U.S. Nears 'Shooting War' In Occupation of Iceland

Knox Hints 'Shooting Orders' for Navy; Soviets Stall Nazis

By DAN ROGERS
(United Press Staff Corres.)

Events on both sides of the Atlantic hastened the United States' pace toward a "shooting war" with Germany during the last 24 hours. These developments, which overshadowed the bloody Russo-German war and reports that Soviet troops had stalled the Nazi offensive, included:

1. Navy Secretary Frank Knox implied, in connection with U. S. occupation of Iceland, that U. S. naval forces had been instructed by President Roosevelt that they may have to shoot to keep open vital North Atlantic sealanes.

PREDICTS COLLABORATION

2. Prime Minister Winston Churchill in London told a cheering house of commons that the American and British navies would "collaborate" in the vital battle of the Atlantic, and that British forces would remain in Iceland to help defend it.

3. Wendell Willkie, coming from a luncheon with the president, called for the establishment of American bases in northern Ireland or Scotland, if necessary, and approved the occupation of Iceland as the "first step in a series of similar steps that should shortly be taken."

CLAIM CHANNEL 'U. S. FRONT'

4. An authorized German spokesman in Berlin said that President Roosevelt had advanced the United States frontier to the English channel by sending American troops to Iceland, which he called an active military step outside the western hemisphere. The Nazis reiterated that Iceland was a theater of war included in the Axis counter-blockade zone and said the United States would have to "take the consequences."

Knox revealed at a press conference that the president as commander-in-chief had issued new orders to the navy, going "further" than original instructions which called only for the reporting of hostile craft in hemisphere waters. The secretary, who last week advocated the use of the navy now to "sweep the German menace from the seas," quoted from Mr. (Continued on page 16)

Talks on Labor

PROF. SELIG PERLMAN

No Crack-Down On Labor, Asks Prof. Perlman

By DOROTHY BROWNE

The handling of labor in critical situations cannot be successfully done by making a frontal attack on the situation, Prof. Selig Perlman, authority on labor problems and a member of the economics department here, told a capacity audience in the Memorial Union Play Circle last night.

He was to speak on the question "What Will Happen to Labor in the Event of War?" but rephrased his title to be "The American Labor Union Situation in the Shadow of War," and rather than make predictions as to what will happen to labor, gave information on how to handle the situation.

Mary Jane Purcell introduced the speaker and conducted the half-hour informal question period following the speech.

"I advocate a policy opposite from cracking down on labor because cracking down does not assure the desired results," Professor Perlman said. He suggested that the handling must be (Continued on page 16)

Short Wave Static Caused by Sunspots

If static has ruined your foreign short wave radio reception these past few nights, don't blame it on the European and South American transmitters.

Astronomy students, with Prof. Charles Huffer at the university's Washburn observatory, have been looking at growing sunspots lately, which Professor Huffer says are to blame.

Sunspots cause the atmospheric phenomenon on Earth known as "northern lights," which in turn ruin short wave radio reception, according to Professor Huffer.

And in case you haven't been watching the sky around 1 a. m. these past few nights, the northern lights or Aurora Borealis, have been especially beautiful.

Take a look on a cloudless night from a pier along Lake Mendota.

Professor Dies

PROF. EDWARD KREMERS

Dr Kremers Passes At U Infirmary

The man who did most for the cause of pharmacy in the United States died here yesterday.

Prof. Edward Kremers, 76, dean of the Wisconsin School of Pharmacy for 43 years and a pioneer in pharmaceutical education, died of a sudden heart attack at 1 p. m. yesterday at the Wisconsin General hospital. He had been ill for some time, and had undergone several operations during the last months.

Funeral arrangements have not as yet been announced.

KNOWN WORLD-OVER

Author, editor, and historian, Dr. Kremers was known the world over for his research in pharmaceutical education.

"His work and encouragement has been an ever-present ideal for us to follow and his death will be a great loss for pharmacy," Dr. A. H. Uhl, present director of the Pharmacy school, said last night.

White-haired, a hard worker, Dr. Kremers was one of the two Wisconsin men awarded the Remington medal, highest award of organized pharmacy.

He was dean of the university Pharmacy school from 1892 to 1935, and built it up to one of the country's leading institutions in its field. He was honored at a testimonial dinner in the Memorial Union last April after completing 60 years of service to pharmacy.

ALWAYS AT WORK

In a life-time of work, Dr. Kremers collected all available material on the history of pharmacy, and late in 1940 he published a complete text-book of progress in pharmacy.

"He was always working," Dr. Uhl said. "His only recreation was his home and his laboratory work."

Perhaps the greatest perpetrator of pharmaceutical education the world has known, Dr. Kremers did pioneer work in phytochemistry, volatile oils (Continued on page 16)

Veteran Gets War Honor 23 Years After Armistice

By WALTER G. CURTIS

Uncle Sam promised it to him 23 years ago, shortly after his outfit moved back from bloody Chateau-Thierry, and the wounds in his shoulder, forearm, and hand were still stiff.

IT CAME TUESDAY

But it was only Tuesday, July 8, 1941, that P. S. Schore finally opened a small box brought by the mailman, and found the coveted Purple Heart medal, given only to United States soldiers wounded in action.

For Schore, who during the past 15 years has been a custodian in the university's Bascom hall, World war memories aren't the easiest thing in the world to talk about. But he'll tell you that he was among the first transport loads of American regulars that went to France shortly after war was declared in 1917. He had enlisted three months before we entered the conflict.

DOESN'T SAY MUCH

And he doesn't say much about Chateau-Thierry, except that he was among the machine gunners of the Fourth division which held back great German forces in that first great (Continued on Page 15)

Classes Saturday So 11:00 Night Friday

Annual notice to all summer students: To compensate for the utilization of June 30 as a registration day, all lectures and classes will meet as usual this coming Saturday, July 12. And because Saturday will be a regular class day, don't forget that Friday will be an 11:00 night!

SUMMER PREXY 'TAKES THE RAP'

—Sanchez Studios

Here is a sample of what will be in store for any indiscreet male rash enough to attempt to crash "Wisconsin's most informal informal dance" at Shirt Sleeve Shuffle in the Memorial Union Saturday night.

Ray Ender, summer student boarder in charge of the shuffle, wields an authentic patrolman's billy at summer student board president Nat Hefernan, who appears mildly startled in his formal clothes. Helen Polcyn, also formally attired, is stymied too, which is especially disconcerting since she plans to enter the watermelon contest at intermission time. Anne Haight, one of the prom queen candidates at large selected at the dateless dance last Saturday, who is, according to Cop Ender, dressed "simply too, too divinely," and entirely in style for the shuffle, has possession of a fistful of neckties, which are subject to confiscation by dance authorities.

Weather--

Partly cloudy, possibly scattered thundershowers extreme east, warmer east, today; Friday generally fair.

FRENCH IGNORE BEIRUT ULTIMATUM

New York, Thursday, July 10—(U.P.) A British Broadcasting corporation report heard by NBC early today indicated that Gen. Henri Dentz, French commander at Beirut, had ignored the British ultimatum to surrender the city which expired at 5:30 a. m. Beirut time. BBC said British forces now are closing in on the Lebanese capital.

RUSSIANS CLAIM ADVANTAGE

Moscow, Thursday, July 10—(U.P.)—A fierce battle is raging west of the key Russian railroad and industrial city of Smolensk on the main highway to Moscow, 230 miles away, with both Russians and Germans unleashing attacks and counter-drives, today's Soviet war communique reported.

On two sectors of the bloody central front, around Ostrov and Lepel, the Germans were said to have been hurled back by Red army counter-assaults while Soviet forces held their ground against smashing Nazi "panzer" drives at the Ukrainian border, 120 miles west of Kiev.

GERMANS CAPTURE TOWNS

Berlin, Thursday, July 10—(U.P.)—German forces striking toward Leningrad were reported early today to be breaking up "fleeing enemy columns" on the Baltic sector after capturing the towns of Ostrov, Fellin and Pernau. Further successful Nazi attacks occurred "along the entire eastern front" where the Germans increased their hammer blows against the Stalin line, informed military quarters said.

