All-Commerce Week Draws
Many Prominent Speakers

CLOSES WITH KAPER

Executives, sales managers, and advertising men are included in the list of speakers which will be in Madison and will speak to student gatherings the remainder of this week in connection with All-Commerce week.

Among those who will speak are A. R. Brunker, president of the Liquid Carbonic company, Chicago; C. L. McMullen, sales manager of the Fuller and Johnson company, Madison; and Charles Estey, president of Estey and company, Chicago. These men will speak at convocations on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons at 4:30 in the auditorium of Sterling hall.

Hold Banquet Tonight

The functions for the week start this afternoon with a convocation which will be addressed by Charles Estey, Chicago. He will talk on advertising problems and sales methods. Mr. Estey will also be present at the joint banquet of the Advertising club, Women's Commerce club, Commerce club, Commerce Advisory commission, and others interested, which will be held at 6 this evening in the Badger room of the Woman's building.

William Douglas McAdan, vice-president of Williams and Cunningham, Chicago, has been secured by Prof. E. H. Gardner as speaker of the evening, on account of the inability of James Young to be present.

Banquet Open to All

McAdan will deliver his speech on "The Tendencies of Modern Advertising." He will show how the trend in advertising passed through the various phases from catch words and slogans, to the modern utilization of the selling point.

William F. Engelhardt '22, president of the Advertising club, under whose auspices the banquet is given, said yesterday afternoon in an interview, "We are anxious that a large number of students avail themselves of hearing these nationally known men. For that reason

ECONOMICS EXAM ROUSES INTEREST

A great deal of interest is centering around the "plus and minus" examination to be given by the course in Economics 1b tomorrow. Many opinions are being voiced by students taking the course as to the probable outcome of the exam.

Regarding the probability of this system being used entirely in the future, Prof. W. H. Kiekhofers said, "The system of marking in the Elements of Economics course for the past few years has worked very well. The student's final grade has been based on his showing in two one-hour examinations, four fifteen minute quizzes, a final two-hour examination, and the class work."

"It is not the intention to supplant the traditional essay type of examination, but to supplement it. The showing in this 'plus and minus' examination will be compared with the showing in other tests and examinations."

SATIRICAL ELEMENT OUTSTANDING IN NEW OCTOPUS, DECLARES CRITIC

BY WILLIAM M. SALE

Mr. Wells and Don Stewart popularized the historical movement. The tendency has been seized by The Octopus and introduced in the number which appears today. The idea is well sustained in the art work, contributions portraying ancient phases of life with a delightful disregard for historical faithfulness and a very evident modern point of view.

The satirical element predominates. It is in this manner that history is made over in order that modern conventions may be played for their very lack of modernity. One appreciates the rapturous concern of the member of the sultan's harem, when she inquires as to whether or not the "shake-up in the royal court" will be a "1 o'clock party," St. George's conquest with the dragons arising from the rum bottle smacks of present-day experiences; and the old "triangle," in Roman garb, is revived as a suggestion for Cecil de Mille.

Kruse and "Jerry Mac" furnish new blood for the art staff, though I cannot but believe that Jerry Mac's center-piece of the pages of history that H. G. Wells forgot is too reminiscent of former art work in The Octopus to make me feel that he is a new entry.

The prose and verse contributions do not balance well with the art work in quality. Walt Mason and his school are still with us, though, fortunately in a much less degree. The skit on Charles Chaplin seems to have little excuse for being, and the "Fine Arts Department" is continuing under pressure.

An "Outline of History," shoved to the back of the book, seems to me to deserve better location, since it is a skillfully and satirically worded barb. The tendency to spin the humor of the shorter jokes about the pun is still apparent, and words are played upon with the monotonous incessancy of a heathen beating a tom-tom.

The opportunity for forceful editorial comment has not been overlooked, though again the editor seems to be rather fascinated by the wealth of words which he can juggle.

Historically speaking, it's the best The Octopus has done this year.

ENGINEERS NAME MARCH 25 FOR ANNUAL PARADE

St. Patrick's Celebration Will Bring Flood of Humor

The Engineers' parade, which was to have been held Saturday, March 17, has been postponed until March 25, upon request of the Madison Chamber of Commerce. A big spring opening has been planned for that day by the merchants' association.

A substantial purse has been placed in the hands of H. A. Phillips '22, to be distributed as prize money for the best burlesques, and it is thought that with this incentive, the Engineers will outdo themselves in their annual attempt to lower the dignity of the other schools.

St. Patrick Will Attend

Phillips, manager of the Engineers' parade, in a recent interview, said, "Standing room is going to be mighty scarce on State street Saturday afternoon, March 25. Our parade may not be as elaborate as the one the Britishers had the day Princess Mary got married, but we are willing to wager that it will draw forth more laughs."

"It was impossible for St. Patrick to be with us on his birthday, because of many other engagements. We have been informed that he will be here on the 25th, in all his glory and red whiskers, so the Engineers will pay tribute to him on that day instead of on the 17th, as has been the custom heretofore."

Exhibit Blarney Stone

The famous blarney stone of the engineering college will be on exhibition on that day, and under the protection of this and their patron, the good St. Patrick, the natural blarney of the engineers will flow freely and sarcastically; taking material form in burlesque representations of the doings of other colleges.

The music school will be there with their pipe-organ; the lawyers will be there with their drill squad; the skeleton of the Medic school will be dragged from its closet and exhibited to the gaze of the curious; St. Pat's own "Phantom Band" will aid the regular Engineers' band in discoursing sweet music, and many other fantastic stunts will aid in making the "mile of smiles."

DRAMATIC CLUB CHOOSES CASTS

Edwin Booth Announces Actors
For Three One-Act Plays

Edwin Booth dramatic club announced yesterday the casts of the three one-act plays which its members are presenting at their spring production, March 31.

