FIVE CENTS

COMMITTEE ON NEW PRESIDENT WILL MEET SOON

Discussion of Successor to Birge Expected at December Meeting

The special committee of the university board of regents, named to select a probable successor to President Birge, will probably meet when the board convenes in its regular session, December 3, it is said.

John Callahan, secretary of the committee, when asked concerning the rumors that the board may take final action, said that the regents were not any nearer to a decision than they were two months ago when the first meeting of the committee was held.

Three Terms Expire.

Since the terms of three board members will expire the second Monday in February, it is believed that the regents will act at their January meeting. The terms of Col. Gilbert E. Seaman, Milwaukee; A. J. Horlick, Racine, and Harry L. Butler, Madison, expire. The latter is a member of the presidential committee.

The presidential candidate will be selected subject to ratification by a board on which Gov. John J. Blaine will be represented by three new regents unless he should decide to reappoint the outgoing members, in case final action is not taken before expiration of the terms.

List Possibilities.

Fifty educators from points throughout the United States are on the list of possible candidates. Among those prominently mentioned are Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard law school, Professor John R. Commons of Wisconsin, Dr. Robert Morss Lovett, University of Chicago, is reported as having signified his willingness to accept the presidency if it be offered him, although no official information to that effect has been presented to the committee. Dr. Lovett and Dean Pound, it is understood, are both highly favored by men close to Senator R. M. La Follette.

Others under consideration are said to include D. M. Gay, dean of commerce at Harvard; William A. Neilson, president, Smith college; Henry Suzzallo, president, Washington state university; Dean C. M. Thompson, University of Illinois; Guy S. Ford, University of Minnesota; Frank P. Graves, commissioner of education, New York; T. F. Finnegan, commissioner of education, Pennsylvania, and L. D. Coffman, president, University of Minnesota.

Mournful Stay-Behinds Forced to Work While Fortunates Play

Onward the mournful multitude makes its way! Slowly they pass, blinded by the rain and by a few unchecked tears, bemoaning the cruel fate that makes them sit with unhearing ears before an eager but despairing professor while their fellow men, shouting with excitement and eagerness, sit before a fighting mass of humanity struggling for a small brown ball.

They are the hapless ones on whom the goddess of Fortune has not smiled; who have not the wherewithal to make the adventure some trip to the city of promise, to the city of hopes come true.

Many are the causes of their distress. Money, of course, is the principal stumbling block. There is the delayed check from home, or worse, the withheld check.

The poor boy who was momentarily infatuated, sadly asks himself the question, "Why did I spend

Spalding Has Many Precious Violins

Famous American Violinist
Prefers Older Models

Albert Spalding, noted American violinist, who is to play at the university stock pavilion Monday night, under the auspices of the Union board, has an excellent collection of violins.

He possesses one of the most valuable Guarnerius instruments in existence, made in 1735. It is in a beautiful state of preservation, showing loving care. The varnish is intact and melts from a deep wine-color to a cherry red. The back is in one piece. The violin is unusually large and shows a boldness of design that is characteristic of Guarnerius at his best.

Mr. Spalding owns another violin of great value made by Dominicus Montaganan, a Stradivarius pupil. This instrument was made in 1712 and might easily be mistaken for a Stradivarius. He also owns several modern violins, one by Hill of London which he uses in a damp climate because it is not easily affected by weather.

"Old violins are better than the more modern ones because the masters of those early days had plenty of time to work on them," said Mr. Spalding when questioned on the subject. "Some of the workmen took years to make one instrument and consequently the work was done with great care.

These violins were for the nobility and they were in no hurry to receive them. The masters were sincere in their work and thus succeeded in producing very fine products.

Oil Furnace Cause of $3,000 Fire in University District

An overheated oil-burning furnace was responsible for a fire which swept the apartment house of Henry Weaver, 415 North Murray street, and caused a loss of more than $3,000 at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The fire was spread through the shaft of the clothes chute, the flames starting in the basement and sweeping to the attic. Considerable damage was done to the furnishings of the four families who occupy the house.

Three stations sent their trucks to the scene, averting what at first threatened to be a fire of serious proportions.

FRENCH CLUB TO GIVE PLAYS IN DECEMBER

Two plays will be given by the French club December 16, in the concert room at Lathrop hall, under the direction of Professor Roussu, of the Italian department. The two plays are "L'Ete de La Saint-Martin," and "La Grammaire," and are both light comedy.

SPIRITED ARMY SENDS VANGUARD TO MAROON WAR

Early Hour is No Bar to Send-off Given Cardinal Warriors

Milling around in the mud on the lower campus, trudging light-heartedly through the wet streets, tugging at the historical red wagon, singing and yelling for old Wisconsin, hundreds of loyal students gave the team a rousing send-off early yesterday morning at the beginning of the trip to Chicago.

