SEIGE of PEKIN Advance Sale of Seats now on at Box Office, Fuller Opera House.

BESIEGED BY BOXERS

MRS. WOODWARD'S THRILLING STORY TO-MORROW NIGHT.

Lecture Will be a Social Event—Patrons and Patronesses—Reception at Chadbourne Hall.

Arrangements are now complete for the lecture to be given to-morrow evening by Mrs. Woodward on the "Siege of Pekin." The lecture promises to be an interesting and instructive entertainment, for Mrs. Woodward is a lecturer of unusual ability and has been through all the exciting scenes she describes. The lecture will be illustrated by about one hundred lantern slide views from photographs taken by Mrs. Woodward during the siege.

The lecture will be made a social event. The patrons and patronesses for the evening will be Governor and Mrs. R. M. La Follette, Acting President and Mrs. E. A. Birge, Dr. and Mrs. Sheldon, Captain and Mrs. Curtis, Dean and Mrs. J. B. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Burr W. Jones, Professor and Mrs. C. R. Van Hise, Professor and Mrs. C. S. Slichter, Professor and Mrs. W. A. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Swenson, Professor and Mrs. P. S. Reinsch, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Conover, Professor and Mrs. B. W. Snow, Professor and Mrs. M. S. Slaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Hanks, Professor and Mrs. A. A. Bruce, Professor and Mrs. E. S. Maurer, Professor and Mrs. J. B. Parkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Sanborn, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Stevens.

At the lecture the musical clubs of the University will assist. The University quartette, composed of picked voices from the men's Glee Club, the Glee Club itself and the Girl's Glee Club will each give a selection during the evening.

Saturday afternoon from four to six will be held an informal reception at Chadbourne Hall to which all women of the University and of the faculty are cordially invited. Mrs. Woodward will here display her collection of curios and relics of the siege. This collection is a large and valuable one containing a great variety of oriental curiosities. Among other things she will show a lot of fine laces and embroideries made with the design of the dragon. She has also some specimens of jade, the sacred stone of China. This stone, which is very rare and valuable, is used for the images of gods and for making other sacred articles. Mrs. Woodward has a fan, made of this stone, which was used to hold before the eyes on being presented to the emperor.

Mrs. Woodward desires very much to meet as many of the young ladies as possible and a cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the reception. The reception committee will be Mrs. Birge, Miss Mayhew, Mrs. Slaughter, Mrs. Van Hise, Mrs. Slichter, Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Snow.

Science Club.

The Science Club will meet next Tuesday evening, March 26, in the Engineering lecture room. Professor Henry will speak on Agricultural Observations in Europe.

Remember the prize offer for those finding the most mistakes on the program at the Woodward lecture.

TO MAKE LECTURE TOUR.

Mowry and Cochems on Europe and Passion Play.

George A. Mowry and Edward B. Cochems will start the early part of next week on their lecturing tour. The lecturing enterprise is the result of a unique trip which they made throughout Europe last summer. They succeeded in crossing the "pond" and spending several months in England, Germany, France, Switzerland and Austria on less than $100 apiece. The continental portion of the trip was made by wheel. While on their trip they took a complete series of photographs and these have been made into lantern slides, a stereopticon being used to accompany the lecture.

Among other things a visit was made to Oberammergau with its famous passion play, and a large portion of the lecture is upon this subject. They have made engagements for over thirty lectures in the cities of southern Wisconsin and an extensive tour further north during the Easter vacation.

EDUCATIONAL EXHIBIT.

U. W. Will be Represented at Buffalo This Summer.

At the Pan-American exposition to be held at Buffalo this coming summer the University will have an educational exhibit. As a rule universities which do not charge tuition do not care to advertise to any great extent. For this reason Wisconsin will not make a great effort in this exhibit.

The exhibit which the University board had at Paris will be transferred to Buffalo and that will probably be the extent of the educational exhibit of this institution, except one will be sent by the dairy department.

The dairy department will send, in two or three months, an exhibit which will illustrate the character of the work done in the Wisconsin Agricultural College. Maps will be sent with it locating all the cheese factories and creameries in Wisconsin.

An exhibit of the building stones representing the state's resources will also be sent. This will not be a part of the University exhibit but a number of the faculty are seeing to its arrangement. There will be forty-eight specimens in the collection composed of the different kinds of granite, limestone, sandstone and rhyolite, found in the important quarries in Wisconsin. Each specimen will be labeled telling its origin, weight, ratio of absorption, specific gravity, porosity, and crushing strength per square inch. This exhibit of building stones will arrive at Buffalo some time before April first.

