TRYOUTS FOR UNION VODVIL SHOW TALENT

Seven Acts Are Given Before
Judges—Committee to Meet Again Tonight

Seven acts were presented before the judges of the Union Vodvil production last evening at Lathrop hall. The judges, William Purnell '22, Dick Tyrell '22, and Ralph Scheinpflug '23, spent the entire evening reviewing the performance and discussing its merits. Tryouts will be held again this evening at 7 o'clock.

The judges asserted that if the tryouts continued to show such ability that this year's production would outshine any previous one.

The tryout scene in bare Lathrop hall was livened by the enthusiasm of the prospective actors. Groups of girls, eager to show their chorus acts, impatiently waited their turn on the program. Men scurried about dragging scenery-ropes, ladders, and other paraphernalia.

While an all-to-busy stage director shouted instructions, love songs, coon songs,—all kinds of songs were sung in a secluded room and given last minute touches of finish. "Every act thus far promises unusual talent for Union vodvil," said Carl Bronson '22, production manager after the tryout last night. "We have an abundance of talent to pick from, and we may have to have special afternoon tryouts to accommodate everybody."

The proceeds of Union Vodvil, to be given Dec. 9 and 10, will be turned over to the Memorial fund. Three performances including a Saturday matinee are scheduled.

Octopus on Sale Tomorrow Noon

The Octopus goes on sale tomorrow with the editors wondering if the supply of books will last through the day.

Three thousand copies were sold by the noon of the first day they appeared on the campus last month. All spare copies were called in from drug stores and stands to supply the demand on the hill. The number sent to high schools was cut.

Several hundred more books are printed for this issue, enough to go around, the circulation manager hopes.

The Octopus this month, may well be titled "Say It With Flowers." The cover in buff, red, and black, shows a worshipping girl pinning a chrysanthemum on her football hero. It was drawn by Hubert Townsend '23.

The autumn Octopus can be secured tomorrow on the hill or at drug stores and newsstands.

This issue is one of the best the Octopus has put out, according to the editors. If the edition sells as fast as the last one the supply will be exhausted early.

Dean Owen Advocates Wearing Of Green Cap By Men On Probation

"I am heartily in favor of a tradition making every man on probation as well as the freshman wear a green cap," said Ray S. Owen, assistant dean of men, yesterday while commenting on the revised traditions which were voted on affirmatively at the polls last Thursday.

"A man wearing a green cap needs to be looked after; men on probation need it more than any others," he continued. "We could accomplish something then."

A tradition prohibiting students of the university from bringing their cars to Madison was also suggested by the dean, who stated that a similar rule is now being enforced at Oxford. Students at Oxford are not permitted to hire a car for more than one hour at a time.

"This would be a big step toward democracy," said Dean Owen.

That many of the faculty members feel the present tradition system to be a farce because the students do not take the responsibility of enforcing them was the opinion expressed by the assistant dean yesterday. They also object to the green cap proposition believing that it makes the freshman objects of ridicule.

"Most of the men doing the hazing are on probation and are not sophomores," he said.

Badger Asks For Copy For Section Of Organizations

"In order that our work in the office and at the bureau of engraving may not be held up," said Lois Duffin, editor of the organization section of the Badger, "We urge all fraternities and sororities to have both their picture and copy in the Badger office by November 15."

"While the new page size necessitates the allotting of but one page for each organization, we find fraternities and sororities readily adaptable to this arrangement and are planning on an attractive section. We are especially anxious that as many honor and class societies as possible have their picture included in this year's Badger."

Work on the 1923 Badger is going steadily forward and photographers are now busy preparing group pictures and pin cuts for the organization section.

De Longe and Thomas are the official Badger photographers for the organization section this year.

Vecsey Concert at Gymnasium Tonight

Ference Vecsey, the great Hungarian violinist, will appear at the university gymnasium tonight. The concert, under the auspices of the Union board, will be given as a benefit for the Memorial Union building fund. Tickets are on sale at Smith's music store and will be available at the door.

Vecsey began his musical career at the age of 11, when he played in London before Queen Alexandra. He has played in every capital and has made a concert trip to the Orient.

