SENATE VOTES TO RECONSIDER CAPITOL BILL

Next Thursday is Set For Ballot

The joint resolution passed by the senate forbidding the use of the state capitol for the Junior prom and Military ball will be reconsidered next Thursday morning.

This is the latest development in the 11th hour campaign launched by student leaders yesterday morning to obtain permission of the state to use the capitol until the Memorial Union building is erected.

Senate Reopens Question

Action which may reopen the question was taken yesterday morning by the senate. Senator George Staudenmayer, Portage, made the motion at 8:30 o'clock for a reconsideration of the resolution. The motion was passed.

Discovery that the joint resolution was passed Wednesday morning without a roll call and discussion and that an opportunity yet existed for reconsideration, was made Wednesday night by a representative of The Cardinal.

Student Leaders Act

Plans were immediately launched for a representation of student leaders to present the student viewpoint to senate legislators before the opening session yesterday, the last day possible for a motion to reconsider the bill.

At the session yesterday morning the following students were present:

Gordon Wanzer '23, prom chairman; Oscar Christianson '23, assistant prom chairman; Wilbur Wittenberg '24, assistant prom chairman; Ralph Balliet '23, president of The Cardinal board of control; Maynard Brown '23, president of the Student senate; Eugene Alleman, representative of The Cardinal; and Louis B. Rutte '24, representing Military ball interests.

Resolution Delayed

According to the motion, the resolution was to be reconsidered next Wednesday, the first day of the session after the Easter recess. Fortunately for the student forces the calendar for next Wednesday was found to be so crowded that the matter of reconsidering the resolution was postponed until Thursday.

This delay of one day will enable the students to present their views and requests for use of the capitol.

STUDENT CHOIR TO SING SACRED EASTER CANTATA

"The Seven Last Words," the Easter cantata by Dubois will be given tonight by the University Methodist choir at 8 o'clock at the Wesley foundation.

"The Seven Last Words," written in the form of a dramatic chorus, represents the traditional seven utterances of Jesus on the cross. Prof. Lowell L. Townsend who is directing the choir has chosen only those of exceptional ability, by means of tryouts. The choir is almost entirely made up of university students.

This concert is the annual Good Friday concert which has been given each year since the founding of the choir 12 years ago, and is being given Friday as a part of the Lenten program at the University Methodist church.

Earl Brown, tenor and former soloist of the choir will return to Madison to sing in the concert. Other soloists are Esther Dieter, soprano, and Arthur Van Velzer, baritone.

The program will be as follows: Introduction: "All Ye People" (soprano solo). First Word: "Father forgive

Judges who will make a decision on the posters are Prof. William H. Varnum, of the industrial art education and applied arts department; Miss Margaret M. McCarthy, speech instructor, Gladys I. Peterson '23; and Maynard Brown '23.

BALL TICKETS ARE ON SALE

Officials Do Not Grant Request For Two O'Clock Party

The ticket sale for the Military ball which will be held at the capitol on April 20 is well under way according to an announcement made by Louis B. Rutte '24, chairman of the sales committee last night.

Announcements of the sale were made to military classes yesterday by members of the committee. The men were urged to purchase them as soon as possible as the date of the ball is rapidly approaching. All classes received the announcement enthusiastically.

Are On Sale at Stores

Tickets for the ball may be secured at A. E. Smith's music store, Morgans, University Pharmacy, or from Sgt. Post or the various company commanders at the military offices of the gym.

The revenue offices have informed the committee that the tickets will not be taxed and all possible means for curtailing all unnecessary expenses are being taken. The price of the tickets is $4. Fraternities and all organized groups may order their block under one check from L. B. Rutte, B. 7244.

No Two O'Clock Party

University officials have not sanctioned the plan to make the ball a 2 o'clock affair. No late parties during class days are desirable it is said.

"Altho it is a trifle early, sentiment seems to be very strong for the ball. I wish to call attention to the fact that only ten days in which to purchase tickets remain after vacation. Therefore it is imperative that everyone get tickets now," was the statement made by Rutte.

Prof. Ross Says United States Should Recognize Soviet Russia

Sociologist Declares the Russian Government is Both Authoritative and Durable

By INTERVIEWER

"The United States should now recognize the Soviet government of Russia," Prof. E. A. Ross, of the sociology department, declared yesterday.

"Continuing to refuse to recognize the Soviets is absurd on the part of the United States because the Russian government is at once authoritative and durable," Professor Ross said. "In time the United States will be forced, if for no other reason than American business interests, to recognize Soviet Russia."

"Refusal to recognize a government merely on the grounds that it is too socialistic will make the United States appear ridiculous in the eyes of posterity," Professor Ross stated.

NO OFFER MADE FOR MEANWELL, GOPHERS WRITE

"May Leave" Rumor Unfounded

Following the recent publication in the Wisconsin State Journal of a rumor that Coach Walter Meanwell may accept an offer to go to Minnesota as basketball coach, a telegram and letter have been received by the local department from the department at Minnesota definitely denying that the rumors have any authoritative foundation.

The Gopher officials state that no offer has been made to Coach Meanwell and furthermore that no change in their coaching staff is contemplated.

The Telegram

The telegram and letter received from F. W. Luehring, Minnesota athletic director, read as follows:

"MEANWELL HAS NOT APPLIED NOR BEEN OFFERED BASKETBALL COACH POSITION AT MINNESOTA LETTER FOLLOWS

The Letter

Director of Athletics University of Wisconsin Madison Wisconsin

Dear Mr. Jones: In response to your special delivery letter, I wired you this morning as follows:

"Meanwell has not applied nor been offered basketball coach position at Minnesota letter follows."

Minnesota does not expect to make a change in basketball coaches. We feel that the cause for our poor showing should be ascribed to other conditions than coaching.

I am glad you got in touch with me immediately regarding this matter. We certainly would make no proposition to any member of your department without talking with you about the matter first. Should you care to publish any part of this letter or telegram, you may feel free to do so.

Very sincerely yours,

F. W. LUEHRING,

Director of Athletics.

Coach Meanwell is known to have received offers at various times from other schools, but, as stated by Gopher officials, has not been approached by Minnesota.

NEW S. G. A. RULING TO EXTEND WEEK NIGHT PRIVILEGES TO 10:30

SUMMARY RESULTS OF S. G. A. MEETING

Every week night is a 10:30 night.

The 12:30 week end privilege has been extended beyond dance engagements.

Future revision of S. G. A. rules through secret balloting preceded by an open mass meeting for discussion is suggested.

New rules will become effective after spring vacation.

