ALPHA CHI ACT TAKES FIRST VODVIL PRIZE

Holcombe and Schubert
Win Second, Carpenter and Bickel Third

BY WALTER K. SCHWINN
Alpha Chi Omega, in "Melody Garden," won first prize; Ray Holcombe and Ray Schubert, in "The Moonshiner," took second prize; and "Chuck" Carpenter and "Freddie" Bickel captured the third prize for the best Union Vodvil act presented in the 1920 production, places being awarded by Professor Eugene H. Byrne, John W. McPherrin, and Paul P. "Mike" Rudy, as judges at last night's performances.

The first prize was awarded on principles of the quality of the production, the ability of the performers, and the response of the audience. Second place was given, because of the dramatic qualities of the act and the very effective way in which these were put across to the audience. Third place was given because of its exceptional quality as high-class entertainment. Decisions might have been reversed had different standards been used, but the judges believe that the standards by which the acts were measured to be the only method possible in a Vodvil judgment.

Hard Show to Judge

Judging this year's Vodvil performance was the hardest task that the judges have faced for several years. The whole show was of the highest standard and numerous acts were mentioned in picking the winners.

"Union Vodvil was an especially well-balanced and meritorious performance," was the statement of Professor Byrne last night.

"Melody Garden" as presented by the Alpha Chi Omega sorority was one of the most gorgeous and sumptuous acts that has ever appeared in a Vodvil production. The act was an Oriental fantasy, including a chorus of six girls. Costumes were very effective and the color combinations excellent. The lighting helped the act immensely. Louise Sammons in her Dance Bizzare was one of the most effective performers on the program, and the Doll Dance of Mary Johnson, Marjorie Simpson, and "Peter" Kiekhefer, was excellent. Wilhelmina Ehrman made a regal Omar, while Reba Hayden's whistling lent the right atmosphere for the opening and closing of the act. The comedy of Lucille Nutter, Pauline Shortness, and Mildred Winne in "Syncopated Melody Man" was good. Frances

The club starts its annual tour on April 15 and after being on the road for eight performances returns to Madison on April 23, for the three entertainments that they will give at the Fuller.

The club is rehearsing daily under the direction of George Beane, New York City, and is making rapid progress to the best production that the club has ever put on.

ERNA KIEKHOFER, COMMERCE SENIOR, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Erna Kiekhofer, senior in the Course in Commerce, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Kiekhofer, of Milwaukee, Wis., died at Muirdale Sanitarium, Wauwatosa, Friday. She left the university last fall to regain her health going directly to Muirdale, and was seemingly recovering when the end came through hemorrhage.

Miss Kiekhofer was born August 26, 1896, at Arcadia, Wisconsin. In 1915 she graduated as valedictorian of her class from Madison high school.

Miss Kiekhofer entered Wisconsin as a freshman in 1916, and was active as a member of Casalia literary society. She was a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority and Alpha Gamma Pi, honorary women's commerce sorority. Surviving are her parents; two sisters, Miss Alma, '14, now of the First Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee, and Miss Margaret, a sophomore in the university; two brothers, B. A. Kiekhofer, secretary of the state Board of Public Affairs, and Prof. Wm. H. Kiekhofer, of the department of economics.

SIREN TO SOUND DRIVE PROGRESS ENGINEERS' DAY

Tuesday for Ags, and Friday
Will Close the Drive

A siren blown from the Engineering building between classes will announce the progress of the Union Memorial fund tomorrow, Engineers' day.

Precisely $58,005 has been raised, 15 per cent of which has come from voluntary subscription in the engineering school. In round figures this amounts to $8,700. The engineers plan to carry on the subscription work not only in their own building, but other buildings on the hill as well.

Tuesday is to be Ags' day and Friday, the close of the drive, will be an all-university day in which everybody will take part. Subscriptions may be sent to the Union building by mail any time during the week.

ENGINEERS WIN COLLEGE MEET

Commerce Places Second,
While L. & S. Team
Lands Fourth Place

The Engineers won the inter-college track meet, held yesterday afternoon in the gym annex, leading the Commerce cinder men, by a 9½ point margin.

The results of the meet were as follows: Engineers, 47½ points; Commerce, 38 points; L. and S., 31½ points; Agriculture, 17 points.

Ribbons were given to men winning first, second, and third place in the events, irrespective of what their team standing in that event was. College insignia were awarded to men placing first in each event.

Tryouts for Sigma Delta Psi, honorary athletic fraternity, were held but none of the contestants succeeded in passing all of the requirements which were run off.