Red Domino Opens Season Thursday To Give Three One-act Plays in Lathrop Concert Room

Red Domino will open its season with the presentation of three one act plays in the concert room of Lathrop hall Thursday night. The first of the series, Boccaccio's "Untold Tale," was in the repertoire of the Washington Square players in 1917.

The "Untold Tale" is a romantic tragedy of the Italian Renaissance. The action takes place in Florence during a terrible plague. Olivia, the heroine of the story, has recovered from the plague with her remarkable beauty undiminished. Florio, her lover, is made to believe that the illness has left her ugly and haggard. The tragedy of the play centers in this situation.

The cast of the "Untold Tale" is: Olivia, Pauline Ambrose; Florio, John Boffel; Violante, Elizabeth Sehon; Lizzia, Marian Doan; Di- oneo, Robert Reynolds. The production will be costumed in the Italian Renaissance period.

"Phipps," an English farce by Stanley Houghton, centers around the plans of My Lord and Lady to secure a divorce, by forcing the butler to serve as a witness. The part of Phipps will be played by William Purnell, My Lord, Wells Carberry and My Lady, Roberta Lawden.

Tickets for the plays will be on sale in Bascom hall Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. The price for the three plays is 50 cents.

Press Club to Hear Crownhart Tonight

"Reporting for a state syndicate" will be the subject of a talk by George Crownhart '21, at a meeting of Press club in the S. G. A. room of Lathrop hall this evening at 5:30.

Since his graduation Crownhart has been identified with the Capital Times and with the Holmes news bureau, which corresponds with 20 Wisconsin papers. His talk will emphasize the difference between reporting for a daily paper and for a syndicate.

Crownhart is a former member of Press club, and during his senior year he was president of the Cardinal Board of Control.

The committee which has been considering applications for membership will report at the meeting tonight.

Announce Staff of Literary Magazine

The second number of the Wisconsin Literary magazine will appear on the campus November 22. Willard J. Rendall '22, business manager, announces the following members of the business staff:

FACULTY DRIVE FOR MEMORIAL OPENS TODAY

$80,000 Raised in Student Campaign—Work Among Alumni Has Been Started

With a total of $80,000 from the student drive the faculty campaign for the Memorial Union building starts this morning under the leadership of Prof. Frank C. Sharp, of the philosophy department.

"We of the faculty are wonderfully surprised at the heroic way in which a small body of students so faithfully dedicated themselves to the proposition of getting the money from so large a student body," declared Professor Sharp yesterday. "The faculty have caught fire from the heat of the student campaign, so surprised were we at the response and at the size of the average pledge."

Prof. Winfred T. Root, of the history department, declared that he realized the crying need of the school for the Union building, entirely aside from the Memorial part of it. "There is a great necessity for re-integration of the student body," said Professor Root. "It is almost impossible at the present time to penetrate the whole student body, as such, with any new conception. It is the great power of the atmosphere which will put things across, as much as the physical centralization of student life."

Kiekhofers Enthusiastic
"Many years ago President Charles R. Van Hise completely 'sold' me on the proposition of a Union building," asserted Prof. William H. Kiekhofers, enthusiastically. "I have seen it through President Van Hise's eyes for many years, and am only too glad to be able to help it materialize."

Already inquiries are coming in to Howard L. Ashworth, secretary of the Memorial Union, from many alumni centers, about the success of the university and city campaigns.

"Ned" Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car company, has started his work in Cleveland, and Chicago is being canvassed under the leadership of John F. Lord, and Israel Schrimski.

Edwin Booth Tryouts Held on November 23

Tryouts for Edwin Booth dramatic society will be held Wednesday, Nov. 23. Preliminary conferences will be held Thursday and Friday of this week, Nov 17 and 18. The conferences will be held with Lawrence Norem '22, Wayne Morse '23, and Kieth Davis '24 who will announce the place of appointment later.

Applicants are advised to choose something which gives plenty of opportunity for a variety of dramatic interpretation and which does not require a lengthy introduction. The tryouts are limited to three minutes. The selection should include at least two male characters.

An impromptu tryout will follow the applicant's selection which will include something in pantomime

THE author of the above intended to have it produced by Onion Vaudeville, but he says that the censors judged it too risqué, as it reminded one too much of La Vie Parisienne. But we are taking a chance, like Columbus, and publishing it.