The program promises to be wide in its appeal, say the producers, inasmuch as it varies from one of the historical burlesques of Philip Moeller to a tragedy by John Drinkwater.

The cast for "Pokey," a burlesque on the incident of John Smith and Pocahontas, by Philip Moeller, who been chosen as follows by William Tannewitz, coach: "Pokey," Olivia Orth; Mrs. Pocahontas, Miriam Doan; Captain John Smith, Henry Scott Rubel; John Rolfe, Don Marvin; the elder Mrs. Pocahontas, Ruth Kopke; Powhatan, chief at Wero-wocomoco, Henry Klos; Storm in the Eye, Fulton Lebermann; Hail in the Nose, Karl Kremers; Wind in the Ear, A. W. Walter.

"In a Workhouse Ward," a comedy by Lady Gregory, will be played by the following cast, as announced by Arthur McCaffrey, who is coaching: Michael Miskell, I. O. Hughes, Honore Donohoe, Olivia Fentress; and McIneny, Vincent Conlin.

Ralph Scheinpfug, who is coaching, "A Night of the Trogan War," by John Drinkwater, has chosen the following cast: Pronax, Larry Has-

OCTY DIVULGES CROSS MYSTERY

Sh-h-h-h! The mystery of the Black Maltese Cross, which so defiantly greeted students hurrying to their classes a fortnight ago, has been divulged.

Small posters bearing the same dread insignia of the cross and the watchword, "We Are Here," followed by the words, "The Octopus," fluttered throughout the Latin quarter and along State street this morning.

And thus the sale of Octy's Historical number was proclaimed.

IS TWO YEAR COURSE

Short Course Class Day exercises will be held in Agricultural auditorium at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, according to programs that have just been published. Graduation exercises are scheduled for 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

The Short course in agriculture consists of two winter terms of four months each. The students are farm boys and girls who desire practical training in applied agricultural subjects. Intensive training in agronomy, soils, agricultural engineering, veterinary science, horticulture, live stock judging, bookkeeping and other practical subjects is given during the course.

Dean Henry Started Course

Graduation from the course requires two short course years of work in the above subjects. Upon completion of the course, students are awarded certificates of graduation.

The first Short course in Agriculture was started in 1885 under the direction of former Dean Henry. Since then, more than 6,000 students have graduated from the course. The graduates include prominent men in all phases of agriculture.

72 Will Graduate

Most of the students return to the farm. They become the natural leaders in their respective neighborhoods, not only along agricultural lines, but in the other things which make rural life attractive and worth while.

Exactly 72 students will graduate from the Short course this year. The class Day program is published below. The Commencement Day program will be published tomorrow.

DEBATE MICHIGAN HERE ON FRIDAY

Wisconsin debaters take the platform Friday in the second series of intercollegiate contests of the year. The affirmative team will engage Michigan at Madison while the negative travels to Urbana to debate Illinois' affirmative.

"That the United States should cancel the war debts due her from her allies in the Great war," is the subject for debate. By agreement the term "allies" is to be interpreted to mean all nations that were fighting against Germany.

The contest with Michigan which will be held in Music hall, will be the hardest fought forensic battle waged here this year. Wisconsin's "Little Giant," Sterling Tracy, closes the debate. Robert B. Stuart will present the case from the economic and financial standpoint. Francis Karel '23 will open the case for the affirmative.

You Can't Afford To Miss These Men

THERE is one thing that the women of this institution should be complimented for, and that is their interest in outside activities, particularly the outing clubs. We are able to make a positive statement in this matter because of the regular uniform the clubs have,—that of a tweed suit. The entire Kappa chapter deserves special commendation. Not only have they joined as a body, but they have bought their own uniforms—we can find no evidence to the contrary—and are bravely sporting them in the face of vulgar criticism.

THE admirable cover on this issue of the Octopus is too good to be the work of unadulterated imagination. Why didn't the artist remain wholly artistic and label the job "Portrait of My Father"?

DIRECTLY from the dean's office we have scooped the news that all the digging across the hill is actually for a purpose. In view of so many appropriations being denied the institution, the authorities have authorized the university employees to dig for oil. Shares will soon be sold and bonuses given to increase the enrollment.

POOR MAN!

When handsome man once stoops to folly
And learns, too late, it doesn't pay,
Who then, among his friends so jolly,
Will help him drive the girl away?
The only way to ditch his lover,
To keep his name from public eye,
To keep his folly under cover
And save his credit,—is to fly.

HAVE you noticed the stones of alleged Indian origin, in the corner of the Library grounds? And have you read the inscription? The stone is broken in two parts, and it seems to us that, as a relic, it would be more convincing, if the writer of the inscription had said "I know it's a relic; I broke it myself".

THE art of preparing Indian relics is equaled only by the two great New Jersey industries,—the manufacture of old furniture, and the carving, by machine, of Japanese hand carved curios.

Kornhauser to Open Temporary Quarters

The Alexander Kornhauser company will be open for business next Saturday morning, March 18, at their temporary headquarters on the sixth floor of the First Central building. The floor has been thoroughly renovated and new fixtures have been installed.

Kornhauser's will have a special elevator in the building, which is located at Washington and Pinckney streets. Because of the large number of departments carried by the Kornhauser company it would not be practical to attempt to continue all of them.

Hundreds of letters and telegrams have poured into Kornhauser company from their sources of supplies during the past three weeks, offering every possible help and encouragement. Merchandise is now in transit and everything will be clean, fresh and the latest in style. The floor is attractive, has all conveniences, and plenty of air and sunlight.

