Fleming Answers FBI Head About Communist Speakers

By JEAN SUE JOHNSON
Managing Editor

Testimony by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover that five Communists spoke on the Madison campus of the University in 1964 sparked a statement from Chancellor Robben Fleming.

"I have not had an opportunity to read Mr. Hoover's testimony but I hope that he gave a balanced picture of student activities here. If he cited five Communist speakers on this campus in the past two school years, I trust that he pointed out that these were five of some 500 outside speakers brought to the campus during these years by student groups," Fleming said.

HE ADDED "It is easy to blame Communists for everything one doesn't like and the University has suffered from such loose thinking lately.

"There is no reason to believe that those who may be of the Communist persuasion have any significant influence on this campus," he added.

"There is no reason to believe that those who may be of the Communist persuasion have any significant influence on this campus," he added.

Hoover's testimony before a March house appropriations subcommittee was released Monday. He listed the University of Wisconsin as having more Communist speakers than any of the other 38 campuses where party spokesmen had been.

HOOVER also named Daniel Friedlander, a sophomore from Chicago, as one of those on the campus who "have Communist backgrounds." He cited protest meetings against U.S. policy in Viet Nam at Berkeley and Madison as being attended by individuals with subversive backgrounds.

The speakers listed by Hoover were: Herbert Aptheker on Feb.

Oberlin Injury Finishes Tennis Team's Chances

By MIKE GOLDMAN
Sports Staff Writer

Disaster struck the Wisconsin tennis team in the eve of the Big Ten conference meet as no. 1 singles player Tom Oberlin suffered a freak eye accident in Wisconsin's 7-2 non-conference victory over Loras College.

THE INJURY will cause Oberlin to remain under observation for five days at University Hospitals and to miss the Big Ten tennis championships held Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at Bloomington, Indiana.

Oberlin suffered the mishap in a doubles match with teammate Gary Kirk. A ball hit by the Loras team between Kirk and Oberlin was traveling out of bounds. Kirk, who thought the ball would possibly land within the boundary lines went back to hit the ball while Oberlin continued to watch the ball's path.

Oberlin called the ball out of bounds, but Kirk swung at the ball which accidentally hit his partner in the eye.

BERLIN, momentarily stunned by the blow, was given a pair of sunglasses and continued to play the match which was won by the Wisconsin co-captains.

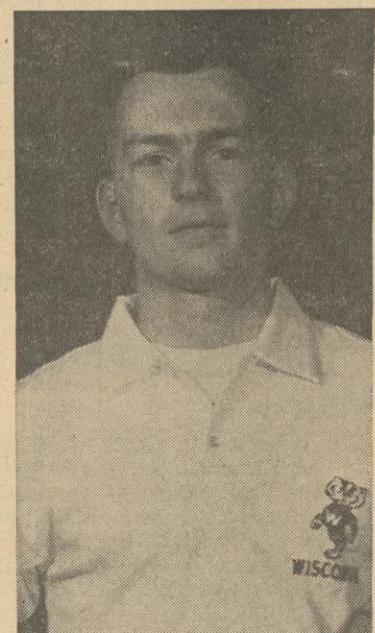

After the match was completed, swelling started in the eye and Oberlin was taken to the University Hospital for examination. The doctors said that Oberlin suffered a ruptured eye vessel and even though the injury was not serious, Oberlin would be forced to remain in the hospital for five days observation. Oberlin is reported in very good condition.

For the Wisconsin team, Oberlin's injury is a severe blow. Ob-berlin has come back into his top form.

An ironic sidelight to Oberlin's injury is that one year ago, Tom's brother Dave, who was a standout on last season's team, suddenly became sick and was also kept from playing in the conference championships.

berlin has played excellent tennis all year and has provided superb leadership for his teammates.

COACH JOHN Powless will be forced to revamp his lineup which will now move Kirk up to the no. 1 singles position. Powless will also have to find a replacement for Oberlin in his no. 1 doubles team. At the no. 1 doubles spot, Kirk and Oberlin have given some excellent performances this year.