More tryouts will be held in June when the out-door events can be run off and those who failed to pass the requirement will be given another chance then. The list of those who tried out follows:

N. Martin, C. H. Wille, T. D. Jones, G. Stolley, G. Diehl, F. J. Schildhauer, H. L. Christianson, L. L. Wilder, W. Ramsey, W. J. Huer, H. M. Sanders, G. M. Sundt, C. E. Bartleff, R. Gibson, E. O. BADGERS SPLIT EVEN IN MEET WITH CHICAGO

Win Wrestling Bouts But Lose Gym Match by
18 Points

Wisconsin won the dual wrestling meet from Chicago with two victories, and forfeitures in the remaining bouts, and was defeated by the Maroons in the gymnastic meet by 18 points yesterday afternoon. The finals of the all-university boxing tournament were held in connection with the meets.

Because of the sickness and ineligibility Chicago brought but two grapplers, Hatoski in the 125 pound class and Burnett in the 135 pound class. The remaining bouts were forfeited to Wisconsin.

Snider Defeats Hatoski

In the first bout Snider of Wisconsin defeated Hatoski. Snider took the offensive in the early part of the first round and by managing to stay on top most of the time was given the decision for that round. In the second go he again held the upper hand until five seconds before time was called when the Maroon pinned him to the mat. However, Snider retaliated in the third round by winning the referee's decision which gave him the bout.

In the second bout, between Peterman, Wisconsin, and Burnett, Chicago, neither man left his feet in the first round, making that round a draw. But in the second period, Peterman showed his superiority by throwing his man in 65 seconds with a double body hold and in the third round he cinched his bout by winning a decision.

Maroons Cop Gym Honors

Both teams of acrobats put up good exhibitions in the struggle for gymnastic honors but when the meet was finished the Maroons were ahead with an 18 point margin.

The final score was 192 to 174.

Captain Tasche starred for the Badgers and was high man of the meet, with 35 points to his credit. Inlow of Chicago placed second to Tasche, with 34 individual points. Anison, Wisconsin, won the fencing event, beating Wood of Chicago 5 to 1.

The summaries:

Parallel bars—Tasche, Wisconsin, first; Inlow, Chicago, second; Schneidenbach, Chicago, third.

Side horse—Cripe, Chicago, first; Curtian, Wisconsin, second; Schneidenbach, Chicago, third.

Horizontal bars—McHugh, Chicago, first; Pringle, Chicago, second; Morris, Chicago, third.

Tumbling—O'Shea, Wisconsin, first; Inlow, Chicago, second; Harris, Wisconsin, third.

Rings—Tasche, Wisconsin, first; O'Shea, Wisconsin, second; Kessler and Inlow, Chicago, tied for third.

Fencing—Anison, Wisconsin, first; Wood, Chicago, second.

Clubs—Kessler, Chicago, first; O'Shea, Wisconsin, second.

In the fight for fistic honors, the following men won the title of university champion in their respective weights and were awarded gold medals: White, bantamweight; Lupton, featherweight; Dawson, lightweight; Lyons, welterweight; Koons, heavyweight.

A slight accident occurred in the second round of the middleweight bout, between Barnes and Kelley, when the fighters cracked their heads together and cut deep gashes in both their foreheads. It was necessary to send them to the clinic for medical attention and they agreed to fight it out later.

MIDNIGHT REVUE OF UNION VODE
By the Immature Critic

A Red Hawkins and Orchestra—The program mentioned that Red Hawkins had charge of the orchestra. Mebbe so, but all we could see in the pit was Pete Burns beaming forth, both at everyone in the audience and on the stage. When the actors wouldn't speak to him, he spoke to them, and a nice time was h. b. a.

B Theta Delt Movies—Fran Rudy in a movie of extraordinary merit, supported by a cast of notables including Prexy Birge, Larry Hall, and B. I. K. We wonder why they overlooked the Phi Psis and their flock of Wallace Reid haircuts.

C The League of Nations—The Phi Deltas in their native haunts, playing exotic tunes on bizarre instruments in picturesquely makeup. Earl Carpenter with his usual big head, and Paul Clafin represented the End of the World.

D Bill and Bud—Two stranglers from the Holy Land in the songs and dances that made them famous. Some thought only Rose was on the bill, but with the aid of our ever-ready opera glasses (transit in engineer lingo), we found Bill hid behind the concert grand.

