A MONTHLY INCOME FOR YOU

Money intrusted to us for this purpose is made secure by every possible means. It is invested in first mortgages on property worth at least double the amount of the loan, approved by our executive committee and by our attorneys. Only such mortgages are assigned to you and become your own property. We collect the interest; see that the taxes are paid, and that the insurance is kept in force. We then pay you a regular income on the first of each month.

There are several important advantages to this plan besides that of receiving a regular amount on the first of each month. Your income begins from the day you leave your funds with the Trust Company and continues to come in in regular monthly installments so long as you continue the arrangement. There are no periods when you have no income or where the income is reduced by reason of having only a part of your money invested.

You have the safest of all securities,—namely, first mortgages on real estate.

In the selection of your mortgages you have the benefit of the judgment of men who have been lending money for the greater part of their lives,—men whose judgment is well recognized in the community. No loan will be made if there is objection made on the part of any one of our Loan Committee. You will have absolutely no trouble in connection with your investments.

Your income will be as large as it is now and probably larger. An interview will quickly determine this.

Number 8

A year ago many were in doubt about the propriety or necessity of holding the usual alumni meetings and class reunions during Commencement week. It was decided, however, that the Association and its Carry On customary activities had been worth the effort expended in their development; that they were worth preserving and should not be destroyed by our wartime interests. The usual Commencement program was therefore followed. A spirit of patriotism seized hold of all meetings and raised such interest and enthusiasm that all felt that never before had the alumni activities been so successful.

This year Commencement should be even more largely attended, and unquestionably a greater interest will be displayed. No other university has excelled Wisconsin's war service record, although this may not be known generally. You should come back and learn where she stands, what she has done and what she should do.

The Alumni Association has stood for just one thing: Loyalty—loyalty in its broadest sense, which means unwavering and whole-hearted support for the cause of liberty for which we fight. This is demanded from all—the prominent as well as the obscure. No previous service, however great, rendered the University, the State, or the Nation, can excuse one whose loyalty has wavered or whose support has been hesitant or delayed. That man who has been blessed with superior mentality has thereby had imposed upon him the duty of perceiving before those less fortunate, that this war is being waged to preserve liberty and justice for the world.—J. S. L.

The following is a statement in regard to the address of R. M. McElroy:

1. At the Stock Pavilion on April 6, 1918, Professor Robert McNutt McElroy addressed an audience which included the cadet regiment Facts of the Case of the University of Wisconsin. The address was a long one. The students, before the address, had marched two and a half miles without overcoats in a driving rain. They were wet and cold throughout the prolonged address.

2. During the latter part of the address many of the students were inattentive. They were desirous that Professor McElroy should close his address and indicated this in a manner which students not infrequently use.

3. Neither the students as a whole, nor any group of them, did anything which could be properly interpreted as lack of loyalty. They gave close attention and warm response to the patriotic addresses of Miss Burke and Senator Lenroot, the first of whom spoke before Mr. McElroy and the second after him.

4. Professor McElroy at one time during his address made offensive remarks, in a very low tone, concerning the nature of which there is difference of opinion even among those who sat in his immediate neighborhood. They were not heard by people who were as far distant as twenty feet, and this group included the reporters. All the students were at a greater distance than the reporters. So far as can be ascertained, no student heard the objectionable statements. When Professor McElroy sat down at the close of his address he made a further offensive statement to Miss Burke.

5. After Professor McElroy left Madison he gave an interview, published in the New York Tribune on April 17, which asserts that he "deliberately insulted" the university regiment; that he was appalled that this insult was not resented; and that he further tried them by still further insulting remarks. By implication he boasts of his courage in this matter and contrasts unfavorably the courage of Wisconsin students with Princeton students. Also by implication he charged the entire University with being tainted with disloyalty through the statement, "I hesitate to accuse an entire university of disloyalty and many people have since tried to reassure me as to Wisconsin."

6. Each of these statements regarding the meeting at this University is false. Professor McElroy did not make any insulting remarks that could be heard by the audience. He did not a second time test them. In short, this story, as given out in the interview at New York, so far as it in any way reflects upon the students of the University of Wisconsin or on the audience present on April 6, is a deliberate fabrication.—V. H.

THE McELROY AFFAIR

By FREDERICK L. PAXSON

On Saturday, April 6, the University joined with the people of Madison in a parade and mass meeting in the Stock Pavilion, in commemoration of our first year at war. Out of this has arisen a misunderstanding that has received wide publicity because of slanders of the University based upon statements of Robert M. McElroy, a professor at Princeton, who is now devoting himself to the fortunes of a patriotic propagandist society, The National Security League. The facts upon which Mr. McElroy based his statements are as follows:

Mr. McElroy began to deliver a patriotic address after the mass meeting had listened to opening remarks by Richard Lloyd Jones, had sung patriotic songs, and had listened to an account by Miss Kathleen Burke of her experiences at the front. An hour and a half had been occupied in these exercises, but twice that time had been spent by the audience for the long parade had preceded it. For nearly two hours before the meeting the audience had been standing in the streets of Madison in a cold driving rain or marching through it. Half the parade had gone home without entering the Stock Pavilion; the other half nearly filled it. During the early exercises the audience oozed away. After Miss Burke's speech the visiting soldiers and sailors had been marched off to meet a train. The University cadets had asked to be allowed to go at this time, but had been required to remain since they sat in the middle of the floor, eight hundred strong, directly before the stage. And if they had gone there would have been little audience left. So they stayed in the unheated Stock Pavilion, shivering in their dripping uniforms.

