GROOM PRIZE ANIMALS FOR ANNUAL SHOW

Blue Ribbon Stock Doped to Repeat Honors By Backers

HOLD EVENT TOMORROW

With only one more day in which to fit their animals, competition for the Grand Championship cup becomes keener than ever among the students who will exhibit live stock at the Little International Live Stock show to be held in the University Stock pavilion tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock.

More than $250 in trophies, live stock, and cash prizes will be awarded to the winners in the various live stock classes. The awards consist of 15 silver cups, two live animals, gold and silver pencils, fountain pens, medals, books, subscriptions to breed papers, and numerous other trophies.

Prize Animals Entered

Many prize winning animals will enter the show ring for Grand Championship honors. One of the favorites is "Substantial of Highland," the university Ayrshire sire. The Ayrshire favorite won first honors last year, and his exhibitor is out to win the cup again. The animal will be exhibited by Otto Schroeder, S. C.

Rivaling the Ayrshire for symmetry and beauty is "Windsor Ormsby Butter Boy," king of the Holstein herd. The black and white animal took first place in 1920, and is due for a comeback, according to Holstein enthusiasts. The Holstein bull weighs 2,300 pounds and requires two men to hold him.

200 Workers Meet In Prelim Banquet Of Religious Confo

Nearly 200 students and members of the local clergy attended the banquet preliminary to the All-University Religious conference last night at the Christ Presbyterian church where addresses were made by Pres. E. A. Birge, Marion Neprud '22, and Sterling Tracy '22.

The banquet was held to marshal all the forces which will co-operate to promote the annual conference to be held from March 10 to 12. The conference is held under the auspices of the Campus Religious council.

Joseph Gleason '22, was toastmaster. In presenting President Birge he praised the stand taken by the president in his controversy with Mr. Bryan. This praise of the president was greeted with applause by the students and pastors.

Dr. Birge in his address characterized religion as the way of life rather than a set of philosophical tenets. Religion, he said, affords the only basis for the solution of the practical problems of living as they arise. The emphasis on this aspect of religion justified the holding of the conference, he stated.

All the workers for the conference will meet Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock in Music hall to perfect the preliminary arrangements for the conference.

Senate Investigates Cardinal Difficulty

The dispute between the Cardinal Board of Control and the business and editorial staffs arising over a difference of opinion in regard to administering the business and editorial affairs of the paper came before the joint-government committee of the Student Senate yesterday afternoon for discussion. The findings of the committee will be presented at a special meeting of the Senate Saturday afternoon.

The Board of Control asked the resignation of Donald M. Bailey '22, business manager of the paper, at a meeting Wednesday afternoon. Rollin Ecker '22 was appointed to succeed him.

A joint meeting of the editorial and business staffs of the Cardinal and the Board of Control has been called for this afternoon at 12:45 in 37 South hall.

BADGER SUMMER SCHOOL THIRD IN SIZE IN COUNTRY

Only Columbia and Chicago Surpass Enrollment Here

Total attendance at the 1921 summer session of the University of Wisconsin was surpassed by only two institutions in the country, Columbia and Chicago, according to reports recently submitted by Dean S. H. Goodnight, director of the summer session.

The registration at Columbia university was 11,809, and 6,458 students attended the session at Chicago. Enrollment at Wisconsin reached 4,547.

For the first time in many years, the attendance at Wisconsin was greater than that at California, 4,430, and but nine sessions passed the 2,000 mark, Michigan, Cornell, Colorado, New York, and Harvard, each having a registration of between 2,000 and 3,000.

It is interesting to note that in endowed institutions summer session fees are very much higher than those of state institutions.

Of the total of 4,547 students registered at Wisconsin, 2,428 were women, and 2,119 were men. There were 2,587 teachers enrolled, 117 of whom had already been granted degrees higher than the bachelors degree. The actual teaching faculty for the summer session numbered 253 persons.

Every state in the union was represented, and there were students present from 15 foreign countries. Wisconsin with 2,191, Illinois with 534, China with 42, and the Philippine islands with 18, were, respectively, the states and foreign countries which claimed the largest representations.

