2,299 STUDENTS VOTE "YES" TO ELIMINATE TIE

Co-eds Are Unanimous For Game

A vote taken among various groups last night indicated that 99 per cent of the men and 100 per cent of the women favor the plan.

These figures were based upon the number of students that could be reached through organizations and probably are representative of the attitude of the entire student body toward the proposed game.

2,299 Vote "Yes"

Among the 1,430 men that were reached through organizations 1,412 were strongly in favor of the game and 18 voted "No." The women in 27 groups, totaling 887 votes, were unanimous in their demands for the game.

"I'd like to see the tie played off," was the opinion of Lois Jacobs '24, new president of S. G. A.

"By all means the tie ought to be played off. There apparently is no reason why it should not be since both universities desire it," Maynard Brown '23, president of the Student senate said last night.

Leaders Favor It

"Neither school has any glory in a tie and no one was satisfied three years ago when a three-cornered tie existed in the Conference. It would be possible to arrange a game or series of games on some neutral floor, say at Chicago, and it certainly would draw a large crowd," Brown concluded.

"Certainly, I desire to see the tie settled. I don't know why such a rule should prevent a game since the teams and students at both universities want it," was the reply of Marian Metcalf '24, new president of the Y. W. C. A.

"I think that the championship should be settled and I'm in favor of having the tie played off," Esther Bilsted '24, new president of W. A. A. said.

Polish Artist To Etch Next Cover For Lit Magazine

"Bizarre, grotesque, fanciful," say the critics of the etchings of Stanislaus Szukalski, Polish artist who has recently risen to fame.

He has done an etching for the cover of the next issue of the Wisconsin Literary magazine which will go on sale next week.

While in Chicago some time ago a member of the Lit staff persuaded Szukalski to make this drawing for the magazine. It will appear in a collected volume of his work which is being brought out by the Chicago publisher.

Those who have seen the picture declare it to be an excellent example of his black and white work. Although he has broken from the tradition of pure representation he has not gone to the extreme reached by many of the exponents of modernist schools.

In addition to his etchings, and line drawings, Szukalski has done a great deal of color work which has received high praise. The young artist struggled for a long time unnoticed in Chicago, where he has lived for the past five years. Of late, he has won deserved acclaim and his recent exhibit at the Art Institute was a triumph.

MISS BENNETT SPEAKS TODAY

Women's Vocational Convo Will Discuss Problems and Means

"Vocations for University and College Women" is the subject on which Miss Helen M. Bennett, manager of the collegiate bureau of occupations at Chicago, will talk at 4:30 o'clock in Lathrop parlors this afternoon at the main address of the Women's Vocational conference this week end.

Miss Bennett will also give an informal talk on the general subject of vocations for women at Barnard hall at 6:20 o'clock in the parlors there.

All day today and tomorrow there will be 15 minute individual conferences with Miss Bennett for junior and senior women who have signed or who will sign for periods on the poster on the vocational bulletin board in Lathrop.

Today these conferences will be in the S. G. A. room from 9 until 12:15 o'clock and again from 2 until 5 o'clock in the office of the Dean of Women.

This is the ninth year that a vocational conference for the university women has been held in an attempt to make the women think more seriously and more concretely on the subject of their future work. One week end in the early spring is always set aside for it, as well as other special speakers who come here at intervals to talk on different phases of the work open to women.

The vocational committee this year is under the charge of Lois Jacobs '24 as general chairman. The committee assisting her is Louise Tobey '24, secretary, Margaret Henry '24, Lois Brown '24, Helen Zuelke '23, Marion Se Cheverell '24 and Frances Warren '24. This is a standing committee which serves throughout the entire school year.

CONFERENCE TO TAKE UP POST-SEASON IDEA

The question of playing post-season games to determine Conference championships will be one of the matters considered at a meeting of Conference athletic directors at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Auditorium hotel in Chicago.

Nelson Kellogg, athletic director at Purdue university, is chairman of the directors and will preside at the meetings. Coach T. E. Jones of Wisconsin is secretary.

The program also includes a discussion of sportsmanship in baseball and basketball and the matter of absorbing the Intercollegiate Wrestling and Gymnastic association.

EXERCISES FOR SHORT TERM TO BE HELD TODAY

More Than Fifty to Graduate

More than 50 students will join the ranks of Short course alumni of the College of Agriculture at 9 o'clock this morning when President Birge presents the diplomas to the class of '23 at the commencement exercises in Agricultural auditorium.

Class day exercises were held by the graduating class at 8 o'clock, yesterday afternoon. The playing of the Short course orchestra, the address by Prof. G. C. Humphrey, the class prophecy by T. E. Doherty, and the class will by Wilfred Wheeler were the principal events.

"We have great faith in the Short course. We look to you to become the leaders in your communities when you return home," Professor Humphrey declared.

Many traditions were willed to the freshmen by the executor of the class will. Personal property such as "sheep mismanagement" and golf sox were included in the legacy.

The graduation exercises will open this morning with an overture by the Short course orchestra. The Invocation will be given by Rev. J. E. Sarles. Horace L. Goss will give the Class Oration. Dr. E. C. Elliott of Purdue university will be the principal speaker.

The class will assemble in the upper halls of the College of Agriculture and march to seats reserved for them in the auditorium. President Birge and Dean H. L. Russell will lead the procession.