Then Mr. McElroy began to speak. The students did not listen to him, and after he had been lecturing nearly half an hour they began to suggest, by their usual methods, that it was time to stop. A few of them shuffled their feet, or clicked the breech locks of their guns, or whistled down their barrels. But the speaker not only did not stop but continued to the end of his address, saying something, that only a few of the audience caught, about being sure that they were traitors. To this day it is impossible to prove from his auditors what Mr. McElroy really said, for they were not listening to him. But it is easy to prove that he did not say what a writer in the New York Tribune put in quotation marks a few days ago and attributed to him.

According to the report that was started in New York and copied widely in the eastern papers, he was appalled at the treasonable unwillingness of his audience to listen to patriuntruth about the University and the State. It is still not proved that Mr. McElroy provided the words that the reporter put in his mouth; but he has not denied them although given repeated opportunities to do so. He must therefore stand convicted of a willingness to libel a loyal and enthusiastic community on no better ground than personal chagrin be-otic sentiments; he determined to test them, and paused in his address to tell them they were “damned traitors”; and when they did nothing he paused again and repeated the assertion; and still they made no protest, nor did President Van Hise or Senator Lenroot who sat on the platform behind them. And then, the reporter went on to say, he believed disloyalty was rampant in the University.

This misinterpretation of the conduct of a crowd of bored and resentful students would have been amusing had it not asserted a scandalous cause they would not listen to his speech.

We in the University know the loyalty of the students and glory in it, and have given wide denial to the lies concerning it. Only two days earlier the same cadets, in the last meeting held in the Gymnasium before it was surrendered to the United States to be used as barracks for a cantonment, had participated in the most dignified and solemn ceremony I have ever seen in the University. They dedicated the Honor Roll of 1,300 students who are with the colors. The stout oak and copper case containing the names of our soldiers was on the stage, and representatives of faculty and students spoke of the devotion and self-sacrifice that we expect of our men when occasion calls. Our indignation and chagrin that any American should have been willing to spread untruthful tales in our great national crisis when we need all of our strength to fight the Hun, or so stupid as to believe that student restlessness was evidence of their disloyalty have produced numerous letters and public statements. The Governor of the State has denounced the slander as a lie. The Chief Justice has demanded that the libels cease. Mr. Jones, who presided at the meeting, has repudiated the whole interpretation that Mr. McElroy put upon his experience. President Van Hise has addressed protest to both the National Security League and the president of Princeton University, and the faculty has borne testimony to the loyalty they know so well. The Chicago papers have joined in rebuking the eastern speaker who uses his patriotic text as a cloak for denouncing a whole section of the country.

The affair is now passing out of sight, but it has occasioned an outburst of the deepest indignation. Its fundamental truths are obvious to all who know the facts: the restlessness of the students was a sign of discourtesy provoked by fatigue and exposure, but nothing else; and the deliberate insults which Mr. McElroy's reporter says he gave to the audience were never given. Mr. McElroy was unfortunate in his visit to Madison for it revealed in him an over-measure of self-esteem and lack of judgment. Patriotic education in America needs courage and devotion, but it also requires truth and insight. These last, at least, were lacking on this occasion.

A THOUSAND YEARS AGO

The senior play, to be given in the outdoor theater on Monday and Tuesday evenings of Commencement Week, will be Percy MacKaye's "A Thousand Years Ago." The play is a romance of the old orient; the background, a fantastic old tale of the Arabian Nights; the foreground, a bold silhouette, in sharper colors, of the prancing figures of a group of Italian comedians,—acting types taken directly from the Commedia dell'Arte Improvisata. These rollicking minstrels, Scaramouche, Pantaloon, Punchinello, and Harlequin, and their leader, Capocomico, have left the prosaic realism of Europe and are now arrived in China. Here they soon find that romance still exists. Turandot, daughter of Altoum, the Emperor of Peking, after refusing many suitors, has agreed to marry the man who shall guess three secret riddles proposed by her, on the condition that he who fails to guess them shall lose his head. Already a score of severed heads adorn the palace wall. At this point Calaf, prince of Astrakhan, appears, disguised as a beggar. Calaf is overcome with two conflicting emotions, his secret love for Turandot from whom he has received a rose, and his hatred of Altoum who has slain the king of Astrakhan, his father.

Altoum, sore perplexed by his daughter's resolution, turns the throne over to Capocomico and his band for the period of a day with the condition that at the expiration of that time Capocomico must have uncovered the cause of Turandot's behavior, or he himself be doomed to torture and death. Capocomico's activities in accomplishing his appointed task complete a fascinating plot. The task accomplished, Capocomico abdicates his temporary throne and leaves, to seek—"more ruses and romance."