BRITISH CONTINUE RAIDS

London—(U.P.)—Large British bomber-fighter formations raided industrial objectives in northern France Wednesday and in the resulting air battles were reported authoritatively to have destroyed 13 German planes with a loss of eight.

FRENCH ASK SYRIAN ARMISTICE

Vichy—(U.P.)—The French government, with the United States as intermediary, has appealed to Great Britain for an immediate armistice in Syria where French troops have been cut off from supplies and reinforcement. (Continued on page 16)

Participating in the recital will be Samuel Gardner, violinist and composer, of the Julliard and David Mannes schools of music faculty, New York, who will present four violin selections, including two of his own compositions. He will be accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Gardner.

Scientific Marvels Displayed At Physics Department 'Museum'

See yourself as others see you, listen and learn how to detect submarines and other assorted sounds, watch upside down articles appear right side up, tell time by the motions of the earth, and find out how wireless waves are transmitted from sender to receiver.

You can do all this, in addition to viewing other unusual gadgets, instruments, and processes any afternoon, if you visit the "museum" of the university physics department crammed into a glass-walled room on the first floor of Sterling hall.

The museum is used by physics students in connection with their general laboratory work, and is open to the public every afternoon.

CLOCK COMES FIRST

First object that meets the eye upon entering the long but narrow room crammed to the brim with strange-looking instruments, is a large clock with separate faces for hours, minutes, and seconds. Also on display are all parts of a Waltham watch.

The trick of seeing yourself as you actually are is accomplished by means of a set of plane mirrors set at right angles, which "tells all." Ordinary mirrors show things in reverse, but this arrangement is different, making it even possible to read print in the mirror.

Also on display in the museum is a model of Edison's first phonograph, a gift of the Edison laboratories. A strange looking machine, the device bears scarce resemblance to its modern, streamlined offspring, and used tin foil records instead of wax discs.

Another foreign-looking apparatus is an "acoustical compensator," used to illustrate the principles of submarine and other sound detection. The gadget consists of two ear pieces connected to two horns by means of rubber tubes. Topping off the structure is a disc or "compensator" which can be turned to change the length of the sound path from the detecting horn to the ear.

HANGS FROM ROOF

Hanging from the ceiling at one end of the room is a simple device which graphically demonstrates wireless wave propagation. To get the transmission effect, all that is required is a gentle tug on a piece of wood suspended by a cord from a "sender." This "sender" transmits the motion along inter-crossing threads through a number of wooden balls until it reaches the "receiver" and sets it vibrating.

The upside-down, now-you-see-it-now-you-don't trick is done with a concave mirror reflecting a small toy soldier mounted upside down on a screen, but the reflection in the mirror appears to be right side up.

Telling time by the movement of the earth is the function of the Foucault pendulum, 1,440 centimeters long, which swings over a card graduated in hours for this latitude. This "clock" is started every morning at 8, and the pendulum swings in the same arc throughout the day, while the card remains stationary.

The device demonstrates the movement of the earth, so slow that it cannot be noticed in any other way, and gives the time within a few minutes for the rest of the day, if you can interpret it.

Another exhibit is an apparatus showing how the various parts of the mechanism operate when a car is running. This motor, differential, and transmission is push-button operated and cut away, making it possible to see the actual process of driving. It was given to the museum by the Ford Motor company.

DISPLAY FOR NATURALISTS

Of interest to nature lovers are the displays in the Biology building museum, ranging from a life-like armadillo, to cases with stuffed birds of all types, sizes, colors, and descriptions.

Mounted around the second floor railing of the building are the heads of large native and other deer and larger animals, while other cases show restored animal skeletons, butterfly and shell collections, internal organs, and other illustrations.

Live exhibits in the front part of the building are changed from week to week.

International, U. S. Table Tennis Champ At Summer Session

Reaching the top is nothing new for Jay Purves of Langdon hall, American and international table tennis champion and physical education teacher at Wisconsin high, who is attending summer session here.

Short, slim, and dark, Jay Purves comes from Des Plaines, Ill. She is a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Illinois, Jay played and won her first tournament match at the Palmer House in Chicago in 1933. After winning the Western championship, she defended her title in county, state, and national championship matches throughout the United States.

At the present time Jay is retired from active participation in table tennis tournaments in order to study. She plans to complete her work for her master's degree in physical education this summer, and then continue to work toward her doctor's.

"I don't intend to take up table tennis as a major activity again," the champion stated. "I want to try something different, like badminton."

Selected twice to go to Europe to play in international matches to win and defend the U. S. title, she went with three other members of the team to Prague in 1936 and to Vienna in 1937.

Previous to playing in these matches she played in national matches at Wimbledon, England, before 10,000 spectators, in Paris, Budapest, and in Germany.

"During one match in Germany," Jay declares, "I lost six pounds. The game was 20-15 in favor of the German star, and losing it meant that the international title would be lost for the U. S. team." The final score was 21-20. Jay Purves, the winner.

In the Vienna match, she helped the U. S. team to win the Corbillion championship, the first time an American ever held that title.

Jay is outstanding in golf and hockey as well. She played in the national hockey tournament from 1930 to 1936 and has participated in several golf tournaments.

Philadelphia—(U.P.)—Copies of England's Crown Jewels were placed on display in a Philadelphia department store and visitors paid 10 cents to view them.

John Duffy's orchestra will furnish the music. Mary Stroud, social chairman, is in charge of the affair.

Ann Emery hall and Showerman house held an exchange dinner last Tuesday, July 8. Girls who were guests at Showerman included: Barbara Leif, the guest of John St. Germain; Margaret Alkire with Jack Davis; Violet McGrath with Gale Herbert.

Dot Hague with Bob Langwell; Shirley Foster with Jack Weidner; Harriet Skriver with Reuben Klumb. Leora Harris with Bud Bowen; Barbara Wilkelmy with Hugh Johnson; Dorothy Wilkelmy with Bob Steinkellner.

Guests of Ann Emery were: Bob Weiss, Cliff Hicks, Fred Hauser, David Teitelbaum, Jack Shafer, Irwin Lynn. Phillip Eisenberg, Milt Albert, Jack Klein, George Bullis, Clarence Kirchgefer, and Bob Mallon.

Girls who received guests at Ann Emery were: Elizabeth Klinar, Genevieve Sherman, Lorraine Rogers, Marian Johnson, Arlene Foster.

Marian Reid, Kathryn Cox, Mary Grace Winnett, Gertrude Baikoff, Marian Schimmelpenninck, Amy Robinson, and Jean Henkel.

The first of a series of informal faculty dinners was held at Ann Emery hall the next night, Wednesday, July 9. The guests who attended included:

R. B. Quintana, professor of English, and Mrs. Quintana; Hazel S. Albersson, instructor in comparative literature; and Calla Guyles, assistant professor in teaching of Latin.

Hostesses for the evening were Janet Stratkearn, Margaret Day, and Esther Weller.

Vera Huebu gave a musical program in the lounge where after-dinner coffee was served.

Among Ann Emery's recreational activities is a bridge tournament for enthusiasts which meets every Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. Arlene Foster won the traveling prize in the first game last Tuesday, July 8, for a trick taken with a duce. Lydia Knocke made the high score of the afternoon. Lucille Peterson is in charge of the tournament.

Ann Emery's ping pong tournament will begin Monday, July 14, according to Jean Reed, chairman. The tournament will start with elimination matches followed by finals for singles. If time permits, a doubles tournament will also be played.

Doris Fay Wins Annual French Consular Medal

Doris Fay, Madison, was awarded the medal sent annually by the French consul for the best paper by a French student on general cultural subjects at the 24th anniversary dinner of the University French club at the French house this week. Myrteila Sobel received honorable mention.

The dinner was the first summer session social affair of the club, with Prof. Hugh Smith, French department chairman, and Prof. C. D. Zdan-owicz, chairman of the French house board of directors, presiding.

Professor Smith recalled the opening of the French house 24 years ago, and traced its development and influence in increasing interest in French culture and speaking among students.

