DOMESTIC ART

UNIQUE DEPARTMENT IN JANEVILLE HIGH SCHOOL.

Has Attracted Much Attention—Noon-day Lunch the Feature—News From Other Schools.

The Domestic Art Department of the Janesville High School has attracted much attention during the past few years. The feature of this department, especially unique and one that is frequently inquired about, is the noon-day lunch.

Many pupils living at a distance from the school bring their lunches and one object of the noon-day hot lunch is to furnish them with something hot, wholesome, savory and in every way suited to a student's needs. Another object is to bring them together in a social way at a neatly prepared table, where pleasant conversation with friend and teacher adds much to the pleasure and also acts as a great aid to digestion.

The menu for luncheons are chosen with direct reference to obtaining the most nutritious and easily digested food such as a student ought to have, something he can digest before he goes to work and that does not make him dull or sleepy, as a heavy or improper meal often does. The plan now on hand is to serve different courses at a stated price allowing the pupil to select any course he may desire to eat with the dinner he brings from home. Besides this the regular three course luncheon is served to those who prefer to pay the 10 cents. The luncheon usually consists of a soup course with croutons or wafers, sandwiches of fruit nuts or cheese and a desert of fruit or pudding. An occasional course of meat is not disregarded in cold weather for valuable protein is found in this way. The drinks are water, milk, chocolate and sometimes for variety a cup of coffee to supply an element in connection with other food.

The luncheon is prepared and served by the girls in the cooking classes, this being one of the practical sides of the lunch idea. Work is done in class for a purpose and therefore is done with double interest by the girls, who all like the cooking and are learning many of the principles that underlie all good intelligent home making. They make and serve the lunch, take new ideas and recipes home to try them and in most cases success attends their effort. Principles learned this way and practically illustrated can never be forgotten.

No department of school work involving laboratory methods can be introduced at such a small initial expense for equipment. The cost for the finest equipment should not exceed $500 and many such departments are instituted at an expense of less than $100. This department, with manual training for boys, is aided by the state to the extent of $250 per year. A number of high schools in the state are operating these practical departments and many more are investigating the subject with that object in view.

The window decoration at Olson & Veerhusen's big clothing store on Pinckney street is very attractive and is the center of admiring Christmas shoppers.

CHRISTMAS CARDINAL ON SALE TOMORROW

This annual souvenir number will be put on sale to-morrow morning. It is the largest and best special number ever published by the Cardinal. Every student will want several of them to take home. The poster cover designed by R. B. Ellis, '04, is a work of art while the whole number is profusely illustrated. Two prize Christmas stories are among the specialties. The comments of the city papers on advance sheets are published below.

Madison Democrat (editorial):

A remarkable college publication is The Christmas Cardinal about to issue. Vast enterprise to be displayed by 'varsity boys is exhibited in the 20 pages which comprise the number—pages eloquently descriptive of the manifold activities of university life, and all presented in a most readable and attractive form. The growing prominence of the alumni in politics and statecraft, as here depicted so well, seems especially apropos in view of the proximate inauguration of an old university boy as governor; and it is quite interesting to recall that the Cardinal's predecessor in 'varsity journalism, the old Press, was for several years the chief means of sustenance of the coming governor, then a self-reliant, eager, industrious youth manfully struggling for the learning which he so much coveted. The different schools and departments are accorded liberal consideration and athletics are by no means forgotten, while new buildings, the military arm, oratory, the faculty, and the multiplying societies all receive attention. Two prize stories are produced, and throughout the work are portraits and illustrations to brighten the general effect. The cover in the university color represents a tousled footballist making a touchdown and two squirrels giving the university yell through megaphones.

The Christmas Cardinal is highly creditable to its spirited editors, and the missionary influence of such a superior publication is of such great possibility that a copy of it should certainly be placed in the hands of every high school senior of the state.

Wisconsin State Journal:—"The 24-page Xmas edition of the University Cardinal will appear to-morrow and will be for sale at the news-stands. It is a beautiful souvenir, with the cover in two colors (red and black) designed by Mr. Ellis, the clever student-cartoonist. Among the excellent reading matter is an article on the new school of commerce by Prof. W. A. Scott."