A Cardinal army is moving in a mass to Chicago this week-end, and the team was the vanguard. Reinforcements are piling into the metropolis every minute, and the midway is being besieged by thousands of fighting enemies,—enemies who are bearing the Cardinal on high, who have staked themselves to bring a victory back to Madison, who are bent on putting the Maroon of Chicago dim in the horizon, with the flaming Cardinal of Wisconsin as the center of perspective.

Roll Out Early.

The army that cheered its vanguard on to battle yesterday morning rolled from the blankets before daylight, hurried to the station with the team, and then hied back to its eight o'clocks.

By 6 o'clock, cars crowded with students flew about the streets of the Latin quarter, and hoarse yells of that familiar "varsity out" emanated from a score of megaphones. Eager students thronged to the lower campus where the red wagon was given a little preliminary work-out in preparation for its transcity journey. The faithful little pep band was there with its red and white sweaters and caps, playing lively music to work up the spirit of Wisconsin football followers.

Sing "Varsity."

Then the team, the wagon, men and women on foot and in cars, massed down Langdon street in a body. They rolled down Wisconsin avenue to the square, and proceeded to go against the traffic to Main street. At the station the army formed a line from the end of the red wagon to the train gate. The vanguard hurried through to the end of the line of cars, while people gazed awkwardly from Pullman windows, marveling at the spirit shown. The words and music of "Varsity" echoed through the streets as the train pulled out, for the send-off crowd was singing to its Alma Mater.

Human Engineers Are Needed, Says George Costerisan

"We need human engineers," said George W. Costerisan '26, in addressing the Education Journal club at its regular meeting yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. "That we are primitive in much we do is due to the fact that we have not yet made adjustment to twentieth century life."

Since the human society to a large extent determines its own ethical codes, religions, and systems of education, it becomes the duty of the human engineer, after discovering the laws of human nature, to engineer life so as to obtain the highest benefits, Costerisan declared.

Basing his whole address upon Walter Scott McNutt's article "Some Objective in Twentieth Century Education" in the November issue of the "Education," Costerisan outlined the 14 objectives discussed by Mr. McNutt for the human engineer to follow.

FORD MAKES SUDDEN TRIP TO CHAD LAWN

A Ford roadster owned by Rudolph Winnacker '28 made a rather unexpected trip onto the front lawn of Chadbourne hall yesterday afternoon. Winnacker was going up Park street towards University avenue when a parcel post truck turned in front of him into the driveway back of Music hall. To avert disaster Winnacker ran over the curb onto Chadbourne's lawn. The Ford was the only one to receive injuries. It had three flat tires and a rather hot radiator.

GOLTON TO TALK ON COMMUNISM

Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. to Combine in Meeting To-morrow Afternoon

Ethan T. Colton, associate general secretary of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. and general supervisor of the American Y. M. C. A. work in Russia, will address a joint meeting of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Lathrop parlors. His subject is "Russian University Life Under Communism."

Two years ago Mr. Colton represented the American relief administration in its work of helping Russian students. He has been in Russia continuously since 1917.

The scripture reading at the meeting will be given by Arno Haack '26, and Carol Biba '27, and Louis McNaught '26, will play selections on the piano. Miss Mary Anderson, Y. W. C. A. secretary, will preside at the tea after the services.

The joint meeting has been arranged by Arno Haack '25 and Mildred John '26. Bernadine Chesley '26 will preside.

NO-CUT RULE AGAIN IN FORCE THANKSGIVING

Cutting class again becomes an unpardonable offense next week.

Any student cutting the last lecture or quiz in any course before, or the first immediately after Thanksgiving day without a dean's excuse will not be permitted to write the final examination in that course at the end of the semester.

"In exceptional cases excuses are issued," said Dean H. Clicksman who has charge of the administration of the rule this year. "A student must report to me and make sure that his is the exceptional case, before he will receive his excuse."

Honey Is Advocated as the Best Anti-Freeze Radiator Mixture

An explanation of how to use honey as an anti-freeze mixture in automobile radiators was broadcast from station WHA by Miss Malitta D. Fischer, secretary of the Wisconsin State Beekeepers' association, last night. Miss Fischer also gave a number of honey recipes. Her talk was a part of Wisconsin's second honey week.

"Honey and water, in about equal parts by volume, makes the best and safest anti-freeze mixture for automobile radiators," Miss Fischer said. "A 50-50 solution is all right when the temperature does not go below zero. When it goes below that point, more honey should be added."

"A mixture of honey and water does not evaporate, like alcohol and

Ryan Puts Team Through Final Practice Session at Stagg Field

By KEN BUTLER
(Special to Daily Cardinal)
CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Except for two mere hours of hectic playing tomorrow afternoon that attracts 33,000 persons to the Midway stadium, Maroon followers have the 1924 football championship of the Big Ten all tucked away and prepared to make merry after the game.

But Coach Jack Ryan's Badgers, after a final workout on Stagg field this afternoon, only smile and look wise. The coaches smile too, and the general impression around the Badger stronghold tonight is that the proverbial cat will be let out of the bag tomorrow.

