HOOVER ASKS WISCONSIN TO AID IN RELIEF

President of Student Senate Receives Urgent Telegram

A telegram from Herbert Hoover, former food administrator and present chairman of the American Relief administration, urging Wisconsin to aid in European student relief, was received yesterday by Milton Borman '21, as president of the student senate.

The text of the telegram follows: "Winter now in Europe. Conditions acute. Relief contributions through American colleges greatly needed by Christmas. Would urge generous response from Wisconsin students and professors. An average gift of three dollars will raise the million needed. Relief planned for both students and professors over there."

The American Relief Admin.,
HERBERT HOOVER."

The fruit jars to receive contributions for the fund will remain in their places about the campus during today and tomorrow.

The Graduate club is making a special effort to raise money for the fund among graduate students, and it reported last night that $150 had already been subscribed by graduates.

VARIED PROGRAM OF ORCHESTRA PLEASES

Difficult Numbers Are Skillfully Rendered by Students

By M. N.

A concert which proved one of the most popular of the entire year was given by the university orchestra last night at 8 o'clock in Music hall.

The orchestra, with a personnel of 35, presented a varied program, with representative compositions of German, Russian, English, and Italian composers. The numbers were all extremely difficult for amateurs, and the entire program might well have been presented by a group of artists.

The first number was the Leonore Overture, by Beethoven. It is one of four overtures which he wrote for his only operatic work, "Fidelio," and is universally considered the greatest of them. It is a difficult number, not alone in technique, but in interpretation.

Heavy, sustained tones characterized the second number, the prelude to the fifth act of "King Manfred," by Reinecke. The third number, "The Last Spring," by Greig, proved very popular. It is one of Grieg's most delightful songs. He

NO BADGERS SOLD AFTER CHRISTMAS

After the Christmas holidays no more reservations for copies of the 1922 Badger will be accepted.

A last chance is being offered before Friday for all those who have not yet subscribed. The circulation staff is doing all in its power to reach everyone who has not placed an order, but requests that all who still desire copies telephone the Badger office, B. 5288, after 3:30 p. m., or call in person in order to facilitate matters. The order for the book will be given to the printer during the vacation and the number of copies ordered will not be increased thereafter.

The Badger subscription staff also requests that all persons who have subscription books out turn in their stubs and money on Thursday or Friday without fail.

COSTUMES

Motley Garb Will Be in Style at Jamboree on January 15

"Red stockings, scarfs, turbans, tinsel, ribbons—do you have any of them in your attic at home? You'd better ransack the place while you are there for Christmas and see what you can find for your jamboree costume."

This is the advice the costume committee is giving out to everyone just now, because the date of the big masquerade dance in Lathrop hall is January 15.

Maybe you still have an old George or Martha Washington costume you wore to your first masked ball. Or perhaps you can unearth a valentine dress you got for a dancing school party. Never mind the size—the skirt will be right in style, and hearts never go out, you know.

Remember that old boy scout suit you used to be so proud of? Bring it back; there will be someone whom it will fit who can pose as a hero of the Argonne or a Mexican border veteran.

"And if you go to any stunt parties during the holidays, don't forget to notice ideas for group costumes," say the committee, "for your house or club will probably want to go to the jamboree in a bunch and there will be prizes for the cleverest ideas. Your suggestion will be valued the week after you come back."

UNIVERSITY BAND IN FIRST CONCERT

The first band concert of the season was given by the First Regimental band before a large-sized crowd in the university gymnasium last Sunday afternoon.

The university band, conducted by Maj. E. W. Morphy, is once more on a pre-war basis, and in the concert produced a more finished program than any work done this fall. This year the band is the largest in the history of the university.

DEAN SAYS FEW ARE SENT HOME

The following statement regarding the dismissal of students was given out yesterday by Dean George C. Sellery and was presented by him last night at the student massmeeting at which time he denied the existence of "sore eye specials."

"No student who has been working steadily and doing his best is sent home at Christmas. Every hard-working student is given a full chance to find out whether he can or cannot do satisfactory college work. Only those students who have wasted their time in frivolity and thus are hopelessly behind in their work are requested not to return after Christmas. Cases of the latter sort are not numerous and students and their friends may rely upon it that every case of the kind is examined carefully and sympathetically by the executive committees of the different colleges."

(Signed) G. C. SELLERY."

STUDENTS AND FACULTY TALK AT MASSMEET

Appropriations and News Stories Are Topics Discussed

"The story of crap shooting by students on the church altar at the University of Paris 500 years ago and the sending of a papal legate from Rome to investigate the situation is an illustration of the fact that students have always had a reputation for frivolity," declared Dean George C. Sellery at the student massmeeting to discuss university problems held in Lathrop gymnasium last night.