Rita Mae Hall was elected president of the house for the summer, and Gladys Cook, secretary.

DEFENSE STREET APPEARS

Muskegon, Mich.—(U.P.)—The signs to be erected along the new streets for the city's 71-building federal homes project will bear names significant of the times, according to Scott Ellstead, assistant contractor on the project. Three of the streets, Ellstead says, will be named "Defense," "Belum," and "Convoy."

Blue Mounds Trip Planned for Halls Tomorrow Afternoon

Tomorrow at 1 p. m. the residence halls summer association is sponsoring and conducting an excursion to the Blue Mounds area on chartered Greyhound buses. The charge for association members is $1.85 and for guests of association members $2.40. Tickets must be purchased by this noon.

The trip will include a stop at Little Norway, a sequestered valley containing authentic, typical Norwegian buildings, relics and antiques in a typical Norse setting.

The second stop will be at the newly discovered Cave of the Mounds where well informed guides will explain the wonders and formations of this beautiful cavern. Authorities in the field have stated that this cave contains formations which can be found nowhere else in the world.

From Blue Mounds the trip will go to the Land of the Sky, on Blue Mounds park. From this point is afforded one of the most striking views that Wisconsin has to offer. The state capitol at Madison, 25 miles away, can be seen from this vantage point, elevated 1,760 feet above sea level.

On this lofty perch a picnic supper will be served which halls officials promise will satiate the largest appetites that the excursion will develop.

It is suggested that excursionists bring along wraps, as it will cool off considerably at sunset and as the temperature of Blue Mounds cave is always about 45 degrees.

Buses will leave on the road between Elizabeth Waters and Van Hise at 1 p. m. Picnic supper will be served at 6 p. m. and the buses will return to the halls at 8:30 p. m.

Education Workshop Helps Teachers Meet Classroom Problems

A workshop without tools, a laboratory without equipment.

That is how you would describe the Workshop in Secondary Education which meets each week-day morning in the Education building. About 65 secondary teachers and educators are enrolled in the course.

"The purpose of the workshop is to help high school and junior high school teachers to better handle their daily classroom problems," Gordon N. Mackenzie, director of the workshop, explained yesterday.

INFORMAL DISCUSSION

The course has no organized curriculum, and informal one-hour discussions are held five times a week. Small group meetings are held in the afternoon to discuss individual problems.

Tried last summer for the first time, enrollment in the workshop has grown more than one-third.

"The workshop is ideally suited to those who enroll with a specific interest or problem and wish to devote all or part of their time during the summer to intensive work on this interest," Mackenzie said.

Discussion problems include current trends in secondary education, responsibility of the high school in relation to national defense, planning of home room programs, organization of extra-curricular programs, and others.

Specialists in all educational fields are members of the workshop staff,

Summer School Children Attend 6th Lab. School

While their parents are attending or teaching summer school at the university, 150 children, ranging in ages from 2 to 12 years, from Wisconsin and 11 other states are spending their mornings learning about arts, music, rhythm and other subjects at the sixth annual laboratory school at Wisconsin high school.

Transformed from a high school to a complete elementary school, the Wisconsin high building houses classes from kindergarten through sixth grade, with a complete children's library and all the necessary equipment furnished by the city board of education.

The laboratory school is sponsored by the university School of Education, and in addition to providing easy, relaxed educational opportunities for the youngsters, serves as a practice teaching and observation project for 250 to 300 summer session education students.

ENROLLMENT IS UP

This year's pupil enrollment is eight above that of last year, according to Principal LeRoy Luberg, of the Madison public schools. About one-third of the pupils have attended previous sessions, some as many as four summers.

"The laboratory school is becoming an institution," Luberg said, explaining the increase. The number of practice teachers and observers is about the same as in previous years.

In addition to the elementary school courses, a course in remedial reading for high school age youths is offered every afternoon at the high school building. Directed by T. L. Harris, La Grange, Ill., this course is designed to aid the pupils in improving reading habits, through special instruction and use of the most modern equipment to record these habits and find the troubles. Also part of the laboratory school is a speech correction project under the direction of Charlotte Wells of the university speech department.

PUPILS SELECTED

Pupils for the laboratory school are accepted with a view of maintaining as even as possible a balance of ages, sexes and numbers in the various classes, and the boys and girls are "happy, normal children, who develop a fine esprit de corps and, despite widely varying backgrounds, adjust themselves easily and quickly," according to Luberg.

The school curriculum, which covers the morning includes instruction in art, music, rhythm, physical education, dramatics, recreation and swimming. The work of each grade is built around a unit theme, against the background of which all other subjects are studied. Each class chooses its own unit during the first week of the school, which runs concurrently with the summer session.

Among the units chosen this year is the Orient, which is the project of the sixth grade, and serves as the theme for the study of art, rhythm, music and other subjects studied by the class. Other projects center in the weather and health, Luberg stated.

HAVE DAILY SWIM

Each forenoon, weather permitting, the children are loaded into a school bus and taken down to the Willows beach for swimming instructions, in charge of Gladys Andrews, Alma, Mich.

"The laboratory school offers the children a rich program and demonstrates that they can make progress during the summer months under relaxed educational conditions which make it possible for them to demonstrate and use their initiative and develop skills," Luberg pointed out.

The following staff, assisted by the education students, is in charge of the various departments of the school:

Director, Gordon N. Mackenzie, University of Wisconsin; principal, LeRoy E. Luberg, public schools of Madison; grade VI, John H. Cooper, Tower Hill school, Wilmington, Del.; grade V, Theodore D. ## 135 Students Explore Mendota At Union Historical Excursion

"And then came the white man." The white man—135 summer session students—came Saturday as honorary members of Indian clans and under the welcome sign of an Indian chief to spend a day packed full of fun, entertainment, and Indian lore on the Lake Mendota historical excursion, first summer session outing sponsored by the Memorial Union.

FILL UP ON INDIAN LORE

They listened to Indian legends, saw Indian mounds, were shown points of historic interest, heard bird calls and animal imitations from Chief Evergreen Tree, an honest-to-goodness Indian, and had a dandy boat ride doing all this.

Dr. C. E. Brown, director of the state historical museum, led the group and was assisted by Carl Hoeber.

Three boats were necessary to carry the group, one of the largest in recent years, across Lake "Wonsheh-Nomikla," the Indian name for Lake Mendota, meaning "where the Indian lives." The group was divided into four different Indian clans, the Deer, Bear, Thunderbird, and Panther, corresponding to the section of the country native to the guest.

HEAR TALL TALES

Legends as that of the Indian who after eating meat of a spirited raccoon, became so thirsty that he walked into the middle of the lake, was spirited into a fish, and may still be heard splashing about off Maple Bluff were told and retold by the leaders.

Chief Evergreen Tree, a Pueblo Indian from Texas, impressively welcomed the group from a bluff above the pier at West point as the boats came in to unload for the main stop of the day. The chief in full regalia addressed the visitors in very good English which he acquired at a Texas Indian school. He explained many of the customs of his people including the origin of his name, "Ha-cuh-ek" (Evergreen Tree), which he received at sunrise on his fourth birthday as a result of a conference of five relatives gathered that morning to be given a name by the Great Spirit.

GIVES BIRD CALLS

Chief Evergreen Tree gave many of his bird and animal calls which he has given in schools all over the nation. So realistic were his imitations that a small white poodle broke his leash when the chief imitated the sounds of a dog fight.

As a finale, the chief recited his people's philosophy of friendship with the white man:

"He may seem cruel, he may seem rude,

But when he grips you firmly by the hand, then—

One good hand shake will tell more words

Than all the things in this good earth."

Farewell point was the first stop and here the group examined the well preserved Indian mounds on the Mendota and U. S. Veterans' hospital grounds. Among the various animal shaped mounds is a bird mound which is the largest in the world, being 624 feet in length.

Lunch was eaten at Camp Wakan-da, Dorothy Moldon Brown entertained with several Indian legends.

