CUT IN COSTS OF MUSIC AND PARTIES URGED

Consensus of Student Opinion Favors Reduction of Expense of Social Events

Social functions should be eliminated two weeks before examinations and orchestra prices are too high, according to a consensus of opinion of a number of students prominent on the campus.

But how the reduction of orchestra prices, the removal of matinee dances, and 1 o'clock parties will aid to extending the social opportunities to the many is a point incomprehensible to most everyone.

Arthur Kinnam '22, president of the Union board suggests that parties start at 8 o'clock and end at 12. He also feels that orchestra prices are much too high, and that importing orchestras starts up unnecessary competition. Contrary to most other opinions, Kinnam opposes the ban put on social functions.

Opposes Ban

"People must have some recreation, and students are upset more through examination propaganda than by the actual ordeal of the examinations," said Kinnam. "Also, I fail to see how all these plans will extend the social privileges to the many."

Ellen Correll '22, president of S. G. A., feels that the social life at Wisconsin as far as the women are concerned can never be regulated by rules. "It is purely an individual matter, for many girls have more than they want, but most girls do not receive their full share."

"It seems unfair for those students who know where they stand not to be allowed to spend their week ends as they see fit," said Miss Correll, "but since there are (Continued on Page 8)

Fox-Trot Tryouts Will Begin Today

Behind screens identified by a number, the Prom fox trot contestants will try out this afternoon at 4:30 in Lathrop parlors.

"We have resolved to do away with all partiality this year," declared Gertrude Collins '23, chairman of the Prom fox trot committee, "so we have given each contestant a number. Screens will conceal the people from the judges and the identification will not be given out until the awards are announced."

Those expected to tryout this afternoon will be notified at noon today. Already over 15 have been registered and more are expected.

Today is the deadline for signing up for tryouts with Gertrude Collins. Preliminary tryouts take place both today and tomorrow and the final results will be taken on Friday. After the judges have made a recommendation it will be referred to the fox trot committee for final decision.

BADGERS TRIM PURPLE 21-9; TAYLOR STARS

Northwestern Five Smothered By Badger Offense; Williams Injures Knee in Second Half

EVANSTON, ILL.—Playing a brilliant offensive game in the first half, and a perfect defense and offense in the second half, gave Wisconsin a 21 to 9 victory over the highly touted Northwestern squad last night.

"Cop" Taylor was the big cog in the Badger scoring machine, getting three baskets, and five three throws in as many attempts. Gibson showed vast improvement over his previous playing, counting three baskets and playing a flawless defensive game.

"Rollie" Williams made two goals from the floor, but injured his knee in the final period.

The Northwestern squad was literally smothered by the Badger offense. Their scoring was done almost entirely in the first half, Saunders, Shever, Holmes, and McKenzie each counting one basket, while McKenzie also made a free throw.

Coach Meanwell has gone on to scout the Michigan-Chicago game, which will be played at Ann Arbor tonight.

The latest fascination? Matching the registrar for your credits has everything from red-dog to paddle poker beaten a hundred ways. Sit in line and watch the expectant faces of seniors undergo the sudden change. They come out of "the den of thieves" muttering their own epitaphs—"My advisor told me it was all right, but he done me wrong!"

The Lit is due to appear. We have one regret,—we'll have to stand for some publicity hound trying to impress us with the fact that getting Lit means becoming intoxicated. No wonder press-agents are in such bad repute with the journalistic world.

What has become of BLOWZA GALE? She has failed to put in an appearance since the holidays. Nor have we seen any OSCAR WILDESTIAN lament for the fact. Ever since BLOWZA defied the powers of the Lathrop office, there has been a singular reticence on her part. Such affairs always take on the shape of the dragon complex in the fairy tale. The terror is yet to be slain, and the dragon thunders about the campus destroying victim upon victim. For the good of student humanity, some hero or heroine ought to..... #### NOTICE!!!

From now until next semester, we do not intend to keep up the hitherto high standard of this column. You, being too busy with nightmares and day-dreams involving a certain reckoning of accounts to take place within a couple of weeks, will not be giving this space your usual careful criticism, and so, we figure, will not know the difference.