The Phi Beta and the fusser held heated controversies.

The 11 o'clock rule for week end callers is held up for future decision.

Will Go Into Effect After Vacation

The extension of the 10 o'clock privilege nights to 10:30, and the privilege for all women to remain out until 12:30 on week end nights, regardless of whether they attend a dance or not, were the two resolutions passed by a two-thirds vote of the 476 women who attended the mass meeting in Music hall last night for the purpose of revising the rules and regulations of S. G. A. These rules will go into effect after spring vacation.

Cleo Parsley '23, president of Keystone, presiding officer, when she called the meeting to order emphasized the necessity of careful consideration of all suggested revisions in order not to have any action passed which might tend to lower the high standard of the Wisconsin woman, or make the state as a whole feel that Wisconsin was not an institution with a primary educational purpose.

Make Recommendations

The recommendation of Keystone that the rules for week end evening calls be left to the house with the suggestion that an 11 o'clock rule be adopted, was thoroughly discussed pro and con, with the result that no present change has been made, in this particular ruling, until a future date when through secret balloting through the amendment of the S. G. A. constitution or through a vote at some future mass meeting, action will be taken.

Further Keystone recommendations that week end rules apply to vacations, that the riding rules be abolished and that the canoeing and skating rule of S. G. A. remain with the same provisions as at present were held over for future consideration.

Suggest Ballot

A suggestion was brought up that "hereafter all rules be voted upon by ballot after first being properly and thoroughly discussed at large, open mass meeting."

Strong arguments for and against the revised rules were powerfully presented. The Phi Beta and the fusser came together and expressed their respective opinions backed by the force of personal convictions. Ample discussion preceded the calling for the question in every case. The changes were considered from every angle involved, before a final vote was taken.

"We feel satisfied that the women appreciated this opportunity to deal directly in the most co-operative manner possible with the problems facing us. The interest and enthusiasm of the speakers showed the prevalent vitality of the matter to the women on the campus."

"A mass meeting of this character, brings the woman into contact on a new basis of self-expression, and serves as an aid to suggestive methods for handling future crises that may arise."

This is the joint sentiment of the women in charge of the mass meeting.

MILITARY BALL POSTER WINNERS ARE ANNOUNCED

First prize in the eleventh annual military ball poster contest was won by Clara L. Jacobsen '25, and the second and third prizes were won by Doris M. Baldwin '24, and Eleanor L. Morgan '25.

The posters submitted in the contest will be displayed in shop windows on State street and on the square.

Judges in the contest were Major John S. Wood, Prof. William H. Barnum, applied arts department, and Carl E. Mohs, cadet captain and chairman of the art publicity committee on the military ball.

DEAN EXPLAINS VACATION RULE

Says Spring Recess Period
Originally Included
Easter Day

"It is on account of the students that the spring vacation is placed as it is," said Dean Goodnight yesterday.

"Spring vacation used to begin at noon on the Saturday preceding Easter day and end the next Monday morning. Sometimes it was not even a week long.

"The students became dissatisfied with this arrangement. Petitions began coming into the office.

"Some of the students who lived up state could not get home until Monday because the trains to their homes did not run on Sundays. There were some students who believed it a sin to travel on Sunday. All these students desired a vacation which began in the middle of the week and ended in the middle of the week also.

"Finally it was decided to arrange a fixed calendar, so that no more petitions would come in. Several of the university's mathematicians were put to work on such a calendar.

"It was decided to place spring vacation in the middle of the semester and in the middle of the week. In this way mid-semesters are just over and after vacation the work of the second half of the semester can be begun on a clean slate.

"The date of Easter is so variable that it is impossible always to have spring vacation at Easter time. The authorities think that the present plan is a very good one, and I hardly believe they would change it under any circumstances," Dean Goodnight declared.

JOINT DEBATE TO BE HELD TONIGHT

The main event for the literary societies tonight is the Joint debate between the women's literary societies Pythia and Castalia.

The men's organizations, with the exception of the Agricultural Literary society, will attend the forensic event in a body. In addition to the Joint debate, Athenae will hold an election of officers. The other societies will hold short preliminary meetings at their respective halls, after which the crowning event of the women's forensic season will receive attention.

BUSINESS "FROSH" MAKES PROGRESS

"The young man just starting in business will make much better progress if he considers himself a freshman in the commercial world," declared C. E. Lee '97, of the Gridley Dairy company, Milwaukee, in addressing the Babcock dairy science club Wednesday night.

Mr. Lee, speaking on the subject, "The College Trained Man in the Modern Milk Plant," cited instances from his own experience in the business where men applying for positions made unfavorable impressions by over-rating themselves, thinking that there was no job too big for them.

"A permanent position awaits the college trained man in the field," Mr. Lee asserted, and his superior training guarantees for him quicker and better progress than would otherwise be his.

A general meeting will be held in Music hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

The largest steam turbine plant in the world is owned by the Chicago Commonwealth Edison company according to R. F. Schuchardt, chief engineer of the company, who spoke before a joint meeting of the A. I. E. E. Wednesday evening in the Engineering auditorium.

The Commonwealth Edison company boasts the possession of one of the oldest steam turbine generating units in existence. According to Mr. Schuchardt the unit should have a place of prominence in the National Engineering Museum.

In referring to the size of the Commonwealth Edison Organization Mr. Schuchardt said that the telephone exchange required for the company's business was greater than that required by the average city of eight thousand people.

Request For "Y" Handbook Received From Syria

A letter, from the American university at Beirut Syria, requesting a copy of the Y. M. C. A. University of Wisconsin handbook, familiarly known here as the "Frosh Bible", has been received by the Y. M. C. A.

The copy of the book is wanted probably for suggestions for a similar book of their own. Several graduates of the University are in that part of the country, according to "Dad" Wolf, Y. M. C. A. secretary and it is possibly through their influence that this request has been made.

Of the Wisconsin graduates who are doing Y. M. C. A. work in that part of the east, two are in Athens, and one of them is in Constantinople.

ZETA PSIS WIN FROM SIG EPS IN THIRD ROUND

Four Teams Remain in Race

Zeta Psi defeated Sigma Phi Epsilon in the third round of the semi-finals in the inter-fraternity basketball league last night by a 14-7 score.

The score at the end of the first half was 7 to 3 in favor of the Zeta Psis. The game veered back and forth during the first period with neither team having the advantage.

With the beginning of the second half the Sigma Phi Eps seemed to lose their strength, and the Zeta Psis gradually forged ahead. The defeat forces the Sigma Phi Eps out of title consideration.

