SALARIES WITHHELD FROM UW TEACHERS

MADISON--Salaries of 21 faculty members, one specialist, and two teaching assistants are being withheld by the University of Wisconsin "because they did not teach their classes during student disturbances in May."

The faculty list includes four full professors, seven associate professors, eight assistant professors, one lecturer, and one instructor.

In a report to the Assembly State Affairs Committee recently, the UW stated that more than $117,000 in salaries was held back from a total of 493 persons during the spring semester. Two were employed on the Milwaukee campus, the others in Madison.

The cases involved 269 teaching assistants who took part in a strike in early spring. The amounts withheld ranged from $2.74 to $1,086.

The protests in May were against the war in Indo China and the deaths of Kent State students.

MADISON--Strong opposition to U.S. military involvement in Vietnam and Cambodia was registered by University of Wisconsin-Madison students, faculty and staff members who took part in a campus referendum this week.

Of the 15,240 who cast ballots, 86 per cent opposed U.S. participation in the Vietnam war and 81 per cent opposed presence of U.S. troops in Cambodia.

On how to end the Vietnam war, immediate withdrawal was favored by 56 per cent, a gradual withdrawal by 36 per cent, intensifying military actions by 4 per cent.

Despite opposition to the war, the University voters were split on the question of Congress acting to remove ROTC from college campuses. Opposed to removal of ROTC were 45.45 per cent, while 42.42 per cent favored removing ROTC and 12.10 per cent registered no opinion.

Congressional action to cut off funds for military actions in Southeast Asia was favored by 80 per cent. Nearly that many--75 per cent--favored adoption of a City of Madison policy that residents should refuse to fight in the absence of a declaration of war.

Referendum results are to be forwarded to President Nixon and the Congress. The two-day poll was organized by a joint student-faculty committee, named by UW-MSN Chancellor Edwin Young to plan campus activities for discussion of events in Southeast Asia.

MADISON--Prof. Burton W. Kreitlow, chairman of the University of Wisconsin department of educational policy studies, Madison campus, issued the following announcement Wednesday:

"Appalled and shocked at the increased violence and death in Southeast Asia and on our campuses, and concerned about finding a way of giving non-violent and emphatic expression to our revulsion at the practice of violence abroad and at home, the faculty of our department will observe a day of mourning tomorrow, Thursday, by holding a teach-in on that and related matters.

"We urge the Board of Regents, the administration, the faculty, and the students to join us in the day of mourning."

ON STRIKE

In the time it takes you to read this, scores of men, women, and children in Cambodia, Laos, and Vietnam will die as a direct result of the U.S. government's insane decision to escalate both the ground and air war in Vietnam and the rest of Indochina.

In the time it takes you to read this, Bobby Seale and eight other members of the Black Panther Party will be that much closer to death in the electric chair on charges trumped up by that same U.S. government.

Before you finish this, scores of young people in this country will have their heads busted open, or will be gunned down perhaps by state and federal police and National Guards.

It is now clear that we are dealing with a ruling elite here in the United States that will stop at nothing -- including mass extermination -- to maintain its interests. Yale, Princeton, Stanford, and Rutgers Universities have initiated a call for a nationwide shutdown of all universities around demands that the war in Indochina be stopped immediately, and political prisoners at home be freed. At this moment, we are left only with ourselves, and our own decisions.

We can help stop the holocaust premised by United States imperialism by taking the immediate, practical step of shutting down the key institutions of imperialism -- the universities -- or we can decide once again to wait.

But now if we wait, we may be losing our last chance. Seize the time.

FACULTY PENALTIES

MILWAUKEE--University of Wisconsin Pres. John C. Weaver Friday urged regents to accept the penalties recommended by the University Faculty Council for three faculty members for their "serious violations of academic freedom" during Milwaukee campus disruptions last May.

"The strength and sustenance of freedom in the academic community depend upon a faculty committed to the advancement of truth and to the upholding of professional integrity," he said in his recommendation to the regents. "The University Faculty Council has, in my judgment, given full measure to its responsibility in handling the three cases..."

Pres. Weaver told the regents of his "strong personal conviction that faculty members, especially those in an academic community with so outstanding a record of faculty involvement and participation as has been the hallmark of the University of Wisconsin, must largely carry the heavy peer responsibilities of evaluation and judgment in appointment, non-retention, and dismissal actions.

"Professional ethics," he said, "are best established and protected by the profession itself. A president or a governing board may rightly expect the faculty, or its elected representatives, to assure the immaculate and unimpeachable academic integrity of its institution."

Add one--faculty penalties

The council recommended that the tenure of Assoc. Prof. Arnold Kaufman be withdrawn for three years, the tenure of Assoc. Prof. Morgan Gibson be withdrawn for two years, and that his wife, Mrs. Barbara Gibson, who is not in the tenured ranks, be suspended for the balance of her current appointment and be ineligible for re-appointment until next spring.

In addition, Pres. Weaver pointed out, merit increases for the current year have been withheld from all three, and a promotion action for Morgan Gibson has been deferred. Under the council recommendation, Prof. Kaufman would not be eligible for promotion during his probationary period nor for a merit salary increase in the first year, Prof. Gibson would not be eligible for promotion during his two-year probationary period--leaving both of them associate professors without tenure during their probationary periods.

"Based on my reading of the record," Pres. Weaver said, "I believe that the facts were fairly found and that the recommended punishment is proportionate to the proven conduct..."

"I am convinced that the UFC dealt fairly with both procedural and substantive objections raised before and during the hearings. In endorsing the recommendations and making them my own, I recognize the council's strong interest in a special review process to accompany any decision to reinstate tenure at the end of the probationary periods specified for Morgan Gibson and Arnold Kaufman.

"I would welcome their special review and advice on reinstatement at that time. The actual re-granting of tenure must, of course, be approved by the regents, just as removal of tenure requires regent action.

"At such time as reinstatement is considered, I pledge to convey any forthcoming UFC recommendations to the board, along with my own, and I respectfully request that the board agree/^{now}to allow the UFC, if it should have reason to desire to do so, to appear before the board in support of its recommendations at that time."

• Add two--faculty penalties

The president recommended that, in considering the cases now, the regents afford opportunities to file exceptions and briefs and to hear oral argument. He suggested that a 10-day period be given in which exceptions may be filed, an additional 20 days for briefs, 10 more days for replies, and five days for rebuttal-- a total of 45 days before the preliminaries to a regent decision on the case can be made.