Since the solving of the latest social mystery, the king and queen of this undergraduate institution are trying to make up for lost time. The handsome and heroic prom-chairman has been sighted in company with the other half of his social glory, both traveling due east, at least a dozen times in the past few days. No reports have been received as to the number of the return journeys in the westerly direction.

Ada James Speaks to Politic Group

Revision of the constitution and of the proposed program for next semester were the outstanding points of business covered by the regular monthly meeting of the Collegiate League of Women Voters held in S. G. A. office, Lathrop hall yesterday.

A clause was included in the constitution investing in the chairman the right to appoint five representative women in politics to act as an advisory committee to the university group. Three members are to be appointed from the city of Madison and two from the state at large. Announcement of the committee will be made directly at the opening of next semester, according to Sonya Forthal '22, chairman.

Arrangements for the open meeting of the Collegiate league on Wednesday evening at 7:30 in Lathrop hall at which Ada James, president of the Wisconsin Women's Progressive association, will speak, were completed. The Madison branch of the organization will combine with the Collegiate league at this meeting.

League members who wish to have places reserved at the dinner in honor of Miss James at the Kopper Kettle on Wednesday at 5:45 o'clock, must notify Marie Dresden, F. 806, before 6 o'clock today.

LETTERS WE'D LIKE TO GET!

Dearest HI:

I've read your clever and meritorious column every time it appeared. I just know you're the darlingest man in school. Now you understand, HI, dear boy, that I'm a highly imaginative girl, eccentric and all that. I'm considered the best looking brunette in our chapter, wear galoshes, a fur coat, and an innocent air. Now the point of this is that I would like to have you take me to prom,—I, of course, would pay all the expenses. I have a Cadillac coupe, so you see we could have our own pre and post prom parties out at Hoovers, or some similar place. Father is now in Paris and has sent me a gown for prom, so you needn't fear that I'd be anything but the best looking girl on the floor. If you'll go, let me know in the next column.

MISS CHANCE.

P. S.—If you haven't a dress suit, I'll order one for you right away.

After imagining that, it is a most shameful fate to have to look out the window and gaze upon four pair of recently washed silk stockings, hanging from a window across the way. The cold realities of life, you understand, are particularly cold and unromantic when unoccupied.

GRAND AFFIDAVIT

I, F. J. McWilliams, solemnly and truly declare that no picture I have shown this year has had——the dramatic suspense or vivid reality of the fight in "Tol'able David."

—the true, lovable humanness of this story of a boy who wanted to be a man and got an opportunity of proving himself.

—the sweetness of appeal that is in the mother-love of a mountain-mother for this boy.

—the remarkable characterizations, the grip, the magnetic force which radiates from every reel of this splendid picture.

And I solemnly affirm that in my opinion, "Tol'able David" ranks with the three greatest screen dramas of this year.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

UPSETS MARK BIG TEN RACE FOR PENNANT

Basketball Championship Caliber Fails to Loom Up

The 1921-1922 Big Ten conference basketball race has now commenced, and prospects for a close and interesting race never appeared brighter than they do at present. Wisconsin fans are well satisfied with the start which their favorites made, as the victory over Iowa on the latters' floor is an encouraging beginning.

That the season is going to be one of upsets is shown by the one that has already occurred, that is, Minnesota's 28 to 13 victory over Northwestern. The Maroons displayed unexpected strength by defeating Ohio State 25 to 14, although a Chicago victory had been generally predicted.

The Hawkeyes followed their football championship with strong pre-season claims to the conference basketball title, and everything pointed to their making a successful opening. They had the advantage of the home floor, and a veteran team against an inexperienced five, but Doctor Meanwell's team rose to the occasion and put the first crimp in their aspirations. The game was close and interesting, and is typical of the exhibitions that will be seen on conference floors this season.

Ineligibilities Seen

Two initial victories do not give Wisconsin grounds for boasting a championship team, however, as ten hard games are ahead of the team, and Dame Fortune may interfere in many before the schedule is completed. Semester examinations and injuries are the things that now confront the coach and the team. If these two obstacles can be evaded, it appears that no team in the conference has brighter prospects. The next five games are to be played on the home floor, and by the time that the Badgers invade foreign territory again, the team should be playing a highly developed game of the Meanwell type.