The play is unusual, but has broad appeal. It scored a great success at the Shubert Theatre, New York City in 1914. The cast chosen for the production is composed of talent developed through four years of experience in University dramatics.

THIRD LOAN WINS HONOR FLAG

By L. A. QUARBERG, '20

Again the University of Wisconsin has responded generously to the call of the government, and incidently, has answered the challenge of its critics. Again it is not necessary for Wisconsin's loyalty to be proclaimed by mere words. Patriotism is best measured by deeds, and the result of the Third Liberty Loan drive at the University of Wisconsin is one more evidence of the institution's enthusiastic loyalty. In a whirlwind campaign among faculty and students the University of Wisconsin went over the top in the Third Liberty Loan drive eight days before the end of the campaign, and finished up the final lap of the drive with an oversubscription of 30 per cent. A self-imposed quota of $150,000 was taken as the objective of the drive, a thorough organization of committeemen to handle the soliciting was effected, and the campaign was launched with enthusiasm.

Under the direction of Prof. W. A. Scott, who handled the faculty end of the canvass, a meeting of student committeemen was held as the preliminary step to the campaign, and plans were outlined for a vigorous and thorough solicitation of every student in the University. The University was divided territorially into about twenty districts, with a student at the head of each division. Each general committeeman then appointed seven men from his district to do the actual soliciting, and in this way every male student in the University was reached. A chairman was appointed to solicit in each fraternity, and it was found at the conclusion of the campaign that the fraternity subscriptions made up the biggest part of the student total.

The solicitation among the women was handled through the S. G. A. organization, which extended to every woman in the University. Each member of the S. G. A. board canvassed the women in her rooming house or sorority. The response from the women was splendid, their subscriptions amounting to approximately $10,000.

The faculty sale was taken care of by Professor Scott, and was the biggest part of the total amount raised, though it was not near the percentage of the entire amount that it was in the last campaign when the faculty were relied upon almost wholly to put the University quota across.

Of the entire $195,750 subscribed, a total of $59,250 was raised among the students, which is more than double the amount subscribed by the students in the last drive. These figures show that the faculty sales amount to $136,000, which means that the average amount contributed by the faculty is considerably more than in the last campaign. The total number of sales was 1,198 of which 585 were student subscriptions. The average amount of the subscriptions was $165.

The drive was a magnificent success from every angle. Starting slowly at first, the momentum gradually increased, and reached its maximum the second week while the city and county sales were lagging. The complete objective of the campaign was attained by noon on Saturday, April 27, eight days before the time set for the end of the drive, when the University allotment had already been oversubscribed by $5,600. The announcement of the achievement was opportune. At the Liberty Day rally in Lathrop Hall under the auspices of the faculty war committee and the student council of defense, amid wild cheering and singing, Professor Scott presented the University with the state honor flag in behalf of the Dane County Council of Defense for having passed its assigned quota. It was a big day for Wisconsin. On the same day set by President Wilson for the observance of Liberty day, and on the same day that Prof. Robert McNutt McElroy was denounced by the student body and burned in effigy for implicating the University as disloyal, Wisconsin went over the top in the Third Liberty Loan drive in record time.

In presenting the flag, Professor Scott declared, "No appeal of any kind has ever been made to the University that has not been responded to beyond all expectation. Every fund has been over-subscribed. Men who go haranguing about the country calling her disloyal are base liars and should be suppressed. With an assigned quota of $150,000 in the present loan drive, she today—eight days before the closing of the campaign—passed the $155,600 mark, with returns still incomplete. I therefore have the honor of presenting to the University the state honor flag, and can announce that a national flag as well will be sent from Washington."

The honor flag is now floating over University Hall on the flagstaff with the national flag above it. Another flag awarded to the organization which made the strongest showing, by the women's war council, was won by the Chi Psi fraternity, which bought bonds to the amount of $8,100.

One more achievement has been added to Wisconsin's list of deeds in doing her bit in the defense of democracy. Let the critics say what they may. The University will continue to furnish men and money to the government in the aid of the fight for right until the war has been fought to a successful end. Not content with merely sending hundreds of her men to the battle front in Europe, Wisconsin is anxious to do her bit to back the boys with the money that will provide them with food and materials to fit them for a greater service abroad.

WAR COLLECTION OF UNIVERSITY AND HISTORICAL LIBRARIES

By ASA CURRIER TILTON, Curator of War Collection

The attention of the world has been centered with increasing intensity on the Great War since it began in 1914, and the printed records of this universal concentration of interest have been turned out by the press in ever increasing myriads. Some European war libraries already number thousands of items, some as many as 50,000. With the entry of our country into the conflict our presses have, in their turn, begun to issue a vast literature on the innumerable phases of the struggle and this will continue and even increase as the war goes on. Never in history have so many millions of people been actively concerned in a movement. It is necessary, therefore, in every center of intellectual activity to assemble the essential literature of the war for present use. Not only this, but for decades, or rather, centuries, after the close of the war historians and other investigators will be studying it from every side in the attempt to unravel its tangled threads and lay them plainly down for the instruction and guidance of the world in its future progress.