This week's games have forced all but four teams out of consideration. The four teams left to fight it out for first place are Theta Xi, Alpha Gamma Rho, Zeta Psi, and Kappa Sigma.

The Beta team, after having won its first two games in the semi-finals, was dropped from further competition because of infringement of the rules. They played a man who is not in school in their last game against the Theta Xis, and this is strictly against the rules of the Interfraternity council.

Play Final Monday

Consequently the Theta Xis will play Alpha Gamma Rho tomorrow night and the final game will necessarily have to be postponed until Monday night.

Following is the box score of the Sig. Phi Epsilon-Zeta Psi game:

ZETA PSI	P.F.	F.G.	F.T.
Merkel, rf	0	3	2
Stolte, lf	2	2	0
Riggerte, c	0	1	0

Merkel made 2 free throws out of five.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

	P.F.	F.G.	F.T.
Shaefer, rf	0	1	0
Melvin, lf	0	2	2
Smith, c	0	0	0
Faust, rg	3	0	0
H. Holm, lg	0	0	0

Nelson made 2 free throws out of four.

Purple Swimmers Have

Northwestern swimmers have won seven of 13 conference titles, have defeated their opponents in 37 of the 47 dual meets in which they have taken part, and have made 700 more points than all the other teams in the conference combined. Northwestern having scored 1,934½ points and all other schools 1,234½. The Northwestern team have also won three titles out of eight in water basketball and have taken three seconds.

"STICK IT OVER; LET HIM HIT IT," CRY OF GIANT CATCHERS

John McGraw isn't worrying about his catching staff. The veteran Frank Snyder is still able to do the bulk of the work.

Barl Smith has proved his value to the club and Gaston gives McGraw a good third-string man. Kernan, former Yale star, probably will be kept when the season opens. Anderson, a youngster, probably will be farmed out.

STARS TO COMPETE AT NORTHWESTERN

Four hundred high school track and tank stars from nearly fifty schools will compete Friday and Saturday at Northwestern university in the twelfth annual national indoor interscholastic track and swimming meet. The largest entry in the history of the games has assured strong contenders.

Evanston high, present holder of the track championship is sending Cameron to renew its claim. Hyde Park, champion of the tank, will have stiff competition against New Trier, suburban tank champion.

Lane high, Harrison, Englewood, Rockford, and Northwestern are some of the other prep schools that are entered.

First Football Accident Occurs During Practice

The first football accident of the season occurred Wednesday afternoon during indoor practice when Charles A. Lindbergh '26, pulled the ligaments in his right leg to such an extent that he will probably be unable to work any more during the spring work at least.

Lindbergh's knee was weak from a similar accident which happened some time ago and a little strain was too much for it. The leg will probably have to be put in a cast for several weeks before it will again be in good condition.

Lindbergh was a member of the freshmen squad last fall and was a possible member of next year's varsity squad. Whether the injury will keep him from work next fall or not is unknown.

WILL COMPLETE OPENING ROUNDS OF BOXING MEET

Ed Borgelt, boxing coach, announced yesterday afternoon that preliminary bouts in all classes in the all-university boxing tourney would be completed by this afternoon, and matches for completion of the meet would be arranged immediately.

Competition for first honors in Wisconsin amateur boxing has been usually keen in all classes from fly-weight through heavyweight, and the final matches to be held in the near future promise to be affairs of the closest nature.

Bouts are three rounds in duration and contestants are judged on points.

Cub Buck Named Coach

For Lawrence Football

Howard "Cub" Buck, Wisconsin All-American tackle of several years ago, who for the past three years has been line coach on the Lawrence College football squad, has been named head football coach at Lawrence for the next grid season, according to a statement made by Samuel Plantz, president of the college.

Buck was one of the two great tackles which Wisconsin has produced, having equal honors with Ralph Scott, who was named all-American tackle three years ago.

Buck has had a creditable record as a football coach and has been in demand by several institutions at various times. He was offered the position of head football coach at Indiana last fall and was considered as a possible successor of John Richards here at Wisconsin.

WOMEN'S BASEBALL TEAMS IN FINALS

The final game in the women's inter-class indoor baseball tournament will be played off this afternoon at 4:40 o'clock in the Lathrop gym when the sophomores and the juniors compete.

The freshmen and the seniors have already completed their schedule and await the results of this afternoon's game to decide the class champion.

This class championship will give the winning class 40 points towards the all-year championship which will be announced on Field Day, which falls on May 25 this year.

Rifle Team Wins Tickets

to Saturday Orpheum Acts

In a contest between four teams of the Rifle club a rifle team composed of C. J. Ludwig '26, captain, C. H. Swetill '26, B. D. Tolman '23, F. H. Fulton '25 won a trip to the Orpheum Saturday night.

Other members competing were L. P. Drake '26, captain, L. O. Long '24, W. A. Robinson '25, Carleton Meyer '24, composing one team; S. J. Spooner '25, captain, Sergeant R. E. Shire, W. J. Kilpatrick '26, G. H. Ross '26, composing another team; and E. P. Van Rohr '26, captain, F. P. Price '24, C. C. Fransien '25 composing a third team.

The Rifle club challenges any local team in a contest. It will enter the national inter-collegiate contest during the latter part of May.

Wisconsin scored 3,725 shots while Iowa scored 3,777 shots out of a possible 4,000 in the contest ending last Saturday. The higher average of the Iowa team was due in no small measure to superior equipment, better range conditions, and the fact that it is a minor sport at the University of Iowa.

TO DECIDE TITLE IN BASKETBALL MEET TONIGHT

Senior Women Have Two Wins

The women's class basketball championship will be determined tonight when the seniors come up against the juniors, and the sophomores meet the freshmen in the last round of the interclass women's basketball tournament at 7 o'clock in Lathrop gym.

The first two rounds which have been played off leave the seniors ahead with two victories, the juniors and sophomores each with one victory and one defeat, and the freshmen bringing up the rear with two losses.

The championship in this sport gives the winning class 40 points towards the all-year championship which is awarded at the end of the school year for the class having the highest total of points gained from sport championships in team and squad championships, and individual honors obtained by members of the class in special tests which have been devised.

If the seniors succeed in piling up the biggest end of the score against the juniors they will be undisputed champions, but if the juniors take the game away from the seniors there will be a tie, and if the sophomores come out ahead of the freshmen the season will end with a triple tie.