Northwestern invaded Minnesota as big favorites due to the poor showing that the Gophers had made in their preliminary schedule. They gained an early lead, but Doctor Cook's aggregation staged a comeback in the second half that held the Purple almost scoreless. Northwestern adherents who had hoped for a fairly good team this year must have been sorely disappointed, as a defeat by a team which is considered one of the weakest in the conference bespeaks very poorly for Evan's men in the remaining hard games which appear on its schedule.

Chicago Beats Ohio

Chicago's victory was according to form, but the Maroons exhibited more basketball than it was supposed they had acquired. The Maroon team is composed of men of equal ability, and contains no individual stars. Halladay, Dickson, and Romney all appear to be good shots, while McGuire and Hurlbut held their opponents to only four baskets. The Buckeyes were somewhat handicapped by the loss of Blair, a star veteran of last year, a few days before the game, and it may be that they can come back and harass some of the leaders before the season is over.

Wisconsin fans were given an opportunity to see how the Badgers stack up with the Wolverines, who play here on Saturday night, by the outcome of their game against the Michigan Aggies, who played the first preliminary tilt here. The Aggies held Michigan to a tie, and were nosed out of a victory in the

Fast Tilts Feature in Frat Basketball

The D. U. team played the best game of any of the ten fraternity basketball teams which took the floor last night. There were four other games played, as the Theta Deltas forfeited their game with the Theta Chis.

The D. U.'s played a fast game, defeating the Alpha Sig basket tossers by a score of 14 to 4. The winners have also won all their previous games, and will probably stand a better chance for the title than any of the teams which played last night. The Alpha Gamma Rho aggregation also won their second game last night, by defeating the Pi Kappa Alphas by five points. Although they played a good game, they did not show as much speed as the D. U. men.

The Zetas gave the Psi U.'s their second defeat, and the Sigma Chis lost their second game to the Delta Chis. The Sig Chi Delta Chi game was one of the hardest fought of the evening. Neither of the teams kept much of a lead, and at many times the score was tied. The Delta Chi players came along with a final spurt, and won the game in the last few minutes of play. The other game played was between the Tekes and Sig Phis, the former team winning by five points.

The results of all the games were as follows:

Delta Upsilon 14, Alpha Sigma 4.
Alpha Gamma Rho 28, Pi Kappa 23.

Zeta Psi 23, Psi Upsilon 16.
Delta Chi 17, Sigma Chi 13.
Tau Kappa Epsilon 12, Sigma Phi 7.

Theta Delta Chi forfeited to Theta Chi.

Ticket Sale For Michigan Game Begins Thursday

Ticket sale for the game to be played with Michigan next Saturday night will open on Thursday afternoon. Sale from 1 o'clock to 6 will be for students only. Fee cards must be presented.

The regular sale will open on Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. All seats are reserved, and a limit of two tickets to each person has been fixed.

Checkroom Arranged For Student Skaters

To prevent the loss of valuables by students, the athletic department has arranged for a checkroom in the university boat house. It will be in charge of Clarence W. Wille and Ralph Spetz, and will be open every evening from 6 until 10.

Students will be enabled to check their valuables and articles of wearing apparel in the room, which will also be open on Sunday afternoon and evening.

The pumping station will be used as a rest room for skaters. Lights are to be placed in the tower.

overtime period. This fact would indicate that Coach Mather has not as strong a team as he had last year.

The first reports regarding the Illinois team are creeping out, and it must be admitted that the Suckers look strong. They defeated Butler college, who humbled several conference teams two weeks ago, in an exciting contest Saturday night. Carney evidently was a marked man, as he failed to cage a single basket, but the new center, Stillwell, broke loose and sent five shots through the hoop.

Badger Swimmers to Compete With M. A. C. Saturday

Return Meet Should Give Natators Stiff Work- out

The Varsity swimming squad and the Milwaukee Athletic club will swim in a return meet on Saturday evening at the gymnasium tank. In the last meet the varsity squad defeated the M. A. C. team quite handily, turning in a 40-28 score.