Other speakers were "Red" Weston '21, Isabelle Bacon '21, Irwin Maier '21, and Lawrence Hall '20. At the close of the meeting a student arose to defend the press, saying that stories complained about during the meeting were given in bonafide interviews and only looked questionable when they appeared in print. Dean Scott H. Goodnight answered him by denying that stories referred to were ever given out in bonafide interviews.

Students Must Work

"The trouble with a reputation of frivolity is that those outside a university come to believe that there is a minimum of work and a maximum of frivolity," said Dean Sellery. "Although there is a saying that a bright student never works, I know that the majority at the University of Wisconsin work and have to work hard to succeed in their studies."

"Frivolity is incidental and must accompany the activities of all ages. I am not disturbed about it, but I am disturbed about the reputation the institution gets. One can scarcely expect a newspaper to make an interesting feature article about the intricacies of calculus, but they should aim to be discreet in the manner in which they handle articles on the lighter things in university life."

"To aid in counteracting the false impressions about the university it is the duty of every student this Christmas vacation to talk about the university work in his home. Talk about the congested classrooms, if you will, cuss the instructors if you want to, but at least talk about your work, and let your parents know that your pleasures are incidental."

Few Women Smoke

Statistics to prove the small number of girl smokers in the university were presented by Isabelle Bacon '21, who stated that from a recent canvass of rooming houses it had been found that the following

SCANDAL

Dead Ed:

Lots happened over the week-end, Ed. By heck, Al Thompson rates! he rates, Ed, — ya know two of the sorrowful Dells preferred Thompson's dance emporium to their own jamboree, — guess Al rates, eh? But you should have seen the Phi Gam Giggle — and the formal dinner dance Local No. 24312 of the Beta Union staged, — they were swell sprees alright, only (don't tell this cause it's true) the Beta foreman couldn't find at the last minute enough coffee cups in town to go around, so he started the party at nine instead. Guess that was using the old coop, eh?

Gotta study now, Ed, — tell you more later. Always,

WE print this plea as an excellent example of one very good way to keep your contribs out of this column.

Editor Skyrockets:

We implore you to put this in your column, as it has a definite mission. The editor can go around all day feeling like a missionary after he has put this in. Further we feel it is only fair to tell him that a box of cigars will come his way if this appears in the Cardinal.

THAT is the only part of Ima Flunker's offering that had any humor in it and that, considered in a certain light, is funny. Needless to add we are not going into the missionary business.

PRESS CLUB HEARS "TEDDY" DEAKEN AT CAFETERIA MEETING

Much laughter and an unusual amount of merriment followed the speech of Florence "Teddy" Deaken, grad, to the Press club at the cafeteria supper last night. She told about her work in the newspaper world and the interesting experiences she has had. At present, she is society editor of The Wisconsin State Journal and is managing its "Empty Stocking" campaign for the benefit of the poor.

When she finished speaking, the members unanimously voted that she be made an honorary member of Press club. She thanked them in a short speech.

Business matters were then considered and Pi Nite was announced for February 18. This will be the second annual Pi Nite given by the club, and all members were urged to try out for the playlet which will be presented on that occasion.

Arnold Perstein '20, Mildred Gerlach '21, Edith Worthington '23, and Martin Halling '23 will direct the preparations for Pi Nite.

BREAK UP PARTY TO BE HELD AT "Y"

A "Break Up Party" will be given at the university Y next Thursday evening as the last Fellowship meeting of the year. The party is to be an innovation in fellowship programs, with amusement features, singing, and refreshments.

The meeting, instead of beginning at the usual time, will start at 7:30 o'clock, and will last until 10 o'clock. The musical numbers will include a Filipino trio, the Ag triangle quartet, and yodeling. There will be student vaudeville acts, and individual stunts.

The meeting is being arranged especially as a last get-together of Y. M. C. A. men and of the regular attendants at the meetings.

LOCAL OFFICE IS ESTABLISHED BY FEDERAL BOARD

Wounded Veterans Can Now Receive Prompt At- tention

Wounded war veterans now in training at the university can secure prompt attention in all matters relating to their vocational training, placement training, or hospital and medical care. The former long delays in applications and placement have been eliminated by the establishment of a local office of the Federal board in Madison.

The Federal board desired closer contact with its students and with those wounded men who desired training; and to accomplish this end, it has established the local office here under the charge of Walter Chisholm, local supervisor. Mr. Chisholm has full charge of all cases coming to his attention, and in no case will the Chicago office act on any case until Mr. Chisholm has given it his attention. Needless delay has been experienced by students who have not understood or appreciated the extent of the local office's jurisdiction.

The Madison office has charge of all the work in the southeastern part of the state and all students under care of the Federal board at the university. Federal board students at the university number nearly 250 with more being placed in training each month. The local office supervises the training and health of these men and also determines whether their current course of training shall be extended. It also finds employment for the students after they have completed their training and are ready to compete with normal men.

Mr. Chisholm has received instructions from the Chicago office that all present students will be kept in school as long as they are distinctly profiting from the course or until they have completed their course. Positions have been found for those ready to assume them.