Badgers Swarm Streets

Tonight, just before the big annual banquet given by the Chicago Alumni club, at which the team and coaches were guests, special trains from Madison pulled in and scores of Wisconsin followers swarmed through the down town streets and infested hotel lobbies, generously bedecked in cardinal color and letting the world know that though the heavens release the rain and that the Badgers are the tail-enders in the grid race, they are not down-hearted.

The only thing that seems to mar the prospects is a drizzling rain that started in a typical Chicago mist. But Stagg field, covered plentifully with hay, is in first class condition, and unless a terrific downpour occurs during the night "the track will be fast," and speedy Badger backs will not be hampered by a slippery turf or mud.

Automobiles carrying Wisconsin followers and bedecked with the campaign slogan "Stagger Chicago" brought smiles to Chicagoans as the cars entered the Maroon stronghold.

Lineup Doubtful

Although Coach Ryan was not certain of his lineup tonight, it appears that Captain Jack Harris may again start in the backfield at his old position of halfback. Ryan had three teams working on signal formations in the Chicago stadium this afternoon, and a great deal of attention was paid to drop kicking. Ryan evidently figures that the score may be close, and he wants the Badgers to be every bit as prepared in the 3-point margin as the Maroons with their Bob Curley.

Lloyd Larson was dropping kicks over the posts consistently from the 40-yard line.

In the signal drill, Harris worked out as half, with Leo Harmon at full, McAndrews at left half and Larson at quarterback. In the line

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM FACES FINAL SPRINT AFTER CHAMPIONSHIP

Last Honors Seem in Doubt Between Wisconsin and Ohio

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Highly determined to flash across the tape as conference champions the Badger cross country team awaits the starter's gun at Ann Arbor today.

The Ohio team, with four of its last year's championship team ready to run today, is considered the big favorite but nevertheless the Badgers are feared.

Count on Kubly.

Ray Kubly, Wisconsin's high man in early meets this year, is expected to even better his previous time in tomorrow's race but he has stiff competition in Wikoff of Ohio State, Micher of Illinois and Bourke of Chicago, all of whom won places in last year's conference run.

Bourke crossed the line for first honors in three meets this season and many look for him to repeat.

Great hopes are placed on Capt. Piper, Perry, Petja, Bergstresser, Kubly, and Link in today's race and they can be counted upon to fight their way to the last yard in order that a conference championship trophy might be added to the many now adorning the trophy room.

MRS. HARDING FUNERAL WILL BE HELD MONDAY

Funeral services for Florence Kling Harding, widow of President Warren G. Harding, will be held at the Epworth Methodist Episcopal church in Marion, Ohio, at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Mrs. Harding died yesterday morning after a long illness.

Chicago to Celebrate

If Team Cops Honors

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Stagg field will blaze with a bonfire such as was never seen before if the university football team wins its final contest of the year and clinches its hold on the conference championship. The undergraduate commission has arranged a celebration committee to prepare plans for a proper thanksgiving if the team runs true to form and a bonfire, snake-dance, parade, and general uproar were the first ideas formulated.

More Budgets Go to Board; No Increases

No increases of major amounts were asked for at the Friday session of the board of affairs. David Atwood, of the printing board; Joseph Schafer, superintendent of the State Historical society; H. E. Morrow, director of the Platteville Mining School and Walter Le Ginger, secretary of the state athletic commission, appeared for their departments.

Jesse Meyers, custodian of the G. A. R. Memorial hall, asked for a decrease of $300 for the maintenance of the room.

Woman, Two Children are Found Hanging

MASSILLON, Ohio—The bodies of Mrs. Donald Burkhardt and her two children were found hanging in their home by the husband and father, Donald Burkhardt when he returned from a hunting trip at noon today. Burkhardt went on the hunting trip early today. He could give no explanation of the tragedy. Police are investigating.

Cow Testing Group Is Planned at Waunakee

WAUNAKEE, Wis.—Dairymen from Waunakee and surrounding territory will meet here Friday afternoon to form a cow testing organization. A. P. Kinney will act as temporary chairman for the gathering to be held in the town hall. It is necessary to have 26 members to make the organization effective. First testing operations will be held about Dec. 1 if the association is completed today.

Eddie Gillette

Another Great Badger on 1912 Eleven Famed For Gridiron Leadership

Another member of that famous Badger eleven of 1912 that swept all opposition before it and so far outclassed other grid machines that sport writers including the noted Walter Eckersall, placed nine of the Wisconsin team on the first all conference eleven is Eddie Gillette.

He was the field general for that team and all who remember those grand days recall the uncanny field strategy of the Badger quarterback. Fake cross bucks, trick passes, long runs from a place kick formation, mixed in with plenty of straight football kept opposing teams in a state of misery trying to figure out the next move of the wily Gillette.