E "Suppressed Desires"—Edwin Booth, Red Domino, Twelfth Night, represented by Rachel Commons, Elaine Elles, John Warren (who says "By God" with much force) respectively. A neat little physic triangle in two acts. Ain't quite sure what the moral is, but we judge it to be: "Sleep on your left side, and don't dream."

F Whiffs from Wizardry—Chuck Morris with the radiant Gladys Thompson. Miss Thompson is oriental. Chuck—well, we're glad we don't live with him. A white rabbit would have made the act complete.

G "Oh, My Beer"—The originals of B. I. K.'s novelette selling us candy with a sweet smile and wicked way.

ILLINOIS SOLONS INSPECT VARSITY

URBANA, Ill.—Six members of the Illinois legislature were taken on an unofficial tour about the campus and through the buildings with the object of putting before the state body the necessities of the university. The state legislature will not meet until January of next year, but a campaign to put the Doris Delicker a la Charlotte Greenwood, and Bertha Blaul as she never is, sweet, young, and innocent. Pete was good in this act.

H "Here's How for Who's Who—The censored act, very much tamed. "The Dance of the Rain-barrel" looks like the Elgin tornado in a haystack.

J The Platteville String Quartette—Dean Nardin's favorite. Slew Fanning entered with the prize makeup, while Sparks Dodge did the best he could without being—well, so the dean wouldn't like it.

K "The Moonshiners"—One of those "Go to Hell" mountain dramas. The main line is "Curse you, Jim Dunne!" with the gulp of red-eye fresh from the mountain still. One of those rousing climaxes.

L The Sunshiners—The last appearance of the Alpha Delt Duo in several songs. Feeling the act slipping they brought in "On Wisconsin" and saved the night. Much applause and vociferation from the appreciative auditors. Pete helped out this act, too. Our Premier Pets.

M Melody Garden—Chuck and Freddy brought in the flag, so Fran Tucker used the babies. A climactic climax to a perfect performance. Louise Sammons, wearing Fan-chon's yellow fan in her hair did a dignified nautch, which seemed to please Allah, as well as the spectators. Willie Ehrman as Omar smoked a hukah, inhaling constantly. We thought it was gas she was takin'. The superlatively superior act of the evening.

N Chili Al's Lunch Room—The show in informal attire following the performance. Someone wore the galoshes that featured almost every act. The whole effect was like supping at the Blackstone after the opera.

EASTER Sunday. New Hats, Pressed Clothes, and Eggs. Pussy Willows will do if you can't afford Easter Lilies at $9 per dozen.

problems of the institution before the state is already in progress.

The legislators expressed their willingness to do whatever was in their power to aid the university in its financial condition. The men were pleased with the opportunity to see the institution and were in favor of giving aid to it.

Ellen Tucker's staging and direction was superior and artistic.

"Moonshiners" Good Play

"The Moonshiners" by Arthur Hopkins is a one act play dealing with a Kentucky moonshiner and a supposed revenue officer who begs to be killed. The moonshiner refuses, and only finds out after the departure of the officer that he is in reality an enemy of long standing. Ray Holcombe as the moonshiner and Clarence Schubert as the revenue officer brought out the humorous and dramatic possibilities of the plot very effectively, putting every detail of the plot across.

"Chuck" Carpenter and "Freddie" Bickel took third place by virtue of their real talent as entertainers. Their line of patter is a happy combination of wit and satire on preceding acts, which gets away strong. Their songs were good, and their stage manner the most pleasing of any act. They opened informally by shoving in the piano, and from then on they kept up a steady line of light-hearted chatter. This is their last Vodvil appearance.

All the acts ran smoother than the night before, and much credit is due to the production staff, headed by "Jack" Bigler, for the very efficient handling of the many unwieldy acts. The program was well-balanced, and the performance started promptly and carried through smoothly to the final curtain. This was one of the most successful of Vodvil, both from the artistic and financial standpoint, as they played to three packed houses.

BOOST BASEBALL AND TRACK

AS THE various sport seasons follow each other, loyal Badgers prepare to support the Cardinal and White teams in all forms of intercollegiate competition. Disappointments of past seasons are disregarded. The successes balance those easily. We build each year for the future.

Wisconsin spirit provides support constantly, unfailingly, to all its athletes, who work for the glory of the university. Interest is now centered on track and baseball. The outdoor season for the cinder men will soon be in full swing. The schedule for the Badger diamond squad opens this week.

The varsity coaches for the track team and the baseball nine have been training their men for months back. Their work has not as yet come in for much attention from the student body. Track and baseball gossip has only begun to go the rounds.