Major O'Connell, commander of the Madison post of the American legion, states that the local office has already cleared up many difficult and long standing cases where wounded veterans have been lacking the necessary aid.

He says in part: "The local office has done a wealth of good to the wounded soldiers of the district and in many instances has established the soldier's right to vocational training. I only wish that more of the men needing care or medical service would apply to the local office. Mr. Chisholm has worked wonders in caring for those men who were entitled to it or needed it."

If you walk I'll teach you to dance. Results absolutely guaranteed.

minorities smoked in various houses: three out of 45, none out of 21, three out of 32, none out of 17, three out of 46, none out of 22.

"Compare these figures with some statements of certain papers which have stated that from 50 to 90 per cent of Wisconsin co-eds use the cigarette," urged Miss Bacon. "We know what our standards are. We have a great reputation as an institution in the east, but in our own state false impressions are abroad. The responsibility is on us. It is to our interest to trace down every false statement that is made about our institution and ask for proof of the alleged facts."

An amusing illustration of the average conversation one indulges in when talking about the university to those in their home communities was presented by Miss Bacon, and she urged every student to guard against stressing the lighter things and to emphasize the more substantial things as a means of preventing many of the wrong ideas which outsiders get.

"We are not attempting to coerce the legislature in regard to the appropriations," declared Irwin Maier '21, who devoted his talk to the budget. "Ours is a campaign to disseminate information. We want every student to know the facts and to talk up the university. People of the state should know what the university contributes to the state and should know that proper maintenance of the institution is the only means for assuring the invaluable return that it annually makes."

Building congestion was emphasized by the statement that night janitor service is planned for some buildings in order that rooms may be cleaned, so constant is the use of them throughout the day. A complete outline of the building program for which $4,000,000 is asked was also presented.

"Wrong impressions of the university are based on ignorance," was the statement of Lawrence Hall, the last speaker on the program. "What we need to do is to get the facts before the people. This institution is an investment on the part of the people of the state and they deserve a return on their investment in the form of a more intelligent citizenship. Influence them to look around and see the contributions the university is constantly making to the state. The friend of the university is one who is up and fighting. A spirit of antagonism against those who knock the university is needed. See that you do your share."

Since 1911, he pointed out, the university has contributed 6,978 graduates, 3,686 of whom were letters and science students, 1,870 who had studied for commerce, 765 for engineering, and 612 for law.

In opening the massmeeting Frank "Red" Weston '21 stated that he felt that it was an indignation meeting against those agencies which are responsible for the distribution of false impressions of student life.

"The keynote of the meeting is a better understanding between 7,000 students and the people of the state," he said. "The university has been put in the wrong light. We must go out of the meeting fighting. Carry definite facts to the home folks. Here is an opportunity for every student to go out and boost."

The university band provided pep for the meeting.

Lynaugh Draws Salary During His Suspension

Mathew B. Lynaugh, patrolman who shot and killed Carl E. Jandorf, university sophomore last spring, is drawing his salary as a member of the police department, according to City Attorney Ryan. The law provides that "no chief officer or member of the department shall be deprived of any salary or wages for the period of time he may be suspended pending an investigation." Shortly after the shooting the police board temporarily suspended Lynaugh, and meanwhile his salary of $7.50 continues. The trial is to be held at Jefferson, January 3.

BLAINE WORKS ON MESSAGE

Begins Preparation of Address to State Legislature

Gov.-Elect John J. Blaine began the preparation of his message to the Wisconsin legislature Tuesday morning. He said that the first draft of his message would deal with the economic problems that are to come before the legislature. He expects to have the message completed by Jan. 1.

The various departments of the capitol have been called upon by Mr. Blaine to furnish information and a number of conferences will be held during the week between Mr. Blaine and the department on phases of legislation which he intends to recommend. The outstanding feature of the message will deal with taxation. In his campaign speeches, Mr. Blaine advocated certain tax reforms and it is believed that he will submit data to show the necessity for the legislation which he will recommend. He will probably advocate an adjustment of the income tax rates in the state, and an increasing of the exemption to meet the increased cost of living. It is probable that the exemptions will be made the same as those in the federal law.

Mr. Blaine is also gathering information on the subject of marketing. The members of the marketing staff will have a meeting with Mr. Blaine before the end of the week to explain methods for increasing the efficiency of the state marketing law.

The legislature convenes here on Jan. 12. Mr. Blaine intends to have all of his legislation in shape so that he can have it introduced and considered at once. This plan is being pursued so as to hasten the work of the session. Some of the leaders declared that it may be possible to close the legislative session early in May. It seems to be generally understood here that M. B. Olbrich, deputy attorney general, will be selected as executive counsel, a position held by George B. Hudnall, Milwaukee, under the Philipp administration.