"In my consideration of these cases," Pres. Weaver told the regents, "I have earnestly sought for fairness, wisdom, good judgment, and compassion. Sensitive to history and tradition, to academic due process, and to academic freedom, and to the obligations and responsibilities of this office, I would have you know that my recommendations have been achieved with care and are brought to you with solid conviction."

Pres. Weaver said his review of the record suggests that the laws and regulations of the University governing fair hearing and due process were scrupulously followed by the Faculty Council.

MADISON--In the hearings for four University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee faculty members Oct. 12-15 and Oct. 19-21, the University Faculty Council will follow procedures that conform, in principle, to the dismissal procedures set forth by the Committee of the American Association of University Professors in its report "1968 Recommended Institutional Regulations on Academic Freedom and Tenure," it was announced Friday.

The procedures are embodied in Chapter 10B of the Laws and Regulations of the University of Wisconsin. The following sections of Chapter 10B describe the hearing procedure and the responsibilities of the University Faculty Council:

10B.05 Fair Hearing. A fair hearing for a person whose dismissal is sought under Section 10B.02 and Section 10B.08 includes:

1. Service of notice of hearing with specific charges in writing at least 20 days prior to the hearing.
2. A right to the names of witnesses and of access to documentary evidence upon the basis of which dismissal is sought. Adjournments shall be granted to enable either party to investigate evidence as to which a valid claim of surprise is made.
3. A right to be heard in his own defense by all bodies passing judgment.
4. A right to counsel or other representative and to offer witnesses.

Add one--Hearings on dismissal charges

5. A right to confront and cross-examine witnesses against him.
6. A stenographic record of all hearings and transcripts thereof, at no cost to him.
7. Findings of fact and a decision based on the hearing record.
8. The admissibility of evidence is governed by Wis. Stats. Sec. 227.10. The burden of proof of the existence of adequate cause for dismissal is on the administration.

10B.06 Duties of University Faculty Council. In cases under 10B.02, an investigation shall be conducted by the University Faculty Council. Such investigation is in the form of a hearing which complies with Sec. 10B.05. This hearing is a closed hearing unless the person concerned requests a public hearing. If one or more members of the University Faculty Council disqualify themselves, whether at the request of a party or at their own initiative, the remaining members of the University Faculty Council will select a number of other members of the faculty equal to the number who have disqualified themselves to serve on the particular case.

10B.07 Reports: to the President; to the Regents. The University Faculty Council shall send to the president and to the person concerned, as soon as practicable after conclusion of the investigation, a transcript of the testimony and a copy of its report, findings and recommendations. As soon as practicable after receipt of this material, the president shall submit it and his recommendation to the Regents should he recommend dismissal. In such case, a copy of the president's recommendation shall also, at the same time, be sent to the person concerned and to the University Faculty Council.

Add two--Hearings on dismissal charges

Should the president recommend dismissal to the Regents, a hearing by the Regents is required. If a decision to dismiss is made subsequent to the Regents' hearing, and if this action is contrary to the UFC recommendation, the rules provide for a consultation between the UFC and the Regents prior to final action.

The public, including representatives of the communication media, will not be allowed to use audio or visual recording equipment (cameras, tape recorders, etc.) in the hearing room.

MADISON--The declaration of emergency on the Madison campus of the University of Wisconsin, imposed May 5, was lifted Thursday morning at 8 a.m.

Chancellor Edwin Young, announcing his decision, said he felt the declaration had been most helpful in easing tension and minimizing the potential danger to life and property during campus disturbances protesting further U.S. involvement in the war in IndoChina.

The chancellor expressed his gratitude to members of the University community for their cooperation in observing the sanctions on the use of University facilities necessitated by the emergency declaration. This included limiting of access only to persons who had lawful business on the campus--students, staff, faculty, and authorized visitors.

MADISON--Students, staff, and faculty of the University of Wisconsin-Madison are voting Tuesday and Wednesday--but not for any public office.

They are joining in a campus-wide referendum, results of which will be forwarded by Chancellor Edwin Young to President Nixon and the congress. It concerns questions relating to U.S. participation in the Vietnam war, the presence of American troops in Cambodia, a policy of military withdrawal from Vietnam, a City of Madison policy concerning involvement in armed hostilities, the federal Military Authorization Bill, and ROTC on college campuses.

More than 22,000 ballots have been distributed, and Prof. Harlyn O. Halverson, molecular biology, a member of the Student-Faculty Planning Committee, said his office has numerous calls for more.

"Indications are that people are voting in all areas of the campus," he said. "We are getting a lot of requests for additional ballots, and that's a good sign."

Students may vote in any department of the University, while staff members and faculty may do so in their own departments or offices.

Results of the balloting will be tabulated and announced Thursday.

MADISON--The Madison Fire Department rushed to Bascom Hall on the University of Wisconsin campus shortly before noon Monday after a fire sprinkler system had been activated.

It marked the second time within four days that a Bascom Hall sprinkler system had responded to a heat source attached to its pipes.

One fire department official said: "This had outside help. We found a wick which was probably used to ignite something wrapped around the pipe."

Room 212, a large lecture room, filled with water. Another lecture room on the floor below received considerable water, as did an office on the basement level in the northeast corner of the building.

Firemen used shovels, mops, and a water vacuum to pick up the water.

On Friday, a similar incident occurred, with Chancellor Edwin Young's office getting an ill-timed shower.

Two classes, meeting on the lawn in front of Bascom Hall, continued to meet despite the commotion, three fire trucks, and an ambulance at the scene.

MADISON--Pickets were marching around the University of Wisconsin Memorial Library Friday morning, but all areas of the Madison campus facility were operating in normal style.

There were no pickets on duty at other libraries on the campus.

Louis Kaplan, library director, said Memorial was "wide open, with all sections staffed. We haven't been informed of any trouble otherwise."

It was reported that one-fourth of the approximately 200 campus library student workers had voted to strike as their role in the general student strike on campus.

Kaplan said measures had been taken to provide security to make facilities of the library open to all students seeking to use its many services.

STATEMENT BY CHANCELLOR EDWIN YOUNG

May 14, 1970

Colleges and departments are free, within the limits of existing legislation, to work out their own methods for solving the academic problems generated by recent events on campus. Many departments have already met with their students to work on this matter. I encourage all departments to do so in a spirit of faculty-student cooperation. The formal actions of departmental faculties should be reviewed to see that they are in keeping with applicable college, faculty, and University regulations. The responsibility and authority to determine satisfactory completion of course work and grades that has in the past rested with the faculty, of course, continue .