The first class in agricultural short course was held in 1885 when 19 students attended. Since its beginning, the short course has grown until its graduates are found in virtually every state. The roll of the present class contains students from Massachusetts, New Indiana's position in the standings was unchanged by the defeat. The Hoosiers already had clinched seventh place.

BLUE BANDITS SHOW TONIGHT

Plot Laid in France Promises a Number of Clever Situations

When the curtain rises on the first act of "The Blue Bandits," the Gun and Blade play, this evening in the auditorium of Central high school, the audience will see a gay cafe in Broux, France, where pretty flower girls are selling their wares to the guests assembled there.

The time is just after the great war, and the plot revolves around the expected raid by the Blue Bandits, painted by rumor as blood-thirsty characters in search of prey.

The town is put under the protection of one Gaspard and his valiant gendarmes. Interesting events succeed each other, and the bandits are finally captured. There is much opportunity for comedy, much of which is furnished by Coco, the village nut, Gaspard and his gendarmes, two American doughboys and French girls whom they woo and win.

The principal women's parts will be taken by Hilda Schultz '25 as "Margot," the village queen; Lucile Hanson '24, as "Yvette," the village belle.

Carroll Robb '25, as "Gaspard," Ephraim L. Peterson '24, and Bernhard A. Berndt, will play the male leads.

Although the ticket sale at Hook brothers indicates that the play will show to capacity houses on both nights, there are still seats available for either performance.

FIRST DEBATES OF THE SEASON TO BE TONIGHT

Badgers Meet Illinois Here

The first intercollegiate debate of the forensic season takes place at 8 o'clock this evening in Music hall, when Wisconsin's affirmative team meets Illinois' negative. At the same time Wisconsin's negative squad debates against Michigan at Ann Arbor.

The question to be debated is, "Resolved, that any statutory or constitutional changes necessary to render impossible the use of the injunction in labor disputes be made immediately." This subject has aroused wide-spread interest because of the extensive use of the injunction in the recent rail strike.

Negative Goes to Michigan

The affirmative team which meets Illinois here is composed of Wilber Katz '24, first speaker, George J. Fiedler '25, second speaker and George McKinnis '23, closer.

The negative team which has gone to Michigan is Ralph E. Arley '23, first speaker, Harold A. Seering '24, second representative, and Wayne L. Morse '23 closer.

The three universities, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, compose the Midwest Debating league. This organization has been in existence for about 5 years during which time Michigan, recognized as one of the strongest forensic schools of the country, has obtained the most victories, with Wisconsin second.

The judges chosen to officiate at the two debates are Professor Rarig of Minnesota to judge here, and Professor Day, formerly of Harvard, to give the decision at Ann Arbor.

Admission is 25 cents

Under the one judge system, the judge gives the reasons for his decision and carefully analyzes the various points made by the two teams. On some former occasions, no decision contests or open forum decisions were used and these two forms generally have been favored in certain of the other Conference institutions.

The Forensic board has authorized the teams to charge an admission of 25 cents to cover expenses of the traveling teams, and various supplies and accessories of the debate work.

SECOND BAND WILL GIVE INDOOR CONCERT

For the first time in the history of the university, the Second Regimental band will play an indoor concert. The concert will be given at 4 o'clock Saturday, March 24.

The instrumentation of this year's second band is very complete, and their training has been almost entirely along lines of classical music. Although the men are not able to approximate all of the effects of the larger concert bands they have developed surprising skill in interpretation of the better class of music.

The program will include a number of attractive selections from the operas and a number of marches and lighter compositions. A vocal soloist will appear with the band.

Frosh Women Greet St. Pat With a Hello

"Hello, frosh." Nearly 1,000 freshmen women will recognize the wearin' of the green today, and exchange salutations.

"Hello Day" under the auspices of the freshmen commission is designed to have every freshman woman at Wisconsin wear a little green ribbon to mark her identity, and then greet and be greeted accordingly.

Ribbons will be on sale throughout the day in Lathrop and Bascom halls for 5 cents apiece. Proceeds will be devoted to financing the annual meeting of Green Button.

CASTALIA WILL MEET TONIGHT

Mrs. Turner to Discuss Subject of Legislation Here

The subject of legislation will make up the program of Castalia Literary society at 7 o'clock in Lathrop hall parlors tonight. Mrs. Glen B. Turner, wife of the prominent city lawyer, and closely associated with the state board of education and the League of Women voters will speak on legislation and will conduct the following general consideration of the topic and answering questions members may submit.

Tickets for the annual banquet on Saturday evening, March 24, may be obtained at the meeting. Initiation ceremonies will take place on this date.

Pythia will hold its second semester tryouts from 6:30 to 8 o'clock tonight on the fifth floor of Lathrop hall. Any literary, artistic, dramatic or musical selection may be offered. Musical tryouts must be accompanied by a short talk. Each tryout is limited to two minutes.

Those desiring to make arrangements call Marjorie Cabrera '23, F. 2036 or Mabel Crumney '24, B. 3532. Names may be left in Pythia mailbox, Lathrop, some time during the day.

The society as a whole will make the elections to membership on the basis of past experience, presentation and originality.

Varsity Quartet Will Be Feature at Union Dances

Old Irish songs featuring the ballad, "Mother Machree," by the Varsity Serenade quartet will be an extra attraction at the regular Union board dances in Lathrop parlors Friday and Saturday nights.

