THE LEADER.

Items gathered here and there
Yes in fact from everywhere,
With true energy and grit
For your personal benefit,
A note of every wedding,
Birth and Death; or silent treading
Of young men who, sometimes room,
Cautiously towards "her" home.
Deals in dirt or real estate;
Screeching of the garden gate,
Fines collected in the courts,
Various grain and crop reports,
Fish stories of worthy not;
When to don your winter coat,
What the hunters have to say,
When a wild goose is astray,
How to find a place to buy,
Where the price is not too high,
Where to go to have some fun,
What a business here is done,
Prospects of what is to be;
Chances how to get a "V"
And then how to spend it best
By the ads which gives you rest,
We're not here for fun you know,
(Otherwise we come to woe)
Nor for glory nor for fame,
But we get there just the same,
Ever glad to get the news
Rather than to take a "snooze,"
You know that yourself dear reader;
You're glad to get THE LEADER.

Now everybody get into the band wagon and lead the procession to my store. I have a fine line of Candy, Nuts, Fire Crackers, Oyster Cracker and Cockles of all kinds at less money than you can afford to bake them these hot days. CHAS. W. BROS.

Go to Murphy & Young's hardware for custom made hardware,
the best in the market.

One hundred and nineteen years ago to-day the streets of Philadelphia were crowded with excited citizens in anticipation of a great event. Congress which was assembled at that place, had under consideration and was to reach the final decisions of a move that was to declare the United Colonies of America, thenceforth "free and independent states". So it was that July 4th 1776 the Declaration of Independence was adopted and the news spread like wild fire, being hailed with joy everywhere, it was the birth of American freedom. For more than a century the stars and strips on this day, have been thrown to the breeze with more or less formality throughout the union. Only the memory lives of those who were instrumental in bringing about this important move but the freedom they instituted lives still and we gather here, at Arcadia to-day to celebrate the event with great pomp and order. You have come, some of you, many miles to spend the day with us and in behalf of Arcadia, THE LEADER bids you all a hearty welcome, wishing you a very enjoyable time and that you may take with you no unpleasant reminiscences by being in our midst. Flags are waving, and the strains pouring forth from the Arcadia Cornet Band inspire true patriotism and everything assumes the appearance of a great national day indeed, even the water in the Trempealeau River seems to flow along more gracefully and peacefully, while we might be led to believe that the foliage on its banks has taken on a tinge of richer hue as we parade the streets of Arcadia.

A young gentleman and lady met at Massure's corner this morning, and after a hearty greeting, and the weather subject was exhausted, the conversation continued about as follows: Responding to the question: "How did you get on?" the young man gave a pallid face and quivering lips.) Do you intend to stay for the dance to-night?

She—Oh yes indeed!
He—May I have the pleasure—
But he was interrupted by another young fellow who stepped forward with a familiar air and locked arms with the young lady, saying:
Guess we'll walk down street to see the parade start. The crest fallen fellow stood aghast while a wicked little boy called out: "Did you ever get left? Pop goes the weasel!"

Follow the parade to the picnic grounds so that you will not miss any amusements of the day. The reading of the Declaration of Independence by Martin L. Fugina followed by an oration by Benj.
F. Richmond will take place this forenoon.

The force which adorns the depot platform at train time every day, was considerably augmented when the train arrived this morning, it being the Fourth; as many met friends who came on the train to spend the day with us.

Last evening Ferdinand Dressen-dorfer met with an accident; he fell and received a gash across his nose which necessitated sewing up. He is doing nicely this morning.

A team took fright at the canonading while crossing the river bridge this morning which nearly resulted in a runaway. The ladies screamed of course.

The renowned Hill's orchestra of Wauona will furnish the music for the dance in Grossman's mammoth hall to-night. Are you in it?

Rough handling usually wears out the outside of a purse but this is a day that, as a rule, wears out the inside of it.

Everybody is apparently happy that to-day is the Fourth of July, but oh! my what a chance to-morrow morning.

Leiningger, the jeweler, repairs watches, clocks, etc. Call on him while in town.

Remember, ye dancers, that a dance is now in progress in the Arcadia hall and will continue all night.

The streets of Arcadia are beautifully decorated to-day and everything looks inviting.

Enjoy yourself while you can,
for another Fourth of July you may not live to see.

Just hear the cannon roar,
John Penell is at the helm.

Dinner will be served near the picnic grounds.
Hurrah! For the Fourth.

HERE WISDOM DWELLS

University of Wisconsin the Home of Much Learning.

ON PRETTY MADISON HILLS.

Sketch of the Badger State College, Its Students, Its Faculty and Its Institutions.

The University of Wisconsin, like "Mount Zion, the city of the great king," is "beautiful for situation," and builded evidently with the idea of lasting forever, without necessity for any making-over in days to come.

These are the two salient points which at once impress the visitor—the solidity of the university buildings and the extreme natural beauty of the campus. After this first impression others are added and the visitor becomes aware of structures in which the elements of architecture are sadly mixed, of buildings adequate and inadequate, of outlying scenery and a bald stretch of athletic grounds, where weird noises celebrate a Cadmean victory among rival football teams. But all these things are as an aftermath. They have nothing to do with the beginning.

Like most of the state universities, Wisconsin is patterned largely after Michigan, but there is an acute differentiation for all of that. The university at Madison has cream and cheeses in such fashion, but there is much more to this scientific dairying. There are no microbes in these outputs. A handsome professor of microbes—no, beg pardon, bacteriology, which sounds much better but means quite the same thing—and who has studied with Pasteur and with Koch, rises to explain. The milk is either Pasteurized or sterilized. By heating it to 155 degrees and then cooling it the matured germs are destroyed and the milk is rendered healthy. Of course the professor is wise and resourceful and abundantly able to provide any species of milk-germ to order, but most people feel more like having theirs extracted—or killed—after a visit to this immaculate dairy. There are some two hundred students in this department at present, most of them farmers' sons, who thus gain practical knowledge and become benefactors to the butter-eating, cream-loving public.

The engineering department of the university is a matter of pride as the library motion comes neither from the east, nor from the west, nor from the south."

All four-year graduates from inspected and approved state high schools are accepted at Madison without further examination. There are nine fellowships and a number of scholarships, and necessarily, being a state institution, the university is non-sectarian. In Madison, however, there are enough churches to look after their own, and they do it.

The faculty might be described as "a youngish body of Ph. D.'s." Professor Richard Ely is widely known as a writer on social evolution; Professor E. A. Birge, dean of the college of letters, is eminent, able and popular, both in the university and as an extension lecturer; Professor Freeman, of the English department, is one of the favorite lecturers of the state; Professor George C. Comstock, a Michigan man and the director of the observatory, is recognized as one of the strong men in the scientific world; Professor J. W. Stearns is a Harvard man who timidly to "prexy's home" go away after a warm handclasp and a few pleasant words feeling that Mrs. Adams has in each of them a vital and personal interest. This rich, social life does much for the students in preparing them for the time when they shall go forth into the world and be part of it. Especially is this true of the country lads and lasses who come to Madison utterly lacking in savoir faire and learn of the gentleness of life less by precept than by example. One large room in the president's home is called "the student's room." It is kept ready for any tired or homesick ones, ready in its brightness and provision for the mind.

Not alone in social but in spiritual and intellectual ways is Mrs. Adams the student's friend. With a gift for poesy and a soft, full voice, well-modulated and trained, Mrs. Adams is ready with timely ode or sonnet or hymns, or even a speech or lecture upon some timely subject. Her commencement ode, written for the class of '94, was warmly admired and commended by Oliver Wendell Holmes no longer ago than July. It is full of deep religious fervor and high encouragement. For instance:

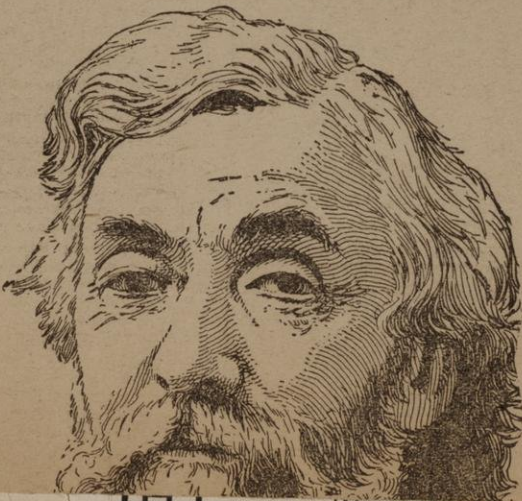

And doubt not
Life will yield its own to each.
Let nothing slip beyond your reach,
For in its wise economy
All things are good. To use aright
Is the true secret of the master's might.

Mrs. Adams is the author of an epithalamium which was brought out in exquisite form by an eastern firm and illustrated by Dora Wheeler Keith. Some of the designs were afterward used in the Woman's Building at the world's fair. Several of her hymns, notably "Scars," have been quoted all over the English-speaking world. Mrs. Adams is at present engaged upon a volume of Shakespearean studies, soon to appear in book form.

President and Mrs. Adams are members of the Congregational church, but are best described by the wider title of "Christians."

Some College Organizations.

The varsity organizations are fairly numerous, and as a rule are supported by the faculty as well as by the alumni. There

Dr. Bashford adverted to the distribution of wealth, commenting upon assertions made by individuals as carried too far. "It will be done on earth as it is in heaven," earnestly to-day, "The kingdom come, Thy republic is doomed. TRADE MARK

Did you ever see one of the famous waterproof Interlined Collars or Cuffs? It's very easy to tell, for they are all marked this way

They are the only Interlined Collars and Cuffs, and are made of linen, covered with waterproof "ELLULOID." They'll stand right by you day in and day out, and they are all marked this way

The first cost is the only cost, for they keep clean a long time, and when soiled you can clean them in a minute by simply wiping off with a wet cloth—that is the kind marked this way

These collars and cuffs will outlast six linen ones. The wearer escapes laundry trials and laundry bills—no chafed neck and no willing down if you get a collar marked this way

Ask your dealer first, and take nothing that has not above trade mark. All others are imitations absolutely. You desire perfect satisfaction.

