STATEMENT BY PRESIDENT E. B. FRED REGARDING SUMMER INSTITUTES

SEPTEMBER 25, 1948

I have here today, copies of resolutions passed by a number of groups which have met here on the University campus during the summer months -- resolutions thanking the University for its services.

One comes from the School of Banking, another the In-Service Training Institute of the U. S. Probation Officers, a third from the Institute on Public Library Management. And there is one here from the Mathematical Societies which met as a feature of our Centennial program.

These enthusiastic thank-you notes have reminded me once again of the great importance of this phase of our work here at the University.

The teaching and research work we do is well known to all. But I wonder how many people know of the wide scope of our adult education work. Pastors, welfare directors, amateur theater enthusiasts, Four-H Club members, veterans service officers, vocational agriculture teachers, veterinarians, writers, workers, radio experts, social case workers, musicians, scientists, business education teachers, homemakers, language teachers, insurance men, credit men, school administrators, and farm women all held meetings on the campus this summer -- there were 49 different institutes in all -- with more than 7,000 people attending.

At one time this summer, we had 500 mathematicians from four leading mathematical societies, 700 experts on flame and explosion phenomena, and 600 scientists interested in steroid hormones on the campus at the same time. These men and women, many of them the top experts in their fields -- came from all over the world to attend these three meetings.

They brought to Wisconsin an academic stimulus which, I think, we will find reflected in the teaching and research of our own staff members. They took back with them the latest information in their fields, together with new ideas for future areas of research.

And here is an interesting example of how our various services tie together. All three groups joined to hear a concert of our quartet-in-residence, the Pro Arte. Music Hall was crowded that night as some of the world's greatest scholars and scientists listened to the playing of the quartet.

Here are two paragraphs from the resolution passed by the mathematical societies which indicate how our hospitality was appreciated:

"Be it resolved that the American Mathematical Society, the Econometric Society, the Institute of Mathematical Statistics, and the Mathematical Association of America extend their thanks to the University of Wisconsin and to President Edwin B. Fred and Dean Mark H. Ingraham, and to all of those named above who ministered to our needs and contributed to our

"entertainment and recreation during meetings which have been scientifically profitable and accompanied by much pleasure, and

"Be it resolved further that the American Mathematical Society, the Econometric Society, and the Mathematical Association of America extend their congratulations and felicitations to the University of Wisconsin on this the happy occasion of its Centennial Celebration and wish it many hundreds of years more of prosperity, happiness, and distinction."

Dear President Fred:

An "Institute on Public Library Management", sponsored by the University of Wisconsin Extension Division and the Library Commission of Wisconsin was held on the campus August 23 through 25.

It was a heartwarming experience to see the strong arm of the University extended in support and encouragement to the struggling public libraries of the state. There is much that the University of Wisconsin can do for the public libraries of the state. Thank you for your help and for the excellent leadership and guidance given by Professor Walter S. Botsford of the University Extension staff.

Mr. Volmer Sorensen
Personnel Consultant
University Personnel Office
434 Sterling Court

Dear Mr. Sorensen:

The attached directive on overtime pay and compensatory time off sets forth certain rules according to which employees in the classified civil service are to be compensated when required to work beyond the regularly established work week for university employees. The proposed rules conform to the general plan contained in the new salary schedule which became effective on June 1, 1948, under the provisions of Chapter 611, Laws of 1947, and existing civil service rules adopted under Chapter 16.

In order to standardize the practice among the several departments of the university in relation to the subject of overtime pay and compensatory time off, I recommend that you take such steps as may be necessary to get full approval from university authorities of the above referred to program.

Very truly yours,

/s/ A. J. Opstedal

DIRECTIVE ON OVERTIME PAY AND COMPENSATORY TIME OFF

The following rules relative to overtime pay and compensatory time off apply for employees in classified civil service.

I Rule for Employees: An employee in the classified service not responsible for planning, organizing or the execution of duties of other employees, will be allowed compensation for hours worked over the regular work day or work week established by the department, when requested and authorized to do so by his supervisor. An employee working overtime without being requested or authorized to do so will not be allowed compensation for the time worked. The responsibility for authorization rests with the department supervisor; such authorization must clear through the University Personnel Office and the Bureau of Personnel to be effective.

II Rule for Supervisors: A supervisor in the classified service in charge of or responsible for a department will not be allowed overtime pay for hours worked over his regularly established work day or work week.

III Rule for Sundays: Employees in the classified service who are required to work on Sundays in addition to their regular work week shall be granted compensatory time off in conformity with the general rule for overtime compensation.

IV Rule for Holidays: Employees in the classified service who are required to work on legal holidays established by State Statute and those declared by the Governor shall be compensated for accumulated holiday leave by the end of the calendar year.

V Rule for Employees on a Minimum Work Week Basis: Overtime for employees working on a minimum work week (established by the Compensation Plan of the Bureau of Personnel as 38½, 39 or 40 hours) is subject to these regulations:

- 1) Whenever the employment situation warrants it, and it does not interfere with the execution of the work in the department, compensatory time off will be granted, instead of overtime pay.
- 2) However, compensatory time will be allowed not later than the end of the month following the work month in which this authorized overtime was worked (except as provided in Section VII).
- 3) If an employee cannot be granted compensatory time off by the end of the month following the work month in which this authorized overtime was worked, he must be paid for his overtime hours (except as provided in Section VII).

VI Rule for Employees on a Customary Hours or Supervisory Basis: Overtime for employees on a customary hours basis and those in a supervisory capacity (established by the Bureau of Personnel as total pay regardless of hours) shall be provided for as compensatory time off granted at the convenience of the department. No overtime pay is possible, except pursuant to Bureau of Personnel Rule VI (7A).

VII Special Rule Concerning Overtime Compensation: In those departments where the work is seasonal (College of Agriculture) or where layoffs are possible because of the temporary closing of the department (Wisconsin Union and Residence Halls) employees may accumulate up to 20 days of overtime each year. Such accumulated overtime must be taken within twelve months after the month in which it was earned. Other overtime is non-cumulative.

VIII General Rule Concerning Operation of this Directive: No compensatory time off with pay shall be granted by any University department except in accordance with the foregoing rules covering overtime, Sundays, and holidays. It is intended that the above rules approved by the Regents will not conflict with the rules established by the State Bureau of Personnel, and that the rules established by the Bureau shall prevail.