PLACES STILL OPEN IN HARESFOOT ORCHESTRA

Places are still to be filled in the Haresfoot orchestra which will accompany the twenty-fourth annual production, "Kitty Corner" on its spring trip, according to John Mokrejs '23, who will direct the musical numbers. "We still desire men, especially performers on the double bass, drums, French horns, and cello," said Mokrejs, last night.

Tryouts will be held at 7:30 tonight in 32 Music hall, and all men who have signed up, as well as those trying out for the first time, are urged to appear. No positions have been permanently filled as yet, and all men trying out will have opportunities to get a chair in the "pit."

Women Are Gaining Ground Occupying State Positions; 15 Hold Office On Boards

Only Five Women Were On Administrative Payroll
Five Years Ago; Men Still Hold Controlling
Majority On All Boards

Women are gradually filling appointive positions on the administrative commissions directing Wisconsin's state government, membership of these bodies shows. Where five years ago, five women held offices on boards and commissions, today 15 have positions.

As yet control is held in every directing body by men, and only one board paying a regular salary, the state board of control, is a woman a member. All others serve either without compensation or on a per diem basis.

Gov. Blaine has appointed six women to positions on the state government during his term, in four instances to positions where women had never before served.

Mrs. C. J. Otjen is the only woman working for the state on a $5,000 a year salary. Gov. Blaine re-appointed her as a member of the state board of control, for the term ending in Jan., 1927.

Four positions in which women are named to serve were created by the last legislature, the state bureau of the blind, the annuity board of the state retirement fund, and the normal school and public school retirement fund boards. Maude S. Hooper, Janesville, fills the position on the blind bureau; Elizabeth McCormick, Superior, the position on the annuity board; Mrs. May Severy, Milwaukee, the position on the normal school retirement board, and Miss Lillian L. Chloupek, Manitowoc, the position on the public school retirement board.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kading, Watertown, fills one of the three positions on the civil service commission, as the first woman member. Two university regents, Mrs. Elizabeth Waters, Fond du Lac, and Florence G. Buckstaff, Oshkosh, serve as the only women members of the board, while three women have places on the university board of visitors: Mrs. Charles R. Carpenter, Madison; Mrs. Howard Green, Milwaukee, and Mrs. Charles M. Morris, Milwaukee.

Zona Gale of Portage is the first woman member of the library commission, and Ellen C. Sabin, the only woman member of the state board of education. Clara T. Runge, Baraboo, is the one woman member of the normal regents.

Appointment of Lillian Schrenk of Shepley and Mrs. Fred M. Hanson of River Falls to the state fair board completed the list of recent women appointees.

Meeting Will Consider Barberry Eradication

A meeting of persons interested in barberry eradication work will be held here by the state department of agriculture on March 25. At that time the work of Dr. W. W. Urge More Training For Law Profession

That the time has come for making a material increase in requirements for admission to the bar was one of the chief resolutions drawn up at the National Conference of Bar associations held in Washington recently, at which Dr. John B. Sanborn of the Wisconsin Law school was a delegate.

The conference endorsed resolutions passed by the American Bar association last fall, recommending that all candidates for admission to the bar have passed two years in college and three years in law school. Further resolutions declared that law schools should have adequate library facilities, have sufficient teachers giving all their time to the law school, that it should not be conducted as a commercial enterprise, and that graduation should not confer the right of admission to the bar.

Dr. Sanborn was appointed delegate for Wisconsin to a committee composed of one member from each state to assist local bar associations in bringing these requirements to the attention of courts and legislatures. They will soon be brought to the attention of the Wisconsin supreme court, which has the authority to fix standards for admission to the bar in this state.

Wheat is King of U. S. Exports During Year

WASHINGTON—Wheat was king of American agricultural exports in 1921. More wheat was exported during last year than in any preceding year in the history of the country and that for the first time the export value of wheat and wheat flour exceeded the value of cotton exports. The principal agricultural exports during 1921 and their declared values, were: Wheat and wheat flour, $551,000,000; cotton, $534,000,000; pork and pork products, $246,000,000; leaf tobacco, $205,000,000; corn and corn meal, $97,000,000; sugar, $49,000,000; rye, $44,000,000; condensed and evaporated milk, $38,000,000.

Help War Veterans Get Work Is Appeal of Blaine; Names March 20 'Unemployment' Day

Urges All Individuals and Organizations to Co-operate in Relieving Distress of Men Who Fought in Great War

American legion employment day was proclaimed by Gov. J. J. Blaine today for Monday, March 20, in an appeal urging "every citizen who is in a position to aid to extend his hand in friendly and helpful co-operation to all service men in affording them an opportunity to obtain work."

The proclamation follows:

A special effort will be made, culminating on Monday, March 20, to provide employment for every ex-service man or woman who is not now employed. The work will be under the general management of the American Legion, and the active co-operation of all forms of community and civic organization is sought.

I welcome this opportunity formally to cooperate in this movement. The general unemployment problem is serious enough, and everything should be done to relieve all forms of unemployment and the distress incident to it; but the unemployed ex-service man calls for our special interest, our active effort, and, if necessary, extraordinary measures to put him in a position to be self-supporting.

These men offered themselves, their services, their health, and their life on the call of their country. Those who have returned suffered many economic setbacks because of their absence in the service of the United States. The wounded, and many who were not wounded, have suffered physical reactions from the war that have made them unable to continue in their old occupations. The places of many were filled during their absence in the service, and new opportunities have not opened up to them. Let us help these men, and give them every opportunity to put themselves in the place where they would have been if war had not interrupted their lives.

There is a very real distress among ex-service men. According to the reports of the American Legion, there are several hundred thousand veterans in the country "out of work and in distress." Every opportunity should be afforded to provide these men a "stepping stone up to the economic level of those who had the opportunity, whether they took advantage or it or not, to entrench themselves in permanent employment and save from their war-time earnings against just such conditions which the veteran finds confronting him today." The local communities can, in part at least, aid in furnishing this stepping stone. Each local community is asked to assist its resident veterans. Large responsibilities are placed upon the National Commander and the State Commander of the American Legion, and upon the individual Legion posts, in the matter of locating the men who need assistance, and finding out specifically about the things they can do and are ready and willing to do.