MADISON--Colleges and departments on the University of Wisconsin-Madison campus are free, within the limits of existing legislation, to work out their own methods for solving the academic problems generated by recent events on the campus, Chancellor Edwin Young said Thursday.

Chancellor Young made the announcement after consultation with representatives of the joint student-faculty planning committee for the Week of Concern and Involvement. He said the new announcement amplifies a statement he issued Wednesday on academic procedures.

The text of the statement follows:

"Colleges and departments are free, within the limits of existing legislation, to work out their own methods for solving the academic problems generated by recent events on campus. Many departments have already met with their students to work on this matter. I encourage all departments to do so in a spirit of faculty-student cooperation.

"The responsibility and authority to determine satisfactory completion of course work and grades that has in the past rested with the faculty, of course, continue."

PASS-FAIL OPTION FOR LETTERS & SCIENCE
STUDENTS 2ND. SEMESTER 1969-1970

The following motion was passed by the Letters and Science faculty May 18 and was approved by the Chancellor as an emergency measure May 19:

"That, this semester, 1969-1970-II, any student be permitted to have recorded and to receive from his instructor a pass grade, for any L&S course, if his instructor in the course finds that he has completed sufficient work and that this work has been performed at a passing level; and furthermore that pass grades received by student under these circumstances be accepted in lieu of passing letter grades toward satisfying requirements."

Thus, the normal criteria and limits of the Pass-Fail Option have been set aside for the second semester 1969-1970 only. This has the following consequences for this semester for students working for a degree to be granted by the College of Letters and Science. A student taking an L&S course toward a degree in another college must inquire of his college whether "pass" will be accepted by it in lieu of a letter grade. Also students working for an L&S degree must determine for themselves whether passes in lieu of letter grades will be acceptable as meeting requirements for admission to a graduate school or medical school or law school or other institutions they may be seeking to enter.

- (1) The 2.5 cumulative grade point average is not required to carry courses on a Pass-Fail basis this semester.
- (2) General degree requirements may be satisfied by courses carried on a Pass-Fail basis this semester.
- (3) Major course requirements and major field courses may be satisfied on a Pass-Fail basis this semester.
- (4) There is no limit to the number of Pass-Fail courses a student may carry this semester.
- (5) Courses carried on a Pass-Fail basis this semester will not be included in the total of ten Pass-Fail courses a qualifying student may declare as an undergraduate in Letters & Science.
- (6) It is the instructors privilege to determine how the students' progress in his course will be evaluated. All work required for a course, including final examinations, should be completed by the student requesting the Pass-Fail Option.
- (7) Courses evaluated on the Pass-Fail basis do not affect the cumulative or semester grade point average.
- (8) A student on probation or strict probation must complete twelve graded credits to partially clear or clear himself from that academic status. If a student on probation or strict probation earns a grade of A through F in a course(s) and also requests the Pass-Fail Option in other courses, and the grade(s) raises the cumulative grade point average to a 2.5 or above, he will be cleared from probation this semester.
- (9) This Pass-Fail Option does not apply to the removal of Incompletes incurred during a previous semester.
- (10) A student carrying a correspondence course as part of his program load through the Independent Study Department of the Extension Division must determine if the instructor of that course will allow for the Pass-Fail Option. That Option does not automatically apply in such a case.

IMPLEMENTING INSTRUCTIONS

- (1) The student must request the Pass-Fail Option in each of his courses through direct contact with the instructors. (The instructors are advised to maintain a control list of such requests for their own purposes.)
- (2) The Pass-Fail Option must be requested prior to the final examination.
- (3) The instructor should record an S for satisfactory or a U for unsatisfactory for a student requesting the Pass-Fail Option.
- (4) The instructor is to record that Satisfactory or Unsatisfactory on the official course grade report list; (Disregard the instructions in the May 12 memo from Dean Kleene related to this matter.)
- (5) The instructor should record an A through F grade if the student has not made a direct contact to request the Pass-Fail Option unless specific arrangements have been made for an Incomplete. Do not record "Unreported" grades.

MADISON--Students and faculty much concerned with the crises in the nation and on the University of Wisconsin campus are actively trying to communicate their feelings to people and groups in the Madison community.

'My meeting with the Optimist Club of Middleton was very worthwhile. I felt that the group was very concerned with what is happening, and it really wanted to know the students' point of view about the war and violence on the campus.'

These comments from Randi Christiansen, a graduate student and employee in the UW division of student affairs, are representative of the reception that speakers are receiving at meetings being held to discuss the current turmoil.

There are several organizations on the campus which are coordinating speakers for community and student groups. The various speakers bureaus are actively seeking to get informed people before interested community groups but are not meeting with much success.

Steven R. Saffian, assistant to the chancellor for student affairs, has a list of available speakers, both students and faculty, who want to speak to various groups. He comments:

"Unfortunately, the phone is hardly ringing off the wall. We have had about 15 calls, mostly from campus residence halls and departments.

"Some faculty have had students come to their homes and talk with their neighbors and this seems to be a good approach."

Add one--speakers bureaus

Prof. Theodore Peters of the department of communicative disorders had seven students and nine of his neighbors over for the evening to discuss the war and the situation on the campus.

"The discussion was pretty heated at first, but things calmed down. I think everyone involved came away with a better understanding of the other's point of view," Prof. Peters reported.

"We had a meaningful exchange of views on the war, student unrest, and other topics of concern."

The UW history department and the Law School also have speakers bureaus, and the people running them echo the sentiments of Saffian.

Thomas Halloway, a graduate student in history, runs the history speakers bureau.

"We have called 150 organizations and now have about seven firm commitments to go out and speak," he said.

Prof. Eugene P. Boardman, a specialist on China in the history department, spoke to a meeting of the students and faculty in the department of history of science. He commented:

"I spoke for 30 minutes on the necessity for students to communicate with people outside the University and necessity for involvement in all levels of the political process.

"We then had a spirited discussion on the war and specific questions about China, the invasion of Cambodia, and involvement in politics.

"It was a very worthwhile experience and I hope I planted seeds for alternatives that people can follow."

Add two--speakers bureaus

Speakers continue to report good dialogues between students, faculty, and people from the Madison community and all concerned wish that more discussions of this type could take place.

The numbers of the bureaus are:

The Student Affairs Communications Center - 263-2230; the History Department Speakers' Bureau - 263-1873; and the Law School Speakers' Bureau - 257-9114.