LAST STOP

West point, the site of an early Indian village, was the last stop and here the group met Chief Evergreen Tree.

A tired and sun-burned group waved a farewell to the chief atop the bluff as the boats left the pier. Hanging on to both port and starboard of the crowded Rose S and Badger, the happy group enjoyed a swift ride across the lake to the Park street pier.

Any pictures taken during the outing may be submitted to the Union desk before Friday, July 11, when a committee will select representative prints for a display.

The next Union outing will take place on Saturday, July 19, when Prof. George Longenecker, director of the university arboretum, will conduct a walk on the university's interesting outdoor laboratory. The walk was originally scheduled for July 12 but has been postponed due to the use of that day as a class day. The much awaited picturesque Wisconsin tour including visits to Little Norway, Taliesin, and the Blue Mounds country is scheduled for Sunday July 27.

Prom Queen Contest Gets On Its Way

The problem of selecting a queen to reign over the summer session prom on the evening of Aug. 1 advanced towards solution yesterday with the distribution of letters to every organized women's house on the campus inviting them to enter a candidate in the contest.

The letters were sent by Bill Schilling and Bud Reynolds, summer student board members in charge of the prom queen contest. The winner of the contest and queen of the 1941 summer prom will be chosen from the contestants by a committee of student board members.

Each house is allowed one candidate and each dormitory three, according to the announcement. "Your candidate should have beauty, charm, personality, and a dash of glamour," the letter states.

DEADLINE IS MONDAY

Monday, July 14, is the deadline for entries in the contest. Candidates will be required to have photographs made, on the basis of which the contestants will be judged. Winners of the contest, which will include the queen and her court of honor, will be introduced at the pre-prom dance on July 26. The queen will choose the king who is to "reign" with her at the leading social event of the summer session.

Already two "candidates-at-large" for the contest, Ann Haight and Peg Finn, have been selected by contest officials at the dateless dance last Saturday. They will compete with the other entrants on an equal status.

"We expect more entrants in the queen contest this summer than ever before," Bill Schilling predicted yesterday. The prom committee is already contacting leading "name" bands for the affair, Schilling said.

Cast for 'Pelleas,' Romantic Drama, Released by Buerki

The cast of characters for the production of Maurice Maeterlinck's romantic drama, "Pelleas and Melisande," to be presented this Saturday night at 8 in the Wisconsin Union theater, has just been released by Director Frederick Buerki.

The role of Pelleas will be played by Charles W. Schoregge, Jr., and that of Melisande by Charlotte Lefstein. Annetta L. Wood portrays Genevieve; Joe C. Wetherby, Golaud; Owen Watson, Arkel; Bruce Felknor, the doctor.

The child, little Yniold, will be played by Mr. Watson's daughter, Betty Lou Watson.

The play has been arranged from five acts to one act and eleven vignettes, according to Buerki. It is presented in translation from the original French.

The play will precede Lynn Fontanne's reading of "The White Cliffs of Dover."

Alpha Phi

Alpha Phi will hold its open house tomorrow from 8 to 10 p. m. Mary Burnham of Amsterdam, New York, is in charge of the arrangements.

Congressmen Defend 'Yoo Hoo' Division, Hit 'Sourpuss' General

Washington, July 9—(U.P.)—Congress tonight came to the defense, if too late for the rescue, of 325 footsore soldiers of the 35th "yoo hoo" division who yelled at the right girls but the wrong general on a Memphis, Tenn., golf course.

Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear, commander of the Second Army, who forced the men to march 15 miles in a broiling sun to atone for whistling at shorts-clad girl golfers and hooting at him, was assailed on the house floor as "a grouchy, golfing old general."

The troops, members of the 110th Motor Transport, were passing by a golf course headed for Camp Robinson, Ark., 150 miles west. Some of them yelled appreciatively at the girl golfers and derisively at what appeared to be a middle-aged civilian but turned out to be Gen. Lear, outranked in the U. S. army only by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief-of-staff.

Rep. Paul H. Kilday, D., Tex., a member of the house military affairs committee, today demanded that Lear inform him whether the soldiers' misconduct "came to your attention while in the field with your troops on important maneuvers or while on a golf course."

Kilday informed Lear he was "contemplating introduction of a resolution to investigate your severe punishment." He said he had the impression that Lear's action "in the name of discipline was actually to assuage your personal resentment because of remarks directed at you while you were not in uniform and your identity not known."

Rep. Everett M. Dirksen, R., O., prefers soldiers who have an eye for pretty girls to "sour pusses."

He told the house he didn't know whether public funds should be spent by some grouchy, golfing old general to develop sourpuss soldiers.

"For my part," he said, "I'll take the kind of soldiers that these boys are."

CATTLE DANDRUFF COLLECTED

Vancouver, Wash.—(U.P.)—John Moulton vacuum-cleans cows, and sells the collected dandruff. Two physicians in nearby Portland, Ore., buy the dandruff, which they use in making a serum to counteract hay fever and asthma.

MASCOTS CLUTTER UP CAMP

Hattiesburg, Miss.—(U.P.)—When the 37th Division left Camp Shelby to join maneuvers in Louisiana mascots stayed at "home." Home guards had about five dozen dogs, a parrot, a skunk, an even dozen goats and several mules to care for.

WHA Program Aims to Develop U. S. Patriotism

Three series of broadcasts announced by university station WHA for the summer session period provide a unique approach to radio's current effort to make Americans "American conscious."

The playwright interprets United States history in "The Drama of America," a series of adaptations of plays by well-known authors about the growth of our country. Beginning with "The Lost Colony" by Paul Green, a story of the early settlement of Virginia, the series follows America's course through the centuries. "The Lost Colony" will be heard on Thursday, July 10, at 4 o'clock.

On succeeding Thursdays at the same time, the WHA Players will present dramas of four other crucial periods in the nation's development—revolutionary days, the Civil War, World War I, and the present time.

A parallel series, "Song of America," likewise calls attention to our magnificent heritage in American literature. The voices of American poets—Bryant, Emerson, Whitman, Dickinson, down to the moderns—are heard as part of our great cultural and democratic background, and as perpetuators of the American scene. This program is broadcast twice a week, on Mondays and Wednesdays at 4:30.

America today—living, searching America—is dramatized each Wednesday evening at 7 during the "Following Congress" programs. Congressional debate on defense and foreign policies comes to life in these re-enactments of scenes from the halls of our national capitol. This is the series of which judges said, in honoring it with a national first award, "Every radio station in the country should be carrying this program."

A WHA feature for several years, "Following Congress" comes into new prominence and gains additional significance with the vital issues confronting our country discussed while they are still news. Broadcasts originate in the Play Circle of the Memorial Union, and a studio audience is welcome.

Residence Halls Softball Standings Begin to Shape Up

Moving into the third round next week, residence halls softball clubs are well into the season, with standings beginning to take shape.

Games July 14 will pit Mack against Siebeck-Noyes; Gilman-Turner vs. Showerman-Conover; Richardson-Faville vs. Ochsner-Winslow; and Tarrant vs. La Follette.

Games at 6:30 last night on the intramural fields saw Mack playing Ochsner-Winslow; Gilman-Turner against Siebeck-Noyes; Richardson-Faville meeting La Follette; and Tarrant against Showerman-Conover.

Results of first round games Monday, July 7, were:

Noyes-Siebeck showed itself the powerhouse of the loop, with a 22-5 lashing of the Richardson-Faville squad. Eckmann, chucking for the Noyes ten, limited the opposition to scattered hits, faltering only in the third stanza, when three men scored.

Tarrant edged past Ochsner-Winslow 7-5, behind Mecker's chucking. Mecker allowed five bingles, with Ochsner-Winslow batters getting to him in the fourth and fifth rounds for a pair of runs. Tarrant hit Schwartz a little easier, tagging him for six base knocks.

Gilman-Turner had power enough for a 10-7 win over La Follette, with little Dick Holzaepfel tossing for the winners.

Mack set Showerman-Conover back 13-10 with hits scattered plentifully on both sides. Shaw was on the mound for the winners, while Weidner went the route for Showerman-Conover.