This will be the first opportunity for the home fans to see their aquatic stars in the water this year. Several new men have been brought out this season by Coach Joe Steinauer, and they will be watched with interest when they take to the water in their events on Saturday evening.

The M. A. C. will send down its best men to compete against the varsity, among them being Thomsen who placed first in the 220 yards swim and 150 yards backstroke and second in the 40 yard dash in the last meet. He will again be the backbone of the visiting squad and will enter his usual events.

M. A. C. Good In Plunge

The plunge will be a strong event for the M. A. C. team with Reineking and Mayer both entering. These men finished first and second, respectively, in the last meet, and should do even better in the short tank here, where the time element will count more than in the longer tank in Milwaukee.

In the 40 yard swim, Bach, who placed third in the last meet, should figure along with Thomsen. He was also a strong man in the 100 yard swim. Koch in the diving and breaststroke events will be Milwaukee's lone entrant. Hildebrand, who gave Thomsen a hard race in the 150 yards backstroke will also be an entrant in that event on Saturday night. Crawford should give a good account of himself in the century swim as well as the 220 if he enters the latter event.

Lineup Similar

Coach Joe Steinauer will probably use the same men in the vents as were entered in the Milwaukee meet on December 22. The same lineup that ran up a score of 40 points against the M. A. C. 28 will be depended upon largely to keep the honors safe for the home squad. As yet Coach Steinauer has not announced the entries for Saturday night and will probably not do so until the morning of the meet, when all tryouts will be over.

George Bennett '23, will be Wisconsin's best bet in the swims and should place well up in all events that he enters. His swimming this year has been above the average of pre-season showing and he will be depended upon to carry home several points for the Badger squad as well as hold down the anchor position on the relay team. J. J. Lambole '22 is another of Steinauer's dependables who will be entered in several events. He starred above the rest of his team mates in the last meet and is again slated to enter his favorite events—the 40 and 220.

Bill Collins '22 who won the diving event in the last M. A. C. meet will again be a candidate for premier honors in that event. Always a dependable diver, he has greatly exceeded his best previous performances, in his appearances thus far and the fans will be given a real treat when he goes through some of his difficult twists. H. E. Czerwonsky '24 and R. Lederer '24 of last year's freshman squad will both enter the breaststroke event. They finished in the order named in the opening meet of the year and will again be Wisconsin's best entries in this race. F. C. "Hap" Davies '22 will also swim in the meet on the relay team and probably in one of the individual events as well.

SCHEDULE FOR BASEBALL AND HOCKEY FIXED

Ice Squad to Arrange Three Conference Contests

Schedules for the varsity hockey and baseball teams were passed upon and approved at a meeting of the Athletic council yesterday.

Five hockey contests were definitely carded and one tentatively arranged. The meets are with Michigan, Minnesota, and the Michigan School of Mines.

The baseball team will play five games on its southern trip in the spring. Two more will be played on the return trip to Wisconsin.

The hockey schedule follows:

Jan. 14—Michigan at Madison.

Jan. 20 and 21—Minnesota at Madison.

Feb. 3 and 4—Wisconsin at Minnesota.

No date has been set for the clash with Michigan School of Mines.

Games for the baseball nine will begin on April 10. The diamond schedule follows:

April 10—Union at Jackson, Tenn.

April 11—Union at Jackson, Tenn. (two games).

April 14 and 15—Mississippi university.

Notre Dame and Northwestern university will be met on the return trip.

Varsity Wrestlers to Meet Lawrence Squad

With the approach of January 14, the day set for their first bout of the season with the strong Lawrence College team, Coach George Hitchcock's varsity wrestling team has been working hard in an endeavor to round into shape for their tussle with the Farmers. Although Coach Hitchcock has been negotiating with the Lawrence Coach for months, final arrangements for the meet have not yet been made, and it is yet uncertain whether the team will make the trip to Appleton.