In response to numerous pleas from faculty and students, and, with the unanimous concurrence of the Chancellor, the University Committee and the Committee on the Grading System, I have decided that the circumstances justify making an exception to grading policy in the case of second semester seniors. I authorize, subject to the approval of the L&S faculty on May 18: that any second semester senior be permitted on request to have recorded and to receive from his instructor a pass grade, for any L&S course, if his instructor in the course finds that he has completed sufficient work and that this work has been performed at a passing level; and furthermore that pass grades received by second semester seniors under these circumstances be accepted in lieu of passing letter grades toward satisfying requirements.

MADISON--Chancellor Edwin Young reported Thursday that a special meeting of the Madison campus faculty of the University of Wisconsin is planned tentatively for Tuesday, May 26.

The meeting to consider faculty response to current campus turmoil over the war in Southeast Asia was requested by a number of faculty members.

Chancellor Young said the May 26 date would afford time for consultation with the petitioners on preparation of agenda items they wish to have considered and assuring the items conform to faculty meeting regulations.

The date also would permit addition to the agenda of actions taken at college and departmental faculty meetings to be held next week, the chancellor added.

May 26 is the first day of the open period for study, prior to beginning of final exams May 28.

Chancellor Young announced the plans after meeting with his administrative council and faculty government leaders.

A subcommittee was named to meet with petitioners on agenda matters. The subcommittee includes Deans Kurt F. Wendt, engineering, and Spencer L. Kimball, law; Prof. Arlen Christenson, law, assistant to the chancellor; and Prof. C.W. Loomer, secretary of the faculty. The subcommittee also will confer with members of the University Committee, the faculty's executive committee.

Attached are instructions for the advisory referendum that will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 19 and 20. I am requesting deans to designate in each department a referendum captain to organize polling places, provide appropriate ballot boxes, publicize polling hours and the location of polling places, and to recruit, schedule, and supervise the personnel needed to man polls. A poll should be set up in each Dean's office for staff in the college with no departmental affiliation.

Ballot boxes should be sealed and secured in department offices at the close of polls both Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons for safekeeping. They will be collected by Administrative Data Processing personnel from Deans' offices early Thursday morning. Administrative Data Processing will count the ballots and analyze the vote.

Ballots for Tuesday will be delivered to Deans' offices Monday afternoon. Ballots for Wednesday will be delivered Tuesday afternoon. Prior to Monday noon a call should be made to 263-2230 indicating the estimated number of students, faculty, and staff in each college or like unit.

When ballots are issued to departments, a record should be kept in the Dean's office both of the number of ballots originally issued and the number of unmarked ballots ultimately returned. These records, along with ballot boxes and unmarked ballots should be given to Administrative Data Processing when they collect ballot boxes Thursday morning.

If, after reading the attached instructions, you have any questions on polling arrangements or procedures, call 263-2230 or call Peter Monkmeyer (262-2471) or Marvin Miracle (262-3653).

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE ADVISORY REFERENDUM ON THE INDOCHINA WAR, MAY 19 AND 20

1. Eligibility to vote. All students, faculty, and staff on the Madison campus (including part-time students and part-time staff) are eligible to vote.
2. Polling places. Polls are being operated in each department and similar unit (e.g., research institutes), in the Peterson Building, and in the Physical Plant Building. Students who do not have a departmental affiliation can choose whichever departmental poll they like. Classified staff who do not have a departmental affiliation should vote in the Dean's office of their respective colleges. Staff with no college affiliation will be provided an alternative polling place in the building where they work, unless otherwise notified. Faculty with joint appointments should vote in the same department they have chosen for voting in Faculty Senate elections.
3. Voting procedures. Each poll should be manned by at least two persons at all times and should be open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. (except for units, such as the Physical Plant where some employees work a night shift, and poll captains may want to keep polls open beyond 4 p.m.).

One poll official checks identification of the voter and takes action to indicate the voter has voted. For students this is done by writing in number 14 in the space just after number 13 on his fee card; for faculty and staff it is done by crossing the name of the voter off a list. Each faculty and staff member will thus have to vote in the polling place where his name appears--normally his department (see section 2 above). No student with number 14 already written on his fee card should be allowed to vote. No faculty or staff member should be allowed to vote if his name does not appear on the list available at the poll at which he attempts to vote. In such cases please call 263-2230 for information on where the individual should be voting.

Departments will be expected to supply their own lists of faculty members. A list of staff will be provided to the polls by Payroll.

After the first poll official writes number 14 on voter's fee card or crosses off his name, (if faculty or staff) the second official picks up a ballot and checks the voter's status (student, faculty, or staff) on the ballot, then hands the ballot to the voter. (TA's are counted as students for voting purposes. In case of doubt, any person holding a fee card is considered a student regardless of any other position or status he may hold.)

4. Polls running short of ballots should contact their Dean's office or call 263-2230.
5. Polls which encounter problems should call 263-2230 or 262-1110 for assistance.
6. Poll captains are responsible for:
 - a) providing ballot boxes
 - b) assuring that sufficient ballots are available at all times
 - c) arranging to have at least two people working at each poll at all times during polling hours
 - d) picking up blank ballots from the Dean's office between 8 and 9 a.m. on each of the polling days, and
 - e) seeing that ballot boxes are sealed and both ballot boxes and unused ballots are secured in their department office by 4:30 p.m. both Tuesday and Wednesday for safekeeping, unless otherwise notified.
7. Ballots for Wednesday will be a different color from those used Tuesday and will be supplied by the Dean's office.

MADISON--Martin B. Loeb, director of the University of Wisconsin School of Social Work, announced late Tuesday that the school is cooperating with several community programs to augment the anti-war drive in Madison and the state.

Students and faculty voted Monday 250-6 in favor of helping citizens find "meaningful ways to make known to government their views on this (Cambodia) crisis and to bring pressure...on the government to end the war in Indo-China."

Direct action programs for undergraduate social work majors include a Savings Bond Brigade. The brigade encourages people to cash in savings bonds as a personal protest against the war--as well as a way to cut off defense funds gained from bond monies.

Some social work faculty and students are meeting Wednesday to discuss continued actions. Emphasis will be on political activity beginning this fall for November elections.

A post-card drive in cooperation with the campus Communications Center is being conducted by the school--encouraging faculty and students to contact their state and national representatives.

Information about the activities of the school, as well as a schedule of lectures, can be obtained by calling 262-3561 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily.

MADISON--Less than a week old, a student-faculty campaign on the University of Wisconsin's Madison campus to increase effective communication between elected officials and constituents is already labeled "successful."

The first three days resulted in more than 17,500 persons responding to an invitation extended by the department of communicative disorders to write and wire the officials and voice their feelings about U.S. involvement in Cambodia.

