BADGERS TAKE ON SAME GRID TEAMS IN 1923

New Schedule Does Not Have Inter-Sectional Game

Chances for an inter-sectional game between Wisconsin and any one of the team which have written to the Wisconsin athletic department took a decided slump yesterday when the 1923 schedule for the Badger football team was announced. While there is a slight possibility of a game being booked later, the schedule would hardly seem to warrant it.

The Big Ten Conference has taken steps to prohibit intersectional games during the actual conference season and if a game of this kind were scheduled it would have to be one of the preliminary games.

Expect Carleton Again

The 1923 Badger schedule begins one week earlier than it did this fall, as the first game is booked for September 29. There will be but fifteen days of practice before the contest. It is hardly probable that a strong team would be booked for a game so soon after the beginning of school.

While the preliminary games have not yet been definitely decided upon, the chances are that they will be with the same teams that were on the Badger schedule this year. Carleton will probably be played on September 29 with South Dakota coming for the game a week later.

The actual schedule of Big Ten games is exactly as it has been for the past few years. While there will be but two conference games at Madison, the teams which are booked to come here are strong enough to insure close games. Minnesota will be met on October 20 and Michigan will play the Badgers at Camp Randall on November 10.

Have Open Date

The five-year contract with Chicago necessitates going away for the game with the Maroons. Indiana and Illinois will also be met on foreign fields by the Badgers. The Saturday between the games with Minnesota and Illinois is an open date.

While the custom has been for the Homecoming game to be that between the Gophers and the Badgers on odd years, the fact that that game is scheduled so early in the season may cause some reconsideration. The game between Michigan and Wisconsin in November would seem to be a more appropriate date.

Schedule

Sept. 29—Carleton (tentative) at Madison.
Oct. 6—South Dakota (tentative) at Madison.
Oct. 13—Indiana at Bloomington.
Oct. 20—Minnesota at Madison.
Oct. 27—Open
November 10—Michigan at Madison.
November 17—Chicago at Chicago.

Scalpers' Fines to Swell Loan Fund, Says Court

The money from the fines placed upon Harry Callen '23, and Sidney Charney, L 3, will be given over to the Student Loan fund, according to the action by the Student court.

These two students pleaded guilty to scalping tickets to the Illinois-Wisconsin football game and were fined by the court yesterday. Callen received a fine of $30 and Charney, $60.

The exact use to which the money will be put will not be decided upon until some time next week, said Justice M. R. Paulsen, secretary of the Student court. The case of George R. Spangenberg '23, who pleaded not guilty of scalping tickets will be taken up by the court next Tuesday.

MU ALPHA IS MADE NATIONAL

Local Group Receives Charter From Honorary Music Sorority

Mu Alpha, local, was installed as a chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, honorary musical sorority, last night at the Monona hotel.

The petition was granted at the national convention held at St. Louis last June, and was the only one to be granted unanimously of the four which were voted on.

Mu Phi Epsilon was founded in 1903 as a national honorary music sorority, and now has 36 chapters. It includes such members as Schuman-Heinck, Geraldine Farrar, and Mabel Garrison.

Mu Alpha, the local here was founded by six music students in 1920, and has been active on the campus since June, 1921.

Installation was held by Mrs. Doris Benson, Chicago, ex-president of the sorority and Mrs. Gale M. Haake, Chicago, of the national extension committee. This afternoon there will be a musical at the Alpha Phi house, followed by a formal banquet at the Monona hotel.

The members are: Frances Landon '23, president; Vera Eastman '23, vice-president; Beatrice Walker '23, secretary; Lois Jacobs '24, treasurer; and Janet Breitenbach '23, membership chairman, Ruby Britts '23, Grace Jones '24, Barbara Hildreth '22, Minnie Beattie '23, Charlotte Belscamper '24, Erma Duncan '24, Jean Kilgour '22, Carmelita Lewis '23, Louise Madden '25, Margaret Moore '24, Hilda Shultz '24, Helen Wheeler '24.

Tryouts For President's Guard Set For This Week

Tryouts for the President's Guard, the competitive honorary organization of the cadet corps, will be held in the armory Tuesday and Wednesday. All men of the university are eligible to tryout including freshmen and other men who are taking their first military work.

Tryouts will be held on the basis of the essentials of military tactics, and will be confined to the manual of arms, turns and facings, certain squad and column movements, and on the personal bearing and appearance of the competitor. Positions are open to 80 men.

Last year the Guard engaged in a special drill at the Military Ball, took a leading part in the spring parades, and demonstrated a guard mount before Major General Bell on Memorial Day. This year's plans include "competes" with St. John's and Culver Military Academies, together with several special social features. Attractive insignia for Guard members is planned.

Condition Exams Set For Jan. 13; Not Dec. 13

Examinations for the removal of conditions will be held on January 13, instead of December 13 as reported in The Cardinal yesterday. In the case of students failing to write off their conditions at this examination the conditions will elapse into a failure, and the course must be repeated.