THERE is a bold and determined suitor here in our institution, a senior, Wilferd Payne, by name, who desires it fully understood that a certain agreement between himself and one Helen Puder entitles him and only him to escort little Helen to and from classes. Wilferd desires, above all, that this agreement be recognized by Helen.

TIME was flying in the physics class of Mr. Horton's and as the student, with great care, worked out a problem to several decimal points, Mr. Horton could contain himself no longer: "You are involving a needless waste of time, which just shows the difference between a mathematician and a physicist. The mathematician laboriously works everything out to decimal points, while a physicist uses his head."

TICKETS for the Chicago game will be placed on sale at the gym this morning. The slogan of those who try to obtain some will be, "I'll fight it out on this line if it takes all winter."

Harmony, Comedy And Good Looking Girl Star At Orp

By PROEHL H. JAKLON

Two or possibly three acts at the Orpheum the first half of the week save the entire bill. The girl in the last act made us want to stay for the second performance in spite of the monotony of the front part of the show. The Orph. would have a knock-out bill if they could persuade the girl to cross the stage one time per act.

The Dorans

"Just a Boy and a Girl." Full stage—song—dance—dance—dance. Then the "girl" lifted the wig, and you know the rest.

The Winter Garden Four

Clean looking men, lots of good harmony, and bokoo songs about Kentucky. A good rendition of the "Bass Voil."

"The Question"

A one act playlet. The title is very fitting. It's still a question to us.

Jean Barrios

A description would give it away. From the prevalence of this kind of act, one would think that Julian Eltinge was running a correspondence school.

Emma Dean

Here the first laugh act is a scream from the main, and the audience good comedy is whip-cracking episode that is more interesting than it sounds. Mr. Lindsay is adept in his art, but what we started to say was that this is the act with the good-looking girl.

Foreign Students

Show New Spirit

"The students of foreign countries have awakened from their lethargic acceptance of an academic classification and are now busily engaged in all activities of the world of affairs," said "Dad" Wolf last Sunday evening at the weekly meeting of the Badger club.

"Formerly students over there felt themselves apart from the world and disdained menial labor of any kind. Today, however, the war has made them realize that they are to play a great part in the new era. A spirit of democracy and activity has risen up. This fact will have a great influence upon future social, political, and economic matters."

"Dad" illustrated his talk with several pictures which he himself gathered this summer while in Europe.

BADGERS MEET STRONG TEAM IN LAST GAME

Tickets For Chicago
Event on Sale at Gym Today

With one more game standing between Wisconsin and a successful football season, the Badgers yesterday began their last week of preparation for the Chicago contest to be played on Stagg field next Saturday.

Coach John R. Richards will send his men through a hard week of scrimmages, striving to overcome various weaknesses which bobbed up in the surprise contest with Michigan. "Big Jawn" may shift his lineup for the last time in an effort to bring the Badgers to their highest pitch of efficiency. Errors in generalship were prevalent in the last game, especially when Wisconsin advanced to within striking distance of the Wolverines' goal line.

Wisconsin seemed to lack the aggressiveness which had previously made it one of the most feared contenders for the Big Ten championship. The forward wall was unable to overcome the Michigan defense with any degree of effectiveness.

The Badgers are not disheartened, however, by their failure to defeat Michigan. The Wolverine eleven was battling for Coach Fielding H. Yost, whose methods have been on trial during the present season. Michigan alumni who clamored for Yost's removal have been silenced by the magnificent showing of his squad on Saturday. In the face of numerous injuries which riddled his team and forced him to use five crippled substitutes, Yost ordered his men to play a safe game after the second touchdown, and this style of play resulted in the deadlock.

Chicago Has Strong Team

With a strong Chicago team in the offing, Wisconsin will have to battle hard for a victory in the last contest of the season. The Maroons have gone through the season with but one defeat, that at the hands of Ohio State. Their victory over Princeton stamped them as one of the strongest teams in the country. Pointed for this game they reached top-notch form against the Tigers, and have been gradually losing strength as the season progressed.

Three sets of backfield men, all of equal caliber, make "Old Man" Stagg's outfit one of the most powerful in the Middle West. With Milton Romney to direct the team, "Bobby" Cole, Thomas, Zorn, Hermes, and others are able to vary a line plunging attack with a dangerous open game. That the Maroons are a heady crew was shown in the Princeton victory when they completely upset the Tigers by dropping the forward pass attack entirely and overwhelming Capt. Stan Keck and his heavy linemen with consistent attacks through the forward wall.