The Fairbanks orchestra will play for Friday night. Saturday night the music will be by an orchestra including Torrey Foy, trombone, and Jimmie Van Altena, saxophone. It will have the same personnel as the old Gilmore orchestra, except that Arnold Jarvis '25 will occupy Gilmore's place at the piano.

Lathrop parlors will be decorated in the spirit of the occasion. In addition to singing during the intermission the quartet will sing during some of the dances. Some new popular songs will also be introduced.

"We are getting better in every way," said Bobby Costello, member of the quartet, yesterday. Other members are Russell Irish '24, Martin Below '24 and Jack Cornelius '24.

1,000 ACRES OFFERED FOR CHILDREN'S HOME

One thousand acres or more of farm land just northwest of Lake Mendota will be offered to the Yeoman official delegation here next month as a site for the proposed $10,000,000 children's home, it was learned yesterday.

Options on three farms, comprising almost 1,000 acres have been secured by Charles T. Ellis, local real estate broker, and have been turned over to the Association of Commerce.

The land can be purchased for approximately $250,000, Mr. Ellis said yesterday. It was valued at about $250 an acre, he stated.

The farms are owned by Fred Buehler, Frank McGuire and William Shillinglaw. Attempts have also been made to secure an option on the Thomas Gilligan farm. Buehler has 260 acres. The McGuire farm comprises about 320 acres and Shillinglaw has granted an option to Ellis on 465 acres.

"If the Yeoman delegation which is to purchase the site, desires more land, there is more there to be had for the asking," Mr. Ellis said.

The Yeoman officials will arrive in Madison about April 15 to look over the sites offered.

The Badfish river runs across the lower portion of the land and the most southern point is not far north of Lake Mendota.

SPRINGFIELD—The Illinois legislature yesterday ordered a complete investigation of the rioting at the Lester strip mine at Herrin last June in which 22 lives were lost.

NOTED AUTHOR AND EDUCATOR DIES OF FLU

Dr. James Roscoe Day, chancellor emeritus of Syracuse university, died at Craig hall, Atlantic City, Tuesday night. The noted educator died from broncho-pneumonia after he had contracted influenza. He was spending a brief vacation with his family and left Syracuse in good health.

In 1893 after a successful career in the ministry, Dr. Day became chancellor of Syracuse university, then a comparatively small school of three colleges. Under his able and vigorous direction it enjoyed a phenomenal growth. Within 15 years Dr. Day added the schools of law, applied science, and the teachers' college. During the 25 years of Dr. Day's chancellorship the university's endowment was increased by several million and its wealth by more than $10,000,000. In 1892 Chancellor Day became chancellor emeritus and his post as the active head of the university was taken by Dr. Charles Wesley Flint.

During ex-President Roosevelt's fight for the presidency, Dr. Day attacked him for his stand against monopolies. During the Wilson administration, Dr. Day's writings and public utterances were directed with vehement criticism at the president and the League of Nations.

NEW WING ON BASCOM HALL ASKED BY BOARD

The University of Wisconsin requests $430,000 for the construction of a wing on Bascom hall, according to the hearing before the joint finance committee of the legislature which was concluded yesterday afternoon.

Expenditures asked were $95,000 for pummeling construction, $34,000 for an addition to the Chemistry building, $60,000 for an addition to the Law building, $15,000 for an addition to the Agricultural library, and various small sums for the purchase of small tracts of land and modern additions and improvements.

The total of this request which is in addition to the regular running expenses of the university is approximately $800,000. Virtually no increase is asked for operating expenses over the last years.

The exact sums requested for the purchase of land was not disclosed but will be taken up by the committee in exclusive session.

The $600,000 for the men's dormitories which were originally contained in the request is now being considered separately. It has been suggested that the dormitories be constructed on university grounds but financed either partly or in full by private capital.

Unclaimed Scarfs, Books Await Owners at Lathrop

Lost articles from Lathrop hall have been assembled in the outer office of the dean of women in Lathrop, and in the main office of the physical education department on the fourth floor.

In the collection at present there are two fountain pens, a glass watch crystal, two wool scarfs, books on military training and several other text books representing almost every course on the hill.

The women in charge of the lost and found articles wish that people call for them at once.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS HEAR PROFESSOR ROOD

That 5,000,000 tons of coal are used year by locomotives standing idle was the statement made by Prof. J. T. Rood in his talk to the A. I. E. E. Wednesday night. He urged the electrification of the eastern railroads, and the subsequent release of 7,000 locomotives for western use.

He showed the desirability of using automatic sub-stations, controlled from one central station in preference to man-operated individual stations.

"Wisconsin is coming to the point where all its power stations will be divided between two companies; even now a plan is on foot to accomplish this combination of the smaller companies," the speaker declared.

Following the talk a business meeting was held at which plans for the parade were discussed, and chairmen were assigned to the various floats to be entered by the organization.

Bill Seeks Highest Limit of 25 Feet on Stadium Addition

The Minier bill, which seeks to limit the height of any addition that may be erected to the football stadium at Camp Randall to 25 feet unless it is located more than 200 feet away from private property will come up before committee on state affairs today at 2 o'clock.

The measure provides that if the Board of Regents of the university will buy certain private property adjacent to the athletic field, the provisions of the measure shall not apply.

Assemblyman Ethan B. Minier, New Richmond, who introduced the bill, says that he personally is not interested in it, but that he introduced it at the request of attorney Alfred H. Bushnell who is representing certain owners of private property.