FRONK APPOINTS BOARD TO TEND JUNIOR AFFAIRS

President Announces New System as a Substitute For Committees

A board of affairs, which will handle all the work in connection with the junior class except Junior prom, was appointed yesterday by William J. Fronk, class president.

The following students will serve on the board beside the regular class officers who automatically become members: Lee Hanson, Delbert Paige, Robert Pfeifer, Oswald Krebs, Katherine O'Shea, Ellen Harris, Betty Berkley, and Lois Cole.

Centralizes Activities

"This board is to take the place of the committee system which has carried on the work of the class during the past year," Fronk said yesterday.

"The reason for changing from the old system is to centralize the activities of the class. The committee system has not been entirely satisfactory in the past and many committees appointed at the first of the year never functioned. In other cases, the burden was placed upon one person who carried on the work according to his own ideas and not in harmony with the will of the class.

"The work of the junior class can be done more satisfactorily by one group, a group which is representative of both the organized and unorganized elements in the class," Fronk concluded.

Will Meet Soon

As the different activities and problems arise chairmen will be appointed from this group to handle the committee work. In this way there will be no duplication and at the same time the whole board will be available for cooperation.

The class officers as elected at the fall election will retain their official duties besides acting on this executive body.

A meeting of the junior board of affairs will be called within the next few days and the plans for the coming year will be discussed. Important questions in regard to finance and social activities will be settled at that time.

Prom Workers to Meet at Bascom Hall Monday

The first general meeting of all prom workers will be held at 12:45 tomorrow noon in 165 Bascom hall where nearly 150 committeemen will gather to get their first instructions from Gordon Wanzer, prom chairman.

"We hope to get things started Monday," Wanzer said yesterday. "The meeting will be the only one at which all committeemen will be present. We will outline the work generally and hope to get all the suggestions the workers have to offer. We want every prom worker to arouse all the enthusiasm he is capable of holding so that every committee can be depended on to get its work out on schedule."

A special attempt to get the non-fraternity groups organized for this year's prom will be made, according to Wanzer. Wilbur Wittenberg, assistant chairman, will have charge of a campaign to organize non-fraternity parties and to find suitable places to hold them. Fraternities not using their houses will be called upon to accommodate the groups.

"Non-fraternity people will be just as active in the arrangements for this prom as the fraternity people," Wanzer said. "We are looking forward to some valuable aid from them and we hope they will get in it from the very start."

WEATHER: FAIR

The weather report for Madison and vicinity is generally fair today and tomorrow. It will be somewhat colder tomorrow.

Mr. Day is a member of the Chicago Lyceum of Fine Arts, and has spent 25 years on the public dramatic stage, 20 years of which was in connection with Lyceum work. He is a well known writer of dramatic pieces, and in his Thursday's program will present several of his popular offerings. Tickets, at 50 cents, will be on sale at the Albert Smith music store and at the University pharmacy. Next Wednesday and Thursday they may be procured in the rotunda of Bascom hall.

M'CURDY WILL SPEAK AT GYM

Social Science Club Brings Liberal Leader to Talk Wednesday

The Social Science club has arranged with the Milwaukee forum to bring Allen McCurdy, secretary of the national committee of 48, to Madison Wednesday to speak on "The Third Party Movement". Mr. McCurdy is known as one of the foremost leaders of liberal political views in the country. The address will be given in the gymnasium.

The question of the forming of a third party is one of the most vital political problems that has confronted the country since 1856 when the present Republican party came into being in the opinion of the leading papers of the nation. Except for the Bull Moose movement in 1912 no party has threatened to take rank with the two older factions. Mr. McCurdy was one of the outstanding figures of the Roosevelt boom in the nomination convention in 1912.

This is the second program that the club has presented this year on topics relating to the social problems of the country, Dr. William A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college, giving the first about six weeks ago. In conformity with its policy of presenting both sides of the question fairly the club has asked Mr. McCurdy to speak on the topic selected from a number of lectures that he is prepared to deliver, as Doctor Ganfield's talk was to give the conservative view.

What promises to be one of the most interesting programs ever presented on such a subject will be given the following week when Paul Blanshard a representative of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and Noel Sargent of the National Association of Manufacturers will debate on the open shop question.

SENN FORUM IS C. I. P. A. WINNER A SECOND TIME

Four School Newspapers Are Temporarily Tied For First Place

The Senn Forum, a magazine published by the students of Senn high school, Chicago, was awarded first prize for the second consecutive year yesterday from an entry list of 126 magazines representing 19 states.

In the newspaper contest, according to the opinion of the judges, the publications submitted were of such an even excellence that it was impossible to do more than pick the four best. Consequently, these four papers will be submitted to a committee made up of prominent newspaper authorities from other states. In this way, their respective places will be determined.

570 Attend Convention

The four newspapers now tied for first place are: The Manualite, Manual Training High School, Kansas City, Mo.; The North Central News, North Central High School, Spokane, Wash.; The Central High News, Central High School, Minn.; The West High Weekly, West High School, Minn.; The South Side Times, South Side Jr. High School, Fort Wayne, Ind. was awarded first place in class 1b, for newspapers published by junior high schools in the United States.

