Debaters Veto Paris Pact as Badgers Lose

Misinterpretation, Persuasiveness Characterize Interest in Iowa Victory

BULLETIN

The Minnesota affirmative debating team defeated the Wisconsin negative team in the debate at Minneapolis last night, according to a message received by Prof. A. T. Weaver, chairman of the speech department.

By FREDERICK GUTHMANN

Prof. A. H. Monroe of Purdue, critic judge, awarded Iowa the victory in Thursday night's debate. The visitors supported the negative side of the question "Resolved: That the United States senate should ratify the pact of Paris without reservations." Eight other Western Conference universities including another Wisconsin team at Minnesota also debated the same question Thursday night.

Persuasive Appeal Used

The debate was characterized by persuasive appeal to the audience rather than reliance upon more formal and traditional methods of speaking. Probably the Wisconsin team was a trifle too formal and the Iowa team a trifle too informal in this respect.

Joseph Pessin '29, Theodore Case '30, and Walter Graunke L2, composed the Wisconsin team and allotted their arguments respectively: The pact marks the culmination of the American movement towards world peace. If the pact is adopted it will serve as the preamble to a new code of international law. The pact holds the world hope for peace because it outlaws war. "Better the Paris pact than nothing," was their summary.

Hit "Defensive Warfare"

Iowa inferred that the pact was a sop thrown out to pacifists of the world and meant nothing so long as "defensive warfare" is permitted.

"We challenge our opponents to produce one war in the entire history of man that was not a defensive war," said they.

Early in the debate it became evident that there was a difference of definition between the two teams. Wisconsin insisted that the pact be interpreted at its face value while Iowa inferred that such an interpretation was not realistic and that it was only the interpretation which other nations have placed upon this pact that made it significant.

Essays should be handed in not later than Monday, April 29, to Prof. F. W. Roe, 303 Bascom hall.

Identity of Queen to be Kept Secret Until Night of Prom

The identity of the Prom queen will be unknown until the evening of Prom itself, perhaps until after the playing of the first strains of the grand march when she steps up and takes the arm of John Catlin, the chairman—that is, unless some campus sleuth meanwhile does a bit of high grade sleuthing and discovers her before that moment, for she will be selected sometime before 10:30 on Sunday night, Jan. 6.

Desirous of making the first Prom in the Union different from the customary ones of the past decade, Catlin made the final decision at a meeting of the general assistant chairmen late last night to resort to this new method of announcing his queen.

Perhaps the girl whom he escorts to the pre-Prom dance or pre-Prom play, or one of the girls he dates from today till Feb. 8 will be queen—and then again maybe not.

Catlin will enter the Union alone on the night of Feb. 8, will proceed through the formalities of the Governor's reception, and will not meet the queen until just before they lead the throng of Prom-goers through the marble halls of the million dollar Memorial Union.

Several members of Prom committees and faculty members all have heartily agreed that this new method of announcing the queen will add immeasurable interest to the climax of Wisconsin's social season.

Sigma Delta Chi Initiates 17 Men at Fall Banquet

Seventeen men were initiated into Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalism fraternity, Thursday night, and were honored by a banquet held in the Memorial Union, at which William T. Evjue, editor of the Capital Times, and Willard G. Bleyer, director of the School of Journalism, were the principal speakers.

The initiates were Roy L. Matson '29, Robert De Haven '29, Jerome J. Henry '29, William T. Burgess '29, Kirk M. Bates '29, Roland C. Hartman '29, Edward Thom '29, Samuel N. Sherman '29, Leonard C. Schubert '29, Robert F. Godley '30, John B. Miller '30, C. Hjalmar Nelson '30, Alleen J. Tenny '30, Alexander Wayo '30, Bruce W. Dennis '30, David S. Morrison '30, and William P. Steven '30.

That the lack of effective organization is one of the most serious of present-day weaknesses in the journalism profession was the opinion expressed in a speech by Professor Bleyer. Mr. Evjue talked on "Crusading" journalism, stressing the need for conscientious newspapers which are willing to assume real leadership in their communities, despite pressure from "big business" interests.

Guests of honor at the banquet, including Prof. Bleyer and Mr. Evjue, were Ralph O. Nafziger, editor of the University Press bureau, and Chilton R. Bush and Ralph D. Casey, faculty members of the School of Journalism. Hampton Randolph '29, president of the fraternity, was toastmaster.

"Cradle Song," Scheduled for Tonight, Put Off to Jan. 11-12

The presentation of "The Cradle Song," which was to have been given by the Wisconsin Players tonight and Saturday has been postponed until Jan. 11 and 12, due to the general ban on social events for this weekend announced by university officials yesterday. Holders of tickets good for the shows this weekend may obtain refunds from the ticket office, or else exchange them for tickets good at either of the January shows.

Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, director of the Experimental college, will take a vacation of two weeks after the holidays upon recommendation of his doctor, it was announced yesterday. A short speaking tour will follow.

Fraternities and Sororities Are Hard Hit by Inroads of Disease

Confirmation of Dr. W. A. Mowry's statement that 500 students were ill with influenza on the campus Thursday was found in a telephone recheck of cases of flu in 80 fraternities, sororities, and rooming houses, where Thursday 312 students were sick in bed, compared with 280 in more than 100 houses last Tuesday.

Although the epidemic showed some signs of abatement on Wednesday, fresh cases Thursday morning pushed the total of calls for doctors to treat cases outside the infirmary to 130, while from 250 to 300 students reported at the clinic for treatment.

Infirmary Filled

The student infirmary, which was declared inadequate by Pres. Glenn Frank in his budget recommendations to the legislature this past month, was filled to capacity, and severe cases were being sent to the Wisconsin General hospital.

The increase, however, was not regarded as either "alarming" or "dangerous" by officials of the Student Health service, and they cited as the reason for their recommendation to close school the continued bad condition rather than a critical or uncontrollable epidemic.

Check Expected

Dismissal of students is expected to check the spread of the illness, officials believe, because scattering of students in various parts of the country will tend toward lessening the opportunity for contagion.

In 23 sororities Thursday 119 women were reported in bed with influenza in comparison with 104 on Tuesday, an increase of 12 per cent. Alpha Epsilon Phi, Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Zeta and Gamma Phi Beta, showed decided increases, while five were ill at Phi Mu, which Tuesday was the only sorority not touched by the epidemic.

No-Cut Days and 10:30 Nights Now, Deans Announce

The following official notices were issued yesterday:

Since, as a health measure, all social events for Friday and Saturday, Dec. 14 and 15, are cancelled, women's houses will close at 10:30 on those nights.

Economics Group Names Delegates to National Meet

Artus, honorary economics fraternity, held its regular meeting last night at 7:15 p. m. in the Seasonal office of the Union.

