BADGERS TAKE SECOND GAME FROM INDIANA

Duplicate Victory of Friday
by Winning by 4 to 1

Score

OTHER SCORES
Michigan 3, Ohio 1

By LAWRENCE E. MEYER

Wisconsin repeated its 4 to 1 victory over Indiana Saturday afternoon, and drew up to a .500 rating in the Big Ten race. Jeffries, pitching for Indiana, batted "Sam" Ogle on even terms for seven innings and then went loco, passing four men and forcing the Badgers to take the verdict.

The hitting was light on both sides. Teeter, center fielder for Indiana, bagged the best one of the day, a three-base drive to the steam-roller on the running track in deep left field. This lusty blow drove Driscoll home from second, with Indiana's only run. The enemy secured six hits in all, two of them being of the scratch variety. Wisconsin also hit safely six times, Elliott driving in one run and Davey two.

Jeffries Loses Control

Ogle and Jeffries went about fifty-fifty as long as Jeff lasted. Each pitcher walked two and fanned three up to the fatal eighth, and the hits were about even. In the fifth, sixth and seventh not a man passed first base, and it looked like extra innings until Jeffries lost control.

"Phil" Falk fielded a beautiful game at third base. "Rowdy" Elliott slipped up on two ground balls at short, but his offensive work was up to snuff. Dean, second-baseman for Indiana, pulled off the fielding feature of the game when he robbed Caesar of a hit, scooping the ball in right field and retiring "Duke" at first base.

Indiana scratched two hits in the third, Mathys placing one too short for Snow and Shuler beating a bunt to the pitcher, but Snow took in Henrick's fly and Davey threw Dean out at first.

Badgers Score First

Wisconsin opened the scoring with two gone in the third. "Bud" Emanuel singled cleanly to left, advanced on Butorf's error, and scored from second on Elliott's drive to left field.

The lead was too small to last long, however. With two hands re-

CHARTERS TO 5 PRESS GROUPS

Lawrence College to Have
Theta Sigma Phi
Chapter

Five new chapters of Theta Sigma Phi were granted as a result of the last business session of the second national convention which was held yesterday morning. These are at Columbia, New York; University of Kentucky; Syracuse university; Lawrence college, Wisconsin; Knox college, Illinois; and Coe college, Iowa.

After the business meeting members of Miss Margaret H'Doubler's advanced dancing class gave interpretive dances to the accompaniment of poetry. This type of dancing is one which Miss H'Doubler has worked out during the year as a special feature of artistic work.

At noon the delegates adjourned to the Capitol cafe to a luncheon given by the brother chapter of Sigma Delta Chi. Mrs. Margaret Gervin Stone, the new grand-president of Theta Sigma Phi, answered the welcome given by Leonard Erikson, president of the local chapter of Sigma Delta Chi. Adelin Briggs, as the Beta delegate, gave a Badger toast and Prof. W. G. Bleyer spoke for a few minutes on the joys of convention and the regretted parting which was to come. Vina Lindsay, of The Kansas City Post, and Lawrence Murphy finished the program.

One of the interesting features of the convention was the Theta Sigma Phi directory which has been put out by the grand council since the first convention. This contains a list by chapters and alphabetically of all members, active, alumni and honorary.

Evening Strollers Peeved When Moon Puts on Dimmer

Couples who had planned moonlight strolls for tonight will be disappointed. The Washburn observatory has gone and spoiled it all by ordering a total eclipse of the moon. Arrangement details have progressed so far that protests from the Wisconsin chapter of the Moonshine club could not prevail upon the management of the solar system to postpone the event.

The moon will enter the dark shadow at 6:01 p. m., central time, totality beginning at 7:15 p. m. The satellite will remain completely hidden until 8:27 p. m., when it will begin to peep out, and will be completely out of the shadow by 9:41.

Since the sun will set only 16 minutes before totality begins, it is probable the moon will not be distinguishable at first, but the latter half of the eclipse should be observable. The moon will rise from the southeast horizon, of course, directly opposite the sun.

Coach Says Junior Play Is a Hit

JULIA HANKS

Julia Hanks, coach of "Cheating Cheaters," the junior play, which will be played at the Fuller Saturday May 8, considers "the comedy of crooks" the most interesting play she has ever worked on.

"The play certainly deserved the reception that was given it in New York," said Miss Hanks. "During the year it was performing in that city it was reviewed by practically every well known critic who is writing for papers and magazines today. The New York Sun characterized it when it said 'nothing quite like it has ever been seen on the New York stage. It combines the thrills and mystery of melodrama with the broad and bubbling comedy of farce.'"