With a record attendance of 570 delegates, with over 35 states represented, and with a total of 461 publications entered, the third Annual Convention of the Central Inter-scholastic Press association came to a close yesterday in a general session at Music hall.

Schools Elect Officers

Earl Fisher, president of C. I. P. A., presided as chairman and introduced Prof. Paul W. Kieser, South Dakota State College. Prof. Kieser's subject was "Opportunities for School Publications".

"It is the opinion of newspaper men chosen from five states that the average school paper devotes too much space to trivial matter," he said.

At the business meeting which followed a motion was passed whereby schools of individuals were voted into office, the officers finally to be elected by the schools. Those elected were: President, Washington High, Milwaukee; vice president, Parker High, Chicago; secretary, Endicar, Racine; treasurer, Hyde Park Weekly, Hyde Park.

The art contest run in connection with the convention, received many entries. In class X, a contest to find the most artistic magazine covers, first place was awarded to

LIBRARY WILL BE REFINISHED SOON

Monday a staff of painters and carpenters will probably begin work on re-touching and re-finishing the library, and will continue all winter, according to Miss A. A. Nunn, assistant superintendent, yesterday.

"It is a huge undertaking, as can be realized when you consider that it took two men about three weeks to scrape and completely re-dress the six double entrance doors this fall."

An appropriation of $36,000, to cover a period of two years, was made in 1920 for the upkeep of the building. All of the money, except that expended on the re-grading that was done last fall for drainage, is being expended for cleaning and re-touching.

"The library is such a beautiful building that we take a great deal of pride in keeping it clean," said Miss Nunn.

It requires the services of a housekeeper, four maids, and four janitors working on a regular schedule to give the State Historical Library its weekly cleaning and bath. Once every week the library is thoroughly mopped and cleaned, a certain portion done every day.

Senn Forum Again Draws First Prize

Geo. W. Greene, of the Milwaukee Journal gave a talk on head line writing to a well attended meeting in Music hall.

"Reviews and Criticisms" were discussed by Ruby Black Little, of the course in journalism, and the "Humor Department" by Rodney C. Welch.

Speaks on Engraving

Mr. H. A. Konnak led a meeting in the discussion of the problem of conducting a school paper without faculty instruction.

Edward W. Hill of the Jahn Olli-er Engraving company of Chicago spoke to the members on what the high school editor should know about engraving.

"Many of the high school publications have saved money because of the 'pep' shown by a 'live-wire' business manager," Mr. Hill asserted.

Round table discussions were conducted by Prof. Grant M. Hyde, Fred L. Kildow '23, Prof. H. E. Birdsong, W. C. O'Connell, George W. Greene, Harold E. McClelland '23, Hubert F. Townsend '23, Herbert Brockenbousen '23, and H. Hickman Powell '23.

Orchestra Offers Free Pre-Xmas Concert Dec. 13

Two special numbers for stringed instruments and a song by Miss Irma Duncan, mezzo-soprano, will be included in the concert to be given by the university orchestra Wednesday evening, December 13, at Music hall.

Miss Duncan will sing Allitsen's "A Song of Thanksgiving" with orchestra accompaniment. The orchestration for this song has been arranged by Major Murphy especially for this concert, in order to blend most effectively with Miss Duncan's voice. Miss Duncan is a student in the School of Music.

The concert will culminate the pre-Christmas activities of the orchestra. Besides giving a program of unusual attractiveness, the orchestra is larger than that of previous years and contains some unusual talent.

The concert is open to the public without charge.

LEADING TEAMS IN FRAT LEAGUE LOSING GROUND

Phi Sigma Kappa and Sigma Nu Still at Head of Divisions

While the Phi Sigma Kappa and the Sigma Nu teams still remain in the lead in the two divisions of the inter-fraternity bowling league, their leads have been cut down to such an extent that there is a strong possibility of their being beaten out before the tournament is ended. Each team has a bare three game lead over its nearest opponent.

In the first division the Alpha Sigs and Sigma Phi Epsilon are tied for second place. They have been going strong during the season and will fight to overtake the pace-setters. Three teams, the Tekes, the Triangles, and the A. T. O.'s are tied for fourth place with fourteen wins and ten losses each.

In the second division the D. U.'s and Alpha Chi Sigma are racing to hold second place and to try to oust the Sigma Nus from their position at the head of the percentage column.

Lange High Point Man

The Phi Alpha Delta team and the Zeta Psi five are even up for fourth place with sixteen wins and eleven losses each.

Lange of the Triangle team still holds the highest score with an average of slightly over 190. He is in no immediate danger of losing his crown as the closest men are still under the 180 pin mark.

At the end of the present tournament the four high teams in each division will play a single round of seven matches each. The winner will receive a silver cup and one leg on the traveling cup. Prizes for high man and high team scores are also on the list.