A depleted attendance, due supposedly to the influenza epidemic, made it necessary to postpone until a later date the scheduled address by Professor Lloyd-Jones of the economics department on "Trade Promotion Activities of the Government."

Prof. Harold H. Groves, of the economics department, faculty advisor of the fraternity, was elected faculty delegate, and Marvin M. Fein '29 was elected student delegate to the national convention of Artus fraternity which will be held in Chicago on Dec. 27. Grover Noetzel '29 was elected alternate delegate.

It was decided to postpone the group picture which was to have been taken today at 12:15 p. m. at De Longe's studio until a date which will be announced after the Christmas vacation.

Young Appoints Freshman Executive Committee of 12

William A. Young, president of the freshman class, appointed the following to the freshman executive committee Thursday.

Ellen Dassow, Betsey Owen, Ruth Baker, Betty Ditoforth, Ruth Menges, Robert Bassett, Douglas Weaver, Harvey Miller, Herbert Otto, Howard Baker, Ira Bartels and S. I. Schaenger.

All meetings have been cancelled until after the Christmas vacation.

Weekend Upset, Phone Lines Clogged as "Flu" Hits School

"The best laid plans of mice and men" went astray yesterday when, with the suspension of school and the banning of social activities, due to the growing epidemic of influenza, one of the busiest week-ends of the semester underwent a complete change to become one of the most barren.

But while some students regretted the curtailment of parties, the zest of Christmas, and home, moved three days nearer by the stroke of a pen, brightened the campus while leaders of the various projects planned for this week-end scurried about seeking dates in January when their functions might be staged.

Convocation Postponed

The Freshman convocation planned for this afternoon, at which Prof. Carl Russell Fish was to speak, was

Early Adjournment Makes Friday and Saturday No-Cut Days

Conscious of a need for prevention of further spread of the influenza epidemic which for a week has kept approximately 500 students from attending classes, Pres. Glenn Frank yesterday noon announced that all social functions on the university campus will be curtailed and that classes will be dismissed for the annual Christmas vacation on Saturday noon, Dec. 15.

The vacation will end when classes begin at 8 o'clock Thursday morning, Jan. 3. Friday and Saturday, Dec. 14 and 15, are no-cut days, and both Friday and Saturday are 10:30 nights.

Greeted Thursday morning with a slight increase in numbers ill with the flu, and afraid that the heavy social week-end would augment the total, President Frank immediately called into consultation officials of the department of student health and of the medical school with the deans of the various colleges, and, shortly after 1 p. m., issued the statement which precipitated the most hectic afternoon that the Wisconsin student body has experienced in many semesters.

"Upon the unanimous advice and recommendation of the staff of the Student Health service, the head of the department of medicine of the Medical School, and with the concurrence of the Deans of the several colleges, it has been ordered that Uni-

Grading in Test School Outlined

Three Pieces of Work to Be Basis of Marks, Director Says

Methods of grading Experimental college sophomores for recommendation to full junior standing in the college of Letters and Science were announced yesterday by Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, director, in a meeting of the sophomore class.

The grading will be determined entirely on the basis of the quality of three pieces of work: first, a regional study; second, a special study and third, a general objective test in material not specifically related to the course of study of the Experimental college.

Regional Study Explained
The regional study, already started by the students, is to consist of a survey of one particular city or locality in the United States, approached from the standpoints of population, geography, industry, government, and civic institutions. It must be completed by the spring vacation.

The two other pieces of work will be carried on after the spring vacation. The special study will be a paper devoted to some particular phase or development of American life to be selected from a list of topics prepared by the advisers. Almost two months have been allotted for its completion.

Give Intelligence Test
The only examination in the conventional sense to be given Experimental college men will consist of a general intelligence test for which no specific preparation can be made. It will have no relation to the work carried on throughout the two-year course, and will be given at the end of the second semester.

Upon the results of the three pieces of work each student will be given a mark for his two years' course, according to the regular grade system of the university. In this way it is expected that Experimental college students who have completed their work in accordance with the regular university requirements will be free to transfer to other colleges of the country without loss of standing.

versity classes be dismissed for the Christmas holidays on Saturday noon, Dec. 15, 1928, and that official university approval for all social activities for the week-end be cancelled," the statement read.

Difficulties Raised

"This order has been issued with the greatest reluctance, because it involves embarrassing difficulties for students who have made extensive arrangements for pre-holiday social events, and necessitates readjustments of the teaching program. It has not been issued because the large number of gripe infections have, to date been serious in character, but for the two following reasons:

"First, there is a marked increase in the number of cases this morning, and it is the judgment of the medical staff that a crowded week-end of social activities would insure a new peak load of cases by Monday morning, making further inroads on the effectiveness of class rooms by extensive absences, and prevent large numbers of students from being able to reach their homes for the Christmas season at all. And there would be definite risks of relapse and complications in the case of convalescents who would attend the social activities of the week-end.

Try to Prevent Epidemic

"Second, by reducing the social contacts of parties and class rooms at this earlier period, it is the judgment of the medical staff that we can prevent what might otherwise prove a serious epidemic and save time of both students and faculty by thus getting the university community back to normal more quickly."

The closing of school makes all classes today and Saturday no-cut classes, and in many courses Thursday classes were no-cut. According to F. O. Holt, registrar, it will be necessary for persons violating the no-cut rule to obtain excuses from the deans of their respective colleges.

orchestras, through their local president, notified fraternities and other groups that they would be held responsible for full payment unless the events were rescheduled. A national musicians union by-law requires payment for cancellations without a week's advance notice.

"We have been unable to talk to most of the orchestras, but we should consider such a situation most unfortunate," Miss Margaret Ellingson, secretary to Dean of Men, Scott H. Goodnight, declared. "Rather than have fraternities pay for music they do not receive, we will encourage postponement of parties to the two free week-ends in January."

Railroads Alter Plans

Special accommodations for transportation were being arranged by railroads and bus lines late yesterday. The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific announced that specials scheduled to run on Wednesday would be advanced to Saturday, while the Chicago and Northwestern was rescheduling trains to accommodate the rush on both Friday and Saturday. Busses will run on schedule, it was announced, with extra accommodations available.

The change of vacation resulted in the filing of more than 700 messages at Western Union at 9 p. m. last evening, and officials of the company declared that there were sufficient full-rate messages on the hooks to keep the operators busy all evening. They anticipated heavy business on Friday.

The interfraternity regular football race was finished Thursday afternoon when four teams played two games in which no scores were made.

First place goes to Theta Xi, with its powerful line and speedy backfield. The same team held the championship last year.

