The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

One time there were many women around and I was working. Every night there she was running on the roads looking for her boyfriend. They say she was told not to, but it was the way she was. They were telling her that it might happen that she would see a night ghost. And that in fact did happen, just what they were telling her. This girl was somewhere out around and she couldn't find her boyfriend there. So when she was on her way home, she heard some noise coming from behind where she was. She wondered if it was her boyfriend. And then they were side by side where she was. They say they were pretty close together when she saw him and his feet weren't even on the ground. Then she got scared and when she got back near the house, she let out a yell and her mother peeked out. She said, "What happened?" There she collapsed. Then she got her back up. She had almost been killed and they say it was this night ghost that bewitched her.