With 75 men reporting daily for work, not even a tentative team has yet been chosen, and all positions are open to the men of the regular squad. Some of the best talent to appear on the mats thus far includes Captain I. H. Peterman, 145 pounds; E. H. Templin, 158 pounds; W. J. Heuer, 158 pounds; G. V. Gregory, 158 pounds; D. J. Farrand, 135; L. W. Cattau, 135; G. P. Schenk, 135; N. E. Schmelling, 135; B. Talbot, 145; C. W. Krause, 145; C. A. Morrow, 125; O. H. Krause, 125; E. A. Woelffer, 125; A. H. Van Wie, 125; J. S. Hess, 125; G. F. Prideaux, 115; I. Yhelps, 115; Dohler, 1115; H. A. Allison, 115; W. M. Mercer, 1115; V. O. Young, 173; O. E. Kiesling, heavyweight; Ora McMurray, heavyweight; and K. Fuchs, heavyweight. I. H. Haddorff, a speedy 125 pound man is laid up with a broken shoulder, which will keep him out of the sport for at least six weeks.

Coach Hitchcock is confident of a victory for his men if the Lawrentians come through with the Saturday night. The first conference meet of the year will be with Northwestern here on February 11. Other conference meets will be with Chicago and Minnesota. The hardest task the team faces is the championship Iowa State team, which it will meet at Ames some time in March.

In order to interest the faculty in the sport, and to provide some of the professors and instructors with a means of obtaining beneficial exercise, Coach Hitchcock is at present organizing a faculty class in wrestling, which he will meet every Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 in the new mat room of the gym. All faculty members interested in the proposition are urged to call the coach at University 282 J.

AMBITIOUS FRESHMEN

RECENTLY the Commerce School Advisory Commission came to the conclusion that the main reason for failures and scholastic disasters among freshmen is undue interest in outside activities. The Commission's finding gives a more or less official stamp to a long suspended and generally accepted cause of shattered hopes and ambitions, scholastically speaking.

When you look the matter squarely in the face you find a paradox. A freshman enters the university primarily to get an education. He is ambitious, he wants to do things, he wants to be known as a prominent man. He looks ahead to see his name in the Badger a half dozen times, and a column or two of summary in the Senior Section. In his imagination he sees his name in Cardinal headlines at least once or twice a month, and he pictures himself speaking at all-university convocations, with his coat negligently unbuttoned to show the awed multitude his unrivalled collection of keys, buttons, pins, and badges.

With these far-reaching intentions the freshman starts in to carve his name in big letters on the campus. He gets into every conceivable activity he can find; and here the paradox. He comes out. In other words, in his endeavor to become prominent he is forced to leave the institution in which he is to become prominent. He has wasted his energies and time in defeating his own ends. This must always be remembered, that to become strong in activities one must remain eligible; and the ambitious freshman who loses sight of this rule of the university loses all chances of seeing his dreams fulfilled.

Let all freshmen remember this, that ambition is commendable in itself, but ambition without the curb of common sense is worthless. The yearling who is overly desirous of becoming great in the annals of the school might glance at the policy of Caesar; lie low for a year or two until you are safely and firmly entrenched, and then break forth and surprise the world.

THE COLLEGE LOAFER

TO quote the dean of men of the University of Illinois the college loafer is a "passive talkative being." He loves ease, leisure, sleep, cigarettes, chocolates, and girls. He is everywhere. He need not be pointed at because he is as obvious as the sidewalk, as such taken for granted, but by no means as useful. He is the man, or rather person, who drapes himself so gracefully about front porches, State street stores, and sometimes, if he gets up in time, about the entrance to Main hall. To use his own idiom, he "hangs out" at places where he may watch the co-eds pass and where he may be seen by those same co-eds, for he feeds on vanity—and cigarettes.

The college loafer has two purposes in life. One is to know the latest dance steps, the spiciest gossip, and to have seen the last show at the Orpheum. The other is to show as much disdain as possible for the undergraduate who does his work because he likes it, or who does it with energy because it is his duty. The loafer feels that he is in an exclusive society, and is proud of his characteristic of mental laziness and sloth. He has no qualms of conscience about borrowing your notes and then never returning them until you look him up. To him it is a coup d'etat if he can so question you about outside reading that he gets the gist of it and may be spared the labor of doing it for himself.