Tuesday was not the first time this year that Oberlin has been injured. Earlier in the season, Oberlin suffered a leg injury which kept him out of several meets. Oberlin was just getting

NSA's Resolution Blasts HUAC Action

By RUSSEL LUBLINER
Cardinal Staff Writer

The National Student Association (NSA) at its national congress orientation meeting Tuesday night passed a resolution protesting the House Committee on Un-American Activities' attempts to intimidate and suppress those who oppose government policy by equating opposition with treason.

THE RESOLUTION was introduced by Dan Friedlander. After prolonged debate on whether or not NSA would sign the petition, the resolution was adopted by a 7-1 vote.

The petition began, "We protest the existence of the House Committee on Un-American Activities which has violated the constitutional rights of Americans for over a quarter of a century. We protest the House Committee on Un-American Activities' attempts to intimidate and suppress those who oppose government policy by equating opposition with treason."

Originally the NSA meeting was called to orient NSA delegates and alternates for the National Student Congress to be held at the University August 22 to September 2.

SRP Keeps Campaign Promise, Gets Pre-Exam Study Break

We applaud the faculty approval of a two-day study break before final exams and feel that credit for this measure is due to three groups.

FIRST, to the Wisconsin Student Association's (WSA) Student Senate where the measure originated under the auspices of the Student Rights Party (SRP). From the moment the original bill was passed Senate members guided the proposal through numerous offices on Bascom Hill. SRP made the proposal a campaign issue and promised to work for it. In the election, the referendum received 3,541 affirmative votes while there were 355 votes for moving exams back two days, and 455 for keeping the present schedule.

Second, credit must go to the faculty. Their quick response to student desires illustrates the continuing liberal tradition of the University. This action with next fall's new women's hours and the expanded library hours is evidence enough of the faculty and administration's concern for students' needs.

Third, credit must go to the student body. Only by the majority of students proving that they are mature and are here primarily for a sound education, did these measures meet the approval of the faculty and administration.

Beyond THE past and present actions, however, we can see more implications. First, if the work done on this study break measure is an indication of the effectiveness that Senate can have, we compliment them and hope that this is only a start. With an expanded budget provided by their new insurance plan we see even greater promise in their future effectiveness. Second, the faculty has shown great trust in and concern for them by actions similar to those recently receiving great publicity. Third, let us never stop our questioning of existing conditions and working for better ones, and let us recognize from this example that we do have an effective, though imperfect, means to voice our demands through our student governing body.

The Staff Speaks... Bogoland War Needs Quick-thinking Troops

By LEE LINTON

Americans are becoming conditioned to hearing charges of "American aggression and intervention" by foreign nations. We have been accused of intervention in Vietnam, the Congo, the Dominican Republic, Cuba, and Alabama. The unseen victims of all American's ambiguous actions have been the harassed embassy staffs.

Let's look at the situation in Bogoland, a small island off the coast of The Other China, where a small group of dedicated, frustrated career diplomats are trying to serve American interests.

Jim: Good morning John. Say, did you see the morning bulletin?

Today Pres. Peter Nales sent 5000 Marines to Quebec, 4000 Marines to the Sahara, 100 WACs to Congress, and James Bond to Russia.

John: Hmmm. Well at least it still is a let up in our new making-the-world-safe-for-democracy policy. If the Communists ever invaded the U.S. with all our troops abroad, we'd have to depend on the trusty Minutemen.

Jim: By the way I just got word from our special counter-counter-espionage man that King Rex of Bogoland knows about the planned coup tomorrow and has his followers planted in the hierarchy of the rebel group. Rex plans a second coup immediately after the first coup to take over again.

John: Hmmm, I better phone Washington for some Marines just in case something goes wrong.

Jim: Good idea, in the meantime I'll get in touch with HUAC and find out who the Communists are in the rebel group.