First Three Bouts in Class

Wrestling Tourney Run Off

Three bouts of the inter-class wrestling tourney were run off Wednesday afternoon at the university gymnasium. In the 135 pound class, H. O. Sherbert took a fall from G. E. The 155 pound bout went to E. Schnieder who took the 158 pound match from C. Scratched by a decision in an overtime period. The rest of the bouts were run off yesterday afternoon, and the finals will be held tomorrow afternoon.

THE AG CRITICS

If it be true that "the prophet is without honor in his own home town" that may explain the reason why the Wisconsin College of Agriculture apparently is appreciated in every state but its own.

Outside of Wisconsin this state's agricultural college is respected and admired as one of the very best in the world. Students come here from nearly every state in the union to this college.

The Country Magazine for April carries a long list of names of women who have transferred from the home economics department of their colleges to Wisconsin. These women realized that the name of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture on their degree meant more to them than did the name of almost any other state college. In the long course are registered many men from out-of-state. They came to Wisconsin because the fame of Wisconsin's pioneer work in every department of agriculture has reached throughout the United States and the world.

It is possible that these men high in state politics who recently have been criticizing the college have never heard the echoes of Wisconsin's agricultural fame. Ears that are attuned to only political rumblings may not be inclined to listen to aught that does not sound like political ammunition. It is just possible that one of these critics, Lieutenant Governor Comings, may despite his service with the agricultural college, never have been able to see good in aught that had no political bearing. Or it may be for another reason that the lieutenant governor bears such harsh feelings toward the college. Mr. Comings' relations with the college were severed three or four years ago.

The criticism, in the main, has been that Wisconsin College of Agriculture and its institutes are working to further production and give no thought to the problems of marketing.

Just how true is that criticism? Do these political critics know what an enviable record has been achieved along marketing lines?

Take dairying, Wisconsin's largest industry. Do the critics know that during the last eight months more than 30,000 head of dairy cattle were shipped outside of the state? Do the critics know that more than 400 of these animals were shipped to foreign countries? And are the critics further advised that these figures show an increase by a few thousand over the previous year?

Rather an efficient marketing system, is it not, when one realizes that these figures are for out-of-state only and do not take into consideration the many thousand sales within the state's boundaries.

There is undoubtedly no state in the union that has marketed so many dairy animals and dairy products as has Wisconsin. And it has been largely accomplished through those very organizations which the critics tell us are dealing with production and not marketing.

Today the Wisconsin dairyman sells his cream and butter to cooperative creameries which were fostered by the College of Agriculture. Wisconsin has many co-operative cheese factories, another marketing idea advocated by the college. Tobacco growers and peagrowers of the state know that the college has been working on marketing problems.

The whole trouble lies in the fact that these critics blame the College of Agriculture for the low prices of the times. The times are far from normal. It is natural that prices should drop following the war inflation and the marvel of it is that prices have not fallen considerably lower. When normalcy returns the farmers will realize that the agricultural college helped to market their products in a very unsettled period and that they stand ready to show the farmers of the state further methods of improved marketing. As proof the college has only to submit the names of a few hundred grateful dairy farmers.

YES

Under a caption reading "Answer Yes, Or No," yesterday's Journal says editorially in part:

The Cardinal makes definite its criticism that we misled the public in saying:

"Dr. Meanwell may go to Minnesota."

Very well, we challenge the Cardinal to deny the truth of the assertion. We doubt that it will dare to make itself so ludicrous as definitely to deny this by saying:

"The statement that Dr. Meanwell may go to Minnesota is a falsehood."

The statement that Dr. Meanwell may go to Minnesota is a falsehood. We answer "Yes."

No more conclusive substantiation of The Cardinal's reply need be cited than that found in the telegram and letter received here from the Minnesota athletic department following the Journal's story which deny that Coach Meanwell has applied for a basketball coach position or has been offered one.

The messages, reprinted in full in another part of The Cardinal, say in part, "Meanwell has not applied nor been offered basketball coach position at Minnesota" and "Minnesota does not expect to make a change in basketball coaches." Such words speak the true situation for themselves.

The Cardinal realizes, of course, that it lays itself open to arraignment by the Journal through many types of quibbling that will interpret "may" as being applicable to any time in the next five or ten years, to business trips, and to countless whatnots. The Cardinal refers only to Coach Meanwell as going to Minnesota as a basketball coach and going soon in the light of the present situation. When there is no possibility of that, there is no probability.

Since the Journal has not answered The Cardinal's issue of censorship but seen fit to say that we make it the "Meanwell may go" story, we answer both issues and consider the matter closed henceforward.

Editors Say—

WASTE NOT, FAIL NOT (McGill Daily)

Attempts have been made, not infrequently, to criticize college activities on the assumption that participation in them is apt to be at the expense of time that should be spent on studies. Activities, it is claimed, but serve as an excuse for laxity in scholarship.

Probably the most conclusive reply to these statements is an observation of their applicability to conditions prevalent at the universities. Such inquiry, we are sure, would elicit the information that it is not the idle man, the man with little to do and a great deal of time in which to do it, that attains the most satisfactory standing in his lecture work. Rather we are confident that investigation would demonstrate that it is the man who is busy, who has learned the necessity of crowding much into a limited period, who achieves the most gratifying results in his academic pursuits—particularly gratifying, perhaps, in their consistency, in their evidence of the fact that they are the outcome of application to the matter in hand, for a man who is occupied about the campus may indeed be so prevented from attaining a scholarship ranking, but the very circumstances that he is proficient in his extra-curriculum duties will lead him to be correspondingly exact in the conduct of his obligations towards his studies.

In brief, it is the idler, who wastes his minutes in indecision as to the mode of relaxation best suited to his mood at the moment and his hours in accommodating that whim, who is most prone to be delinquent in his duties. The present to him must be always pleasant, although darkened, perchance, by the prospect of the ever-shifting day in the future that is to record his return to work. Time to him is but a means of passing time.

Hawkins! Bring 'round the rosewood coffin. The shock is too much for us.

(Sarah! Poor old girl. Good thing she had one leg left with which to kick in).

WELL, let's get back to that mess meeting.

TO BEGIN WITH, the dear girls hashed for one hour, on whether or not they should be allowed another half hour after ten o'clock, to get food. Can you bend that? No man, nor any food that we'd ever heard of, is worth that much talk.

And a two-thirds vote was going to be necessary to pass anything that came up.... but the darn girls kept getting up and leaving. Well, and there you are!

NOW it comes down to this.... you men.... invite your girls out, and keep 'em out as long as you like, and when you get all through with them, take 'em home and throw 'em in the house.

AND FINALLY, when you marry 'em, for the love of Peace, YOU make the house rule!