The trouble is that, although he is harmless in himself, yet he infects the whole crowd, because he is allowed to run loose. In short, he is an unmitigated pest, a public nuisance and a creature that the university could well do without. It is a problem to deal with him, since he cannot be segregated or quarantined. There remains only the hope that various and well known influences persuade him to remain at home next semester.

DE VALERA'S INCONSISTENCY

IT looks as though it was never Ireland's fate to live in peace. After some seven hundred years of continual uproar and political confusion one would think that peace, or comparative peace, would be welcome. De Valera thinks not. In spite of the fact that the Daif Eirean voted to accept the political status that it did the other day, nevertheless, De Valera does not like to see the fire of discord go out. His philosophy seems to be that if the decision please you, accept it; if not, ignore it. Perhaps it is a good thing that he resigned, because a philosophy like his is entirely incompatible with republican government and savors much of the absolute monarchical.

One cannot lightly play with the constitutional decisions of a responsible voting public and remain a president of a republic.

PROVINCIALISM

It is widely said of the college man of today that he is too provincial. He is said to take little interest in affairs of national and international importance, continuing his attention to things connected with his college life, and limiting his knowledge of everyday events to a casual glance at the daily newspapers.

True, the picture drawn by the critics is unfair and somewhat exaggerated, but it cannot be denied that there is some foundation for the impression. How many students read the city newspapers carefully or expend any thought on their contents? The sporting page may be read with assiduity, but few students pay close attention to the editorial columns.

The college student must fit himself to take his allotted place in society. He must broaden his vision and acquaint himself with things outside the campus gates.—McGill Daily.

Orpheum Bill is in Keeping With Good Show Week

By H. C. T.

In keeping with Go-To-Theater Week the management of the Orpheum has extended itself and is offering quite a bill. Every act at least satisfies, and several go down farther. In the act next to the last some entertainment not scheduled on the regular bill was carried out with unexpected success. Certain members of the university present last night were razed definitely and thoroughly, proving again that, after all, this is Madison and not New Haven.

* * *

Watsika and Understudy

Two trained seals take the place of the usual acrobats and get away very successfully.

Gilroy, Haynes & Montgomery

Drollery and singing on ship-board. There is nothing that can be picked out as being distinctive, but the entire combination is quite entertaining. The eccentric sailor takes advantage of the nautical setting with good results.

* * *

Embs & Alton

Shifted into second place, this musical offering containing several new songs, pleased the audience by not singing all the stand-bys of the past few months.

Tom Wise

With a happily selected company this well known actor puts on a sketch written especially to bring out his ability. Unlike most acts of its kind this offering has a sincerity and an atmosphere that is hard to get, and with a less able company might have lapsed into an ordinary playlet.

Dooley & Story

Personality and good looks in a big time act that is marred only by several ancient gags. It was on the occasion of one of these that the incident mentioned in the first paragraph happened. Some "college students" recognized the beginning of a Topics-of-the-Day joke and began to groan—a long, drawn out, unmistakable groan. Mr. Dooley halted his act immediately, and with professional finesse bawled out the offending parties. When he finished, the audience signified their willingness to hear the rest of the joke and the show went on. But his act is good notwithstanding, and the rest of the week will prove it.

* * *

Rose, Ellis & Rose

Three agile persons and a flock of barrels provide a real thriller. Jumping blindfolded through space is just one of the feats.

"Theodora" Called International Drama

"Theodora," the great spectacle which is at the Parkway theater this week certainly has the right to be called international. The drama itself is the work of the famous French dramatist Victorien Sardou. The local is Byzantium, then a part of the Roman empire, and now Constantinople. The leading role is taken by Rita Jolivet, a French actress who scored probably her greatest successes in England and America, and who is now the wife of an Italian count. In addition the picture was obtained by Samuel Goldwyn while on a visit to Italy and has had its first showing in this country.

S. G. A. COUNCIL

S. G. A. council will meet at 12:45 Wednesday noon.

CHILDS BRINGS CONFIDENCE TO CHINESE NATION

Lack of Trust in Educators Alienates Chinese Students

"The greatest need of China today is that she have honest men in governmental positions whose purpose will be to serve the people rather than to see how much money they can get from them," said F. O. Leiser, secretary of the city Y. M. C. A., concerning the work of Jack Childs in China.