I gladly join with the National and State Commanders of the Legion in urging the local posts and the post commanders to do their utmost to see that this fundamental information is available by the twentieth of March. I urge all church, civic, fraternal, labor and commercial organizations, as well as individual business men, to co-operate in this work in each local community. I urge the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus, the Jewish Welfare Board, the Y. W. C. A., and all other like local divisions of national organizations to do their utmost to make this program a success. I urge, as a matter of community pride, that all the organizations and all individuals will help, so that every community will be able to report, as the Legion hopes, that every veteran in Wisconsin is furnished with employment and the necessary assistance, on the evening of March 20.

Now, therefore, I, John J. Blaine, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do hereby proclaim Monday, March 20, 1922, as American Legion Employment Day. And I urge every citizen who is in a position to aid to extend his hand in friendly and helpful cooperation to all service men, and I express the faith that every citizen will welcome the opportunity to join in an organized effort in every community, in affording the service men the economic opportunity.

JOHN J. BLAINE, Governor.

Former Champ Will Appear at Orpheum

Johnny Coulon, former bantam-weight champion of the world, has entered the vaudeville arena and will be seen at the Orpheum theatre the last half of this week, starting tomorrow night, with an offering which he presents under the caption of "The Man Who Cannot Be Lifted." It is an exhibition of passive resistance, in which the strongest men cannot lift the hundred and ten pound Coulon from the floor.

For over a year Johnny Coulon and his "Unlifted Man" offering was the rage and mystery of Europe. In Paris, French savants tried to explain why the nation's strongest men could not lift him a hair's breadth off the floor once he touches them lightly behind the ear and on the right pulse.

Cadine, world's champion strong man and winner of heavy weight lifting in the Olympian games, was one of the many who tried to lift Coulon and failed. Georges Carpentier, the famous French pugilist, was another to admit defeat. No doubt many of Madison's strong men will try during Coulon's stay at the Orpheum, to accomplish the feat which has so far remained a mystery and interest center in his visit to this city.

State Orchard Escapes Big Damage From Storm

The state orchard between Soldiers Grove and Gays Mills was not badly injured by the recent sleet storm, contrary to report, says F. Craneheld, secretary of the State Horticultural society. Only a few branches were broken, and the 700 acres of fruit trees around the state orchard also escaped with slight injury. Report that the orchards were entirely ruined by the storm has no foundation, Mr. Craneheld said. "In a belt running northeast from Baraboo trees were badly hurt by the storm," said the horticultural secretary. "Luckily this section is not one of the big orchard areas. Door county and Bayfield county were not touched."

State Issues Warning On Poor Fertilizers

The state department of agriculture today issued a warning to farmers against purchase of fertilizers on the basis of "vague statements of their wonderful properties." It is pointed out that the department analyzes all products sold in the state and will confirm or refute manufacturers' claims. Commercial fertilizer is said to be valuable for the nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash it contains, and before purchasing, the department advises that a farmer should demand a guarantee of the minimum amount of these elements.

State Auto Speed Law is Upheld by Ruling

The constitutionality of Wisconsin automobile speed laws was upheld by the supreme court today in sustaining the lower court decision which found Frank Mulkern guilty of violation of the statute and imposed a fine of $25 and costs. The state law prohibits driving "unlawfully and recklessly so as to endanger life and limb." Mulkern claimed that the statute was so indefinite that it was incapable of enforcement. Chief Justice Vinje upheld the lower court finding that the state under its police powers has authority to regulate the speed of an automobile.

MME. STANDISH WILL APPEAR IN ANCIENT GOWNS

Reader Uses Period Costumes to Give Life to Legends

Characteristic costumes of periods ranging from the Middle Ages to the present time will supplement the reading of legends and story-songs by Madame Marie-Lydia Standish, which will be given at 8 o'clock tonight in Lathrop concert room under the auspices of Red Domino.

From the opening number, an ancient "Begging Chant," to the Irish fairy story at the end, each selection is a complete little play in itself. The program includes three groups of story-songs and two groups of piano numbers. The musical background for each of these has been constructed by Miss Emma Menke, composer-pianist, who appears with Madame Standish.

The costume for one group, "Story-Songs of the Crinoline Period," is a reproduction of one worn by the Marquise de Beaujoli, great aunt of Madame Standish, at the coronation of Louis Napoleon and Eugenie. An exquisite topaz necklace, once worn by the Marquise, which is now the property of Madame Standish, is an interesting feature of the costume.

In the "Legend of Princess Anne" Madame Standish is costumed in a crimson velvet gown of medieval cut, with high bonnet and floating veil often seen in old tapestry reproductions of Princess Anne.

Each number is preceded by an explanation giving many intimate details as to origin of the story and lives of the characters.

Henriette Weber of the Chicago Journal characterizes "Madame Standish's diction a delight, her mimicking a fine art, and her voice, whether speaking or singing, truly charming."

Ticket sales which began on Monday will be continued Wednesday at Bascom hall.

"Hail the Woman" Starts at Strand

Thomas H. Ince's greatest drama of life, "Hail the Woman," will be shown at the Strand theatre for four days starting today.

Florence Vidor, Carl Sandburg's "unforgettable woman," takes the role of Judith Beresford, the beautiful flower sprung from harsh New England soil, whose spiritual courage and noble character redeem the faults of those she loves, as she goes out into the world to escape from her tyrannical and unjust "Old Testament" father, and to care for her brother's neglected child.