The outlook is bright in both track and baseball this year. In the indoor track competition Wisconsin finished on the heels of the leaders, beating seven other conference teams. Baseball material was never more plentiful than this year.

Attendance at the outdoor meets ought to take a big jump with the increased attendance this year. Baseball in particular calls for more support from the sidelines. The squad of rooters on hand for some of the games last year was woefully small. The varsity nine needs cheering behind it as much as the football eleven. Packed rooters' stands help win games. Do your share in supporting the baseball team. Get out for all the outdoor meets and help boost baseball and track.

THE CHIMES

ONE short half semester more and the class of 1920 will bid farewell to Wisconsin. The leadership which they have held in university activities will be turned over to succeeding classes. They will no longer be in a position to strengthen their Alma Mater through vigorous backing of every worthy university movement.

As a final undergraduate service, the senior class wishes to leave some expression, in concrete form, of their love and gratitude toward Wisconsin. It is eminently fitting that they should do so; even if precedent were wanting, their sentiments would prompt such a course.

They have decided that their gift to the university shall be a substantial increase in the chimes fund. Since 1917, each senior class has contributed toward raising $10,000 to purchase chimes for the university. The classes of 1917, 1918, and 1919 subscribed together a total of $5,400. This year's senior class has set as its quota $2,000.

Each senior is to be asked to contribute $4. This relatively small subscription from every member of the class will more than raise the quota. In making it, each senior will enroll himself actively among those who are making possible a worthwhile gift to Wisconsin. The chimes, when installed, will truly be an addition to campus life.

This gift to the fund for the chimes will be another proof of the often demonstrated loyalty of the class of 1920. By "chiming in on the chimes" they are helping once more to enrich and deepen the life of the university. Their contribution will live after them as a vocal testimonial to their devotion to Wisconsin.

COMMUNICATIONS

THE FACULTY AND LABOR ORGANIZATION

To the Editor of The Cardinal:

The announcement that 12 members of the university faculty have joined the American Federation of Labor should stir student sentiment to some expression of opinion. Does not such an action awaken any response from those who attend a university that is thus stamped? For, after all, we are vitally concerned with the actions of the men at whose feet we sit; we applaud their accomplishments, we praise their excellencies; and, by the same token, we should be permitted to deprecate their actions in so far as they affect our relations with them.

It is a shock to one's conception of a university and the high function which it performs in society to learn that some of its representatives have dragged down its standard to implant it beside that of a labor organization, the purpose of which coincides not at all with that of an educational institution. By its very nature, by the age-long traditions associated with the teaching profession, a university must stand aloof, beyond the heat of the daily ebb and flow of conflict; it must hold its judgment in reserve and maintain an equanimity which enables it to see clearer and further—past the prejudices of creed and cause. Eternal quest of the truth, be it ever so prosaic, is the ideal of learning; it deals not with the seizure and propagation of half-truths and untried theories.

Waiving the question of the importance of the labor organization to the working-man (and the whole history of labor justifies its existence), the fact remains that its function does not even remotely concern that of a university faculty. The combination of the two presents a most amazing incongruity, the working-man concerned with the material realities of trade and commerce; and the university professor engaged in the interpretation and dissemination of the arts and sciences. Even one's sense of the fitness of things is pricked to astonishment at the spectacle. But we are more immediately concerned with the effect of this alliance on the student.

A teacher who is a devout Christian is not likely to let it affect his idea of economic theories; if he bows at a 250 average he is not apt to let that transform him from a classicist to a romanticist in literature. But, on the other hand, if he allies himself with a labor party, he is prone to change his point of view. He must look with favor upon industrial unrest, no matter how much like anarchy it might have seemed to him before. Even if he be not fully reconciled to labor devices and methods to secure the good things of life, he has pledged his moral support. Moral support might mean propagation of radical ideas in the classroom. There is no place on a university faculty for an extremist. The faculty should stand as a corrective rather than as a propelling force for radicalism.

Aside from reasons of personal sympathy, the only consideration prompting a faculty member to align himself with the cause of labor is the need of increased salary. And labor unions are one medium for the accomplishment of this purpose. However, is not the good-will of the great mass of people who do not belong to labor unions of some importance? Has not the press of the country called attention to the fact that professors are underpaid? And is not the public all over the country responding with more money? There are other ways of securing justice than by throttling the throat of the American people with threats and strikes and coercion. They have shown themselves ready to be just to the most honored of professions. Why not give them a chance?