FIRST ROUND OF STATE TOURNEY PAIRINGS MADE

Full Schedule Printed For Clipping

The pairings for the first round in the state high school basketball tournament were made yesterday, according to Alvin Emanuel '25, chairman of the Schedule committee. Eight games will be played in the first series, starting with the Wisconsin high-Appleton game Wednesday afternoon, March 21, at 8 o'clock.

The championship game will be played off at 8 o'clock Saturday night, and will be preceded at 7 o'clock by a battle for the consolation cup in the losers series.

A winner for the Rhinelander district has not been made yet because the tournament there was postponed until this week-end on account of an epidemic of sickness among the schools of that section.

Two great improvements over previous tourneys were worked out by the schedule committee. The method of arranging the pairings is an innovation that places the schedule above the reproach of fault-finders. The schools were arranged in an alphabetical list and the first team was paired with the last and so on down the list.

The teams which play in the finals will have no games on Saturday before the final matches. The strain of a long hard tournament will be largely eliminated by this plan, as the high school athletes will have a night between the finals and semi-finals.

The schedule of games follows:

Wednesday

- 3 o'clock—Appleton vs. Wisconsin high.
- 4 o'clock—Cuba City vs. Two Rivers.
- 5 o'clock—Eau Claire vs. Superior.

TANKMEN SWIM IN BIG TEN GO

Natators to Fight For Honors in Maroon Pool Saturday

The Conference meet of the Big Ten swimming teams will take place this week end in the University of Chicago pool. All the teams are pointing hard to this last meet before disbanding for the year. There are some fast swimmers entered and the meet promises to be an exciting one full of thrills for the spectators from start to finish.

Minnesota, although they have not come through the season with a clean slate, is hoped to win by Joe Steinauer, coach of the Badger fish. Minnesota lost to the Purple swimmers when two of their men fell down in the deciding event. The Gophers have the best balanced team in the conference according to Coach Steinauer.

Captain Johnson Bennett who is now a conference title holder is expected to show some speed in the meet. Breyer of Northwestern is another fast man who will show his skill in the Maroon tank. Coach Steinauer predicts that Bennett will win any event that these two speed specialists enter.

The three best teams in the conference appear to be Minnesota, Northwestern and Wisconsin. In the coach's opinion all three teams are about on a par, and the order in which they finish is a matter that can be decided only in the tank. The coach is taking his best men in each event and feels that with a few favorable breaks the banner can be taken by the Badger fish.

NORTHFIELD, Minn.—The theory that college athletes are poor students has been disproved by four members of the crack Carleton college track team. Donald Cuncan, a member of the 2-mile relay team, Harry March, of the relay team, Rudolph Raatama manager of the team last year and broad jumper, and Lindsay Hoben, holder of the Minnesota state conference record for the broad jump, have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity.

Meet is Open to All Students

Pugilistically inclined male students will have a chance to show their wares March 22 when the all-university bouts take place in the gym.

The event will be held in conjunction with the Interscholastic basketball tournament to be held at that time, and a large crowd is expected to witness the premier boxers work.

Many of the men who worked well last year and who are working regularly in the boxing room at the gym every day to get in shape for the meet. The competition is open to male students who have had experience enough to warrant good matches.

Eddie Borgelt and Ray Moore, men who have made names for themselves in former years, are working with the men helping to get them into condition.

The bouts which were to be held this week end have been postponed and will take place some time next week.

Letter awards were made Harry Kipke, Lansing; Franklin Cappon, Holland; George Haggerty, Ypsilanti; William Henderson, Detroit; William Piper, Calumet; and Arthur McWood, Detroit. Those from out of the state were Howard Birks, Chicago; William Rice, Archibald, O.; Meyer Paper, St. Paul, Minn.

Maroon Gymnasts Win All

Events From Northwestern

The Chicago gym team had an easy win over Northwestern when the latter was defeated with a score of 804.5 to 293.5 at Bartlett gymnasium Tuesday afternoon. Van Vachtor helped the Maroons to take first place in all events. He took first on the horizontal bars, rings, and parallel bars and also won a third in tumbling.

Appointed Mercer Coach

A former Colgate university football star, S. L. Robinson, head coach of Mississippi college, has been appointed head coach for Mercer university, Macon, Ga. He succeeds John Cody who resigned Saturday to accept a position as assistant at Vanderbilt university. Robinson will be assisted by Everett Strupper, all-American halfback.

BADGERS HAVE TITLE CHANCE

Wrestlers to Compete in Big Ten Meet Next Saturday

Undefeated, and with high hopes for a Conference championship, the Badger gym team will compete in the Big Ten meet held by the Western Intercollegiate Fencing, Gymnastic and Wrestling association at Columbus, O., on Saturday.

Wisconsin won second place in the meet last year and it has virtually the same team this year. Chicago and Minnesota will be the greatest opposition, for both lost to the Badger squad by only a narrow margin. If the breaks are with either of these teams, it might mean defeat for Coach Leitz's men.

The Wisconsin squad is composed of veteran gym men who have made names for themselves in Conference circles before. The team is well balanced and scores its greatest number of points through consistent teamwork rather than by individual starrng.

Hansen in the side-horse event and Porth with the Indian clubs are the outstanding men. Captain Kichen is an able tumbler and will be well supported by Kubosch and either Bumer or Koch. Other members of the team are Schmidt, horizontal bar; Stevens, side-horse; and Krieger, rings.