(12 hours later)

Jim: All right men, bolt and blockade all the doors and windows. A violent three battle has broken out in front of the embassy between the King's followers, the rebels and the student pickets, and Pres. Nales said he couldn't afford a new embassy this week.

John: Hmmm. Say, uh, Jim, did you know that the Marines landed at both ends of the island and are bombarding each other with mortar fire?

Jim: Oh-oh, the rebels must have asked for Marine support too; they probably told Washington that Rex was being influenced by Communists.

John: Hmmm. This sure is a mess, what should we do now Jim?

Jim: I'll take some of that Scotch after you John, uh, I don't know John, maybe making the world safe for democracy is more trouble than its worth?

John: Hmmm.

Wait For Big Hike Before Hiking Away

By BARBARA PERMUT

As an out-of-state student, I will never forget that August afternoon in 1963 when I eagerly tore open the envelope from the Registrar containing my re-entering registration information.

I HAD LEFT the University for a year in June, 1962, aware of the fact that tuition for me would have risen from $725 to $750, and when I applied for readmission for Sept., 1963, I was even prepared for an increase in tuition up to $800.

But when my eyes focused on that little pink sheet, my mind focused on my once healthy bank balance and I let out a strangled screech which brought my mother on the run.

Somehow, though, I have managed that 33 1/3% increase. And somehow a few in-state students have also managed their 27% increase.

THE FACT THAT the last tuition increase became official in the middle of the summer of 1963 is no doubt the best explanation for the lack of protest against that tuition hike (The University and the Legislature both seem to find the summer the most expedient time to accomplish things they know would bring storms of protest from the resident student body; to wit: the summer of 1964: the long disputed replacement of the flagstones on the Union terrace.)

I certainly agree that the current recommendation of the Finance Committee that the requested salary increase for the faculty be cut is deplorable. Trite though it may sound, there is no doubt that professors, like everyone else in this country responsible for the education of our precious and/or precocious young, are ridiculously underpaid. Elaboration on this point, however, would be nothing but platitudes.

I DO FEEL that this protest against the recommended 6.6 per cent (in-state) and five per cent (out-of-state) increase in tuition is entirely out of proportion.

Save your energy for when they really try to hike it, kids.

Senior Swingout: Sentimental Coeds And Melodramatics

In the Mailbox

An Open Forum of Reader Opinion

To the Editor:

Sunday's Senior Swingout, a ceremony allegedly to honor female academic excellence, turned out to be a display of innane and meaningless over-sentimentalism. Three baby-faced girls dressed in pink narrated a capsule view of four years of a typical coed.

With animation, of course, they gave a Rosamond du Jardin soap opera story of the roses e-colored confusions, adjustments, and social whirls. The coed image sounded like a scatterbrained, infantile, and contented boob.

ANOTHER highlight was the master of ceremonies, whose voice jarred the ears with a flat and whining tone. And those poor girls had to stand, straight-faced no less, in their "W" formation and listen to that trite. Then they got their chance: they were instructed to take one giant step to the side while the nice audience clapped. I mean, really.

The level of the entire ceremony was an insult to the audience as well as the girls being recognized. I think Swingout is a fine tradition, but it was mocked by the inappropriate handling.

Letter Corrected

To the Editor:

It has been brought to my attention that my letter conveyed the impression that I was present at the afternoon meeting with the representatives of the government from its very beginning. I was not. I arrived after it was well in progress, and my observations concerning the tone taken by Mr. Conlon therefore applies only to that portion of the session that I witnessed.

While this may seem a small matter, it is a question of "fact" that I feel responsible for correcting.

Protest For Flaming Liberals

To the Editor:

We have a solution to the problem of channeling student protest into quiet but effective expression, expression which will permit revolting students to vent their feelings in a warm, colorful and peaceful manner.