But anyway, Larry Hastings is going to run the Wisconsin University Players next year.... and that's much more important.

George Berg—"I suppose because they are rum runners."

Art Ardiel, the Phi Gam Greaselino, finally broke down and confessed that the women are driving him wild with their numerous bids to sorority parties. Don't worry, Art, they'll soon get wise.

TOBACCO AND MENTAL EFFICIENCY, by M. V. O'Shea; The MacMillan company; $2.50.

The number of people who are perfectly frank is slight. People who are bound by habits usually refuse to admit that their habits are detrimental. So it is with smokers. The advocates of the tobacco habit seem to be confined to one group—users of the weed, while those who are on the other side of the fence seem to be for the most part non-smokers.

This is true at least in regard to the question of adults. For it seems to be almost universally granted that for minors to use tobacco is detrimental. The question then is, Do adults lose mental efficiency by smoking? The issue is deadlocked because smokers answer in the negative and non-smokers in the affirmative.

So one would gather at least from this book. It is founded on data gained through an extensive questionnaire and from actual investigation in the psychological laboratory.

Almost without exception the prominent men and women who are quoted defend the habit if they have it and condemn it if they do not have it. The testimony of smokers seems to prove conclusively that the habit is not detrimental. Evidently the author had difficulty finding people, men particularly, who do not smoke. For the balance of the testimony given is from users of the weed.

"It can be seen that tobacco exerts a depressing influence upon school work, the depressing influence increasing according as the amount of tobacco consumed increases."

This conclusion Professor O'Shea draws from charts compiled from the records of schools and colleges.

The whole thing is set forth in an extremely clear and impersonal way. Testimonies of college presidents, physicians, psychologists, scientists, artists, financiers and men in political life are given.

The author seems to say, Here are the facts, draw your own conclusions. As a matter of interest to the reader he sets forth the conclusions which he himself has drawn from his data in the final chapter.

The effects of tobacco have been studied ever since the weed was introduced into Europe four centuries ago, and much has been written on the subject. Professor O'Shea's book sums up the situation in excellent fashion.

DRAINAGE LAW REPEAL ASKED BY ASSEMBLY

Repeal of the Wisconsin drainage law enacted by the 1919 legislature, was voted by the assembly Wednesday after an extended discussion during which charges were made against the state college of agriculture and various financial interests, which have promoted drainage projects.

Assemblymen asserted that Wisconsin counties have been burdened with millions of dollars worth of bonds for drainage purposes that have proved ill-advised and worthless. They claimed that poor farmers were induced to take up almost sterile farms on drained marshes and then taxed heavily to pay for the drainage.

Those defending the university and drainage system asked that the question be dealt with impartially.

Final approval was given the Severson bill removing the secrecy clause to the Wisconsin income tax law when the assembly last night concurred in the senate action on the measure and sent it to Gov. Blaine.

With the signature of the governor assured, the Progressive Republicans claim that they have now carried out their first campaign pledge to the people.

The bill was concurred in by the assembly without even the formality of a roll call. Gov. Blaine will sign it within six days after it reaches his office.

GROUPS WILL SING CAROLS

Student Musicians to Tour City Early Easter Morning

The class in selection and interpretation of music material has organized 15 groups of singers and musicians to sing and play Easter carols in Madison, Easter morning. They will meet at Music hall at 6:15 o'clock Sunday morning from where they will be taken to all parts of Madison in automobiles furnished by members of the Kiwanis club. The groups consist of from 12 to 15 singers and one to four musicians.

Madison has been mapped out into 15 districts. The carollers will sing in well populated parts of the city and at places where people can not get out to the other services of the day as the hospitals and the infirmary.

They will stop at any place where the Easter symbol is displayed. This symbol is a flower in the window against a white background so that it may be seen easily.

At eight o'clock the carollers will return to Music hall. They will then assemble in a body on Lincoln Plaza in front of Bascom hall where they will again sing Easter carols. There will be solos and quartette numbers at this time also.

"This is the fourth year that the student have sung Easter carols in Madison, and it has always been a success. We have had favorable reports from many in Madison and especially from those who are unable to get out and enjoy the Easter services," said Prof. P. W. Dykema, yesterday.

SEVENTEEN BOOKS GONE FROM S. G. A. LIBRARY

Seventeen books are missing from the S. G. A. library, according to the latest checking up of the collection.

This list of lost volumes includes: "Babbitt" by Sinclair Lewis; "Beggars Gold" by Ernest Poole; "Best Short Stories of 1921" by Edward J. O'Brien; "Johanna Godden" by Sheila Kaye Smith; "Glimpses of the Moon" by Edith Wharten; "A Minister of Grace" by Margaret Wildener; "Mirrors of Downing Street;" "Modern American Poetry;" "The Outcast" by Selma Lagerlof; "Peter Whiffle" by Carl Van Vechten; "Prisoners of Hartlin;" "Tale of Triona" by William J. Locke; "This Freedom" by A. S. M. Hutchinson; "Upstream;" "The Brothers Karamazou;" and "Gentle Julia" by Booth Tarkington.

"It is necessary that all of these books be turned in or the S. G. A. library may be forced to discontinue if books continue to disappear at this rapid rate. When books are lost the library is not able to pay for itself and therefore it is of vital importance that whoever has any of these books return them at once," said Harriet Greene '24, chairman of the S. State Marches in Review in First Issue of "Wisconsin Magazine" Out Yesterday

Wisconsin on review!

The history, the industries, the quaint oddities, the political and educational progress of our state are crammed between the attractive covers of "The Wisconsin Magazine," the first number of which appeared yesterday.

There is no sectionalism in the magazine. Nor does it avow a political faith or an industrial panacea. It is impartially and interestingly true to its slogan: "Know Your Own State!"

Do you know the Story of the exploration of Bogus Cave, Wis., for gold? Do you know that some of the most famous old time taverns in the west were located in the Baraboo region? Do you know anything of the life of Nelson Dewey, first governor of the state of Wisconsin, or the story of his famous estate at Cassville? Do you know that Delavan was once a famous circus town?

These are a few of the many Badger features of the magazine written with charm and finely illustrated with photographs and drawings. Among the many contributors to the first number are Dr. J. C. Elsom, who writes on winter sports in the state; Gen. Charles King, who pays a tribute to the late Orlando Holway; R. H. Whitbeck, with an article on Wisconsin industries; Frank A. Cannon, on Wisconsin roads; H. E. Cole, on the old Baraboo taverns, and G. H. Willett on "Wisconsin, the Home of Adam and Eve." There is a survey on the month's legislative activities; a department on Wisconsin women and many other special departments.