Speaks Thursday on Italian Events

BRUNO ROSELLI

The industrial revolution in Italy, the recent bloodless war between employers and factory hands, will be described and explained by Bruno Roselli, former member of the royal embassy of Italy at Washington, in the engineers' auditorium, Thursday at 8 p. m. Roselli has just returned from a visit to his native land where he was an eye witness to disturbances going on there.

He arrived in Italy at a time when the political and industrial situations were very tense, and he followed from city to city the course of the September upheaval, and remained until the new relationship between labor and capital had been established. His experiences were extraordinary.

Roselli was lieutenant in the Italian army during 1917 and 1918, on the embassy at Washington in 1918 and 1919, and since then has been the first Italian exchange professor in America.

Prof. M. S. Slaughter of the Latin department secured his visit to Madison. He will speak at noon before the Rotary club and the evening lecture will be under the auspices of the Social Science club.

SHARE YOUR CHRISTMAS

LITTLE glass jars made their appearance on the campus today. They will remain in their places until Friday, when the students leave for home to enjoy the happiest season of the year. Before six o'clock Friday every one of these jars should be filled with money.

Every cent dropped into these jars will go to the relief of students and teachers whose Christmas feast will consist of a crust of bread and a cup of weak tea. Every cent will help to make life more tolerable for these people who are now making a losing fight against destitution and misery.

The cry for help comes from Central Europe. No affair of ours, do you say? But it is our affair. The quality of human sympathy is not bounded by geographical lines.

The American public at large is contributing money for the relief of the mass of these sufferers. The universities are offering to help the stricken students. Wisconsin has planned no formal campaign and has organized no drive. Instead, the idea was conceived to make a free-will offering at this time when the hearts of all are open to the impulses of brotherhood and helpfulness.

The little glass jars are placed about to receive this offering. It will be the only Christmas gift of the University as a whole. It cannot be niggardly if it is to reflect the true spirit of this institution.

"Freely ye have received, freely give."

IN MEMORIAM

GEORGE GIPP, Notre Dame's full-back, is dead. He passed away shortly after winning recognition as one of the brightest stars in American football. At the very moment that Notre Dame acclaimed him in his honor she mourned him in his death.

Wisconsin, too, regrets the passing of one who brought such distinction to himself and to his alma mater.

VARIED PROGRAM OF ORCHESTRA PLEASES

himself arranged a setting for string orchestra, which has recently been arranged for full orchestra by C. J. Roberts.

A number of particular interest was the fourth, the Largo from the "New World" Symphony by Dvorak. It is said to have been inspired by Longfellow's "Hiawatha's Wooing," and throughout the piece one can feel the passion and yet the fundamental simplicity of the Indian music.

The last three numbers were selected from three operas, Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," Herbert's "Babette," and Nicolai's "The Merry Wives of Windsor." The climax of the evening was reached in the last number with perhaps the best interpretation of the whole evening. The unison work was splendid; the violins as one voice. The overture itself is very popular. One critic has said of it:

"The structure is perfect; the orchestra clever and the whole thoroughly charged with the spirit of the drama."

E. W. Morphy, conductor, deserves commendation for the splendid manner in which he held together the various parts, as the numbers were difficult for amateurs to master.

CARDINAL ADS PAY

UNUSUAL GIFTS THAT WILL PLEASE YOU

The Christmas of 1920, to carry out the spirit of industry and conservation which continues to remain our slogan even two years after the end of the war, should be a Christmas of practical gifts. And I am sure that in no other line is utility and loveliness so combined as in electrical gifts.

The Harloff-Loprich Electrical Store at 602 State street, has everything that you have ever heard of in electrical appliances. And perhaps some you have never heard of, too.

For instance, there is the new hand-vibrator all complete for $13.25. Isn't that a surprise? I'm sure I had always thought they were very expensive things. And do you know they are absolutely the most wonderful thing in the world for stimulating the growth of the hair?

Have you puzzle people on your Christmas list? People who have everything already? People who aren't a bit interested in anything they've seen before.

Then the University Co-op is your solution for this problem. Among the many gifts that cannot but find favor on Christmas day with even the most blasé friend is a handsomely bound book. Here you will find all the latest books in fiction, travel and poetry; attractively priced for your approval.

Stationery, too, is always a lovely gift, and the beautiful boxes on display at the Co-op will be sure to please the most fastidious.

Can you imagine a more practical gift for the Christmas of 1920 than a pair of warm silken slippers?

At Brown's Boot Shop, where the memory of quality lingers long after the price is forgotten, I found a delightful array of comfy cozy slippers, designed especially to bring joy to someone's heart on Christmas morning.

And you need have no fear that even the most unusual kimona cannot be matched. You will find at this store almost any shade, and the dull blues, warm rose, and restful greys cannot but please you, and delight the eye.

Holiday time is dancing time, and you will find here ravishing slippers and buckles, dainty and smart, that cannot fail to please even the most demanding debutante.

A new Economy in these days when economy pays.