Madge Bellamy gives a strongly emotional interpretation of Nan, the pitiful and abused girl-wife, whose loyalty to her husband's command not to disclose their secret marriage, ruins her life.

Theodore Roberts, master interpreter of character parts, and one of the pioneers of the stage and screen, makes a splendid Oliver Beresford, the grim old bigot.

As David Beresford, weakling son of Oliver, Lloyd Hughes fills a difficult role in a most vivid and convincing manner. He gives a dramatic interpretation of the transition David's character undergoes as he develops from college boy into a grown man and a minister of the gospel.

Tully Marshall is an unqualified success in his interpretation of the vicious "odd-jobs man," whose cupidity is tempted by Oliver Beresford. Marshall's splendid interpretation of the part of Chang, the Chinese merchant prince in "The Cup of Life," the recent Thomas H. Ince success, is still fresh in the public mind.

Gertrude Claire achieves a triumph in her sympathetic interpretation of the part of Mrs. Beresford, the self-effacing wife and mother.

Vernon Dent gives a clever study of Joe Hurd, the crude and bucolic suitor for Judith's hand.

Edward Martindel makes an excellent, nonchalant man of the world in the role of Wyndham Gray, Judith's playwright friend.

Charles Meredith, as Richard Stuart, is an excellent type of the New York aristocrat, in love with Judith.

PROFESSORS WILL SPEAK ON EUROPEAN PROBLEMS

At a meeting of the faculty convocations committee yesterday afternoon in Dean Goodnight's office it was decided to hold a series of convocations dealing with current European problems. The first of these convocations will be on Friday, April 7, and will be addressed by Prof. Carl Russell Fish. He will speak on the historical background of the present situation.

Prof. William A. Scott will speak on April 20 on the "Economic Situation in Europe" and Prof. F. A. Ogg will speak on May 4 on the political situation. These convocations will be held at 3:30 in Music hall auditorium.

SHORT COURSE GRADS

TODAY, class day exercises are being held in the university—seventy-two students in the short course in Agriculture will this week receive their certificates of graduation.

The short course is a relatively small part of the university curriculum, but it is an extremely important phase and one in which the university is of a decided service to the farming industry. It is indeed splendid that the school can give to these students who desire and require a very intensive and specialized training, the right equipment.

May the graduates going forth now, back to the farm, most of them, be of greater service to their respective communities by virtue of their training, and their service reflect creditably on themselves and on Wisconsin.

WE CAN ONLY HOPE

IT is instinctive for the thinker of any appreciable degree to seek the whys and the wherefores. This applies not only to the scientific researcher, the philosopher, or the student of natural phenomena, but just as much to the everyday layman in his consideration of the everyday occurrences, and on the campus to the average student in his contemplation of students' activities.

Why is a mythical all-star team we ask—why are examinations? And if we grant causation as universal, might we ask ourselves to consider, why is this editorial column?

There are some, we suppose, to whom the editorial column is what fills up the page in the Cardinal that bears the staff mast-head and the bulletin column, and some to whom it is a lot of useless caution, admonition, and attempted persuasion. And there are some, we hope, who peruse the column hoping to find some serious editorial comment or opinion on something of interest. This is the why of the column.

It is rather discouraging sometimes and faintly suggestive that after all, there is a lot of wasted effort in trying to affect a turn for the better. An instance—month after month the discipline committee makes its report and month after month the never decreasing number of students are given all the way from a semester's probation to a whole semester's extra work for graduation and even a dismissal from school to think about.

Is it worth while? We might discourse long on the detrimental effect of dishonesty in school, its demoralizing tendencies, and its worthlessness in the end; but possible offenders do not really need this. They are for the most part rational beings and know that the offenses are far from right and the best moral policies to pursue—if only they give the slightest thought to the matter. Is it then that the offenses are due to a lack of thought of the consequences? Perhaps so, but they are not to be excused on that ground.

There seems to be no better way of stamping out the evil than the present one of inflicting severe penalties on the wrong-doer. Although this system seems as yet incapable of reducing the number of cases of dishonesty, no better one has been brought forward and we can only pray and hope that eventually all will see the light and the members of the discipline committee will have all their time for their other duties.

FLAPPERS

GIRLS have come in for a great deal of criticism lately; and all because some one coined the word "flapper." The world, running true to form, immediately generalized and began applying "flapper" to practically all girls. There is a type of girl who decidedly comes under that classification, and who deserves all the censure that she has been subject to, but so much publicity has been given that type by the press and pulpit and certain well-known fiction writers, that a generally accepted idea has grown up that the majority of girls are "flappers," whose existence depends upon dances, shows, and bobbed hair, and bobbed hair, shows, and dances. Public opinion, with its inevitable fallacy of judging the whole from a very small part, has been especially hard on co-eds.

No one denies that there are "flappers" at Wisconsin, but one should deny that the majority of co-eds are members of that sect. One has but to look at women's athletics to see that. It is not an exaggeration to say that women at Wisconsin show more interest and active participation in athletics than do their sisters in other middle west schools. Women's athletics here are not the possession of a few "peculiar" girls, but of a large number of representative girls. To be in some form of athletics is the fashion, not the extreme; it is a popular activity. Perhaps a larger percentage of women are active participants in athletics than men when you consider that practically all that the women have are their class teams, while the men have the varsity teams besides.

It is an obvious and self explanatory truth that flapperism and athletics do not mix; a woman athletically inclined can hardly be a flapper; she is too much of a good sport with red blooded ideas of a good time. Social life, such as dances, shows, and so on, is recreation to her, not a profession. Therefore, since so many girls take active part in basketball, baseball, track, tennis, hockey, hiking, and bowling, the majority of Wisconsin co-eds are not flappers; far from it.