NOTICE

In order to be prompt with my orders in the Spring, I will give 15 per cent. discount on all orders for A. Kellner's Gas Range Combination until Jan. 1, 1895. As A. Kellner's Gas Range Combination for fuel stoves takes up no extra room, therefore it will be no inconvenience to my patrons to have their work done now. Those intending to buy a Gas Range will find it to their advantage to call and see A. Kellner's Gas Range Combination for Fuel Stoves, at 260 Twenty-first street.

A. Kellner's Gas Range Combination for Fuel Stoves is equal to the high-priced Gas Range and does not cost half the amount as that of a gas range.

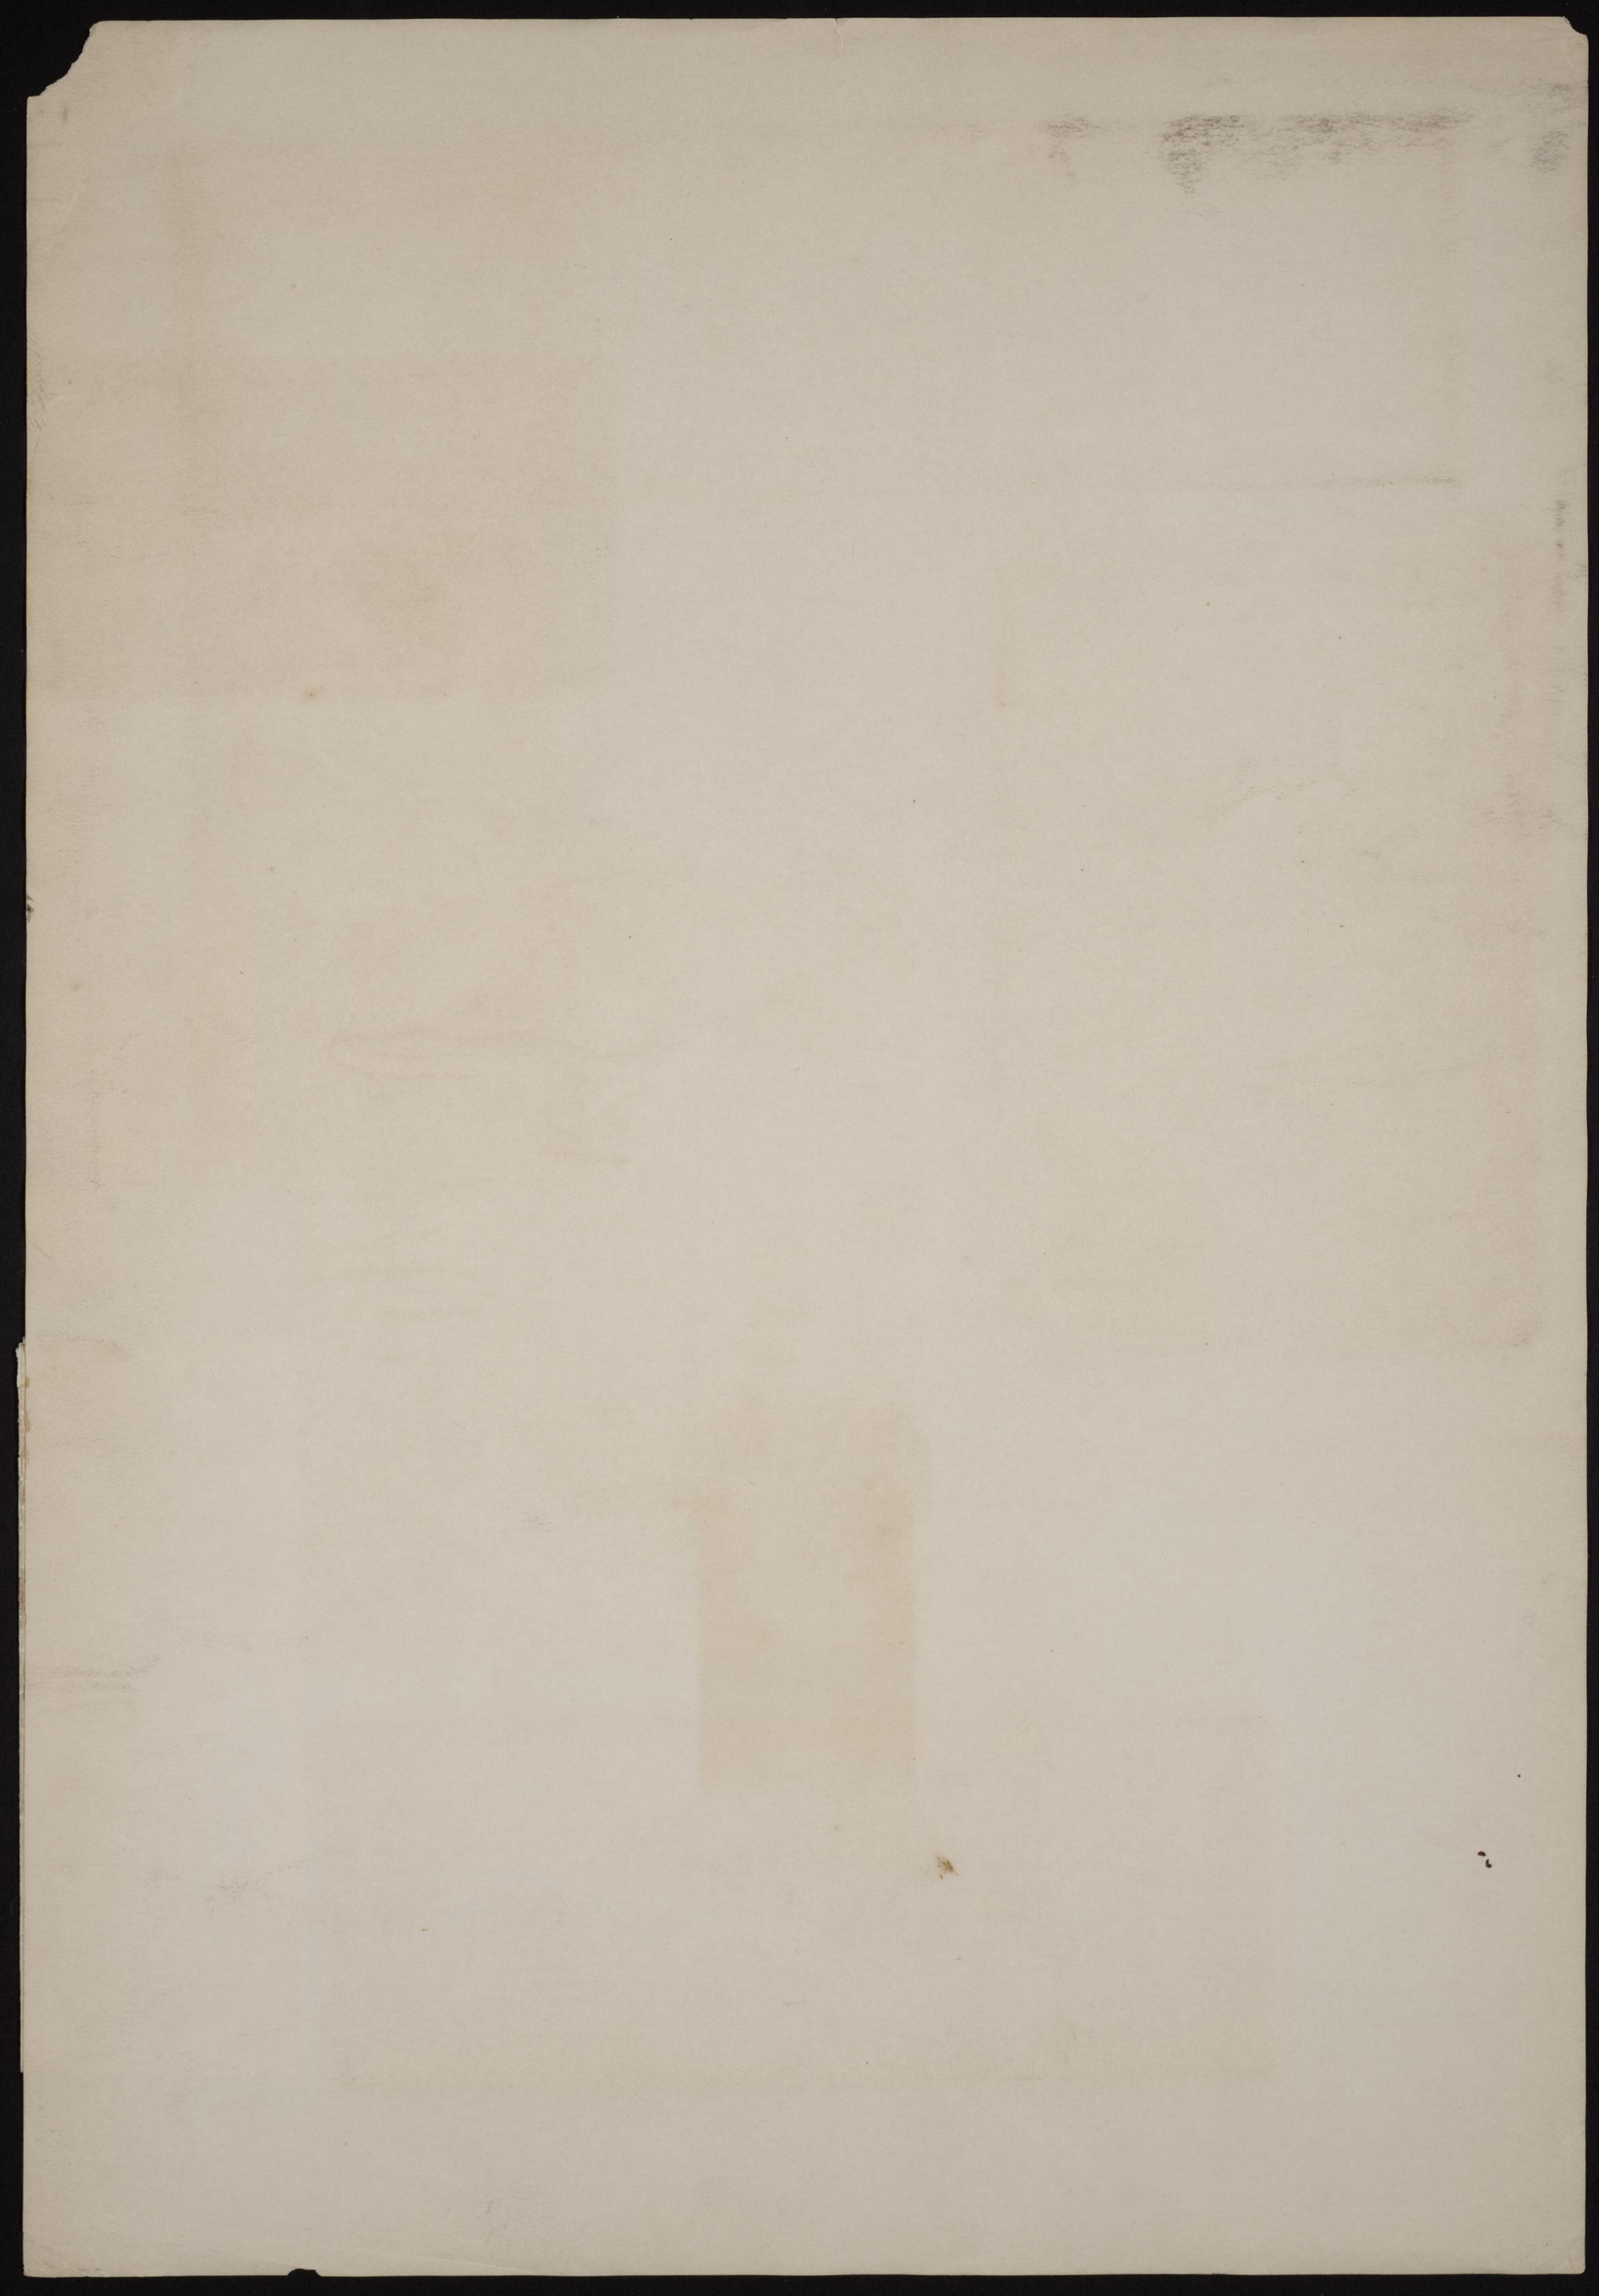

I am also agent for a Cook Stove which is adapted to be used for either gas or coal, which I offer at about wholesale price. Any information will be cheerfully given on application.

grown more slowly than the university at Ann Arbor, but on the other hand the buildings of the former have been more carefully and substantially erected. At Wisconsin there has been no attempt to build up great professional schools. There is a law school with a high standard and 206 students, but until last year it was not closely incorporated with the university, but conducted over at the capitol. No school of medicine has ever been established there because of the difficulty of building up a good one without juxtaposition to large hospitals. Some day, however, the faculty hopes for the establishment of a well-equipped laboratory for the pursuit of investigation along the lines of pathological science. But this, at present, is an expense that the university feels unable to incur.

Has a Fine Gymnasium.

Strongly manned for graduate work are the departments of Greek, Latin, political economy, history and pure science, though the current has hardly set in as yet, and as for athletics Wisconsin's teams have told their story for themselves whenever they have taken their walks abroad! Clearly the wearers of the cardinal should be athletic, for unto them has been given what is one of the finest college gymnasiums in the country. It is a huge, castle-like structure, remarkable for its extraordinary strength and beauty of symmetry rather than elegance of finish. Its enormous hall, which is well equipped with the inquisition-like instruments of physical culture, is famous also for its acoustic properties, and is occasionally cleared of its vaulting and pulling machines, its foils and masks and clubs and dumbbells and horizontal bars, and filled instead with meek and lowly chairs, of which 3,000 can be neatly placed. And then there is an audience-room fit for a queen of song or an empire of orchestra!

In such wise was the great building opened with Handel's "Messiah," given by a chorus of 155 voices. This is the choral union in connection with the university. There is a regular school of music in process of organization, but at present it is simply a department, with a professor and instructor.

The gymnasium is more than a gymnasium—it is also an armory, for military drill is required of all male students in their freshman and sophomore years. Hugh Jocelyn McGrath, first lieutenant, Fourth Cavalry, U. S. A., is professor of military science and tactics. On the ground floor of the great building are a number of shower and plunge baths and a swimming tank 28 by 80 feet. There are also bowling alleys, rifle ranges, a running track, a baseball cage and large rooms for rowing machines on the different floors. It is a great gymnasium.

Has a Magnificent Campus.

In the matter of its plant—to use a commercial phrase—the University of Wisconsin is one of the finest educational institutions in the United States. Certainly nowhere else is there a campus so rich in natural beauty, with its 270 acres of land, one mile of which stretches along the lake shore.

Fourteen buildings are already erected, eight of which are stone. There are also half a dozen farm buildings, a great boat-house, and a small observatory abutting the larger observatory, which is called after ex-Governor Washburn, and where meteorological observations are regularly taken and communicated to the weather bureau at Washington. There is always this to be said by way of disparagement of Wisconsin University, that its first three buildings were modeled after the main building of the University of Michigan, but whereas at Ann Arbor the central hall is flanked by two lesser ones, at Madison the three stand definitely apart. This somewhat dissipates the force of the aggregate architectural blow and renders it less crushing.

These pioneer buildings were erected in 1849 and continue to carry on the business at the same old stand, which speaks volumes for their stability, if nothing for their beauty. University Hall, which is used for lectures and recitations, crowns the summit of the tallest eminence in this city of two hills. From its ancient portico the view is superb. There is the grassy rampart of the campus sloping down to the athletic grounds and the beginning of the town, which rears its villa-crested head until it wears the coronet of the capitol, high on the second hill. For it is the secondary hill, as is indisputably proved by the fact that in the dome of University Building is the water-tank which supplies the state capitol. It is significant—the state and the school—but the school always a little bit higher! It is a symbol which marks all the tendency of the place—a community so made up of thoughtful folk, and learned folk, and folk given over to the service of the state, that wisdom may indeed be said to cry without and to utter her voice in the street.

In the Agricultural Branch.