Anyone bringing in this slip to the Buckmaster Jewelry company at 30 North Carroll street, will re-

Clothes may not make the man, but of a verity does the furniture create the atmosphere in which we live and breathe and have most of our being. No matter how warm our own welcome may be, it is the house we live in which greets the stranger who comes within our gates.

The lasting memory of first impressions! How we strive, especially if "WE" be women, that they shall express individuality at a glance.

The Haswell Furniture Company at 117-19 State Street, really has some of the most attractive floor lamps which you could imagine! And what could you give for that Christmas present, over which we have been worrying, that would receive a greater welcome?

The gift for Father is always a hard one to find. But you can be sure of pleasing any man by giving him one of those handsome smoking tables, or a complete smoking set, which this versatile shop has to offer you. And the price of such a truly appropriate gift will surprise you.

And if you are looking for a present to give to one of your student friends, what could be more acceptable than a pair of the lovely book ends which are here in such a variety of designs and styles?

ceive 5% discount on any article they may purchase.

Have you seen the perfectly lovely little blouses which the Rainbow Shop on State street have selected, just so that you may please someone on Christmas Day? Here indeed, is the very gift for which you have been looking.

One adorable blouse blends all the shades of sunset in delicately harmonizing tints. The soothing influence of the cathedral, and its softening tones of music, are brought into mind when we see another blouse in the misty cathedral purple.

Many others have been discriminately selected. Their decorative effects and their dainty charm of form and striking color make them a necessary addition to the wardrobe of any girl.

You will really have to admit that if one seeks individuality and smartness in one's gifts, that the Kamera Kraft Shop is quite the best place to go. There is such a host of lovely gifts at this little shop, that one is simply bewildered by the array of appropriate and dainty creations that fill the shelves.

And really is there anything lovelier to give than a handsome picture? This shop has both the framed and the unframed pictures, and such a bevy of color and richness! You just want to buy them all, for yourself.

Always an acceptable present is the box of stationery. Kamera Kraft has perfectly fascinating ones in all colors, with torn and deckle edges, and with the lined envelopes. And need I tell you, in conclusion, that this is absolutely the very best place to buy your Christmas cards?

Cleopatra was passionately fond of candy and whenever Anthony wished to please her he always world. There the famous perfumers vie with each other to create the most wonderful products. Houbigant's Quelques Fleurs is not a passing fad or fancy. It will always be the choice of those who appreciate the best. It is a breath from the Flower Fields of France. Cotey's L'Origan has an exquisite delicacy appealing to and delighting the senses.

Why not, then, this year have as your Christmas gift, a bottle of one of these lovely perfumes from foreign lands?

Christmas has a beautiful significance, and the Christmas candle is one of the loveliest of the many symbols tradition has given to us. In the days of Alfred the Great, candles smoked and sputtered, and covered the table with grease. But the candles of today have been perfected and are as clean to use as electric lights.

The very latest candles in unusual shapes and sizes are found at the Unique Shop on the corner of Dayton and State streets. An interesting little story tells us that the top-most cone of the pine tree shines on Christmas night, and so here we find Christmas candle-cones that will give out the message of "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men" from YOUR Christmas tree. Not only Christmas candles, but innumerable other dainty and unusual gifts are here to please you.

Have you ever known anyone who received a kodak for Christmas? Of course you have. And you must remember how awfully pleased they were, too. Then why not make someone happy this year with such a wonderful gift?

Nowhere will you find a more complete assortment of cameras and brought the best Rome had to offer. But even with the wealth of all the Roman Empire at his command, he could not purchase such delectable sweets as YOU can daily find at The Palace of Sweets.

The Mexican pecan candy they offer is made of richest creamy-soft substance, and it fairly melts in your mouth.

After all—there is not a more welcome gift for HER Christmas than a box of luscious candy, made with the best of materials, and announced "Perfection" by those who have been lucky enough to taste them. It would be a very good idea to order a box of this candy before going home for the holidays.

Always an interesting topic of conversation is "What are they wearing in Gloves?" Quite the best way of knowing all about the latest is to visit Schmedeman's Dry Goods Co., at 275 Pickney street.

Here I found such an assortment of lovely gloves, in such a profusion of colors and styles, that one would need to look no further for an appropriate gift to give to one's friends.

Woolen gloves are quite the best thing to wear if you desire soft smooth hands. At Schmedeman's I saw many comfy, wooley sport-gloves in all of the newest shades. You will not only want to give these very lovely gloves to your friends, but you will want a pair for yourself. So stop in at this little shop next time you're down town, for they also have lovely hosiery, and many other attractive gifts for Christmas.

The essence of personal charm is the dainty loveliness attained by the few who understand just which perfume is best adapted to themselves. The University Pharmacy on the corner of Lake and State streets, has many rare imported perfumes.