Romney and Cole are drop-kickers of excellent ability, and if the Chicago eleven is unable to push the ball over from the 30-yard line by ground attack, either of the two backs can attempt a field goal. This is a department in which Wisconsin is weak. The Badgers have tried goals from the field in nearly every game, but at no time have they succeeded in scoring by the aerial route. A good kicker would have sewed up the Michigan game several times. Both Gibson and Tebell missed chances which might have counted the deciding points.

Ticket Sale Today

Tickets for the Chicago game will go on sale at the athletic department office at 9 o'clock this morning. Several booths will be placed in front of the gymnasium and men will be stationed in them from 9 o'clock until six in the evening. Prices range from $1 to $3.50 with

First Division Has Best Individual Bowlers in League

Four Compete in Close Race
For High Pin
Honors

The first division of the interfraternity bowling league has rounded into form faster than the second, if the statistics issued yesterday by Secretary Hickey of the league, mean anything. In individual averages the first division has 16 men above 165, while the second division can boast of but five above that mark. Of course, none top Knutson, who leads the first division with a 175 pin average, and only one is above 170.

In team standings the Alpha Sigs, leading the first division, are far above the Tekes, leaders of the second division. The Tekes with an average of 784 are below the Sig Phi Eps, who stand fifth in the first division.

Close Individual Race

The individual honors in the first division are being hotly contested by four pin smashers all of whom stand above 170. Knutson of the Phi Sigs is leading with 175, and Kalley of the same team is right on his heels with 174. Otto, of Sig Phi Ep, is running them both a race with an average of 173. Willey, Kappa Sig, is fourth with 170.

Combader, of D. U., is holding his lead in the second division with 173, which is but two points below Knutson of the first division. Aspinwall, of the Teke quintet, is moving to the front, being in second position with 169. R. Hawks, of Chi Phi, is in a tie with Aspinwall and Klass of Teke, follows with 166. J. Gibson, Theta Delt, is fifth with 165.

Alpha Sigs maintained their lead of last week with a percentage of .814. The Phi Sigs are running them a close race with .809. In the second division, the Tekes have managed to stay out in front for the entire season thus far: their average for the week is .784. Theta Delt crawled up to .773. These two are now having a two cornered fight for the honors, as the other five, who stand in the running are far below in percentage standings.

The following are the standings of the first five teams in the first end second divisions, for 18 games: First division: Alpha Sig, 814; Phi Sig, 809; Kappa Sig, 804; P. A. D., 796; Sig Phi Ep, 795. Second division: Teke, 784; Theta, Delt, 773; Chi Phi, 736; Phi Delta Phi, 733; Theta Chi, 728.

The individual averages of bowlers in each division who have an average of 165 or over are:

FIRST DIVISION

Otto, Sig Phi	173
Willey, Kappa Sig	170

Those teams of the second division who have failed to bowl off last week's schedule should do so at the earliest date, and hand in their scores and averages to Secretary Hickey. It is important that the postponed games be bowled off this week in order to have the schedule go through on time. These games should be bowled on nights when the regular schedules are not being run off.

$5 charged for a box. Five thousand tickets are on sale with a limit of two to each purchaser.

The Wisconsin band will accompany the team to Chicago. The bandsmen will stay at the Great Northern hotel. After the game, Dr. and Mrs. Sippe will hold a reception for Wisconsin alumni and students.

Michigan Alumni Express Gratitude To Yost At Dinner

"Well, I guess Yost's not so bad, eh?"

"No! The Grand Rapids Alumni association will have something to think about now."

The Michigan men sat back at ease to enjoy the chicken dinner which the members of the Wisconsin Alumni association of the University of Michigan had prepared for them.

The banquet was held at the Capitol cafe, and fully 200 were there. The Michigan band men who came here under the auspices of the local Alumni association, were the guests of honor.

Attorney General Morgan who is the president of the Madison association offered the following resolution at the gathering. It shows the attitude of the Michigan men toward the recent propaganda against Fielding H. Yost.