Two men, Reinhold and Thompson, will represent Wisconsin in the foils event and two other men, Thompson and Kubosch, will take part in the saber contest.

U. of Kansas Wins Track

Meet From U. of Missouri

The University of Kansas defeated the University of Missouri in the twentieth annual track meet Friday night by the score of 43 to 21 for eight events.

ADVANCE TRACK SQUAD DEPARTS FOR CINDER GO

Big Ten Conference to Call Crowds

The advance guard of Wisconsin star track team leaves Madison this morning for Evanston, Ill., where the men will take part in the preliminaries to the annual indoor Conference track meet tonight.

The number of entries in the half mile and the quarter mile events is so great that the first heats will be run off tonight in order that the competition tomorrow will not be slow.

Nine men leave with Coach Mead Burke this morning for the middle distance runs and they will be followed tomorrow by the remaining 15 men. Captain Spetz, Johnson, Hill and Wade will run in the quarter mile event and Valley, Hilberts, Ramsey and Rossmessel are slated to take up the work in the half mile.

The greatest opposition that the men will find in the middle distances will come from Iowa and Northwestern camps. The Hawks are well represented in the quarter mile run by Coulter and Wilson, men with records, who are expected to show the class in the event.

Crippen of Northwestern has a record in the half mile, and while he is working with a weak team, he is likely to score in his event. Telford is another Purple runner who is to be feared. In addition to these men, Krogh, star Ohio State man, Reinke of Michigan and Morrow of Iowa are strong men.

The Badgers have been working well in the distance runs during the past few weeks and will cause other Conference men any amount of worry. Wisconsin runners took first place in all runs except the dash against Notre Dame last Saturday.

The real competition of the meet will come on Saturday when all events will be run including the finals in the half and the quarter.

Despite the fact that the Badgers have gone through a mediocre season, they seem to have a sneaking chance for a first place and a good chance for second. Michigan looks like a winner but, in a Conference meet where 10 teams are competing, the chances for breaks are frequent and a bit of luck might mean victory for Wisconsin.

The competition will resolve itself into a battle between Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa, with a chance that Minnesota may come to the fore. All of these teams with the exception of Wisconsin have won over other Conference squads this winter.

SHORT COURSE SERVICE

Back in 1885 someone at Wisconsin in a complete stroke of genius and forethought created the Short course for the use of the numberless young farmers who could neither afford the time nor the money to take the entire four year agricultural course.

The course has been a consistent success. Nineteen enrolled that first doubtful year. More than 400 are in attendance now. Fifty-two finish their two year course with commencement exercises today.

Six thousand students have taken the course and have returned to their home farms with new ideas and new inspiration for the development of their own communities. They have become an important factor in developing the agriculture of the state.

The Short course has been the means by which the message of scientific agriculture has been carried to the farmers of Wisconsin. Prof. R. A. Moore, who first perfected a pure bred seed corn, wanted some means of trying it out, some means of demonstrating its superior qualities to the farmers of Wisconsin and the farmers of the nation. He found that means in the Short course. The short term students put his experiments into practical use and Wisconsin has become the leading state in producing pure bred seed corn.

Hundreds of students, leaving the Short course with new ideas and modern methods, have gone back to the farm, applied what they learned, demonstrated the value of the Agricultural college. Farmers, recognizing that value, have sent their sons back to take not the Short course, but the longer one of four years.

Short course men, their attention concentrated on agricultural problems, see the great future of agriculture, carry that vision into practice on the farm, and in so doing demonstrate more completely and concretely the inseparability of university with the progress of state and nation.

THE NEW REGIME FOR WOMEN

The election of S. G. A., Y. W. C. A., and W. A. A. brings a new regime for the women of the university. To the new officers are due congratulations and wishes for success.

The regime under a student government system may be vital or it may be indifferent, depending on the industry and the judgement of the leaders.

It will be well if the newly elected heads of the university women do not accept all that has gone before and that which exists now in their organizations as infallible. Rather they should ever hold foremost that inquiring attitude which will seek out defects in the present order of things and adjust their rules and proceedings to take into account new conditions, new tendencies, and new ideas surrounding and arising from the modern university woman.

WISCONSIN DEBATES TONIGHT

Wisconsin debaters test their ability against Illinois here tonight and against Michigan at Ann Arbor in one of the most important forensic events in the country. The opportunity of taking part in the impending intellectual feast is not to be overlooked.

Statistics gathered last fall to ascertain the value of forensic activities, especially intercollegiate debating, show that of twenty thousand male students less than one-half of one per cent have been intercollegiate debaters. Yet, out of this small percentage has come more than 60 percent of those students generally recognized as the outstanding leaders on the campus.

"I see it most clearly when I try to single out from a long line of students some one group which shall stand forth as intellectually the best—best in college work and best in promise for future development. Much as I would like to do so I cannot draw the line around my own favorite students in philosophy, nor the leaders in mathematics, nor those successful in biology; nor can I fairly award the palm to the Phi Beta Kappa men who have excelled in all their subjects. It seems to me that stronger than any other group, tougher in intellectual fiber, keener in intellectual interest, better equipped to battle with coming problems, are the College debaters—the men who, apart from their regular studies, band themselves together for intellectual controversy with each other and with their friends from other colleges."

It is men of this calibre who will represent Wisconsin tonight. Their work is a good one. May they present Wisconsin with a clean forensic slate.