Paris is the perfume center of the kodaks than at the Photoart Shop at 212 State street. Every size and style is represented in the offerings which Mr. Meuer has selected to please you.

School time is the time when one gets most enjoyment from a camera. You can just be sure that such a gift will draw down blessings on your head the whole year round.

So we must bid you fond adieu, This will end our song to you, If gifts unique you wish to find Just read these columns and their mandate mind.

Joy to you on Christmas Day Is the burden of our lay, And may your New Year happy be, Filled with Mirth and Jollity!

SPEAKER TELLS OF RECLAIMING LAND

How 15,000 acres of marsh land were reclaimed and made productive in spite of the fact that the people of the neighborhood were entirely discouraged with the project, was explained by George A. Payne in an illustrated talk at Agricultural hall last night.

The slides showed what a large project had been undertaken, much of the land being under water when it was bought. Many good crops were raised last summer on land that had hitherto been worthless.

"What a fool that man Payne is," said the onlookers, but the plan was carried through on a large scale, all the latest ditching machinery and many caterpillar tractors being used.

The greatest drainage project ever carried out is this one at Albert Lea, Minn., in the opinion of Mr. Payne, and it is still being developed.

A few of the farmers who sold land to the drainage project at a cheap price are now willing to buy it back for $250 a acre.

Simple Rulings for Sending Xmas Mail

There will be no trouble about handling the Christmas mail efficiently, says Postmaster Devine, if a few simple but important rules are followed during the holiday period. They are as follows:

Pre-pay postage fully on all parcels. Address parcels fully and plainly. Place name and address of senders on all parcels, and to be doubly safe, enclose the names and addresses of both the sender and addressee on a slip of paper inside the package. Do not seal the package for sealed packages require letter rate postage. Mail parcels early. Insure every parcel and do not forget to get your receipt.

To eliminate the long waiting lines and over-working employees at the main office, Mr. Devine draws the attention of the public to the fact that all mail can be handled at the following 12 substations:

Atwood pharmacy, Williamson st.; McCarthy pharmacy, Division st. and Atwood ave.; Kasdin's grocery, Lakeside St.; Menges pharmacy, Monroe and Harrison st.; Luckey pharmacy, W. Washington ave.; Vreeland pharmacy, E. Johnson st.; Krehl's pharmacy, Wilson st.; Sumner & Crampton pharmacy, State st. Quan's pharmacy, Mills and Chandler st.; and University station.

GRIM FIGHT IS LOST BY GRID HERO

George Gipp Succumbs Today to Throat
Disease

WAS NATIONAL STAR

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—George Gipp, Notre Dame football player, died at 3:23 o'clock this morning from streptococcic throat disease.

Gipp, whose splendid playing won him countrywide recognition and made him a choice for a position on an All-American eleven, had been ill since the Notre Dame-Northwestern game on Nov. 20.

Pneumonia also helped weaken him. Specialists called from Chicago succeeded in ridding his system of pneumonia, however, but Gipp did not have the stamina left to ward off the poison resulting from the throat affection.

During the final hours of his fight, Gipp was rational and was said to show remarkable grit as he gradually grew weaker. His mother, brother and sister were at his bedside.

Gipp first jumped into the spotlight as an unusual football player when Notre Dame clashed with the Army in 1919.

One ray of happiness was brought into his few remaining hours when he was informed that he had been selected as a player on a mythical all-American eleven. During his illness he also was informed that he had been offered a contract by the Chicago National league baseball club. Gipp's ability as a baseball player was on a par with that in football.

Gipp was 24 years old. His home was in Laurium, Mich. He was a senior at Notre Dame, being a law student.

ART EXHIBIT SHOWS SKILL

Artistic Feeling Marked in Work of Local Painters

Among the works of local artists now on exhibit by the Madison Art Guild at the parish house of the Unitarian church are many paintings of especial interest either because of the local subjects pictured, the skill and artistic feeling shown by the painter, or because of the personal interest in the artist. The exhibition was planned to allow the friends of the club members to see their work and also that the members might be able to compare their own pictures with others.

The pictures of Mrs. John Haussman are modern, broad in effect, and striking from a distance as they are done with a pallet knife. Interesting views of the Capitol, Bascon hall, and the Yahara river were done in water color by Miss Flora Mears.

Two pictures of sand dunes showing feeling and strength in handling are the work of Mrs. Jessie Skinner done while in Sawgatuck, Mich., attending the summer session of the Art Institute. Two water colors done in Maine and two in oil done in Florida are the work of Miss Leila A. Dow. The smoke and beauty of a harbor and the magic of shipping is depicted in "Along the Wharf" and "The Harbor." Mrs. Stella Elmandorf Tylor has done several large canvases showing scenes along the shores of the local lakes. An unusual study of a young girl under a tree is the work of Mrs. Howard L. Smith, president of the guild, together with several other pieces. The soft grays in the landscapes of Mrs. W. E. Chase lend a charm to her scenes of woodland and meadow.