Here in this busy place, where a constant range of classes makes the days go swifter than a weaver's shuttle, is education differentiating for all sorts and conditions of men. Not only are there letters and law and science and music and mechanic arts for those who will, but there is good and sufficient training in peaceful pastoral things. One of the halls is given over to an agricultural college, which is considered all over the country as successful and influential. The farmers' institutes connected with this college—a sort of university extension applied in good form to agriculture—are held every winter in different parts of the state. They have attained a good deal of fame and the state appropriates $12,000 a year to support them. The university course in agriculture embraces agricultural chemistry, agricultural physics, animal husbandry and branches having an agricultural bearing, as botany, zoology and geology.

There is also a course in dairying. The dairy building is a fascinating place, with its dripping, tessellated floors, its walls and equipment white with exquisite cleanliness and its concatenation of sweet, wholesome odors. Here in a huge vat is a frothy, delicious burden of cream, here in another is a lot of young cheese, carefully wrapped in swaddling clothes, and over farther are pots of butter, pure golden as is a dandelion and a great deal sweeter to smell. It seems art enough to learn how to keep the place so spotlessly pure and to turn out butter and department is one of regret. Not that there is a lack of books; it is space that is needed. The "old Gothic building at the foot of the hill," as a verse-making student apostrophizes it, is charming enough on the outside but atrociously inadequate within. It is not nearly large enough for its equipment, and though at the capitol there is a splendid historical library of 167,000 volumes, together with 9,000 bound volumes of newspapers outside the state and all of the publications within it, time is short and the walk is long. What is wanted is for the state library to come to the university instead of the university going to the state library. To this end a new library building is needed. There is plenty of room on the campus.

The school of engineering is more thoroughly organized and equipped than most schools similarly placed. It has seven full professors and many assistants, besides a considerable number of instructors. The chemical and physical laboratories, the laboratories mineralogical, petrographical, biological bacteriological and psychological are well manned, and equipped, the law building and department leaves nothing to be desired, Science Hall with its massive renaissance architecture is a delight to the eye as well as to the intellect, and the school of economics and political science with Professor Richard Ely at its head is peculiarly strong.

"Co-Eds" Always There.

The University of Wisconsin has been co-educational from the beginning, so that there has never been any prejudice or comment or bickering regarding the system. There are about three hundred women students at present, about sixty of them living in Ladies' Hall, the only dormitory connected with the institution, the rest either living in town or in sorority houses. It is all eminently a matter of personal choice. At the dormitory board and rooms are provided at low rates, there is an efficient matron in charge, and an excellent gymnasium with an instructor.

If being co-educational from the start is has had wide experience as the head of the state normal schools, and was chosen by the government of Brazil to organize a school system there. He is at the head of the departments of philosophy and pedagogy. C. R. Van Hise, professor of geology, is one of the first authorities in the country in his specialty. He had charge of an important section of the United States geological survey.

Of such stuff is the faculty made. There are four or five professors past middle age, but the majority of them are young men.

President C. K. Adams.

At the head of the faculty is President Charles Kendall Adams, LL. D., who was for twenty-eight years at the University of Michigan, running the gamut from a freshman to professor of history and dean of the school of political science. It was twenty-eight years of continual toil and achievement, and the full record is as a strong inspiration to the poor farmer's boy with ambition. For seven following years Dr. Adams was president of Cornell University, a position he resigned in 1892, intending to devote the rest of his life to the writing of history. He was, however, persuaded to re-enter the educational work and become president of the University of Wisconsin in January, 1893.

Dr. Adams is a man of great naturalness, sympathy and earnestness. He is almost phenomenally industrious, yet, like those who accomplish most, has ever time to spare to those who need him. Of him might well be said:

"This noble ensample to his shepe he yaf,
That first he wrought, and afterwards he taught."

He is very loyal and his eyes kindle at the mention of his Alma Mater, whose local habitation he knows as it is given to few others to know, and yet beneath the sweep of his fine gray beard glimmers ever the bright cardinal tie—the color of the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Adams is chief editor of Johnson's Universal Cyclopædia, having as his associates thirty-five of the most prominent scholars in the responsible for the general manners and decorum of the university, then the system cannot be too highly extolled. "Hazing" and "rushes" are unknown at Madison, and no visitor can fail to be struck with the earnestness and repose visible individually and collectively as several hundreds of students pour out of University Hall at noon or after some important lecture or recitation. They might be an orderly congregation coming from church or a gathering of "elegantes" dispersing from some fashionable entertainment, for all the racket and disorder that prevails. Still, they are not prigs. They have learned how and where to be calm, that is all.