Michigan Awards Letters to Twenty-seven Men

Six cross-country and 21 football men at Michigan have received numerals for their work the past season. In addition to the letters, the football men will receive gold football charms because the team went through the season without a defeat.

Winning the Western Conference cross-country title for the first time in the history of the sport at the University of Michigan the first six men to finish first in the meet will be awarded track letters. In the history of Michigan athletics only two men have previously received the insignia for cross-country.

The six men to receive the track letters are:

Captain J. A. Bowen, '24, Grand Rapids, Mich.; E. R. Isbell '23, Troy, Mich.; R. A. Arndt '24, Milwaukee, Wis.; G. O. Rearick '24, Gary, Ind.; C. A. Reinke '23 Milwaukee, Wis.; and J. W. Shenefield '25, South Bend, Ind.

FRAT TRACK MEET SET FOR DEC. 16

Official announcement of the interfraternity track meet to be held on Saturday, Dec. 16, was made yesterday by Arthur Platten '23, chairman of the athletic committee of the interfraternity council.

Letters will be sent to each fraternity and entries will be received at the athletic department until Dec. 12.

The meet will start at 2 o'clock, Saturday, Dec. 16, in the gym annex. The twelve events which have been carded are the 40-yard dash, 40-yard hurdles, 45-yard low hurdles, 440-yard run, 860-yard run, mile run, two mile run, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, snot put, and relay race, with six men each running one lap.

An entry fee of $5 will be charged to defray the expenses incurred in purchasing six cups for winners.

Five places in each event will count in the scoring, first place getting five, and the next places counting four, three, two and one, with the relay separate and not counting in the general score.

All undergraduates who have not won their "W" in track are eligible to enter the meet, but entries are limited to four men in each event and only three of these men may actually compete.

Badger Fish Will Be One of Best Squads in Big Ten

Wisconsin will be represented by one of the best swimming teams in the conference this year. With only two men lost from last year's squad by graduation the Badgers will be feared by every opponent this year.

Bennett, who was chosen on Spaulding's all conference swimming team last year will be back to repeat his good work again this year. Bennett proved himself to be one of the best swimmers in the conference last year. Czerwany also made a good showing last year in the conference meet and will be a valuable man to the squad this year.

"Jimmy" Hippel captain of the frosh swimming squad last year is also a very good man. Johnson is another good swimmer that came from last year's frosh squad. Page a sophomore is a good diver and will no doubt be called upon to help fill the vacancy left by Captain Collins who graduated last year.

Coach Steinauer is in Chicago this week-end making out the swimming schedule for this year's team. The coach is confident that he can develop as good a team as represented the school last year.

Militarists Will Hop Amid Glaring Spotlights

The admission price is one dollar. Tickets will be on sale at the University Pharmacy, and at the door, or they can be obtained from Sergeant Atkins of the military department or from the company commanders.

"It will be a good party, and we want the support of the entire cadet corps to make it a success as a permanent Wisconsin tradition," said Carl Mohs '24, chairman of the publicity committee.

BREADTH

THE C. I. P. A. convention is over, and tomorrow the habitues of old South hall will settle down to the staid routine of lectures and lab section. Five hundred and seventy high school editors are on their way home to 22 states and soon will be attending their own round of classes.

Yet the convention is not over. For within the week the high school students of 22 states from Pennsylvania to New Mexico will read about Wisconsin in their school papers.

And those papers will be better papers; for their editors have spent the week end in receiving constructive criticisms and ideas for the betterment of their publications.

Wisconsin pioneer in college training for journalism, now pioneers in the high school field with the nation's greatest interscholastic press association, with members from coast to coast.

The object of the press association is not to train journalists in high school, but to stimulate in high school boys and girls an interest in learning to write good, effective English, and to aid them in their endeavor to make their publications worth while.

That it succeeds in its purpose is shown by the enthusiasm of the high school students and the progress which their papers have made since the last convention.

In most ways Wisconsin is anything but provincial. The C. I. P. A. is but one example of the breadth of vision which characterizes the university as a whole.

Yet Wisconsin has remained provincial in athletics, content with sliding down the cellar doors of next door neighbors.

This week will tell whether Wisconsin will venture forth to battle with the gang from the other side of town.

The Conference schedule is made, fairly pleasing with two first class home games.

Students will be satisfied if one of the preliminary games is with a team of recognized prowess.

That would mean an intersection game.

Another indication of Wisconsin's breadth is the activity of the Social Science club, which announces two discussions of important political and industrial problems within the next weeks.

The Social Science club has had to fight against a narrow censorship entirely inconsistent with the attitude of the university as a whole. But the important thing is that it has fought.

That shows that students have absorbed and taken seriously the tradition of intellectual initiative and adventure which permeates the typical Wisconsin classroom.

That tradition was built on a rock by the fearless leaders who founded it. Its foundation remains solid. It would take a mighty strong attack to shake it from the top.

STUDENT ECONOMY

THE Badger campaign this fall was a flivver. The Memorial Union drive was no howling success. The Y. M. C. A. has not reached its quota. We know of no soliciting organization which has had to turn down offers of cash.