ACTIN' UP A BIT

Vets, who staged a little tragedy for the Germans over in the Argonne, will change roles and do a little comedy and song work for public approval tonight and tomorrow at the Central high school. It's going to be interesting to see how they do it. They responded gloriously when Big Bertha began to act a bit over in France and if they can do the same for the little Berthas playing opposite them in a French stage setting tonight, all praise to their versatility.

AFTER BEING KNOCKED DOWN

While everything about the university may not satisfy the most particular safety engineer, a reasonable amount of care is paid to making conditions as safe as possible. There is one place, however, that could be made much safer. The swinging doors leading into the general reading room of the library are positively dangerous.

The doors conform to the general plan of the architecture of the building, but there is no need for them to be so heavy. When the door is not swinging, considerable effort is required to move it back, but this is nothing compared to the strength required to stop the door when it swings back.

If anyone chanced to catch a finger between the doors when they swing together it would be badly crushed if not torn from the hand completely. The force of the door swinging clear back is sufficient to knock down a person of average weight unless he is braced to catch it.

The advantage in heavy doors is not known. Replacing the present doors with lighter ones could be done easily while the building is being repaired. Each day's delay means the prolonging of an unnecessary hazard.

Editors Say—

THE MOTHER TONGUE

(Ohio State Lantern)
A thorough knowledge of chemistry or engineering does not constitute an education. Neither is the person who thoroughly masters philosophy, history, or literature, necessarily educated. The educated person, while knowing well the profession which is intended to gain him a livelihood, also has a general education in other subjects, and, above all, an easy familiarity with his mother tongue.

No person being of an English speaking nation can call himself educated until he does know the English language, and, knowing it, puts it in daily use. Four years in college would be ill-spent, indeed, if they taught nothing in the way of self-expression.

By their conversation, and nothing more, students of the Ohio State university are judged by thousands of people whom they meet for short talks. By their conversation they demonstrate the influence the university has upon them. If their use of words be correct, they will leave a favorable impression, not only of themselves but of their school.

FAINT PERFUME, by Zona Gale; D. Appleton and Company; $1.75 at the Co-op.

It is interesting. That is all we can say of Zona Gale's latest novel. And realizing the fact that "interesting" is an inadequate descriptive word, that it conveys little impression, we hasten on.

Faint Perfume is obviously, perhaps too obviously, the story of the "persons next door." In that respect it is like many other modern novels. We will admit that it is treated with very clear understanding and that we become closely acquainted with these persons.

The minor characters are more real, we may add, than the principal ones. Perhaps this is as it should be; that Miss Gale is primarily concerned with her common people; not with the more unusual ones who really make the story, which is her secondary concern.

We are set down in the midst of a family composed of crass people who squabble "about the color of this wall-paper." There is the Gideonite, a typical salesman who can say nothing more than "Well, well, well," and "By thunder," there is the ordinary Pearl who puts her family into spasms by eloping; there is Richmuel an ordinary wife who has married a husband intellectually too good for her, selfish, light; there is a lovable old grandfather who has outlived his time.

But the two principal characters are not so real. They seem to be nothing more than the framework upon which the story is founded.

And a very simple story it is, told in a simple way (that is, simple except for the style of which more will be said soon). "A wet autumn night, a low lighted house, wheels on the soaked gravel, the open door and Leda Perrin in her father's arms." In such manner is the novel begun, continued and concluded. Zona Gale doesn't make any bones about anything.

WHILE THE HOUSE BURNED
Mrs. Slaughter: "What have you?"

Professor Slaughter: "Four Aces."

Mrs. Slaughter: "Well, what's the other card?"

The first two parts move rather slowly but when one enters upon the third part one finds why this has been so. For Miss Gale has been working the reader up a climax which is at the same time both tense and quiet. In this degree the author has done well, in that she lays her foundation once and for all and does not need to revert to it. That she has taken long in laying that foundation may be excused by the result.

Then bang, she spoils it all. She seems to have known that the story should end on page 209. But that would make of it a tragedy and really she could not do that either for the sake of her characters or the dear public. So she needs must continue on eight more pages and allow the lover to return and claim the heroine, Leda, in the face of all opposition. The author owes her fine restraint in those last pages.

We confess that we were engrossed in the story to a certain extent, that we faintly admired the principal characters and that we believed in the others.

But the whole was spoiled by the writer's style. Sentences inverted, Short statements of fact blared, "The light was table candles and a mound of flowers." "No," said Leda only. "The whole way Leda said hardly a word." Not anything entirely new, entirely astonishing; just enough to divert the reader's attention and wonder a bit; just enough to annoy and irritate if one is ever so near the irritable mood.

The style does not put one in sympathy with the writer. It requires one to stop and reread, hesitate, stumble. For us it almost ruined what else there was contained in the book.

The novel itself is slight in length, as seems to be the tendency with modern writings. It requires little more than three hours for perusal, and except for that plagued style it is easy reading. That is, there is nothing profound, deep, philosophical in it; nothing that is perfectly straightforward, simple.

Heywood Brown of the New York World calls Faint Perfume beautiful and offers as other epithets "rich, swift, complete and understanding."

Interesting and rich, yes; beyond that, no.

GERMANS MAKE NEW OVERTURE

Are Willing to Accept Allied Supervision of Finances

DUESSELDORF—Three Germans were shot and killed by French sentries yesterday while trying to break into a machinery warehouse at Recklinghausen. According to the French announcement the shooting took place after the Germans had disregarded the usual challenges.