"Resolved by the Wisconsin Alumni association of the University of Michigan that we hereby extend to Fielding H. Yost, our beloved coach and adoptel son, our gratitude for his loyal and devoted service to his Alma Mater whose teams, largely through his ability, have for 20 years brought to Michigan the renown of which she is so worthy.

"Be it further resolved, that we here publicly acknowledge our appreciation of the ideals of clean sportsmanship which our coach has always succeeded in instilling in Michigan football teams, and which has made them generous in victory and great even in defeat."

Yost was not able to be at the meeting, but his loyal and staunch supporter, "Railroad Jack," was there to uphold him.

"I lived in Michigan for 25 years and I hereby publicly announce," said Jack, "that Fielding H. Yost is the greatest coach in the conference."

"Well, that was good chicken, wasn't it? Guess I'll see if I can get my Pullman now."

Harriers Race in Conference Meet Saturday

When Coach Meade Burke Wisconsin team goes to Bloomington this Saturday for the season's conference meet they will battle for positions with some of the strongest aggregations of harriers the west has seen in years.

Probably the Badger's most formidable opponents will be Coach Harry Gill's Illini warriors. The Sucker squad has practically its entire 1920 team back and eligible this year with the addition of Swanson, a new runner who has starred in meets this fall. In their meet with Purdue Saturday, the Illinois team showed their strength by defeating the Boilermakers 38 to 17. Swanson copped first, followed by Wharton and McGinnis who tied for second.

Furnas, Purdue's far famed Olympic star, showed but a poor fourth over the sloppy course.

Ames, as usual, is strong in the distance department. The Iowa State squad, with all but one of its last year's veterans back, has won easily in all its dual meets this fall, and is out to uphold its record as all-Western champion, which it has held for two seasons. In their meet with Kansas, Rathbun of Ames, placed first over the five miles in 26 minutes 51 seconds, with Webb and Frevort giving him strong support. Counting on men like these, Coach Art Smith will be out for a win Saturday.

While the Wisconsin men are, for a large part, new at the game, they are not to be underrated in the big race. They defeated one group of veterans when they met Minnesota an October 29, and with characteristic Wisconsin spirit, the new men are going to put up a stiff argument for a conference championship.

Wall and Finkle have show, in both time trials and meets, that they will be contenders for leading positions in the race at Indiana. Finkle's time for the 4.7 mile

BIG TEN TITLE WILL FALL TO IOWA OR OHIO

Wisconsin Eliminated
From First Place by Michigan

The results of Saturday's football games virtually decided the championship of the Big Ten conference. Iowa and Ohio played up to form, while Wisconsin was eliminated from consideration.

There is only the barest chance that either of the 1000% teams will suffer defeat next week. Illinois may hold Ohio State to a tie, and this would leave Iowa the undisputed champion with the Buckeyes and Badgers arguing over second place. An Illini victory over Ohio is a little more than might be looked forward to.

While an Iowa victory was expected Saturday, the 41 to 0 beating administered to Indiana leaves no doubt as to the strength of the Hawkeyes, and they will undoubtedly have the strongest claim to lay to the championship. Devine and Locke lived up to the reputation that they have established this season, and both are sure of strong consideration for berths on all-conference and all-western elevens. The two stars were supported by a forward wall which is not excelled in the west.

Ohio Beat Purdue

Ohio State registered a clean cut win over Dietz's Boilermakers by defeating them 28 to 0. Purdue was simply outclassed, although a fairly good fight was put up.

The Wolverines won the friendship of both Iowa and Ohio State when they held the Badgers to a tie score. A three-cornered tie for honors at the conclusion of the season would have left things in a most unsatisfactory condition, as the schedules of the winners have been such that a just decision could not have been made on the merits of comparative scores.

Illinois made a gallant effort to atone for its consecutive beatings this year, and until well into the second half it looked as if they would be successful. In the first period Sternnam made two successful kicks which gave the Illini a 6 to 0 lead. The Maroons seemed to wake up in the second half, and, due mainly to the spectacular performance of fullback Thomas' work, two touchdowns were pushed over. This concluded the scoring and the game ended with Chicago totaling 14 against the Illini's 6.

