The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

As I am travelling around here where the Oneidas live, they say they don't have stories and they would prefer to play music on the radio. Only one man was able to tell me a story. He had been to war but he says he is sick. Others are working. Now as for me, I want to go home because I want to write the stories of these Oneidas.