Perhaps much of this is due to the situation of the university at a capital town where necessarily the social environment is excellent. The governor and state officials reside there, and whenever society is at its best there is the university student also. Among the girls there has grown up the feeling that to be in the university, and to be known as belonging to it, is a great social credit, and so the most fashionable girls, the best-mannered girls, as well as the girls who love learning for learning's sake, foregather at the buildings on College hill and are all the brighter and better and more fitted to adorn the world because of their experience there. They do not wear cap and gown. Neither faculty nor students do that, but the stamp and mark ineffaceable of a higher education is set upon them, and even a heedless world sees and reflects and approves.

Good Students, Good Faculty.

Truly a "fashion of propriety" may be said to prevail among the 1,500 students at Madison. Most of them are sons and daughters of Wisconsin, constitutional provision being made for the free tuition of such, but last year twenty-six states were represented, some of the students sons of wealthy parents, others working their way through the course, and each striving toward the same ultima Thule, "for pro-each have houses of their own and some have not. Athenaia was the first literary society in the university. It has existed over forty-three years, has had over eight hundred names upon its rolls and has come out of thirteen joint debates scarred but victorious. The Hesperia is forty years old—the age of the modern charming woman—only, who ever saw a woman of forty?

Speaking of the fair sex, "Castalia" has lived for thirty years, and is made up entirely of women. It is needless to say that no charter members are ever present. "Laurea" is also feminine—and young. "Philomathia" is seven years old—and masculine. "The Forum" was born in 1889, and is supposed to be earnest and learned in its membership. There are two law societies, the "E. C. Ryan" and the "Columbian Law Society." There is a pharmaceutical society, an oratorical league and an oratorical association, also a chemical club, a "Channing club" for the free and unbiased discussion of live questions in social science and political philanthropy. Mrs. Florence Kelley, of Hull House, Chicago, has given recently an interesting talk before the Channing. There is the Bildungsverein, or German literary society of the university; the Nora Samlag, or Scandinavian society; the Joint Debate League, the U. W. Social Club and the University Press Club. There is also a Young Men's Christian Association, a young women's ditto and a club for Catholic students, called the Melvin, so that every one has his or her place in some organization to fit.

As for the musical end of student life there is no lack because of a glee club, a choral club, a banjo club, a mandolin club, a university band and an orchestra.

In athletics there is a university association with a football department (as a good many other colleges here learned by experience), a tennis department, a baseball department and an aquatic department. There are also curling, cycling and canoe clubs.

Among the sororities and fraternities are chapters of the Beta Theta Pi, the Gamma Phi Beta, the Delta Gamma, Delta Upsilon, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Phi Delta Theta, Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Psi, Chi Psi, Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Phi and the Delta Tau Delta. The enthusiasm in these societies is said to be as spontaneous and genuine as it was forty years ago, and the "joint debate" as heartily prepared and argued.

Prominent Chicago Graduates.

Many prominent Chicago men have graduated from Wisconsin, among them James M. Flower, class of '59; Bishop Samuel Fallows, class of '62; William P. Powers, of Powers' Duplex Regulator Company, class of '63; Farlin Q. Ball, attorney, '61; William B. Church, '61; James Lambert High, '67; Philip Stein, '68; Dr. Charles Harrison Vilas, '73; Dr. John G. Taylor, '69; Arthur Chetlain, '72; Dr. Willis Frederick Cobb, '74; Gottlieb Engel, attorney, '70; Stephen Strong Gregory; Dr. Jerome Henry Salisbury, Rush Medical College, '78; William Street, '74; Mrs. W. G. Chandler, '75; Charles Fred Harding, '79; H. A. Odell, attorney, '75; Charles Ernest Pickard, '75; Dr. George Cassius Synon, '75; Miss Helen Dougal Street, '79; Harlow W. Eaton, '78; Orson Wells Ray, '78; Dr. Fred B. Robinson, Rush Medical College, '78; Charles Quincy Albertson, '79; Kemper K. Knapp, '82; Dr. John Milton Dodson, '82; Dr. Alvirus Nelson Hitchcock, D. D., '85; Dr. Louisa Martin, '86; Charles H. Kerr, '81; Lawrence Peterson Conover, '85; Henry Church Hullinger, '85; Dr. William Ernest Kramer, St. Luke's Hospital, '87; Miss May Sylvia Tenny, '92; Robertus Francesco Troy, '87; Ambrose Pare Winston, '87; James Sylvester Bacon, '87; Louis Blatz, '88; Edward Daniel Swineburne, '88; Samuel L. Brown, '89; Edwin Naffz, '89; William Chase Bennett, '90; Walter Frederick Seymour, '90; John Leslie Shepard, '90; D. Edward Webster, '91; George Edwin Frost, '91; Mrs. J. A. Woodford, Mrs. Thomas J. Gill, Dr. Edward B. M. Brown, Henry Spencer Robbins, Hempstead Washburne, Edward Ryan Woodle, William Windsor, J. K. Tenny.

There is an enthusiastic alumni association in Chicago, with George E. Waldo as president, and there are equally vigorous alumni associations in Milwaukee and St. Paul. The university is proud of having among its graduates Senator Vilas and ex-Senator Spooner, each at the head of his political party in the state. Mr. La Follette and Burr W. Jones are other graduates unknown to fame, and several of the faculty own Wisconsin for their alma mater.

The students from Chicago entering for the first year this term are: Farlin H. Ball, Emily J. Hill, Edward A. Iverson, Richard L. Jones, Amelia McMin, Edith B. Pingree, Edmund J. Rendtorff, Robert Richardson, Sidney W. Smith, John B. Stearns, Frank Wilkinson.

The College Publications.

Worthy of note are the college publications—the Badger, an annual; the Cardinal, a daily, so-named, some say, because it is red; the Exis, a monthly, and those bulletins which contain the results of original investigation in the university. Of the latter there are four series being brought out in excellent form, the state providing for their publication. The series is: 1. Investigation in economics, political science and history; 2. Investigation in pure science; 3. In applied science; 4. In literature. The last bulletin so issued was on "The Geographical Distribution of the Vote of the Thirteen States on the Federal Constitution." The works are published with great completeness under editorial supervision and that of a committee of the multitude of councillors there is safety.

In such works as these speed the students of Wisconsin. In their leisure moments they have their chain of perfect lakes, wherefrom, if fisherman's traditions tell true, it is quite possible to draw out leviathan with a hook; their woods, now in an autumn livery of crimson and gold and russet brown, and the sweet demesnes that thereby lie. It is a beautiful country, with fifteen miles of drives through private grounds, where the lake shines like a mirror dropped into the lap of the fair landscape, and the ravines are great gashes in mother earth, red with the blood of the sumach, and the air is full of piny odors, while the sun gleams pure gold through the flame-shaped tops of the trees and the dropping of leaf is heard on leaf. There, in that crystal-clear air the sunset hues are as delicate as those over Como, and the glimpse of sky, deepened and concentrated where it appears through an opening in the woods, shines as the heart of a rose. The poet of the university, Charles Floyd McClure, a

Mrs. Adams and Her Home.

In all the best social life of the university Mrs. C. K. Adams, wife of the president, is a potent factor. A gentlewoman by divine right, tactful and sweet, Mrs. Adams is one of those rare women cultured of heart as well as of mind. Her beautiful home is filled with trophies of many lands, mosaics, tapestries, priceless old laces of which the secret is forever lost, carvings, porcelain, jade, strange books and curios, for Mrs. Adams knows her Europe as most of us know our native state—or better. But what is remarkable is that not a single article stands out aggressive in all that spacious home. Nothing says, "Look at me," but each blends with each in a harmonious whole. That is the intangible atmosphere and charm of the house and its occupants. They all seem, somehow, to "belong," and dwelling awhile beneath the roof gives a sensation of warfare past and the millennium begun.

Once a month Mrs. Adams entertains for the students, and freshmen who come

"German favors department," she said, before I had fairly told my errand.

"But I've just come from there," I said.

"Then ask the floorwalker," she returned.

I sighed and hunted up another floorwalker.

"Candy," he said briefly.

"No," I replied. "I've tried that."

"German favors," he suggested.

"I've tried that, too," I said.

"Um, ah, you want these little candle holders for a cake?"

"Yes."

"Of course, of course. You'll find those in the toy department. I didn't quite understand you at first."

I tried the toy department at four different places in the section devoted to it and met with a disappointment at each. I admit that my temper was getting a little the better of me, but I persisted. I tried another floorwalker and he started to go over the same old list, but I stopped him.

"I've tried candy, German favors and toys," I said.

"You have?"

"I have."

"Well, then, I guess we don't keep them."

"And it has taken me nearly an hour to find that out," I said. "What a help a floorwalker is to a purchaser!"

He did not seem to like that remark, but it seemed to me I was letting him down easy. What do you think about it?

Then I went to the other department store, and my experience was so nearly like that in the first that it is unnecessary to go into details further than to say that the hardware department was added to the list that I visited by advice of a floorwalker. Then I went out and got what I wanted at a store that was not of the department variety, and finally got really started for home an hour and a half late.

Now, Mr. Editor, in view of all the circumstances, I want to know if I haven't good reason to kick—not because they did not keep the things that I wanted, but because they persistently claimed that they did.

Complaint of a Tenant.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Editor of The Evening Post: Why should not people who live in steam-heated flats be made to learn something about the handling of the steam coils? I live in a row of flat buildings, all heated from the same plant, but my flat happens to be one of those farthest away from the boilers. Naturally the steam reaches the others first, and the moment they think it is getting a little too warm they rush to the engineer and complain, instead of turning the steam off themselves. He then lets the fires go down, often before the steam has reached my flat. Then I complain and he says: "Why, Mrs. Jones asked me to shut down a little because her flat was getting too warm." Can you imagine anything more idiotic than that? Yet it has happened a dozen times recently. Of course there will be no such trouble in very cold weather when every one wants all the heat he or she can get, but it seems to me it is inexcusable at any time. The engineer is the only one who can supply the steam, but any one who isn't a fool can turn it off. Isn't that right?

Complains of the Judges.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Editor of The Evening Post: Upon what theory of justice are judges permitted to abandon all their regular duties before an important election and make themselves the creatures of campaign committees? There are judges in Cook County who have not had a session of court for the transaction of ordinary business for two or even three weeks. During that entire time they have been at the beck and call of campaign managers for the purpose of naturalization. In other words, the operation of their courts, aside from naturalization, has been suspended, important cases have been neglected, the dockets have become crowded, and Chicago will suffer for it for some time to come. Is it fair to permit the politicians to stop ordinary court work? Is it right that judges should place themselves under the orders of campaign committees for weeks at a time and neglect everything else for that, as some of them have done? There is certainly room for reform here.