The Theta Xi's defeated the Kappa Sigma outfit on the basis of first downs. The game was a mid-field affair played with a greasy ball, hard to handle, and on a grid slippery enough to hinder open field running. The Kappa Sigs receive second place honors in the race.

'Clinic'; Discuss Rules
and Methods

The fourth annual coaches' clinic will be held beginning today, when athletic coaches from midwestern schools and colleges will meet in the armory as a coaching school that is considered one of the best in the country. From 150 to 175 coaches are expected to be present.

The "clinic" was established to provide secondary schools and small college coaches with an opportunity to obtain ideas from coaches of proved ability on athletic instruction. All of the Badger athletic mentors will deliver short talks and conduct round-table discussions in their respective fields. In this manner present rules, problems arising in athletic coaching, and methods of treating emergency injuries will be aired.

Two Fast Games Won by D.U.'s, Delt's in Basketball Tourney

Following the completion of another set of games in the first round of the interfraternity basketball tournament, five teams found themselves handicapped by losses. Good playing was shown in the games which were played, but three of the matches were forfeited.

Alpha Sigma Phi and Delta Sigma Pi failed to present either of their teams and the game was postponed. Delta Sigma Phi won from Alpha Kappa Lambda by a forfeit, and Phi Gamma Delta forfeited to Delta Theta Sigma.

Delta Upsilon Wins
Delta Upsilon showed themselves one of the best teams in the third division by easily disposing of the fighting Lambda Chi Alpha quintet, 20-10. O'Neil and Murphy with their height and weight kept taking long shots at the beginning of the game and following through for the rebound to roll up 10 points before the half.

Although the losers had numerous shots at the baskets, they failed to make many of them, and lost the game by their inability to make points. Two remarkable scores were made when Kestley sank a basket over his head from a 90-degree angle, and one of the guards whipped one through the net from past the center of the floor. Don Hulteen also played well for the losers.

Delta Tau Delta Victor
Delta Tau Delta had no trouble in disposing of Phi Epsilon Pi, 22-8. Johnson, elongated center for the Delt's, was high scorer with 9 points. Their opponents played a loose, rough game, many fouls being committed in an attempt to stop the high-scoring Delt's.

J. Murray and Healy amassed 14 points between them to help Phi Kappa defeat Kappa Eta Kappa, 21-8. Knaak and Kuzynski each gathered four points to complete the scoring for the losers.

A sedan-style automobile which can travel on rails has been especially constructed for inspection trips over a Canadian railway line.

Don Meiklejohn '31, son of Professor Meiklejohn of the experimental college, will captain the Wisconsin hockey squad this year, it was announced by Coach Johnny Farquhar Thursday.

The announcement of Meiklejohn's election as captain of the puck squad came as a surprise inasmuch as Don Mitchell, star goalie for the past two years was supposedly captain again this year. But it was disclosed that Mitchell, who has been rated as the best college goalie in the country is ineligible and will not be able to play.

Don Meiklejohn as a sophomore at Wisconsin earned his letter in hockey and tennis. In the latter sport he earned a major letter as a member of the title winning team.

High Scorer Last Year
Meiklejohn was high scorer of the Wisconsin hockey team last year in his position at center. He was undoubtedly one of the most outstanding players in the middle west—this despite his weight which is barely above 150 pounds.

He has had a remarkable record both in prep school and at Wisconsin. At the Taft preparatory school in the East he played two years of stellar hockey. His other activities at this prep school included the following: highest scholastic average in class, tennis and soccer teams, school paper and debating team.

Was Frosh Captain
As a freshman at Wisconsin he was elected captain of the freshmen hockey team. In his sophomore year he was tied for the scholastic lead of his class with an all "A" average. Besides winning his letter in hockey and tennis he was active in dormitory athletics playing touch football and running cross country. He was also chairman of the dormitory house in 1927-28 and has held other important offices in the dormitories.

The news that Mitchell will not play leaves the goalie position open two weeks. Frisch as a freshman last year prepared for his position for the past all men with serious aspirations of year played spectacularly at the goalie position.

Expect More Ice
Farquhar feels that the present rain and chilly weather will turn to ice and freezing temperatures and usher in another period of activity before Christmas. Inasmuch as he has not had sufficient opportunity to sufficiently consider his candidates it is imperative that they stay over. The annual training trip will be taken through upper Minnesota, and as usual the Badgers will meet numerous powerful teams in the Northern country.

Farquhar also announced that all speed skaters and hockey men must see him before they leave Madison for the vacation. He announces that Rathskeller, and the Beefeater's and making the varsity hockey and skating teams must stay in Madison at least until the 24th of December. At that time the team to make the Christmas training trip will be selected.

The second round of the dormitory basketball schedule was run off Wednesday night at Wisconsin high gym with two games each from Adams and Tripp halls. Fallows 15, High 14

With the entire score divided between two men, Kuehltau and Kurnmelle, Fallows pushed across a well-earned win over High house. Rhode of High accounted for 10 of his team's points.

High: Burnham, Goessling, Whipp, Rhode, Bemis, Steckler.

Botkin 19, Vilas 9

After being held to the small end of a 7-8 count at the half, Botkin came back with 12 points in the second half, while holding Vilas to a single free throw. Patterson, Waite, and Babington with a total of 13 points, formed the key of Botkin's offense.

Botkin: Eberhardt, Meyer, Summerville, Babington, Waite, Patterson, Langlykke.

LaFollette 17, Noyes 15

By tightening their defense and scoring consistently in the second half, LaFollette fought its way to a close win over Noyes. Boesel, Butts and Davies of LaFollette divided the scoring honors for their team.

Noyes: Ley, Mortinson, Rue, Schmidtel, Cohen, Keisling, Larkin, Newfeld, Aynard.

LaFollette: Schaeffer, Reeve, Boesel, Butts, Connelly, Moore, Davies.

Siebecker 15, Van Hise 18

In a fast game, marred somewhat by roughness and fouling, Van Hise took Siebecker house into camp by means of consistent scoring. Vass and Otto, with 10 and 8 points, respectively, made every point scored for Van Hise house.

Van Hise: Vass, Newell, Randolph, Otto, Schaeffer.

which we have taken this health measure to prevent," she continued.

Dean Nardin further asserted that Friday night would necessarily be a 10:30 night, due to the fact that all social functions are to be cancelled by request from the president's office.

Cardinal Giants Meet Pittsburgh Dwarfs Saturday

Badger Fans Get Special Railroad Rates to Milwaukee Game

When the Cardinal basketball quintet clashes with the Pittsburg Panthers in Milwaukee auditorium tomorrow night, it will match a team of giants against a group of elusive midgets.