Interest Drags

It is doubtful as to whether or not the games in the west next Saturday will carry with them the interest that those of last week did. The game between Chicago and Wisconsin will be the headliner of the day, with the Ohio State-Illinois clash also important. Badger fans look forward all season to traveling to Chicago and see Wisconsin battle Stagg's warriors in the final game of the year. The two elevens appear well matched, and a Badger victory would give followers an opportunity to see how Richard's eleven stacks up against Princeton, who was defeated by the Maroons a few weeks ago.

Lawrence college won the Little Five conference Saturday by winning from Ripon. The score was 10 to 6. It was the last time that the two teams will meet, as Lawrence has withdrawn from the association.

course, wet and muddy as it was Saturday, was 26 flat, and the entire team traveled the distance faster than in the race with the Gophers.

Coach Bresnahan's team won recognition by Minnesota squad coach's home course to 27, trimming count that

JACK OF ALL TRADES

It is a hard and fast rule that no one can take more than a certain number of fifths a semester. The reason for the rule is obvious. A student cannot carry thirty fifths and make a success of his academic work. So the conclusion has been reached that it is much better to know a few things well rather than to know a whole jumble poorly. How successfully this may work out in practice is beside the point. The truth remains that, theoretically at least, the more a man does beyond certain limits the more inferior his work will be.

In extra curriculum studies, colloquially known as outside activities, a very dissimilar rule seems to hold; namely, that a man can take as many campus courses as he can "sign up" for. Under the present regime the successful man on the campus is he who belongs to as near all the societies that he can, who is on the staffs of all the student publications, who goes out for athletics, is a power in politics, is chairman of innumerable committees, and finally, who is able to keep himself eligible for all times. It is a case of Jack of all trades, and, very possibly, master of none.

In view of all this, a system of points for outside activities, as has been suggested, might be of great benefit. If one holds the view that extra curriculum work is an important part of college training, he must certainly concede that concentration in one or two fields of endeavor will bring better results than a brief experience in every field. A point system, similar to the hand, if the view is taken that to get an academic education, is very effective. It would of his time in theoretically at least, tend to influence him to spend that extra time in study.

BEER AND HUMOR

PROHIBITION has so violently robbed many of their normal sense of humor that minds that once possessed a precious sparkle of wit have become considerably dulled since the passing of the famous nineteenth amendment. On the other hand, those whose dullness was once quite profound now become accomplished—super-artists—masters in the art of "spiritous" joke-making.

People seem to have become so "daffy" over the absence of beer and the "vital" beverages that the slightest mention of them sends some into fits of ecstatic laughter. The man who makes allusions to beer is heralded as a great humorist and his listeners are regarded as appreciators of good humor.

It is unfortunate that prohibition has brought humor to such a pass. There is so little good of it at all times that it is to be deplored that that little is so marred by hackneyed superficial allusions.

Not that we have any objection to the "personal liberty" agitators or to the occasional use of the once much-abused stimulating liquids. But the situation is now very grave. Nothing seems to be humorous unless a corkscrew or a beer bottle lurks in the background.

Tired orators are taking advantage of this state of affairs and whenever they find themselves getting short-winded they invoke the beer-joke and a bored audience applauds and shouts and laughs with hysterical glee. On the street, in the class room, on cars, even in the long-faced and black-coated atmosphere of the pulpit, a joke is a joke only when it refers in some way to the "good old days" when convivial vats poured forth happiness and joy into the yearning throats of tired souls.

The whole business is becoming so stereotyped that it is a wonder some people don't scornfully revolt against it. It has undoubtedly been carried just a bit too far. It is about time a reaction set in against it.

We hope that at least here on the campus the beer-joke will go into perpetual hibernation. We have had just about enough. It is time humorists and would-be humorists became sane again.

CONTEMPORARIES

IT'S TIME TO BE PROMPT

Tardiness with students usually is a habit. Many who have 8:30 classes do not expect to get there until 8:35 or a little later. The day starts just as well for them, and, they think, perhaps a little better when they have a few extra minutes in bed. If the instructor looks up uncomfortably as they come in, and they cause a slight intermission in the lecture or a partial repetition of an assignment, they regard it as a matter of custom.

Usually the instructor is kind enough to mark their names off the absent list when they enter. If they have failed to get the assignment and he does not repeat it, they can obtain it from the student in the next chair. If they listen for several minutes before they get in line with the lecture they do not figure that their loss is great enough to warrant a change in their habits, for they usually receive as good grades in examinations as does the average student.