Students evidently are not flinging their funds upon the waters with any great degree of enthusiasm.

The football team, however, was well supported. Special trains to Minneapolis, Ann Arbor and Chicago were loaded to the gunwales. Lathrop parlors have not lacked patronage. Theatres have been well patronized. Little Italy, despite the efforts of our journalistic contemporaries, does not look particularly much run down at the heels.

Prom now approaches. Prom, we prophesy, will be a great success. Barbers, hair-dressers, manicurists, silk dealers and vendors of dress suits will lean back in flowery beds of prosperity and look over the catalogues for new model motor cars.

Meanwhile, the Badger, the "Y", the Memorial Union, play the parts of poor relations.

If we were expert economists, we might explain that in erudite terms of supply and demand, marginal utility, and subjective valuation. But we aren't; so we just indicate the contrast.

Draw your own conclusions.

Regents to Consider Men's Dormitory Plan

The question of providing additional dormitories on the university campus will be taken up at the meeting of the board of regents at 10 a. m. next Wednesday. Regents committees will meet all day Tuesday.

"Winter Moon", Delicious Acts Bewitch Crowd

By W. A. F.

More than 250 couples left Lathrop hall last night whistling the lilting strains of "Winter Moon", original fox trot introduced at the Fifth Annual Haresfoot follies and dance.

Incomparable music, delicious acts, bewitching effects, and the right crowd, all made the annual event one long to be remembered, and sustained again Haresfoot's reputation for sponsoring only the highest class of entertainment.

"Foolish Follies", offered by the Sigma Nus was a bright rapid moving quasi-musical comedy, replete with good music played by an orchestra graduated from the best school of jazz, and a chorus, a bit timid, but filled with enthusiasm and pep which the audience thoroughly enjoyed.

Comedy of the burlesque type was introduced in the act by Willis Fanning '23, cleverly disguised with false teeth and red hair and clothes from "way back in the good old days."

The bit of comedy came as a relief in the midst of the racing movement in the first part of the act.

The bright red uniforms of the bell-hop boys contrasted against the conventional black of the tuxedos and the gray of the curtain drops made a kaleidoscope of the rather cramped stage and converted the whole into a whirl of fascinating color.

The soft voice of Frank Wolfe '23, in carrying the lead of the melodies was a great factor in the success of the act. The skit was arranged and directed by Thomas W. Morony '25.

The Haresfoot quartet introduced the feature song of the evening, "Winter Moon", composed by Cecil Brodt '23 and Willard Sumner '23. Marty Below '23 may be a football captain but he is just as much a singer. His lyric voice carrying the melody of the new Haresfoot song, reached every corner of the room and captivated the ears of all listeners. Dave Chudnow and his 10-piece orchestra played during the evening.

S.G.A. TO START VOCATION WORK

Government Body Will Assist Women in Selecting Proper Courses

Plans dealing with women's vocational work at the university have been started by the S.G.A. Vocational committee.

Women who have not decided just what to do after they graduate and who are not sure as to what are the best courses to take towards this work may make appointments with Mrs. Flett, at the dean of women's office, at any time to talk it over.

Mrs. Flett will refer them to the member of the faculty technical committee who will be able to give them specific suggestions as to that line of work after school and the lines to pursue while here to help it. This is a standing committee and meets at intervals to decide matters and to talk over the various problems.

A regular vocational library is kept in the outer office of the dean of women where there are the latest books dealing with vocations as well as current publications. This is for the use of all university women.

The committee which was appointed recently consists of the following: Lois Jacobs '24, chairman; Louise Tobey '24, secretary; Margaret Henry '24, Elizabeth Stoltz '25, Lois Bowen '24, Helen Zeulke '24, and Marion SeCheverell '24 and Frances Warren '24, publicity.

Friday and Saturday the Parkway will present Bille Dove, a "Follies" girl, in her first special photoplay "Youth to Youth", a story of stage life.

Miss West is a native of Wisconsin. She obtained a B.A. from Milton college and a M.A. from Columbia university. At one time she taught in the Madison high school.

Daily Maroon Complains of South Side Cabarets

That University of Chicago students frequent cabarets on the south side within a short distance of the campus is the complaint made recently in a letter published in the Daily Maroon, the university newspaper. While south side resorts, open all night, flaunt their luring advertisements before the students; and university officials do not take preventive action, these places of amusement are bound to be well attended, declared the letter signed "Eloise".

"Alias Julius Caesar" Chuck Full of Comedy

If you have any idea that "Alias Julius Caesar" the latest picture starring Charles Ray, which starts at the Strand Theatre today has anything to do with history, Shakespeare or high brow literature, you're wrong.

It's fun pure and simple; but fun deftly drawn, wholesome and legitimate. It is by far the most humorous contribution Mr. Ray has made to the screen for some months and well up among the good screen comedies of the year.

Barbara Bedford, Eddie Gribbon and Harvey Clark especially give good support but the whole cast is notable for its excellent playing.