The campaign was launched by 50 student and faculty members of the department from offices on 929 University ave. An 11-member steering committee, including both graduate and undergraduate students, was established to coordinate the letter-writing drive.

Postcards, stationery, and telegram forms were assembled. Names and addresses of local, state, and national political representatives were compiled in an orderly manner.

At Friday's Silent Vigil for Peace on Bascom Hill, the first make-shift center was erected. It included one table, the listing of names and addresses, and an arsenal of writing materials.

In cooperation with area businessmen, portable centers have since been established at Victor's Music Shop on State st., the downtown location of The Hub, the Hilldale Shopping Center, and four banks. Other centers are planned.

Add one--Center

Of the responses to date, 7,500 have been mailed from the University Avenue Center and nearly 10,000 postcards have been sent through the other locations.

The first batch of letters and postcards was sent primarily to President Nixon, Vice President Agnew, Wisconsin's U.S. Senators Proxmire and Nelson, and Congressmen Kastenmeier.

In the last two days, however, this has changed. According to Ruth Markoe, a graduate student in communicative disorders and a member of the steering committee: "Most of the letters and postcards are being sent to key congressional leaders and other congressmen and senators who remain uncommitted toward legislation affecting the Vietnam war and its expansion into Cambodia."

The students involved in this letter-writing campaign have a variety of reasons for participating.

Mike Vivion, a graduate student in communicative disorders from Dallas, put it this way:

"Apathy amongst the masses worries me more than violence among a small minority. I think we can make our political system work if we open effective communications with our elected representatives and they, in turn, respond to that communication."

Judy Polich, a senior from Ashland, believes the letterwriting campaign provides an opportunity to involve students and non-students alike in non-violent expression. She believes that unless the grassroots of society become more involved, the effort she and others are making may prove unsuccessful.

A letter was sent, too, to students and faculty members of departments of communicative disorders at universities throughout the nation. It said in part:

"We have been trying--during the last week of national and international turmoil--to promote non-violent action by establishing letterwriting centers in the department and in the community. We urge your department to promote such non-violent action."

Add two--Center

The letter was signed by Prof. Claude S. Hayes, chairman of the UW department of communicative disorders.

If a philosophy could be pinpointed to this effort being made in Madison, perhaps Patti Zembosky, a senior from Milwaukee, provided it.

"There are a lot of people who don't support the violent type of action on this campus. They deserve an avenue, an effective avenue of expression; for they are just as opposed to U.S. intervention in Cambodia and the War in Vietnam as anyone else. They just don't get the publicity."

MADISON--Donald J. McCarty, dean of the University of Wisconsin's School of Education, urged his departments "to give first priority to providing generous opportunities for student-faculty interactions."

This would be in keeping with Chancellor Edwin Young's declaration that this be a "Week of Concern and Involvement" at the Madison campus, he stated.

The dean further suggested "that departments in the school take maximum advantage of the opportunity to interact with at least one department with which you have no interaction.

"This opportunity should broaden the base of acquaintance and encourage search for common purpose in our academic responsibilities on campus and in the larger community."

MADISON--In a statement issued to department chairmen Tuesday, Dean Stephen C. Kleene of the University of Wisconsin College of Letters and Science encouraged departments to maintain the basic grading system of A through F "if at all possible."

His statement came as an answer to queries of many professors about the possibility of shifting to the pass-fail system under present circumstances which make it difficult for them to assess their students' work for the semester.

"If alterations in the standard system of grading are proposed, students must be apprised of the ramifications of any unilateral change at this time," Dean Kleene stated.

"Courses carried on a pass-fail (satisfactory-unsatisfactory or S-U) basis do not currently satisfy basic requirements in humanities, social studies, natural science, and major field course work."

Basic requirements are usually filled during the freshman and sophomore years. If a sophomore taking a required course in anthropology for his major were to elect pass-fail, a pass mark would allow degree credit but not satisfy requirements of his major.

Dean Kleene specified that if professors do use a pass-fail system they must inform the student of the limitations of the method; allow each student to declare if he wants to be on a graded or pass-fail basis; send a list of students carrying the course on pass-fail to Administrative Data Processing by May 16; and submit a grade of S or U for each student declaring the option.

MADISON--The University of Wisconsin's "Involvement Center," also called its "Rap Center," opened for business Monday night, and already calls are starting to come in for speakers.

Students, faculty, and representatives of the Veterans For Peace have volunteered to serve as speakers in the community--to discuss the current crisis on the Madison campus and elsewhere.

Operated by the University's Student Affairs Office in Bascom Hall, the center plans to contact churches, service clubs, and other organizations this week. Attempts will be made to schedule speakers and panelists for programs in and around Madison, so all sides of the situation can be explained and better understood.

The center phone number is 263-2230. It is operated from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily.

A PEACE VIGIL

A vigil is a pause between actions, a reflection, directed toward some purpose. The power of a vigil comes from the discipline and the seriousness of the commitment of the individuals involved. The most powerful moment of the vigil comes during the complete silence, when each participant reflects on his own commitment and the aims he is working for.

YOU ARE ABOUT TO ATTEND A PEACE VIGIL.
THINK ABOUT IT - - WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO YOU?

We'll be beginning with an exploration in poetry of the meaning of war, of peace, of justice, of nonviolent action. Following this, we want to spend half an hour together, in silent contemplation - feeling the nonverbal communication of shared concern.

Other means of expression during the vigil will be music; singing; and workshops on various actions we can take to turn this country around.

This is not a rally. It will continue. Be with us, then go do what you can do on the campus and in the community, then come back. Although individuals are not always here, the vigil is.

IF YOU COME BACK AND FIND THE VIGIL HAS HAD TO LEAVE BASCOM HILL FOR ANY REASON, LOOK FOR US AT THE UNIVERSITY METHODIST CHURCH, 1127 W. UNIVERSITY (AT UNIVERSITY AND CHARTER). WE'LL BE THERE. UNTIL WE COME BACK AGAIN.

MADISON--Faculty members who want to "rap" with student groups during the University of Wisconsin's Week of Concern and Involvement now have a telephone number to call to volunteer their services. And student and community groups who are looking for a faculty member to join their discussions are invited to phone the same number.

A newly-established communications center -- telephone number 263-2230 -- will coordinate campus activities during the special week, according to Prof. David Johnson, assistant to the chancellor.

The center, located in the student affairs office at 167 Bascom Hall, will be staffed from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.--or later, if calls continue into the evening hours.

The center will coordinate visits by faculty members to student living units and to meetings both on campus and throughout the community, according to Prof. Johnson.