Miss Hanks, who is vice-president of the junior class, has played in a number of university performances. She is a member Red Domino, and is production manager for the society. She was assistant production manager for the joint production this year. She took a leading part in "Grammar Gorton's Needle," which was produced last spring and in the first prize act of the 1919 Vedvil. She is vice-president of Pi Epsilon Delta, honorary dramatic fraternity.

CAMPUS' MOVIE NEW PROJECT

Edwin Booth to Produce
Big Film of Varsity
Life Soon

Offering a scenario prize of $25 and a "leading lady" contest to stimulate interest, Edwin Booth Dramatic society will undertake the production of a feature motion picture film depicting campus life at Wisconsin. Announcement of the project was made last night at the Ballet-Booth dance given by the society at Lathrop hall.

For the best scenario written by a student, the society will award a prize of $25. Scenarios are to be based on college life, bringing in university characters and activities. The society has already planned to take movies of the Haresfoot production, the junior play, and the university circus.

In the contest to pick a leading woman, entrants will each pose before the camera, and the films will be run off before a board of review, which will select the woman best adapted to the cinema production.

To enter in either the scenario and the leading woman contest, students should send their names to the Edwin Booth office in the Union building.

Students are voted into the fraternity by faculty electors on the basis of scholastic work. "There is just one traitor in our cause, and that traitor is the person who does not live up to the ideals he is sworn to. We can forgive those who have not the right amount of training but we can never forgive those who drag down the principles of honesty and truth on which the profession of journalism should rest."

The fact that journalism is an ideal profession for women was also emphasized. Mr. White stated that there is no other field that woman can enter where she can keep up her home and her profession in the same way as she can in journalism.

Badgers Again Defeat Hoosiers

tired in the hostile fourth Ogle passed Driscoll. The left fielder stole second, the play at the bag being close. Teeter followed with his triple to the rolling machine, and Indiana's scoring was completed for the afternoon.

Following these bursts of speed, the rival teams went neck and neck until seven and a half innings were over. Beginning the eighth, Captain Emanuel went up to bat and watched four bad ones, whereupon he started a long hike. Falk struck out trying to bunt him along, but the sacrifice proved unnecessary. Elliott took Bud's cue and waited them out, and Zulfer followed suit.

With one gone and the bases full, and Walker warming up with all possible speed, Jeffries tried hard to make Farrington hit, but Farry played the string and waited while Jeff gave him four bad ones. This forced in the winning run, and Walker replaced Jeffries in the box.

Davey greeted the new pitcher with a sharp single to left center, and two more runs came in, putting the game where Kent wanted it. Lyman also slammed one, but the pitcher got in the way of it, throwing him out at first. Ogle then fanned to end the agony, after which he retired the Hoosiers in one-two-three order.

PHI BETA KAPPA

THE announcement of the elections to Phi Beta Kappa is made in another column of this issue. What does it signify? That 65 students, who have gone faithfully about the business of getting an education and have shown special ability, have been given public recognition and an honor that has a distinguished name.

This mark of excellence in scholarship carries with it an obligation to live up to the ideal of this society established nearly a century and a half ago. Its ideals are expressed in its name—the Greek words in which means "Philosophy, the Guide of Life."

No noise, no brass bands, no declaration of principles and programs, no figuring up of gate receipts—only a recognition of the real claim of the university upon the time and attention of its graduates. Not all worthy students can be recognized in such elections, and any one of the 65 who have been granted this honor could name other students more worthy than himself to receive it.

As no one will make the mistake of taking himself too seriously on account of this election so the others will not envy him a little glow of satisfaction—an hour's pleasure over it. If such an election in any way helps anyone "to work joyfully, to think deeply, to live wisely," then the object of the society has been attained and the best work done by the university received recognition.

AN ALUMNUS.

JUNIOR WEEK-END

JUNIOR DAY has expanded into Junior Week-End. The class of '21 decided that one day would not be sufficient for a jubilee big enough to give expression to the class spirit.

A class picnic on Friday afternoon will be the opening number. Nothing has been scheduled for Friday evening in order that the N. O. L. contest may have the undivided support of the university. The high expectations which have been aroused by preliminary reports will be satisfied Saturday morning when "Who's Who" appears. A Junior Day Cardinal will testify to the accomplishments of the class of 1921.

Awe-struck underclassmen will at least be able to know who are the privileged members of the class; every junior will wear a badge which even those who cannot perceive merit from afar will recognize.

The junior play will appear at the Fuller Saturday evening. As a university event of major dimensions it deserves the support of the student body. But the play does not require an appeal to sentiment to insure its success. "Cheating Cheaters" ran as a Wood production in New York for more than one year. The selection of the cast has been as happy as the choice of the comedy. Several of them are well known from their previous successes. Those who are newcomers to Wisconsin's stage have proved in rehearsals that they, too, possess the talent which wins instant approval.

