The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

A Man and A Squirrel

Long ago went to get some timber in the woods. There he saw a squirrel gathering nuts and putting them various places. He caught him and intended to steal them but he begged so much to be let go and he promised to return the help sometime that the man released him.

He harvested nothing that fall and he had hard times during the winter. He had no provisions. As he was out gathering wood, the squirrel showed up and he invited the man to go to his nest and fed him as many nuts has he had stored up to help him out during his hard times.