Divided according to colleges and schools, Letters and Science stood first with 3,659, Agriculture second with 390, and Engineering third with 274. Of the total of 4,547 persons enrolled, 3,077 were undergraduates.

Union Board Dance Called Off Tonight

The Union board dance advertised to be held tonight in the Woman's building has been called off by Gordon Wanzer '24, who has charge of the dance, in order not to interfere with the Gun and Blade banquet tonight.

"Mos' Wondahful" Of Stories Told By Lucine Finch

"Honey, I's gwine tell yo da mos' wondahful story in die world!"

And the audience hanging on every word of Miss Lucine Finch, interpreter of negro stories, last night in the crowded lecture room at Bascom hall was satisfied.

"Simon Peter Goes A-Fishing on the Lord's Day" began the awful story. With infinite voice modulations, sudden changes of facial expression—an uplifted eyebrow, a knowing smile, a grim frown—she cast her spell. Poor Peter, with the "Mastah of die Sabbath and die lil' fish wid die ruby mouth in cahouts"—what could he do? Woe unspeakable! With all due "certemony" was consigned to the grave what was left of the erring youth—his little finger-nail!

Where did the astonishing story of the creation come from with its absurd combination of "daylight dazzelations," cutting out of little stars all "pinted with scissors," Eve's advent when "mud-made Adam lay in a deep transom," and the "answerfications" for casting aside the "plumgranites" in favor of the forbidden time-honored apples at the ogling of "wily" Miss Serpent?

From her old negro Mammy bought in bondage from her African tribe, "Forbidden Fruit," long years before, Miss Finch heard the stories and spirituelle songs sung in plaintively sweet minor chords.

Alpha Pi Epsilon, honorary women's sociological fraternity, had charge of the ticket sale for the reading.

Radio to Broadcast Glee Songs Tonight

The Girls' Glee club concert to be given tonight at 8:15 in Music hall will be sent by wireless throughout the United States from the radio station here. Tickets for the concert will be on sale all day at Bascom, Lathrop, and Music halls, and at the door this evening. The price is 35 cents.

As an opening number, the club will sing Schubert's "By the Sea" without an accompaniment. Three songs of a lighter character, of which "The Big Brown Bear" is perhaps the best known, will follow. "The Spinning Chorus" from Wagner's opera, "The Flying Dutchman," and the Liszt setting of Heine's well known poem "The Loreley," are among the numbers making up the first part of the program.

The second part will be a cantata, which, according to Miss Madelon Willman, director, is an especially well balanced and appropriate musical setting for Tennyson's story of "The Lady of the Lake."

Grad Enrollment Increases to 800

A total of 800 post grads are enrolled in the university graduate school this semester, the enrollment marking an increase of 120 students over last semester's.

A record has been made both in the year's as well as the semester's total. In past years the second semester has marked a falling off in the graduate enrollment.

TANK MEN HIT GOPHER TEAM HERE TONIGHT

Illness Cripples Badgers; Minnesota Invades Pool Unbeaten

STEINAUER SKEPTICAL

The Minnesota swimming team will invade the Badger pool tonight with a squad of natators who bear all the earmarks of a championship aggregation, and who are conceded to have the inside track on the Big Ten conference title.

Wisconsin's chances to win the meet do not appear exceptionally bright, due to the fact that four Badger swimmers have bad colds which may prevent them from being entered. In view of this fact, Coach Joe Steinauer feels that his men will be lucky if they are able to hold their own against the invaders.

Bennett is Dangerous

Johnny Bennett's performances this season make him a dangerous contender for places in the 40, 150, and 220 yard swims, however. The Badger star has not been forced at all this season, and he may spring a surprise on the Minnesotans. Czerwonky of Wisconsin should stand a chance in the back stroke event, while Collins and Koch may place in the dives.

The Minnesota team comes here with two decisive victories already stored away, Northwestern and Iowa having been vanquished. In the former meet the conference relay record was broken by two seconds.

Foircey, Gopher back stroke man, is easily the best man in the Big Ten conference this season, and Wisconsin stands little chance of (Continued on Page 7)

Blaine Unable to Attend Veterans' Banquet Tonight

Gov. John J. Blaine has notified Paul T. Tobey '22, president of Gun and Blade, that he will be unable to be present at the Gun and Blade banquet to be held this evening at 6:30 in the Woman's building. Governor Blaine is in New Orleans attending a conference of national guard authorities from all over the country.