Iowa still remembers the way that Eddie ran his team up and down the Hawkeye gridiron at will. In vain the Iowans tried to stop the Badgers in their march to the championship but Gillette shot pass after pass over the Iowa line to Oftsie or VanRiper. The Hawks were unable to solve the attack sent against them by General Gillette.

In addition to being one of the cleverest quarterbacks who ever piloted a Badger eleven, he was a star track man. His special events were the hurdles and broadjump. For one year he held the record in the distance leap.

Gillette was a rare combination of an excellent student and star athlete. He was enrolled in the Engineering school, taking one of the hardest courses on the hill; starring on the athletic teams; and among the leaders in his class scholastically. That is the type of athlete of whom Wisconsin is proud.

He is now a prominent business man in Aurora, Illinois. He is vice president of one of the largest traction companies in Illinois outside of Chicago and is also interested in a locker manufacturing corporation. Above all he is a true Wisconsinite and is always boasting for Wisconsin.

Bridge at Superior Smashed By Steamer

SUPERIOR, Wis.—The steamer Martin E. Farr, of the G. A. Tomlinson line early this morning struck the Interstate bridge across the St. Louis river between Superior and Duluth, putting the bridge out of commission which will require months to repair. The north span of the bridge over 200 feet long was knocked into the channel and damage will reach hundreds of thousands of dollars, according to F. F. Morris, bridge superintendent. Traffic between Superior and Duluth is seriously impaired but 46 railroad trains, making use of the Northern Pacific bridge will daily run between the two cities. Another route, ten miles longer, will be used by automobiles and busses. The Interstate bridge was built in 1896 and is declared to be the third largest in the world.

DOLLARD AND KISSEL ATTEND UNION MEET

John E. Dollard, university recorder, will accompany Lester L. Dollard will go as the board's representative to get data for methods in handling student union problems when the Memorial union is built.

Cars Stolen Here are Recovered By Police

Two automobiles stolen earlier in the week were recovered by police Thursday.

A touring car owned by Jacob Mintz, proprietor of the Campus Clothes shop, 827 University ave., was stolen Wednesday night and was recovered by Mounted Patrolman Clarence Bakken Thursday afternoon. It had been abandoned on S. Broome st.

Patrolman R. H. Zwickey Friday night found the light coupe owned by A. W. O'Keefe, insurance agent, which was stolen from Monona ave. Tuesday night. It was abandoned on the West Side.

Plan Tank Session to Keep Freshman Eleven in Action

With the end of the football season in sight, the frosh grididers will turn to the swimming tank in order that they might keep in good physical condition for the spring football practice.

Coach Steinauer is going to have these freshmen turned over to him for water basketball practice until spring, and he said yesterday that this exercise would keep them physically fit.

Water basketball combines three sports, swimming, wrestling and basketball. The frosh will not only receive the benefit of these three sports, but will also provide material for future water basketball teams, teams which Steinauer thinks will be more successful because of better trained men.

UNIVERSITY HEADS APPROVE OF FIELD HOUSE FOR TEAM

Present Facilities Called Out of Keeping With Growth of Institution

That the greatest need of athletes at Wisconsin is for better training quarters such as could be afforded by a new athletic field house, was the opinion voiced by President E. A. Birge and Theodore Kronsage, president of the board of regents, yesterday.

Need Larger Quarters

"The present gymnasium was thought to be ample sufficient for all athletic needs at the time when it was built but an increased enrollment now necessitates larger training quarters," declared Mr. Kronsage.

Such a field house would give the Badger athletes a chance to practice indoors at times when it is now necessary to suspend with practice because of adverse weather conditions, and it is the belief of Kronsage that the building of a field house would alleviate many athletic difficulties now prevalent.

Greater Seating Capacity

Agitation has become apparent before for a building which would house all sport activities. The present seating arrangements for basketball games are declared to be inadequate because only about a third of the student body can procure seats, without any allowance for alumni and other persons who wish to see Meanwell's teams in action.

were Polaski and Burrus at the wing positions, Teckemeyer at center, Nelson right tackle, Slaughter right guard, Miller left guard and Straubel at left tackle. Although Bieberstein was working out on second squad, he is in fair physical condition and it is probable that Ryan will favor him to start at his old position. Doyle Harmon, undoubtedly, will be injected into the fray during the game.

Polaski in Good Shape

The entire Badger team, full of fight, seems to be in the pink of condition. Polaski is playing with his old vigor again, Straubel's finger is nearly healed, Leitl was running signals and seemingly in good shape, and Bieberstein is in fair condition.

Tomorrow's contest will be a game of games. Wisconsin and Chicago are traditional rivals and the game that has become the grid classic of the west will write "finish" to the season. No matter what the record of the two teams during the season, they are usually evenly matched when they clash. Of the 26 games played by the two schools, Wisconsin has won 11 and Chicago has won 13.

Seats are entirely sold out for the game, and scalpers are offering tickets at high prices in the hotels tonight.