The game starts at 8 p. m. and will be broadcast by the Milwaukee Journal station, WTMJ. Hundreds of students and Madison fans are planning to attend the game, taking advantage of a special rate over the Chicago and North Western Railway which will make the round trip possible for less than $3.

The Wisconsin ticket office announced Thursday that very few tickets remained of the generous block sent here from Milwaukee. Between 8,000 and 9,000 spectators are expected to view the contest.

A Coach's Battle

The battle of the two doctors, Coach Meanwell of Wisconsin and Dr. H. C. Carlson, of Pittsburgh, will be one feature of interest to the fans. Another will be the spectacle of a small, high scoring Panther machine facing a collection of Badger six-footers who rely quite as much on their defense as on their point-getting powers to win ball games.

Dr. Meanwell will take his auxiliary squad of former football players to Milwaukee. It is doubtful if any of the gridiron will see action, as they have been rounding into shape slowly.

At least eight of the Wisconsin men are certain to play. They are: Miller, Matthiesen, Foster, and Tenhopen, forwards; Kowalezyk, center, and Ellerman, Chmielewski, and Doyle, guards.

Strong Attack

Dr. Carlson announced that Pittsburgh probably will start Hyatt and Zehfuss at forwards, Baker at center, and Wunderlich and L. Cohen at the guards. Hyatt, who scored 292 of the Panthers' 992 points last season, will be watched closely by the Wisconsin guards, as he is without doubt the key to the Eastern team's attack.

Dr. Carlson, Pittsburgh coach, has already ventured the opinion that Pitt will go through its season und

Hawkeye Cage Men Hit Good Physical Norm

Picture a basketball player—a 21 year old man, who carries 171 pounds upon his six foot frame. He is the average University of Iowa player, according to physical statistics of the 21 athletes on the Hawkeye squad.

The 1928-29 specimen is an inch and one-half taller, a pound lighter, and the same age as the average man on Coach Sam Barry's squad of last season.

Wagner Heaviest

Joe N. Wagner, sophomore center from Ottumwa, bears away all weight and height honors. His 205 pounds make him the heaviest man to report for Iowa basketball in many seasons, and his six feet, three inches of height place him an inch above Captain "Rags" Wilcox, center.

Each weighing 185 pounds, Forrest Twogood, Westfield, and Doyal Plunkett, Frankfort, Ind., forwards, and Mike Farroh, Michigan City, Ind., guard, rank second to Wagner in weight.

Simpson is Light

Erwin H. Simpson, Bellevue, forward, weighs 147 pounds and is the lightest man on the squad. Second to him is Herbert H. Jebens, Davenport, sophomore guard, with 155 pounds.

The shortest player is Julian C. Reinhardt, Iowa City, guard, who is five feet, seven inches tall. Paul S. Cummings, Cedar Rapids forward, is five feet, eight inches.

Twenty-five years old, Jebens is the most mature of the Iowans. Wagner and Simpson

Wisconsin Closes Down

And the Medical Fallacy of Secrecy Is Again Displayed

UNDER the sudden development of adverse circumstances that brought in an influx of influenza during the past 24 hours, the dismissal of university functions beginning Saturday noon was probably the only recourse for President Frank. He acted upon the advice of medical authorities, who estimate several hundred cases of flu in the university, and who feared a spread of illness over the weekend that might bring the total much higher by Monday morning, if activities were to be continued.

This unexpected upheaval, however, practically shatters every plan of students and faculty. Of course, it permits the Christmas recess to be four days longer, but contrary to popular opinion this is not the important consideration.

What is the reason for this ungodly mess that has developed? The Daily Cardinal would lay it partially at the door of university medical authorities, who for days calmly denied existence of sickness and maintained a secluded air of secrecy until the climax was reached. Optimistically, the infirmary officials maintained that there was no prevalence of sickness. Probably they wished to prevent a panic that might arise among students if they understand the seriousness of an epidemic. But, in the meantime, no one took serious precautions against possible illness, and influenza spread.

There is little excuse for this silence. The Daily Cardinal sincerely believes that had the authorities admitted the seriousness of the present epidemic a week ago, President Frank's move of Thursday would have been unnecessary. The university could have continued its work. Briefly, the present state of affairs should teach the medical officials that the records of student illness at the University of Wisconsin be made an open book, and not a holy tablet kept from student or faculty knowledge.

In the meantime, professors will lose two and one-half teaching days. This means a cramming of work in January in order that the loss be compensated. And since one may assume that students are hardly likely to work ahead during the recess, it is practically a certainty that January this year is going to be a tough proposition.

Nothing different could probably have been done by President Frank. The university has been dismissed, to take effect Saturday noon. But the condition resulting certainly puts affairs in a bad way.

Fine Justice

Prof. Rundell Illustrates a Good Policy on Library Rules

A keen sense of justice is displayed by Prof. Oliver S. Rundell of the Law School faculty in his comment on the punishment of three student violators of library rules.

Said he: "The committee has adopted a policy of detecting all offenders and fining them a moderate amount, rather than having a looser policy, convicting fewer guilty ones and imposing larger fines."

The matter of library discipline is a difficult one. It has its root in the fact that the library is ill equipped to render effective service to the student body. Students would not take books from reserved shelves, a common offense, if they were supplied with enough copies. But financial conditions do not permit this abundance of books.

This necessitates a spirit of understanding among the students. They must realize that when they steal a book from a reserved shelf they do not only make themselves a thief but that they likewise deprive someone else the opportunity to use the book.

There appears to be no remedy for the situation and we can but thank what powers that be that Oliver S. Rundell is in charge of disciplinary measures.

Commending Prof. Cole

Now for a Little Action Here Regarding 'Railroad Jack'

PROF. COLE of the History department is to be commended for his action with regard to Railroad Jack. He is the only professor that would admit that another would have something of interest and benefit to offer to his classes. He has not hid behind academic dignity but has succeeded in expressing a clear and forceful statement without appearing ridiculous either. Others who were interviewed with regard to Railroad Jack's speaking to their classes backed out in a graceful manner. Prof. Cole is a "regular guy."

Financial Loss

Another Aspect of Sudden University Dismissal Is Herein Shown

THE announcement that the university would close Saturday is food for thought in that it serves to make us realize what a tremendously large place it really is.

Numerous plans had to be cancelled at the last minute. Rescheduling special trains, broken dates, telegrams and phone calls, exams cancelled—rather postponed—and sighs of relief for those with overdue papers were all caused by this announcement.

The number of university employees who will get an added vacation with full pay is also worth comment. The various formals and other social arrangements which were postponed or cancelled caused much confusion and expense. Guarantees to orchestras were lost in many cases.