The added attractions include, pictures of the Wisconsin-Chicago game, Stan Laurel, star of "Mud and Sand" and his latest two part comedy, "The Egg". Comedy Cartoon and the lastest International News.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE WOMEN?

Birge - Scholar, Scientist, Dean And President

Introduced Microscopic Research Work to American Science

Edward Asahel Birge, scholar, scientist, university president and the first national chief executive of Phi Beta Kappa west of the Alleghenies, was the originator of microscopic work this side of the Atlantic.

President Birge graduated from Williams college in 1873 and in 1878 President Bascom, who taught him at Williams, called him west to the University of Wisconsin. Birge immediately commenced his scientific work which he has continued, off and on, ever since.

An anecdote is told about President Birge in Germany whither he had gone after receiving his degree of doctor of philosophy at Harvard in 1878. He was studying at the University of Leipzig and was offered an opportunity to purchase a high power microscope and a fur coat. Having only enough money to buy one of them, he took the latter.

When he returned to this country he was practically the only man to possess a microscope. It was in this fashion that he introduced the use of scientific research by the microscope into America.

Studied Plankton

With Prof. C. Juday, of the department of zoology, President Birge spent many hours on the waters of Green Lake and other lakes in the southeastern part of Wisconsin studying plankton, the scum-like matter which appears on the surface of bodies of water. Plankton furnishes the nourishment of the small fish which in turn are fed upon by the larger fish of our lakes. It is, consequently, a very important factor in aquatic life.

He Knows the Art of Reading

Later President Birge became interested in water temperature and, with Eric Miller on Lake Mendota, he made many experiments and studies.

It is the opinion of President Birge that very few people know the art of reading. He has his own method, which would probably prove futile with minds less fertile and retaining than his. Reading a long novel would be a matter of a single night with him. A glance at each page is enough to suffice.

Nor does he lose any of the content, for he could give as good a review of the book after reading it in such a fashion as one who had lingered over every word. Nor does he forget; he could give that same resume ten years later.

A Master Of The Classics

Although he has never studied a French grammar he is able to read scientific treatises in that language with little difficulty. Having taken advantage of the classical education offered at the time he went to college, he is a master of Greek and Latin.

Indeed, on a journey, he is wont to carry a volume of Latin poetry and when he conducted a Sunday school class he prepared his lesson from the original Greek of the New Testament. He is especially fond of reading St. Paul in the original and knows most of it by heart.

It was in 1891 that President Birge was made Dean of the College of Letters and Science. When the late President Charles K Adams' health failed in 1920 Birge was made active president until the late President Charles R. Van Hise was given the chair in 1908. At the death of that geologist in November of 1918 President Birge again took the chair as chief executive of the University of Wisconsin.

WOMAN'S BUILDING IS REDECORATED

The Woman's club of Madison has recently had the interior of its building on Gilman street re-decorated and the main auditorium on the second floor and the Badger room on the ground floor are being used for student dances.

New drapes have been hung in both of these rooms and the lighting effects have been materially altered. Eight large chandeliers now hang from the ceiling of the auditorium while shaded lights are used in the Badger room. The floor in the auditorium has been re-finished and a new exit on the east side has been added.

The management of the Woman's club is renting the two rooms for student social functions although the Badger room can be rented directly from the Union Board.

Walpole's Vision Carries Him From Realm Of Poetry To Realm Of Prose

"He sees life steadily and sees it whole—yet keeps his temper and his hopes," said Llewelyn Jones of the Chicago Evening Post, of Hugh Walpole, who will come here January 17 under the auspices of Theta Sigma Phi women's honorary journalistic fraternity.

One who has read his works finds the range of vision of the English novelist surprisingly large. From the world of poetry and imagination to the world of prose and reality he goes, some times dealing with grown people, some times with children he sees life clearly and in its proper perspective.

Joseph Hergesheimer, himself a novelist, says in his little book, "An Appreciation of Hugh Walpole," that to anyone who reads his books the mention of Hugh Walpole's name will set in motion a train of images and of memories of fine books.

Descriptions Charm

"Among them the father of Peter Westcott will appear—a grim evil in a decaying house, heavy with the odor of rotten apples; and, accompanying them the mind will be flooded with the charmed moments of Mr. Walpole's descriptions: Russian nights with frozen stars, rooms swimming placid and strange in old mirrors, golden ballrooms and London dusks, the pale quiver of spring, of vernal fragrance, under the high sooty glass dome of a railroad station," says Mr. Hergesheimer.

"If you love enough we are with you everywhere—forever—that is the word of the little children that stupid people call 'dead'. Always here, playing in the room they love."

Such is the end of The Golden Scarecrow, the story of a dozen children living about a spacious old square in the heart of London. In this book, more than in any other of his novels, Mr. Walpole expresses the forces that probably lie back of life.