Chiron and Charon.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Editor of The Evening Post: Who and what was Chiron in mythology? I never heard the name until recently and was under the impression that the man who used it meant Charon, but a companion disputed it. Was I right?

L. E. STOKES.

Chiron and Charon are two distinct personages in mythology. Charon was the son of Erebus and Persephone, the ferryman of the River Styx. Chiron was a son of Chronos and Philyra. He lived in a grotto at the foot of Mount Pelion and was known as the founder of the healing art and as the teacher of most of the ancient heroes.

Fault of City Men.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Editor of The Evening Post: Why do city men think girls from country towns deficient in intelligence? That they do is proved by the imbecile remarks they feel called upon to make whenever they meet a young woman who lives out of the city. Are they our superiors intellectually? No! Those who are treated as they would have their sisters treated. If they only knew the vast improvement it would be they would drop their conceit, I think.

St. Aldhelm.

DANVILLE, Ill., Oct. 28.—Editor of The Evening Post: I heard a reference made to St. Aldhelm a day or two ago, but did not care to display my ignorance by asking any questions at the time. Who was he?

L. F. D.

St. Aldhelm, the earliest English writer, a monk of Malmesbury, and for a few years before his death in 709 bishop of Sherborne.

Seat of Government.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Editor of The Evening Post: For how long was Philadelphia the seat of government of this country?

N. O. P.

The first continental congress assembled there in 1774, and it became the recognized seat of government of the United States in 1790. Washington was made the capital in 1800.

Through the kindness of James W. Ellsworth a reception is held to-day at his residence, 1820 Michigan boulevard, by the Asbury Relief Association for the benefit of the charity work of that society. The hours are from 3 to 6 this afternoon and 8 o'clock this evening. Last winter the association opened a sewing-room for women in Asbury Chapel, where hundreds of women were given employment. It is hoped the coming season to establish something of a similar nature which may be made self-supporting, and to-day's entertainment is for the purpose of raising funds preliminary to the winter's work. The Asbury association was a branch of the Woman's Club Emergency Association, but since the closing of its sewing-room last spring has attended to the wants of those still left in need of help. The officers of the association are: Mrs. L. B. Doud, president; Mrs. C. P. Libby, vice president; Mrs. H. S. Boyd, secretary, and Mrs. William H. McKinlock, treasurer. Mr. Ellsworth is always kindly disposed toward charitable undertakings, and so offered to open his residence, which is one of the finest in the city. It is filled with rare, unique and artistic articles, while the art gallery at the west end of the house contains a valuable collection of paintings, mostly by celebrated American artists. He has a collection of Inness paintings which are especially fine. The decorations throughout the house will be simple but artistic. The guests will be received by the following ladies, who are the patronesses:

- Mesdames—

| Philo Otis,     | O. R. Kelth,     | Clarence Knight, |
| C. P. Libby,    | W. H. McKinlock, | E. A. Lancaster, |
| G. A. Seaverns, | Ell Smith,       | L. B. Doud,      |

They will be scattered in groups in the various rooms and will be assisted in entertaining by Miss Helen Gilbert, Miss Ina Taft, Miss Una Libby, Miss Laura Shepard, Miss Lillian Gillett and Miss Marion Martin. An informal programme of music by well-known artists will add to the pleasure of the occasion, the participants being Mrs. Genevra Johnstone Bishop, Mrs. Emma B. Hodge, Mrs. Clara Trimble, George Ellsworth Holmes, Professor Pfeffercorn, Mr. Pollock and Mr. Skelton. The affair is entirely by invitation, about 800 guests having been invited.

The chiefs of the departments of the world's fair now in the city will enjoy a dinner at Kinsley's this evening, which will be in the nature of a happy reunion. It will be their first post-exposition banquet, the intention being to make it an annual affair, to be given Oct. 30 of each year to commemorate the closing of the world's fair. At 7:30 o'clock the guests will sit down to the spread and the affair will be made as informal as possible. Selim H. Peabody is in charge of the arrangements. Covers will be laid for eleven. Those expected to be present are: George R. Davis, director general world's fair; J. M. Samuels, chief department B horticulture; F. J. V. Skiff, chief department E mines and mining; L. W. Robinson, chief department F machinery; W. A. Smith, chief department G transportation; James Allison, chief department H manufactures; J. B. Barrett, chief department J electricity; Halsey S. Ives, chief department K fine arts; Selim H. Peabody, chief department L liberal arts; Fred W. Putnam, chief department M anthropology; Major M. P. Handy, chief department P publicity and promotion.

A charity ball will be given at the Chicago Beach Hotel this evening by the ladies of Kenwood for the benefit of the university creche. The officers of the creche, under whose management the affair is given, are: President, Mrs. Charles A. Mallory; treasurer, Mrs. Charles H. Hoxie; secretary, Mrs. Cora Webster; committee, Mrs. T. D. Condee, Mrs. W. L. De Wolf, Mrs. Arthur T. Newhall, Mrs. W. H. Newman, Mrs. W. A. Thrall and Mrs. G. R. Thorne. The floor committee will consist of Charles Bennett, Reuben H. Donnelly, John D. Hibbard, Phillip Marshall, Arthur T. Newhall and George P. Thorne.

The marriage of Miss Emma Victoria Lyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Lyon, to Rev. Frederick W. Keator, was celebrated at high noon to-day at the Church of the Atonement, of which the groom is rector. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. C. Edsall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Chicago, in the presence of about five hundred invited guests. Miss Alice M. Lyon, the bride's sister, was maid of honor, and Rev. Luther Pardee acted as best man. Rev. and Mrs. Keator will be at home Tuesdays after Nov. 15 at 891 Winthrop avenue, Edgewater.

A banquet will be given at the Sherman House at 7 o'clock this evening by the Cook County Equal Suffrage Association. The guests of honor being Mrs. J. M. Flower, Dr. Julia Holmes Smith and Professor Rena Michaels Atchison.

Mrs. Felix Rothschild, of 3413 Forest avenue, holds a reception at the Standard Club this afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock in honor of her sister, Miss Adah Beatryx Mack, of Toledo, Ohio.

Mrs. John Vance Cheney will address the Woman's Club to-morrow afternoon at 8. Mrs. Cheney is at present the guest of Mrs. Aldace F. Walker, at 256 Dearborn avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Underwood, who were recently married, are at home to-day from 3 to 5 and 8 to 10 o'clock at the Lakota.

The Misses Fisk, of 2977 South Park avenue, will give a cinch party Halloween for about thirty young people.

The Chicago Literary Club held its first open meeting last evening in its clubrooms, University Club Building.

Miss Carrie Lehman, of 3926 Grand boulevard, will give a dance this evening for a number of her friends.

The Knights of St. Patrick will celebrate their twentieth anniversary this evening at the West Chicago Club.

Mrs. S. S. Gregory, of 65 Newport avenue, will give an afternoon tea next Monday from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Valentine celebrated the third anniversary of their marriage yesterday.

The Oaks Club, of Austin, will give an informal dance this evening.

Yllers. He has not much suavity but a great deal of determination. The following word-picture of the Malagasy prime minister, with whom the French envoy will have to deal, is worth recording. He is described by a German visitor as "a little, old man of sixty-seven years of age, whom neither time nor hard work, however, have bent. His movements are agile, and his eye gleams with a penetrating intelligence. He is a consummate diplomatist, and there is nothing to be got out of him."

Dr. Depew on English Customs.

Chauncey Depew has been talking again of English customs and statesmen—of the latter freely, of the former not to any great purpose. On the whole, he is very laudatory; calls Lord Rosebery a "genius" and speaks of his "marvelous industry"—two curiously inapt criticisms. Mr. Depew has an interesting passage on Lord Rosebery as a collector of pictures, and especially of memorials of the great Napoleon. Here is one story:

"The ship which carried Napoleon a prisoner to St. Helena stopped on its way to Portsmouth. As she lay at the wharf the emperor would stand for hours by the gangway gazing at the clouds and the crowd. An English artist of the day, unknown to Bonaparte, painted his portrait. It has been hidden away somewhere for years, and Lord Rosebery, who has long been in pursuit of it, has just secured it. It is full length, about half life-size and presents the traditional conqueror as we know him by his picture. It is a sad figure. It is more—it is a tragical one. A theory was recently advanced that at Waterloo Napoleon had passed the zenith of his powers, though still so young, and his mind was weakening. Certainly the face in this most remarkable portrait has a vacant look. Life and fire and intellect are out of it. It is the countenance of a dazed and broken man."

Memoirs of Marshal Davoust.

Among the unpublished memoirs of the revolution and the empire known to exist in France are those of Marshal Davoust, kept in an iron chest in the museum at Auxerre, and not to be published till 1923, a hundred years after the marshal's death; those of Palloy, who helped tear down the Bastille, part of which are in the Bibliotheque Nationale, and part in the Musee Carnavalet; of the members of the Convention Bandot and Cassanyes. In the library at Sens is a copy of the memoirs of Fleury de Chaboulon, with marginal notes in the handwriting of Napoleon I. The Bibliotheque Nationale contains a unique copy of the memoirs of Larevellere Lepaux, the member of directory, which was printed in 1873 by Hetzel, but the whole edition was bought up and suppressed by the family before it was published. The director was very bitter against Lazare Carnot and Bonaparte.

Gladstone and Local Option.

Little missives of a rather explosive character are still flying from Hawarden on the temperance question. Herbert Gladstone has written a final letter for his father, in which the ex-premier declares that he still supports local option, but adheres to his earlier declarations that municipal drink selling offers the largest and most hopeful method of dealing with the evils of the traffic. On the other hand Sir William Harcourt declares, with his hands on his breast, that he will never, never desert local option. The difficulty, however, is that Mr. Gladstone's letter has taken the little steam out of the measure that it ever possessed, and it is now all but certain that it will not pass a second reading in the house of commons, to say nothing of committee.

About Rev. Dr. W. A. Bartlett.