LONDON—The information printed by the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, to the effect that Germany has up her sleeve a peace plan that includes guarantees to France as well as international supervision of her finances, attracted considerable attention here yesterday.

The article, based on advices which the newspaper says are thoroughly reliable, asserts that Germany is not prepared to bring the plan into the light until she is assured that it will receive more attention than did the proposals she had ready for the London and Paris premiers' conference.

Unofficial overtures were recently made to the British cabinet by Germany, the correspondent continues, as to whether Great Britain would enter the opening wedge in peace negotiations by suggesting openly that a definite German offer would be considered in London. These advances did not draw out the British authorities and consequently Germany is reluctant to disclose her hand.

The writer declares that the German industrialists are prepared to contribute a material guarantee. He learns that Germany is ready to accept international financial control.

16,000 Miners on Strike.

ESSEN—Sixteen thousand coal miners of the three government mines in the Recklinghausen district of the Ruhr are on strike on protest against the occupation of the state coke plant near Westerhold, according to German estimates yesterday. The plant was seized yesterday by a party of engineers escorted by a battalion of French infantry. The French authorities express belief that the strike will last only a few days.

German hostages were yesterday for the first time placed on the locomotives of trains operated by the French and Belgians. This move was the outcome of repeated sabotage operations. The hostages so employed were in most cases burgo-masters or other municipal officials of the various districts. Relays of them will ride on all trains both day and night.

Unidentified Woman Leaps to Death Over Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y.—A woman leaped into the river about thirty feet above the brink of the American falls yesterday and was swept to death over the cataract. She was apparently about 25 years old and well dressed, wearing a brown tailored suit, gray stockings and chinchilla dolman. She engaged an automobile at the Imperial Hotel earlier in the day to make a tour of the points of interest. In the car she left a small handbag containing $18, a railroad check issued at Albany and a string of beads. She did not register at the hotel.

HOUSE VOTES 8 HOUR DAY FOR WOMEN LABOR

A forty-four hour week, with an eight hour day for women, was favored by the assembly today when it sent to engrossment a bill by Assemblyman Olsen, cutting the hours of work for women employees.

This measure came before the lower house with the committee of public welfare recommendation for indefinite postponement. The assembly refused indefinite postponement and then engrossed the bill.

At present working hours of women are limited to 55 in any one week, with a 10 hour day permissible. Following its recent action limiting the hours of work for all employees in industry to eight in

ASSEMBLY GIVEN WOMAN'S PRAISE

Senator's Wife Speaks at Peace Meeting at Washington

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Speaking here Thursday morning, before the annual meeting of the United States section of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Mrs. Robert M. La Follette sharply attacked the national defense act of 1920, claiming that its provisions make the state national guards a part of the federal military establishment and that the general staff is scheming under its terms to establish a system of compulsory universal military training.

Mrs. La Follette referred to the recent action of the Wisconsin assembly in abolishing the national guard of the state, a policy which she approved.

"Recently the Wisconsin assembly passed a bill abolishing the Wisconsin national guard," Mrs. La Follette said.

"A compromise bill is now pending which will cut the cost of the guard in the state, by half. That much at any rate has been accomplished. As a further result of investigation and agitation the compulsory features of military training in the university are to be abolished."

"The national defense act of 1920 has transferred the control of the army, heretofore exercised by congress and the states, to the general staff and puts the military policy of the nation into the relentless grip of the war machine. Until the law is repealed, the only way that congress or the people can influence that policy is by withholding appropriations."

"The issue of universal compulsory military training is not dead. In all the official reports of the general staff and the war department, public addresses and magazine articles, you can read between the lines the ominous threat that if the present system of voluntary training fails, the only alternative for the militarists is forced training."

"Throughout the past two years the secretary of war, Chief of staff and other distinguished officials of the war department have availed themselves of every opportunity to arouse and enthrall the American people to stand back of the huge militaristic scheme provided for in the national defense act. Under pressure of public opinion the regular army has been reduced in spite of the protests of the president, the secretary of war, the chief of staff and other spokesmen of the militarists. Progress in militarization is therefore being made through the other components of the United States army, the organized reserve and the national guard. Under the national defense act, men enlisting in the national guard take an oath acknowledging voluntary enlistment, as a soldier of the national guard of the United States, for a term of three years."

"The Wisconsin Women's Progressive association of which Ada James, the beloved suffrage leader, is chairman, has taken very active part in the program of demilitarization of Wisconsin. Thoughtful women everywhere are using their brains and their ballots to put an end to war. I am not a sentimentalist. Forty years I have been trained. Sometimes it has been compulsory training in the hard school of American politics. I believe I have some knowledge of what the people are thinking. Of all the things said to me about the recent Wisconsin election, it pleases me most to have a friend say that the result almost justifies Mr. La Follette's confidence in the people. My faith is not quite so absolute and unflinching as his, but I share it. "I solemnly affirm here now my belief that the great masses of the people of this country are convinced that war is needless, that preparedness fosters imperialism and makes for war. It is not stupidity that General Pershing is up against in carrying out the application of the national defense act as the militarists claim. It is the plain common sense of the plain people."

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Encyphletis, the sleeping sickness malady which has been prevalent in Superior for the past two months, late yesterday claimed another victim in the death of Joseph Alexander Morrison, aged 2. The lad had been inseparably of the past with the progress of the and nation.