The University and Historical Libraries are called on to meet this demand, and its imperative need has been recognized by the provision of special funds and special organization to prosecute it. With this addition to the usual resources of the libraries the task—one of years of ceaseless patient effort—has been undertaken and is being carried on. Official publications of the Federal Government and of state and local authorities are being sought for, from the formal report down to the fugitive circular and hand bill. The same is true of the literature issued by semiofficial and private organizations. Posters, which have been used as never before to spread knowledge and to appeal to patriotism, are being obtained. Addresses, essays and similar private appeals and discussions are being asked of their authors and generously given. Some camp and trench newspapers have been subscribed to; others, along with fugitive camp publications of great interest,—have been received from Wisconsin officers and soldiers in the field. Meanwhile the endless work of going through lists and periodicals to search out the war books and other issues of the regular publishing houses and to buy those which seem most valuable is under way.

The whole enterprise is handicapped by the necessity of catching up with the literature of the past three years, while attempting to cover that which is currently appearing. Only steady and uninterrupted effort can overcome the handicap,—a handicap which all libraries are under, since war literature did not assume the prime importance which makes its collection imperative until the United States entered the war. This effort cannot end until the war is finally over,—in fact it should be continued for some years thereafter. If it is continued and brought to a conclusion, as it is confidently expected that it will be, the libraries will have a War Collection commensurate with their position among the very first of the libraries in the country.

WISCONSIN FOSTERS AMERICANIZATION

By LELIA BASCOM, '02

There is one kind of Americanization which the University has been undertaking for the last ten years, but which up to the present time has not been much discussed. Its value, however, is I believe incontestable. It is the work of Americanization which has been going on through the correspondence study of the Extension Division.

One of the fundamentals of Americanization is the use of our common language, English. The ordinary foreigner comes to this country, and for the first year here learns English through his work, and through the night schools. At the end of that time, he is able to read the daily papers somewhat and to speak enough English to earn his daily bread and butter; but he is far from knowing our correct idiom. Hundreds of these men would be glad to go on to night school, but their work is heavy, and the demands of the labor so great that regular hours at night school are impossible. Yet, they do desire to know English more thoroughly. For these, the University Extension Division offers a course in correspondence study. No regular meetings are needed. He may write his lessons any evening of the week which he chooses, and he may carry on his work over a longer period than the short one every winter offered by the evening schools. Definite instruction is given by means of exercises and short themes, so that the student comes to know our English language in its essential idiom.

Incidentally to all this, the student who takes the course comes in contact not only with our English idiom, but with our American point of view. He is asked to write themes which discuss the difference between America and his native land, and at various points, he is set straight concerning our customs and the reason for our development. A goodly number of these men are, of course, unable to go on to school because they are hampered by lack of funds. But many of the younger ones do come on to the University for special study. Indeed several of them have completed courses here successfully.

But the importance for this work lies in our belief, not so much in the fact that we are feeding the University as in the fact that we are helping to develop sturdy citizens out of those who come here with high ideals. There is abundant evidence that their ideals are high, and they are most grateful for this type of service which the University offers.

ATHLETICS

By W. D. RICHARDSON, Alumni Member of the Athletic Council

In a sensational finish the Wisconsin baseball team put the skids under the championship hopes of the Purdue boilermakers at La Fayette, Ind., on May 4, winning by a score of 9 to 8.

The game was characterized by many errors, a total of fifteen being charged up against both teams, but the boilermakers erred nine times, and at crucial periods. Purdue got away to a flying start, piling up five runs against the Badgers in the first three innings, chiefly because of misplays by the cardinal infielders and, with Heine pitching airtight ball, it looked like a certain victory.

Toward the end of the game, however, Schneider took Captain Simpson's place in the box and held the boilermakers in check and at the same time the Badgers began pounding Heine all over the lot. In the eighth inning, the Badgers counted four runs while in the next session they dented the platter for three more and a victory. Wisconsin got a total of fourteen hits, Sutton's two-sacker being the longest, Hancock and Simpson got three hits each. Mills' fielding was a feature, the Badger second-baseman accepting seven chances without a slip. The score:

Wisconsin	Purdue
Mills, 2b	Beall, 1f
Roberts, cf	Bailey, 1b
Emanuel, 1f	Martin, rf
Sutton, ss	Perrin, c
Hancock, 1b	McConnell, 3b
Zulfer, rf	Heine, p
Simpson, p, c	Markley, cf
Schneider, p	Emerick, 2b
McBride, 3b	Ferguson, ss
Schiller, c

Three base hit—Markley.

Two base hit—Sutton.

Struck out—By Simpson, 3; by Schneider, 5; by Heine, 5.

Bases on balls—Off Heine, 1; off Simpson, 2; off Schneider, 4.

Terhune, who pitched for the Chicagoans, had the better of Schneider, the Badgers' twirler, in the matter of hits although it was errors and slow-fielding on the part of the Badger infield that cost the visitors the game. The Badger pitcher was superior to Terhune in the strike-outs and his control was better.