The art work on the magazine is excellent. The cover design is an outline map of the state with an inset photo study of a Badger winter scene. The periodical has the distinction of being the only purely "state magazine," devoted to the varied interests of only one commonwealth, in the whole United States.

The Wisconsin Magazine is published in Madison. The editor is Hardy Steeholm. Others on the staff are P. P. Kneer, assistant editor; E. W. Chapleau, business manager, and L. S. Clark, circulation manager.

The advisory editors include Wisconsin men and women prominent in every walk of life. Among them are Dean H. L. Russell, George P. Hambrecht, William Ellery Leonard, M. S. Dudgeon, E. A. Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice A. J. Vinje, Dr. Louise P. Kellogg, Mrs. E. H. Van Ostrand, Marshall Cousins, A. O. Barton and Justice M. B. Rosenberry.

No Jobs Are Available

Says Secretary of Y. M. "There are no jobs available for young men at this time," stated W. L. Young, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. employment, in denying the report in the Cardinal last Wednesday. Jobs as salesmen are open to students who wish to work during the summer months.

COUNCIL SENDS NOTE TO EDITOR

Communication is Signed By Root, Davis, and Houston

The Council of foreign relations American quarterly review named "Foreign Affairs", in a letter written to the Cardinal.

The communication follows:

"We are strongly of the belief that there is a need in the United States today for a review where competent authorities may lay before the public their views on the international aspects of America's political, economic and financial problems.

We ask the privilege of calling the public's attention, through your columns, to "Foreign Affairs," the American quarterly review recently founded on a non-profit making basis by the Council on Foreign Relations in New York.

"Foreign Affairs" is not the organ of any one party or school of thought. It welcomes articles from men holding widely different opinions, demanding only that they be sincerely and ably written and based on trustworthy information. In addition to its leading articles, "Foreign Affairs" provides a bibliography of recent books in the international field, an index of reference material for students and writers, and a list of treaties and trade agreements for the increasing number of American men who find their work affected by conditions abroad.

The very high standard of variety and interest set by the editor of "Foreign Affairs," Archibald Cary Coolidge of Harvard university, is shown by a list of the contributors to the two issues already published. Among these contributors have been General Tasker H. Bliss, Dr. Charles E. Eliot, Joseph Caillaux, Andre Tardieu, John Foster Dulles, Premier Edward Benes, Philip Kerr, Karl Kautsky, Charles H. Haskins, Ernest Boyd, Josef Redlich and other students of international affairs of equal importance.

We feel sure you will agree with us that the establishment of an American review such as "Foreign Affairs," ably written and ably edited, is a public service of the highest importance and merits wide support. We have no hesitation in recommending it strongly to all those who are interested in the development of a reasoned American foreign policy.

LA FOLLETTE, JR. IN CONFERENCE WITH GOVERNOR

Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., chairman of the republican state central committee, arrived from Washington Wednesday. He held a conference with Gov. Blaine yesterday morning and met other progressive leaders during the day.

He returned to Washington last night.

Mr. La Follette was reticent concerning the purpose of his visit. He discussed the present legislative status with the governor. Mr. La Follette, as chairman of the state central committee, is anxious that the progressives will put through a program at this session that will be in keeping with platform pledges made in the last campaign.

Mr. LaFollette reports that his father and mother are in excellent health. They are not expected to come to Madison for several months yet.

ANNEX SUBURB BEFORE GIVING WATER SERVICE

Suburbs of Madison which are outside the city limits desiring water service from the city will be asked to petition annexation to the city before they are given service, according to present plans of L. A. Smith, superintendent of the department.

Requests of residents on the outskirts of the city that they be given water connection have been placed before the board of water commissioners who will meet jointly with the fire and water committee next week.

"Without demanding that the sections desiring service extension beyond the city limits petition annexation to the city, it will not be advantageous to Madison to make the increase as this would block the growth of the city," Mr. Smith said. "If they were given service such as is enjoyed in the city without paying the taxes which residents within the limits must pay, they would remain out."

Madison Couple Adopt Child To Bring Mother

A clever ruse to bring a minor child and her mother to this country is being employed by a Madison couple, Mr. and Mrs. Emil E. Scheler, 607 Conklin place.

The Madison couple has adopted the little daughter of Mrs. Scheler's mother in Vrutky, Czechoslovakia, making her an American citizen, and permitting her to come to America. At present it is extremely difficult to get a minor child out of that country. Mrs. Scheler's mother, Mrs. Zuzanna Comcan, planned to come to Madison to join her daughter, but could not get the child passed by the emigration officials.

Finally the plan was hit upon and Judge A. G. Zimmerman in county court here was sought. Today he signed the adoption papers.

GUARD INSIGNIA IS ATTRACTIVE

Crack Cadet Company is Drilling For Competitive Meet With St. John's

The recent appearance of a showy unusual decoration on the left shoulders of some 90 cadets has attracted much attention. The insignia is designed after the French military citation presented during the war period.

The President's guard members wearing the insignia have received many comments and have been called anything from voluntary fire fighters to imitation band leaders. The decoration has accomplished its purpose, however, that of distinguishing the Guard members from the rest of the cadet corps.

Plans of the Guard officers originally included an exhibition drill by the entire organization at the Military ball, but because of the size of the group, only a picked quota of members will stage a special drill. Work was started on this proposed feature a week ago.

At present the Guard is drilling in preparation for a competitive drill with the best unit of the St. Johns Military academy. Several Wisconsin cities particularly Beloit, have suggested that the Guard put on an exhibition drill at some special town celebration, but because of the lack of housing facilities for so large an organization, no action has yet been taken.

Major Wood, in an address to the Guard Wednesday evening, said "I wish to express my appreciation of what the Guard has done to keep up the spirit and reputation of the Wisconsin corps of cadets. The members have shown that they are willing to do extra work without the opportunity of any special reward. I would like to see the crack unit of the Wisconsin corps really representative of Wisconsin's past record in Military service."

O'SHEA IS AUTHOR OF BOOK ON THE TOBACCO HABIT

A new Mac Millan book has been added to the host of works on the tobacco habit. Its author is Prof. M. V. O'Shea, department of education, and is entitled "Tobacco and Mental Efficiency."

Have the most eminent men of the past been smokers of tobacco? Do the leaders of thought and action in America today smoke, and find that the habit increases their mental efficiency? Do college and high school students improve or impair their intellectual force by smoking? These are a few of the questions which professor O'Shea sets forth and answers in a scientific spirit.