"The Student-Faculty Planning Committee for this week's activities also encourages faculty members to invite students into their homes for fireside talks in the evenings," Prof. Johnson explained.

Residence halls, fraternities, sororities, and cooperative housing units are planning to invite faculty members. "Some of them will extend dinner invitations," Prof. Johnson said.

Add one--communications center

"We will take phone calls from any group on the campus or in the community who may be looking for a faculty member to meet with them and discuss mutual concerns about the crisis created by the war."

Prof. Johnson said the informal discussions which the center will coordinate are in addition to programs being planned by academic departments and by other campus units.

"If your group is concerned about the current crisis and you want a faculty speaker, give the communications center a call at 263-2230," he said.

Prof. Johnson added that the new communications center will be involved with coordinating speakers and programs. It will not displace the rumor center at the University News Service, which will continue to answer other inquiries on two telephone lines--263-1983 and 263-1986.

MADISON--Appointment of a special committee to develop activities for focusing student concern on the current crisis was announced Monday by David Johnson, assistant to the chancellor of the Madison campus of the University of Wisconsin.

The Student-Faculty Planning Committee explained:

"The committee has been designated to develop activities for focusing our concern, through rational discussion, on the crisis created by the war.

"To do this, we must transcendent the lines that have kept us apart within the University and have kept the University apart from the broader community.

"To this end, especially during the first two days of this week, we call upon the students and faculty within each department or equivalent unit to meet together: for interchange between departments that otherwise would have little contact with one another, and for mixing among divergent student groups."

The committee, consisting of nine students and seven faculty members, said it would later this week, concentrate its efforts toward dialogue with the community. Both segments represent various student organizations and University academic areas.

Members of the committee:

Students--James C. Secora, Waukesha; Ann M. Milloy, Wahepton, N.D.; Thomas Smith and Kenneth P. Casey, of Madison; Margaret Livick, Janesville; Neil G. Weisfeld,

Add one--committee

May 10, 1970

I have been receiving very many suggestions for the response I should make to the concerns that currently press upon the campus.

Some would have the University close now for the school year. Others would have us continue business as usual, oblivious to surrounding circumstances. Still others--most others--would have us respond flexibly enough to assure maximum fulfillment of the hopes, needs, and expectations of the more than 40,000 students and staff members of the Madison campus. I am particularly conscious of the views of the faculty expressed at its committee of the whole meeting on Friday.

Taking all these matters into account, I have accordingly decided to take the following actions:

- I. I declare the week commencing May 11 as a Week of Concern and Involvement.
- II. On Monday and Tuesday, May 11 and 12, I call upon the members of the University community, students and faculty alike, wherever possible, to devote themselves to an examination of the critical issues facing the nation by participating in rational discussion. Academic pursuits which cannot be postponed may continue. The academic activities which are postponed can be rescheduled on May 26 and 27.
- III. During the last three days of this Week of Concern and Involvement, May 13-15, the Governor and Wisconsin senators and congressmen are being invited to participate in special programs on the campus. In addition, a campus poll will be held so that each member of our community may express his individual views on the current international crisis.

Faculty are asked to reschedule exams or papers due during this week period or to provide makeups later in the semester. Faculty are also asked to use the two days of the closed reading period just before exams to help students who wish to do so cover the material they have missed.
- IV. These special activities should not be at the expense of the educational standards of the University. Academic credit will be guaranteed for completed work.
- V. President Harrington has concurred in this plan and offered the use of University-wide facilities to carry highlights of the Madison programs to the other campuses of the University and to the people of the state.
- VI. I shall ask for time on local radio and television to elaborate on our plans for the week.

MADISON--Two hundred University of Wisconsin law students reported Tuesday the organization of their own speakers' bureau to let the people of Wisconsin know what's happening on the Madison campus.

The students said they hoped to supplement the efforts of the University's "Involvement Center," which is supplying speakers in the Madison area. The law speakers are available by telephoning Michael Christopher at (608) 257-9114, or by writing him at 1139 Rutledge st., Madison 53705.

Christopher said his speakers are willing and ready to speak anywhere in the state.

The students' statement:

"In reaction to the U.S. deepening involvement in VietNam, the active aggression in Cambodia, and the reluctance of political leaders to listen and act in response to the views of a large segment of the academic community, a large group of law students at Wisconsin has set up a speakers' program to contact various labor, business, church, farm, and civic organizations in the state to discuss and explain the situation."

The "Involvement Center" phone number is 263-2230. First known as the "Communications Center," it is also called the "Rap Center" on the Madison campus.

THE THIRD DAY OF CAMPUS DISRUPTION AT THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN BEGAN WITH SEVERAL HOURS OF QUIET AND CALM.

CLASSES WERE BEING HELD --WITH ATTENDANCE NEAR NORMAL.

THE DISSENTERS HELD A RALLY IN MID-MORNING AND THEN MARCHED TO THE CENTRAL CAMPUS. THEY BROKE SEVERAL WINDOWS IN THE SOCIAL SCIENCE BUILDING, CHANTED "ON STRIKE--SHUT IT DOWN" and "1, 2, 3, 4--WE DON'T WANT YOUR (beep) WAR," AND THEN SCATTERED UNTIL MEETING AT A 1 P.M. RALLY.

THE MAJOR POINT OF CONTROVERSY, AS IT IS ON OTHER CAMPUSES AROUND THE COUNTRY, CONCERNS PRESIDENT NIXON'S DECISION TO PUSH THE WAR INTO CAMBODIA.

AFTER THE SECOND RALLY OF THE DAY, THE MARCHERS PARADED ACROSS THE CAMPUS AND THEN BACK AGAIN, WITH AREA POLICE AND NATIONAL GUARDSMEN ATTEMPTING TO DISPERSE THEM WITH TEAR GAS.

THE RIOTERS, WHICH INCLUDE STUDENTS AND OUTSIDE SYMPATHIZERS, PLAN ANOTHER RALLY AT 8 TONITE. IF IT FOLLOWS THE PATTERN OF LAST NIGHT, IT WILL MEAN MORE ARRESTS, MORE PERSONS INJURED, MORE DAMAGE TO BUILDINGS ON AND NEAR THE CAMPUS.

University of Wisconsin Inter-Fraternity Council President Gary McCartan, Wauwatosa junior, this afternoon issued the following statement:

"The wanton destruction of property and the acts regardless of life which we have all witnessed are unforgiveable. The ugliness of arson cannot be rationalized.

"It is apparent that the tactics employed are antithetical to both peace and freedom. The goal of shutting down the University is totally unacceptable.