Blaine Asks Miners To Look to Future

The greatest service anyone can render to their state and nation is to carry out and spread the benefits of this university to others, not to stand still, but to look ahead into the future and see to it that the up-building and betterment of humanity, civilization and mankind does not stop," declared Gov. John J. Blaine to members of the mining club at a banquet held last evening at the mining laboratory.

Governor Blaine also stated that the mining engineer should know no discouragement. Our ancestors went through many trials in trying to develop the vast fields of wealth in the West at that time, and their unflinching courage kept them together.

Prof. R. S. McCaffrey, head of the department of mining engineering, acted as toastmaster and gave a short address to the club.

Pre-Military Ball Dance to Be Held At New Candy Shop

Will Take Form of Party; No
Uniforms Will Be Worn

The pre-Military ball dance to be held at the remodeled Candy Shop on St. Patrick's Day will be more in the order of a party than a military function, no uniforms being worn. The special features which have been arranged by Mord Bogie '23, have been originated with this point in view.

Jessie Cohen's orchestra of eight pieces will furnish the music for the dance. This announcement was made yesterday by I. O. Hughes '22, chairman of the ball.

Although the Woman's building will be available for relay dances, the committee has found it advisable to limit the sale of tickets in order to prevent overcrowding. Expert finishers have been engaged to work on the new maple floor this week and are expected to have it in excellent condition by Friday.

Since the proceeds of the dance are to be given to the American Legion, no war tax will be charged

Crowd Manual Arts Into New Quarters

With the classes in manual arts overcrowded, the department has transferred some of its equipment to the second floor of the engineering building, and plans for an entire remodeling have been completed to make the second floor into permanent class rooms for art and design.

Although remodeling will not be begun until summer, classes in architectural drawing, architectural remodeling, design, commercial art, and applied painting are now occupying the Engineering building.

Plans are now completed for a large design room facing the lake, a lecture room, three offices, a room for painting, and a seminary room. The "barn," present art building, will be retained until all remodeling has been completed.

The work in engineering formerly occupying this space has been moved to the Randall shops.

for the tickets, the price being set at $1.50. Those desiring tickets can obtain them by calling Fred Johnson, Fairchild 176, after 6 o'clock in the evening. Tickets can also be purchased at the University Pharmacy, at Morgan's, and at the armory.

Brobst Wins Watch For Swine Judging

Merrill F. Brobst '22 won the gold watch offered by E. C. Stone, secretary of the American Hampshire Breeder's association, for the best judge of swine in the swine judging contest, conducted under the auspices of the Saddle and Siroin club, Saturday afternoon.

Sixty-nine long, middle and short course students in agriculture entered the contest. Harvey Weavers '22 was awarded second honors. Earl J. Renard '25 won third place.

AT THE PARKWAY

And now comes the announcement that local playgoers are to be permitted to gaze upon Bohemia in the flesh, for the Greenwich Village Follies, that widely heralded and unique spectacle from the inner shrine of New York's famous Montmatre, is to play an engagement at the Parkway, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, March 21 and 22.

Described as a revusical comedy of life in New York's Latin quarter, the exotic "Follies" comes to this city direct from its phenomenal successes in all the large eastern cities, with the same unique company and unconventional production which made it the mecca of all pilgrims to the shrine of sensation for a solid year in New York and Chicago.

No Coated Teeth—No Decay

For millions who constantly eat fruit

There are whole races—like the Sicilians—who are almost immune to tooth troubles. White, sound, healthy teeth are almost universal.

With us, nearly everybody suffers. Tooth troubles have been constantly increasing. The situation has become alarming.

Dental investigators have now found the reason. The difference lies in fruit. Now a world-wide crusade has been started to bring fruit benefits to all.

How fruit protects

It is found that fruit brings in the mouth effects which are all-important.

Certain fruits multiply the ptyalin in the saliva up to 12 times over. That is the starch digestant. It is put there by Nature to digest starch deposits which gum the teeth and cling. If left, they ferment and form acids.

Certain fruits multiply the alkalinity of the saliva up to 8 times over. That is Nature's neutralizer for acids which cause decay.

Modern diet at fault

Those tooth-protecting factors need constant stimulation. In natural diet that help comes from fruit. But we in this climate, living largely on starch, rarely eat fruit enough.

That's why unclean, coated teeth are almost universal. And those coats breed germs and acids to attack the teeth and gums.

Now the effort is to bring to all these needed fruit effects. To bring them regularly and often, particularly at night.

A tooth paste does it

The essential fruit elements have been combined in a tooth paste, called Dentifruit. Every use applies those fruit essentials. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, and multiplies its ptyalin. It gives these tooth-protecting factors a manifold effect.

It does this several times a day. It does it at night, when the teeth suffer most from attacks. Thus Nature is enabled to fight the enemies of teeth.

Dental authorities have proved these effects essential. They want you to learn the results. So we offer to buy a tube of Denti-fruit for testing in your home. See the coupon.

Learn how it attacks deposits, how it destroys mouth acids. Note the refreshing after-effects. Find out what clean teeth mean.

The use is pleasant, the test is free. The results will surprise and delight you. Accept this offer for the sake of better teeth.

A tooth paste based on elements derived from pineapple, orange, paw-paw, grapes and apples.

Made to do in the mouth what certain fruits do, eaten regularly and often.

WE BUY The First Tube A Month's Test

Mail this coupon to DENTIFRUIT, INC.

KAREL AND BLAKE OPEN DEBATING CONTEST WITH MICHIGAN AND ILLINI

FRANCIS K. KAREL '23

Francis Karel '23 will open the case for Wisconsin's affirmative team in the debate with Michigan at Music hall Friday evening. Karel has had a great deal of debating experience, being the winner of the sophomore declamatory contest last year and a participant in the sophomore semi-public debate. He is a member of Hesperia debating society and of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

HENRY W. BLAKE '24

Henry Blake '24 is the Wisconsin man to open the contest for the negative team which meets Illinois at Urbana on the same night that Michigan engages the Wisconsin affirmative here. Blake will be the only sophomore to debate Friday. He has had little experience in college debates, but his previous work in debating for Madison high gives him the appearance of a veteran on the platform. Blake is a member of Athena.