Preparations for the feast are completed by the committee working under John Sheldon '23, general chairman. An Orpheum theater act has been added to the evening's entertainment for the disabled veterans and Edwin Booth will present three skits between courses.

Among the guests of honor for this evening are Captain Fred E. Hamilton, H. L. Hunter, Charles W. Sylvester, and H. J. Betty of Chicago; Pres. E. A. Birge, A. V. Millar, J. D. Phillips, C. M. Chapman, Major John S. Wood, Walter Chisholm, W. R. Richards, Melvin Teige, Mr. Buck, Sidney H. Stuart, Mayor I. M. Kittleson, J. A. James, G. E. Spohn, Mr. Brayton, E. M. Boerke, A. S. Loevenhart, all of Madison; Col. C. R. Forbes, Major A. A. Sprague, Washington, D. C., and Capt. Myron Odams, Fort Sheridan.

IT is very strange how a little snow enlivens the atmosphere. In fact the atmosphere was full of a great deal besides the air—and the snow. At a late hour the fire department organized rescue squads which ran up and down State street picking up women and having a rip snorting time. Mrs. Wellington Smythe, whose gracious personality was one of the things which permeated the atmosphere, and whose charming home has always been thrown open to the Prohibition Enforcement squad, remarked as she drowned a reporter:

"So like our dear Petrograd"—and strode off, caressing her pet skunk.

AN IDYL OF SLIPPERY WEATHER

The Back-Sliding Students

THE curtain rises on Lake street, and a female is disclosed in a sitting position. Books and handbag are scattered around her. She wears that bewildered expression common to all when they sit down suddenly. Chivalrous approaches to assist.

"Well, well," trying to smooth awkwardness over, "How did you get down there?"

"I flew down, you poor boob. What didja think I did?"

ON A DAVENPORT

She—Mary and I both fell down going down the hill this morning.

She—No, I think Mary's was a little further down.

But one night she told
Him her tonsils were cold,
And right then and there Hector nector.

IT is reported that a certain Alpha Phi freshman was being quizzed by her betters recently.

"What do you know about the Phi Gams?" was a question.

"Gams? That's where we get the jewelry, ain't it?"

"Yes, my child. Correct," chorussed them.

NOW it seemeth that Professor O'Shea is desirous of finding out what kind of girl is attractive to the student. So recently, in an Education class, he asked Bash what kind of girl he liked to take out. Sez Bash:

THE night editor lay speechless (this alone is unusual) on the floor. The staff was stunned and slumping in their chairs. The Board of Control, hastily summoned to meet the emergency, was huddled in a corner, aghast and thunder-struck. On the floor, hastily covered with a sheet, was the dead body of the Skyrocket Editor.

AT THE STRAND

Claire Windsor in Lois Weber's production "What Do Men Want?" is now being shown at the Strand theater. The story tells of Frank in Hallie, childhood sweethearts, who marry at an early age. Hallie's love is based on everlasting happiness, but Frank's is of a less firm nature. There will also be shown a "Snub" Pollard comedy and "The Little Match Girl," in Prizma colors.

Final Gun and Blade Play Tryouts Today

Final tryouts for the Pre-Military Ball Musical comedy, "The Bells of Beaujolais," to be given March 25, will be held between 2 and 6 o'clock this afternoon at the Gun and Blade parlors, Union building. These tryouts will be held under the direction of Miss Alice Keith '16.

"The Bells of Beaujolais" was written by Louis Coerne, former head of the music department, and is said to be as big a success as last year's play "The Maid and the Middy."

The tryouts this afternoon will be final, and are open to any member of the Gun and Blade club, or any of the university girls. Announcement of the cast will be made this week end, and the first rehearsal will be held Monday evening at 7:15 in Lathrop hall.

Girls Will Consider Inter-college Games

The possibility of girls' inter-collegiate games will be discussed at the W. A. A. sectional convention to be held at Boulder, Colo., in April.