Joint Debate Program.

The following is the program for the Joint Debate this evening at Library Hall. Professor D. B. Frankenburger will serve as president of the evening.

University Speakers.

Two University men W. S. Kies and Emerson Ela, spoke before the Six O'clock Club Monday evening. The subject under discussion was that of private vs. municipal ownership of public utilities. Mr. Kies was the only speaker upholding private ownership and presented the matter very forcibly. Both speakers were very well received.

Handball Tournament.

Leighton and Erickson, sophomores succeeded in winning three games out of five from Smith and Taylor, yesterday. This gives Leighton and Erickson the championship of the "Hill" classes.

Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock they will play Hobbins and Koplin, the law champions, for the final championship.

—The Short Course students in a class meeting yesterday decided to attend the Joint Debate tonight. They will meet at South Hall where they will be furnished the tickets by the committee so as to avoid delay at Library Hall.

—C. W. Mitchell, '04, has returned to resume his work after several weeks illness.

FINE ENTERTAINMENT

BY SELF-GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION LAST NIGHT.

"Loan of a Lover" and "Yellow Roses"

Well Received—Delightful Music.

The entertainment given by the Self Government Association last evening in Library Hall was a success in every particular. The music was good, both the orchestra and Ladies' Glee Club and the two farces presented were of an unusual grade of excellence for local talent.

Much of the success of the entertainment was due to the music which was written especially for it by Mr. Roberts and arranged by Professor Nitschke.

The attendance was fairly good and about forty dollars was cleared by the association. This will enable the association to give an excellent art exhibit and also purchase some pictures to present to the University.

The entertainment began with an overture which was well played by Professor Nitschke's orchestra of five pieces. The next number was a song by the Ladies' Glee Club, the "Concert Waltz." It was very well rendered and the young ladies responded to an encore. For this they sang in a pleasing manner a selection entitled "Sleep, Little Baby."

After the Glee Club, Professor Nitschke played another selection and then the Comedietta, "Yellow Roses" was presented, Miss Jennie Butt taking the part of Miss Peverill, and Mr. Walton Pyre playing Colonel St. Clair. The piece is full of sparkling wit but also gives an opportunity for the use of real dramatic ability. It was very ably presented.

Following "Yellow Roses" the farce "The Loan of a Lover" was presented with the following cast:

Captain Amersfort—Mr. Edward Jenner.

Peter Spyk—Mr. Walter Pyre.

Swytzel—Mr. Donald MacDonald.

Gertrude—Miss Anna Scribner.

Ernestine Rosendaal—Miss Henrietta Pyre.

The play was excellently presented and all played their parts very well. Mr. Pyre as Peter Spyk was probably the favorite of the evening, while Miss Scribner, as Gertrude, and Miss Pyre as Ernestine were also excellent. Mr. Jenner made a capital Amersfort and Mr. MacDonald carried out very well the rather difficult role of Swytzel, the old porter. Mr. Walker played his part very well and added much to the comedy part of the play by his sprightly rendering of the character of Delve.

The play ended with a little light opera, in which the four, Captain Amersfort, Ernestine, Peter and Gertrude, sing and dance the minuet.

—Whatever else may be said of the arrangement committee for the Joint Debate, it is not lacking in ingenious methods of advertising. The latest in this line is neat title badges, which were distributed today. They were white cards, in the shape of a diamond and having on it these words "I'm going. Are you?" in red ink and Annual Joint Debate 1900 in blue ink. Attached to the cards was a neat cardinal ribbon by which the cards were pinned to the coat lapels of the students.

Souvenir Number.

Our annual Christmas souvenir number appears tomorrow. It represents a very large amount of extra work on the part of the staff. If it succeeds in filling the demand for an attractive souvenir of the various branches of University life and activity, its object will have been attained. With this hope we tender it to our readers.

Consistency, Thou Art A Jewel.