First CAA Flyer Solos Tuesday After 11 Days

Eleven days after first going aloft with his instructor, Philip Strasser, 314 N. Bassett street, CAA student in the University of Wisconsin summer flight program, soloed Tuesday. He is the first of 50 students in the summer primary class to fly alone. Last year the first to solo was Carol Ann Reis, daughter of Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis.

Strasser is taking his flight work at the Four Lakes airport, on highway 18, where L. R. Willeumier is the flight contractor. His instructor is G. E. Denman.

After eight hours of dual instruction taken in 30-minute periods daily, weather permitting, Strasser was declared qualified to go up alone, July 8. He was then at the controls 15 minutes, and according to his instructor, executed several perfect takeoffs and landings.

Student progress in the summer programs is such, according to Willeumier, that all enrollees will probably have solo flights to their credit within a short time.

Three aviation courses are currently under way at the Four Lakes and Municipal airports in connection with the CAA-university project. They include a primary course with 50 students, a secondary course with 30, and a course in ground subjects only, taken by a group of non-flight students.

Union-Sponsored Arboretum Outing Postponed 1 Week

The university arboretum walk, second in the series of summer outings sponsored by the Wisconsin Union has been postponed until Saturday, July 19. The trip was originally scheduled for Saturday, July 12.

Professor George Longenecker, executive director of the arboretum, will conduct the group in a hiking survey of this unusual 1130-acre outdoor laboratory which has been developed around Lake Wingra in the last several years.

The group will assemble on the front steps of the Union by 1:45 p. m. on Saturday, July 19, and will travel by bus and car to the outskirts of Madison on Highway 151.

Dr. C. E. Brown of the State Historical museum will also accompany the group to point out and explain the Indian mounds of the area. Stops will be made at the Wheeler Council Ring, overlooking the bird sanctuary development; at the Stevens Memorial Aquatic Garden; and the group will hike over the area covering the game plot and the various pine and prairie plantings.

Reservations may be made at the Union desk until Friday, July 18, at 2 p. m. The tour cost, including round-trip bus fare and refreshments is 50 cents per person. Registration for those going by private car is 10 cents.

BOY, 6, SMOKES ANYTHING

Peterboro, Ont.—(U.P.)—Six-year-old Allan Johnston, of nearby Caven, used his grandfather's corn cob pipe as a teething ring and now his parents can't stop him smoking. He'll smoke anything, cigars, pipe or cigarettes.

Summer Hollywood

A black and white photograph of Winston Churchill standing next to a tall, ornate stone pillar. He is wearing a dark suit and a bow tie, and is looking down at the pillar. The pillar has a decorative top and a base. Other people are visible in the background, including a man in a military uniform on the right.

CANADIAN LOAN TORCH—Just to show that Canada's heart is in the right place, nation sent this Canadian Victory Loan Torch to Prime Minister Churchill in London. It was presented by Ian Mackenzie, Canadian Minister of Pensions.

The Record Render

by ray ender

With the Music Clinic bringing students of the art to the campus, I searched around for a reviewer with a little culture.

Nat Heffernan, student board president and fellow enrollee in Music 20, was the first approached. He failed to qualify when neither he nor I could tell whether Jimmy Dorsey was playing a clarinet or a saxophone.

I was about to advise you countless readers to play the radio, when Bea Thrapp, summer session student from Missouri who has been working on the Cardinal, accepted the job.

Here is Bea's reviews of the latest DECCA releases, and for good music be sure to attend Shirt Sleeve Shuffle, Wisconsin's most informal informal:

"Dixieland Detour" with Jimmy Dorsey playing as snappy a sax as ever is a typical and plenty good, but don't let that false ending fool you. Like March, it comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb—a frisky lamb, however.

On the other side of the recording is "Body and Soul," always good but even better with vocals by Bob Eberly and Helen O'Connell. It's a record to fit the mood—one side sad, the other glad.

Bing Crosby a la Hawaii is old stuff, but if you haven't wearied of it; slow, sweet, and dreamy "Paradise Isle" is one you'll like. Bing sings with the Paradise Island Trio making the whole thing consistent.

Still dreaming of those dusky hula-gals? Bing sings "Aloha Kuu Ipo Aloha" (Go ahead, try and pronounce it.) with Dick McIntire's orchestra. It's mellow.

Here's one for your permanent collection. Bob Eberly sings Blue Champagne and Jimmy Dorsey does his best—the best—with a melody approaching "Stardust." It's good listening, better dancing.

Bob Eberly vocalizing again on "All Alone and Lonely" on the other side makes the record a four star number.

Take a listen to Woody Herman's "G'bye Now" from Hellz a Poppin. The maestro does some clever vocalizing.

If you're troubled with insomnia try Woody Herman's arrangement of "Until Tomorrow" on the other side. It works like opium, but the after-effects are only good.

"When it hits you," you'll say "Yes Indeed" right along with Bing Crosby and Connie Boswell and brother Bob and his Bobcats. And if your requests are for the warm tunes, bordering on the hot, you'll like the horns in this arrangement.

The reverse side is "Tea for Two," old but good when Bing and Connie start harmonizing. Bob Crosby does a good job of putting a little jive into a tune born without it.

Newman Club Holds Open House Friday

Newman club's summer social activities will begin with dancing and card playing at an open house for Catholic students Friday from 7:30 to 10 p. m. in St. Paul's Newman commons, it was decided at a meeting of the club Tuesday. Every Catholic student enrolled in the university automatically becomes a member of Newman club.

The Rev. Father Alvin Kutchera, chaplain of St. Paul's chapel, and Dorothea Shaw, president of Newman club, will welcome the guests. Refreshments will be served.

Hosts and hostesses will be Harold Reger, Bob Kubly, Bill Fitzgerald, Jerry Mahlberg, Germaine Reich, Ted Santis, Mary Anna Liebel, Betty Ann Wandrey, and Bonnie-Anne Shire. Arrangements will be taken care of by Ann Zweck, and refreshments by Christine Nickel and Jeanette Moha.

Other social activities planned at the meeting are a tea, July 17; picnic, July 20; communion-breakfast, July 27; and a tea, Aug. 6.

Ellis Paintings Are on Display at Union Gallery

The paintings of an artist who has felt the destruction of the present World war will be on exhibition in the Wisconsin Union's main gallery from July 7 to July 19, when 18 paintings by Vernon Ellis will be shown.

With the exception of those which are owned in various private collections, these 18 are all that remain of his life's work. Several others, which he had done during his many years spent in Europe, were stored in a London warehouse and destroyed by a bombing raid during the early days of the war.

These paintings are a fine example, for the most part, of the work of a man who followed the trend away from impressionism towards a return to classicism.

The artist was born at Columbia, Pa., and went to New York at an early age. His art training began in preparatory school and he had a good foundation in drawing and painting when, in his teens, he entered the studio of William Merritt Chase. Later he studied with Robert Henri along with George Bellows, and Rockwell Kent, who were his classmates, although they were older men.

He first exhibited at the autumn showing of the National Academy in 1907. Soon after he went to Europe and spent several years in Florence, Italy. Although a prodigious producer under many influences, among them the impressionists, he seemed never to be satisfied with what he had done. In 1925 he came in contact with Jean Despujol, instructor at the American School of Fine Arts at Fontainebleau, and Jean du Pas. Ellis became interested in their reactions against impressionism and their return to the classicism of Ingres, Poussin, and David.

The canvases shown are the result of these several influences. His work has a classic feeling for form not shown in the impressionist painters, and yet it has a looseness of brush work (probably from Henri's influence), which gives life and color to his work. There is a texture of painting to be seen here which is often lacking in contemporary painting.

Perhaps this feeling for paint which he demonstrates, and his mastery and knowledge of painting along with the interesting subject matter and attractive color, will make this an exhibition which the layman will enjoy.

Afternoon Hike To Blackhawk Lodge Planned for Sunday

First of the afternoon hikes to Blackhawk lodge, the Union's outing cabin, is planned for this Sunday afternoon, July 13, at 2 p. m. All summer session students are invited and may register at the Union desk at any time before 6 p. m., Saturday, July 12.