Chicago Confident

Chicago, confident but not cocksure of the outcome, finished preparations today for a battle that will either bring to the Maroons the first conference championship since 1913 or put things into a muddle that will mean little or nothing for Chicago.

The Stagg men have not played flashy football this season, but have played consistently, rising to their greatest heights in the 21-21 tie with Illinois. Stagg has victories over Indiana and Northwestern and has tied Illinois and Ohio.

Six men play their last game tomorrow with the Maroon. They are Harrison, Barnes, Harry Thomas, Captain Franklin Gowdy, Joe Podelik, Fred Law, and Phil Barto. For the Badgers four regulars sing their swan song, Captain Harris, Oscar Teckemeyer, Adolph Bieberstein, and Carl Miller.

Brother vs. Brother

Wisconsin will present the speed tomorrow, Chicago the power. It is possible that Tom Long, sub end on the Badger team, may meet in battle against his brother, also a wing man on the Maroon squad.

Of all the Chicago backs, McCarty will be the most feared. He has been the kingpin of the Maroon offense all year, and it was due largely to his great prowess and line drives that Stagg was able to triumph over Grange and his Illini teammates.

"In 1922 Wisconsin came to Chicago and blasted Maroon hopes for a championship by holding them to a scoreless tie. Will the Badgers do it again?" fans are asking tonight.

Leads Final Battle

JACK HARRIS

After a season of hard luck, Jack Harris leads the Cardinal eleven into its last stand today. It is the hope of thousands that victory will rest with fighting Jack and his comrades in this final battle.

THOMAS, CHICAGO BACK,
HAS RECORD OF WINS

Harry Thomas, Chicago star halfback, has an unusual record to keep clear today when he will make his final appearance in a Maroon uniform. During the three years he has played at Chicago, Thomas has never participated in a conference game in which Chicago was defeated. Last year when Illinois beat Chicago 7 to 0, Thomas was declared ineligible the night before the game and he was absent from the lineup when Ohio State defeated Chicago, 7 to 0, in 1922. The games are the only conference clashes Chicago has lost in three years.

BIG TEN THRONE LEERS CRAZILY
AS FINAL GRID SESSION LOOMS

Today sees the Big Ten teams lining up for the last time. When the last play is complete this afternoon, the 1924 grid season will be over as far as the conference elevens are concerned.

Michigan and Iowa will clash in est games on the program and is what promises to be one of the clos-also of vital importance, especially if the Badgers would down Chicago. This would mean the conference championship for the Wolverines in case they win from the Hawks. Both of the teams will be evenly matched. Michigan does not possess a runner as capable as Parkin, Iowa leader, but this handicap is offset by the all around ability of the Michigan backfield.

Buckeyes Hopeful

The Buckeyes, encouraged by the rumor that Grange will not be in the Illinois lineup, will enter the Sucker fracas determined to end the season with a win. For the past three weeks the Ohioans have been off color and it will be necessary to stage a real comeback if a win is to be chalked up against the crippled Illini.

Indiana's two universities, Purdue and Indiana State, will settle the question as to the supremacy of the state in gridiron matters this afternoon. Both teams have shown streaks of power during the season and the victory will rest with the team that happens to

Policy For Winners in Boxing Events

Increased prominence is expected for boxing as a university sport this year due to the fact that jerseys and numerals will be awarded to the winners in the interclass meet, declared Coach Ray Moore, yesterday.

The sound of the glove will issue from the boxing room in the gymnasium about Dec. 1 when the work outs begin. Coach Moore will have boxing classes every afternoon until 5 o'clock after which time the men preparing for the tournaments will practice.

Two tournaments are planned for this season including both interclass and all-university meets. The tournaments will include bouts in nine different weights with the extra divisions of junior lightweights and junior welterweights included.

chose today to exhibit one of these winning streaks.

Purple Face Irish

Glenn Thistlewaite, Purple mentor, claims that his men are entering the Irish fray unafeared. However, it can hardly be expected that the Northwestern men can upset Rockne's well oiled machine. Even so 1924 has been a season of upsets and the Purple led by the brilliant Ralph Baker, may achieve the impossible.

As an anti climax to last week's glorious victory over the touted Illini the Gophers will end their season in a game with Vanderbilt. This is the team that usually causes the Northmen so much trouble and as a result they were placed at the end of the schedule.

The fact that so many games are to be played Thanksgiving day reduces the number of tilts on today's program in the east. The only big game that is attracting any attention is the Yale-Harvard game. Every kind of dope points to a decisive win for the Yale Bulldogs. They defeated Princeton 10-0 while a week previously the Tigers walloped the Harvard team by the overwhelming score of 34-0.

Two old rivals of the Pacific coast will settle their annual dispute today when California and Leland Stanford mix cleats with each other. The Golden Bears should win this with little difficulty.