At the present time, intercollegiate games for girls have not been looked upon with favor. The various sections will have an opportunity to express their opinion at the convention and to determine future action.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

The mystery feature act, "Sawing a woman in half," which has been drawing the crowds to the Orpheum, the first three days of this week, will remain over for the balance of the week, including the three shows on Sunday, and will again be the leading attraction on the six act vaudeville bill, which will include, Miss Frances Kennedy, comedienne in exclusive songs; Richard Keane and company in scenes from famous plays; Barber and Jackson, nothing serious, just mirth and melody; Bernard and Garry, southern syncopators; Clifford and Bothwell, in bits of art, together with Pathe News and Aesop's fables films.

Groom Prize Stock For Annual Exhibit

Clem Weyker '25 will show the animal.

Other favorites for high honors are "Pogis of Hood Farm," the Jersey sire, and "Dairy Maid's Standard of Iowa," the new Guernsey bull recently purchased by the university.

Blue Ribbon Horses Here

In the horse classes, live stock fans have an opportunity to review the prize winning horses that were exhibited by the University of Wisconsin at the International Live Stock show at Chicago. Many of these animals won high honors in competition with the best horses in the United States and Canada.

The 12 sheep will be used as a nucleus for next year's International exhibit, according to Prof. Frank Kleinheinz. Professor Kleinheinz has been a consistent winner in the national live stock shows since 1900.

Forty beef cattle will enter the ring in competition for the Bowles silver cup, valued at $35. Most of the awards of the show are in the beef classes, and so great rivalry is anticipated for the various prizes.

Cadets to Appear

Imported horses of the best breeds will compete in the different riding events of the evening. Some of the best horses in the city will enter the five gaited and bar jumping contests. Horses are furnished by the Black Hawk Riding academy for the inter-sorority riding contest, and the university cadets will appear in the show ring of the Little International for the first time.

The committee on ticket sales wishes to announce that general admission is only 50 cents. Chair seats may be obtained for 50 cents extra at the door.

WEATHER

The highest temperature during the past 24 hours was 19 at 5 p. m. yesterday, the lowest 8 at 7 a. m. this morning. Precipitation, .04. The sun sets at 5:47.

NOBLESSE OBLIGE

THE class bell has rung. Hundreds of students are pouring in one unbroken stream through the middle doors of Bascom hall or surging out from the doors in the wings. Everything seems orderly and serene. Then two or three individuals force their way against the current in their hurry to leave the building or to get into a class. The eddy caused by those two or three is of more consequence than might appear at first glance. They have slowed up the entire body of students, they have set a poor example for others, they have disobeyed a just and equitable rule established for the benefit of all, and above all they have shown that what courtesy and politeness they may possess is little more than surface polish.

Another class hour is over. From the second and third floor of Bascom hall a large number of students is descending the south staircase while another body is trying to get to room 165. Suddenly two people stop in the center of the throng and begin to discuss politics or the latest fashions or some other topic of equal importance. By their act they have not only made progress difficult for all their fellow-students, but they have incited in the hearts of numerous victims an ire that threatens to break half the Ten Commandments.

A stranger is walking along the snowy streets. He meets four or five students walking abreast. Being a stranger, a barbarian in Athens, a crude outlander, he deserves little notice and gets less. The admirable military formation of the group remains unbroken; the mere stranger is taught his place; he gets out into the snow and waits for the students to pass. He begins to realize that he knows very little of the workings of the educated mind, and feels that that little is apt to be a dangerous thing for someone unless he can control his temper.

Such scenes as these may be witnessed every day around the university. Fortunately, such acts of utter indifference to others are confined to a relatively small number of students; but less fortunately that small number causes inconvenience for every one else. Why have we even a small number of students who have such disregard for common politeness? Are we, on the whole, too self-centered, or merely careless, deliberately indifferent, or only thoughtless?

True courtesy is based on sympathetic regard for the rights and feelings of others. Obviously, the man who carelessly disregards the simplest rules of social conduct will have to show more than polite speech to prove himself a gentleman. Just as obviously, the woman who stops the progress of five hundred others while she talks with some one does much to weaken that right for courteous treatment which she can claim from all.

WHY INSPIRATION?