Rev. Dr. William Alvin Bartlett, who is to preach his farewell sermon in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, Washington, on the second Sunday in November, and to go abroad later on account of his health, is now about sixty years of age. He built the first People's Tabernacle, in Brooklyn, and then went to Chicago as pastor of the Plymouth Church. Later he accepted of a pastorate in Indianapolis, and on April 12, 1882, was called to the Washington church, where he began his labors on June 1 of that year. He was a commissioner from the presbytery of Washington to the general assembly at Portland in 1892, and it was at his invitation that the general assembly met in Washington in 1893.

Brief Notes About Well-Known Men.

The only Indian who held a commission in the union army during the war was General Eli S. Parker, of General Grant's staff. He is a full-blooded Seneca and a lineal descendant of the famous Chief Red Jacket. General Parker is now reported to be dangerously ill at Fairfield, Conn.

Francis E. Baldwin, the prohibition candidate for Governor of New York, does not expect to be elected, but he runs because of a principle, and so he must be honored for his purpose. Mr. Baldwin says, and with much truth, that the saloon in New York is at the bottom of all our social and municipal evils.

A call is to be extended to Rev. Dwight L. Moody to do evangelical work in Japan for six months. The invitation will come from the American board of foreign missions.

Krupp, the great German gunmaker, has been coining money at a great rate for himself, and now he has contracted to coin for the Italian government 10,000,000 nickel coins. Strange that Italy cannot coin its own money.

There are but three men living who commanded army corps during the war. These are Generals Howard, Schofield and Alexander McCook. The latter is the last of the fighting McCooks, and he will be retired with the rank of brigadier general early next spring.

M. Casimir-Perier, President of the French Republic, is the most popular man in that country. An evidence of this is shown in the fact that the minister of the interior is now distributing among the mayoralities of France 37,000 pictures of Carnot's successor.

Hugh O. Pentecost, who has tried all creeds and experimented with all political parties, recently took to law, and he came near being made Colonel Bellows' assistant. It is said that he is now qualifying for the stage and that his wife will join him.

General Daniel H. Hastings, the republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, possesses a memory for faces and names that is nothing less than marvelous. As adjutant general of the state, in his many campaign tours and in his business relations, he has been brought into contact with great numbers of persons, and to a friend he recently remarked that he believed he could call 60,000 people by name.

Henri Rochefort, who has lived in London since the days when he ceased to be a convict in New Caledonia and became an exile, is now making an effort to find the missing arms of the Venus de Milo. He claims that the arms were near the statue when it was discovered by some peasants on the Island of Melos in 1820.

It is said that no one ever saw the great composer Verdi smile, much less laugh. His appearance is uncouth and his manner forbidding, yet he has a kindly heart. His life is marked by deeds of kindness, and the hospital at Busseto owes its existence to him.

knows that he did not overlook anything in that line. He made the most of Mr. Caesar's standing in the community and of the suddenness and violence of his death at the hands of Mark Brutus and the other conspirators.

The casket was early surrounded by mourners and curiosity seekers who discussed the tragedy, most of them blaming the whole affair upon the police department. The casket was placed upon a raised platform at the foot of the steps leading to the house, while Mr. Antony stood a little higher upon the steps to deliver his funeral address. About ten thousand people had assembled by the time he began, and they stood around and jostled and crowded each other, apparently losing all idea of the solemnity of the occasion, as their passions were aroused. In fact, soon after he had begun applause and yells and cries of approval interspersed his remarks. It was a most extraordinary scene.

Mr. Antony said: "Ladies and gentlemen, lend me your ears. (Cries of 'Hear! Hear!') I'm here to inter Mr. Caesar, not to puff him. The breaks that men make live after them, but the good is oft interred with their bones. So let it be with Caesar. (Cries of 'That's the stuff!' and cheers.) Mr. Brutus has told you that Caesar was ambitious. If it were so it was a grievous fault and grievously has Caesar answered it." (A voice: "You bet he has!")

Here Mr. Antony first began to show his hand. He became sarcastic and bitter in the next sentence and showed that he had a political object in view. His aim was to overturn the machine, which as every one knows is controlled by Brutus. He said: "Here by permission of Mr. Brutus and the rest, for Mr. Brutus is an honorable man (Cries of 'Rats!' and 'Come off!' interspersed with hisses) I have come to speak at Caesar's funeral. He was my friend, faithful and just to me, but Brutus says he was ambitious, and Brutus is an honorable man."

Oh, the irony of that! It fairly took the crowd off its feet. There were hoots and cat-calls from every side, and it was some time before silence could be secured. When it was Mr. Antony continued: "You all saw that at Vorwaerts Turner Hall I offered him the mayoralty three times and each time he declined it. (A voice: "Could you deliver the goods?") Mr. Officer, arrest that man! That's right! Throw him in the sewer!"

It was some time before order could be restored after this. Political excitement was beginning to run high and some of the terrorists wanted to lynch the man. Finally, however, he was hustled away to the Hinman street station and Mr. Antony was able to proceed. Continuing he said: "Was this ambition? (Cries of 'No, no!' and 'Not on your life!') Yet Mr. Brutus says he was ambitious, and Mr. Brutus is an honorable man. (A voice: "Chestnut!") But yesterday, the word of Caesar might have stood against the world; now Brutus has him boxed, with none so poor to do him reverence. Gentlemen, if I were disposed to stir your hearts to mutiny and rage (Cries of "Go ahead!") I should do Messrs. Brutus and Cassius wrong, and you know they are both honorable men. (Hisses and loud cries of "Come off" "Rats!" etc.) I will not do them wrong." (A voice: "Swipe them!")

Then with infinite craft Mr. Antony managed to bring up the subject of Mr. Caesar's will, and by means of that still further stirred the passions of the crowd. Caesar, he said, had left his money to the voters under the Australian ballot law, and, of course, that made the boys wild.

But he created the greatest sensation when he raised the lid of the coffin and showed how Caesar had been killed. He said: "If you have tears, prepare to shed them now. Look! In this place Cassius stuck him with a bowie! See, too, how Casca spoiled his clothes! And here Brutus caught him with a claspknife! (Cries of rage and hate from all sides.) And when the noble Caesar saw him stab, ingratitude, more strong than traitors' arms, quite vanquished him; then burst his mighty heart, and throwing his coat over his head, even at the base of the Haymarket monument great Caesar fell. (Curses, groans and cries of "Do 'em up!" "Down with Alderman Brutus," etc.)

"But, ladies and gentlemen, let me not stir you up to such a flood of mutiny! Your remedy lies in the ballot-box. (Cries of "That's it!" and "Bully for Mark!") Register and vote! That's the way to turn the scoundrels down!"

This has been criticised by some present as not exactly in good taste for a funeral oration, but the circumstances were such that most people are inclined to excuse it. In any event Mr. Antony has apparently gained his point and turned the tide of popular opinion against the politicians who had engineered the whole tragedy. As a result, it is almost a certainty that he will succeed Alderman Brutus in the council.

SOME QUEER ODDS AND ENDS.

No worm or insect is ever found upon the eucalyptus tree or in the earth penetrated by its roots.

If the United States had as great a relative population as Japan it would have a population of 960,000,000 people.

A belt in one of the big flouring mills at Minneapolis contains 200 crows. It is 260 feet long and weighs over a ton.

An eccentric southern woman dated her will 1789 instead of 1889, but the court has decided that this does not impair its validity.

Mohammedan widows find it difficult to remarry. An association to assist them in finding husbands has been organized in Turkey.

Abner Dorsett, a negro living in Hickory Mountain Township, North Carolina, has a head which measures thirty-two inches in circumference.

Marriage is growing popular again in England. The register for the first quarter of 1894 exceeds the first quarter of any year since 1883.

One of the conditions of membership of a New York club is that each member must give at least one hour a week to doing some good action.

Edelweiss is rapidly disappearing in many parts of Tyrol. To save it the landtag has lately imposed a fine for selling the plant with the roots.

"Charley's Aunt" has just been translated into Greek by M. Rhangabe, the Greek ambassador at Berlin, and will be played in Athens this winter.

The greatest theater-goers in the world are the Italians. There are more theaters in Italy in proportion to the population than in any other country.

A New York syndicate has been formed for the purpose of buying an island off the coast of Maine, stocking it with black foxes and engaging in the fur trade.

The Regents and the Faculty of request the pleasure of your presence at the public exercises of Commencement Week, JUNE 16th to 20th, 1894.

Commencement at the State University.

It is expected that the commencement at Madison this year will be of exceptional interest. The Gymnasium and Armory, which has been recently completed, has a drill hall 170 feet long by 93 feet wide. This will be used as an auditorium, one of the largest in the Northwest, capable of seating 3,000 people. A departure from the practice of the last few years will be made in the commencement exercises. In place of an address by a speaker from abroad, representatives from the graduating class will deliver orations.

The exercises begin on Saturday evening, June 16, with the address before the Law School by Judge William Penn Lyon. The Baccalaureate address will be given on Sunday, June 17, by President Adams. Two choruses from The Messiah will be given by the Choral Union, at these exercises.

On Monday evening the Senior Pageant will be given. This is a substitute for the old fashioned class day, and will consist, in part, of the rendition of an adaptation of Midsummer Night's Dream.

On Tuesday evening occurs the reception tendered by the Faculty to the public, at Science Hall. The various scientific departments will be shown in operation, with typical experiments, display of apparatus, lantern slides, etc., and the museums will be thrown open. Tuesday is also Alumni Day, and at the alumni

OF THE

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN.

Madison, Wis., June 6, 1894.

Fellow Graduate:

The annual meeting of the Alumni Association will be held in Science Hall, Tuesday morning, June 19th, at ten o'clock. The alumni dinner, in Library Hall, will follow the meeting at one o'clock of the same day. Among the speakers whom we expect to hear from on this occasion are President C. K. Adams, Hon. J. C. Spooner, a member of the Board of Regents, and Mr. C. R. Boardman. The price per plate is one dollar. Husbands or wives of graduates will be welcome.

As may be seen the program for commencement week, enclosed herewith, is unusually attractive. Those events which have heretofore so severely taxed the capacity of Library Hall and the patience of those attending, will take place in the new Armory Hall, whose dimensions, 170 by 96 feet, make overcrowding improbable.

LIBRARY HALL.

A spectacle designed to imitate in burlesque hue the play of gentle Shakspeare, called A Midsummer-Night's Dream, together with the festivities attendant on the marriage of Duke Theseus to Hippolita, the train of his elfin majesty, Oberon, the gentle fairies who attend Titania, Puck, the merry wanderer of the night, and also several light and humorous farces, designed to illustrate the woes which have befallen the Senior Class. This to be played to the music of a Midsummer-Night by Mendelssohn.