The group will meet on the Union steps and will walk along the lake-shore paths from the campus to the lodge which is located near Eagle's Heights and Blackhawk's cave three miles distant. Bathing facilities are available at the lodge, and students are urged to bring their suits.

An opportunity will be had to inspect the efforts of 1,500 regular session students on their first annual Work day as part of the hike will follow the Lakeshore road which was paved with cinders on that day. The hike will proceed past the University farm and the U. S. Forest Products laboratory, along scenic Willow drive to Picnic point and then to the lodge.

Each guest is requested to bring his own picnic lunch. The group will return to the Union before 8 p. m. Sunday.

Hoofers Take Annual Canoe Trip to Dells

The Hoofers are running the annual canoe trip down the Wisconsin river from the Upper Dells Sunday, July 13. The trip will cost about $1.50 including Sunday dinner, canoes and transportation. A 50 cent deposit is required upon signing up at the Hoofers rooms or the Union desk. No deposit will be refunded after Saturday noon.

The trip leaves the Hoofers quarters at 8 Sunday morning and the group will be back either late afternoon or evening.

Beyond ...

... THE HILL

By Dick Gross

The manifold virtues of the residence halls women have been further extended into yet another field of endeavor. At present the only two summer prom queen candidates, who were chosen at the latest Union dateless, are dorm gals Anne Haight from Liz Waters and Peg (sister of Micky) Finn, who hails from Fallows. We don't know much about the Fallows Finn, but some of the student porters who worked at the Rock last week inform us that Annie is really made of stern stuff. Two more queen candidates will be selected from among the gals present at Shirt Sleeves Shuffle this Saturday at the Union.

U. S. MALE

Bud Wittenwyler of the Frankenburg clan (stop lookin' gals, I mean during regular session) is addressing his mail these days to "The dearest girl in the world, Elizabeth Waters hall, Madison, Wis." ... which in Wittenwyler lingo spells Pearl Schneider.

Dick Zola, Tarrant house, who will pitch anything, including baseballs, does John D. Rockefeller ten times better and hands out crisp new green portraits of George Washington to all admiring femmes who will crowd about him ... and boy, that really gets 'em!

BILLYGOAT BA-A-A

With Billygoat founder Bud Karberg now at Camp Roberts, Cal., working for his star spangled uncle, Wisconsin's goat chapter has been awfully inactive to date, to say the least ... Maybe a good way to revive the old Ba-a-a boys would be to start initiating some Nannygoats.

How about it Elbert, Orville, and all the boys? ... The Tripp gals are searching everywhere for the Showerman house man who has already made a room reservation in Turner house for S.S. 1942. Stop lookin' gals, he already has someone in mind.

PD. ADVT.

The sewing circle at Gilman and Turner houses began their activities with something very useful, hanging hems on Tuesday, to be exact. (There you are ladies, and it's clean, too.) ... There are plenty of women around who long for some advice from the Rock's Norma Cherney on how to snag two men in one night ... Art Pines (who has been paying me to print his name) complains that the famous Tripp blond bomber pushed him in the water the other day. How about watching those things, life guard?

DOTS AND JOTS

Is Delora Trail, Vilas house, still supplying "spirits" to Tarrant men? ... Irv Bemmann, Noyes house is all in favor of a reciprocal shade agreement with the Gregory gals ... The Oconomowoc kid, Roger the Lodger, also of Noyes, hopped up to Rhinelander with a home town product this weekend, and when he returned the cupboard was bare and Marion was flying high with one of the Richardson rookies.

Latest method which the Wisconsin Amazons have instituted to replace the ancient "drop your hankie" act, is to coyly leave their halls association card lying about the Van Hise dining rooms after meals and anxiously wait for some handsome waiter to graciously return it.

PLUG

John Breen, Conover, and Orv Luedke, Tarrant, shyly admit they have a wonderful University league softball team but as yet no pitcher. The boys expect to be backed by some amber fluid dispensing establishment with beers on the house. Two beers please!! Twirlers interested call Orv, Tarrant 3762.

Hostelers, Friends Attend Social

Between 600 and 700 youth hostelers and friends attended the ice cream social held at the Post Farm youth hostel Tuesday night.

Profits of the social will be used to further improve the local hostel.

Summer session students and Hoofers entertained the crowd with folk dancing during the evening.

'BACK WITH THE WIND'

Lee, Mass.—(U.P.)—Three years after August Diegel's army discharge papers were blown from his hand here, they were returned to him. The papers were found on the desk of a Hartford, Conn. business man 40 miles away.

Crow Is Poor Air Navigator, Says Mitchell

Dallas, Texas—(U.P.)—There's nothing direct about the way the crow flies, Roy L. Mitchell, operations manager in charge of flying for American Airlines, believes.

"In fact," he says, "if a transport pilot were to navigate as the crow does, he would draw a sharp reprimand from the operations office."

In debunking the simile of the mythical straight flight of the crow, Mitchell declares there are several birds more direct in their flight.

HE SAYS 'BIRDS SLOW'
 The American operations chief also has some doubts about the simile "as swift as a bird." "You can't use the birds any more as standards by which speed of flight may be judged," Mitchell said.

"For instance," he says, "our familiar friend the robin could save considerable time on his annual migration to the south each autumn by using a luxury airliner. In measured tests, the robin's speed has been fixed at 36 miles an hour, approximately one-fifth the speed of a modern transport plane."

Mitchell said that the fastest bird and the only one that can compare with an airplane is the duck hawk which has been timed at 180 miles an hour, slightly under the cruising speed of a passenger plane.

LIST SPEEDS
 Other familiar birds and their speeds, Mitchell said, are the purple martin and the blue jay at 20 miles an hour; the sparrow hawk, 25 miles an hour; the homing pigeon, 45 miles; the hummingbird, 55; wild turkey, 55 miles; the crow, 60 miles; the swallow, 106 miles; and the golden eagle, 120.

"However," Mitchell said, "you have to go back to nature for the fastest flight ever recorded, although an insect instead of a bird did the trick. The fastest flying speed known is 818 miles an hour, attained by the male deer fly, a small insect whose mottled wings are still to be matched in efficiency by the propeller."

On the ground, the cheetah, timed at 70 miles an hour, is supreme among living creatures, the operations head said. "Man's fastest speed afoot is 21.7 miles an hour, achieved by Jesse Owens at 100 meters."

Woman Missionary Finds Africa's Perils

Boston—(U.P.)—Crawling on hands and knees over two logs spanning a crocodile-infested river is one experience reported by Miss Florence G. Malcolm, a missionary in West Africa.

To make the adventure more exciting, Miss Malcolm's log crossing occurred in the heart of the lion country, in strange territory—and in the dark.

Miss Malcolm, a native of Somerville, Mass., told of her experience in a letter to the American board of foreign missions. Heavy rains had drenched the Angola countryside and made normal travel impossible.

To visit the nearest sister mission, Miss Malcolm and her party traveled 180 miles or three times as far as is normally required.

It was on one of many detours over "terrible roads," Miss Malcolm wrote, that "we had to wade across one bridge which was under water and crawl on our hands and knees over two logs across a 12-foot deep river infested with crocodiles. And this was in the dark and in a strange place inhabited by lions. No monotony here!"

Student Sues, Wants To Take Final Exams

Columbus, Ohio—(U.P.)—In an effort to be graduated with other classmates at Lincoln high school in Gahanna, Dale Main, 18, son of Merton P. Main, Gahanna, brought suit in county court against the township board of education.

The youth asked in his suit that the school's teachers be compelled to give him his final examinations. The youth was refused the right to take his final examinations on grounds of extended absence from school.

South Side Frolic Invites Summer Session Students

A special invitation to university summer school students to attend the South Side Golden Jubilee Frolic which opened Wednesday night and continues through Sunday night on Olin avenue at the viaduct has been issued by Raymond Felt, general chairman.