INSPIRATION—accepting that concept of it which recognizes the spontaneous creation of original ideas and new methods in the mind—is one of the greatest deceptions we can adhere to. It is the haven of the indolent, the hope of the inexperienced, and the fetish of the credulous. It may be a factor of genius; it cannot be the foundation of greatness. Bordering on the mysterious, it merges with the superstitious; and assuming an innate power in the brain, it denies the possibility of calling it up at will.

When the student proudly displays a good mark on a hastily-written paper and declares: "This was written at white heat; this was pure inspiration," he utters a sophism incapable of analysis and impossible of application. Pure inspiration because these were the first words put to paper? Of course not! Unless the subject had some form, some organization, some foundation in his mind he could never have written it at all. Ask him to write without hesitation on any subject he has never considered—ask him to discuss the conception of Nirvana as expounded by Prince Gautama. Will his "inspiration" formulate one phrase for him, can it offer one new idea to meet the situation?

From Phidias to Rodin, from Polygnotus to Whistler, from Homer to Stevenson, how many of the world leaders in art and letters have founded their greatness on inspiration? Whatever they gave us that seemed new was born of the slow alchemy of centuries. Their new ideas were compilations rather than creations, they were unfolded rather than revealed.

The history of man has been written with countless erasures and numberless corrections. Whether through the white heat of action or the cold logic of inquiry, whether by eager leaps or slow, uncertain steps, we have moved forward not by creating, but by amending, revising, enlarging. This weighing and balancing, this judging and selecting has been done, if not on the visible tablet, at least in the innermost mind. Man has advanced only by the will and the experience whereby

"—out of three sounds he frames not a fourth sound, but a star."

ON BEING GREAT

Passibly the most interesting fact about great great men, at least about those who are universally acknowledged to be great, is that they are dead, having been in that condition not less than half a century and preferably several times that long. Consequently ideas concerning these characters are as a rule distorted in one direction, just as ideas concerning the great villains of history such as Judas Iscariot, prince of traitors, Henry VIII, prince of divorcees, and Tom Paine, prince of infidels, are distorted in another. This may be carried so far as to make the man in question not a human being at all, but rather a symbol of certain general points of view.—Daily Texan.

Passable Bill At Orph. This Half Comments Critic

By H. C. T.

About the show at the Orpheum—yes and no. As no act stands out noticeably from the rest, the most we can say is that the show is passable.

Clifford & Bothwell

The man sketches while the woman sings. The drawing is quite well done and the songs are pleasing.

Bernard & Garry

Southern hued lads who have an act full of action. Their impersonations of well known actors were diverting.

Richard Keane

Offering scenes from various plays, Mr. Keane was quite entertaining in both his "Irish Heep" and "the miser."

Barber & Jackson

Offering most of the comedy on the bill, this pair gets a lot of laughs. Their skit is original in its make-up and method of presentation.

Frances Kennedy

Miss Kennedy's act ought to be entitled "Old Joke Revue." She certainly has plenty of ability, but what she needs is a new line of chatter.

"Sawing a Woman in Half"

After seeing this act twice, it still mystifies us. If anybody figures it out, will they please tell us about it?

Relief Week For Russ Famine Set For March 5-12

Gov. John J. Blaine has officially set aside the week beginning March 5 and ending March 12 as Russian Famine Relief week for the State of Wisconsin.

In his communication to the people of Wisconsin, Governor Blaine says:

"Famine in the Volga valley of Russia has reached such proportions that the civilized world stands aghast. Reports from American relief workers in Russia state that the daily death rate from starvation is approximately 35,000, and is steadily increasing.

"The American Committee for Russian relief, with headquarters at 405 Steinway building, Chicago, is asking that one week be set aside in each of the great grain growing states of America, during which time the thought of the people may be consecrated to the relief of their starving fellow beings in Russia, and that collections of food, clothing, medicines, and money be donated by all communities of the Middle West.

"The unfortunate plight of Russia must touch the heart of every humanitarian, and I therefore urge all citizens to give as generously of their means as they can to assist the stricken millions in the Volga valley, during the week beginning March 5 and ending March 12."