Lutheran Students Will Have Convo

All Lutheran students are invited to a Lutheran convocation which will be held under the auspices of the student cabinet, from 5:30 to 8:00 Saturday night.

The chief speaker at the banquet will be Dr. Samuel G. Trexler, New York city. He should appeal to the students because he handled student work at Cornell university for a number of years and is now president of the New England and New York Synod.

Governor and Mrs. J. J. Blaine, Mayor and Mrs. I. Milo Kittleson, Attorney and Mrs. Carl N. Hill, and Prof. and Mrs. George S. Wehrwein will be guests of honor.

The banquet is being given for the purpose of bringing all Lutheran students together.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

"COP" TAYLOR SECOND IN BIG TEN STANDING

"Chuck" Carney of Illinois Ranks First; Miller Third

"Cop" Taylor, scoring ace on Coach Meanwell's basketball teams for the past two seasons, completed his last year of competition by ranking second in the conference scoring column.

"Chuck" Carney, Illinois, and Miller, Michigan, rate first and third places, respectively.

Had Taylor located his shooting eye a little earlier in the season, there is no doubt but that he would have finished in first place. His free throwing average was higher than was Carney's, but he was not in typical shooting form until the final three or four games.

Miller Won Games

It is not to be wondered that the Illinois star shot more baskets when it is considered that he sometimes shot the entire length of the floor, while the Badger star confined his tries, for the most part, to the immediate vicinity of the basket.

Miller won several games for the Wolverines by means of his excellent throwing, and it is due to this factor that he landed in third place, notwithstanding the fact that he played in only 11 games.

Shimek Fourth

Shimek, of Iowa, although stationed at fourth place among the conference scorers, was one of the most dangerous shots in the Big Ten conference. In addition to sinking baskets from difficult angles, his close guarding was largely responsible for the long string of mid-season victories which the Hawkeyes won.

Captain Ceaser's performance in the last few games raised his average up to twelfth place. A brilliant floor game had been his long suit all season, but, commencing with the Minnesota tilt on the latter's own floor, he began to combine some good basket-shooting with his former style of play. His eye improved so fast that he was able to sink five counters in the final battle of the season.

Williams Best Guard

Rollie Williams' shooting was somewhat improved over that of last season, when his lack of ability to get a range on the basket kept him from being a unanimous choice on all-conference fives. The fact that he has averaged almost a basket a game this year, together with his being easily the fastest dodger and dribbler in the conference, have made Williams one of the best guards in the association.

Gibson, playing his first year of Big Ten conference basketball, scored a total of 17 field goals. The Badger center shot in spurts, and caged most of his baskets in games which were played on foreign floors.

Gage Helped Wins

Although Les Gage made only six field goals, they were all caged at opportune times, and were influential in several Wisconsin victories. The outstanding feature of his play was consistent defensive work, and he established a reputation as being a real fighter in the Illinois game.

Gus Tebell caged three baskets out of not many more attempts. The Badger guard seldom advanced far enough up the floor to get a short shot, and the Wisconsin style of play called for a minimum number of long tries.

While Wisconsin was excelled by a number of teams in the number of points scored, Meanwell's five had the lowest number of points scored upon them. This is a decided contrast to the Suckers, who finished an easy first in the number of points scored, but who ranked below Wisconsin in the final standings.

CUNNIFF AND SMITH ELECTED BY DOLPHINS

Hilda Cuniff '25 and Anne Smith were elected to Dolphin club at the regular club meeting held last night.

FAVOR BADGERS FOR CONFERENCE TANK CHAMPIONS

Chicago Holds Title; Purple Fish Also Strong Contenders

As the time for the Conference swimming meet draws near, interest is narrowing down to a few of the stronger teams that will attempt to wrest the laurels away from Chicago, the present champion.

At present Wisconsin is the favorite over the other Conference universities by dint of her four wins over Chicago, Minnesota, Illinois and Northwestern. Her well-rounded team will take to the water in the various events with excellent chances of coming out on top in the majority of them. Thanks to his star mermen, Coach Joe Steinauer can bank on sure points in more than one event, and coupled with a few second string men who are expected to come through with points, the Badger squad ranks well at the top.

Relay is Headliner

The relay event is creating much interest as the day approaches when the supreme test will take place. Northwestern, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, and Chicago all have strong quartets. Northwestern is favored by some in this event with the win over the fast Wisconsin set standing out prominently. Badger backers are confident that this victory was a mere fluke and that the speedy men from Madison will be avenged for this only defeat of the season.

Minnesota has been credited with time as fast as either Northwestern or Wisconsin, and with Blinks swimming in true form, Chicago should be well represented. Illinois can hardly be classed as a serious contender in the banner event. The Wisconsin team will probably swim in the following order: Davies, Gilbreath, Lamboley and Bennett.

Dash Has Stars

The 40-yard dash will feature a galaxy of stars from all of the universities. Wisconsin will enter her two versatile athletes, Bennett and Lamboley; Chicago will have the champion Blinks and Rivers; Northwestern will depend upon Childs for the honors, and Minnesota will enter the speedy Gow.

The century will bring out about the same field with Bennett and Blinks furnishing the entertainment for the fans. These two men have yet to meet in an individual contest and many predictions are being made in regard to the outcome. Bennett has been credited with times faster than any other conference swimmer, and he has continually made times faster than the record. If Blinks wishes to retain his title, he will have to set a new record to do so, for the young Badger star has worked himself into the best condition possible for his big race.