Going on to explain the conditions in China, Mr. Leiser said: "A man might be as honest a business man as there is found in this country, but as soon as he gets to be a government official his sole purpose is to try and get as much out of the people through graft as is possible."

Chinese Lack Confidence

Mr. Leiser claims that there is wealth in China, but the people have lost all confidence in their government, and therefore keep their money hoarded or in foreign banks.

"There are also plenty schools and colleges in China, in which the young men can get a technical education," said Mr. Leiser, "but these are far worse than the others, as they have learned how to be better grafters. It is among those people in whom the people of China should have faith and confidence, which they have not, that Jack Childs is working."

Ross Praises Work

When asked what the "Spirit of Wisconsin" was that Jack Childs is taking to the people of China, Prof. E. A. Ross, faculty advisor of the drive said: "That spirit of faith and confidence that the people of Wisconsin have toward their government, and that spirit of service that the government officials show toward the people."

Professor Ross said that during 15 years that he had been a resident of this state, he had never heard it said that a government official had gained his position through the use of money, and that because of this factor the people have confidence in their government.

State Farm Group To Meet in Madison

portant to the one state's greatest industry that no progressive farmer can well afford to miss the opportunity to share in this important event."

Home Makers Respond

"Home makers from all over the state will gather to celebrate 50 years of progress and to plan for better health, systematized knowledge, and art in adaptation of knowledge in the home of Wisconsin," continued Mr. Hatch.

Speakers of national prominence have been obtained for the occasion. H. L. Russell, dean of the Agricultural college; Dr. Alonzo Taylor, Leland Stanford university, Theodore Macklin, authority on co-operative marketing; Gov. Frank O. Lowden, Illinois; Henry C. Wallace, United States secretary of agriculture, and many other prominent speakers will address the farmers.

Soil Problems Discussed

Conferences of different breed and agricultural organizations will be held during the Farmer's Week. Financial experts, manufacturers, and marketing authorities have been secured to confer with the farmers.

Recognition exercises in which eminent men who have rendered important services to the upbuilding of agriculture will be held in connection with the marketing conference.

Abundant entertainment will be furnished by agricultural students in the form of an evening of plays. A banquet is also planned for the occasion.

Cut in Cost of Music is Favored

many who have no discretion, regulations on social functions before examinations ought to be enforced."

Union May Help

Tom Coxon '22, president of the Council of 40 said that the Memorial Union building may help in the adjustment of orchestra prices. A hope exists that an orchestra center will be controlled by students and that the share received by Mr. Boyd and Mr. Thompson can then be eliminated to some extent.

Elizabeth Kenney '22, president of Pan-Hellenic, personally feels that orchestra prices should be reduced, but she fails to see how these suggestions are going to spread the social opportunities to the many.

Gangelin Opposed

Paul Gangelin '23, editor of the Wisconsin Literary magazine, feels that fraternity expenditures should be left to the discretion of the group. "Just because one group gives one or two parties a year, and makes a splurge, imports an orchestra and has a double header party, is no reason why this group need be pronounced extravagant. Many other organizations give one party a month, have an ordinary orchestra and ordinary decorations, and they are considered economical."

Milwaukee Telephone Rate Raised 10 Percent

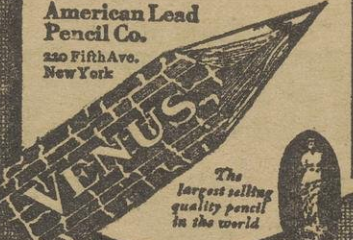

The railroad commission today authorized the Wisconsin Telephone Co. operating in Milwaukee to increase its charges for residence telephone service, at the same time denying an application of the company for authority to discontinue the four-party coin box residence service. An increase in revenue of approximately 10 per cent is estimated by the commission to result from the new schedule. The commission says that the Milwaukee exchange grew from 54,221 stations in 1915 to 80,654 in 1920. Traffic expenses increased 136 per cent during the 5 year period, according to commission figures, with total expenses per phone raising from $13.66 to $22.12. Value of the company's property was fixed at $2,920,000 compared with $5,350,000 in 1915, while the investment per phone is said to have increased from about $100 to $115.