"Have no regrets" is the cry of the team and a fighting mad squad will trot out on the field at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

MAROONS GIVEN
LIGHT WORKOUT
AND SENT TO BED

"Have No Regrets" is the Cry of Chicago Team
Today

CHICAGO, Nov 22.—Only a light workout was on the program for the Maroon grid squad yesterday afternoon. Coach Alonzo Stagg with his two assistants, Nels Norrgren and "Red" Jackson, gave the team a chalk talk and then sent them to bed early.

All the squad is in the pink of condition and a fighting spirit hangs over the "C" camp today. The Maroons will put the best team available on the field today since they realize the first Big Ten championship is within their grasp since 1913, and only the Cardinal of Wisconsin stands in their way.

May Use Pass.

A fairly powerful forward pass attack has been developed by the Maroons and it will be no surprise if Chicago opens up with a bewildering attack. The Badgers have been weak all year in coping with an oval throwing game. Ames, Michigan and Notre Dame all used heaves successfully against the Cardinal and the "old man" figures that his team is also fit to toss the oval for good gains.

"Have no regrets" is the cry of the team and a fighting mad squad will trot out on the field at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Thomas Leads Chicago.

Harry Thomas, sterling right halfback, and "Five Yards" McCarty will no doubt carry the brunt of the Chicago work. The other backs will do their duty in the game and if sledding is rough and a few points are needed no doubt Bob Curley, diminutive quarterback, will be injected to boot the oval over the crossbar for necessary points.

TO START WRESTLING

Bright and early Monday, 11 men will put aside the University of Michigan football uniform and don wrestling tights in preparation for the bouts scheduled by Michigan with other conference schools. This is thought to be the largest number of football players ever to engage in wrestling and another new variety mat has been installed to accommodate the increase in tryouts.

Our Policy in Regard to Athletics in the Future:
STAGGER CHICAGO!

WHO SAID PINK TEA

It was all too obvious to any one who helped see the team off yesterday morning that had there been as large a per cent of the men students at the station as there was of the co-eds the crowd would not have been as shamefully small as it was. The girls turned out in real numbers; whole sorority chapters came in their own groups as did the girls from the various rooming houses of the Latin quarter. The men, on the other hand, straggled in one by one and two by two so that there were no more than enough to pull the red wagon to the station.

There was some question as to the advisability of having the team taken to the station in the red wagon, as it was thought that perhaps the players might suffer from the added exposure and inconvenience. However, it was finally decided that the red wagon would be used as a taxi and plans were accordingly laid. The canon roared, the siren whined, the horns tooted, the cheerleaders yelled. What happened? Every one woke up. No one could have slept through that noise yesterday morning under any circumstances, unless he was a freak of nature. Then what happened? A few men and a good many girls piled out of bed and were on hand to march to the station. But the majority did nothing more than groan, turn over and go to sleep again to dream of roses and ambrosia.

Stagger Chicago, yes. But let the others do it. The girls proved yesterday morning that Wisconsin is not a pink tea institution; the men proved fairly conclusively that it is a lie abed institution.

WATCHFUL WAITING

The campus is a pretty dull place this morning. With 4,000 or 5,000 members of the student body gone south, with every one's interests gone south with them—and else east to Ann Arbor—those students who are left behind find the time hanging heavily on their hands.

Their thoughts naturally turn this morning to the University of Michigan track course where the Badger harriers are stacking up against the best runners of the conference and where, too, they have every chance in the world of winning the championship title.

In the afternoon their thoughts will turn to Stagg field where the Cardinal and Maroon clad warriors do battle, the one to win one game of the Big Ten season and have the honor of defeating the team which now holds the conference championship, the other to keep its grasp on that championship for the academic year 1924-25.

And as the rooters at Chicago, and a handful of loyal Badgers at Ann Arbor, yell for the respective teams, those who are left behind today will cheer in their hearts, at least—"Fight team, fight!"

CONSISTENT PACIFISM

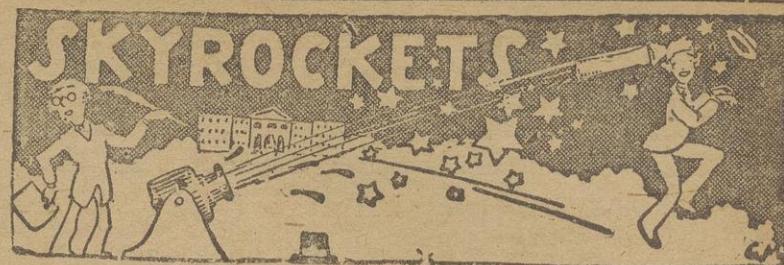

When Sherwood Eddy was on the campus last spring as the principal speaker at the all-university religious conference, many people could find nothing but inconsistency in his stand on war and pacifism. He devoted a good deal of time in his address to the discussion of this problem, pointing it out as one of the supreme issues of the present generation. He declared himself to be a pacifist, stated very plainly that there must be no more war or civilization will perish, and defended those who refuse to fight for their country on the basis of his doctrine of freedom of conscience. And yet, when he was asked directly from the floor what he himself would do in case the United States should enter another war, especially if it were a purely defensive war, he said that he did not have his mind fully made up and would probably fight as soon as he could be sure that all the fault was on the side of the enemy. This declaration that he would take part in a righteous war, while he had previously claimed that all wars are wrong and immoral, made him appear inconsistent in the eyes of many of his audience.