Up until the seventh inning, the Badgers held the long end of the score with a margin of 4 to 2, both Maroon runs coming from home run drives off the delivery of Schneider. In the seventh and eighth innings, however, the Badger infield cracked and errors and slow fielding gave the Maroons their victory. Three scratch rollers which Sutton, the Badger shortstop, failed to field, gave the Maroons four runs.

Hancock, the big Badger first-sacker, got a homer in the fifth inning but there was no one on the paths.

The Wisconsin team encountered hard luck throughout and in the eighth Serek cut off a sure homer by a great running catch. The score:

Chicago	Wisconsin
Mochel, 3b	Mills, 2b
Elton, rf	Roberts, cf
Serck, cf	Emanuel, rf
Rudolph, 2b	Sutton, ss
Bryan, 1f	Hancock, 1b
Long, 1b	Zulfer, 1f
Sprohnele, 1b	Simpson, c
Vollmer, c	McBride, ss
Smith, ss	Schneider, p
Terhune, p
Hinkle (x)

x Batted for Long in eighth.

Home runs—Rudolph, Smith, Hancock.

Struck out—By Terhune, 4; by Schneider, 6.

Bases on balls—Off Terhune, 4; off Schneider, 1.

By coming from behind in the last two innings the Maroon baseball team succeeded in winning a hard-fought battle from the Badgers at Chicago, May 11, by the close score of 6 to 5.

Howard Hancock, '18, prominent varsity athlete and captain of this year's football team, has left for the 4th O. T. C. at Camp Dodge, Iowa. He played with the Badger nine in the Maroon game Saturday and will go directly from Chicago to camp. Hancock is a senior in the Coll. of Agric. and was secretary of the senior class. He played varsity football three years, and was a big mainstay as captain on the team this year. His loss will be keenly felt by the baseball team, where he was doing stellar work. He is a member of Iron Cross and White Spades and also of Delta Phi Epsilon.

The Minnesota track team defeated the Badgers for the first time in ten years on Saturday, May 11, when they succeeded in collecting enough points in the grenade event to end a hard-fought struggle by a 72 to 71 score. Up to the last event the advantage lay slightly with the losers. At the close of the javelin contest, just a few minutes before the close, the score stood 67 to 66 in favor of Wisconsin. Then came grenade throwing, the final event of the meet. It was the first time that this war feature had been played on a conference field. Hauser, Goldberg, Williams and Schroeder represented Minnesota. Stepping into the little excavation in the sod, Hauser, former gridiron captain, decided the meet. Three targets were used at an increasing distance of ten feet to each target. Hauser hit all three perfectly with hand grenades.

Maleker of Wisconsin proved the star for the visitors. He won the 100-yard dash in :10 1-5 and the 220-yard dash in :22 1-5.

The summary.

MISS MAYHEW VISITS THE UNIVERSITY

By BERTHA DAVIS, '06

Miss Abbey Mayhew, director of the Y. W. C. A. Normal School of Physical Education for China, spent the week of May 7-14 at the University. To those who had known her in the days when she was Mistress of Chadbourne Hall and director and sole member of the women's department of Physical Education, her visit was particularly enjoyable. During this visit Miss Mayhew presented the problem of Y. W. C. A. work in China and emphasized the need of training the Chinese women for better living conditions through physical education, and of saving the children through the spread of recreation centers.

WISCONSIN ALUMNI CLUBS

"Sit together, listen together, sing together, eat together, and talk together, and you'll work together"

DENVER

By THEODOSIA SLOTHOWER, '15

The Colorado alumni held a most enjoyable and profitable meeting March 28, in the Denver Club. This affair was arranged as a dinner and reception in honor of Dr. Van Hise who was able to stop over in the city en route homeward from his recent tour of the Coast. J. H. Gabriel, '87, veteran president of the association, had appointed as committee in charge of this banquet, A. J. Hoskin, '90, and Theodosia Slothower, '15. W. A. Hover, '77, rendered valuable assistance in the preparations. Thirty-nine guests met at the tables which were adorned with red carnations. The room was decorated with University pennants and pictures. A delicious repast was enjoyed and then Mr. Gabriel, acting as chairman and toastmaster, opened the program. He first proposed a standing toast to "Our Country" which was drunk and followed by the singing of America. Clifford Mills, '05, then proposed a toast to "Our Nation's President" this being followed by one verse of Star Spangled Banner. Arthur Hoskin next proposed a similar toast to "Our University," this being followed by singing the Varsity Ode. Mrs. Donnelly (Caroline Brinkman), ex '03, delivered a witty address of welcome to Dr. Van Hise who followed with the main event of the evening, an informal talk upon recent developments at the University and the part it is playing in the war. He was listened to with intense interest. Edward Sabin, '93, then jovially reviewed the incidents of the evening and closed by bidding the honored guest a formal farewell on behalf of the association.

