SIEGE OF PEKIN.

UNIVERSITY CLEE CLUBS.
PRIZE OFFER--AT FULLER OPERA HOUSE
SATURDAY EVENING.

WORDS OF TRIBUTE

TO THE LATE PROF. WHITNEY BY FACULTY MEMBERS.

An Able Professor—A Noble Character—Funeral Tomorrow Afternoon—Exercises Suspended.

Arrangements for the funeral of the late Prof. Whitney have been made. It will be held from the residence, 13 E. Gorham street to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. E. G. Updike will conduct the services. The honorary pall bearers are Gov. Robert M. La Follette, Acting President E. A. Birge, Judge J. H. Carpenter, John M. Olin, Prof. Alexander Kerr and B. J. Stevens; the active pall bearers are Dean J. B. Johnson, Professors Turneure, Leonard S. Smith, Storm Bull, E. R. Mauer, and D. C. Jackson. Interment will take place at Forest Hill cemetery.

A committee on resolutions to take action on Professor Whitney's death was appointed by the Faculty at a special meeting yesterday afternoon. The committee consists of Dean Johnson, chairman, vice-president Parkinson, Professor Turneure and Professor Daniells. The junior and senior engineers of the university will have no classes to-morrow out of respect to the late Professor and all departments of the University will close at one o'clock so that all may attend the funeral services.

The Faculty also decided to set aside a special Convocation in the near future as a memorial service in honor of Professor Whitney. The time for the service will be announced in a day or two.

The high tributes which are being bestowed on the late Professor bespeak in a measure of his most worthy character.

In speaking of Professor Whitney's death, Acting President Birge expressed himself as follows:

"Professor Whitney was one of our ablest and most useful professors and one of the best and most lovable of men. He was amply qualified for his profession, both by the study of its theory and by practical experience. He gave himself with great devotion to his University work—not only to his teaching, but also to his students. He was perhaps exceptional among professors in the degree to which the last quality was present. He was thorough and exacting in his demands as a teacher but in his teaching never lost sight of the personal qualities of those under his instruction. He had rather such a sympathy with them as made his instruction doubly effective.

He inspired them not only by his knowledge but also by his kindness and by the example of a high and noble life. The University suffers a very great loss by the death of such a teacher and such a man."

Dean J. B. Johnson who has been closely connected with Professor Whitney for years speaks as follows:

"Prof. Whitney was one of the very few railroad engineers who were well fitted for college work. He was at once a successful engineer with a large experience in responsible positions on the leading railroads of the world, and also a very successful teacher. He was as zealous in his college work as he had been in his engineering practice. He was always solicitous for the individual interests of his students and he followed the subsequent careers of 'his boys' with almost a father's attachment. His manner was always mild but earnest, and his students held him in the highest respect and esteem. They cheerfully consented to go to his house to hear his lectures on the more important subjects, rather than to have another give these at the college building. His work had been greatly lightened, however, partly by division among other members of the faculty of the college of engineering and partly by an additional assistant. It will be a difficult matter to fill his place in this college."

Professor Storm Bull who has known him for ten years says: "He was the perfect type of a gentleman, always fair-minded and always saw things in the best light. He always respected the opinions of others and never claimed knowledge of anything in which he was not thoroughly prepared. Professor Whitney was very thorough in whatever he did. He expected to be back again at his University work but I noticed the last time I saw him that he was not as cheerful as usual. His loss will be most keenly felt by all of his co-workers in the University."

Professor Turneure, who perhaps has been more closely associated with him than any other professor, says: "He was a most delightful man to work with. During the years he has been connected with the University he has exerted a great influence on the students with whom he came in contact, and there is perhaps no professor in the University for whom the alumni have a higher regard."

Professor Jackson who has been formerly located at Chicago, in speaking of Professor Whitney's work in Chicago said: "He was universally liked by all who knew him, and his Chicago friends always spoke of him in the highest terms of praise. Last year Professor Whitney was Vice President of the Western Society of Engineers and was also a member of the finance committee of that organization during the past year. He ranked very high in the Engineering profession and especially along all lines of Railway Engineering."

U. W. APPROPRIATIONS

BEFORE TO-DAY'S SESSION OF LEGISLATURE.

Violently Opposed by Railroad Lobby in Hope to Prevent Passage of Railroad Taxation Bills.