Several weeks after arrangements for holding the junior play on May 8 had been completed, plans were made by the Bryn Maur club of Madison to bring the Russian Ballet to Madison on the same day. An attempt was made to secure the Fuller Opera house, for which the junior play management had contracted weeks before, and surprise was expressed when they declined to exchange the Fuller for the Madison high school.

To have arranged to bring the Russian Ballet or any other production to Madison on the day for which a class play was previously scheduled indicates a lack of co-operation, perhaps thoughtless, but certainly serious. To ask, under such circumstances, that the student production should give up the privilege which precedence entitled it to, added insult to injury.

The Russian Ballet and Little Symphony represent two branches of art in their highest form. It is deeply to be regretted that they are to appear at a time which will conflict with the junior play. But given this situation, the position of the student body is clear: support the university undertaking. By its being scheduled weeks in advance, its nature as a university production; and its excellence, it is clearly entitled to an undivided backing.

To the Editor of The Cardinal:

One of the big features of Junior day, May 8, will be the junior play. The production will enlist the interest and receive the hearty backing of men and women of all classes. The writer is taking this opportunity to call to the attention of the junior class and the student body as a whole that the play which has been selected is of unusual merit.

The plot of "Cheating Cheaters" contains all the thrills of modern comedy, cast in a mold of high dramatic caliber. Intrigue and mystery are the chief elements as the rival gangs plan to hoodwink each other. To the glamor of social life and intended crime there is added an element of romance which vivifies the action and brings about a highly satisfactory conclusion.

The cast is of uniformly high caliber. In recent rehearsals they have displayed ability which has surprised even those who knew their work intimately and had anticipated a production of outstanding merit. The lead is taken by Helen Harper, whose success in "Behind a Watteau Picture" will be remembered. The student body is less familiar with the work of James McKivergin and Flora Filzer, which, however, has proven in rehearsals to be of the type which receives instant and enthusiastic reception.

"Cheating Cheaters" would not require an exceptional cast to get across the footlights. It is a high grade comedy, written for the professional stage. In New York it was produced by A. H. Woods, and had a continuous run of over one year. Rendered by an excellent cast which has been selected, its success is beyond question. The cast is unusually strong and well-balanced. The play is of proven merit. Their combination on May 8 will be a noteworthy event in university dramatics.

HE SHALL FEED HIS FLOCK

(From the "Messiah")

By George Frederick Handel

Some one has said that popular music is familiar music and that much good music would be loved by everyone if it could be heard often enough. Certainly the lovely song for today, "He Shall Feed His Flock," by George Frederick Handel, is music of this kind.

Handel is one of the earliest great musicians, sharing with Bach as a birth year, 1685. Although born a German, Handel spent most of his musical life in England, where he became a naturalized citizen, and wrote music which is essentially English in character.

The Messiah, from which this air is taken, deals with the life of Jesus. It is the most popular of all oratorios and is given annually, usually at Christmas time, in thousands of cities throughout the world. It contains many of the most majestic choruses ever written.

The theme of this air is similar to the melody which Handel uses in picturing the scene of the shepherds at Bethlehem. Its flowing tender tones suggest the comforting words of a father to a weary and worn child.

PROSE EASIER TO APPRECIATE THAN POETRY

—WOODBERRY

Best Way to Understand
Verse Is to Study Masters Intensively

By DOROTHY HOPE REAM

"What do I think about modern poetry? Well, there is a good deal of it!" said Prof. George E. Woodberry, who has conducted during the past week a triple series of lectures concerning the poets, Longfellow, Lowell, and Shelley.

"One cannot summarize the trend of modern poetry in a cursory statement," he continued, "for to determine the direction of thought prior to and since the war, requires the greatest honesty of analysis and study.

"Students of today, if they would become authoritative interpreters of verse must get beneath the surface of apparent meaning so easily recognized, to the significance and life of poetry which acquires power surpassing prose literature in that it often deals with the most potential emotions and ideas of human experience.

"Although sensibility in verse is often the means of approach, underneath the music and flow of words lie thoughts which set poetry apart from other literature. A poet thinks over and around a logician and by imagery conveys the meaning of an idea.

"A student who wishes to understand poetry will find it to his personal advantage to adopt some one of the masters for an intensive study, which will, within 10 or 20 years, make the chosen author a contemporary in the life of his admiring and reverential disciples.

"If modern poetry is to live with its trend of materialism, and emulation of classic writers is not attempted, there may be poor excuse for comparison.

"The best way for the university student to learn the meaning and significance of poetry is to apply himself to classroom study rather than to rely on the chance publication of hasty thought or invalid criticism."