This being the occasion for the election of officers, C. A. Donnelly, '98, chairman of the nominating committee, rendered a humorous report on the committee's findings. The suggestions were cordially accepted and the resulting vote was unanimously as follows: President, J. H. Gabriel, '87; vice-president, Mrs. Clifford Mills (Maude Ketchpaw), '06; secretary, Theodosia Slothower, '15; treasurer, A. J. Hoskin, '90. Formalities then ceased and a good visit all around and with Dr. Van Hise closed the meeting. This was the first time in three years that the alumni and nongraduates had met for a common purpose, but the hope was generally expressed that future gatherings of this nature would be both soon and numerous. It is the desire of the officers of this association that all persons who ever attended or taught in the University and are now living in Colorado, or within reasonable distances of Denver, in neighboring states, get into communication with the officers to the end that their names may be placed upon the lists for invitations to future gatherings. No dues are required. Graduation from the University is not essential to eligibility.

MINNEAPOLIS

By R. F. DUNCAN, ex '13

I am enclosing you check for $75.00 as the Minneapolis Alumni Association's contribution towards the University's payment for the American University Union to be established at Paris.

We are all very interested in the controversy regarding the recent lecture at the University by a Princeton professor. We are to have our monthly meeting next Thursday and I would appreciate it very much if you would write me a letter, giving me full information with affidavits, if possible, regarding this speech and the reception of it by the students.

NEW YORK ALUMNAE

By MRS. H. H. SCOTT, '02

The Wisconsin women in New York City met at luncheon at the Women's University Club, in April, with about forty present. Miss Abbey Mayhew, as guest of honor, gave a most interesting talk about her experience as director of physical training for the Y. W. C. A. in China. An informal organization of Wisconsin women in New York was decided upon and the following officers chosen:

Mrs. C. V. Hibbard (Sue Lowell) '00, president; Dr. Elizabeth Comstock, '97, vice president; Mrs. H. H. Scott (Agnes Merrill), '02, secretary.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

By F. V. CORNISH, '96

Sixty-two of the alumni and theirs came to the 14th annual dinner at the Fairmount to meet President Van Hise. At least 150 were absent. This letter is sent to all, but it is meant especially for those who could not attend. The President gave us a first-hand account of the progress of the University, speaking particularly of the war and what the faculty, students, and alumni are doing to win it. His message brought out some of the many ways in which our Alma Mater has become a part of the warp and woof of the Badger State, and one of the mighty units of our American civilization. He was greatly pleased with the interest shown, and asked to meet each guest individually. L. S. Clark, '59, our first president, responded to the toast, "Early Days," telling how he had entered the University sixty-three years ago, paying $25.00 out of a $50.00 slug coined by a San Francisco goldsmith for his first thirteen weeks' board and lodging, receiving at the end a drawback that paid his laundry bill; H. K. Rakshit, '14, now at U. C., urged the President to get ready for the students who would come to Madison from India after the war; H. E. Bolton, '95, told how he had delivered the John Muir clock; L. M. Hoskins, '83, related some of the boyhood experiences he had shared with President Van Hise when they were able to play baseball without a gas mask, and the rules let them catch the ball on the first bound; Mrs. W. P. Lyon, '70, spoke for the co-eds; and J. O. Hayes, '80, introduced the President as his former classmate. The guest list is as follows:

L. M. Hoskins, '83; G. W. Brown, '86, and wife; F. W. Woll, '86, and wife; Dr. D. A. Taylor, '90, and wife; Fred Whitton, '89; J. J. Baumgartner; A. J. Caveney, ex '13; M. B. Nichols, '03, and wife, '07; C. T. Whiskocil, '12, and wife; P. W. Black, grad., and wife, ex '14; E. W. Cahill and wife; H. K. Rakshit, '14; H. J. Saunders, '03; S. J. Lisberger, '03; R. F. Scholz, '02, and wife; O. Cole, Jr. '99, and wife; Dr. E. N. Ewer and wife; J. O. Hayes, '80; W. P. Lyon, '70, and wife; L. S. Clark, '59, and Miss Clark; C. M. Smith, '96, and wife, '97; L. P. Latimer, ex '79, and wife; Mrs. Emily Sowerly; E. B. Copeland, '95, and wife; Gordon True, '94; D. L. Hennessey, '03; Lenore O'Connor, '95; Gertrude Anthony, '99; Ira Cross, '05; W. U. Murrish, '11; E. E. Robinson, '08, and wife; C. E. Seiler, ex '00, and wife; J. H. Knowles, '99, and wife; Margaret Woll, ex '14; Dorothy Lewis; R. W. Simons, '12; Lt. J. W. Bollenbeck, '17; S. D. Townley, '90; C. D. Marx; F. V. Cornish, '96, Herbert Bolton, '95; and C. R. Van Hise, '79.

Since the last letter showing a deficit of $4.32, we have spent $10.00 for printing the membership list; $3.00 for flowers; $1.50 for dinner guest; $3.75 for postage; $3.50 for multi-graphing making a total of $21.75. Adding $4.32 to this sum makes an outlay of $26.07 to date. Whitton, Woll, Bolton, True, Hoskins, Robinson, Cornish, Latimer, Anthony, Townley and Brown have each since paid $1.00, leaving a deficit of $15.07 to be made up with dues. Let us hear from you.

SHANGHAI

By A. R. HAGER, '97

The American University Club of China is composed of nearly three hundred graduates and former students of American universities, who are now living in China. The membership is about equally divided between Chinese graduates of American universities who have returned home to China, and of Americans who are engaged in the various business, educational, medical and missionary enterprises that Americans are conducting in the Republic of China.