The business that Madison shop owners will lose is incalculable, the amount of advertising which newspapers and other publications will lose is also large.

All in all it is safe to estimate the financial loss of this move at nearly ten thousand dollars.

A Platform Postponed

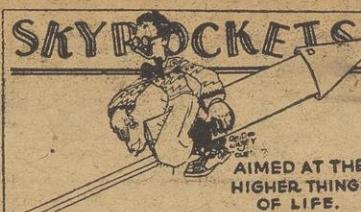

THE DAILY CARDINAL regrets that its plans, like those of many others, have been sadly interrupted by the announcement of university dismissal on Saturday. Our discussion on a system to regulate activities, already a long time over-due, must now wait until January. Had the paper been able to continue publication until Wednesday morning, it would have been possible to present the entire case before its readers and the Student Life and Interests committee by that time.

A "hiking trip" that covered five states and a province of Canada was made recently by a senior at the University of Kentucky at the expense of $9. He made the entire trip by catching automobile rides and flew over Niagara Falls in an airplane.

According to a member of the health department of the University of Texas, the style in posture now in favor among co-eds is the "turle neck." The head is held forward and the chin tilted up as far as possible.

Industries have used up more than 126,000,000 pounds of TNT and other military explosives left on the hands of the government at the close of the recent war.

The word, cider, comes to us from the Hebrew, through the Greek and Latin, all signifying strong drink.

A pal of ours says that he knows a couple of Milwaukee millionaires who are going to get him into the basketball games. He's a lucky fellow. The situation is the best argument for a field house.

We're sorry we sneered when the girl in our English class said, "Life is like a stage." The ascent to the third floor of Bascom is an effective reminder of the "flight" scene in Seventh Heaven.

This sounded very plausible indeed until we were later informed that many of the absents were "B or Better" students and cut merely because they were a bit sensitive about sleeping in public.

Reed, Formerly of Faculty, Dies

Succumbs in Arizona; Was University Department Head Here

News has been received by the university Romance Languages department of the death of Prof. F. O. Reed, about 50, a former member of the department, in Tucson, Ariz., last Thursday.

Prof. Reed was a Spanish and French instructor here from 1907 until 1924, when he resigned to become head of the Spanish department at the University of Arizona. He had a wide circle of friends among the faculty and townspeople here.

The deceased was graduated from Amherst in 1899 and afterward traveled in Europe for several years. He was the author of a number of texts and technical articles on the Spanish language.

While here, he was a member of the University club. He belonged to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society, and to the Modern language association.

Art of John Owen, Zona Gale Scholar, Displayed Up Town

Paintings by John Bryan Owen, grandson of William Jennings Bryan, and Zona Gale scholar, will be exhibited at McKillop Ara company this week.

The collection consists of landscapes, many mural designs, sketches of marine life, and portraits. Twenty-three years old, Owen has exhibited at a number of galleries in the south and in small New York galleries.

His book of poems has just been accepted by Alfred Knopf, New York, for publication early next year. Poems are chiefly satiristic in tone, although many are colorful descriptive pieces.

Mr. Owen has lived with his grandmother, wife of the "Great Commoner," at Ashville, N. C. His mother, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, recently was elected to Congress from Coral Gables, Fla. Zona Gale discovered Owen while touring the south on her wedding trip this spring.

Prof. Fish Lauds Character of Ben Franklin in Talk

"Benjamin Franklin made himself what he wanted to be and in doing so he built up one of the finest characters in American history," declared Prof. Carl Russell Fish, in speaking on Franklin before the Knights of Pythias at their dinner in the lodge rooms Tuesday night.

A reading by James Barclay, prominent local business man, a violin solo by Helen Berg '30, and a vocal solo by Walter Pocock concluded the entertainment.

"He devoted his life," said Professor Fish, "in making his mind capable to handle all things that came along and he succeeded."

Father of Soda Water

FROM the United States comes the suggestion that it is high time some lasting memorial was devised to the inventor of soda-water. The proposal, made in a scientific journal published in Washington, is that the name of Joseph Priestley should be commemorated in every school by a fountain flowing freely with the beverage that carbonates but does not inebriate." That is a very fitting and natural proposal to come from a country which is legally committed to take its soda-water without admixture, and there is no doubt that in supplying the teetotaler with those "beaded bubbles winking at the brim" which had formerly been the decoration only of fermented drinks Priestley made a useful contribution to civilization. But it is not easy to isolate this incidental activity from the many others in which that extraordinary man engaged, and of which some are still a great deal more controversial than is the mere enlivening of water with gas. For Priestley may fairly be said to have carbonated the whole atmosphere of religious thought in this country in the closing years of the eighteenth century, and the effervescence then begun is by no means stilled yet, least of all in the United States. Science, including soda-water, was certainly more than a hobby with this explosive Yorkshire man but it was not his main passion. That expressed itself in his ardent championship in the religious field of the need for critical examination of accepted dogma. He brought to the task a mind of astonishing energy and fertility. A boy who in his teens could master enough of Chaldean, Arabic, and Syriac to further his aims and who yet, before he was twenty, refused to advance his educational career by subscribing against his conscience to the articles of the Calvinist faith was something of a portent even in a day when religious controversy rent the kingdom. And the portent was fulfilled. It would be hard to overestimate what higher criticism and liberal dissent have owed to Dr. Priestley's fearless intellectual sincerity. It led to the burning of his house by a Birmingham mob, and ultimately to his choice of America as a home. If, as a memorial to him, the schools of the States could lay on an unfailing tap of his finely critical spirit the soda-water might well be dispensed with.

Facts Wanted

We should like some day to see a reliable compilation of statistics concerning prohibition and its problems in the colleges and universities of this country. Upon the generation now in the higher schools of the United States supposedly will devolve the intellectual leadership of the nation, and one of the most important tasks that it will be called upon to face will be that of solving the prohibition dilemma. It would be well for the rising generation to give the subject some real thought. Whether or not it intends to enforce the legislation imposed upon it by parents, or legally to renounce it, or illegally to ignore it is surely a matter which deserves its attention.

Our attention is called to this subject by a report of the International Student, organ of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, entitled "A Year Among the Colleges of the United States." This organization apparently has been carrying on an extensive propaganda service in four hundred colleges of the country, expending untold ergs in holding lectures, forums, and discussion groups, but if its accomplishments can be measured in anything but number of hours spent, the report says nothing about it. Surely in these broad contacts the representatives must have encountered much interesting material, but they record their achievements solely in number of weeks spent and number of students reached. Nowhere is mention of general student attitudes toward drinking and prohibition, nowhere of trends or student ideas.