"The United Front has failed to do anything but help promote the violence that is destroying our University.

"It is time that the non-violent majority of Wisconsin students make known their unwillingness to tolerate the actions of a violent minority. We must co-operate with law enforcement efforts to restore peace to our campus and our community.

"Those who wish to see an end to violence should avoid situations where they are used by those who welcome disorder. Too many students allow their curiosity to subject them to personal danger and to obstruct the efforts to apprehend those responsible for the violence.

"Again, the life of the University is at stake.
To do less than all in our power to support the restoration of peace would be to turn our backs on the crying need to preserve our University as a center of learning. We must not allow our school to die of neglect."

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
P.M. May 6, 1970

The executive body of the University of Wisconsin Inter-Fraternity Council today lashed out at "those who would destroy the University in the name of peace."

I.F. President Gary McCartan, Wauwatosa junior, called for "the use of the University's potential to produce a more intelligent response to violence than counter-violence. We must devote our energies to the education of our fellow men in the ways of peaceful co-existence, and we must initiate the application of that knowledge."

"We are appalled by those who would shut down this institution in the name of Freedom," McCartan continued. "The intellectual inconsistency present in that argument is tragic."

Executive Vice-President Jeff Kunz, Riverside, Ill. junior, added, "We are none of us happy with a widening of the War in Southeast Asia. We are none of us satisfied with the system of conscription we call the draft. But we are universally opposed to the tactics we have witnessed on this campus."

Kunz continued, "The University's role as a center of learning must be preserved. The constructive efforts of groups such as that which is working to create an Institute for Non-Violence Studies must be encouraged, for it is only through those means that acceptable lasting solutions can be attained."

McCartan urged students to stay off the streets, adding that those who spent their evenings out watching were merely playing into the hands of those who welcome violence. "Too many students are being used as pawns. At stake is the preservation of rationality and the integrity of the University itself."

For more information, contact Gary McCartan at 262-1581 or 257-4067.

WHAT CAN YOU DO ?

HOW CAN WE ACT EFFECTIVELY TO END THIS IMMORAL WAR? The disturbances and confrontations of the last few days throughout the country and on this campus express the rage and frustration of the American people. Our actions are showing Nixon that we will not passively sit still while he exploits and destroys Southeast Asia, gambles with our lives, and involves America even more deeply in a war which all sane and peace-loving people deplore.

WHAT HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED? Windows have been broken, people have been gassed, the Guard called in. Students and others in the community are aroused, but we have not yet mobilized the mass movement we need to force an end to the war. The war still rages on and Americans and Vietnamese are still being killed.

ANY ACTION YOU TAKE TO STOP THE KILLING is better than the indifference which has allowed Nixon and the military establishment to continue their immoral killing and destruction. If you are on the streets and you believe that is effective, stay there! If you are persuading your friends to join the anti-war movement and that is all you feel you can do, do that! Whatever you are doing individually or in student groups, it may be helpful to build a movement, it may relieve your own frustrations, but alone, our actions will not end this bloody war.

TO FORCE THIS GOVERNMENT TO RESPOND TO OUR DEMANDS, we must enlist the help of workers, students, managers, businessmen, and community leaders to help us get people committed to work for peace. Only with such broad-based support will we have an EFFECTIVE source of power. We must reach and convince ALL those opposed to the war that their commitment must be turned into meaningful action NOW.

ACTIONS THAT WE TAKE CAN BE MUCH MORE EFFECTIVE if those acting include not only students but all concerned individuals. We must not allow the Nixon/Agnew tactic of identifying the University as an isolated center of resistance to succeed. Only by becoming a vital part of an active majority will we be able to accomplish our goal--to end the war NOW.

We are not an organization, but we want to organize this community so that it CAN act effectively. We want to identify those thousands of frustrated individuals in our community who want to end the war, but don't know HOW to do it. They need organization to employ the tactics which they wish to support (any action from verbal dissent to revolution needs action and broad-based support for success). TOGETHER WE HAVE THE POWER. Learn HOW you can involve yourself in SPECIFIC action to organize a permanent community movement that will capitalize on the anger aroused by recent events, but that won't die next week when the tear gas has dissipated but the war is still very much there.

Join us at the University Methodist Church, 1127 W. University Ave. (corner of Charter), at 2:30 p.m., TODAY (Thursday). We need to act NOW!

A group of about 100 faculty members have joined the student strike (that is, they won't meet classes this week) protesting against the Kent State-Cambodia crisis.

Several committees are working up position papers, preparing talks for civic groups, sending letters to parents of students, and in other ways attempting to explain to the community and the state why they think this present situation is serious enough to call for a strike.

To do this, ~~xxx~~ they will need a staff to prepare press releases, taped interviews for radio and TV, and make press contacts. Several students in Ag Journalism are already at work on this committee, which is headed by Prof. Dave Stanfield of Rural Sociology. The committee needs more volunteers, since there will be quite a few stories to work up in the next week or two.

They especially need people who can prepare radio-TV materials.

If you're interested in lending a professional hand on this project, contact Prof. Stanfield (2-1510), or Prof. Marion ~~Brown~~ Brown of Ag Journalism (2-1464), or me (2-3642).

We have met with President Nixon at his invitation in his office this morning for a conference of approximately 1 hour and 30 minutes. We were grateful for the opportunity to present explicitly our assessment of the distress, frustration, and anger among students and faculty across the nation--reactions that result from the developments in Southeast Asia, hostile comments by members of the administration about campus events and persons, and the tragic incidents that have occurred on several campuses.

We found the President an attentive listener. We spoke forcefully of the deep and widening apprehensions on campuses everywhere and the reasons for them. We want to assure the academic community that we were heard, and that we made clear the truth as we believe it to be.

We urge that university, college and high school students and faculty everywhere work in effective ways to make constructive changes in the quality of our national life, public policies, and political institutions. We are confident they can do this best by laboring realistically together to make the political process more responsive and not by abetting those who seek to destroy.

We pledge ourselves to the full extent of our energies to save and strengthen our academic institutions as citadels of reason, sanity, and stability in a deeply troubled world.

The entry of U.S. troops into Cambodia and the death of the students at Kent State and the violent response of some students and others to those events have created a crisis in our nation of the most serious proportions. It is vital that citizens have meaningful ways peacefully to exercise their democratic right to make known to government their views on this crisis, and we support the efforts of those students and faculty who are seeking to create avenues for such constructive response.