This method also has the added advantage of enabling protesting students to receive full press, radio, television and screen coverage and at the same time of preventing irate state legislators, professors and students, the public and others who disagree with their protest from calling for disciplinary action or expulsion. The method is that of PYROTECHNICAL PROTEST and merely involves dousing oneself with a flammable liquid and immolating oneself in protest of any popular and worthy cause.

A special flag-stoned area at the Union could be reserved for this purpose. Long hair would be particularly advantageous for the aspiring demonstrator. Those who disagree as well as those who agree with the protest could watch the ceremony and all would feel that their side had been well served.

President Debates Wisconsin 'U' and College Structure with Ed. Subcommittee Chairman

By PETER ABBOTT
Day Editor

University Pres. Fred Harvey Harrington engaged in a sharp verbal exchange with Richard Cudahy, chairman of the education subcommittee of the committee of 25, over the organizational structure of higher education in Wisconsin.

THE EXCHANGE occurred at a panel discussion Saturday at the Wisconsin Center on "What would be the most effective program for post-high school education in Wisconsin?" The discussion concluded the journalism institutes sponsored by the University in cooperation with state newspaper and advertising groups.

Cudahy said that the "present organization and coordination of higher education in the state is, by reason of its organization and not its personnel, chaotic, irrational, and rife with the potentiality of unrestrained spending and educational confusion."

Cudahy called for more public control of education to offset the present monopoly of control exercised by educators from the University, state university, and vocational systems. He also suggested a reorganization of its structure to give it a more unified direction.

HARRINGTON disagreed, contending that people have the notion that the organization of higher education in the state is in "a mess and is financially extravagant, or that the units of the system are at one another's throats.

"Of course higher education is expensive," he went on, "but it is as important in developing the wealth of our nation as our natural resources. We have a good system but it can be improved; it is expensive but worth every penny of it."

Another panel member, Eugene R. McPhee, director of the Wisconsin state universities, said that problem of organization is not new and went over the history of re-organization attempts since 1871. He added that "More is known about higher education in Wisconsin than in any other state."

OTHER PANEL members include Clarence L. Greiber, director of the state board of vocational tional and adult education; Angus B. Rothwell, state superintendent of public instruction and chairman of the coordinating committee of higher education; and David Barrent, moderator, who covers higher education for the Milwaukee Sentinel.

Greiber said that changing U.S. occupational distribution, according to the Labor Department, revealed that only "middle-man power and professional occupations are increasing in percentage of the total work force." He said that this pointed to "new post-high school needs in vocational and technical education."

Fulbright Grants Offered for Study In Latin America

Because of the increasing interest in inter-American studies, the Government is offering a number of grants for study in Latin America under the Fulbright-Hays program for the 1966-67 academic year. The program is supervised by the Board of Foreign Scholarships and administered by the Institute of International Education (IIE).

The grants are available for American students with proficiency in the spoken language for Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Columbia, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela. Students may indicate up to three countries of preference in Latin America.

APPLICANTS for the awards must be U.S. citizens with at least a bachelor's degree by the beginning date of the grant. Preference will be given to applicants in the field of social sciences, education, humanities and the arts.

The fields especially recommended for study are architecture, anthropology, economics, education, geography, history, history of art, journalism, law, language and literature, political science, and sociology.

The grants provide round-trip transportation, tuition, books and maintenance. While married students may apply, the awards do not provide for dependents' travel and support. Grantees will be expected to participate in the academic life of the country of assignment. They should have a special interest in the Latin American area and specifically in the country or countries for which they apply.

Application forms and information for students may be obtained from the campus Fulbright Advisor, Mrs. Polinsky, at the Graduate Fellowship office, B3, Bascom. The deadline for filing applications through the Fulbright Advisor on this campus is Oct. 15.

STOLEN CAR FOUND

A "Back-woods joyrider" has struck the campus.

University student Willard Woodman's car was stolen from Langdon St., last Sunday.

Protection and Security reported Tuesday that the vehicle had been found sitting in a dense clump of pine trees, 3,000 ft. from the nearest traveled roadway in the University Arboretum.