A challenge to play California at San Francisco and Los Angeles came to the Wisconsin management yesterday. In spite of the eagerness of the players to make the trip and in spite of the financial needs of the management, it was refused on principle, and the principle was that our athletes are here as students, and a happy-go-lucky, spur-of-the-moment trip across a continent to play two hard games without previous training, is detrimental, infra dignitatem, and must not be. That was all. We do not pretend to the high ethical standard of our neighbors to the west. We do not look down with high and supercilious scorn on all post-season games as being in themselves an ebullition of original sin. When some neighboring aggregation conspicuously suspects itself of the capability of wiping up chalk lines with padded cardinal sweaters, it is apt to have the opportunity thrust upon it. Sometimes we catch a Tartar. But we consider ourselves strictly in the Tartar class, and are only too glad to prove it against all comers. So much for us.

Iowa as a college is very genteel. She will play out her schedule and quit. It would have been very nice if Wisconsin had been on Iowa's list so that Iowa could, in a perfectly genteel manner, have demonstrated her unquestionable preeminence. However, there was not much harm done because all good Iowans will admit Iowa's superiority over Minnesota and Wisconsin, anyway. No, Iowans are not pugilists. And post season games are wicked and not genteel. And they are bad on principle and not worthy of Iowa. And they are unconventional. But of course Iowa could have done us up well, anyhow!

* * * * *

From the Iowa City correspondent of the Times-Herald.

"The manager immediately notified the members of the team and a meeting was held at 2 o'clock, at which all were present. The proposition was laid before the team, and it was unanimously decided to accept. Coach Knipe and Manager McCutcheon were decidedly in favor of accepting the proposition. President McLean was also in favor of the games, for the tendency will be to bring Iowa in further prominence.

"The only opposing vote was cast by a student member."

"Iowa feels highly honored in receiving the offer, for it plainly indicates that Iowa's team is regarded as the strongest in the west."

Of course after proof like that last, we have nothing more to say. Gentility forever!

The lectures was illustrated by about forty stereopticon views. Thursday's lecture will be in room 46, and will be on the most recent discoveries in the Forum.

Important Collection of Rare Books for the School of Economics and Political Science.

A valuable collection of rare books, relating to this history of social movements in England and the United States, has just been received by the University Library. It consists of books, pamphlets, and periodicals, which grew up out of the work of Robert Owen and his followers.
Robert Owen (1771-1858) was at one time a great English manufacturer and was called "the prince of cotton-spinners." His mills were situated in Scotland, at New Lanark on the Clyde, and at this place he started various experiments to improve his work people which soon attracted the attention of the entire civilized world.
Princes and potentates visited him to see the far-famed wonders of New Lanark, and on the occasion of a visit to the United States, Mr. Owen was especially received by Congress, which he addressed. Later, Robert Owen became an extremist and, on account of his radical doctrines, lost the support of his most influential friends. It is now generally admitted, however, that many of the most important movements of the day owe a great deal to his experiments at New Lanark and to his agitation. Special mention may be made of the kindergarten and other popular educational movements, of factory legislation and cooperation.

The following series of periodicals are included in the collection:

The Crisis, 1832-1834.

The New Harmony Gazette, 1825-1827.

The New Moral World, 1834-1845.

Robert Owen's Journal, 1850-1852.

The collection was brought together
by Mr. George Harding, a London bookseller, from whom it was purchased. In a letter accompanying the invoice, Mr. Harding wrote as follows:

"I am very sorry to see the collection going out of the Old Land, as I do not expect to be able to bring such a collection together again."

The funds for the purchase of this Owen collection were contributed by the following gentlemen: Mr. John Johnston of Milwaukee; Manitowoc Malting Co. of Manitowoc; and Messrs. G. B. Burrows, E. M. Fuller,
A. H. Hollister, W. A. P. Morris, J. M.
Olin, W. Ramsay, T. C. Richmond, W.
A. Scott, and R. T. Ely, all of Madison.
To all of these gentlemen are due the cordial thanks of the University for his interesting and valuable collection of books. These books have been placed temporarily in case 8 in the general reading room where they may be inspected by any interested.