Organize Religious Discussion Groups Among Men Here

Frederick E. "Dad" Wolf, of the University Y. M. C. A., is organizing men's religious groups in fraternities and men's rooming houses of the city. He has spoken in all fraternity houses and has interviewed 40 men in rooming houses in the last 10 days regarding a program of discussions to be held on religious subjects as related to modern life.

It is planned for each fraternity and rooming house to select a chairman who will lead the discussions in the house. These chairmen will then meet with Mr. Wallace every Tuesday evening, from 5 to 5:30, when the subject for the following week will be discussed, and material for the class discussions will be distributed.

About 45 men have already agreed to lead groups in rooming houses and fraternities.

Sherman Wallace of this city, who has been a teacher of religious education at McMinnville college, Oregon, and who, for three years, has given much time to religious discussions, is preparing the course and will act as coach for the leader's class.

Some of the subjects which will be discussed are as follows: "The Place of Religion in Education," "Religion in Business," "Religion in International Affairs," "How to Select One's Life Work."

13 TRACK MEN OFF TODAY TO ILLINI RELAYS

Squad Crippled By 3 Man Loss, But Optimistic

With a team cut down to 13 men, Coach Jones will leave today for Urbana to take part in the annual Illinois relay carnival, Saturday. Although feeling the loss of Finkle, Wall, and Hohlfeld, the Badger squad is optimistic as to the outcome of the meet, and is an aggregation justly to be feared by the best of the 42 schools entered in the relays.

Instead of the original four, only two relay teams will take the Illinois trip. The revised four mile group is still a formidable quartet. Ramsay, Rossmessel, Schneider, and Wille form a team, each member of which will step a fast mile on the speedy Urbana oval. Running against the all-star Illinois and Purdue squads, the Badgers should rate about third among the many entrants.

Relay Teams Strong

The one mile team which will accompany Coach Jones is a good one. Wade, Spetz, Johnson, and Stolley are all fast in the quarter mile, and this team should make a good showing. It is not certain as to which of the relay events the Wisconsin teams will enter. With the pick of these eight cinder stars it is possible that any or all of the races may be negotiated. Ramsay, Rossmessel, Wade, and Johnson make a fast two mile team, and the same four could clip off a speedy medley race.

In the special events, Knollin and Stolley will enter both hurdle races. Here the Badgers have a big chance of bringing home a few firsts. Desch of Notre Dame will not compete, and Knollin's strongest rivals in these events will be S. H. Wallace and Sam Wallace of Illinois and Anderson of Minnesota.

Expect Pole Vault Win

Johnson is libale to pull a surprise in the 300 yard run in which he is entered. The speedy Badger star has been improving daily and is in excellent condition to negotiate the distance at his best. Fessenden, the sophomore wonder, and Fields, Schlappizzi, and Sweet, the famous Illini four will oppose Johnson in this race, as well as the Eastern star, Gill of Pennsylvania.

Merrick and Hamman will represent Wisconsin in the pole vault, which is one of the Badgers' strongest events. Merrick, last year's conference champion and winner of the event at the Penn relays, is in his top form and can be expected to vault around 12 feet 5 or 6 inches in the meet at Champaign. Illinois has lost her best vaulter this year, and Merrick's closest rivals will be Hall of Chicago and Landowski of Michigan.

Platten Hits Osborne

Platten has been going good in the high jump but can hardly be expected to defeat the Illini wizard, Osborne, who has gone 6 feet 4 inches in meets this season. Platten and Gibson, however, should keep the Badgers near the top in this event. Sundt is the remaining Wisconsin entry. The all-around star is entered in the broad jump and the shot put. In the frosh-varsity training meet he did 22 feet 2 1-2 inches in the distance jump with very little training, and is consistently heaving the shot around 40 feet.

Knollin will not enter the all-around championship as was expected. The best man in this event is Hamilton of Missouri who has won the title for the past two years. He is entered in the broad jump, high jump, and pole vault, and is a good dash and hurdle man and can run a speedy half mile.

Put Final Touches On Wrestling Team For Meet Saturday

Chicago Has Star Man In Two Weights; Peterman III

Final touches were put on the wrestling team last night by Coach George Hitchcock in preparation for the dual with Chicago university Saturday evening. The men are in good condition with the exception of Cy Peterman who has had a bad cold all week.