Three years ago the Literary Digest conducted a poll of the nation's campuses on prohibition, announcing the general conclusion that drinking was on the wane. It is difficult to estimate the reliability of the Digest's investigations, but if we may judge by the researches at Cornell it was not great. The Cornell Countryman, a dependable farm journal devoted to agricultural interests, speaking for Cornell reported to the national weekly that the drinking problem was becoming less severe. One is inclined to conclude that there was no serious attempt made at accurate observation and investigation.

With all of the propaganda, much of it unsubstantiated, that prohibition is a success or a failure, it would be enlightening to have some facts concerning college attitudes and tendencies. With such facts available misrepresentations on both sides could be discredited, and the prohibition problem more intelligently attacked.

Orchestra Not to Play Sunday

Major Morphy Postpones Concert; Christmas Festival Cancelled

According to Maj. E. W. Morphy, the concert that was to have been given at 3 p. m. Sunday in the gym by the concert orchestra will be postponed indefinitely, as will the Christmas festival that was to have been given in the evening.

Maj. Morphy stated that most of the members of the orchestra will leave immediately after their last classes and that even should the concert be put on, no audience would be present. Only four members of the orchestra are sick at the present time.

It will be necessary to get the orchestra together after the vacation and work them into shape again before attempting the concert, Maj. Morphy said. He promised that the program would be given this semester, however.

Union Committee to Leave Building Open for Holidays

Students staying in Madison over the holidays will have full use of the facilities of the Memorial Union during the vacation period, it has been announced by the house committee.

The refectory, the rathskeller, and the private dining rooms will be open as usual, with the exception that breakfast will be served in the refectory from 8 to 9 a. m. beginning Sunday. Tripp Commons and the tea room will be closed after Saturday.

The opportunity to use the lounges, the library, the writing room, and the billiard room will help to cheer up the dreary period for those students who must spend their vacation in Madison.

Heretofore the university and the town itself have offered nothing during the holidays in the way of recreation or entertainment for these students. Now the Memorial Union will mean something a little more homelike to them.

Professor R. A. Tallcott Thrills Audience With Reading of 'Hell Bent Fer Heaven'

Prof. Rollo Anson Tallcott read "Hell Bent for Heaven" at Bascom theater Tuesday night, and made a large audience see a shifty-eyed, hymn-canting, fawning fanatic twist the words of the Bible to match his passions, and to wreak turmoil in the life of his rival in love and in the lives of a mountain family.

The seven characters of the three-act play were managed so successfully by Professor Tallcott that intonation, or the curve of his lip was enough to let you know if the worried mother, the nasally drawing fanatic, the burly father, or the likeable, blaspheming drunkard was speaking. Although his gestures were very restricted, and were not differentiated enough for each character, his vocal interpretation carried the audience to laughter, and suspense.

After the last echoes died away, his audience was left in thought. Throughout the play the pious fanatic had justified lies and even murder by the word of God. In the last scene, he is discovered by the people he has duped, and while they flee to safety he is left to face death. He calls upon the Lord to help him, and when no help comes, "Damn God."

Al Katz' Orchestra Plays at Pre-Prom Dance January 11

When Al Katz and his Kittens from Chicago sound the opening strains of the pre-Prom dance in the Union on Jan. 11, the Prom season will be opened to the tune of an orchestra which is being considered for an engagement at the University of Illinois junior promenade this year.

Tickets for the dance will be placed on sale on Jan. 4, according to John Dixon '30, chairman. Special table service will be given for couples in the and the last officially sanctioned party other dining rooms will be fitted up for lounging.

"The dance is for everybody, so we expect a record attendance," said Dixon. "If necessary, we will limit the ticket sale to prevent overcrowding as this is the first of the Prom events and the last officially sanctioned party before examinations."

An appeal to make the dance a 1 o'clock party will be made to the committee on student life and interests at its next meeting.

Union Cancels Zez Confrey's Program

The edict issued by President Frank announcing the closing of school Saturday noon has caused the Union to cancel the engagement of Zez Confrey's orchestra for the dance at the Union Saturday night, it was announced last night by Robert Calkins '30, chairman of the dance committee. Confrey's orchestra was one of a group of high class bands being brought here by the Union and may be re-engaged after the vacation period.

Margaret Bennett
Married Nov. 30

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Floyd H. Eggert '26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Eggert of Manitowoc, to Miss Margaret E. Bennett of La Crosse, daughter of Mrs. Eva Bennett. The ceremony took place on Nov. 30 at the home of the bride's mother with Rev. Bremiker of the Presbyterian church officiating.

The couple was married before an altar of palms and chrysanthemums with an artistic arrangement of roses and other decorations carrying out the yellow and white color scheme in the background. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. LeRoy Bennett of Chicago.

Miss Nina Slaughter of Oconto and Chester Lee Eggert '29, Alpha Kappa Kappa, of Manitowoc, brother of the groom, were the only attendants. The bride was gowned in blue transparent velvet and carried a shower bouquet of roses and narcissus. The maid of honor wore brown velvet and carried a bouquet of pink roses and narcissus.

Following a dinner served at 4 o'clock, the couple left immediately on a wedding trip to Minneapolis. They will be home to their friends after Dec. 15.

Mrs. Eggert is a graduate of La Crosse Normal and teaches in a high

Birge Speaks on Science, Religion

Calls Religious Views Static in Talk at Hillel Foundation

"Religion is almost static and almost invariably has been; science is progressive and has drawn off those men from religion who were its greatest thinkers," Dr. E. A. Birge, president emeritus of the university, said in a talk on "Science and Religion," delivered at the Hillel foundation Tuesday night.

Dr. Birge indicated how the impetus which science and scientific studies have acquired, and not the mere presence of science, has caused the trend of thought to swing away from religion and toward science. Science is progressive and commands attention, while religion is so static that it is very apt to be completely forgotten at times.

"The scientific mind reaches out and advances by dead reckoning, while the medieval mind of philosophy and religion moved in a free and unconcerned manner," Dr. Birge declared. The thinkers of former times were satisfied to come to their conclusions by logic, but the modern man of science wants a verification of any new idea which may arise.

"Science has a profound influence on religion and it affects man's way of looking at the problems of life. There need be no fear, however, that religion will disappear over night, because it has become well established in the mind of man, mainly through the efforts of medieval men, who gave more thought to the question," the speaker said.

GORDON HOSIERY PLAYS A HIGH HOLIDAY ROLE!

It's exactly the gift for one fastidious person to give another. For this hosiery has been designed with the utmost fashion knowledge. In Gordon V-Line Hosiery, the V-shaped shadows fall slenderly and precisely on either side of the ankle... accentuating the shadows which Nature always puts there.