Perhaps their grades are as good; perhaps the instructor is courteous enough to overlook their tardiness; but what about the loss of time? Is the tardy student sacrificing time only for himself?

Time is the most precious factor in life; it's the most precious factor in the university. Cannot the student sluggards realize that?

It's time to be prompt.—Daily Kansan.

Dean Roe Addresses Social Science Club

"The Social Science club is one campus organization that is devoted to intellectual aspects of things," said Dean F. W. Roe, who addressed that society on the social and economic consideration of Ruskin and Carlyle, Sunday afternoon at Lathrop hall.

Ruskin was considered by Dean Roe from the viewpoint of art. "He saw the first ugliness of the smoke and grime of the manufacturing community. He believed that those who create and find beauty in their work are happiest."

Carlyle, he said, would improve the world by improving the individual self. We must have heroes and leaders, he thought, so every man should do his best to become a hero. He wanted education for everyone and with wise leadership he did not fear the ballot in the hands of the toilers.

"A new chivalry of labor toilers choose leaders and these leaders represent the toilers," said Dean Roe.

A discussion followed Dean Roe's speech as to the future policy of the club attendant upon the refusal of the use of the gymnasium to such speakers as Oswald Garrison Villard and Scott Nearing.

Carl Hohlfeld was unanimously elected secretary of the organization.

Short Course Has Large Enrollment

With many students still waiting to enter, the registration of short course agriculture students had already passed the 130 mark at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Registration will continue until 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

A larger enrollment is expected this year than the number that registered for the short course last year, according to E. J. Cooper, in charge of short course registration.

The students are mostly practical farmers who are improving their opportunity by taking short courses in agriculture during the winter.

Lectures begin at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. The course lasts 15 weeks, and is divided into three terms of five weeks each.

"Naughty, Naughty Children!"—Grad Rebukes Those Who Seek Truth

Editor Daily Cardinal:

It is with considerable disgust that I have been reading the series of articles written by various members of the student body and published in the columns of the Cardinal relative to the poor judgment of the faculty in general and the president of our university in particular for refusing the use of the gymnasium to the members of the Social Science club, when they wished it for the purpose of allowing the members of the club and other members of the student body to hear Scott Nearing air his socialistic views.

They seem to reflect lately upon the judgment especially of President Birge in his conduct of the university. I suppose they expect him to publish an account of his actions with the same as one of us, or as we do in the columns of this paper setting forth the reasons why he, the president of the University of Wisconsin, should do thus and so, and why he should not bow down submissively to the requests of the students here. It is as some one else before me has said, "As president of the university it is his duty to uphold the honor of the institution and the state which created it." The state expends much and many times more than the amount of tuition we pay in order to have us educated to be men and women and upright citizens of this country. Now if the state wanted to educate us to be a bunch of anarchists and Bolsheviks it would allow us the full sway of the university; and let me tell you here that that would be the quickest, easiest and least expensive way to make a bunch of the forementioned type, if we were allowed to do just as we pleased.

Now I suppose if all of us were as good as the theoretical Socialist should be, we could run a government without any head at all and the same way with a university. But unfortunately the ideal of socialism can never be reached because it is impossible as far as human nature is concerned for many people to live together without friction; and where you have friction you must have law, or someone who is competent to direct. Do you suppose again that you could come to this university and pick out the course that would be best for your own especial type of human nature? If you could you would be an exception, and a contradiction to all the laws of psychology. So, on the same line do you suppose you could come to this university and pick out the especial type of men you wanted to hear, and whose views you wanted to accept, and be really benefited thereby? I wonder why we have instructors! Are they merely figureheads, and are they by some mistake of life in a position to be our guides? Or are they misled by reason of what the students think and by reason of their friendship to act as our guides along the path of error. It seems to me that we should kick at them and tell them to go. The only thing government. Possibly that idea was the one the president had in mind when he refused the use of the gymnasium to the Social Science club. He probably knew of the record of the speaker and did not care to have such views expressed on the campus in public.