The team that will face the Maroons is as follows: Phelps, 115; Cattau, 135; Peterman, 145; Templin, 158; Heuer, 175, and Kiessling, heavy.

Kiessling earned the right to compete in the heavy division by tossing Kingston in a furious match last night. Previously he had eliminated the husky Fox in a close match. Kiessling is a football man, having won his letter at guard last fall.

It is probable that only four men will come up from Chicago, but they are supposed to be endurance chaps and will handle all seven bouts. The welterweight is a star man, and captain, and will take on the 158 division after meeting Peterman in this weight. Coach Hitchcock is confident that his team leader will permit no such ambition by the Chicago man, however, and looks to his two aces, Peterman and Templin, to repeat their wins of the last two meets.

There will be no preliminaries to the dual meet this time as there were last, owing to the gymnastic meet with Chicago at the same time.

Hitchcock has been training the men hard for two weeks, and expects to go into the Ames meet a week hence with a strong team. The men have been working on the punching bags part of the time.

A larger crowd than that which witnessed the Northwestern meet is expected to turn out. Wrestling is rapidly gaining in favor, and many demands for tickets have already been made.

Four Gymnasts Win Class Numerals in Inter-Class Tourney

Four men won their numerals Tuesday night, when the juniors took first place in the annual inter-class gymnastic tournament. The sophomores were second and the frosh third in the meet.

Three of the men who got their numerals were juniors. They were Bumer, Kubosch, and Porth. The other man was Stevens, a sophomore. Bumer, Porth, and Stevens also won their college insignia in the inter-college meet which took place last Saturday. Kubosch was not entered in the inter-college meet. The juniors scored 13,6625 points, the sophs, 7,5625, and the frosh, 6,4375. The individual averages of the men for the two events in which their score was highest, were as follows: Schmidt '25, 6.0; Gebhardt '25, 6.875; Erdman '24, 7.375; Stevens '24, 7.750; Pfeiffer '23, 7.750; Kubosch '23, 8.25; and Porth '23, 7.8125.

As a result of Saturday's meet, college insignia were awarded to Thompson, Commerce, and to Reinhold, Agric, for their work in fencing.

The varsity gym squad will meet Chicago here on Saturday, March 4. This is the first Big Ten team which the Badger acrobats have met this season, and this meet will give the Maroons a chance to become familiar with the apparatus in our gymnasium, where the all-conference meet will be held this year.

Devine Wins Eighth "T" and Nears Record

BETA FIVE WINS IN TITLE SCRAP BY 17-10 SCORE

D. U.'s Upset In Semi-final Basket Play Last Night

The Betas upset the dope last night by handing the D. U.'s a bad defeat. The score was 17 to 10. The Betas will play the Kappa Sigs next week to decide the first and second places in the inter-fraternity league. The D. U.'s will meet the Chi Psis to decide the third and fourth places.

The Betas had a good all around team, and all their men played consistently, and worked well in the combination. The D. U.'s team was all built around two men, Harris and Frawley. Combacker also deserves some mention for his work.

Fitzgerald and Pollock, the Beta forwards, both played a fast game. Each of them sank two field goals, and Pollock made three free throws. Nolte, at center, made two baskets, and also did good work in keeping the D. U.'s away from their basket. Laberman and Gill did exceptionally fine guarding, holding the D. U.'s down to three field goals.

The Betas will meet with strong competition when they play the Kappa Sigs, who are generally admitted to have the best team of any of the fraternities. However, if the Betas show up as well in that game as they did against the D. U.'s last night, the contest will be a close tussle.

Of the D. U.'s quintet, Harris decidedly played the best game, scoring two field goals for his team as well as covering the floor well at all times. Combacker made one field goal and four throws. Frawley played well at forward and with Harris formed the backbone of the team.

The Betas got their lead early in the game, and maintained it all through. Only for a short time in the second half did the outcome appear very doubtful. The D. U.'s staged somewhat of a comeback, and forced their score up to within one point of their opponent's. At that time the score stood at 10 to 9. After that, the Betas rang up three more baskets, and one free throw. During the rest of the game, the D. U.'s were able to score only one free throw.

