intellectual life of the institutions and should be curtailed. He said that the institutions are to promote education, and the athletics are turning the students' minds from that principle.