Keep the profession above the sordid level of materialism or it will fail to do that for which it was instituted. "The master of those that know" demonstrated the truth that the teacher could never be measured in terms of money value. And let it be borne in mind that teachers' salaries are being raised without the help of the American Federation of Labor.

NOT CANDIDATE FOR SENATE — REINSCH

MILWAUKEE — Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, until recently minister to China, spent a few hours in Milwaukee on his way back to Washington from the Pacific coast, where he delivered a lecture at one of the California universities and conferred with a number of business men on the subject of trade in the far east. Dr. Reinsch, when questioned as to how he viewed the mention of his name in connection with the democratic nomination for United States senator, said that any idea of his taking the senatorship or any other public office was wholly in conflict with plans which he has made for the future. He was not in any sense a candidate for senator, he said, and nothing was farther from his mind than seeking public office. He added, however, that it is every citizen's duty to obey a popular mandate and should a general call of this character come to him to serve in the senate, the least that he could do would be to give it earnest consideration.

PROFESSOR DE WITT
LAUDS VIRGIL'S ART

"Virgil had only semi-control of his imagination, and therefore he was a romanticist. A classicist always knows what he is about." Prof. Norman de Witt, of Toronto university, used the argument in a lecture on "Virgil, the Romanticist," Friday afternoon in 165 University hall.

Professor de Witt told of the process of civilization in the region of the Mediterranean, of the tendency of Cicero's preiod to retrospect rather than looking forward. "What we must look for in the Aeneid is the significance of prophetic form. Virgil realized that what seemed to all others the sunset of civilization was really the sunrise of a new life. He learned this precious lesson from the Orient. The oriental in European literature has always been romantic."

Virgil's position in Rome, its politics and society, and his relation to Rome and its existing beliefs and doctrines was explained. "Virgil's was a rebellion against pedantry of republicanism as well as against republican snobbery," said Prof. de Witt.

Prof. de Witt's conclusion was. "What he accomplished by second nature, could never be accomplished again!"

Speaking of Signs of Spring, Frosh Caps Are the Latest

Verdantly, one by one, they appear on the hilly walks of the campus.

The little green caps, the traditional sign of a freshman. Yes, the winds may blow, the snow may snow, but there is one sign of spring that never fails us. We know that henceforth the campus will be dotted with green, green as fresh and verdant as ever came forth to greet St. Patrick.

You will rub your eyes in amazement as you climb the hill for that d— 8 o'clock Monday morning. Blue Monday indeed! Patches of green appear everywhere. Even the mud at the entrance to Main hall seems to have suddenly blossomed forth with verdant spring. The whole campus is dotted with it—green, green, as far as the eye can see. Yea, verily, the freshmen are with us again.

You will remember how they seemed to vanish last fall. We forgot their eternal and everlasting froshiness and some of them forgot it too. Indeed, 'tis said that sometimes they so disguised themselves as to appear like upperclassmen, though how they get by with it we don't see.

What the College Editors Say

"THOSE GOOD OLD DAYS"

When the graduate pays a visit to his university, lights up his pipe and harks back to "the good old days," the college man of today, filled with stories of the things "we used to do," is apt to feel that he is being cheated out of something—that his college life is a lifeless, inane thing in comparison to that lived by the student of a few years ago. He hears of theater rushings, great football celebrations, and kindred sports and wishes that he had been fortunate enough to have graduated from high school a decade sooner.

Was life really any happier then than it is today? Any event takes on an added glamor after years of retrospection. If we will be honest with ourselves we will admit that a number of events in our own lives have been elevated above the commonplace in our estimation through constant reminiscence.

This is what has happened to the graduate. While going through the routine of daily work and pleasure he was not conscious of any extreme happiness which would surpass that of future generations. Life was to him what ours is to us today, and he took away with him the pictures of this life. Returning in later years and seeing an unfamiliar set of students doing things differently,

STAR'S RETURN BOOSTS GOPHER HOPES FOR TRACK

MINNEAPOLIS—Byron F. Johnson, captain of the University of Minnesota track team of 1917, is again eligible for competition. Johnson received a class room condition at the close of the fall quarter and was declared ineligible for athletics, but the exam in question has now been passed, and Coach Len Frank has had the stock in his cinder path team boosted several per cent.

Johnson holds the university record for the 220 yard dash and is holder of the Marine corps 100 yard dash record which he established at Quantico last year, negotiating the distance in 9.85 seconds. Johnson is considered as an Olympic possibility.