The lineups were as follows:

Beta Theta Pi	Delta Upsilon
Fitzgerald	Frawley
Pollock	Combacker
Nolte	Harris
Leberman	Kellett
Gill	Fladoes

Tank Team Hits Gophers Tonight

placing first in this event. The balance of the Minnesota team is intact from last year.

Advance Meet One Day

Wisconsin won from the Maroons last week by a score of 46 to 22. Had the Chicago star, Blinks, not injured himself on a poor start, there is little doubt but that the meet would have been decided by only a point or two.

The meet was to have been held on Saturday night, but the date was set ahead a day in favor of the Little International Live Stock show, which will take place tomorrow night.

Following are the probable entries for tonight's meet: Relay, Storey, Davies, Lamboley, Bennett, and Gilbrath; fancy dives, Captain Collins, and Koch; 40 yard dash, Lamboley, and Sollitt; 220 yard swim, Bennett, and Gilbrath; breast stroke Czerwonky, and Pope; back stroke, Czerwonky, Copeland, and Gilbrath; 100 yard dash, Lamboley, and Davies.

even he will be the third Iowa man to achieve the distinction of getting nine "T's." The others were Charles Parsons, an overseas lieutenant, and Walter Stewart, a DeMoines attorney.

EIGHT BIG TEN TEAMS TO MEET THIS WEEK END

Games Will Decide Contenders For Finals

Eight of the Big Ten conference basketball teams will go into action tonight and tomorrow night in games that will go a long way towards deciding how the various contenders will line up after the final games have been played.

The Maroons must be granted an outside chance to win from Illinois at Urbana tonight. Chicago handed the Illini one of the two defeats that the latter has received this season some two weeks ago, showing that they have available the stuff to win. Norgren's team displayed wonderful teamwork and shooting against Minnesota last week, but they have a peculiarity of falling to pieces when playing off their own floor, as was evidenced by the fact that Ohio State won at Columbus after having been badly beaten at the Bartlett gymnasium.

The Suckers may strike another off night, as was the case at Michigan a week ago, but they will be anxious to prevent Wisconsin from landing in second place, and will play hard to win before the home crowd.

Tomorrow night Iowa and Michigan meet at Ann Arbor for their second clash within a week. Last Monday Michigan managed to win by two points, but Iowa has a faculty of playing a better game away from home, making it certain that Michigan will be forced to the utmost in order to keep pace with Wisconsin and Illinois among the leaders of the conference.

Both of the above teams have developed a great deal in the past month. Each started out the season by dropping games that should have been easily won, but each, likewise, came back strong and wrecked the championship hopes of Wisconsin and Illinois.

Northwestern and Ohio State meet at Columbus on Saturday night. Northwestern won on their home floor by two points, but Ohio may continue its winning streak and cop this game before playing Michigan in the season's final battle. Neither the Purple nor the Buckeyes have proven to be strong this year, although each won unexpected victories from some of the most powerful fives in the conference.

While all of the games scheduled for this week-end should be decided by close scores, it is to be doubted as to whether or not the record made last Monday night will ever be equalled, when three Big Ten conference games were decided by margins of two points each. This fact goes to show how evenly matched are all of the teams in the major midwestern association.

Wisconsin Shoots In Collegiate Meet

The University of Wisconsin rifle team shot telegraphic matches against against Northwestern university, University of Oregon, Oregon Aggies, and New Hampshire college yesterday afternoon.

The reports have come back on two of the thirty meets which have been shot in the past month. The Badgers triumphed over Indiana by a score of 786 to 763, and over De Pauw university, 1819 to 1789.

The Badger team made a score of 5,561 in the Sixth Corps Area meet, but as yet the results have not been announced. The above is considered a high score, however, and bids fair to repeat the success of last year, when Wisconsin won this important match.

The men who compose the Wisconsin team are as follows: Deicher, Meyer, Bode, Rorison, O'Connor, Ruffalo, Jones, Sawtelle, Godfrey, and Henberg. Sargent Shire has charge of the competition this season.

ATLANTA, Ga.—North Carolina university won the college basketball championship of the south, defeating Mercer university, 40 to 26.