Miss Bernice Oehler has a crayon portrait and several decorative pictures on exhibition, among them one called "The Spirit of the Flames." A red cross girl and some landscapes are the work of Mrs. H. E. Michelson, while Mrs. Henbert Rindy has two flower pieces and the portrait of a young girl. A large number of sketches in pencil and crayon were done by the Evening Sketching Club in connection with the Guild.

Fred Mitchell, let out as manager of the Chicago Cubs, has been signed to succeed George Stallings as pilot of the Boston Braves. Stallings resigned a short time ago after eight years at the helm. Boston fans are looking to Mitchell to pull the Braves out of the baseball rut in which they have been running since 1914.

NEW ROCK-TEST MACHINE EXERTS 400,000 POUNDS

So that the changes in rock caused by great pressure and heat far below the surface of the earth may be studied in the laboratory, a compression testing machine capable of exerting a pressure of 400,000 pounds, has just been acquired by the department of geology through funds given for this purpose by W. A. Clark, of Butte, Montana. The machine is now being set up in the structural geology laboratory in the basement of Science hall.

Mr. Clark, who has extensive mining interests in copper, zinc, and silver in the West, became interested in research work in structural geology through a practical application of the results of certain research recently carried on by the Badger department, and gave funds for further work.

The machine will be used on various research problems in structural and metamorphic geology involving the behavior of rocks under great pressure similar to the pressures exerted many miles under the earth's surface. Deep within the earth the pressures are very great because of the weight of overlying rock and earth and the temperatures increase with depth. Conditions beneath the earth's surface can be observed only to a relatively shallow depth. The deepest mines extend only to a depth of less than two miles, and geologists are interested in the behavior of rocks at much greater depths.

Under these great pressures many miles underground, the hardest rocks behave differently than they do on the surface of the earth. Even very hard, brittle rocks, like granite, quartzite, or marble, behave like plastic wax or putty and are bent and folded without breaking. An ordinary clay rock is changed to slate. A sandstone may be changed to a solist quite unlike its original form and many other changes in

The laboratory's new testing machine will be equipped to maintain automatically a constant pressure over a long period of time. Means for heating the materials while they are under pressure will be provided.

At The Theaters

AT THE GRAND

There are nine million girls in the Middle west who wish to look like Norma Talmadge. They should go to see "The Branded Woman." It is a livelier story than most, and it has that most popular of Norma's specialties, that always-good scene, where she, a shy and shrinking maiden, is dressed in about two of Salome's veils and is led forth to be wooed by a rich rouge. In action the picture is a center fire, sure shot. It will be shown at the Grand for the last times today.

AT THE FULLER

American theatergoers who revelled in the dramatic wealth of "The Heart of Humanity" and capitulated to the irresistible qualities of "The Right to Happiness" are doubtless of the opinion that in these two photodramas Dorothy Phillips and Allen Holubar, star and director, have reached the heights of screen perfection. But the public is asked to reserve its final verdict until it has had a view of "Once to Every Woman!" the newest Universal-Jewel super-production, to be shown at the Fuller theater for the last times today.

AT THE STRAND

The triumph of true love over false is the underlying theme of "The Forbidden Thing," Allan Dwan's first offering under the banner of Associated producers, which will be the feature attraction at the Strand theater for four days commencing today.

Abel Blake loves Joan, a pretty girl of Provincetown, on Cape Cod, and is ready to marry her when she is called away to nurse an uncle who is ill. No sooner has she gone than Abel falls under the evil spell of Glory Prada, a dance hall beauty. When Glory realizes that she can entrap Abel in no other way, she contrives to marry him. Unhappiness is the inevitable result.

Joan, when she learns of Abel's faithlessness, gives her hand to importuning Dave Whorf, a young fishing captain. Before a little boy is born to them, Glory runs away from the disillusioned Abel and casts her precarious lot with the owner of a small circus. Abel's mother dies of grief and Abel loses his standing in the community.

Dave, meanwhile, is drowned and Joan is left a widow. Glory, trying to stab her circus lover as the result of a quarrel, is shot and dies alone on the sand dunes.

Eventually, through a fortuitous circumstance, Abel and Joan are reunited. Abel is forgiven by the townspeople and, with the two children of Dave and the woman he has always loved, Abel settles down to a life of long-denied happiness.

There will also be shown a comedy cartoon and a Paramount Magazine.

John Pennewell, teacher of Hawaiian guitar, will entertain the children with the act he has been using professionally for the last two years. This will be followed by a playlet in three scenes entitled, The Night Before Christmas, written specially by F. W. Huels for the Christmas party and staged by Mrs. Florence Kelly Baskerville. The cast of characters is as follows: Announcer, Mrs. Marie Seuel Holst; Mrs. Jones the mother, Mrs. Baskerville; Susie Jones's little sister, Jean Polk; Willie Jones, little brother, Joseph McCord; Santa Claus, "Billy" Huels, and carol-

Ripon College Head Resigns to Lecture

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Pres. Henry Coe Culbertson of Ripon college tendered his resignation at the meeting of the board of trustees of Ripon college here today. The reason given is that he prefers to devote his time to educational work instead of the financial problems attendant upon the administration of a college. He has accepted a position as an educational lecturer on a chautauqua circuit. Dr. Culbertson has been president of Ripon college since 1917.