WILSON ENDORSED BY PHILOMATHIA IN MOCK CONVENTION

Nominated for President on Twelfth Ballot After Four Hour Session

At the liveliest session of the year Friday night Philomathia, resolving itself into the Democratic national convention, renominated President Wilson on the twelfth ballot. The nomination was secured only after a sharp fight between one faction headed by Dean Kimball, representing Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, and another faction led by Sterling Tracy, representing Gov. Edwards of New Jersey.

The convention was in session for four hours, a record for the year in any lit society on the hill.

Frank Drobka, impersonating William Jennings Bryan, won his fight against Gov. Edwards to have the convention indorse national prohibition.

Henry Bakken, as Senator Hitchcock, outwitted Patrick Gahagan, as Senator Reed, to put the treaty over without nullifying reservations. Senator Walsh (Oscar Kiessling) lost his fight to gain recognition for the so-called "Irish Republic." Charles Assovsky was chairman of the convention.

The meeting of Philomathia next week will be held on Thursday instead of Friday in order that all members may attend the Northern Oratorical League contest.

GIVE BONUSES DURING SUMMER

Soldiers' Applications Must be Renewed Before End of Semester

Bonus students who expect to attend the summer session or to return to the university in the fall must renew their applications to the State Board of Education before the close of the academic year. Application blanks may be obtained at any time from G. A. Chandler, 151 Main hall, or from the bursar on May 14, 15, and 17. The blanks, properly filled out, should be left with Mr. Chandler; it is important that they be turned in promptly so that new assignments may be secured without delay.

Arrangement have been made to hand out the May and June drafts before the close of the final examinations, June 18. The June drafts will be for $18 each except for members of the graduating class, who will receive $23. The extra $5 will be forfeited unless such students notify Mr. Chandler of their status not later than May 8.

Must Enroll by June 2

All summer session bonus students, both old and new, must enroll at 151 Main hall, not later than June 28, or forfeit $1 a day. The new assignment card received from the State Board of Education should be filed at this time.

The minimum required program for the summer session has been set at six credits; under exceptional circumstances, however, a reduction to four credits may be allowed by special permission. Graduate students will be required to earn only four credits. The schedules of law students will be subject to the approval of the dean of the Law school.

Three Summer Drafts

The bonus for the summer session will be paid by three drafts issued together on or about August 6; the total amount will be $39. The banks will continue to handle bonus drafts through the current academic year, but all summer session drafts will be distributed direct. The regular rules regarding attendance, etc., also will apply to the summer session.

FACULTY PLAY CLAIMS NEWEST SCENIC EFFECTS

Mrs. C. R. Fish to Wear Two Gowns Direct From Paris

New effects in scenery for the faculty play, "The Importance of Being Ernest," which the Curtain club will present Tuesday evening in the High school auditorium, will go far towards making this production one of the most unusual amateur plays that has been seen in Madison for some time.

There is to be one complete set of scenery planned by C. L. Fernberg and painted under the direction of W. H. Varum. An effort will be made, according to Mr. Varum, to keep it as simple as possible, to make it a background and not a picture in itself. Against this monochrome background the actors will stand forth, especially the bright pretty gowns of the feminine characters. Mrs. C. R. Fish is to wear two gowns which she brought back with her from Paris. The principle of realism will also enter into the scenic effects, especially in the garden scene of the second act.

One of the things that the Curtain club plans to do is to co-operate with the students in securing for the Memorial building an adequate auditorium, and a modern stage equipped with a suitable scenery loft, a place for storing scenery, a dressing room, a green room, modern mechanisms, a suitable lighting system, and a place for painting scenery.

TRYOUTS FOR SENIOR PLAY TUESDAY AND THURSDAY AT 4:30

"The Jesters" Offers Many Good Parts for Women; Copies Obtainable

Try-outs for "The Jesters," the 1920 Senior play, will be held in the concert room, Lathrop, Tuesday and Thursday at 4:30. Copies of the play can be secured at the library desk.

Unusual opportunity is offered to the women this year in the matter of prominent roles. "Chicot," the clever jester who leads in the brilliant repartee, is perhaps the best part offered to women. This part, which demands delicacy of interpretation, has been very successfully played by Maude Adams.

The part of Solange, the young daughter of the Marquis, is one of the most artistic parts. Other women's parts are unusual and varied.

The men's parts include a drunken, burly blaggard, the proud Marquis; "Hilarious," the jester, who is as hilarious as a morgue; Tom Pudding, a grinning, empty-headed jester; Baroco, an Italian aesthetic jester with a temperament; and five other parts.

The situations and the nature of the various characters will be explained to those who are not able to read the play before the try-outs.