According to Professor O'Shea, Dr. Clark L. Hull, of the department of psychology, has given a great deal of material to the book. Through his work in the psychological laboratory of the university he undertook an elaborate series of tests to determine the exact effect of tobacco upon the mental processes.

The book is reviewed at greater length on the editorial page of this issue.

Professors Withey, Roark and Van Hagan, and Mr. Stivers will accompany the party, which will make its headquarters at the Planters Hotel.

The party will begin its inspection at the Chicago and Northwestern passenger terminal. This will be followed later by a trip through the freight tunnel of the Chicago Warehouse and Terminal company to the Soo freight terminal.

The trip also includes an inspection of the Northwestern Terra Cotta Works and the Universal Portland Cement company's plant.

The Indiana Steel company, at Gary, Indiana, will be inspected on Wednesday, after which the party will return to Chicago and disband.

Men interested in highway engineering will then make a trip to the Bates experimental road near Springfield, Illinois. This party will be accompanied by Professors Smith and Withey.

U. S. INTERVENES TO SAVE LIFE OF ARCHBISHOP

MOSCOW—The appeal for clemency of the Catholic prelates and priests sentenced last Monday will be considered at the first meeting of the central executive committee tomorrow or next week, the government's amnesty department committee announced today. Meanwhile the temporary stay of sentence is applicable and they will remain in prison.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The U. S. government has intervened in the case of Archbishop Zepliak and other members of the Roman Catholic church clergy sentenced to death at Moscow after a trial by a soviet court, in an effort to prevent the carrying out of the sentences. Announcement to that effect was made by the state department Wednesday night.

The selection of Ambassador Houghton for this effort, arises from the fact that the soviet government has a diplomatic representative in Berlin. This government has no official representative in soviet Russia. Ambassador Houghton will deal directly with the soviet representative in Berlin, the seriousness of the case justifying that course.

Protests and appeals from all parts of the country in connection with the death sentences imposed on the archbishop and Vicar General Butchkavitch at Moscow are being received at the White House and the state department.

State department officials said on Wednesday that they did not feel warranted in disclosing the nature of the instructions to Mr. Houghton, but it was indicated that he would do everything possible to induce the Moscow authorities to cancel the death sentences.

BLAINE BILL TO FACE BREAKERS

Gov. Blaine's tax bill, outlined to the legislature Wednesday in a special message was introduced by title into the senate yesterday by the joint committee on finance. Senator Huber, chairman of the finance committee, asked that the bill go to revision, where it was referred.

When the bill is completed in its final form and introduced after the Easter recess of the legislature, a new tax fight will be precipitated. This was evident today with the position of Speaker John L. Dahl, and of the position of Senator H. J. Severson, the Progressive Republican leaders in each of the houses, and both authors of tax bills already before the legislature.

The Socialists, holding the balance of power in the senate, through Louis A. Arnold, former state senator and now tax commissioner of Milwaukee, let it be known that they were opposed to the measure. Arnold said that it was "entirely unsatisfactory." Other members of the socialist delegation said they would oppose the bill.

POSITION OF EKERN.

The action of Gov. Blaine in publicly thanking Atty. Gen. Ekern for assistance in drafting his taxation measure is regarded today as a clever piece of politics. The governor thereby sought to convey the idea that Mr. Ekern unqualifiedly supports the views expressed by the governor in his message. While Mr. Ekern will make no statement on the subject, it is known that he is not in accordance with all views expressed by the governor in his message. Mr. Ekern is reported to be opposed to the one man tax commission. It is also known that he does not approve of the emphasis given to the wet and dry issue because he feels that the issue is being used at this session to divide the progressives.

Assemblyman David Summer-ville, one of the stalwart leaders declared that the message "was the best ever delivered by Gov. Blaine, with features that will call for the most careful consideration of the legislature." Senator Anton Kuckuk, stalwart leader in the upper house, expressed much the same opinion.

The tax suggestions of the governor, however, aroused immediate opposition from some sources.

Speaker John L. Dahl declared: "Gov. Blaine's tax bill is impractical. It provides a system of distribution which would bleed industrial centers, and which would be most difficult of administration. In addition, the bill deals with two definite subjects that should be separated into different bills.

"There are over 150,000 taxpayers in the state whose tax would amount to one-half of one percent of a taxable income of $500 or less," the speaker said. "Thirty per cent of the tax on this amount, or cents would go to the state at one time, with two other small payments to be made, one to the state, another to the local units. This would make administration particularly difficult. The bill further takes away practically all returns to counties from income taxes, and cuts the amount to be received by the cities."

Others, however, took a different position. Senator W. A. Titus, Fond du Lac, said that the proposal had many commendable features. He and Speaker Dahl were in accord in their agreement with the governor that powers of local units, usurped by the state should be returned.

Senator Herman Roethe, Fennimore, veteran leader in the upper house, said:

"I notice now that Gov. Blaine is calling for the changes in commissions our special committee recommended two years ago, when we urged a one-man tax commission, a one-man conservation commission and a one-man civil service commission. At that time he sent Commissioner Rosa of the tax commission to the committee to appear against the bill to make the tax commission a one-man body."

Assemblyman Eric Johnson, expressed particular favor for the governor's tax plan which he said was better than any yet proposed. Other assemblymen joined in the

We never before thought we were "different," but last evening we applauded the acts that others did not applaud and we sat with hands clasped when others were clapping vigorously. However, there was something worth applauding in every act and the bill was worth seeing—even with mid-semester's to worry about.

Lady Alice's Pets:

Rats, cats, and a dog. Then some fluttering white pigeons. This act has been here before but it is worth seeing again.

Dave and Tressie:

Singing and dancing. The dancing was good. Dave loves to dance and admits it frequently. Too frequently. The only thing wrong with this act is that he tells us what we can easily see—that he loves to dance.

Three Autumn Birds:

Imitations of birds performed by two men and a girl. The imitations were good and so was the whistling. Never before did we know that whistling could have so much volume.

The Stars of Years Ago:

This is the act that made us feel "different." The crowd thought it was good, but we only felt that the actors might have been enjoyed more when they were younger. Rather a long act and a few long faces in the audience.

Dark Moments:

This man can dance and he can entertain. The best act.

An Evening in a Billiard Parlor:

Acrobats that are good.

Largest Fraternity Pin
Plant Erected in Detroit

College men and women throughout the country will take a particular interest in the news that what is perhaps the world's largest institution devoted to the manufacture and sale of fraternity insignia has just been erected in Detroit.