Apparently even at that time Mr. Eddy seemed to feel in his own mind that there was inconsistency in his logic, for in the new pamphlet on "The Abolition of War," written by Sherwood Eddy and Kirby Page, in which the former announces that he has finally adopted the complete pacifist stand, he says that during the past two years as he has lectured at universities all over the country, he has felt "a lingering inconsistency in this half-way position that was not satisfying." He now thinks that he was—not honest with himself, and in order to eradicate the difficulty he has now overthrown all his hesitation and boldly announces that he is "through with war."

Such a decision is manifestly a difficult one to make. In spite of the fact that the vast majority of Americans pride themselves on their pacifism, in a general way, they look with much disfavor and even suspicion on the man who refuses ever to carry a gun for his country. They wish that there may be peace, and once it is broken they are all in favor of fighting fast and furiously to restore it as quickly as possible. Consequently, no matter what views on pacifism a man may hold, he cannot but recognize the moral courage of Mr. Eddy and all others in taking such a drastic step in the face of general opposition and abuse.

But the incident has more significance than that. In the first place, it should make the average American think—meaning by "average American" every man and woman who has pacific principles but who believes that war is a necessary evil and would be willing to fight in case of another war; in short, every man and woman who is in the same position that Mr. Eddy was in when he spoke here last spring. These people might find it a perplexing problem if they should try to decide whether they are consistent, and whether they would be willing either to declare unconditionally in favor of war or to announce that they would never fight in any sort of war at all. Secondly, this incident should make people wonder whether their "mild" pacifism will ever be able to effect a warless world, or whether it is necessary for every citizen to refuse to fight altogether before wars will cease. This, of course, involves the whole question of militarism and pacifism, together with the moral issues on each side.

Lastly, Sherwood Eddy's announcement should cause some alarm in the ranks of those who believe in preparedness, for he is just another one of hundreds who every day are taking the same stand. Whether it is a move in the right direction or in the wrong, whether we like it or no, it is nevertheless an undisputable fact that in case America should be embroiled in war the number of conscientious objectors and pacifists would be so large that the prisons could not contain them all, and they would be a real obstacle in the successful prosecution of the war.

HURRAY! HURRAY! Grandpa Hap has migrated to Chicago, leaving STEW & JAY home all alone, to play with the old boy's false whiskers and tell the other children stories.

Well, draw your little red chairs up closer to form a circle, boys and girls. So many of your bright and shining little faces are missing this morning we really should have a written quiz. Now if Mary and Lish will stop chewing gum we'll have the fun.

AGAIN—ALPHA PHI!

Oh, but the little dears at the Alpha Phi dormitory are just about worried to death. Just think—some men have bought the Theta house next door—The Phi Delta Phi's.

And girls, I just know we have grown careless, having other girls along-side of us all these years—and when I asked them to be sure to put only their NICEST boys on our side of the house, there was such a funny silence!

AWW—BEASTLY AWKWARD.

The Psi U gang really had hoped to get a few new red ties out of the thing—but the Chi Psi Lawdge has turned down the challenge to an interfraternity football game—seems as though there is no chapter in Mrs. Post's w. k. book on the most approved way to play football—!

WHY THEY WALK.

Jane—Can you drive with one hand, dear?

George—Oh, you bet I can!

Jane—Awfully sure, dear?

George—Certainly am!

Jane—Well, George, if you're sure, will you—will you—reach in your pocket and get my compact?

Between the fall and the winter, When the drive is bleak and cold, Comes a pause in the year's fussing.

As least, so I have been told.

The boys with cars have the inside track, And they alone can fuss, But wait 'till the snowflakes come, They'll be walking their dates like us.

Engineering Professor Advises Closer Relations With Foreign Representatives

"Both foreign and native students here in the university tend to segregate themselves into national groups," Prof. Daniel W. Mead of the College of Engineering, said in speaking about the need of more friendly contact among college folk from other countries with native students.

"Y. M. C. A., International club, and other activities perhaps, all help to counteract this fault; but they still leave much to be desired," Professor Mead continued. "Many opportunities for inviting them into our social and fraternal activities arise constantly here on the campus, as well as occasions for asking them into the homes of professors and Madison citizens. All who participated in such hospitality would find it delightful, I am sure."

"In a very few years these young foreigners will return to their respective homes and there become leaders in politics, science, and art. Hence, more social intercourse with us, whose university they are honoring by their attendance here would bring about close personal friendships between students of different nationalities, and thus produce more amicable international relations than have been achieved before through the kindly but rather impersonal acts performed by this country as a whole."