F. H. Stadsvold, one of the greatest basketball forwards ever developed at Minnesota, has returned to Minneapolis after a most successful year of coaching at the University of West Virginia. His basket tossers won notable victories over some of the best teams that the east could produce and proved the value of the western style of basketball.

he recalls the glorified version of his own under-graduate days and concludes that his colleagues had a far better time than we are having.

Our own experiences are the most vivid to us. Undoubtedly we, too, will think that we were far better off than the generations succeeding us. We should realize this when we hear the old Michigan man tell of the ideal days of his college life, rather than bemoan the fact that we could not have lived earlier to enjoy his times. — The Michigan Daily.

LAKE TOO COLD FOR CANOEING

Athletic Department Warns Students to "Keep Off the Water"

This is the season of the year when we are often reminded—through disaster—of the ancient Indian legend which tells of the curse given by the departing tribes as they left the shores of Mendota. The story tells of the departure of the tribes and the curse evoked—that Lake Mendota in revenge for the theft of the Indians' best loved home, would each year claim a white person as its toll.

Through carelessness and thoughtlessness this toll has often been exacted and the department of physical education yesterday sounded a warning to students who may be lured out by the bright spring weather and the tempting water.

The intense coldness of the water at this time would make it impossible to cling to a canoe for more than a few minutes and an upset in the water would without doubt mean death to the occupants. An upset is very liable to occur because of the sudden squalls which at this time of the year do not give the canoeist time to make shore.

The life saving station is being put in readiness and the department expects to have the life saving launch in the water by April 8, but just at this time the station is not in position to render much assistance.

Keep off the water until such a time as boating can be a pleasure to yourselves and no anxiety to your friends.

morning in the Classical Seminary room of the library it was decided by the instructors in Latin and Greek to recommend to the Latin section of the state teachers' meeting in November that an additional meeting be held in April of each year at which questions be raised relating to Greek and Roman life, language, and literature. The spring meeting, if approved by the teachers' association, will be held about the time of the Annual Prize contest of the Latin League of Wisconsin colleges. Membership in the Classical association will be open to all advanced students and teachers in high schools, normal schools, and colleges in the state.

The conference yesterday morning was held in connection with the visit of Prof. Norman De Witt of the University of Toronto who has been lecturing this week to university graduate students.

Those in attendance were the graduate students in the Department of Classics and the members of the faculty.

PROFESSOR BLEYER TO ADDRESS IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

"Newspaper Standards," will be the topic presented by Prof. Willard G. Bleyer, chairman of the Course in Journalism at the University of Wisconsin, when the Iowan College Press convention convenes for its fourth annual meeting April 9 and 10, at the Hotel Colfax, Grinnell, Iowa.

"Opportunities in Feature Writing," by Trumbull White, former editor of Everybody's and the Red Book; "The Country Newspaper," by J. B. Hungerford, editor of the Carroll Herald; "Trade Journalism," by F. W. Beekman, Director of Journalism at Ames; and the "Editorial Page," by W. R. Orchard, editor of the Council Bluffs Nonpareil, are attractions on the program of addresses.

Various students will supplement these speakers by presenting phases of work on Iowan college papers. Round Table discussions will give opportunity for expression from the college member delegates who are scheduled to score a record attendance.

The usual front page make-up contest will come to a climax Friday evening which is also the frolic date for representative stunts and a convention dance. Saturday night the yearly dinner will be held in the banquet room of the hotel.

Bright Lights, Confetti, and Incense to Liven Jamboree

Incense, serpentine, confetti, a thousand and one devices for making and continuing noise, colored lights guaranteed to bring out the hidden shades of beauty, ten jazz fiends for syncopation, solo by the "Rusty Hinge" quartet, Harry Lauder as he would be if he were there, "Chuck" Morris's magic incantations,—we're out of breath so we'll tell you before we're breathless—this is all at Jamboree, the costume ball which student senate and S. G. A. are giving next Saturday evening, April 10, at the armory, beginning at 8:15.

Sh—the grand funeral march starts at 8:45 with the dignified senators as pallbearers and the severe you-must-get-in-at-10-o'clockers as copious feminine weepers. The coffin will be deposited amid much gloom dispensation. What? Oh, we'll never tell.

For those who wish to rent costumes, arrangements are being made for a display from a costumer to be held Thursday in Lathrop hall, S. G. A. room.

Judges for the best costumes to be awarded prizes which are on display at the McKillop art store beginning Monday, are Miss A. L. Marlatt, director of Home Economics, Dr. J. C. Elsom, professor of physical education, and Miss B. O. Oehler of the Manual Arts department.