In Gordon Narrow Heel Hosiery... you find the narrow shoe heel of fashion reflected subtly in silk.

The new formal costume colors—planned for the smart costumes of the season—are "Souris" . . . "Clytie" . . . "Marron" . . . and "Circe" (the new melon shade for evening).

Our Gordon Gift Hosiery is ready now for your selection. A box of three makes a practical and charming gift.

Reporter Falls Back on Weather; Discovers Wind, Cold Snap in Offing

BY H. J. S.

"Rain, rain, go away; come again some other day."

Remember how you used to chant this sentence from the first grade primer when you were knee high to a grasshopper, and mother kept you indoors because she was afraid you'd catch your death of cold if you paddled around in the water?

Always Interesting Topic

You've grown too old to repeat it now, but you probably often think it. The general condition of the weather is always a source of conversation when nothing else offers itself. It is also an old standby for the newspaper man.

That's why we were sent to ask Prof. E. R. Miller what the weather would be.

Colder Tonight

"It will probably rain another day, with shifting northeast to north and northwest winds, and a drop in temperature by tonight," he prophesied, adding that this kind of weather is not especially remarkable for December.

Personally we are glad it is raining, and that it has been rather damp for the last two or three days. For the climate undoubtedly has something to do with the decision of the deans to close school earlier. Our deduction is that the rain caused more attacks of influenza, and more colds, and so the closing of school was assured by the weather.

Madison or London

When we awoke Thursday morning we thought we were in dear ol' London, it was so foggy. The London fogs, however, are always 10 times worse than the mist which invaded Madison yesterday. More appropriately we could compare the fogs on Cape Cod to the one that stole silently in and wrapped the university in its ghostly mantle.

Well, since Professor Miller said that it will be colder by tonight, we can hope for a white Christmas. Ah, for the sake of the little kiddies I hope the snow does come, because Santa Claus won't come either if his sleigh has no snow to run on.

What is a home without a mother, and what is Christmas without snow?

Members of the Social Science department gave a dinner in the Old Madison room of the Union Wednesday night. Prof. F. A. Ogg of the Political Science department presided. The speakers were Profs. C. R. Fish, W. H. Kieckhofer, and Deans Slichter and Sellery.

'Flu' Hits Many Student Centers

Five Universities Report Epidemic Spread; Kansas Dismisses Classes

Wednesday's papers from all the leading universities contained stories telling of the flu epidemic which has been striking student centers all over the country. The universities that reported a marked spread of the epidemic were the University of Kansas, which has since been dismissed; Indiana University; Northwestern; Illinois; and Beloit.

Wednesday the University of Kansas issued the following statement:

"As a precaution in preventing the spread of the prevailing influenza epidemic, all dancing parties, both those informal affairs held during the week, and parties scheduled for this week-end, must be abandoned."

Northwestern Infirmary Filled

Dr. Sutton of Northwestern said that "both infirmaries are now filled to capacity, Roland Hall with 18 and Spencer Hall with 11, while many students living in Evanston or Chicago were forced to go to their homes when they reported with the sickness, rather than tax the already strained conditions of the infirmaries."

Indiana University at Bloomington, Ind., reports about 250 cases of influenza, according to Dr. J. E. Moser, secretary of the City Board of Health. However, the president of the university, William Lowe Bryan, said Wednesday night, "Neither the faculty nor the Executive committee of the Board of Trustees has considered the closing of school because of a few cases of influenza among the students."

84 Cases at Illinois

The University of Illinois reports that its infirmary is full to capacity with 84 cases of influenza, and that a house is being prepared to accommodate 40 or 45 additional students if conditions require more room.

The Daily Illini says, "Despite the fact that more cases of influenza were reported on the campus yesterday and the university is planning temporary quarters to care for the overflow of hospital patients, the influenza epidemic was characterized as not in any way serious yesterday by Dr. J. Howard Beard, university health officer."

Mild Epidemic at Beloit

Beloit College is in better condition than other schools, according to the Beloit paper which says, "An epidemic of severe colds and grippe in the city of Beloit has not left the college students unscathed. Reports indicate that there is but one genuine case of grippe under care there, but many students have been confined to their rooms in dormitories and fraternity houses with mild attacks of the disease.

The University of Kansas is the only one that has made an actual survey of conditions. The following notice was issued to Kansas students Wednesday:

Kansas Makes Survey

"Beginning tonight at 5 o'clock, and continuing until completed, doctors and their assistants will visit the larger student houses to learn more exactly the extent of the influenza epidemic here.

"Students in these houses are requested to remain at home until the inspection is completed. Other students with symptoms of colds should call at the dispensary tonight or tomorrow.

"No student with the least temperature or other symptom of a cold should leave town without the permission of a physician. There is great danger in any kind of travel for such cases."

Name Religious Convocation Speakers

Wise, Rose, McConnell to Lecture Here in March Series

Rabbi Stephan S. Wise, Dr. Elliot Ross, and Bishop Francis J. McConnell will be the speakers at the annual all-university religious convocations which are to take place during the month of March. The three men are leaders in Jewish, Catholic, and Protestant church affairs respectively.

Each speaker will present religion as he sees it, offering the viewpoint of a man of his faith. The talks will not be controversial in content, but rather explanatory. It is expected that the meetings will be conducted in a manner similar to those of last year with several anticipated advances.

Wise to Speak Mar. 1.

On Mar. 1, Dr. Wise, generally conceded to be the foremost of all American rabbis, will open the series. Although not every member of the Jewish faith is in entire accord with him, it was pointed out by the convocation committee that he is probably the most representative man of the faith as a whole.

The Roman Catholic aspect will be presented by Dr. Ross on either Mar. 4 or 5, the exact date being indefinite at present. He is connected with the Paulist Fathers of New York, and is also at the head of the Newman house at Columbia university.

McConnell Will Close Series

Closing the schedule, Bishop McConnell views are to be given on Mar. 10. He has been in the Methodist church since 1894, being located also in New York city. From 1909 to 1912 he was the president of DePauw university, leaving to take up his bishipric.

President Frank, who is intensely interested in the outcome of the series of convocations, has worked with the committee in charge in order to procure the services of the three noted churchmen. All of the talks will take place in the university gymnasium.

Serum Made Here Found Effective in Sleeping-Sickness

Sleeping-sickness serum, which is being developed by three of Wisconsin's professors, is hinted to be successful in combating the disease.

Dr. Warren K. Stratmen Thomas of the university, head of the sleeping sickness expedition now in Africa, reports that his trial of the drug warrants its further study. Dr. A. S. Loevenhart, professor of pharmacology and toxicology, and Dr. W. F. Lorenz, professor of neuro-psychiatry, have developed the drug which Dr. Stratmen Thomas is testing.