Suggestions as to Teaching Botany in High Schools.

The teaching of botany in our colleges and higher schools during the last twenty-five years has had the unfortunate effect of bringing the science into disrepute, and of engendering in the minds of many who—as they would say—“took” it (like a dose of medicine), a thorough distaste for it. It is only within ten years that any radical change has taken place in the teaching ideals, and even to-day in many of the best institutions of learning, conservatism forces instruction into the old channels. The lower schools have traveled the same line, partly because they knew no better way, and partly because they were meeting the demands of the higher schools in the matter of preparation.

The radical defect of the older teaching lay in the failure to study the plants themselves; in the failure to treat them as a living organisms; and in the failure to take into account the existence of other plants than the flowering ones. The ease with which plants could be collected and preserved by drying early led to the study of their external characters with a view to their classification alone. From the earliest times, therefore, almost to the present day, classification has been looked upon as the most important portion of the science of botany. Now, however, that the economic importance of the study of the physiology of healthy and diseased plants and of the causes of disease is coming to be more generally appreciated, it is high time that both in primary and secondary schools those portions of the science be taught which have a vital and vitalizing interest.

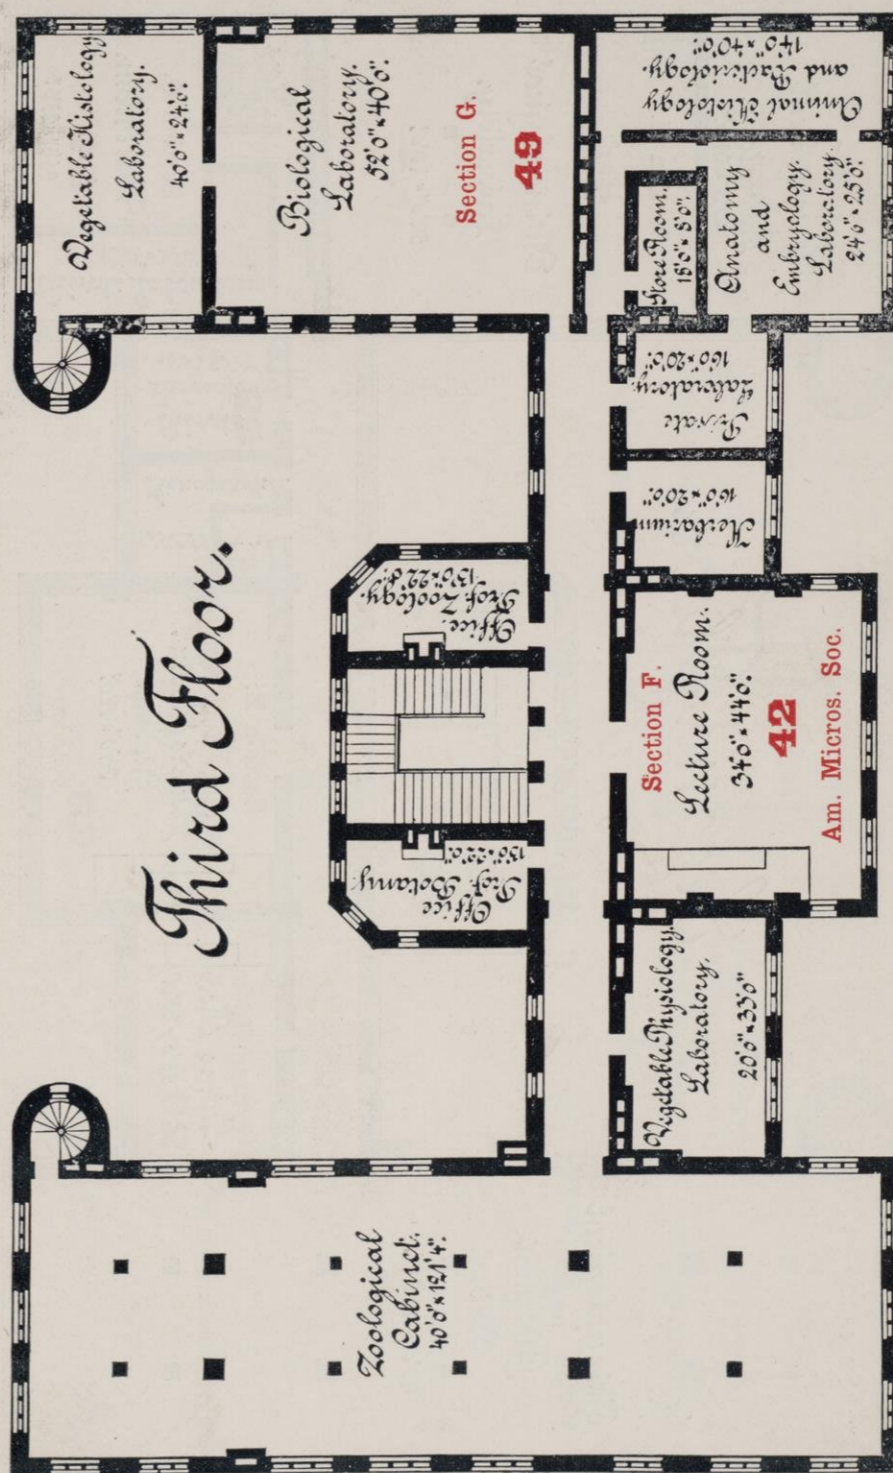

WHAT TEXT-BOOK SHALL WE USE?

The first question that is usually asked is, “What text-book shall we use?” It is a difficult question to answer, and probably the best reply is, “Whatever text-book the teacher can use best.” There is no book known to me which presents the subject in just the way that I consider most important. Probably the one of most general adaptability is Gray’s Lessons in Botany. (If the teacher is capable of using them, either Bessey’s Essentials of Botany or Campbell’s Structural and Systematic Botany may be recommended. Wood’s Lessons in Botany, revised, is unfit for use on account of the numerous and misleading blunders which it contains.) There should be in the school library, for reference, Gray’s Structural and Systematic Botany, Goodale’s Physiological Botany, Bessey’s Botany and Goebel’s Outlines of Classification.

The suggestions here made are based on the supposition that the scheme of studies proposed by the State Superintendent is accepted, in which two terms are assigned to botany, beginning in the winter term. It is also presupposed that the School Board will be willing to supply the pupils with a proper room and a small amount of apparatus. I consider the providing of these quite as indispensable for the study of botany as furnishing a recitation room for mathematics with a blackboard and its accessories.

ROOM AND APPARATUS.

The room should be furnished with a sufficient number of common kitchen tables (those with unfinished tops are best), at which two students can work comfortably, and even four if crowded. The more windows the better.

WISCONSIN WINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP!

Haughty Minnesota is Compelled to Give up Her Honors.

THE SCORE IS SIX TO NOTHING IN OUR FAVOR.

Lyman Hurt, but Plays on—Minnesota Clearly Outplayed—Ball in Minnesota's Territory Most of the Time—Wisconsin's Strong Aggressive Play—Minnesota Punts Well.

Victory!
Ours is the pennant of championship! The one doughty antagonist has at last been vanquished, and Wisconsin now stands the gridiron champion of all western colleges!

Such was the result of the game with Minnesota this afternoon. The score which decided it was 6 to 0.

A finer day for football could not have been hoped for. The two extremes which had been feared—a day so cold as to keep the people away, or one so warm as to make the campus muddy—were happily blended, making a day thoroughly agreeable both to spectators and contestants. All day long the game was the only topic of conversation. The libraries were almost wholly deserted, and the students spent the forenoon in viewing the preparation on the campus, putting up decorations, or discussing the relative merits of the teams which were to play. Seldom has Madison seen so much cardinal bunting as today. Dwellings, fraternity houses, shops, stores, delivery wagons, and street cars, all were profusely decorated with the university color; and every student who appeared upon the street was alike patriotic—the boys with cardinal streamers fastened in their button-holes, the young ladies with pretty bows of the same all-prevailing color.

Immediately after dinner the people began to assemble on the lower campus, and long before three o'clock the grand stand was filled and several hundred people were standing. And still they continued to gather, until at least 3,000 people were on the grounds when the game began. Besides the large delegation from Minnesota, Badger boys from all over the state came in large numbers to witness the great contest.

The campus has never before witnessed such a scene of excitement. The U. W. band was out, every other person had a tin horn, and the yelling was tremendous. Songs composed especially for the occasion were distributed through the crowd by The Daily Cardinal, and as they were set to well-known airs were shouted out by the Wisconsin contingent with great vehemence. Whenever a Wisconsin man made an exceptionally good play, or an antagonist made one unusually poor, the noise was simply deafening.

The Minnesota men marched from the Park Hotel with their band at their head and formed in two divisions at the field. The field was in very good condition considering the kind of weather that we have had for the last two weeks.

The officials of the game were: Stipp, of Grinnell, umpire; Gould, of Amherst, referee; Root, of Illinois, line-man. The men lined up as follows:

| Minnesota     | Wisconsin |
|---------------|-----------|
| Harrison      | Sheldon   |
| Dalrymple, J. | Alexander |
| Larson        | Bunge     |
| Finleyson     | Kull      |
| Harding       | Ryan      |
| Walker        | Pyre      |
| Dalrymple, W. | Dickinson |
| Van Campen    | Lyman     |
| Adams         | Nelson    |
| Southworth    | Karel     |
| Cutler        | Richards  |

Minnesota started with the ball and on the kick off Lyman caught it and advanced it five yards. Wisconsin was given ten yards on an off side play and then on gains by Nelson and Karel the ball was steadily advanced to the Minnesota 30 yard line, when Wisconsin lost it on downs. After two downs Minnesota was given 10 yards on an off-side play. Minnesota, however, was unable to advance the ball at all and Wisconsin again got it on downs. Karel then took it forward for a 10 yard gain and Nelson followed it up with another good gain. The ball was then given to each of Wisconsin's halves in succession and was advanced to within three yards of Minnesota's goal when Wisconsin lost on downs.