B. H. Diney, town of Oneida, who shot and killed a sportsman dog last November, and was pardoned this week by Governor Blaine was in Madison yesterday. He declared that a wrong impression has been received by most people of his offense.

"I shot the dog solely as a matter of protection," he said. "The hunters, when asked to leave my premises, refused to go. Their dog chased my chickens and sheep and worried my little children. It was the only thing I could do to force them to leave."

Snow Drifts Herald Good Orpheum Bill

Yesterday's snow brought with it drift after drift of applause for the good bill at the Orpheum this weekend. From a snow storm outside we went to a rain storm inside in "Twice a Week." This was a one-act comedy growing out of a tragedy with its setting at the cemetery gates. Following the rain we had "Darkness and Dawn" in a clever take-off on a small town opera house performance. Not only the music but the actions of the sextette were syncopated in Gladys Delmar's feature.

Elly She was the "youngest feminine juggler in the world" who must be old enough to vote. She got her act across when she performed the duties of a piano mover in a different way.

Gene Jerome and Suzanne France They carried out their program of giving the music lovers a treat with some opera solos and piano and cello selections.

Octavia Handworth and Compny A three-person comedy which ended with a downpour, not only of rain but of applause.

Tango Shoes The fake shoes got the act away to a poor start but the end was satisfying.

George and Paul Hickman The audience had no desire to throw turnips at either George or Paul. We'll not disclose the turnip episode, see for yourself.

Michigan Law Makers May Visit State University

It is probable that the entire Michigan legislature will visit Ann Arbor in the near future in accordance with President Marion L. Burton's invitation to inspect the university building program, which was accepted by both houses recently.

The house agreed to accept the invitation without a dissenting vote. A committee was appointed to ascertain how many members would attend.

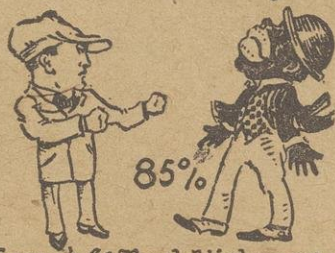

A committee of three was appointed to make plans for the trip and to set a date for the inspection of the university's new buildings and the general building program of construction work now going on there.

Robin Hood Booked Here For A Week

Following almost in the wake of "When Knighthood Was In Flower" that other long-heralded picture "Robin Hood" will arrive in Madison to the delight of movie fans. This latest vehicle of the athletic husband of Mary will be shown at the new Madison theater the first week in April.

Probably many students have already seen this film. But most of them have considered it of such excellent quality that they will probably be glad of an opportunity to see it again. And surely the rest of the fans will be only too pleased to hear that they are soon to see this film of films.

"Robin Hood" played to packed houses throughout the country. Those who were fortunate enough to see it played in the larger picture houses of the metropolis say that the showing was greatly improved by orchestra rendition of de Koven's opera of the same name as the picture.

There may not be an orchestra in the Madison theater for this purpose. But the organ, if its operator sees fit to use it for the opera music, fills the vacancy.

Gloria Swanson has only two more days at the Madison. Her picture "My American Wife" which has pleased local movie-goers, will be supplanted by "Christians" which commences Sunday.

The Fisher company is carrying out a mailing system whereby it informs any of its patrons about pictures which it has booked for its local theaters. It sends each month to those who submit a request an elaborate pamphlet, almost a magazine, about the films which are to be seen here. The magazine contains many short articles about movie folk.

Group Presented to Increase Present Scholarship Fund

A group of three scholarship fund plays were presented in Lathrop hall last night under the auspices of the American Association of University women, Madison branch. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Flora Hertzler, Mrs. J. V. Fuller, and Miss Margaret McCarthy of the speech department. More than 300 tickets were sold.

"The Feast of the Holy Innocents," coached by Mrs. J. V. Fuller, was a lively comedy with its scene laid in the living room of two "impressive" sisters, who make plans to visit the big metropolis, Milwaukee, on pretext of attending the consecration of the bishop, but really to get away from the monotony of their small Wisconsin town. Mrs. Carl Stephenson and Mrs. P. Man Potter played the Milk sisters. Mrs. J. H. Walton, Mrs. Clara B. Flett and Mrs. N. L. Hill were the supporting cast.

An impressionistic sketch of the war, revised by Mrs. Fuller, had for its place the ruins of a church somewhere in the still unrestored regions of devastated France. Roles were taken by Mrs. Joyce O. Hertzler and Miss McCarthy.

The concern of a little Jewish clerk with the affairs of her customers was the chief interest in "The Florist Shop." Those who played were Mesdames J. V. Fuller, J. W. Walker, Mr. Alfred Ludden, grad, Merle V. Raines, grad, and Carroll Roach '25.

Capt. M'Millan, Arctic Explorer, Here, Mar. 19

Capt. Donald B. MacMillan, arctic explorer, who returned this fall from a 14-months expedition to the unknown Baffin Land, is to speak at the University March 19, under the auspices of the Lecture Committee.

In July, 1921, Capt. MacMillan sailed from Wiscasset, Maine, in the auxiliary schooner, "Bowdoin", named for his Alma Mater, on his seventh voyage to the Arctic. He returned with his six companions in September, 1922. The purpose was to explore the unknown Baffin Land, which had on its western side, the longest unexplored coast line in the world. The whole geography of this western coast was corrected, big lakes and rivers in the interior discovered, and a careful study made of Eskimo life, the fauna, flora and meteorological conditions.