Bill No. 17a, known as the University appropriation bill, comes before the legislature today. The bill is of the greatest importance to the University. It increases the University fund income by the sum of thirty-two thousand dollars, making a total of three hundred thousand annually; it appropriates for the furnishing and equipping of the new building, machine shops, foundries and laboratories of the college of engineering, and the founding of a commercial museum for the School of Commerce, the sum of sixty-five thousand; and it appropriates for the construction, furnishing and equipment of an Agricultural building the sum of one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars.

It will be seen that the funds asked by the University this year are for the purpose of supplying an immediate need. The College of Agriculture was crowded to the utmost during the last semester. During the past four years the attendance at the School of Agriculture has more than doubled, increasing from two hundred to four hundred and thirty-five students during which time there has been no increase in revenue.

The railroad lobby is violently opposing the present bill, as well as numerous other bills relating to the University. It insists that the state is becoming too extravagant in this line and that such appropriations should cease. The reason for this opposition lies in the fact that various corporation tax measures are now before the legislature. Should the appropriation bill pass the revenues of the state would be exceeded by nearly two million dollars, making the passage of the corporation tax measures almost certain. Should this be done six hundred thousand dollars of the two million dollars needed would be supplied by the railroads and it is thought the other tax measures will make up the remainder, thus making retrenchment unnecessary.

There are now thirteen bills concerning the University now before the legislature, nine in the senate and four in the assembly. Some of these bills effect the University only in an indirect way.

—Miss Maud Berryman, for two years and a half a member of the class of '97, Associate Professor in the Ohio State University, assisted in the preparation of a useful Handbook of Gymnastics recently published by Dr. C. P. Linhart, director of the Gymnasium at the Ohio State University. The book contains a manual of exercises, rules of hygiene, advice as to training, etc.

—James L. Donahue, '04, was called to his home in Antigo owing to the death of his father. Mr. Donahue may not resume his University work until after the Easter vacation.

—Alex Jardine, '04, left last night for his home in Fargo, N. D., because of the serious illness of his mother.

—Mr. Lessing was unable to meet his German classes this morning.

PHARMACY STUDENTS RETURN.

From Trip to Chicago, Detroit and Ann Arbor.

The pharmacy students returned from their Detroit trip yesterday afternoon. In Chicago they visited the Northwestern college of Pharmacy and the Armour packing plant at the stockyards. Some seventy students of the Northwestern college joined the Wisconsin boys and the entire party then proceeded to Detroit where the drug manufacturing concern of Parke, Davis & Co. entertained them.

The students were conducted through Parke, Davis & Co.'s large plant, gaining much information concerning the manufacture of drugs. This plant, which is the largest manufacturing concern of its kind in the world, is situated on the edge of the city, not far from the Canadian line. On Friday evening the firm banqueted the students at the Russell Hotel, making their visit in the city as pleasant as possible.

On Saturday morning the Wisconsin boys accepted an invitation to visit the Frederick, Stearns & Co.'s and Nelson, Baker & Co.'s plants. These firms also manufacture a variety of drugs. They also cordially entertained the party, treating them to a light repast that forenoon.

In the afternoon the party left Detroit for Ann Arbor. Here the students had the opportunity of visiting the chemical laboratories at the Michigan University. Saturday evening they returned to Chicago and spent Sunday there, visiting places of interest about the city.

This is the first trip that the pharmacy students have taken outside of the state, and which will probably alternate hereafter with the Milwaukee trip heretofore taken each year.

THE SENIOR OPEN.

Schubring, Beule, Hines and Rounds
Qualify for Final.

Schubring, Beule, Hines and Rounds—such was the order of the four who qualified in the Senior open of yesterday.

The contest was unprecedented in three distinct particulars. It was four hours in length but conducted in entire harmony and without any delays. It also had more entries than any previous contest, and lastly it is affirmed on all sides that a higher degree of excellence was attained than in any previous year.

Those present and those in charge of the contest all unite in saying that the Senior open was far superior to those of past years in the uniform excellence of the orations and in the uniformly good delivery of the contestants. The latter feature was perhaps most marked of all and rendered the ranking of candidates for honors a difficult matter for the judges.

The length of the contest has caused the officers of the Oratorical League to consider new schemes for future contests. Possibly there will be two divisions of Senior open orators next year although this system has great drawbacks.

—Professor O'Shea has returned from a trip into Ohio, visiting Cleveland and other cities. In Cleveland he addressed several organizations including the Western Reserve University and Adelbert College. He also delivered addresses in the city lecture course there.