The club was organized in 1903 and the membership has grown steadily. The purpose of the club is to stimulate a closer feeling of fellowship on the part of American college men who are living in China and also stimulate a closer feeling of fellowship among Americans and Chinese which is so necessary to the future peace and well being of the Pacific.

Sixteen Wisconsin alumni are members of this club, eleven Americans and five Chinese, as follows:

S. R. Sheldon, '94; A. R. Hager, '97; F. C. Baxter, '04; E. B. Rose, '05; H. B. Sanford, '07; R. M. Talbot, ex '07; E. C. Stocker, '09;

H. E. Pulver, '10; F. J. Seeman, '12; J. K. Gold, '13; G. L. Luke, '16; and Y. C. Owyang, '10; Shion Tsu Wen, '12; Y. L. Chang, ex '12; L. Yu, '12; H. Y. Moh, ex '13.

Let us know when any Wisconsin alumni are coming to China.

WASHINGTON

By FRED ESCH, '07

Over eighty alumni met for luncheon at the Cushman Cafe on 14th Street between F. and G. Streets, N. W., Saturday, April 20. It was decided to make it a regular stunt hereafter to meet there for luncheon every Saturday noon between 12:30 and 2 o'clock. We have the entire third floor where a table de hote luncheon is served for 60 cents or you may order a la carte. These luncheons afford the opportunity of meeting your Wisconsin friends. By attending you will be of service to newcomers in Washington and in entertaining Wisconsin soldiers passing through. At last Saturday's luncheon, Dean Russell, '88, and Dr. Warren Persons spoke.

I sent about $50 from the Wisconsin bunch for the American University Union in Paris and will have about $40 more.—May 1.

1908 COME BACK!

Early in January various members of the class of 1908 corresponded relative to the advisability of carrying on an active campaign for the tenth reunion of the class. It seemed to be the concensus of opinion that the reunion should be held but that the class should hooverize on spectacular announcements, circulars, etc., and thus reduce expenses to a minimum. This idea has been followed out and while signed statements have not been secured from members, it is estimated conservatively that some few hundred of that famous class will be on hand for June 16-20, particularly June 17. Many members of the class are engaged in war work at home and over-seas, so that it is the patriotic duty of those at home to take the places of the ones who are fighting for democracy and see that the prestige and honor of the class of 1908 are preserved. 1908 hereby accepts any and all challenges issued by any other '3 or '8 class for any competitive event! Talk about faith in the ability of a class; 1908 will prove it to any group who desires to display the particular or exceptional powers it may possess along any one line. So let no 1908 alumnus or alumna stay away. Be on hand for the tenth reunion Monday, June 17. Register at Alumni Headquarters' tent, and obtain the details of all arrangements so that you may see all your old classmates, and learn of all the stunts which have been arranged. Two or three days' vacation will do us all a world of good! We will be able to obtain that first-hand, inspiring evidence of the loyalty of our Alma Mater, of its students, past and present, to renew our friendships of those college days, 1904-1908; and when we again take up our tasks, we will go with renewed energy because we have taken time to come back!

FROM SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE

By Lt. Harold Wengler, '17

Here in the Second Corps Schools, Wisconsin men have again come together. Here we are getting the final preparation for our responsibilities in the Great Adventure. We march together through the mud with which France seems to be carpeted, and sleep in the same caserne; when it is too cold to study, we work up a little warmth of feeling by remembering together things of the campus, the broad jumpers, the professors who really faught, the keg parties. . . . Some one had an inspiration, and pinned a piece of paper on the door of the caserne headlined "Wisconsin University Men." The list that follows resulted. We allow ourselves the mild thrill of thinking that perhaps the MAGAZINE may care to print it: G. A. Shipley, ex '10, Capt., Inf. R. C.; C. L. Nelson, '07, 2nd Lt., Inf. N. A.; H. I. Potter, '16, 2nd Lt., Inf. R. C.; Harold Wengler, '17, 2nd Lt., Inf. R. C.; A. A. Schardt, '17, 2nd Lt., Inf. R. C.; G. B. Noble, P. G. '16-17, 1st. Lt., Inf. R. C.; T. H. Keenan, 2nd Lt., Engr. R. C.; A. J. Beyers, '16, 2nd Lt., Inf. R. C.; Harry Dillon, '13, 2nd Lt. Inf. R. C.; C. B. Wurster, 2nd Lt., Inf. R. C.; J. A. Dougherty.—Amex. Forces, France, March 12, 1918.

BOOK NOTES

Brief reviews of writings by Wisconsin students, alumni, and faculty.

Newspaper Writing and Editing (Houghton Mifflin Co., N. Y., $1.65), by Willard G. Bleyer, '96, professor of journalism. This work, as its title suggests, deals with the problems met with in the practical tasks of reporting, editing, managing and publishing a newspaper, and should be a handy volume for reference as well as for the classroom.

The Study and Practice of Writing English (Houghton Mifflin Co., N. Y., $1.15), by Margaret Ashmun, '04, and Gerhard R. Lomer, formerly of the School of Journalism, Columbia. Throughout the book the idea obtains that there is a vital connection between actual life and the written word.