Captured Visible World

"There is a wonderful fancifulness in The Golden Scarecrow a mellow and gentle beauty; and a really remarkable ability to enter the children's world, where carpets are vast moors, and the fire whispers secrets, and the lashing out of a whip of wind suggests things vast and secret and perilous," says a criticism of the book of Mr. Walpole's, which, like Barrie's Peter Pan and Maeterlink's Blue Bird, recreates for older readers the magical world of the imagination that plays so large a part in the lives of little folk.

In direct contrast to The Golden Scarecrow is The Green Mirror, of all Walpole's books the most frankly concerned with terrestrial existence, according to Mr. Hergesheimer. No one has had more delight from the visible world than Mr. Walpole, and none has been able to capture it better in words.

Wrote Russian Novels

When the ties of the great and typical English family, of which The Green Mirror tells, were about to be shattered the mirror was broken:

"There was a tinkle of falling glass, and instantly the whole room seemed to tumble into pieces, the old walls, the old prints and water-colors, the green carpet, the solemn bookcases, the large armchairs—and with the room the house, West minister, Garth, Glebshire, Trenchard, and Trenchard traditions—all represented now, by splinters and fragments of glass."

For Mr. Walpole the dark secret of being was always hidden in the heart of Russia. So it was inevitable that he should write Russian novels during his work with the Russian Red Cross during the war. Russian novels they are, but written with none of the hopeless tragedy and the fatalism usually found in stories of the Russian people.

"Secret City" Conceded Best

The Secret City is often conceded to be the best of these. Of it Mr. Hergesheimer says:

"The surprising quality of The Secret City, and which makes any description of it difficult, is that while it is tragedy, it is nowhere oppressive. The obvious reason for this is that the story is vividly interesting—not because it includes a remarkable description of the Russian Revolution, but on account of the humanity and variety of its characters, the depth of emotion and the brilliancy of surface."

"What is the secret of the title? Petrograd? Yes, partly. But much more is it the citadel of the Russian proverb which recites: 'In each man's heart there is a secret town at whose altars the true prayers are offered'"

Quartet Boasts Wide Reputation

The Flonzaley quartet, four European artists from the countries of Italy, Switzerland, France, and Belgium, will give their fourth concert in Madison Monday night, December 4, at Christ Presbyterian church under the auspices of the School of Music.

The quartet is of unusual interest because of its long and successful activity as an organization. It is the only one of its kind equally well-known in Europe and in America, and has been in existence since 1903.

Since its foundation the Flonzaley quartet has made about 1,700 appearances in America and over 500 in Europe. It has aided the promulgation of American music by playing for the first time many works of now prominent American composers.

The first violin, Adolph Betti, is an Italian by birth. Both he and the second violin, a Swiss musician named Alfred Pochon, studied at Leige under Cesar Thompson.

Louis Baily, viola player, was born at Valenciennes, France, studied at the Paris conservatory and toured Europe with the Capet and the Geloso quartets. Iwan d'Archambeau, cellist, a native of Belgium, studied at the Conservatory of Verviers and at Brussels conservatory.

The Flonzaley quartet without doubt represents the acme of artis-

WHAT GOES ON AT U. W. DISPENSARY

A vast wholesale business is being carried on at the university service station on University avenue.

Badger athletes, according to the figures, use miles of adhesive tape annually. So much of it, indeed, is utilized that if the ten yard rolls were joined, they would reach from the capitol to three miles beyond Middleton. A ton of ink is used every year together with some 8,000,000 sheets of paper. Considering the blue books whereon aspiring students jot imbibed knowledge during exams, we find that a supply of 500,000 of them is depleted every school year. Statistics further point that the amount of cakes of soap and towels used at Wisconsin reaches the 6,000 and 2,000,000 mark respectively.

Some of the other items on the books for the year 1921-22 are: 17,000 pounds of white lead, 1,000 yards of window shade cloth, 8,000 dozen pieces of chalk, 8,000 electric bulbs and 55,000 sheets of journal paper.

tic music endeavor," declared Major E. W. Morphy, director of the university orchestra and band. "This organization is in a class by itself and should be heard by every person who loves the beautiful as it is expressed through music."

The program includes Haydn's "Quartet in D major", opus 64, No. 5, the "Quartet in G. Major" by Arnold Box, F. Frank Bride's "The Londonderry Air," and Joseph Speaight's "Puck" from Shakespearean fairy characters.

Professor's Son I Noted Violinist

Few Americans can boast high artistic reputations. Little of the world's best music, painting, sculpturing or writing has had its authorship this side of the Atlantic. And the excuse for such a state of affairs if there is an excuse, is that the United States are still in their childhood.

Yet Gilbert Ross, the nineteen-year-old violinist son of Prof. E. A. Ross of the department of sociology, is doing much to establish a firm musical reputation for America. Young Ross made his musical debut in Berlin several months ago and since then has been hailed by the German critics as a master of the violin. His younger brother, Lester, is a sophomore in the university.

Ross has been studying the technique of the violin ever since he has been able to hold an instrument. For two years he took lessons in Chicago. He then studied in New York for two more years and last summer he sailed for the "land of melody."

Prof. Charles E. Mills, head of the School of Music, has translated the Berlin newspaper reviews of Ross' concerts. Typical excerpts from these reviews are given here.