To express our concern, and to make possible the fullest possible use of democratic processes, the faculty of the Law School hereby takes the following action:

1. On Friday, May 8, 1970, as a special expression of concern, meetings for the faculty and students to examine and discuss the crisis that confronts us will be held in lieu of classes. These meetings shall be organized by students and faculty and rooms shall be made available as administratively feasible.
2. All law students have the choice of taking their spring semester finals either all at the time already scheduled, or all during a special exam period to be set in September shortly before school opens. The choice to defer exams shall be made in a manner prescribed by the Dean.
3. Law classes for the current semester ~~would~~ ^{will} continue as scheduled and all students, whether they take their finals in spring or fall, will be examined on all material assigned for the semester and graded in the normal manner.
4. Nonattendance at the classes remaining in the semester will not be counted against any student.

STATEMENT BY UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN PRESIDENT FRED HARVEY HARRINGTON

May 6, 1970

The fire bombing of the home of Emeritus President and Mrs. E.B. Fred was a cruel and inhuman action which threatened a life that has been devoted to this University and did the cause of peace a great disservice. This was the sixth attack on the homes and families of our faculty in recent weeks--a series of crimes that undermine the idealism which most of our students profess, crimes that most of our students would condemn. If the fire bombs were thrown with the knowledge that the lives of the Freds and their visiting grandchild were at stake, the person or persons who threw them are beneath contempt.

STATEMENT OF CHANCELLOR EDWIN YOUNG

It has become necessary for me to make a declaration of immediate danger on the Madison campus. The violence and vandalism is a threat to our faculty and students. To protect them from those who seek to destroy the University, I have issued this declaration of emergency. It permits us to limit campus access to persons who have lawful business here--our students, faculty, staff, and authorized visitors. When the danger has subsided, I will declare the emergency at an end.

Earlier today, I concurred in the decision to alert the National Guard. My intention is to continue the operation of the campus and to make it possible for students to attend their classes.

This is a time of tension and frustration. I understand the concern felt by many individuals in the University community. My hope, however, is that the University will continue to be a place of learning and of reason. I deplore anti-intellectualism which takes the form of interference with the rights of others to teach and to learn.

Gentlemen:

We are sending you herewith a copy of the resolution passed this morning by faculty members in our Department for your use in the news service media.

Appalled and shocked at the increased violence and death in Southeast Asia and on our campuses, and concerned about finding a way of giving non-violent and emphatic expression to our revulsion at the practice of violence abroad and at home, the faculty of the Department of Educational Policy Studies will observe a day of mourning, Thursday, May 7, 1970, by holding a teach-in on that and related matters. We urge the Board of Regents, the administration, the faculty, and the students to join us in the day of mourning.

Burton W. Kreitlow,
Chairman

MADISON--The University of Wisconsin reported Tuesday that its Rumor Center, inactive since the teaching assistants' strike last month, has been resumed on the Madison campus.

New student dissension, beginning Tuesday, resulted in the decision to provide the service for students, faculty, and area residents. Information about the situation on campus is supplied by phoning 263-1983 or 263-1986.

Supervised by University officials, the phones are manned from 8 a.m. to early evening by student volunteers.

In a news conference today, the new president of the Wisconsin Student Association called for a suspension of classes.

Here is Ed Young's response to an AP request for comment.

"As President Harrington has stated earlier, it is our ^{present} intention to continue the ~~operation~~ operation of the University of Wisconsin and to protect the rights of the vast majority of students who want to go to school. Closing the doors of the University will not resolve America's problem in Asia."

MADISON--University of Wisconsin Pres. Fred Harvey Harrington said Tuesday that "closing our doors will not end the fighting in Asia."

Referring to a threatened strike because of students' concern over escalation of the war in Southeast Asia, Pres. Harrington stated:

"Classes will be held today as scheduled on all campuses of the University.

"I join the three dozen eastern college and university presidents who yesterday told Pres. Nixon of their deep concern over the continuation and escalation of the war and the divisive impact of that action on our campuses and throughout the nation.

"We must get out and soon.

"While expressing concern over escalation of the war in Indochina, we must also guard against escalation here at home. It can only lead to violence, repression, and needless tragedy as at Kent State University.

"Our faculty and students, like other citizens, will want to discuss this subject in class and outside. But closing our doors will not end the fighting in Asia.

"The work of the University must go on if Americans are to make headway with the great problems of the age.

"We must continue to cooperate with local and state authorities to protect lives and property and to see to it that those who resort to violence are brought to justice."

WEEK OF CONCERN AND INVOLVEMENT!

*Anti War
Student Strike*

The war in South East Asia has brought the nation to a point of crisis. In response to this crisis, the University, pursuant to the Chancellor's declaration, today enters a Week of Concern and Involvement. A Student-Faculty Planning Committee has been designated to develop activities for focusing our concern, through rational discussion, on the crisis created by the war. To do this, we must transcend the lines that have kept us apart within the University and have kept the University apart from the broader community. To this end, especially during the first two days of the week, we call upon the students and faculty within each department or equivalent unit to meet together; for interchange between departments that otherwise would have little contact with one another; for mixing among divergent student groups. The war, its impacts, and responses to it will likely be discussed in all these contexts. Other problems ought also to be considered. For example, the departmental student-faculty meetings should examine ways to accommodate the academic needs of students who have become "concerned and involved" as well as ways of rescheduling, where necessary, work pre-empted by the activities of this week.

During the latter part of the week we shall concentrate our efforts toward dialogue with the community. In addition to special meetings with elected officials, we hope to promote meetings at which neighborhood residents, together with faculty and students, can address the issues that so deeply trouble us all.

We call upon all members of the University community to participate in these activities. We expect that such participation will result in the emergence of a sense of community of interest, a clarification of the issues before us, and the generation of ideas for revitalizing the democratic process as an effective means for meeting the crisis in America.

SUGGESTED SCHEDULE

Monday, May 11 11:00 A.M. DEPARTMENT MEETINGS- Students and faculty are asked to meet in the appropriate departmental building to discuss procedures for the completion of the semester and plan for the activities of the remainder of Monday and Tuesday.

AFTERNOON - Departments are urged to engage in informal discussions on the current crisis EVENING - A number of faculty members have invited students to their homes for further dialogue. Others are encouraged to do likewise.

Tuesday, May 12 MORNING AND AFTERNOON - It is suggested that departments broaden the scope of discussion by arranging opportunities for interested students, majors and faculty to interact with interested students, majors and faculty of another department -- one with which they had thought there had been little community of interest.

EVENING - Suggested activities will be announced.

THE SCHEDULE FOR THE REMAINDER OF THE WEEK WILL ALSO BE ANNOUNCED.