"The professional program, particularly, is one that will appeal to students," Felt said. "Tonight's program features Bruce Jordan, master of ceremonies, who not only keeps the performance moving at a rapid pace but produces a program in his own right."

Also included on tonight's free show are the French Flyers, daring roller skating team who climax their act with the sensational "neck swivel" stunt, Savage and Ware, internationally known acrobats, and the Burkhalter 30 piece accordion orchestra.

The Bernice Kelly Animal Circus Revue, a favorite wherever it has appeared, has been booked for every night of the Frolic.

Friday and Saturday nights will see a change in the professional program with the appearance of Barron Brothers, aerialist team featuring high pole acts, and Dick Burns, "world's craziest musician" and master of the marimba and cylophone. Friday night the Franklin School band will present a concert and Saturday night Wallace Bowman, well known Wisconsin archer, will demonstrate his skill with the bow and arrow.

Sunday night, final night of the Frolic, will be radio star night with favorites from Madison and Janesville stations making a personal appearance. Saddle Pals, featuring Slim, Wilma Ann and Allie, heard regularly on WIBA at 10:15 a. m. Saturday, will sing as will the Yodelettes, "Dolly and Rena," favorites from station WCOL.

On the lot are merry-go-round, ferris wheel, chair plane, refreshment stands and all the other activities that go toward providing a real carnival atmosphere. Free attendance gifts are given away hourly and on Sunday night the grand attendance gift of a Norge Auto-Bilt washer will be given away.

battle, until the Yanks were forced to retire.

Schore's outfit moved back, finally, every man wounded, and those who could still walk carried others more seriously hurt.

"I was hit in three places. But I could still move along. We brought the live ones back along with us," Schore recalls.

PROMISED TO ALL

Every man in Schore's machine gun company was promised the Purple Heart award, and Schore himself was among those who stood before the allied commanders in Paris a few months after Chateau-Thierry while the generals pinned on France's Croix de Guerre, and the United States Congressional Medal of Honor.

That recognition Schore received on time.

But it took the government 23 years to recall the service 10 soldiers gave in that battle back in 1917. The heart-shaped token, with George Washington's profile silver-engraved on its purple surface, arrived only this week, when war department officials checked back on recent service records received in Washington.

11 GET AWARD

Really, 11 men were given the Purple Heart medal when the war department uncovered its mistake, but one of them had to be sent to a widow in a small town north of Sauk City, Schore says.

The Fourth division got back to the states in April, 1920, and Schore was honorably discharged. But in spite of 20 months' service overseas, he hadn't seen enough of France. Only her battlefields.

With a buddy, he took his back army pay, plus the $60 the army gave each discharged soldier, and climbed on a ship for—of all places—France.

"We went back there again, and were in Germany, France, and England until the money got short. Then we pushed back home," the veteran recalls.

HOLD ANNUAL REUNION

Nowadays, his only connection with the old army outfit, aside from membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans, is the yearly reunion of the machine gun company, held last year in Madison's Olin park.

Back they come, every one with the vivid memory of Chateau-Thierry's fire and shock. From all over the Midwest, as far as the Dakotas and Montana, 57 veterans arrive.

"The boys always come, too," Schore says proudly.

Does he think we're "doing it right" this time?

"This time we're late," he declares. "We should have kept right on going, making tanks, guns."

But it's better this time. When Schore went over in '17, the British and French provided the artillery and planes. Now, at least, he says, "We can send a few bombers."

"Now we have automatic rifles. We

He hears students talking about the war in Bascom's long hallways, and says, "The kids think it's an altogether different war. They are talking about Hitler's blitzkrieg."

Schore isn't worried about Hitler coming to this country.

Vigilant Watch Over Mendota Guards Students

Clear, sharp eyes eternally scanning blue Lake Mendota, 12 husky and competent life-guards, and two powerful and speedy motor boats are provided by the University of Wisconsin to protect student swimmers and boaters on the lake.

Harvey Black, chief life-guard, is stationed with three others at the university boat-house, where powerful binoculars are trained on the waters of Lake Mendota throughout the day, from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. on weekdays and beginning an hour earlier on Sundays and holidays. At the boat-house too are stationed the rescue boats, which can roar away at up to 40 m. p. h. to pick up unlucky sailboaters or canoeists who have been spilled into the water.

GUARD PIERS

Lifeguards provided by the university are stationed at piers used by students too; two at each of the piers for the YMCA, Elizabeth Waters hall, and the men's dorms; one at the new dorms pier, and the tent colony, and one who cruises in a rowboat along the fraternity and sorority piers.

Only last Sunday, 10 persons were rescued from the lake by the life-guards in the powerful speedboat "Isabel," named for the colorful Great Lakes skipper who for many years had charge of the life-guard service. The casualties were caused by the upsetting of three sailboats and a canoe.

doing the hauling. Where in the world will Hitler get the boats to send 'em? "But I wish it was over," he adds. "It makes it bad all over."

"Sometimes two weeks go by without anything happening out on the lake at all," life-guard Black said. "But at other times, we may make over a dozen rescues in a single day. Last season, we picked up 27 persons on two different days."

RESCUE LARGE NUMBER

A total of 244 persons were rescued by the boat-house guards last year, and a dozen distressed swimmers by the pier guards.

"Most of the accidents come from sailboat and canoe tip-overs," Black explained. "Canoe tipping is usually due to fooling around or racing, or changing seats improperly."

Black pointed out that a city ordinance requires that a life preserver be supplied for each passenger in all canoes, motorboats, and sailboats.

Journalists Will Hold Press Club Luncheon

Final plans for an informal luncheon Thursday, July 17, at 12:30 p. m. at the University club, for the journalism summer school students and faculty are being prepared today by the central committee of the Summer School Press club.

The committee, chosen by journalism classes Monday, includes Margaret Moyle, Maquoketa, Ia.; Ellen McMartin, Oconomowoc; Ruth Beeler, Topeka, Kans.; Pearl Shepard, West Palm Beach, Fla.; Sally Haas, Seymour, Ind.; Erwin Kaufmann, Sheboygan Falls; and Arlene McKellar, Madison.

Prof. Grant M. Hyde, director of the School of Journalism, has been invited to speak on "Propaganda" at the luncheon. All journalism students are invited, and tickets may be bought from Miss Mabel Bauer, department secretary.

Reveal Plans For Defenses Against British

Philadelphia—(U.P.)—Dredges working on the Delaware river have uncovered an ingenious but unsuccessful defense planned by George Washington to protect Philadelphia from the British in 1777.

The dredges and shovels, used in a reclamation project by an oil concern, first began to bring up iron-snouted poles sunk in the river bed in rock-weighted wooden pens.

Officials consulted an old map of the city, and learned that the course of the Delaware had changed somewhat since the days of the revolution. They also discovered that the poles apparently were a network of chevaux-de-friese, a protective line of iron spikes, which the defenders of the city strung across the river to keep the British ships from moving up the channel.

During high tide this line of spikes was under water and any English ship approaching did so at the risk of having its bottom torn out. The "spikes" were 33 feet long, and placed in the boxes at 45 degree angles, pointing down the river. A channel was left for American ships to clear, and a long chain was stretched across at the channel point.

The British could not approach the barricade as long as the guns of old Fort Mifflin, on the Pennsylvania shore, could keep firing. But with the destruction of this fort by Lord Howe's batteries, and Washington's reverses at Brandywine and Germantown, the city had to be abandoned.

Lord Howe brought his supply ships to Philadelphia, and Washington then retired to Valley Forge for the winter.

ments in a vast encircling attack, it was announced last night.

"Pending any formal arrangements being made," Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house of commons in London after authoritative sources had disclosed the same information, "military operations must, of course, continue with unabated vigor."

BRITISH SUPPLIES TO RUSSIA

London—(U.P.)—Two to three million well-equipped Soviet troops are being thrown into the pivotal Smolensk-Moscow sector of the Russian front against German forces who thus far have been able to gain less than half their objectives, a competent British military commentator claimed last night.

British war supplies already are en route to the Russians, it was disclosed, in the hopes that with their aid the German war machine may be completely stopped.