Minnesota kicked and Richards caught the ball. Wisconsin however caught the ball. Wisconsin here slight gains but lost the ball on a fumble almost immediately and Nelson and Karel again made steady gains for Wisconsin. On an offside play by Minnesota, Wisconsin got the ball within fifteen yards of Minnesota's goal. Minnesota got the ball on a fumble and kicked again. Richards caught it and made about eight yards before he was downed. Minnesota soon got possession on downs but was forced to kick. Lyman got the ball and Nelson advanced it eight yards. After another gain by Karel Wisconsin lost on downs and Cutler kicked. Richards caught the ball on the 40 yard line, this being the first time the ball had been in Wisconsin's territory. Wisconsin was forced to a kick. Harrison blocked the ball and it bounded back ten yards into Wisconsin's territory, but Wisconsin saved it. Richards kicked again and Cutler caught the ball and was tackled by Kull after gaining 15 yards. Minnesota kept the ball but was forced to kick. Cutler made a splendid kick and Richards caught it on Wisconsin's fifteen yard line. Nelson advanced it ten yards when time was called.

Score—Wisconsin 0, Minnesota 0.

Richards kicked off for Wisconsin in the second half. Walker caught the ball, and carried it back ten yards when he was downed by Sheldon. In the fall however Sheldon's arm was broken and Major was substituted. Minnesota kicked but an off side play was called and Wisconsin given the ball and 15 yards on an offside play. Karel and Nelson each advanced the ball five yards and then Wisconsin was given ten yards on another offside play by Minnesota. Then Karel made a dash of forty yard down the field for Wisconsin's first eleven minutes after the play began. Lyman kicked goal. Score, Wisconsin 6, Minnesota 0.

Parkyn was here substituted for Cutler as full back. Wisconsin caught Minnesota's kick off and Nelson advanced it twenty yards. Minnesota got the ball and Parkyn tried a kick at the goal from the field. It failed however, and Richards punted up the field. Parkyn punted back again and Wisconsin advanced the ball steadily until Karel took it for a forty yard dash up the field. Then by successive gains the ball was advanced into Minnesota's territory. Minnesota got the ball on downs but Wisconsin was given it back on a foul. Before Wisconsin could make any gains she lost it on a fumble. Parkyn punted and the ball fell out of bounds. Wisconsin was forced to punt and Parkyn caught it again and punted back.

Wisconsin lost the ball on a foul and Minnesota advanced it by Harding and Southworth. Minnesota was given twenty-five yards on an offside play and then advanced to Wisconsin's five yard line. Minnesota here lost the ball on downs and then Wisconsin was given 10 yards on an offside play. Wisconsin advanced the ball steadily and Nelson carried it around the end for a 15 yard gain. Karel followed by a good gain of 10 yards and another of 6 yards. Alexander took the ball forward for seven yards and Karel followed with two gains of 8 and 10 yards, when time was called with the ball at Minnesota's 25 yard line.

Score—Wisconsin 6, Minnesota 0.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Karel played his usual strong game and made many brilliant runs.

Only a few times was Minnesota able to gain the necessary 5 yards.

The two kicks which Lyman made when he kicked goal were as pretty as anything ever seen on a football field.

The playing of the whole team was strong and it was by team work and not by mere weight that Wisconsin made her gains.

Although the score was small yet Minnesota was clearly out played and if the game had continued much longer Wisconsin would have had another touchdown to her credit as she was rapidly pushing the ball toward the goal line when time was called.

"AND THEIR GOLDEN HAIR."

Minnesota's big eleven came from out the woolly west,
And their golden hair was hanging in their eyes;

They came to meet Wisconsin and to put her to the test,
And their golden hair was hanging in their eyes;

When they trotted out upon the field they smiled in conscious pride, Proud victors they for many a year,—

with none to turn the tide,
But later that eventful day, their fortunes took a slide,—

And their golden hair was hanging in their eyes.

Chorus.

But, Oh Jane! They didn't look the same!

When they left their mater they were fly,

But alas! and alack! They've gone back,

With their golden hair all pounded in their eyes.

When they lined up for the scrimmage they were victors in their mind,
And their golden hair was hanging in their eyes;

But when the scrimmage ended they were unsteer yards behind,
And their golden hair was hanging in their eyes;

The Badgers bucked the line and stood the center on his head,
They pranced around the Gophers' ends and painted them all red,

They piled the remnants in a heap and left them there for dead,
And their golden hair was hanging in their eyes.

Chorus.

Now if ever you should meet those Gophers don't you be afraid,
When this golden hair is hanging in their eyes;

They're really not so terrible—they wouldn't scare a maid,
When their golden hair is hanging in their eyes;

Have pity on their downcast hearts—don't ask them of the game,
Don't say, "How was it?" or "Who won?"—your language will give pain.

But as they pass you sadly by,—just sing them this refrain,
Oh, your golden hair is hanging in your eyes.

Chorus.

C. Floyd McClure.

—Chas. Floyd McClure's song, When Violets Are There, was sung at the performance by the Cleveland minstrels at the Fuller last night.

—Fraternities, literary societies, and other college organizations desiring framed portraits of Jennie O'Neill Potter, the noted reader and successful monologue artist, may call for them at the office of the Fuller opera house.

—The New York state college press association meets at Ithaca next week. This association is composed of the papers at Colgate, Cornell, Elmira, Hamilton, Hobart, Rochester, Syracuse, Union and Vassar.

—This is the night to eat oysters at the Palace of Sweets.

5. Hymn:—143.

Oh, worship the King, all glorious above,
And gratefully sing his wonderful love;
Our Shield and Defender, the Ancient of days,
Pavilion'd in splendor, and girded with praise.

Oh, tell of his might, and sing of his grace,
Whose robe is the light, whose canopy space;
His chariots of wrath the deep thunder-clouds form,
And dark is his path on the wings of the storm.

Thy bountiful care what tongue can recite?
It breathes in the air, it shines in the light,
It streams from the hills, it descends to the plain,
And sweetly distills in the dew and the rain.

Frail children of dust, and feeble as frail,
In thee do we trust, nor find thee to fail;
Thy mercies how tender! how firm to the end!
Our Maker, Defender, Redeemer and Friend.

6. Scripture: REV. E. L. HOLDEN.

7. Prayer: PASTOR.

8. Offertory Solo, "Hear us, O Father" — Handel: MISS MARY TAYLOR.

9. Hymn:—163.

Sun of my soul! thou Saviour dear,
It is not night if thou be near:
Oh, may no earth-born cloud arise
To hide thee from thy servant's eyes!

When soft the dews of kindly sleep
My weary eyelids gently steep,
Be my last thought—how sweet to rest
For ever on my Saviour's breast!

Abide with me from morn till eve,
For without thee I cannot live;
Abide with me when night is nigh,
For without thee I dare not die.

Be near to bless me when I wake,
Ere through the world my way I take,
Abide with me till in thy love
I lose myself in heaven above.

10. Sermon: REV. HERRICK JOHNSON, D. D.

11. Anthem, "How Beautiful upon the Mountains." — Sudds: CHOIR.

12. Doxology.

13. Benediction: PASTOR.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES,

for the alleviation of Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Coughs, Asthma, Colds, Catarrh, and all disorders of the Breach and Lungs.

JOHN I. BROWN & SONS, BOSTON, U. S. A. PROPRIETORS.

Public Speakers and Singers will find the Troches invaluable for clearing and strengthening the voice. There are no particular directions to be observed in the use of them. Containing nothing deleterious, they can be taken as freely as requisite. One or two Troches dissolved gradually in the mouth, repeating if necessary, will almost invariably give immediate relief in many cases of Hoarseness, or loss of voice, Coughs, Irritation, or soreness of the Throat, &c. occasioned by cold or unusual exertion of the vocal organs. For Bronchitis, Asthma, &c., of long standing, it will be necessary to take them frequently, as occasion requires.

MADISON, Wis., October, 1894.

DEAR SIR:—At the Republican Convention which nominated the Hon. Geo. B. Burrows for the Assembly from the Madison District, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the varied and important interests of the CITY OF MADISON most emphatically require the election to the Assembly of a man of ability and legislative experience, and one fully competent to aid and protect the interests pertaining to our municipality, and more especially to represent the city and the state in the watchful care and guardianship of WISCONSIN'S GREAT UNIVERSITY, an institution doubly dear to us all, whose welfare should be our constant charge, and its needed legislation command our undivided support.

Resolved, That in the person of our nominee, the Hon. Geo. B. Burrows, we present to the voters of this Assembly District a candidate well worthy the support of every one, and who by his ability and experience in legislation, acquired by six years' service in the state senate, as a representative from this city, has proved beyond a doubt his great fitness to represent this city, and all its interests, both ably and well during the next session of the legislature; therefore, we heartily commend the candidacy of Mr. Burrows to the voters of the district, and bespeak for him a strong and generous support.

Vote for Burrows, Madison and the State University.

DEAR SIR:—At the Republican Convention which nominated the Hon. Geo. B. Burrows for the Assembly from the Madison District, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the varied and important interests of the CITY OF MADISON most emphatically require the election to the Assembly of a man of ability and legislative experience, and one fully competent to aid and protect the interests pertaining to our municipality, and more especially to represent the city and the state in the watchful care and guardianship of WISCONSIN'S GREAT UNIVERSITY, an institution doubly dear to us all, whose welfare should be our constant charge, and its needed legislation command our undivided support.

Resolved, That in the person of our nominee, the Hon. GEO. B. BURROWS, we present to the voters of this Assembly District a candidate well worthy the support of every one, and who by his ability and experience in legislation, acquired by six years' service in the state senate, as a representative from this city, has proved beyond a doubt his great fitness to represent this city, and all its interests, both ably and well during the next session of the legislature; therefore, we heartily commend the candidacy of Mr. Burrows to the voters of the district, and bespeak for him a strong and generous support.

The mother who uses Nestlé's Milk Food for her child places her trust in a diet for infants which has been known as a standard the world over, for more than 25 years. Nestlé's Food is not an experiment, but a tested and tried substitute for mother's milk, which has received the endorsement of the most eminent physicians in the world, and has been awarded 26 first prize medals at the leading expositions of Europe, America and Asia. The manufacture of Nestlé's Food is not a secret. It is made in Vevey, Switzerland, of the rich, pure milk of Swiss Cows—the richest milk in the world—scientifically combined with specially prepared wheat and enough sugar to sweeten. The addition of water only is required to prepare it for use. The expense of adding the milk is thus saved.