"In Gilbert Ross we made the acquaintance of a violinist of great technical qualities," says the writer for Die Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung.

Boys Of 1862 Didn't Enjoy Drill Either

Armory Was Among Best of Its Kind at Time of Erection

Drill at the University of Wisconsin has a history.

According to information derived from a Badger dating back to 1823, drill was first instituted in 1862. The boys (if that's the term, for we must remember that the oldest member of the class of '92 was 43 years old) wore pretty uniforms in those early days. It was of the full dress type of the United States army.

For drill the cadets doffed their high derbys and exchanged them for the low smashed-front caps characteristic of the kind worn by the Union forces during the Civil War. Their officers; e. g., those who wore shoulder straps, carried swords during parade, and no small number of them possessed full grown mustaches.

Colonel Pease was the first commandant at Wisconsin. In the year of his stay a department of engineering and military tactics was established. A four year course was also outlined. It embraced military subjects such as military engineering, ordnance, gunnery and practice of court martial. The students did not take enthusiastically to drill however, and consequently no one enrolled for the course.

Parades Did Not Help

The inauguration of the custom of selecting officers from the upper classmen in 1871 and the coming of the battalion band in 1885 under Lieutenant Lomia did not increase interest in drill. Parades and marshal strains did not stir the souls of the cadets.

The man in charge was a strict disciplinarian and the story is told of how once the students sought respite from drill by stealing the upper bands of their rifles. Their attempt failed, however, for the crafty lieutenant saw to it that drill was carried on with heavy muskets brought from the capitol. The boys in blue then sweated under rifles that were much heavier than those of the cadet type.

The next commandant moved the battalion from its ancient quarters in the old gymnasium to Library hall—which is now called Music hall. The writer of the Badger article states that even the new quarters were inadequate to the needs of the department.

Rates Armory High

It can be seen that the completion of the present armory was anticipated at that time, for this article of 1893 ends thus: "The new armory is to be one of the finest of its kind in the land; let us hope that our battalion may attain similar rank among university military organizations of the country."

Today the University cadet corps is an honor organization, having been distinguished among colleges five times by the war department.

And the armory? Well, it was heralded as one of the finest of its kind in the country once, anyway.

Promoters of New Hotel to Meet Monday

Clarenback in City to Arrange Details for Big Project

Madison's new million dollar hotel project took another step forward today when Ernst Clarenback who will build the hotel, came to the city to complete final arrangements. All obstacles have now been removed and a campaign for placing $200,000 in first preferred stock with Madison business and professional men will be put on at once.

Campaign headquarters have been opened in room 212, First Central building, with F. W. Huels, campaign chairman, in charge. Mr. Huels is at work perfecting a large organization of local business men who will assist in the sale of this stock. Fifty local men have already agreed to act as volunteer salesmen. When fully organized, the sales force will consist of nearly 200 men. A whirlwind campaign lasting seven days is planned.

Monday night there will be a meeting of all those who will assist in the campaign. This meeting will probably be held at the Madison club. The project will be fully explained to them and the campaign will be on. Madison has been talking about a new hotel for 10 years. Here is Madison's chance to say whether it really wants one.

Conference Approves Research University

The project for a graduate agricultural research university, suggested by Dr. E. B. Ball, director of scientific work at the United States Department of Agriculture, met with decided approval by the conferees at the recent Association of Land Grant Colleges conference held in Washington, D. C.

"It would be a fine movement if a graduate school were established, but until the tremendous financial backing necessary is obtained, nothing definite can be done towards the realization of this plan," is the opinion of Professor Russell, Dean of the College of Agriculture.

Dr. Ball claims that "the first fundamental to a program of national research development, is the encouragement of graduate training in scientific and agricultural lines, such as would be secured in a national graduate university." While it will require some amount of time to carry the project through to completion, agriculturists can lay the foundation by rousing public sentiment on agricultural research, so that the people as a whole will realize its importance to the nation.

Normal Regents Will Name Pearse Successor

An acting president of the Milwaukee Normal school to succeed President Carroll G. Pearse, resigned, will probably be named at a meeting of the state board of normal school regents this month, William Kittle, secretary, announced today. Mr. Kittle said that the resignation of President Pearse had been expected by the board for some time, as it had been indirectly informed that he intended to enter the Washington office of the National Educational association.

The weather today was in marked contrast to Dec. 2, 1921. Last year was a cold drizzle of rain and sleet fell all day, followed by a bitter cold wave toward evening.

ung." He had a brilliant command of the bow."

"The violinist, Gilbert Ross, who played at the Bechstein hall, showed good ability," according to the Borsen-Courier. "The young man made a thoroughly sound impression. I believe that one can predict a future for him."

That the violinist will soon belong to the elect of his profession is the opinion of Die Munchener Zeitung. "Touch and bow technique are hardly capable of greater perfection," the reviewer asserts. "The intonation is of flawless purity, the tone is great, beautiful and of sensuous appeal."