CONSIDER BADGERS FOR THREE CABINET POSTS

One citizen of Wisconsin and two former Badgers are being considered by President Coolidge for cabinet posts. They are Charles L. Hill, Rosendale, for secretary of agriculture, E. J. Former Banker Found Guilty at Washburn

WASHBURN, Wis.—M. H. Sprague, former president of the defunct Northern State Bank was found guilty by a jury in circuit court here today on six counts of an indictment based on an investigation of the failure of the bank last year. A motion for a new trial will be heard tomorrow.

A jury in a former trial disagreed.

MONROE, Wis.—Monroe's three banks have asked refunds of taxes paid on capital stock this year and all have been refused by the common council. Should threatened suits end in favor of the banks, it would cost the city $13,643.13.

SPEECH DEPARTMENT SPONSORS NATIONAL DRAMA PUBLICATION

To bring about the united interests of colleges and high schools throughout the country in dramatics, is the aim of the Players magazine, published by the National Collegiate players, honorary dramatics fraternity.

The magazine is to be a bimonthly publication, the first issue of which is to be edited this month. It is sponsored by Prof. Gertrude E. Johnson, of the speech department of the university and the national vice president of the fraternity, and edited by two Wisconsin men, William Tannowitz '23, and Donald Kastler '23.

An extensive subscription campaign has just been completed, with very favorable results, it is reported. Universities and high schools, from Mexico City to Oregon, and from California to New York have responded to this call, as a recognition of the value of this magazine in filling a great national need. The production of the magazine is backed by 13 chapters of the fraternity, including the universities of California, Illinois, Minnesota, Ames, De Pauw and Oregon.

The first issue, according to Tannowitz, is to contain many articles of great value to those interested in dramatics. The contents, in part, will include a resume of the productions during the past year in the various colleges, reviews of the late Chicago and New York plays, special articles on unique producing units, an editorial letter by Professor Johnson on the aim of the magazine, reviews on dramatic books and magazines, and an article by Tannowitz entitled "What Shall We Think of the Movies?"

The staff includes William Tannowitz, business manager; Alfred D. Ludden, grad., advertising; Louis Mallory and Gladys Borchers, grad., circulation.

Old Timers Visit Hoppmann's Court Year After Year

"Bench warmers," haggard old bearded men who frequent the courtrooms day after day for the sake of entertainment, are regular fixtures, according to Judge August C. Hoppman of the Superior court.

"These old fellows," said Judge Hoppman, "are usually retired farmers or business men. Some are merely out of employment. I suppose it is a sort of entertainment that they derive from our sessions. It amuses me at times, as I see them sitting there, sometimes asleep, sometimes awake. They are of the old school of politeness, and it makes me feel queer at times to receive their deep bows and elaborate greetings."

Three of the aged troupe have been coming regularly for almost the entire nine years of Judge Hoppman's term of office.

PLAN TO REORGANIZE PRESIDENT'S GUARD
First steps toward the reorganization of the president's guard will be taken some time next week, it is expected. George C. Walsted '25 was appointed last spring by Major O. L. Brunzell to captain the guard for this year. The guard was formed four years ago to act as a special drill unit for unusual occasions. The guard will be limited to first and second year men this year, according to Walsted. New as well as old men will try out next week.

Insurance Men Discuss Revision of Statutes

Thirty insurance men of the state met with W. Stanley Smith, commissioner of insurance, Thursday, to discuss the revision of the state insurance laws in preparation for the recodification of the statutes during the next session of the legislature.

For Young Men There is nothing like a STETSON

NOST young men today know the importance of looking fit. Good appearance counts much in the game of life. The young man who dresses with taste has a decided advantage.

But—it is surprising how little thought the average man gives to his hat. It is his crown, yet he seems to stop dressing at the neck.

Be careful in your selection of your headwear. When you buy a hat, select a Stetson. Its style is right, its quality means long wear.

Misses' and Women's Fur-Trimmed Coats

AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES

Monday morning we called our New York office by long distance phone and gave them orders to buy only high pile fabric coats, fur trimmed, at the same low prices paid in New York last week. These coats just arrived and are now on sale at prices that make each one a real bargain. The demand has changed from flat surfaced to high pile fabrics, such as we are showing.

At $25

Heavy bolivia in black or brown is trimmed with delightfully soft and becoming moufflon in silver grey or rich brown. Other models are of Normandy cloth, trimmed with viatka squirrel. All are full lined.

At $38.75, $49.50

Muskrat, wolf, chinchilla, dyed wombat, ring tail opossum, sealine are used generously in trimming a group of new winter coats. Again, materials suggest a much higher price, for they are Kermani, Downy wool, Kashmere, Bolivia and Fashiona. All are full crepe-lined.

At $62.50

Rich Lustrosa, Velvaton, imported 50-50 coating in black and grey, or monochrome effects, shadow velour. Beaver, mink, viatka, baby lynx, muskrat and mole are among the better furs used. Full silk lined.

Many Other Specials at $105 and up