FROM THE DEAN

Editor Daily Cardinal:

I wish to announce through the columns of the Daily Cardinal that the student who wrote the article in The Madison Democrat of last Friday, reflecting upon the young women of the Dolphin club and upon the dean of women, has expressed sincere regret for the article in question. It was zeal to make the "story" a good one which misled him into expressing ideas which he now recognizes as objectionable.

Yours very truly,

G. C. SELLERY, Dean.

LIBRARY BOOKS

Editor Daily Cardinal:

An offense, which it is hoped occurs but rarely, was committed by a university student recently in the marking, by way of underlining, passages in books which she had borrowed from the State Historical library. This particular student freely confessed the offense, which was due wholly, she said, to an unconscious following of a habit she had in marking her own text-books.

We can well believe that there is usually nothing malicious in actions of this sort, but they certainly argue an extremely limited imagination. If students would but recognize the difference between using books belonging to themselves, which no one else uses, they would certainly not permit themselves the liberties they now take with library books.

We take occasion to call the attention of students, through The Daily Cardinal, to the existence of a special statute prohibiting the theft, defacement, mutilation, or marking in any way, of books belonging to the State Historical library. It may be necessary to make public examples of a few offenders for the sake of driving home the lesson that this type of public property must be used with propriety. A word to the wise is sufficient.

JOSEPH SCHAFER.

URGE STUDENT RELIEF

Editor Daily Cardinal:

Many of the students of the European universities and even some of the professors are suffering during this Christmas season for lack of food, clothing and other essentials of life. Doubtless before spring, without American aid, more of these students and professors will perish, as many have already perished, from hunger or the diseases induced by under-nutrition. An appeal has been issued by the American Relief administration to the universities of America for funds to alleviate the suffering of these students. In response the University of Illinois has pledged $30,000, and other universities have responded nobly. But the University of Wisconsin, which is indebted to the European universities for the training of some of its professors and for the original inspiration which fruited afterward in many of the progressive Wisconsin ideas, has not yet heard, apparently, this call from across the sea.

This is due undoubtedly to oversight and to interest in the duties and pleasures of the day, which press so insistently upon the attention of students at the university. But we cannot afford to pass by without recognition the sufferings of our fellow students in Europe. They have a valid claim upon us for sympathy and succor. Many of them belong to the Christian faith, as do most of us; they are members of the same race; some even are of the same blood; and, above all, they are a self-selected body of the choicest spirits of the age, sharing in common with us the desire to live and to labor for the advancement of culture, science, and civilization. It is inevitable this winter that many millions perish, for lack of food and shelter. It becomes a question, therefore, of saving the best, and certainly no more rigid selection could be made than that already made automatically by the universities of Europe.

The question has been asked, why do not those students go to work? The answer is simple, there is no work for them to do. Thousands of skilled laborers are out of work in Europe; industry, transportation, the whole economic life and activity of the people is disorganized and in some localities entirely destroyed. It is more profitable for these students to be at the universities than to be walking the streets in the cities.

All contributions are being sent to the American Relief administration, of which Mr. Hoover is chairman; and practically every dollar goes direct to its destination; for the cost of administration of this great organization is nearly covered by the profits derived from the sale of food to those who can afford to pay for it. To others it is distributed in accordance with the request of the American contributor.

The following constitute the committee of graduate students authorized to receive subscriptions. Will each graduate student who wishes to contribute to this worthy cause please take the initiative and not wait until some member of the committee calls upon you. The time is short before the holiday recess and it will be difficult for members of the committee to call upon all graduate students before they leave for home. Members of the faculty who may wish to join with the graduate students in this effort will find that their subscriptions are cordially received.

It may be of interest to know that the students of the economics department and the departments of agricultural economics had contributed about $150 up to last evening. This figure will undoubtedly be increased considerably in the next few days since only a comparatively small number of students had been reached up to last evening.

The following is a list of persons that have volunteered to receive contributions in the various departments:

Agricultural chemistry, Mr. Holden; animal and dairy husbandry, Mr. Fargo; bacteriology, Miss Haynes; botany, Miss Horton; chemistry, Miss Crew; economics and agricultural economics, Baker, Shear, England; engineering, Mr. Wilson; English, Miss Moore; genetics, Mr. Yoke; German, Mr. Mohme; history, Mr. Sellers and Miss Rogers; plant pathology, Misses Seymour and Evans; psychology, Miss Spinfield; zoology, Mr. Noland.