His communication was made public today by the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial foundation and the Parke-Davis research laboratories which are backing him.

Greyhound Bus Leaves for New York City Saturday

New York city, the home of about 200 students at the university, will be the destination of a bus leaving Saturday afternoon from the Greyhound depot with a load of 33 students. The trip, which was arranged by Kopel Koplowitz '32, will be undertaken with the approvance of Dean Nardin, who has appointed an official chaperon inasmuch as both men and women will be passengers.

Campus Group Spreads Cheer

Presbyterians Will Distribute Dolls, Candy Throughout Country

Four dozen six inch dolls have been bought and dressed by the 80 members of the Westminster guild of the Student Presbyterian headquarters. The guild members also prepared 18 pounds of candy and seven pounds of nuts, for the Pueblo Indian children of Chimayo, N. M. The 48 dolls are to go to the Mossop school for girls at Harriman, Tenn., to the Sulphur Springs Community house at Stay, Ken., and to the Laurel hospital, White Rock, N. C.

The estimated value of the 48 dolls is $25. Each girl has bought and dressed one doll. Approximately one month has been spent in the preparation of the service work. In addition to the dolls and candy, the senior guild, which is composed of the senior girls of the organization, is to give a Christmas program to the Gisholt old folks' home, at Sun Prairie road, as a part of the service program.

The Presbyterian guild girls are members of the national Westminster guild. All Presbyterian girls and their friends are eligible for membership. The organization meets once every two weeks for devotional discussion.

Professor Brown Called to Attend Indian Conference

Prof. Ray A. Brown of the Law school has been called to a conference at Atlantic City Dec. 14 and 15 to propose the adoption of measures collected data for the book "The Problem of the American Indian in the United States," which was finished in the fall of 1927 and was published May 1928 by the Johns Hopkins University press.

Son of Professor Gillin Is Assisting Father in Article

John Gillin '27, son of Prof. J. L. Gillin, of the department of sociology, has returned to Madison and at present is assisting his father in preparing an article on the trip around the world they took last year.

John was in England early this fall, planning to enter the London university school of economics. He was unable to study on account of an eye ailment, however, and returned to Madison.

Gillin and Hamilton Beatty '28 were planning to attend the English school together. Beatty remained in London and is studying architecture.

Girl Reserve Aid Asked to Cheer Ill Hospital Tots

Were you ever a Girl Reserve? In the Wisconsin General hospital there are little boys and girls, crippled or sick, who lie in bed day after day without any contact with the outside world, and with little or no entertainment. These children need some one who will come to talk to them, read to them, and play with them.

The University Y. W. C. A. is organizing a group of girls who were once Girl Reserves to undertake this work, and has issued a call for volunteers to sign up in the Y. W. office in Lathrop hall some time before Christmas.

The first meeting, for the purpose of organization, will be held Monday, Jan. 7, at 12:45 p. m. in the Y. W. office.

Increase Postal Staff in Madison

New, Devine Issue Directions for Better Christmas Service

Co-eds get more Christmas mail than men students according to Charles S. Devine, Madison postmaster, when explaining the preparations being made by the post-office for the Christmas rush.

A total of 36 additional mail carriers will be added to the regular force during the rush season, and 26 additional clerks will be hired. The parcel-post department will occupy the basement of the new post-office now under construction, which is expected to be finished by March 1. Eight trucks will be added to the equipment, making a total of 19 in all for the delivery of parcel-post packages.

Wrap Tightly, Please
Mr. Devine urged that students wrap and address packages well before mailing them. He explained that a package which loses its wrapper or address is necessarily delayed, and in a good many cases sent to the dead letter department at St. Paul. Mr. Devine believes that people wrap packages better than they used to, because of the campaigning on the part of the government postal authorities.

Throughout the Christmas season the cancelling machine is run day and night. This machine has a capacity of 250 a minute. Greeting cards of irregular size greatly delay the work of cancelling, because they must be stamped by hand. Students are advised to send all their greeting cards in envelopes, because, according to Mr. Devine, the loose cards are the ones that are held back and delayed if the post-office is flooded beyond its capacity with mail. A card in an envelope is not as likely to be held back.

New Issues Warning

Postmaster General Harry S. New, has issued this message to students and mailers:

"During the holiday time the volume of mail increases approximately 200 per cent. It is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail efficiently and promptly within a few days. Therefore to assure delivery of their Christmas presents, cards and letters by Christmas Day the public should SHOP AND MAIL EARLY."

"Do your Christmas shopping so that you can mail your gifts, greetings, and letters to relatives, friends, and loved ones at least a week or 10 days before Christmas, according to the distance. This will not only make it certain that they are received on or before Christmas Day, but will be a great aid to your postal service and to postal employees and enable them to spend Christmas Day with their families."

Advises Early Mailing

It is strongly advised by postal authorities that the students mail their gifts early and write "Do not open until Christmas" on the outside of the package. The use of "Fragile" or "Perishable" signs as well as special delivery stamps is also urged.

Mr. Devine said that although most of the students go home for the holidays, and the laundry mail is not as heavy as otherwise, nevertheless, student mail is quite heavy during the season.

Saddle and Sirloin Essay Awards Go to Badger Students

Students of the University of Wisconsin Agricultural college stand highest in number of medal awards in the Saddle and Sirloin club essay contests for the last seven years, according to Charles B. Snyder of Chicago, president.

The figures since 1921 are:

University of Wisconsin, 2 gold medals, 2 silver medals; one bronze medal; Iowa State college, 2 gold, 2 silver, 1 bronze; University of Illinois, 2 gold, 2 silver; University of California, 1 gold, 1 bronze; University of West Virginia, 2 silver.

The universities of Kansas, Minnesota, and Purdue each have won a bronze medal. In the list of colleges ranking in number of placings, Wisconsin ranks third, with California and Kansas first and second.

Essays for the 1928 contest were submitted Nov. 1, 1928.

Present Second Faculty Recital Tuesday, Jan. 8

Three faculty members of the University School of Music, L. A. Coon, E. W. Murphy, and E. E. Swinney, associate professors, will appear in a joint recital Tuesday, Jan. 8, at 8:15 p. m. in Music hall. Professor Coon is a pianist well known to both the university and the city; and Professor Murphy, who is the director of the concert band and orchestra, is a violinist. Professor Swinney, who is the director of the Men's Glee club, will sing.

This is the second Faculty recital arranged by Dr. Charles H. Mills, director of the School of Music, for this year. Prof. Cecil Burleigh, violinist, played the first recital of the 1928-29 series last month.

The complete program to be offered by the three faculty members in the joint recital will soon be announced, according to Dr. Mills.