Wisconsin Will Be Contender For Track Championship

Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin loom up as the three track teams which will lead the Big Ten indoor track meet which will be held at Patten gym, Northwestern university, on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Illinois probably has the best-balanced outfit of the teams which will compete. The Suckers are strong in the hurdles with S. H. and H. S. Wallace to depend upon for points. Fessenden, in the quarter, is a record-breaker, but he will find some stiff competition in Johnson, Wisconsin, and Brookins and Wilson, Iowa. Osborne is the leading high jumper, in the Big Ten.

"Pete" Platten, Badger leaper who broke the gym annex record last Saturday, has developed into one of the stellar jump men in the Conference. He will rate on a par with anything that the strongest teams can produce. If Platten hits top form at Evanston on Saturday night, several points will be added to the Badger's total.

The pole vault will be one of the feature events of the Conference meet. With Merrick, Wisconsin holder of the Mid-Western championship, pitted against Landkowski of Michigan, for the second time

Hold First Games Of Normal Basket Tournaments Thursday

The initial games of the nine normal school basketball tournaments will be played tomorrow. The tenth tournament, that of the Stevens Point district, was conducted last week and was won by the Rhinelander high school team.

The Stevens Point tournament was won by the same school last year, but the light quintet failed to show up to any advantage in the final tourney at Madison. With the exception of the guards, the team is intact, so it is not felt that the northerners will be dangerous contenders for the state title.

The Antigo high school team, which was considered the strongest in that section of the state, broke in its first game and lost to Rhinelander, but the former aggregation came back and defeated Wautoma in the final tilt by the one-sided score of 30 to 12 after the winners had won from the same team by only a few points.

Racine, Menominee, and Superior loom up as probable winners of the district meets, and each should stand a good chance of winning the final tourney, once the right to attend is attained.

Due to the large number of evenly matched teams throughout the state this year, interest in the state tournament, which will be held in the gymnasium, is at a high pitch, and will undoubtedly surpass that of last year, when one of the towns supporting a team in the tournament leased a private wire to the gymnasium in order that play-by-play reports could be sent out.

All-Varsity Boxing To Close Saturday

There are 32 entrants at present for the All-University boxing contests. The preliminary matches will be fought during this week, and the finals will be held on Saturday afternoon in conjunction with the Big Ten gymnastic and wrestling meet.

The number of entrants will be cut down to 12 in the preliminaries, so that the finals will consist of six bouts. A gold medal will be awarded to the winner in each of the six bouts. Martin, Johns, and Moore at present appear to be the big headliners for the tournament.

"Joe" Steinauer, swimming coach, has donated his services as referee for the final scraps, and will have to rush back from Chicago where he will attend the Big Ten swimming meet on Thursday and Friday of this week. He has had a great deal of experience in refereeing bouts, and has often served in that capacity for professional matches.

this season, chances for a new record are excellent. These two men tied for first place at the Illinois relays ten days ago. Landkowski is a Milwaukee product who is in his first year as a stellar vaulter.

Michigan will be up among the leaders when the final event has been finished on Saturday night.

Coach "Steve" Farrell always develops a strong outfit capable of picking up several second and third places in addition to firsts. Stipe, weight man, placed in his event last year and with Slater, of Iowa, Weiss, Illinois, and other vets out of action, he can be depended upon to place near the top.

BIG TEN TEAMS CLASH HERE IN GYM SATURDAY

Gymnasts, Wrestlers Compete; 7 Colleges Compete

Gymnasium artists of seven colleges will compete in the university gym at 7:30 Saturday night in the 18th annual conference championship wrestling and gymnastic meet. The entrants are Iowa University, Nebraska, Illinois, Purdue, Chicago, Ohio State, and Wisconsin.

The strong Chicago squad which has not lost a meet this season, is the favorite for winner. The Midway troupe has this year defeated in dual contests Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, the three strongest teams in the conference, and unless some of the less well known contenders should show unsuspected strength the Maroons stand well for a conference championship. It is a toss up for second. Wisconsin has defeated Minnesota but has been beaten by Chicago. Illinois has also gone down to defeat at the hands of the Chicagoans, and it looks like an even chance between the Suckers and the Badgers for the runners up position.

Eight events will be run off in the meet, and both apparatus and mat work will feature with fencing and broadsword contests as a side issue. The Badgers are placing their hopes in the performance of Porth, Boomer, Leitz, Kletzien, Kitchen, and Hanson, all of whom have shown well in the meets of the year. Porth is excellent in the parallel and horizontal bar work and is good at the side horse stunts.

Some of the best entries from the various schools are:

Iowa—Tom Treynor, Ed. Kohrs, A. Sindelar. Nebraska—William Novak, Glen Preston, Cornelius Phillips, Ralph Zimmerman, Richard Miller, C. C. Finley. Illinois—F. H. Bennett, E. S. Meyers, Stahl, Switzer, Gossett, Heimcorics. Purdue—Bushman, Rudy, Becherer, Thompson, Cammack, R. S. Moore, Sellman. Ohio State—Smith, Slager, Heier, Weimer, Owens. Chicago—Morris, Schneidenbach, Kessler, Collins, Hargraves, Ricketts. Wisconsin—Porth, Boomer, Leitz, Kletzien, Kitchen, Hanson.

Outing Club Will Take Six Members

Six new members will be taken into Outing club tomorrow night at the regular meeting in Lathrop concert room at 7:15. Since the requirement of membership has been limited to those earning 10 hours in two of the club's sports, there has been a decided increase in new members.

There will be an election of officers and heads of sports at the meeting. Since some of the nominees are ineligible for office because of the point system, nominations from the floor will be made to fill up the offices.

This is the last meeting when dues may be paid.