Samples for the Chemical Laboratory.

Sets of samples illustrating the processes of chemical manufactures have recently been received by the chemical department from the following named firms:

Wright and Hills Linseed Oil Co., Chicago, raw materials and intermediate and finished product.

Edward Smith and Co. New York, by the kindness of Prof. A. H. Sabin, raw materials and materials used in making varnishes.

Spielman Bros. Co., Chicago, samples to show the process of making malt vinegar with detailed description of the process.

W. I. Matheson & Co., New York, samples of dyeings of woolen cloth and yarn with the practical receipts used in making the dyeings.

THE WANDER INSTINCT

SUBJECT OF CONVOCATION LECTURE BY DR. PYRE.

Talk Interspersed With Readings From Kipling and Stevenson—Easter Recess Rules.

Dr. J. F. A. Pyre delivered the address at today's Convocation on "The Wander Instinct in Modern Poetry." His talk, one of the best that has been given this year, was given before a large and appreciative audience.

Professor Olson lead the singing, singing two German and one English song.

Acting President Birge then made a few remarks, reminding the students of the coming Easter vacation, which will be from April fourth to eighth, and the rules applying to it. The rules are the same as at the Christmas recess, no one being allowed any time over that allotted except by special permission from Dr. Birge, and such permission will only be given on reasonable grounds. He also paid a tribute to the late Professor Whitney, speaking of his excellent qualities as a teacher and as a man. A memorial service in memory of Professor Whitney will be held at Convocation either the first or second Friday after Easter.

Professor Pyre said in part: As we often say, "There is no place like home," there is no feeling so thrilling as that of coming home, except perhaps that of going away. We can have more or less sympathy for a tramp, a man who has the courage to walk away from everything and wander over the world. At this time of year the wander feeling is especially strong. Now is the time when travel seems most attractive.

There are two of these wander instincts, one that of the man who goes merely to see the world, the other of the man who goes to work and do. There is an old superstition that the truth will eventually fall on the wanderer. This belief we find expressed in many authors.

Professor Pyre then read to illustrate his statements a selection from Stevenson's "Walking Tours," also a poem, "Youth and Love," by the same author. Stevenson lived his ideas, and was called the "Prince of Vagabonds."

Dr. Pyre then read Kipling's "For to Admire" and "Mandalay," and in conclusion he read a selection from Carmen and Hovey's "Vagabondia." He read the selection with appreciation and feeling, his reading of "Mandalay" being especially praiseworthy.

Small Fire at Beta House.

A fire which for a time threatened to destroy the entire house broke out in the Beta Theta Pi house this morning at about half past six. The exact cause of the fire is unknown but it is thought to have started from defective wiring in the basement. The blaze was discovered by the cook who immediately roused the sleeping inmates. An alarm was turned in and the fire department arrived on the scene in a few minutes and soon had the blaze under control. The only damage was in the basement where the ceiling and timbers were scorched and some other damage done. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

Prices for the Woodward lecture are seventy-five, fifty and twenty-five cts.

Egypt and the Soudan.

Professor A. A. Bruce lectured yesterday in the Contemporary Politics course on Egypt and the Soudan.

Professor Bruce began by saying that the history of the extension of the British empire was not the history merely of dollars and cents, markets and increased trade but the history of individual heroism and sacrifice for which there had been but little reward. Kipling told the sad truth when he made the British private, in speaking of the British empire, say "Poor beggars: it's blue with our bones." The speaker then stated that the history of modern Egypt began in 1811 when the dynasty of the present reigning house was established by Mehemet Ali, and when from a mere province of the Turkish empire Egypt became a practically independent though tribute paying state. Mehemet Ali was really a great ruler and established the system on which Egypt is today in the main ruled. He then dwelt on the prodigal career of Ishmail Pasha the grandson of Mehemet Ali which resulted in the practical bankruptcy of Egypt, the sale of the interest of Egypt in the Suez canal to the British and the establishment of the dual control and the Caisse. Since the time of Ishmail Pasha Egypt has been practically governed by the British, through the Khedive who is shorn of but little of his original power. The taxes however are divided in two halves; one half are paid to a board appointed by England, France, Germany, Russia and Austria, and are used in the payment of the interest on and the redemption of the Egyptian bonds and the formation of a sinking fund. The interests of this board and of the British government, were often diametrically opposite, the board being chiefly interested in securing the bonds and the payment thereon, the British government in the main being interested in the development of the country, which the necessity of paying one half of the taxes to the board, irrespective of whether or not the bonds with the interest were due and in spite of the fact of a large and growing surplus, materially impeded. In spite of the diversion of so large a part of the taxation Egypt has steadily increased in prosperity from 1882 to 1897, the population has increased 43 per cent., the taxes have been reduced from $5.55 per head to $4.43 and the national debt from $74.18 per head to $50.04 per head, while numerous dams and irrigating canals, railways and other public works have been constructed. The speaker also spoke of the various campaigns in the Soudan and of the career of General Gordon, and closed by giving the various reasons which had induced England to direct the affairs of the country and spend so much in blood and treasure therein.