Our prize offer should be attractive to all students. Fuller opera house Saturday evening.

Oratorical Interest.

When the winner of the Junior Open is decided tomorrow afternoon the list of contestants for the final oratorical contest will be complete. The unusually large number of men who have appeared in all the preliminaries this year is evidence that the wave of oratorical interest that struck the University last year has not spent its force but bids fair to continue and to ultimately bring our oratorical system up to a high standard of excellence. The perfection of such a system is a matter of long-continued hard work year after year. The increasing number of entries and the ease with which almost every oration is prepared seems to show that the interest in oratory has a start that with consistent effort will in time bring the success that it deserves.

Graduate Manager.

The resignation of Mr. King has left it a question whether to continue this style of athletic control or not. It would seem unfortunate to allow the system to go by default in this manner. Since the office has been instituted Wisconsin has had a more thoroughly good and in every respect consistent and co-ordinated management of athletic affairs than she has ever before enjoyed. It has resulted on the whole in a saving of labor and expense with accompanying advantages of harmony between the departments that cannot well be overlooked. Other large universities maintain the system year after year and find it advantageous to do so and it deserves continuance at Wisconsin. Certainly it increases the University fund of executive ability intimate with University affairs, and possessing a broad appreciation of its interests, to fill this position. It is to be hoped that the athletic council will decide to continue the office.

The Weather.

Heavy snow in north and west. Rain turning to snow in southeast tonight and Wednesday. Colder southeast Wednesday.

A Special Inducement.

The management has left nothing undone to make the lecture Saturday evening a success, and it is hoped that, with the support of the student body, a fairly large sum can be turned over to the Athletic Association. Besides the lecture, excellently illustrated, which of itself will be a rare treat, the University Glee clubs and the University quartette will render musical selections. In connection with the Woodward lecture there will be a souvenir program. The management recognizing not only the folly but appreciating the fact that the merchants of Madison are overrun with requests of one kind or another, has decided to offer the following inducements in the interest of the advertiser, whose kind patronage has greatly aided in making this undertaking a success: a prize of one dozen Ford's best platinum photographs, valued at $10 to the person finding the most errors in the entire program; a prize of a genuine pearl stick pin, valued at $5 for the one finding the next greatest number; a prize of two books, gilt edge and nicely bound to the person finding the third largest number.

The contest will be held open until Tuesday noon March 25, and all answers will be numbered as received. In case of a tie the answer received first will have the preference.

—W. J. Conway, who graduated from the University in 1896 and from the law school two years later, is after the county judgeship of Wood county. It is now held by J. A. Gaynor who graduated from the 'Varsity in 1871. The latter is very highly esteemed and the chances seem to favor his re-election.

—The primary election bill will come up for special consideration in the assembly at eight o'clock tonight.

—The women of Chadbourne Hall will receive Friday evening.

HESPERIA'S SEMI-PUBLIC.

Will be Held in Library Hall March 22nd.

The first semi-public of the season will take place Friday evening, March 22, in Library hall. The men have been working conscientiously for some time and hope to show the public what progress they have made in but two years of literary drill in the debating society.

The team will debate a particularly interesting question, one which is pressing our national benefactors more and more and one which has always been the cause of much argument. The question is as follows:

"Is the present system of election of United States senators preferable to a system of popular election? It being conceded that the latter system is constitutional." This subject is very widely debated and is the subject of contention in the intercollegiate debate which will take place between Michigan and Pennsylvania this spring.

It will be affirmed by Herbert D. Laabe, Robert E. Pinkerton and Chester Lloyd-Jones. The negative will be supported by Lyman A. Libby, W. Harrison Haight and Wm. J. Hagenah. The evening's exercises will be opened by a short address by the President of the evening, L. P. Horsfall. W. W. Beers will be the orator of the evening. Musical selections will complete the program. The jury will probably consist of Prof. P. S. Reinsch, Dr. S. E. Sparling and Mr. Wm. Robertson.

In the extempore oratorical contest between Nebraska and Minnesota last Friday evening, Minnesota was the victor. Each contestant drew from an urn the subject from which he was to talk and was allowed ten hours in which to prepare himself. Minnesota is to be congratulated on the "magnificent mentality" of her representatives.

Harvard and Yale have challenged Oxford and Cambridge for a regular set of track games, to be held in New York during the early part of next July. The challenge was sent last week and answer by cable is expected in a few days. Captain J. W. Halliwell of the Harvard track team today confirmed the fact that the challenge had been sent.