Minnesota History Bulletin (Minn. Hist. Society), edited by Solon J. Buck, '04, carries in its February issue an excellent article on James J. Hill.

Who Is Paying for This War? is the pertinent query Prof. J. R. Commons essays to answer in a booklet published by the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy.

The Story of a Cigarette (D. W. Appleton Co., N. Y.), by W. W. Young, '92. "It is a historical survey of a previously untouched subject and makes an ardent appeal for uniform cigarette legislation. The book has a very remarkable sale."

Two Children in Old Paris (The Macmillan Co., New York, $1.50), by Mrs. M. S. Slaughter. To those who pick up Two Children in Old Paris merely as a book to read, the experience brings unusual delight. With the first words of the first chapter we are carried out of the noise and clatter of the world around us, and are set gently down in the venerable, kindly, candle-lit heart of Old Paris—as far from the showy flutter of Parisian shops as from the clang of American machinery. In this soft and dreamy atmosphere we wander throughout the book, led on by the sprightly figures of the two little girls whose quaint phrases and intimate little actions keep us in a steady glow of tender pleasure. We soar with the soul of the older child to the greatest heights of historic vision; under her guidance we follow the gentle old river to places and buildings almost as old, where we see shadowy throngs of kings and queens and martyrs, and feel every thrill of their joys and sorrows. Then a calmly spoken word of the sturdy, clear-eyed sister brings us down to earth again with a laugh, and we discover that "Trudion" has analysed everything around her with an imagination fully as vivid, if not so dreamily exalted as "Sister," Elizabeth.

When we have finished the book we know Old Paris by heart and know its places and people better and love them more through the bond of tenderness which we feel, which we know that Old Paris and the adoring French maid, the gentle poet-teacher and the mother must feel toward the two little girls—who do everything just as we should like to do it, and who keep, through all their gayety, a clear understanding of the deepest spirit of France and her people.

For those who knew the "Two Children" if only a little, for those who watched the slow tragedy of their death, the book means something infinitely deeper and more touching—something that comforts while it saddens. Each simply told incident, each little quotation from their own words, each scene, brings back vividly the picture of the two as they were, and tells by its very simplicity the mother's love for them, and their adoration of her and "Daddy." The few short chapters seem to complete a friendship too cruelly broken, and in them Mrs. Slaughter has proved that there can be no death for anything truly beautiful.—Rachel S. Commons, '21.

WAR RECORDS

The General Alumni Association desires to collect and preserve a record of the service performed by every University of Wisconsin man in the present war. Information concerning every person who has been enrolled in any department of the University, or who has been or is a member of its teaching staff, and who is engaged in any form of service connected with the prosecution of the war—whether in military or civil lines—is desired. It is urged that every person to whom this notice comes report for themselves and for their friends so that no one may be missed. This is most important and we hope that the alumni may respond promptly. If you cannot give full information about the person engaged in such work kindly send name and tell us where further information may be obtained. The colleges of the country have reason to be proud of the way in which the students and alumni have responded to the call for service. We know that Wisconsin is not behind other colleges in this respect but we want the facts to show it and we also want to give the men and women who have taken an active part in this war their due meed of credit for their patriotic devotion.

COME HOME!

All Graduates, former students, members of our faculty, administrative officers, interested friends of the University, and particularly all members of the "Eights" and "Threes" classes are earnestly urged to return for Commencement in June. In this trying year with its new problems, its new responsibilities, its new obligations Alma Mater needs our mature affection and we need her immortal youth. She, though "always growing and always young" is always [needing strength. This year more than at any time in the past she needs the counsel, advice, and encouragement that can come only through the presence of her many children at her annual homecoming. We are convinced from observation of the experiences of last year, and from the testimony received from all of the other leading institutions of the country, that those who return for patriotic Commencement activities in these stirring serious times of stress and strife secure a spiritual satisfaction that outweighs any possible material personal sacrifice. Your Alma Mater needs you and you need her. We bid you come.

Cordially and earnestly yours,

The Class of Nineteen Eighteen,

The University Graduate

Insures his life liberally, and selects his insurance company and policy with judgment. The trained intelligence that is the product of his college course enables him to understand the great benefits of Life Insurance. Moreover, the power to analyze facts teaches him the importance of selection and correct valuation.

Such a man grasps with ease the merits of the proposal of the NEW ENGLAND MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, of Boston. This Company—the oldest chartered in America, 1835—has stood consistently for the highest ideals of insurance service. Its administration has been progressive, absolutely fair, and in the fullest degree has safeguarded the interests of all policyholders. The Policy Contract of the NEW ENGLAND MUTUAL is the most liberal written. It embodies in a perfect form the principle of strictly Mutual Life Insurance.

DID YOU EVER

After you left Madison, want some article that you had or saw when you were in the University?

You made inquiries at the several stores where you are now located but did not find exactly what you wished.

Most likely it was some article that would have a sale only in a college town, or perhaps the shops in your town just didn't have it.

Do you ever remember that you used to purchase that same article at The University Co-Operative Company years ago?