—Yesterday afternoon Dr. Showerman gave his lecture on Cicero. The lecture was illustrated by many stereopticon views and was supplemented by the reading of extracts from Cicero's letters. Dr. Showerman dwelt particularly on Cicero's public career and of his life at his villas after he had retired from his public services.

—Daniel M. Driscoll, '03, has returned from the attendance of his uncle's funeral at Antigo.

—Dr. O. G. Libby returned to-day from his trip to Oshkosh where he delivered a lecture at the Farmer's Institute in session at that city.

Remember the Woodward lecture for the benefit of the Athletic Association.

Is Commendable.

The interest taken by the students in the primary election bill, marked by a frequent attendance at the legislative sessions and the formation of thoughtful opinions upon the subject is worthy of note. Whatever may be the merits or demerits of the measure it is such a question as should deserve the careful consideration upon the part of all students of political science at least. The fact that these have so intelligently followed the discussion and argued its many phases among themselves is a sign of the general new order of things at Wisconsin, whereby it is aimed to devote the attention of the student toward the practical application of otherwise abstract studies. A good deal is gained when one recognizes that political science and economics is nothing more than the theoretical side of political industrial organization and politics.

New Star Growing Brighter.

At the observatory, Professor Comstock is still making observations on the new star. It has been rapidly diminishing in brightness since the twenty-fourth of February. But about the eleventh of March the brightness was observed to remain the same for a few days and since the fifteenth it has been brightening somewhat. Last evening it appeared about 25 per cent. brighter than it did a week ago. The ruddy color still persists.

Astronomers can only conjecture as to the future of the star. It may grow materially brighter but it is probable that in a little while it will begin to fade.

Professor Comstock has been observing the star to ascertain its distance from the earth. So far ten sets of measurements have been obtained, but they will not be of much use unless a similar set of measurements can be obtained next August and September. It still remains an open question whether the star will be bright enough to be observed at that time. At present it is not a conspicuous object but is easily seen, with the naked eye, at the centre of a triangle formed by three moderately bright stars on line between the Pleiades and the North star and about one third of the way from the former to the latter.

The spectroscopic observations of the star are conflicting and are differently interpreted by different people. It seems to be generally conceded, however, that at least a part of the new star is increasing in distance from the earth, while it is claimed by some observers that another part of it is approaching the earth at the rate of over a million miles per day. But this view must be held with reserve.

Pharmacy Notes.

The chemical department of the University has received as a gift for its cabinet from the Glucose Sugar Refining Co. of Chicago a set of specimens illustrating the products obtained from Indian corn. The set includes 34 bottles containing the raw material and the intermediate products and the final marketable products which include all parts of the grain. These are the various grades of starch, of dextrine, of glucose and the syrups made from it, and of grape sugar. Two of the most interesting products are the yellow oil obtained from the corn germ and the India rubber substitute made by vulcanizing this oil.

A similar set of specimens has been received from the Chas. Pope Glucose Co. of Chicago. This set will probably form a part of the commercial museum which is being formed as an accessory of the new School of Commerce.

Mr. Schreiner has started a photographic collection to be used in connection with instructional work in this line. A number of articles of historical interest have lately been added. Mr. A. S. Ralph, formerly of Columbus and now photographer at Oshkosh, has presented to the collection two collodion bottles used in the old collodion process of washing plates, an old style printing frame, and ambrotype, several bound volumes of the Practical Photographer and Photographic Bulletin, and several old text books on photography covering the period from 1865 to 1880.

Frederick Stearns & Co. of Detroit Mich., also added an interesting series of colored reproductive work to this collection. Their art calendar entitled "Contentment" is printed in three different colors, thus producing an almost life-like coloring. The series consists in printing these colors separately and combined, thus showing very strikingly the results obtained by blending the colors in reproductive work.

"In The Blues"

is a common saying of a person who exhibits low spirits, nerveless action and a failure to enjoy even the most cheery surroundings. Nine times out of ten this condition is accounted for by poor digestion, which affects the mind and nervous system, besides enfeebling the body.

Pabst
Malt Extract