FINNS CLAIM CAPTURES

Helsinki—(U.P.)—Finnish troops striking eastward across the Russian frontier have captured five towns, the Finnish high command reported last night after squadrons of Soviet planes bombed Helsinki, killing at least 17 persons and injuring 165 others.

'FLYING FORTRESSES' ARRIVE

An Air Station Somewhere In England—(U.P.)—Twenty flying fortresses, Britain's entire first order from the United States, have arrived in England. Most of them already have passed through here for testing, repainting and a few modifications. So have an even larger number of Liberators, some Martin Marylands, Douglas DB7's and Vought-Sikorski scout bombers.

REPORTERS BARRED FROM ICELAND

London, Thursday, July 10—(U.P.)—The three American press associations were informed early today that Iceland "is now closed to all correspondents" and the ministry of information has cancelled arrangements for reporters to visit the island where American forces landed on Monday.

FORBID ICELAND VISITS

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The state department said without explanation last night that it will not issue or validate passports for Iceland, where American naval forces landed on Monday, except for officials who have business there. The department was swamped during the day with requests for permission to visit the island. All of them were rejected.

SIX NURSES MISSING

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Six American Red Cross nurses are missing following the "barbaric" torpedoing of a British ship bearing them to London for hospital duty, Chairman Norman H. Davis announced Wednesday. The incident occurred a fortnight ago. Neither the identity of the craft nor the place where it was sunk were revealed. It was the second vessel transporting Red Cross nurses to be sunk in the Atlantic since the war began.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK ESCAPES DEATH

New York—(U.P.)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek narrowly escaped death in a Japanese air raid on Chungking, according to a Tokyo radio broadcast recorded last night by NBC. The raid came while the generalissimo was attending celebrations on the end of the fourth year of war between China and Japan.

DRAFT LOTTERY NEXT THURSDAY

Washington—(U.P.)—The nation's second peacetime draft lottery to determine the order in which an estimated 750,000 new registrants will be subject to call for military service will be held here Thursday, July 17, under tentative plans announced today by selective service headquarters.

INTERVENE IN BORDER DISPUTE

Washington—(U.P.)—The United States, Argentina and Brazil intervened Wednesday in an attempt to mediate the Peruvian-Ecuadorian border dispute which Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles suggested may have been inspired by foreign meddlers.

Welles disclosed that diplomatic representatives of the three mediating nations have proposed creation of a "no man's" land along the Peruvian-Ecuadorian boundary while they seek audiences with the foreign ministers of the disputant republics.

War--

Roosevelt's instructions to the navy to "take all necessary measures" to keep open Atlantic sealanes.

'NO ROOM FOR DOUBT'

"There is no room for doubt of what may be done," he said, "but I leave the interpretations to you."

Churchill, remarking that American ships en route to and from Iceland would traverse "the most dangerous waters" of the Atlantic, said:

"It may, I dare say, be found mutually advantageous in practice that the two navies involved should assist each other as far as convenient—if any issue of principle arises, it may safely be left to British and American naval, military, and air force authorities who will, I have no doubt, study each other's convenience to the utmost."

WHEELER CHALLENGES FDR

Developments caused Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, isolationist leader under fire from the White House and London for announcing last Thursday that America would occupy Iceland, to challenge the president to ask congress for a declaration of war against Germany.

In the gargantuan battle of Russia raging along the 1,800-mile front from the Arctic to the Black sea, both sides claimed advantages but the odds seemed to favor the Russians—at least to the point that the German offensive appeared to be stalled in most sectors.

GERMAN CLAIMS

The German DNB agency claimed that Nazi forces pushing towards Leningrad had captured Ostrov, Fellin, and Pernau—190 miles south of the Soviet Baltic port and No. 2 city—but the Nazi high command kept complete silence on details of military operations.

Moscow claimed that Germans on the vital central front 325 miles west of Moscow, in the Lepel sector, had been routed in a savage Soviet counter-attack. This followed by a few hours Moscow's description of a great victory in a smashing counter-drive on the Bessarabian front, in which German and Rumanian forces were said to have been driven back across the Pruth river into Rumania.

Author Will Lead Forum Tonight

"The Way Out for America" will be the title of a forum led by Charles C. Pickert, co-author of the book of the same name, held in the Old Madison room Friday night, July 11, at 8 p. m.

A radical solution for farm surpluses and other economic ills will be presented by the speaker. A bill is now pending in congress which incorporates Pickert's aims. It was introduced in the senate by Senator Capper of Kansas.

Pickert is an officer of the Institute for Christian Economic Action, a charitable organization incorporated for the purpose of eliminating internal strife by correcting the underlying economic tension from which the strife originates.

The forum is presented by the Union forum committee and is open to the public without charge.

Directs Concert

Prof. Raymond F. Dvorak will direct the 56-piece university summer session band in the first of a series of weekly "Concerts under the Stars" at Camp Randall stadium Friday night.

Labor--

indirect and through public opinion.

Citing the case of the railroad brotherhood in 1916, in which the brotherhood was victorious temporarily but which caused in part an anti-labor movement after the war, he explained that labor leaders tried to hold strikes down because they knew that the labor movement would have to pay.

"We are dealing with a new government in the process of formation," Professor Perlman continued. "Making full allowance for imperfections, the only way to understand labor is a nascent government."

"The fact that there is such a nascent government is there. The way to handle it is to harness it to the cause of law and order and to recognize that it is not only a political government that we live under, but also an industrial government, and that the latter must be worked out just as carefully."

Conservative persons say that strikes should be handled by congressional law which makes strikes and lock-outs illegal and the sentiment on compulsory arbitration is prominent, the speaker explained.

He continued to explain that the proponents of the method of submitting the case to a tribunal for an award have overlooked the problem of enforcing the award. In addition, if strikes were made illegal, the government would deprive itself one of its effective aids to settlement; the aid of national leaders who would be afraid to lead a strike because of its illegality.

WOMEN MAN BUCKET BRIGADE

Marceline, Mo.—(U.P.)—A two-woman bucket brigade had the situation well in hand before anyone called the fire department. Mrs. Oscar Minich spotted a small fire on the roof of Mrs. George Ross' home. She notified Mrs. Ross and the two went to work. Mrs. Minich got a ladder and climbed to the roof. Mrs. Ross carried the water.

accompanist will be Prof. Carl Bricken, director of the Music school. Knecht, too, will present an original composition among his cello solos. Mary Nevery, Boston soprano, accompanied by Paul Jones; Kenneth Cuthbert, cornetist, accompanied by Mrs. Cuthbert, and Robert Woollen, clarinetist, accompanied by Wayne Hugoboom, complete the roster of soloists.

Among the ensembles are a string and vocal quartet, and a wind quintet. The latter includes Alfred Barthel, one of the world's outstanding oboists, for many years first oboist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and a faculty member of the Music school for the past year. Others are Douglas Steensland, flute; Richard Church, bassoon; Alvin Johnson, of the Minneapolis orchestra, French horn, and Woollen.

STRING QUARTET PLAYS

The string quartet, which will play several British folk songs, is composed of Gardner, Knecht, Raphael Flanagan, violinist, and Harold Klatz, violist.

The vocal quartet includes Miss Nevery, Charlotte Natwick, Marvin Fennema and Orville Shetney.

The complete program follows:

'Go Right Ahead On Yellow Light' Is Bugs' Traffic Rule

Even the bugs don't get a chance any more.

Ired by clouds of insects which swarm around ordinary night lights on the campus, and fill reflectors with "corpses," R. R. Knoff, university chief electrician, last month began an experiment with yellow colored lights, which it is claimed, are not visible to insects, and will not attract them.

The yellow lights have been installed in front of Bascom hall and Elizabeth Waters hall. Memorial Union electricians are also using them on the Union terrace.

With the old style frosted glass bulbs, insects came in clouds.

The new yellow ones, which the bugs can't see, are expected to have just the opposite effect.

Samples of the various yellow light bulb sizes have been installed, and if they work, electricians will not have to tackle the laborious fall cleaning job of removing dead insects from clogged reflectors.