It is true this is a free country and everyone should have the right to express his own opinion, and it seems to me that we cannot say that we do not express it. We come right out and are discourteous to the faculty, who are doing their best for us, and trying to instill into our minds a little patriotism. If the Crown Prince of Prussia were to come over here and start a series of lectures on why he took the part he did in the late war (as he did threaten to do at a time not so very long ago), I suppose it would be the part of the faculty to

Reports on Harvest Laborer Now Ready

Results of investigations of harvest labor conditions in the wheat belt, which were carried on by Prof. D. D. Lescohier, of the economics department and his five assistants during the past two summers, are now being tabulated, and will be completed within a few months.

The intensive study of the labor phases of wheat harvesting and threshing in the great central wheat belt, which is involved in the report, was conducted under the direction of the U. S. department of agriculture, as a part of its study of the farm labor problem. It was carried on during the summers of 1920 and 1921 by a group of investigators under the leadership of Professor Lescohier. He was assisted by Miss Mary E. Ferguson, J. B. Dennison, Frank E. Fetter, Grant Brown, and William Hayes.

About 150,000 square miles of territory is contained in the wheat belt covered by the investigations made by Professor Lescohier. The belt, 850 miles long and 150 miles wide, extends from Fort Worth, Tex., up through northern Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, and Minnesota to the Canadian border.

Scribes Lose Rats And Curling Irons As Dresser Burns

"Fireman save my rats," was the cry of a distressed maiden who appeared upon the scene with streaming locks and exposed ears wearing one fur coat and carrying another at the Journalism house, yesterday afternoon during a fire which destroyed a dresser in a first floor room.

Smoke poured from the house as the scribes rushed out, each bearing a typewriter.

One young student endangered her life by re-entering the house to save a note-book—survivor of past lectures and container of all knowledge.

"Oh! I've got Mary's dress up there," was the cry of another as she argued with the firemen who prevented her from going in pursuit of the borrowed article.

The articles burned, as near as can be determined, are as follows: One rogue's gallery, two perfectly good rats, one curling iron, two boxes of love letters, three hairnets, and one powder puff.

Vocational Expert Speaks to Home Ecs

U. S. Agricultural Extension
Reaches 12,000
Women

"Over 11,000 women and 250 girls in rural communities in a single state have been reached by the United States Agricultural Extension service," said Miss Agnes Ellen Harris, Washington, D. C., in speaking to the Home economics women yesterday morning.

Miss Harris, formerly in charge of Home economics extension work in Florida, is now in the states relation service of the Federal board of Vocational education.

How to care for the pre-school child, how to rearrange the furnishings of the home, how to provide clothing for the entire family, and how to make poultry-raising more profitable are the chief problems in which the rural women are demanding help from the trained home demonstration agent and the extension specialist.

That the women are eager to get help from the specialists is shown by the rapid steps made in diffusing the new ideas brought to them.

Two women in one country, who were trained in the better care and feeding of children, demonstrated the methods in their own homes. This work was immediately picked up by 18 others who continued the work with their children.

Although extension service in rural communities began only in 1914 with the adoption of the Smith-Lever act by Congress, the work has already taken such strides that Miss Harris believes it will prove a wider field in the teaching of home economics in the future than it has been in the past.

Morning Watch Will Be Held in Lathrop

Morning watch will be held in the S. G. A. room in Lathrop hall during this week, in accordance with the Y. W. C. A. order which sets aside this week as the world's week of prayer. Scripture, prayer and songs will complete the service.

Cablegrams have been sent from England, Japan, China and India to the president of the national board of Y. W. C. A. petitioning him to pray for the disarmament conference.

One woman has come from Japan to present a petition signed by 10,000 women.

Stock Judging Squad Trains For Contest

With only two more weeks of training left before the International live stock show at Chicago, the University of Wisconsin stock judging squad has been reduced to seven men. Six men will be selected from the group to represent Wisconsin in the student stock judging contest during the show.

The team is being coached by Prof. J. G. Fuller, of the animal husbandry department. Workouts are held at regular periods every week at which the students are given intensive training in stock judging.

Saturday, the team will make a trip to the S. W. Harding farm, Waukesha, Wis., where they will judge many classes of shorthorns.

The stock judging squad now consists of R. C. Klussendorf, A. M. Knudson, R. P. Knoll, W. F. Foch, K. P. Sayre, Harvey Weavers, and G. L. Weber.