They said the car had sustained only minor damage to the undercarriage, but the "joyrider" is still at large.

Spartans Favored In Big Ten Track Meet

By DIANE SEIDLER
Associate Sports Editor

Based on current best performances Michigan State appears to be the team to beat in the 65th Big Ten track classic which opens Friday in the Iowa Track Stadium at Iowa City.

The Spartans, always near the top in the past years with such performers as Bobby Moreland, Bob Lake, Walker Beverly, and Sherman Lewis, will be seeking to unseat defending champion Wisconsin.

Coach Fran Dittrich's squad had four individual titlists in its $\frac{1}{2}$ point loss to the Badgers in the indoor meet. Three of those four now hold the best times in the Big Ten outdoor season.

Jim Garrett is the leader in the 100 yard dash (9.7) and Daswell Campbell recorded the fastest time in the 440 at 47.4.

Gene Washington has the best marks in both hurdle events. He tied the record of 14.0 in the 120 high hurdles and broke the inter-the two mile. The Wolves' relay team has the best time of 9:11.9.

In the field Jack Harvey has tossed the shot 54'7" for second, and George Canamare has vaulted 15'5 $\frac{3}{4}$ ", also for a second.

Always boasting a dangerous team, Minnesota has two outstanding athletes among the 24 who will compete. Norris Peterson, second in the two mile last year, posted a time of 8:58.7 in that event this season, a time at least 10 seconds better than his nearest contender.

Tom Barnes is a double threat as he holds the best distances in both the shot put and the discus.

The Iowa team, although not extremely loaded with talent, is nevertheless notable. Leading the Hawkeye attack, Steve Goldston, currently holds the third best time in the 100 (9.8) and the

GOLFERS DEFEAT NORTH DAKOTA

The Wisconsin golf squad won its last dual meet of the year by defeating North Dakota 378 strokes to 399. Wisconsin's Rolf Parman took medalist honors over the Cherokee Country Club course with a two over par 74.

Wisconsin's record now stands at thirteen wins and seven defeats. The Badgers next travel to Lafayette, Indiana, for the Big Ten conference championships Friday and Saturday.

mediate hurdle record with 36.8.

Fielding the largest team to enter the meet (31), Michigan, already winner of the Big Ten crown in football, basketball, and swimming, is another strong contender.

The Wolverines have the only returning 1964 individual champion to enter the meet, in the person of Kent Bernard. Bernard will enter either the 440 or the 660; he is currently second and fourth respectively in the Big Ten in those two races.

Michigan has several other impressive performers. Bob Densham, who placed second in the high jump last year, holds the third place height of 6'6".

Dan Hughes is first in the 880, and Tom Benedict is second in second best in the 220 (21.5), only one tenth of a second off the lead time. He was third and fifth respectively in those events last year.

Al Randolph is holding down second place in the 330 intermediate hurdles, and the mile relay team is also second in 3:12.9.

Captain Bill Frazier, one of the finest half milers in the world (1:48.1), will be sorely missed by the Hawkeyes. Frazier has been sidelined due to a leg injury.

The fifth top contender is Northwestern. Jim Harris is first in the 660 and second in the 880. Craig Boydston has run the fastest mile (4:11.5), and pole vaulter Jim Albrecht has reached the highest mark of 15'6 $\frac{1}{2}$ ". Albrecht was second in the meet last year.

Just as these five teams will give Wisconsin a great deal of trouble, the remaining four are decidedly weak.

Purdue's only claim to fame is broad jumper Jim Moore. Moore is leading the Big Ten with a leap of 25'.

Similarly, Indiana has virtually only one decent entry. Randy Weddle has the best time in the 220.

Illinois lost its last hope when defending 100 and 220 yard dash champion Trenton Jackson decided he'd rather play baseball. Ohio State is also entered in the meet.

"It is fast moving and certainly one of this year's best comedies."