The building is that of Burr, Patterson and company, manufacturing fraternity jewelers. It was designed by Albert Kahn, Detroit's nationally known architect. It consists of two floors and raised basement and is located next to the city's largest railroad terminal, the Michigan Central station, fronting on Roosevelt Park.

Due to the nature of the business and the fact that practically all of it is done with college students, the building has been planned to include several unique features which will make an appeal to the undergraduate and alumnus—a library, for example, containing the current numbers of the various fraternity and sorority publications as well as those of many schools and colleges.

The first innovation to interest the visitor is the designing department. Designs for new pins and badges and coats-of-arms for the fraternities and sororities are created here.

A central lobby with its dark-stained woodwork and two interesting doorways through one of which may be caught a glimpse of a red brick fire-place flanked on either side by comfortable armchairs with a soft-shaded lamp casting a cheerful glow over the room can be found on the main floor.

A conference room in which is placed at the disposal of fraternity officials during their visits to the city to serve as a meeting place for committees or other appointments are located on the first floor.

VIROQUE—The city council decided to build a new fire house to shelter the new $10,000 truck.

Nimble Doug
In Robin Hood
Here Sunday

By CHATTY

Doug Fairbanks in the much talked of "Robin Hood" is coming here Sunday according to an announcement made yesterday by the Madison theater.

We have waited anxiously for the appearance of Doug in his latest photoplay, the first one since "The Three Musketeers." His nimble, acrobatic stunts even in classic productions make him, we always thought, typically Yankee.

Will "Robin Hood" keep up his record?

As that notable character, advance reports state, Fairbanks is the embodiment of the adventurous Robin Hood of 800 years ago.

The picture blends facts and fantasy, history and legend, and combines the glories of poetic and artistic beauty with an authoritative interpretation of the spirit of romance and adventure prevailing in the 12th century, advance reports promise.

It gives a vividly real impression of the romance, the conflict of emotions and the aspirations which made so memorable the period in which "Richard the Lion-hearted" ruled.

Representative of Conservation Commission Speaks to Foresters

"Unless something is done to alter the present situation Wisconsin forests will be practically depleted within the next eight or ten years," prophesied Mr. C. L. Harrington of the State Conservation Commission in a speech on the present forestry situation in Wisconsin under the auspices of the Society of American Foresters at the Engineering building last night.

"The first legislation attempted in this state in favor of conservation of forests was made in 1867. Nothing really effective was done however until 1897 when a committee was named who, in 1898 made a report to the legislature and the governor recommending the formation of a forestry department for the purpose of the conservation of timber and forest lands," the lecturer said.

"Exploitation of our forests—wholesale cutting for timber—made Wisconsin the greatest lumber state in the union between the years of 1890 and 1898 in which year production reached the peak.

"The first state forester was Mr. Griffith. During his time large grants of land originally made to the state for educational and recreational purposes were set aside as forest preserves, especially in the northern part of the state."

"At first this program was approved by tax-payers but as these preserves were increased year by year, and it was learned that such land, set aside by the state, could not be taxed and that consequently taxes payable by land-owners in these counties were higher, hostility became stronger and stronger," he continued.

"In 1903 in a test suit brought before the Supreme court the use of these lands as forest preserves was decided to be illegal. That is still the situation as far as any active forestry program is concerned.

"There are two courses open to the State in attempting to handle this vital problem today. One would be the state ownership of lands to be used for forest production," Harrington said.

"This plan, as I see it is not feasible now, and will not be for one or two decades. The other plan, and one that I sincerely believe in, is state encouragement of growth of timber by business interests and by private owners of suitable lands. This encouragement would be in the nature of providing assurance against losses by fires, and in a regulation of taxation that would make the use of lands in the growth of timber more profitable," the speaker concluded.

A number of interesting scenes in Wisconsin forests and lumber camps were shown by Mr. Harrington to conclude his talk.

Mr. E. V. Jotter finished the program with a timely talk on the recreational use of national and Wisconsin forests.

SENATE VOTES ON CAPITOL BILL

another year on Wednesday, the first day of spring vacation.

If the senate votes to reconsider the resolution, the resolution will be sent to the committee on state affairs of which Senator Titus is chairman. A hearing will then be scheduled at which time students will be entitled to speak.

Committee Will Report

The committee will then make a report either favorably or unfavorably, or in case of a even split will report the resolution without recommendation.

If, however, the senate defeats the reconsideration of the resolution, it will be sent to the assembly for concurrence.

It is forecasted by political leaders that the assembly would be favorable to the resolution.

Appeals that the capitol be used for the Junior prom next year are being based by student leaders on the fact that the new Memorial Union building will be built in time for the 1925 Junior prom, according to the estimate of alumni officials.

Until the Memorial building is ready for occupancy, no place is possible where a democratic, unexpensive prom may be held, it is explained.

Next Thursday will decide, however.

WASHBURN OBSERVATORY PROVES BURNING STAR REPORTS FALSE

"Reports that the star, Beta Ceti, is burning up are quite erroneous, according to the latest observations," said Prof. Stebbins at the Washburn observatory yesterday.

"We do not know upon what grounds the theory of the burning star was advanced, but someone has mistaken the star Omicron, which attains its full brightness at about this time of year for Beta Ceti. At any rate, the report is not true."

graphed although we do not use that means here of determining a star's brightness. Our device for that purpose is not completed, but when it is we hope to gain much better results than by photography."

The Washburn observatory here is carrying out a number of interesting experiments at present, but since none of them are completed no statement is being given out on them at present.

ONLY 1 SOLUTION TO LIFE—SARLES

Congregational Pastor Speaks at Lenten Noon-day Service in Music Hall

"There is only one satisfactory solution of life, and that is life as a process of education," declared the Rev. J. E. Sarles, in his talk "Life and Education" at the mid-day service that was held yesterday in Music hall.

"The students are here ostensibly to get an education," Mr. Sarles said, "and they have blocked out may be had on application to Seering or any member of the elections committee. Other members of the committee are Ralph E. Balliet '23, Oscar E. Kiessling '23, Edgar Smith '24, and Wilbur W. Wittenberg '24.

four years of their life for education."

Four years, nor even a whole life time is sufficient time in which to be educated. Mr. Sarles asserted. Education is something that develops the 'you', that makes you something different from what you are. All of the troubles, burdens and problems of life are processes of education; we can't account for these things unless we look upon them as lessons, Mr. Sarles believes.

"Most students," he stated, "are here for education pointing toward one of three things, either fortune, a good time, or fame. If life is lived only for any one of these things then life is a failure."
